MUSICIANS' WANTED.

TWENTY WORDS, ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Six Words, Sixpence.

WANTED, Wanted, Wanted.

BRITISH MUSICIANS are Warned against Accepting Engagements in SOUTH AFRICA, particularly Johannesburg.
There are already a number of Musicians walking the streets of Johannesburg wanting employment, and there is an attempt being made to induce others to go out.

The individual who is trying to get Musicians to go out wants them for Hotel Playing. The last lot he engaged have left him, as they found the terms he engaged them at, although appearing to be good, were quite insufficient on account of the high cost of living there.
£5 a week is not sufficient for a Musician to live properly on there.

The South African Union of Musicians has sent this warning through the A.M.U. of Great Britain.
The latter Society is conveying the warning to the International Confederation, which includes the Musicians' Unions of the Continent.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not re-booked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follows :—

MANCHESTER, LIVERPOOL, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALAN W. YOUNG,
Empire Theatre, Liverpool.

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. W. LEA,
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT,
MR. WILLIAM COLLINS,
The Empire, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

TRADE MARK TRADE MARK

WE LEAD, OTHERS FOLLOW.

TOMMY AT PLAY. Code Word, CAHIER.
A little boy plays all kinds of practical jokes on unoffending people, and causes shouts of laughter from people in the pictures as well as the audience.
248ft. The Subject £4 2s. 8d.

INDIANS AND COWBOYS OF THE FAR WEST. Code Word, CIREUR.
Cowboys v. Indians. The capture of horses. Exciting scenes when the Indians steal the horses. A wild chase. The cowboys are saved by the timely intelligence of one of their faithful animals. Charming pictures throughout. Specially recommended.
643ft. The Subject £10 14s. 4d.
Tinting extra, 14s 6d.

CARNIVAL AT NICE, 1907. Code Word, CALOMNIE.
The most perfect and realistic scenes of the gay fête which has just taken place at Nice. Really brilliant scenes.

CLEVER THIEVES. Code Word, BULBEUX.
The clever thieves, disguised as ragpickers, send two lads into a mansion to steal. The lads, surprised by the police, drop into the ragpickers' baskets with their booty. The police are completely gulled.
148ft. The Subject £2 9s. 8d.

LITTLE TICH.
A wonderful picture of this amusing comedian in a series of his famous impersonations, ending up with his well known big-boot dance.

THE PORK BUTCHER'S NIGHTMARE. Code Word, CHEVRETTE.
The terrible dream of the Pork Butcher. The pigs come to life and conduct him to their domain, where he is prodded with spears, and put in a mincing machine
345ft. The Subject £5 15s. 4d.
Colouring extra, 9s.

TWO LITTLE SCAMPS. Code Word, CABOULOT.
A very amusing film, showing the adventures of a little baker's boy and sweep. They ring bells, jump on to motor cars and cabs, pull off the table cloths from a restaurant table, and generally annoy everybody—finally arrested by the police. Absolutely perfect quality.
280ft. The Subject £4 13s. 4d.

A DIFFICULT ARREST. Code Word, CHEVREAU.
Most exciting scenes of policemen chasing some thieves. All kinds of adventures and ridiculous situations. Intensely funny.
396ft. The Subject £6 12s.

THE INDIARUBBER MAN. Code Word, BRUSQUE.
The two American drolls Price and Revost in their sensational turn "The Tumbling Man." Full of interest from start to finish.

CRIME ON THE RAILWAY. Code Word, CIPAYE.
One of the most dramatic films ever shown. A guard is egged on to drink by two rogues. In this state he boards his train. The rogues sneak into his carriage while the train is in motion. attack him, steal the mail bags, and escape. The guard is reproved and dismissed the Company. In revenge he kills a signalman, gives a favourable signal to the on-coming express. An awful disaster ensues. Very exciting and dramatic.
528ft. The Subject £8 16s.

THE YAWNER. Code Word, CABOSSER.
This is ridiculously funny. A poor man has a tendency to yawn on every occasion, and being very infectious, every one who meets him catches the complaint. Very droll.
280ft. The Subject £4 13s. 4d.

POLICEMEN'S RUN. Code Word, CABANE.
This is quite a novelty in pictures. A powerful bull dog steals a leg of mutton. Pursued by one policeman, the number is increased to several in a very short time. Through streets, over roofs they go. Finally the tables are turned and the dog pursues the police to their station. Intensely funny.
379ft. The Subject £6 6s. 4d.

BELGIUM PANORAMA

(DINANT TO RIVIERE).

This is a further series of pictures taken along the river Meuse. The river banks here are of exceptional beauty, for the most part towering rocks are on either side. The Meuse, as we travel along, presents many wonderful sights, some short narrow islands with tall trees upon them allow of kaleidoscopic views of the further bank. The water is marvellously clear and smooth, and as the river opens out one obtains a charming effect by the bold reflection of the rocky banks in the water. We pass a number of interesting boats and steamers, although the river is not heavily burdened with them. For the most part there is very little going on, the view thereby being greatly enhanced. It is all real nature undisturbed mostly by any inconsistencies of man, only a few houses are seen dotted here and there. One portion of the river in this part has low banks, and here we are able to see how every spot is covered with beautiful foliage.

The quality throughout is indeed splendid, and it is undoubtedly one of the most charming panoramic trips ever taken.

THE WORLD'S BIOSCOPE OUTFITTERS.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT BY H.M. THE KING AND QUEEN,

FEBRUARY 12, 1907.

About 100ft.

THE BORROWED LADDER.
Code Word, "LADDER."

The wind blows a man's hat to the top of a tall lamp-post. He goes for a ladder; unfortunately, stops on his way back for some drinks. The result is, he knocks into many harmless individuals with the ladder, finally comes into contact with the police, is taken to the station, and there dreams of all kinds of ghostly ladders, which dance over him. Extremely funny and fine quality. 480ft. £12 0s. 0d.

TRACED BY A LAUNDRY MARK.
Code Word, "LAUNDRY."

A very exciting story in several dramatic scenes. The villain pays unwelcome attentions to the girl; she refuses him. He swears revenge; procures two accomplices to abduct her. Frustrated by the girl's lover, a terrible fight ensues. The villain stabs the lover, and flees from justice. The detective on the track traces through a cuff he leaves, and, by means of the laundry mark, to the possessor. Exciting chase. Villain attempts to shoot detective. Overpowered, finally commits suicide and begs forgiveness from the girl. The lover recovers. Thus virtue is triumphant. Grand quality. Exciting interest. Beautiful scenery. 425ft. £10 12s. 6d.

PAPA'S LETTER.
Code Word, "LETTER."

A pathetic story of the little girl who wants to rejoin her dead father. She asks her mother to put a stamp on her and post her to Heaven. The little girl goes out, unfortunately gets run over, is killed, and fulfils her mission. The letter is posted. Very beautiful quality. 275ft. £6 17s. 6d.

THE POET'S BID FOR FAME.
Code Word, "POET."

The ecstatic poet calls at the office of the newspaper to present his inspiration, is met rudely by the editor and his office-boy. He harangues a crowd in the street, is run into the padded cell. Finally goes on to the stage to recite. He is not favourably received. Intensely funny, and grand quality. 305ft. £7 12s. 6d.

Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham, S.W. 24th January, 1907

Dear Sir,—I enclose you cheque in payment of your account for cleaning dresses. I may say that I consider it perfectly marvellous that you should take away at 9.30 p.m. sixty-two elaborate Pantomime dresses from Clapham Junction and return them perfectly cleaned by 3 p.m. the following day. I am sending you about 150 dresses next week which will have to be done at lightning speed, feeling perfectly confident that they will be returned at the time promised. You are at liberty to make any use you like of this letter.

Yours very faithfully, ROBERT CROSSMAN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERAVON. — GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr. D. Jones.—The Babes in the Wood, under the management of Mr. John A. Thomson, is here. Mr. H. Eglinton represents the Old Dame in a droll manner; Miss Beatrice Wadham as Robin Hood is possessed of a good voice and a charming personality, being ably seconded by Miss Bertha Hall as Will Scarlet and Miss Nellie Scorey as Phyllis. Willie is well played by Miss Daisy Connell. The singing of Miss Clair Wadham and the dancing of Miss Rita Fredereka are two special features of the production.

ABERDEEN. — HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—The New Aladdin, by Mr. George Edwardes's company, is the play of the week, and the house is crowded every night. Mr. George Gregory is intensely amusing as Tippin; and Miss Ida Rene makes a delightful Princess. Mr. Fred Leslie, jun., sings and acts with fine spirit as the Genie; Miss Cressie Leonard is a charming Lally; Miss Irene Verona throws much humour into the Spirit of the Ring; and Mr. John Brabourne is completely successful as the lost Constable. The Scotch element is highly appreciated, Miss Mary Fraser as Jeanie making a decided hit with her song, "Dougal." Messrs. Spray, Mahar, and Hector played most capably as the Cadi, General Ratz, and Ebenezer; and Misses Nellie and Jessie Lonnen sing well and dance gracefully. The orchestra is admirably conducted by Mr. Vousden.

PALACE THEATRE. — Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—The Mackweys are acrobats of unrivalled skill; Miss Helen Charles gives a delightful drawing-room entertainment; Mr. Barney Armstrong is equally popular as a comedian and dancer; Mr. Lade Henderson scores as a vocalist; Cookson is a skilful ventriloquist; the Brothers Brunton are very good as duettists; and Miss Lena Brunton is a vivacious comedienne. Messrs. Alsopp and Bekwith appear with success in a sprightly comedy act, I'm Coming Upstairs; and Miss May Lilian Levey shows herself to be a comedienne of much piquancy and ability.

ABERTILLERY.—THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessees, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. W. Ventom.—The patrons of this theatre are favoured with the return visit of Mr. William Greet's company in The Sign of the Cross. Mr. Frank E. Petley makes a success as Marcus; Nero is ably portrayed by Mr. C. Yorke; a fine exposition of Tigellinus is given by Mr. Charles Aldred; Mr. I. Wetheral is exceptionally good as Licinius; Mr. Frank Wood makes a humorous Glabrio; Miss Mary Newcombe does well as Poppœa; the Misses Gertrude Price and Cissie Carlton are realistic in their parts of Berenice and Dacia; Ancaria is also finely played by Miss Lily Ward; and Stephanus is well presented by Miss Dulcie Greatwich. Great credit is due to Miss Marie Leonhard for her fine performance of Mercia.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. F. Marriott-Watson's company opened here on Monday with A False Wife. Mr. George Langham does well as Sir Colin Mansfield; Mr. Fred H. Constable gives a capital rendering of Lieut. Mansfield; Mr. Elton Morgan is a success as Ben Rattler; Mr. F. Marriott-Watson does full justice to the part of Jean Beraud; Messrs. C. Osborne, H. Wallace, and T. Levine are good in their respective rôles; Miss Florence E. Florence gains much favour by her impersonation of Lady Mansfield, otherwise Estelle de Lussaun; Miss A. Hylton capably sustains the part of Agnes Weyland; Sarah Bernstein is well played by Miss Flo Morgan; the part of Bessie Blazer is in the safe hands of Miss Ivy Chandos.

HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Willmot, Potter, Vandy, and Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Parsons.—A pleasing bill is provided this week. Terry and Bently give a clever and amusing performance; Bright and Bright are good in their novel musical mélange; Tom W. Barrett is always a favourite here; Bock Pylades presents some realistic sketches of celebrities; Miss Nellie Farrell is a good singer and dancer; Hands and Lux are smart patterers and dancers; the Woodwards give a clever balancing entertainment; and Lachie Thompson's Boys (Ton and Neil) also contribute. Some good pictures are shown by the Bioscope.

ALDERSHOT.—ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. George E. Williams.—The Assassin, a play of a very sensational order, is being presented by Mr. Augustine Knight's company here this week. Mr. Augustine Knight (Prince Demetri) and Miss Ella Vane (Countess Wanda) are successful in giving their rôles the utmost prominence, and they are supported by Misses Hettie Senior, Frances Waring, Marie Robertson, Edith Woodward, Messrs. E. E. Ashby, Theo. Balfour, Cecil Raymond, Chauncy Morris, Edwin Jenner, and Tom J. Taylor. The play is excellently staged.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—The Toreador is here again. Mr. Robert Rous has been responsible for much laughter as the Tiger, Sammy Gigg. Amongst those who have ably seconded Mr. Rous in his fun-making, mention should be made of Mr. Fred Thompson as Sir Archibald Slackett, Mr. Richard Adams as Pettifer, Mr. Herbert Willis as the British Consulate at Villaya, Mr. Sidney Graville as Carajola the toreador, whose vocal ability and fine presence are prime features of the first act. Lesser male parts are in good hands, viz.: Messrs. H. Arthur, G. Martin, D. Maston, A. Penborn, H. Playfair, Fred Graham, and Owen Ford. Miss Muriel Gregory is a sprightly Nancy Staunton; Miss Leah Howard is pert and vivacious as Susan; Miss Gwen Clifford as Mrs. Hoppings, a dashing widow; and Misses Florence Wood, Nina Carlton, A. Chambers, Winifred Downing, Edwards, Doris Ainsley, M. Carlton, and Edith Mason all do well.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—Miss Florence Carlyle as Robin Hood presents a charming appearance in the successful pantomime, Babes in the Wood, at the Empire this week; Miss Nancy Thornton as Maid Marion is attractive, and gives a couple of solos with success; Miss Gertrude Martini as Fairy Queen is good, and sings well; Miss Daisy Volbecque as Little John, Miss Nicholson as Allan-a-Dale, Miss Rose Volbecque as Phyllis, Miss Martini as Will Scarlett, Miss Ena Chatburn as Marjorie, Miss Vernon as Dorcas, and numerous others, play their parts well, the Sisters Volbecque giving a couple of duets. Reggie and Cissie (the Babes) are charmingly represented by Dolly Cullen and Elsie Jordison; Messrs. Cullen and Carthy, the popular comedians, as Bill Morgan and Dick Rockyfeller, are irresistibly funny; Dame Peggy, in the hands of Mr. George Casey, is most amusing; and Mr. Arthur Stratton as Baron Toodle, the wicked uncle, is a very successful burlesque villain. Little Cluley, a diminutive comedian, is responsible for much merriment.

ATTERCLIFFE. — THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. A. Wordsworth.—A large and appreciative audience gave a hearty welcome on Monday evening last to Pardoe's pantomime of Cinderella, a bright and merry show, with plenty of fun, sparkling music, and pretty scenery and dresses. First honours must be awarded to Miss Lottie Holland, who makes a splendid Prince Charming, her vocal items being well rendered; Cinderella finds an excellent exponent in Miss Beattie Shamrock, who gives an attractive performance; Miss Nelly Rose is very good as Princess Rosalia; and so also is Miss Ada Stelling as Dandini. Miss Elsie Kedward is a graceful Fairy Rose Leaf; the sisters, Eva and Maud, are well undertaken by Miss Violet Rivers and Miss Louie Bright; and others who to be complimented on their share of the work are Mr. Tom Hulme, Mr. George Hyam, the Bros. Hannaway, Mr. Tom Griffith, and Messrs. Wright and Spencer. Specialities of an interesting character are supplied by the Marvellous Pardoes, the Bros. Hannaway, Miss Nellie Rose, the Desmond Girls, and Zenieth, animal impersonator. The general management is in the hands of Mr. W. Pardoe.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARITIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. T. Edward Owen.—The strong programme here is headed by Mr. T. W. Rawson and Miss Lily Bertram in a side-splitting sketch, entitled The Would-be Actors; hearty applause is accorded to the Seven Wulfrunas on their return visit in their acrobatic absurdity, Fun in a Café; a refined and most amusing turn is provided by Maxford and O'Neill, the talkative gentlemen; and other pleasing items are furnished by Mr. Clayton's Attergraph pictures; Onda and Leon, bar performers; the Orchids, vocal and comedy entertainers; Bros. Levett, vaulters; and Mr. Phil. Bransby, comedian.

AYR.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry W. Day.—On the first three nights of this week the powerful play, Leah Kleschna, was staged by H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company. Mr. Paul Belmore as Kleschna was suffering from a severe cold on the opening night, but, notwithstanding, gave a masterly delineation; Mr. William F. Grant made an impressive Paul Sylvaine; as Berton, Mr. Hamilton Deane was amusing and whimsical; as Schran, Mr. Campbell Goldsmid was interesting; and, in the hands of Miss Bessie Rignold, Leah possessed both grace and charm.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. Norman V. Norman is here with his company in Robin Hood and répertoire. He himself is a gallant and popular Robin Hood; and Miss Beatrice Wilson a winning and clever Maid Marian. Mr. Aubrey Mather's King Richard is well drawn; Mr. Brember Wells doubles the parts of Sir William Trusty and Simon Hardwryst with great credit; and Friar Tuck is humorously done by Mr. Francis Hope. Miss Sybil Ruskin as Clorinda and Miss Dorothy West-Symes as Isabella are each good. David Garrick and Lady Ursula are also billed.

HIS MAJESTY'S.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Miss Lottie Collins delighted with her extensive répertoire of songs; and Messrs. Howard and St. Clair proved extremely humorous in the sketch, Do You Want to Buy any Coke? Vardon gave a good ventriloquial entertainment; George Fairburn was a clever comedian and mimic; Mephisto, a novel contortionist; and the Farcical Trio gave with éclat their skit, The Maiden and the Tutor.

TIVOLI THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage Manager, Mr. Tom Whiting.—Messrs. Carpenter and Cooper's company are here in The Spider and the Fly. Mr. Benson North is a skilful and heroic Cyril Girdlestone; and Miss Amy Venimore as Stella Gray, the Spider, is extremely clever; and is well supported by Mr. Ellis J. Preston as the villainous Welby Girdlestone. Miss Nina Vaughton is a winning and sympathetic Edith McAllister; Mr. H. C. Lanceley is the Pastor; and Mr. Reginald Payne is a good David Strong. Mr. Charles Russell and Mr. Charles A. Preece are humorous in their several parts.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—The Belle of Mayfair, performed by Mr. Milton Bode's excellent company, is paying a first visit this week. At the head of a fine cast is that popular comedian, Mr. Harry Parker, who seems to revel in his present character of Sir John Chaldicott. He has a capital lady supporter in Miss Emily Stevens as Lady Chaldicott. The Earl of Mount Highgate is played in a spirited manner by Mr. Haddon Cave; Mr. Gwyn Alwyn, the happy possessor of a well-trained baritone, scores an undeniable success as Hugh Meredith. The best vocalism is shown by Miss Agnes Tandy as the Princess, her solos being given with true artistic feeling and effect; the young lovers, Raymond Finchley and Julia Chaldicott, are impersonated pleasantly by Mr. Edward Hugonnet and Miss May Yates; Miss Aurelie de Loriere makes a striking figure as the Gibson Girl, and wins several recalls for her song in the second act; Comte de Perrier is enacted with gusto by Mr. Lauri Lisle; Miss Mabel Dent is a chic Pincott, who can also dance with lightness and grace. The remainder of the long cast assist to maintain the high standard required, and the general mounting, dressing, and staging is on a lavish scale.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—Huge crowds have been attracted this week to witness the marvellous conjuring of Chung Ling Soo. He practically supplies the whole of the second part of the programme, and at the close is accorded an ovation. The rest of the company appearing includes the Zerbinis, in their musical interlude; Edie Anderson, who sings the popular "Mr. Brown, I'm out," with accompanying dance; Austin and Cowan, a pleasing pair of duettists; Spencer and Marks, comedians and dancers; Keegan and Co., a comedy cycling trio with plenty of laughable business; the Sisters Lavender, song and dance artists; and the Forrest combination in a hilarious farce.

BATLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Whitby; Manager, Mr. Alfred Taylor.—Mr. Frank Denman Wood's pantomime Dick Whittington is meeting with great success here. It is a capitally-staged production, and the principals work with unflagging energy to ensure the success of the show. Miss Daisy Morrell is an ideal Dick Whittington, and soon established herself as a prime favourite; Miss Millie Doris is a dainty and suitable Alice; Miss Marion Mayne is chic and lively as the Prince of Abyssinia; and Misses Winnie Acton, Annie Charnley, and Clairette Florence do useful work. Mr. Fred Acton as Fitzwarren is admirable; Mr. Frank Daleno is very funny as the cook; Mr. Will Dennis works hard as the Idle Apprentice; and Billy McQue and Arthur Scaller are useful. The specialities include Correge and Keith, the Estos, the Charnleys, Juan and McQue, and the Schallers.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—The Youngest of Three, played by Mr. H. F. Maltby and company, is here this week. Great interest is centred on this production, for Mr. Maltby, one of the youngest theatrical managers in the country, was at Bedford Grammar School from 1888 to 1897. Miss Mara Maltby plays the title-rôle most successfully, the audience being quick to appreciate her capabilities; Miss Janet Hodson acts with marked distinction as Anne Dulley, "the eldest of three"; and Miss Grace Richardson as another sister is also seen to advantage. The difficult part of Squire Wendover is played in a very natural manner by Mr. H. F. Maltby; as Gerald Wendover, Mr. Wyn Weaver makes the most of the character; Mr. Reginald Favell is cleverly made up as Philip Radford, and his portrayal is all that can be desired. Mr. H. Louis Wilson infuses no small amount of humour into the part of Joshua Pynne. The tour is under the direction of Mr. Wyn Weaver.

BELFAST.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—Mr. Walter Maxwell's company opened here on Monday with the four-act play, The Lion and the Mouse. Miss Christine Silver as Shirley Rossmore was the cute American girl to her life, and her acting throughout was excellent; a powerful impersonation of John Burkett Ryder was furnished by Mr. Leslie Carter; and no little praise is due to Mr. Douglas West for his capable embodiment of the rôle of James Rossmore; Mr. Lewis Edgard was admirable as Jefferson Ryder; and Miss Margaret Nybloc was a charming Kate Roberts; some humour was infused into the piece by Mr. Herbert Chown as Hon. Fitzroy Bagley; and Mr. John Wheatman was Mr. J. Whitmore Roberts, M.P., to the life; Miss Elspeth Dudgeon acted skilfully as Mrs. John Burkett Ryder; and other rôles were well interpreted by Miss Maude Townsend and Messrs. Geoffrey Hill and Dan Dyer. A capital curtain-raiser, Nearly Severed, was accorded a good reception, the various rôles being cleverly sustained by Miss E. Dudgeon, Miss M. Nybloc, and Messrs. John Wheatman and Lewis Edgard.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—Mr. Edwin Bodye, a big favourite in Belfast, heads the bill, and has been accorded a great reception for his well-rendered humorous songs; Spessardy's Bears exhibit the very acme of training in their remarkable animal act; a sensation has been created by the act under the title of Kreamer and Braun, in which a contest between horse and cyclist arouses enthusiasm; the Cecilias appear to much advantage in their refined musical act; and the equilibristic feats of Ricardo and Salving are certainly astounding; Rogers and Weston have been accorded a good reception for their Hebrew comedy scena, In Answer to an Advert; and also appearing are Mr. J. H. Creve, character comedian; Oakley and James, comedy duo; Almon, and the Palace Pictures.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—Miss May Moore Duprez, fresh from pantomime triumphs here and in Dublin, heads the bill, and has been most successful with her songs, dancing, and witty patter; Martin Adeson and company, also from local pantomime, appears with his capital company in a musical farcetta, entitled The Masked Lady, which has the merit of being both funny and original; Miss Carrie Joy is a charming comedienne, with good songs; and the musical performance of Silvo is quite a treat; Kelly and Ashby delight all with their billiard table act; and Mr. Dan Conray's comic songs have been well received; the Allisons, comedy artists and dancers, Mr. Fred Elton, in his speciality, and Miss Edie Veno, comedienne and dancer, complete a good programme.

New Alhambra Theatre of Varieties. — General-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The Alhambra Dramatic Company is appearing here this week with every element of success in The Terror of Paris; Mr. Horace Denton must be commended for his clever impersonation of Pierre Valjean; and that accomplished actress, Miss Nina Blake Adams, acquitted herself with great distinction as Marguerite; a skilful impersonation of Henri Martin was furnished by Mr. Cyril Grier; and Mr. Elmore Frith appeared to much advantage as Laroche; Mr. Balfour Denniston succeeded as Capt. Brigand; and Miss Roma Tremayne, a charming actress, rendered able assistance by her skilful rendering of Claire; Mr. Tom H. Solly gained much favour by his humorous impersonation of Bruno; and Miss Mattie Crawford deserves commendation for her delightful embodiment of Estelle; other rôles were capitally sustained by Messrs. J. E. Davies and Ed. Smythe; the Alhambra Bioscope, under the direction of Mr. W. E. Newlove, exhibits some interesting pictures.

BILSTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Battersby; Musical-Director, Mr. J. E. Machin.—The company brought here by Mr. Lingford Carson to present The Power of the Cross is a capable one. Mr. George A. De Gray as Baron Curzola is much admired; the brothers Fairfax are played intelligently by Messrs. C. Linney and A. J. Haviland; Miss Mildred Cottell is quite at home as the adventurous Rita; Miss Phyllis Vaughan and Miss Stanley Burt are seen to advantage in the quiet rôles of Blanche Kingsley and Margaret Seaton; and the play is relieved by the humour of Timothy O'Dowd and Dolly Gray, played by Mr. R. E. Nugent and Miss Etta Turner.

BIRKENHEAD.—New Theatre Royal.—Lessee Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Pell.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company is deservedly doing excellent business with a spirited rendering of The Gay Parisienne. As Ebenezer Honeycombe Mr. Will Harman is irresistibly funny; Miss Lilian Talbot makes a vivacious Julie Bon Bon; Mr. Squire Day is an energetic and able Major Fossdyke, and Mr. Clifford Seyler is in every respect an admirable Pompier; Mr. Philip Moore is well suited both histrionically and vocally as Tom Everleigh; Miss Holford Beringer appears to advantage as Mrs. Honeycombe; and Miss Nance O'Neill is an excellent Norah.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Mr. Charles R. Whittle, a versatile comedian, is again scoring heavily here, and a return visit from Miss Nellie Christie, the popular negro character comedienne, is an attractive feature; Collinson's Topsy-Turvy School is a leading turn, and a strong combination also includes Mr. Walter Munroe, Irish comedian; the Lyons trio, sketch artists and dancers; Maxwell and Frances, in their comedy act; Mr. C., a good raconteur; the three Sisters Grosvenor, duettists; Miss Maud Courtney, soubrette; Miss Josie Mooney, balladist; and Brown's Royal Bioscope.

BIRMINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—Crowded houses continue to mark the run of Mr. Robert Arthur's magnificently-produced and well-acted pantomime The Queen of Hearts. On Friday last week the performance was attended by the "Nuts," headed by Mr. Lester Collingwood, who, with that hearty and liberal spirit which is his shining characteristic, had left his own show to patronise a neighbour. Mr. Bodega Farris and Mr. Bert Browne were also among the confraternity, which numbered about fifty members, and with whom the artists, led by Mr. Geo. Robey, exchanged compliments and badinage galore, delighting the audience hugely. During the week Miss Millie Lindon's sister and understudy, Miss Howard, has with much success undertaken the rôle of the Prince, vice Miss Lindon indisposed.

Prince of Wales's Theatre. — Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston. — That very pleasantly and successfully conducted pantomime Crusoe's Adventures is to be withdrawn to-night (Saturday), after an all too brief run of nine weeks. This has been made imperative by the important London engagements of several of the artists appearing therein, and thus the public take leave of a charming pantomime with unfeigned regret.

Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Victor Turner.—Mr. Robert Crossman's pantomime Aladdin concluded a very successful fortnight's engagement here last Saturday, and now the theatre is closed pending the re-opening of the establishment under the new proprietorship, Moss and Stoll.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood.—There is nothing new to record of Cinderella, albeit its jokes, &c., seem ever fresh, and the success of this merry and bright show continues uninterrupted.

Metropole Theatre. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—The Scales of Justice, produced by the Metropole company, keeps Mr. Melville's large and growing clientèle well satisfied. Mr Percy Dawsone is entrusted with the rôle of Harry Maxwell, which he renders with his usual success, the audience cheering his efforts right lustily; Mr Austin Milroy affords a striking contrast with his clever acting as Antonio Cordova; Miss Rose Ralph's charm and talents find happy expression in the dual rôle, Mary and Jenny Maxwell; and hearty and prolonged laughter attends Mr. Andrew Emm's assumption of Tony Wilkins. Mr. Fred A. Marston finds excellent scope for his vigorous method as Jack Breeze; Mr. Edward Finlay gives an effective performance as Mandoza; Mr. Francis Everard does well as Tom Duncan; and Miss Amy Corelli's acting as Polly is much appreciated. There are others who shine, including Miss Florence Nelson as Inez Cordova, Little Elsie as Jenny, and Mr. Fredk. Rivers as Captain Duncan.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—The Trail of the Serpent appears here attracting to Mr. A. Campbell-Kelly and his company much appreciation from large audiences. Mr. Campbell-Kelly essays the rôle of Gerald Kingston with much force and skill; Mr. F Booth Conway as the "serpent." Ralph Hammond, is to be commended for his masterly assumption of villainy; Miss Nana Cameron holds the audience enthralled as Rachael, the gipsy; Miss Poppie Carew acts with much charm as Ethel Maynard; Mr. Geo. D. Hunter portrays Gipsy Jake with many clever touches of character; Mr. Geo. Porteous is successful as Sir Gerald Kingston; and Mr. Leo Whamboult as Cleo and Mr. Geo. F. Pateman as Detective Handson act ably. Humour is well represented by Mr. Robert Cromwell as William Higgins and Miss Dorothy Neville as Rose Wilson.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—Her Love Against the World prevails here, with Messrs. W. H. Hallatt and Walter Howard's company. Mr. Howard's playing of the heroic part, Eric, Earl of Strathmere, is marked with power, taste, and skill; Mr. Hallatt is, as usual, most convincing as Prince Othmar; Mr. Mayor Cook scores with fine effect as the malignant Prince Ulric; Miss Ellen Snow's efforts in the heroine's rôle, Iris, meet with the highest praise; Miss Rossie St. John is much appreciated as Nello; Mr. Sam Arthur acts with conspicuous ability as Prince Maurice; and Messrs. Langley, Chesson, Cushman, Hillyer, Moss, and Groves sustain minor parts in a capital manner. The humorous element is considerable, and is chiefly contributed to by Mr. Henry B. Lewis as Heinrich and Mr. Richard Webb as Fritz Pimpernickle. Miss Blanche Steele gives an admirable portrayal of the Countess, Shulah; and Miss Julie de Esco figures with much success as Corona.

Empire Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham. — A musical novelty is presented by Lasky and Rolfe's Fourteen Black Hussars, under the name of "The Bass Drum Trust." This is a musical turn played entirely on big drums; in addition the performers give selections on brass instrumens. The Ten Ji troupe of Japanese magicians are on their first visit to this city and the manner in which they are received proves that their return will be looked for with interest; Little Ganty is a most amusing comedian of the diminutive variety; and Kate Traill charms with her songs at the piano. Lillieth Levton and John Snurling present the amusing sketch entitled The Order of the Bath; Charles Mildare, whistler and sifflеur; the O'Gorman Bros., comedians and dancers; Madge May, comedienne, and the Macarte Sisters on the wire all provide excellent turns.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Sam Mayo is a quaint comedian, and he brings several new songs, which are favourably received. Ernest Montefiore and company are responsible for a capital little sketch, in which humour and pathos are happily blended; Hinton and Wooton are clever trick cyclists, showing their skill by playing football whilst mounted on their machines; Bertisch is a fine specimen of muscular humanity; the Gondolier Glee Singers give solos and glees in a refined style; while Reynolds' Minstrels are five American artists who contribute an enjoyable item. The Three Transfields are lady instrumentalists of much ability; and Keir and Kempton are good duettists. Oakdene is a capital comedy ventriloquist; and the Lillian Bros. are splendid examples of muscular development.

Bordesley Palace. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—The leading attraction here this week is a dramatic sketch entitled Told in a Flat. Miss Jessie Neilson as Esther l'Estrange acquits herself well; Mr. Harry Rogers is equally successful; Prince Kokin, Japanese juggler and equilibrist, is favourably received for a brisk turn; Andrew Roy, tenor, sings well-known songs with much taste and finish; the Garganis present a clever acrobatic turn; Parker and Parr are excellent Welsh comedy vocalists; Ethel Ra-Leslie, character vocalist, and the Bohemians complete the programme.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — Eden Theatre. — Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. Addison; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. J. Huntley.—Mr. T. Arthur Jones and company are having a good reception on their return visit here with Life's Sweetest Sins. Mr. T. Arthur Jones undertakes the heroic part of Captain Harold Marston in manly style, and is warmly applauded for his efforts; Dr. Colbrooke is in the hands of Mr. Oswald Douglas, and the villainy of this character is cleverly depicted by him; whilst Kimberley Coutts and Rev. Ed. Grey have able exponents in Mr. Robert Sawin and Mr. Clem. Horlock. Ernie Wodstone is well played by Mr. Alexander Wills; as Doreen Rivers, Miss Marie Daventry displays to great advantage her acknowledged talents; and a painstaking actress is seen in Miss Mary Ainslie as Fay Colbrooke. The lighter side of the play is provided by Mr. Edgar Morgan as Bob Tanner and Miss Elsie Walton as Bess Grayson.

BLACKBURN. — Theatre Royal.— Proprietor, Mr. Harry Yorke; Manager, Mr. Reginald C. Yorke.—Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson is paying a visit here in his popular drama, The Death or Glory Boys. Mr. Mitchelson himself appears in the part of Captain Glyn Ferrars, and ably portrays the villainies of that character; Mr. Geo. Daiper plays Jack Malden with dignity; and Mr. Jerrold Ord as Colonel Fergeson and Mr. Lancelot Usher as Lieut. Duff make themselves popular. Miss Violet Carlyle is a charming Nina Fergeson; and Miss Amy Ellam acts well as Bessie Malden. The humorous element is in the capable hands of Mr. J. Russell Boyne as Nat Weeks and Miss Maud Stuart as Jane.

New Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company, in An Abandoned Wife, is drawing excellent houses.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will Murray; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Bradbury.—The following artists contribute to a good entertainment:—Mme. Lydia Yeomans-Titus; George Brookes, comedian; Speedwell, lightning artist; the Waltons, acrobats; Lizzie Daniels, comedienne; Gladys Witton, vocalist; J. W. Rickaby, comedian; and Dene and Dawson, in their comedy sketch, Stage Aspirants.

BLACKPOOL.—Grand Theatre.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—Local theatre-goers are rejoicing this week by reason of the fact that Mr. George Edwardes' company is in their midst, playing Les Merveilleuses; or, The Lady Dandies as this very pleasing comedy-opera is now named. The personnel of the company includes many old favourites, chief of whom is Mr. Eric Thorne, in the part of St. Amour, Prefect of Police, which might have been specially written for him. His humorous vocal contributions are a special feature. Mr. Lennox Pawle as Tournesol and Mr. Jack Cannot as Malicorne are also great fun-providers, and their songs and duets bring down the house nightly. Mr. W. Tailleur Andrews sings and acts well as Dorlis; and Mr. Robert J. Hale cuts a fine figure as Lagorille. Miss Anna Hickisch gives a charming representation of La Merveilleuse, and her singing evokes the greatest enthusiasm; Miss Deborah Volar's Illyrine is also a very pleasing performance; Miss Thelma Ray wins favour as Parvenche; and Miss Dora Langham proves a fascinating Egle. Mention should also be made of Messrs. Harold Thorley and George Curzon, who impersonate the Dandies, and Miss Vivien Tailleur, who contributes some very graceful dances.

Her Majesty's Opera House. — General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone. — Messrs. Dottridge and Langden's company is playing The Midnight Mail here this week under the direction of Mr. James Willard. A clever study of Harry Steyne, the heroic engine-driver, is contributed by Mr. George Harvard; and Mr. Harry Emmerson carefully plays Donald Craig. Mr. Austin Mortimer as Leonard Royle and Mr. H. B. Lewis as Hassan Padisha are also most satisfactory. Mr. Fred G. Evison scores a success as Billy Brewer, the drunken stoker; Miss Ada Oakley very ably impersonates Mary Steyne; and Miss Mildred Carr is all that could be desired as Nancy Brewer.

BLYTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—The return visit of the musical comedy, Floradora, has proved one of the most successful engagements of the current season, and Mr. J. Bannister Howard's No. 1 company has met with a most enthusiastic reception. Mr. Alf. E. Passmore's interpretation of Anthony Tweedlepunch is undoubtedly the hit of the evening; the Cyrus Gilfain of Mr. Stanley White is quite satisfactory; and Mr. H. V. Crofton leaves nothing to be desired as Frank Abercoed. Mr. Harold Perry as Captain Donegal has met with much approval; the acting and singing of Miss Daisy Lake as Dolores are much admired; Miss Lily Gullick wins unstinted applause by a capital rendering of Angelo Gilfain.

BOLTON.—Theatre Royal, Ltd. — Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Melvin.—Mr. Fred Melville's company is the attraction this week in The Beast and the Beauty. The company is a talented one, and the drama is well staged. Miss Lydia Audre gives a capital rendering of the exacting part of Violet; and Mr. Herbert Ford achieves great success as Jack Barrymore, the Beast. As the Earl of Loman, Mr. William E. Passmore plays with artistic restraint; Mr. Bernard Mervin is good as Henry Denver; and Mr. Will Corrie does well as the light-weight champion. Miss Daisy Gwynne as Delilah Vane figures with great effect; and Miss Mamie Rendle causes much amusement as the maid-of-all-work.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—A capital programme is submitted by the Four Rio Brothers, smart American novelty artists; the Five Casino Girls, brass instrumentalists; Welda and Wynne, who appear in their comedy specialty act, introducing some clever juggling; Ellis Barrieton, double-voiced vocalist; Charlie Kitts and Rhoda Windrum and company, in their merry military contretemps, The Cuckoo; the Bros. Durant, in a clever acrobatic performance; Homer and Maitland, in their absurdity, The Mesmerist and the Masher; J. P. Ling, in a mimetic monologue; Madge Elliott, comedienne and dancer; J. A. Skerrett's vocal and electric speciality, Illumino; Alf. Gibson, Lancashire comedian; and Vernon's Bioscope.

BOSCOMBE. — Hippodrome.—Joint-Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Ball.—A fine array of talent is put before the patrons of this hall. Irma Lorraine is giving some beautiful tableaux; Miss Harriett Vernon, who gets an enthusiastic welcome, appears to advantage in a pretty song-scena, entitled Sunshine and Shadow; Ross, Rose, and Rosert are laughable in a comedy sketch, Always Moving; the Two Kays are gifted with good voices; a humorous turn is provided by Bromley and Fontein, in a comic operetta; Bert Kemble and Leslie Race are two good comedians; and the Hippodrome pictures are as interesting as ever.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Proprietors, Messrs. David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Rowland Stewart.—A warm reception awaited Mr. and Mrs. Kendal on Monday, when The Elder Miss Blossom was played. The large audience showed their appreciation in no uncertain manner. As Dorothy Blossom Mrs. Kendal is charming, and is strongly supported by Mr. Kendal in the part of Andrew Quick; Mr. Bassett Roe as Major Twentyman does all that is possible with the character; Mr. Ernest Hendrie as Christopher Blossom is distinctly good; and Mr. Metcalf Wood's sketch of Withers is clever, while Mr. C. W. Standing as the Vicar and Mr. R. Burnet as the Editor are well placed; Miss Jessica Thorne is delightful as Sophia, and good work is done by Mrs. A. B. Tapping and Miss Kate Bishop. The Ironmaster and The Housekeeper are also in the week's programme.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—The curtain fell for the last time on the successful pantomime Robinson Crusoe on Saturday evening, and amidst great enthusiasm Mr. Hart and his lieutenant, Mr. Doyle, bowed their acknowledgments to the crowded audience. The utmost good humour prevailed, and the principal ladies of the company were the recipients of large and beautiful floral tributes. On Monday evening Mother Goose (last year's pantomime here), which has been running successfully at Sheffield and Manchester, was the attraction, and, judging from its reception, its reproddction for the week promises to turn out a big success. The clever comedian Mr. J. E. Nightingale, in his old character of Mother Goose, had a warm welcome, and so had Miss Daisy Jerome, in her bright impersonation of the Dutch Girl. Mr. Harry Roxbury scored well as Jack; the Valdo Brothers are as funny as ever as the Donkeys. The new Principal Boy is Miss Maisie Gay, a bright and attractive exponent of the part, and Miss Silvia May is a very charming Principal Girl. As the Scottish Laird Mr. G. P. Polson is very humorous, and as the younger brother Alexander Mr. Jack Pleasants is immensely funny. The other members of the company who stand out prominently in the delightful revival are Mr. Ernest Spalding as the Mayor, Miss Winnifred Norman, and Miss Gertrude Parker. Mr. R. Sedgwick ably conducts the orchestra, and there is not a dull moment throughout the performance.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Cinderella continues its merry run here, and the second edition of the pantomime is proving a huge success. Monday night last was a record, the occasion being the second annual benefit of the much-esteemed and courteous acting-manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—A number of special turns were contributed by Miss Beatrice Bonnie, comedienne, Mr. Syd May, "the imitator of imitators," Miss Marion Fletcher, vocalist, Mr. J. E. Coyle, comedian, Messrs. Harris and Worth, comedians, Miss May Palmer, Mr. J. W. Gallacher, and Miss Cissie Williams, ballad artist. During the performance Mr. Laidler presented Mr. Hepworth with a substantial purse of gold, which had been subscribed as a mark of respect by the staff of the theatre and a few personal friends; and Miss Florrie Forde, the Principal Boy of the pantomime, on behalf of the company, also presented to Mr. Hepworth a gold match-box and cigar-cutter.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—Mr. Fred Karno's company of entertaining comedians are on a return visit here with their enjoyable sketch Early Birds, which is as diverting as ever; and De Dio, in her entrancing, weird, and brilliantly-lighted dance, is again commanding enthusiastic applause. Beatrice Bonnie, comedienne, contributes acceptably to the fine programme; Stylo manipulates his hoops cleverly; some remarkably fine head and hand balancing is accomplished by the Schenk Brothers; Syd May's imitations of imitators are immensely diverting, and his burlesque wrestling is funny. "A Japanese Tea Garden" is a dainty turn, full of merit, by Marie Santoi and her Merry Little Japs; Clito Clifford, coloured comedian, contributes an excellent sand dance; J. H. Scotland's bass vocalism earns unstinted applause; and there are some excellent pictures shown by the American Bioscope.

Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. H. Foster.—"Carlton's Mysterious Cross," a very clever illusion, is perplexing the audiences her pretty considerably this week. Mlle. Sylvesto submits a clever act as a lady contortionist; D. W. Watson's cornet and post-horn solos are well executed; a very clever and enjoyable instrumental performance by the Albano troupe finds favour; Harris and Worth, sporting comedians, dispense amusing patter; "Song and Story in a Garden" is an acceptable vocal turn by Vowles and Byran; Marion Fletcher renders ballads with skill; John E. Coyle in an original style submits some really comic songs; and there are some amusing and instructive pictures shown by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux.

BRIDGEND.—Town Hall.—Manager, Mr. T. D Schofield.—Joseph Poole's myriorama is here this week with a capital company of variety artists, in addition to the usual excellent pictorial effects. Mlle. Juanita M. Di Olivera gains much praise for her clever performance with cockatoos; the Paulasto Troupe are an excellent turn in their Frolics in a Café Garden; as a quick-change artist, Felix Somers shows some original make-ups; the Veronas are good both at singing and dancing; Miss May Finch sings some pretty songs quite prettily; and the Two Daniels are extremely comical.

BRIDLINGTON.—The Palace and Winter Gardens.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Delmar.—Mr. Fred Austin, a capital minstrel comedian and dancer, tops the programme this week; Al Tasker gives a very eccentric juggling act, being well supported by his cleverly-trained dog; the Woelfhafs are a couple of smart vaudeville artists; Frank Newbury is a clever siffleur and mimic; and Hughes and Hughes appear in a laughable sketch, Domestic Quibbles. The Sisters Darnton, operatic duettists, and the Misses Maccallaugh, speciality vocalists and dancers, give capital turns.

BRIGHTON.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager Mr. Harcourt M. Beryl. — Mr. George Dance's company opened here on Monday with The Spring Chicken. Mr. Fred Payne proved highly amusing as Mr. Girdle; Mr. J. S. Durant was very alert and entertaining as Gustave Babori; Miss Nellie Kavanagh was admirably suited as Mrs. Girdle; Miss Florence Wix made a charming Dulcie Babori; Miss Clarice Cartney's Baroness Papouche was a graceful impersonation; and unstinted praise must be accorded to Miss Chrissie Ralland for her vivacious and winsome enactment of Rosalie; Mr. Harry Averell (Boniface) and Mr. Edwin Dodds (Felix) delighted the audience with their nimble dancing. The remaining characters wer satisfactorily sustained, and the chorus and orchestra displayed effective work under the direction of Mr. Knight Pearce. The musical play was superbly dressed and staged.

Alhambra.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—An excellent programme is sustained here this week. Mlle. Clarisse Eldee appears in a series of graceful poses; Bud Snyder, cyclist displays clever and daring feats; Vanando, the ventriloquial barber, submits a capital turn; H. C. Lovell and company are highly successful in their musical comedietta, Mam'selle Pom Pom; Warde and Wylie are a pair of funny comedy artists; Lily Black, comedienne, makes a decided hit; Will Driscoll, "swell" comedian and dancer, is well received; Nellie Chandos is a dainty comedienne; Harry Desmond is a good character comedian; the Delgarnos contribute a pleasing medley of fun and music; Ethel Arundell, comedienne, is effective, and the Alhambrascope pictures are excellent.

Hippodrome Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director Mr. Thomas Barrasford. There is a capital company here this week. Jack and Evelyn, comedy burlesque artists, are highly amusing in Come into the Office; the Henriette De Serris Troupe achieve great success in their tableaux depicting well-known pictures, marble statuary, and bas-reliefs; the Three Merrills, comedy cyclists, are clever and entertaining; Minnie Hunt and Rhys Thomas are very effective in Her Birthday; the Sisters Wingrove are neat duettists and dancers; Roma and Romani are well received in their musical act; Walter Stanley is a good comedian; Claire Greta, comedienne and Spanish dancer, wins hearty applause; Bishop and Hanlon are diverting comedy artists, and the Barrascope pictures are interesting.

BRISTOL.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Crowded houses still continue here, the Humpty-Dumpty pantomime having kept up the record of attractiveness which is usual at this theatre. Messrs. Horace Mills, Bert Gilbert, Carlton, Fred Conquest, and the Griffiths Brothers are all great favourites; and the principal ladies of the company, including Miss Sybil Arundale, Miss Maud Darling, Miss Hebe Bliss, Miss Winnie Volt, and Miss Lutie Griffiths, have well maintained their popularity with all parts of the house. The scenery and dresses are quite up to the standard, the ballet is a good one, and the speciality dances by the Tiller Superba Quartette are much appreciated.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. F. Crowe. —Cinderella is drawing to a close now, but it has proved to be a very popular and highly-appreciated pantomime. The staging in all respects is exceptionally liberal and effective, the company, including Miss Mimi Fisher, Miss Dolly Denton, Miss Cissy Hilton, Miss Cherrie Wardroper, Miss Blanche Bayley, Miss May Lawrence, Miss Alys Eden, Mr. Walter Kooney, Mr. Harry Karr, Mr. Allan Wye, and Mr. A. G. Spry, is an exceptionally hard-working and competent one. New songs and dances have been introduced from time to time, as also patter and comic business for the comedians, thus keeping the pantomime always fresh and up-to-date.

Palace Theatre.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—The Poluski Brothers head the programme with their new entertainment "Laughs," which is a comical act, but at the same time gives scope for some expert gymnastic work. Edith Muir, Hubert Bartlett, and company amuse immensely with their smartly-played comedy sketch The Collar Stud; Mason and Bart do a good act as comedy gymnasts; Mill May and Theresa are successful in an up-to-date protean act; the Great Stowes score in their novelty equilibristic feats; Ryan and Hall are decidedly smart as eccentric acrobatic comedians and wrestlers; George Collins, comedian, is decidedly popular; and the San Carlos Operatic Vocalists have good voices and sing harmoniously. The performance concludes with a fine display of animated pictures projected by Vernoy's Imperial Bioscope. The 14th anniversary of the opening of this hall was celebrated on Wednesday evening, when the house was packed at the two performances, and there were many attractions in addition to the company engaged for the week.

BROUGHTON.—Victoria Theatre, Ltd.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—Lucky Durham was presented on Monday by H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company. Mr. Edmund Kennedy made a great impression as John Durham, ever determined to avenge his and his mother's misfortune; Lord Mountfallon was a fine study by Mr. Robert Forsyth; Mr. Arthur Leigh made an excellent Hon. Reginald Steighton; a clever piece of work was the Ben Verstein by Mr. W. F. Clithedenne, Mr. Syd May, "the imitator of imitators," Miss Marion Fletcher, vocalist, Mr. J. E. Coyle, comedian, Messrs. Harris and Worth, comedians, Miss May Palmer, Mr. J. W. Gallacher, and Miss Cissie Williams, ballad artist. During the performance Mr. Laidler presented Mr. Hepworth with a substantial purse of gold, which had been subscribed as a mark of respect by the staff of the theatre and a few personal friends; and Miss Florrie Forde, the Principal Boy of the pantomime, on behalf of the company, also presented to Mr. Hepworth a gold match-box and cigar-cutter.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—Mr. Fred Karno's company of entertaining comedians are on a return visit here with their enjoyable sketch Early Birds, which is as diverting as ever; and De Dio, in her entrancing, weird, and brilliantly-lighted dance, is again commanding enthusiastic applause. The scenery and dresses are quite up to the standard, the ballet is a good one, and the speciality dances by the Tiller Superba Quartette are much appreciated.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. F. Crowe. —Cinderella is drawing to a close now, but it has proved to be a very popular and highly-appreciated pantomime. The staging in all respects is exceptionally liberal and effective, the company, including Miss Mimi Fisher, Miss Dolly Denton, Miss Cissy Hilton, Miss Cherrie Wardroper, Miss Blanche Bayley, Miss May Lawrence, Miss Alys Eden, Mr. Walter Kooney, Mr. Harry Karr, Mr. Allan Wye, and Mr. A. G. Spry, is an exceptionally hard-working and competent one. New songs and dances have been introduced from time to time, as also patter and comic business for the comedians, thus keeping the pantomime always fresh and up-to-date.

Palace Theatre.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—The Poluski Brothers head the programme with their new entertainment "Laughs," which is a comical act, but at the same time gives scope for some expert gymnastic work. Edith Muir, Hubert Bartlett, and company amuse immensely with their smartly-played comedy sketch The Collar Stud; Mason and Bart do a good act as comedy gymnasts; Mill May and Theresa are successful in an up-to-date protean act; the Great Stowes score in their novelty equilibristic feats; Ryan and Hall are decidedly smart as eccentric acrobatic comedians and wrestlers; George Collins, comedian, is decidedly popular; and the San Carlos Operatic Vocalists have good voices and sing harmoniously. The performance concludes with a fine display of animated pictures projected by Vernoy's Imperial Bioscope. The 14th anniversary of the opening of this hall was celebrated on Wednesday evening, when the house was packed at the two performances, and there were many attractions in addition to the company engaged for the week.

BROUGHTON.—Victoria Theatre, Ltd.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—Lucky Durham was presented on Monday by H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company. Mr. Edmund Kennedy made a great impression as John Durham, ever determined to avenge his and his mother's misfortune; Lord Mountfallon was a fine study by Mr. Robert Forsyth; Mr. Arthur Leigh made an excellent Hon. Reginald Steighton; a clever piece of work was the Ben Verstein by Mr. W. F. Clithedenne, Mr. Syd May, "the imitator of imitators," Miss Marion Fletcher, vocalist, Mr. J. E. Coyle, comedian, Messrs. Harris and Worth, comedians, Miss May Palmer, Mr. J. W. Gallacher, and Miss Cissie Williams, ballad artist. During the performance Mr. Laidler presented Mr. Hepworth with a substantial purse of gold, which had been subscribed as a mark of respect by the staff of the theatre and a few personal friends; and Miss Florr

Edmond's company, in The Golden Ladder, is here for six nights, and on Monday night met with great success, the all-round excellence of the mounting being greatly admired. Mr. William Clayton plays Frank Thornhill with much power, his enunciation being particularly fine; and he receives valuable assistance from Miss E. Marriott-Watson as Lillian Grant. Mr. J. Milne-Taylor is convincing as the scheming Michael Severn; and as an assistant in his villainies, Mr. Douglas Howard does well. Mr. Fred Archer makes a good Jim Dixon; and the lighter side of the piece is humorously depicted by Mr. Fred May and Miss Nellie Graham, as Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Peckaby, and Miss Nina Vesta as the embryo French scholar, Victoria Alexandra. Miss Beattie Wilson is very amusing as the Tearer; and the rest of the performers work harmoniously together.

HIPPODROME.—Joint-Proprietors, Mr. F. Mouillot and Mr. Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Jack de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—Henry Herne, Ida Millais, and company, in the sensational playlet, Blackmail, top this week's bill, and, mounted as it is by elaborate effects, including a realistic weir, goes excellently; the Alaskarno Trio afford much diversion in their comedy acrobatic pot-pourri, and the junior is a real humorist; Leah Arden, operatic vocalist, possesses a rich, yet powerful voice, and is applauded heartily by all sections of the audience; George Prince, the crazy comedian, is a great favourite, and is called again and again; and the big-boot dancing of Chas. Williams, coupled with his witty anecdotes, causes much enjoyment. Violet Harvey is a very charming comedienne, and sings a couple of catchy songs in smart style.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—Mr. Harold V. Neilson's company opened a week's engagement here in the play entitled The Perfect Lover. Miss Amy Sangster as Lilian Tremblett acted in a charming style; Mr. Harold V. Neilson as Joseph Tremblett won repeated applause; Mr. Lemmon Warde as William Tremblett gained hearty appreciation for his fine elocution and forcible style; as Lord Cardew Mr. Frank Beresford was excellent. A Bunch of Violets and The Money Spinner, preceded by The Light That Failed, are also in the company's répertoire.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Henry Kemble.—A first-class entertainment is provided here. The Two Westwoods give a clever cycling turn; Miss Bertha Stuart delights with her singing; France and Francis, comedians, are good; Tom Garland is an exceptionally clever ventriloquist; Rhoda Burnhill dances well; J. H. Bowman is a smart comedian and dancer; the Great Vincent, acrobat, introduces daring table feats and tumbling; and Clarence C. Corris' company appears in a musical farcical comedietta, entitled Office Hours; Mr. Frank Wood and Miss Florence Leigarde contribute pretty duets.

COVENTRY. — THE EMPIRE. — Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Dance; Manager, Mr. A. Rand.—An excellent programme is provided at this popular house, one of the chief turns being that of Dutch Daly, whose concertina playing calls forth deserved applause; Selma Braatz is a clever lady juggler and balancer; the New York Nippers give a highly interesting entertainment, their clog-dancing being very clever; an amusing act is given by Johnson and Bert, in A Queer Customer; Nellie Martell is successful as a comedienne; Harry Leybourne as an impersonator is smart; the bioscope pictures, as usual, conclude the entertainment.

CRADLEY HEATH.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jno. H. Morton.—Chas. March's company with The Gamester of Metz is playing to full houses. Mr. Chas. March takes the leading part of Paul Baldot with various aliases, and it serves well to show his cleverness as a quick-change artist. Mr. Paul Teulon is a good General de Monparasse and Mr. Wilfred Protnero a capital Captain Badaire. Mr. George Paget as Lieutenant Herve deserves special mention; as also does Mr. W. G. Dudney for his Louis Badaire. Mr. J. W. Miller shows great ability as Ferd. du Basson and Mr. F. Thorpe Tracey is quite at home as Goliath Gron. Mr. P. Wentworth makes a first-rate Curé d'Artois, and Mr. W. A. Brayne a good Verger Martin. Mr. P. Henson is well chosen for Peter Rhinhild, and Mr. W. Brinklar has a part to his liking as Courcelli. Miss Una Lane is a winsome Lucia Baldot, and Miss Cissy Haighton is well suited as Gwendolin Pearson. Miss Eva Lyndhurst makes a life-like Countess Baldot, and Miss Elsa Cole supplies the humour as Babette.

CREWE.—LYCEUM THEATRE. Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Taylor, J.P.—The Frank Bateman company in No Wedding Bells for Her is this week's attraction here. Miss Lizzie Montague has rare ability, and makes a hit in the difficult rôle of Lola Delaspierre; Miss Dora Pass gives a natural and pleasing rendition of Doris Fane; and Miss Bessie Franks as Peggy makes the most of the part; Mr. Stuart Lomath submits an excellent interpretation of Frank Hatherleigh; and as Dick Delver, the detective, Mr. Percy Shaw is admirable; Mr. Charles Liddon is well placed as Abney Stone; Mr. George Herbert gives a careful reading of Horatio Fane; and Mr. Arthur Lissy is good as Harold Trevelyn; Mr. Frederick Garton creditably sustains the part of Montague Blair; Mr. Will Skelton is found amusing as Simkins; and Mr. Robert Lord is acceptable as Adonis Tightfist.

CROYDON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Lambert.—Mr. George Dance's company is appearing here in the musical comedy, The Catch of the Season. Mr. Frank Lincoln just touches the right note as the Duke of St. Jermyns; Mr. E. H. Kelly makes a humorous Lord Dundreary; Mr. William Dickens is a suitable Higham Montague; Mr. Hugh Henson does well as Lord Yatton; Mr. Hampton Gordon is in the right place as Sir John Crystal; Mr. Franklin Miles cuts a curious figure as William Gibson; Mr. Herbert Franklyn is a gentlemanly Captain Rushpool; Mr. F. Sealey is up to the mark as Almeric Montpellier; Master Grata does wonders with the rôle of Bucket; and Mr. J. Stevenson ably conducts himself as a footman. Miss Moya Mannering wins all hearts by her enchanting acting and singing in the character of Angela; Miss Maud Davies is a handsome Duchess of St. Jermyns; Miss Emily Mellon makes a pleasing impression as Lady Crystal; Miss Isobel Dickens is a charming Hon. Sophia Bedford; Miss Florence Lee is graceful as the Hon. Honoria Bedford; Miss Belle Napier is delightfully fresh as Lady Caterham; and Misses Lillian Wesson and M. Carew are seen to advantage as Miss Caw and Princess Schowenhohe-Hohenschowen. The ladies of the chorus are stately, and have good voices.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James: Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Herrick.—Miss Ethel Van Praagh and Mr. J. Edward Whitty's company, in An Unwedded Wife is proving attractive here this week. Mr. Harry Townley as Perkinson Pimple works well; Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes depicts the villain in a telling manner; Mr. Logan Darra is very good as John Hawthorne; Mr. J. A. Grove as David Drummond is capable; Mr. Will Casey as Napoleon Boomer is responsible for much laughter; Mr. Valentine Henry gives a manly representation of Frank Armstrong; and Mr. J. Edward Whitty distinguishes himself as P.C. O. Runvin. Miss Ethel Van Praagh in the title-rôle acts with her usual cleverness and dramatic skill; Miss Jessie Gillette as Carraway Crumpet is received with favour. Miss Violet Wilson gives a fine representation of Elsie Langham; and Reggie is well presented by Little Doris.

DARLINGTON. — THEATRE ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Bell.—On Monday Mr. Baron H. Harris's company opened here in The Prince of Pilsen. Miss Sophie Harris is excellent in the rôle of Mrs. Maddison Crocker; Mr. Harry Kilburn as Hans Wagner is highly amusing; and Mr. Frank Crimp as the Prince also scores both as actor and vocalist. Miss Connie Leon as Sidonie has a real grip of the part; Mr. Ernest Giffard gives a lively impersonation of François. Other leading characters are capably played by Miss Alice Nixon as Nellie Wagner, Miss Mollie Wynne as Jimmie, Mr. Sidney Russell as Earl of Shrimpton, Miss Ada Watson as Edith Adams, Mr. Roy Sidney, Mr. Maddison Rich, and Mr. F. W. Hulme.

DARWEN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. A. M. Loader: Acting-Manager, Mr. F. J. Robinson.—Lena Stanton and Harry Joseph's company, in Sinbad the Sailor, is here this week. As Sinbad Miss Stanton is exceedingly good; Miss Marie Santley makes a charming Princess; Miss Ethyl Errol is an admirable Captain Selim; and Miss Dolly Richardson a capital Fairy. As Irza Miss Norah Neville sings and dances well; Mr. Bruce Green is funny as Mrs. Sinbad; Little Keeno as Tinbad, Mr. Geo. Millard as the Caliph of Bagdad, and Mr. Chas. Leamington as the Grand Vizier are all clever comedians. The specialities are excellent, including the Alhambra Girls, vocalists and dancers; Wyman, champion roller skater; "J." in The Don and the Dance; the Deroneys, acrobats, wire walkers, &c; Durney, globe walker; Farrell and Gorman, musical eccentrics; and Little Keeno, the juvenile comedian. On Tuesday night Mr. Robinson, the popular manager, was given his second complimentary benefit, when a large and fashionable gathering was present, several local ladies and gentlemen being included in the programme.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley. Mr. Geo. Dance's company is here this week with Veronique. Miss Ethel Negretti distinguishes herself in the title-rôle with a charming presence, bright vivacity, and admirable voice, and, with Mr. Roland Bottomly, whose assumption of the love-smitten youth, Florestan, is excellent, makes the hit of the piece. Miss Edith Devonshire is successful as the Countess; Miss Dora Grenville as Agatha, and Miss Neste Paurel as Denise are in every way satisfactory; and Mr. Tom Seymour as Monsieur Coquenard, Mr. Percival Knight as the bailiff, and Mr. Scott Cullen as the groom contribute largely to the success of the production, Mr. Knight being especially clever. The rest of the characters are well represented. The staging is all that could be desired, and the orchestra renders the music most creditably.

PALACE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Herbert Taylor.—Occupying the premier position here this week is the Countess Romanow, who appears in a series of poses, entitled "Iris." That she is a great artistic success is testified by packed and appreciative audiences. The Davenports, humorously described as "no-time-to-talk magicians," present an exhibition of digital dexterity; the Marvellous Days, thought-readers, submit a clever and interesting turn; Eric, with his comedy ventriloquial sketch, causes hearty laughter; Manton, who formerly lived in Derby, is a most entertaining mimic; and F. S. Hulme, comedian, adds greatly to the merriment. Katie Marsk, a charming and versatile comedienne, quickly made herself a warm favourite; and the Palace Bioscope concludes with some highly diverting films.

DEVONPORT.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Geo. S. King.—Mr. John A. Thomson's pantomime of Red Riding Hood is drawing good audiences here. Prince Allfair is represented by Miss Beatrice Varley and the heroine by Miss Ella Wilmer, who both had excellent receptions for their songs. The humorous parts are well sustained by Messrs. George Newnham, Lovell Rowland, Fred Latimer, and Fred Anderson. Mlle. Bartenelli, the American gymnast, and Palo, the boy juggler, gain great applause.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, the Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Asquith.—There seems no abatement in the popular interest in The Earl and the Girl, presented here by Mr. Wm. Greet's excellent company, under the business control of Mr. Francis Hawley. The artists, one and all, work with a right hearty goodwill, and a performance is given which yields the audience the fullest satisfaction; Mr. Alf. Donohoe is very successful as the bogus Earl of Stole, alias Jim Cheese; Mr. Thos. Kennard scores in his portrayal of Dick Wargrave, his excellent stage presence being aided by an agreeable voice admirably used. During part of the week a severe throat trouble has militated considerably against a proper appreciation of his vocal qualities. Miss Gertrude Simpson is a new-comer, not a whit the less welcome, in the rôle of Elphin Haye. She acts with appropriate sauciness and charm, and her vocal rendition of "Cosy Corner Girl" and other numbers is warmly esteemed by the audience. The pert assurance and jollity of the coster girl, Liza Shoddam, are characteristics happily realised by a clever and energetic actress, Miss Lina Hicks; the youthful freshness and naiveness of Miss Ida Stratham, whose personal charms are also no insignificant factor, make her portrayal of Daisy Fallowfield a genuine success; the irate and militant strong woman, Mrs. Shimmering Black, has in Miss Kathleen Gerrard an exponent who displays personality and skill in her work; Mr. Ernest Plumpton (a zealous stage-manager) plays the American solicitor with delightful dash; the orchestra is ably conducted by Mr. W. Stephenson.

DONCASTER.—NEW GRAND THEATRE AND EMPIRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—The reception accorded the pantomime, Cinderella, here was gratifying to all concerned. Malicio, the spirit of mischief, was a creditable effort on the part of Mr. John Syme, whose powerful baritone voice was well displayed; Miss Ethel Davies gave a piquant effort, and added interest to Sunbeam, fairy godmother, her vocalisation being also excellent; Miss Kitty Phelps as Prince Perfect, essayed the part with agreeable aplomb; the title-rôle brought out Miss Nancy Newell, who evoked the warmest admiration; Miss Bella Terry quite fulfilled the demand of Eglantine; Mr. Robert Williams as the Baron was full of comic resource; and Mr. Allen Amber and Miss Cecilia Kent, as the sisters, scored a huge success, both being extremely neat in footwork. Pimples was very well cared for in the hands of Mr. Harry Pleon, who was exceptionally smart in repartee, and gave a number of specialities, as did also Messrs. Yorick and Yorick, the latter contributing acrobatic performances and tale-telling.

DUBLIN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—The third hippodrome season was opened here on Monday night. Raku gives a clever exhibition of the Japanese art of self-defence, and is ably assisted by Miss Moto; Mr. Herbert Clifton, in his imitations of London actresses, scores a distinct success; and Annie Nelson is an accomplished operatic vocalist. A turn which causes no end of laughter is provided by Galletti's monkey comedians; and Harry Russon is a vocal comedian of considerable merit. Sanos and Montes create considerable amusement in their eccentric acrobatic act; and Les Molassos, Terpsichorean marvels, acquit themselves with every credit. Others are Bert Coote's Irish-Indian Maids, in dainty song and dance; Mignonette Kokin, eccentric dancer; Germaine, in a capital conjuring act; Bert Woodward, cycling coon; and the Royal pictures.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mrs. Michael Gunn; Manager and Secretary, Mr. Chas. Hyland.—Mr. Weedon Grossmith's company occupy the boards here this week with The Night of the Party. Mr. Sebastian Smith displays considerable ability and creates plenty of laughter in the rôle of Mr. Crosbie; and a convincing rendering of the wily Gipsy Vandelier is given by Miss Florence French. The part of Mr. Flamber has an able exponent in Mr. Douglas Munro; and Miss Beatrice Mervyn is creditable in the rôle of Lady Hampshire. Mr. Ernest Rivarz makes an exceedingly good Alderman Hargen; and the part of Pauline is successfully played by Miss Lillian Williams. The character of Sir Charles Hampshire is well sustained by Mr. Eric Farth; and Miss Lena Grantham is excellent as Mrs. Young. Mr. Frank H. Denton as Frayne, Miss Marion Lewis as Nannie Portland, Mr. Charles F. Bruce as Mr. Roundle, Mr. Stanley Arthur as Mr. Bogle, and Mr. Samuel Plinge as Captain Bleary distinguish themselves in their respective parts; and Miss Elizabeth Maud is capital as Baby Hastings.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—The principal attraction is La Milo, in a series of classical poses, which are most artistic and interesting; prominent also are the Coloured Meisters, whose vocal items are highly appreciated. Princess Pauline is a vivacious comedienne, equipped with good songs; Frazer and Mac show themselves to be clever comedians; and some excellent juggling is performed by Walter Ballonini. Harry Lawson is quite successful in his character songs; and Hettie Chatwell, burlesque actress, meets with a cordial reception. Harold Hughman displays undoubted talent as a mimic; and Harry Trevanion's company gives an exciting episode in A Bolt from the Blue. The Empire pictures are up to date.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—Clito's graceful reproduction of female statues are well received; the ventriloquial act of Fred W. Millis proves most enjoyable; the illustrated songs of Ivy Kildare receive due recognition; Marlow and Manton, in a novel sketch, Other People's Babies, evoke hearty laughter; and there are also Datas, the man of memory; Frobel and Ruge, in a comic bar act; Miss Marie Leonard, comedienne; Tom Moran, comedian; Ruby Ashton, comedienne and dancer; and the Bioscope.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—A first-rate entertainment is furnished by Walter Boyd, versatile comedian; Little Eva, coon vocalist; the Moodys, comedians and patterers; Alex Kennedy, comedian and dancer; Little Leno, boy comedian; Nellie Lloyd, comedienne; and the cinématograph.

DUNDEE.—PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Manager, Mr. E. J. Dexter.—The principal turn is that of the Dayton Family, who are old-established favourites here. Their pedestal Risley performance is exceptionally smart. Another fine show is given by the Five Abadaroffs, in their quaint comedy act, entitled Prehistoric Times; the Prinellas are successful in their attractive scena; Brought to Her Senses, a dramatic episode, is done full justice to by the Forestiers Comedy Trio; a lively and enjoyable turn is provided by Stidder and Dunbar, in The Sport and the French Girl; Frank Vallance, conjurer, fairly mystifies with his sleight-of-hand performance; and Maud Esmond is a big success as a burlesque artist. A clever exhibition of ventriloquism is given by Russell Carr; and the Bioscope is again much in evidence with a fine set of new films.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—Mr. Williams's brilliantly-successful pantomime, Mother Goose, is paying a welcome return visit this week, and many are renewing their acquaintance with this delightful production. Sam Thompson, the principal comedian, and Gertie Douglas and Wynnie Darell, the principal boy and girl respectively, repeat their former successes; while the fine singing of Michael Kemble as the Demon remains a feature of the pantomime. Several new variety turns have been introduced, including the Sisters Desmond, duettists and dancers.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—The Imperial Bioscope Company is exhibiting a large number of films here. A particularly amusing picture is that of "The Suffragettes," the antics of these "heroic" ladies causing roars of laughter. "Hiawatha," a very picturesque film, shown in twenty scenes, depicts the life of the North American Indians. Joe Thomson, a clever juggler, and Annie Ormonde, a chic comedienne and dancer, lend enjoyable variety to the entertainment.

DUNFERMLINE.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. E. Potts.—Mr. F. R. Benson's North Shakespearean company opened a week's engagement here on Monday with The Merchant of Venice. Mr. Harry Herbert gave an exceptionally fine rendering of Shylock, and fully merited the unstinting applause he received; Mr. Gerald Ames left nothing to be desired in the part of Antonio; the Bassanio of Mr. Charles Francis was artistically represented; Mr. Reginald Owen gave a capable rendering of Lorenzo; Mr. Ross Shore deserves a word of praise for his very capable representation of Launcelot Gobbo; a finer rendering of Portia than that given by Miss Dorothy Green could not be desired; Miss Mary Webb did full justice to the part of Nerissa; Miss Louise Graems was a success as Jessica; all the other parts are in able hands. Twelfth Night, Hamlet, School for Scandal, Macbeth, and Richard III. are included in the week's répertoire.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Devonshire Park and Baths Co.; Managers, Messrs. Murray, King, and Clark.—Much amusement is being caused here this week by Mr. J. B. Mulholland's company, which is appearing in The Electric Man. A very large share of the work falls to Mr. Bernard Copping, who, as the electric man, and his originator, Mr. Everest, is both clever and amusing. Mr. Sydney Lynn is happily placed as Jack Strange; Mr. Legai Robinson is distinctly successful and highly amusing as the detective, Mr. Jobbins; and Mr. Chris Grose is a satisfactory General Pomeroy. Miss Dorothy Hullah is a pleasing and sedate Mrs. Everest; Miss Gertrude Tate and Miss Isa Bellington share the honours as Stella and Mary; and Miss Amy Fanchette gets many laughs as the landlay, Mrs. Anderson. Obliging a Friend precedes the farce.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Mr. Peter Davey's company is appearing here during the week in A Bunch of Violets. A fine performance, marked by refinement and excellent judgment, is contributed by Mr. Lawrence Grant, who is in a large degree responsible for the general success; strong and individual work is done by Mr. George Blunt as Harker; Mr. W. E. Richardson is a perfectly satisfactory Mark Murgatroyd; Mr. E. Ruston gives a realistic sketch of Jacob Schwartz; and Mr. Walter MacLean and Mr. J. E. Stevenson do capital work as Lord Mount Sorrell and Harold Inglis. Mrs. Peter Davey, beautifully gowned, deserves praise as Lady Marchant; Miss Eleanor Delaporte, of very handsome presence, is a fascinating Mrs. Murgatroyd; and Miss Winifred Ingram is a pretty and girlish Violet.

ECCLES.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. C. Hamilton Baines; Manager, Mr. Albert Orton. — A strong assembly greeted Mr. Arthur Bourchier's company in The Walls of Jericho, which is being presented by Messrs. Silvanus Dauncey and M. V. Leveaux. Mr. A. E. Anson in the rôle of Jack Frobisher is received with the greatest enthusiasm; the Hankey Bannister of Mr. George A. Brandram is deserving of great credit; as the Marquis of Steventon, Mr. Cyril Baleine is clever; Miss Gladys Mason supplies a tactful impersonation of Lady Alethea Frobisher; Miss Nona Wynne is successful as Lady Lucy Derenham; Miss Marguerite Cellier is seen to advantage as Lady Westerby; and other artists deserving of mention are Mr. A. W. Tyrer, Miss Edith Cuthbert, and Miss Leonora Thomas.

EDINBURGH.—ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull. — The Compton Comedy company's week has long been one of the choice dramatic treats of the Edinburgh spring season, but the engagement this year has unfortunately been marked by Mr. Compton's inability, through hoarseness, to appear in several of his favourite characters. The School for Scandal and The Rivals were presented respectively on Monday and Tuesday evenings, Mr. Montague Compton taking his father's place in the rôles of Charles Surface and Bob Acres to the satisfaction of indulgent audiences; as Lady Teazle and Lydia Languish Miss Mackenzie increased the favourable opinions already accorded to her as an accomplished actress; Miss Phyllis Relph did well both as Lady Sneerwell and Julia; Miss Marie Hassell was a good Mrs. Candour, and perhaps a better Mrs. Malaprop; Mr. Henry Crocker rendered yeoman service in his old parts of Sir Peter Teazle and Sir Anthony Absolute; Mr. Philip Gordon made an excellent Sir Oliver Surface, and gave a clever character sketch of David in The Rivals; while Mr. Dennis Cleugh as Joseph Surface and Captain Absolute, Mr. G. Wallace Johnston as Crabtree and Sir Lucius O'Trigger, and other members of the cast lent efficient aid. The répertoire for the week included Davy Garrick, Edmund Kean, She Stoops to Conquer, and Mr. Montague Compton's new comedy, The Gentleman in Grey.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead. —The closing nights of the Babes in the Wood pantomime have been marked by the customary farewell demonstrations of large and enthusiastic audiences, and all concerned may be congratulated on the success of their efforts in maintaining the popularity of the production undiminished through what has been a brilliant season. Miss Gwladys Elvey and Miss Daisy Dormer as Robin Hood and Maid Marion, with Miss Galdys Cooper, Miss Mildred Claire, and Miss Edna Loftus, in less exacting rôles, have taken their full share of honours; the dancing of Miss Lottie Stone's troupe has been an attractive feature; the juvenile performers, Baby Betty Green, Wee Wallace, and Nipper Lupino Lane, have shown great aptitude for their respective parts; while the comedians, Mr. Harry Lupino, Mr. Harry Conlin, the Brothers Egbert, and the Baron Mark Sheridan, have worked with a will in their happiest vein. The last-named took his well-earned benefit on Friday evening before a crowded house.

KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard. —Pantomime has given place to musical comedy, and The Blue Moon, another production of Mr. Robert Courtneidge, holds the stage of the King's Theatre this week. Miss Florence Imeson as Millicent Leroy is the life and soul of the piece, and acts and sings with immense vivacity and humour; Mr. Reginald Smith is very droll as Private Charles Taylor; and Mr. Alfred Beers ably supports the fun as Moolraj, the idol maker and juggler; Mr. J. E. Fraser is a manly Captain Jack Ormsby, and his songs are admirably rendered; Miss Clarice Lockstone plays with considerable charm as Chandra Nil, and sings with taste and expression; amongst other members of a large cast, excellent work is done by Mr. Alfred Clark as Major Callabone, Mr. George Mudie, jun., as Bobby Scott, Mr. Thomas Halding as the Prince, Miss Maud Schwitz as Oma, and Miss Christine Ferris as Ramah.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Parham Wells.—Mr. George Gray and company head a strong bill this week with the powerful dramatic sketch, Parson Gray, V.C., which is carried through with realistic effect in a vigorous and exciting fashion. Another good turn is provided by Carlos Cæsaro, juggler, gymnast, and professional strong man, whose feats are truly astounding; Marzella's Birds, too, give a marvellous performance, more remarkable in some respects than any previous exhibition of the kind; the excellent singing of Park's Seven Eton Boys is most enjoyable, affording a delightful entertainment, and securing repeated encores; an extraordinary series of balancing feats is given by the Maningoes; the Three Tauberts show great skill as xylophonists, their clever playing being loudly applauded; Burns and Burns present a breezy turn, entitled Fun in a Museum; while Miss Lily Tiso, comedienne and dancer, and Mr. Ed. E. Forde, the Australian sundowner, are experts in their special lines. The American Bioscope completes a good programme.

EXETER. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford. — Mr. Eugene C. Stafford's company is here this week with the well-known comedy The Private Secretary, and, as usual, it is drawing crowded houses. All the characters are well sustained. In the part of the Rev. Robert Spalding Mr. Donald Price-Evans is extremely funny; while Mr. W. Hargreaves as Mr. Cattermole is splendid. Mr. Randolfe Reade is decidedly good as Douglas Cattermole; and Mr. James P. E. Hussey does well as Harry Marsland. Mr. Vivian Gilbert is amusing as Mr. Gibson; and Mrs. Alfred Davis ably sustains the part of Miss Ashford. Miss Dorothy Shawe and Miss Beth Elliott are both good in their respective parts of Edith Marsland and Eva Webster. The farce My American Admirer makes a capital curtain-raiser, in which Mr. W. T. Elworthy scores a distinct success as Petroleum G. Hooker.

FALKIRK.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE. —Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's company was here on Monday in My Sweetheart, with Miss Minnie Palmer as Tina; Miss Palmer made a decided hit; Tony found a capable exponent in Mr. Robert H. Howard; Miss Mildred Sylvestre as Mrs. Fleeter took the part of the adventuress with much ability, and Mr. Fred W. Leonard brought out well the characteristic touches of her abandoned husband, Joe Shotwell; Mr. Richard Elliott took the part of Dr. Oliver with dignity and graciousness. On Thursday evening the detective drama, £1000 Reward, was presented by Mr. Frank J. Pitt and Mr. Charles Halling's company.

FLEETWOOD.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. H. Snelson. — This week Messrs. Kloof and Fields present their grand pantomime, Aladdin, to crowded houses. The title-rôle is taken by Miss Cissy Ramsey, a clever actress and singer, and she is ably supported by Miss Florence Lewis as the Princess, who charms everyone with her dancing and singing. Little Billy Kloof, as the Widow Twankey, causes much laughter; so also does Mr. F. C. Fields as Abanazar; and Bert Lizorie is good as the Grand Vizier. There is some capital juggling by Hason.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Hardie and Von Leer's company, in Two Little Vagabonds, is the attraction here this week. Mr. Arthur E. Melborne submits a powerful embodiment of George Thornton; Mr. Dunstan Haye does full justice to the part of John Scarth; Mr. Sidney Vautier is well suited as Captain Darville; Mr. Lionel Ellis gives a clever portrayal of the rogue, Bill Mullins; and Mr. Frank Gordon and Mr. Dick Winslow render capable assistance as Dido Bunce and the Cough Drop. Miss Grace Heywood is a clever impersonator of the difficult part of Marion Thornton; Miss Rosslyn Vayne is an excellent Barbara Scarth; Biddy Mullins is faithfully depicted by Miss Evelyn Shaw; and the Two Little Vagabonds have capable representatives in Miss Edie Martin as Dick and Miss Josie Beltram as Wally. The Hambourg Trio gave a matinée performance on Tuesday to an appreciative audience.

GAINSBOROUGH.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Stear.—Last week we had a visit from The Manxman. Mr. Alfred B. Cross gave his well-known and clever rendering of Pete, and he was well supported by Miss Minnie Watersford as Kate. Cesar Creegan had an excellent representative in Mr. Frank Etheridge. This week we have Messrs. Armadale and Warren's company in The Face at the Window. The sensational elements of this drama are well brought out by the company, foremost amongst whom are Mr. Scott Leighton as the Wolf, Mr. T. W. Dunscombe (Paul Gouffet), Mr. Gilbert Hall, Miss Marie Barrett, and Miss Marie Tennant.

GATESHEAD. — KING'S THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; General-Manager, Mr. Harold Arnold.—The "heavy-typers" here this week are the Two Bees (Harry and Flora Beake), in what is described as an "allegorical" scena named The Man in the Moon. Jimson's novelty sketch, entitled The Burglar's Surprise, in which three very cleverly trained dogs are introduced, is loudly applauded. Salida and Vone, two "panto" favourites, get an enthusiastic welcome; Webb and Edna Branstone, operatic duettists, submit a high-class turn; the Chronophone (Gaumont's patent) introduces delightful singing pictures; the Bonanzas are hand-balancing experts; the Zano Bros., comedy triple-bar performers, win deserved praise; a clever comedian, E. J. Wilkes, is assisted by a well-trained dog; and Kitty Beresford, comedienne, and pictures by Vernon's Imperial Bioscope complete a very entertaining programme.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Coun. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France. — Messrs. Edmunds and Dipple's comic pantomime The Babes in the Wood is here on a week's stay. Prince Radiant receives excellent treatment at the hands of Miss Rose Hamilton, whose singing and dancing win for her high praise; Miss Lucy Lynch makes a very demure Princess; Miss Patti Bella is a vivacious Second Boy; and a charming Dolly Daydream is discovered in the person of Miss Ada Martine. Mr. Edmund Edmunds, who produces the pantomime, gets through a deal of hard work as Sammy Softun, being ably assisted by Messrs. Jas. Albert (Hardface), Bernard and Weston, Mark Tapley, and Willie Albert. The Babes are capitally impersonated by Misses Blanche Albert and Ada Merry. The Ten Dixie Girls are a troupe of excellent singers and dancers.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Coun. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—Mr. A. Clifton Alderson's company is presenting here Held Apart, by Frank Adair. Mr. Leonard Lawrence gives a polished rendering of John Douglass; Mr. A. W Norman makes the most of Captain Ford; and Mr. H. K. Ayliff submits a sound impersonation of James Douglass. The play is especially rich in comedy, the chief part in this line being Andrew McPherson, a typical Scot faithfully portrayed by Mr. Robert B. Drysdale; Mr. Hugh Trevor, another comedy part, is filled with credit by Mr. E. G Batley; Miss Ruby Loncraine as Sybil Grey is responsible for a delightful piece of work; Miss Ethyle Murray is an excellent Countess de Castro; Lady Grant is well played by Miss Winifred Love; and Miss Gertrude Homewood is successful as Lily Granville-Stark.

GLASGOW.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphrys.—The Morals of Marcus is the attraction here for the present week, and an effective performance of the play is given by the company provided by Mr. Bourchier. Mr. H. Nye Chart takes the part of Sir Marcus Ordeyne, and presents a very convincing picture of the self-centred philosopher's struggles against love and passion. The rôle of Carlotta is also very well filled, Miss Hilda Antony having the necessary talent and appearance for depicting the trials of the beautiful Eastern waif; Mr. David Domville's impersonation of the polished worldling, Pasquale, is an admirable bit of work; Mr. A. H. Leveaux, who is the director of the company, gives a very telling sketch of Hamdi Effendi; the parts of Stenson (Mr. Cecil Brooking) and Tremlett (Mr. W. Swinburne) are also well filled. Judith Mainwaring is portrayed with strong dramatic effect by Mrs. H. Nye Chart; Miss Mary Weigall gives character to the rôle of Mrs. Ordeyne; a handsome Dora Ordeyne is found in Miss Gladys Purnell; the French cook, Antoinette, is amusingly played by Miss Eleanor Gilbart; Miss Hilda Saxe makes a pleasing Maid; and three attractive society ladies are represented by Miss Conyers Radcliffe, Miss Mary O'Neill, and Miss Evelyn Summers.

KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane. —The Moody-Manners opera company are paying their first visit to this theatre for their annual two weeks' spring season. Wagner's Tannhäuser was the opening work, and was interesting because of the first performance of the Parisian version, which, to many musical experts, on Monday evening gave much gratification and delight, the entire performance being as fine a one as the company have ever given in Glasgow. Mr. Joseph O'Mara, as Tannhäuser, gave quite a brilliant rendering of the part, musically and dramatically; Mme. Fanny Moody as Elizabeth was equally successful, her pure and brilliant voice and charming acting proving irresistible to the audience, who applauded heartily; Mr. Lewys James as Wolfram and Mr. Charles Magrath as the Landgrave were conspicuously successful; while Miss Toni Seiter as Venus and Miss Burns as the Shepherd lent admirable aid in a fine performance. Messrs. Halpin, Tattersall, Brindle, and Johnston completed a fine cast, and the orchestra and full chorus, conducted by Herr Richard Eckhold, roused the enthusiasm of the audience in the overture and "Hail, bright abode" respectively. The Merry Wives of Windsor was finely staged and performed on Tuesday, with Mr. Charles Manners, Miss Kate Anderson, and Mlle. Zelie de Lussan in the chief parts. This opera, owing to the large booking, was again down for performance on Friday. Other well-known operas were given during the week, and the performance of Aida was postponed till Wednesday next.

ROYALTY, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie. —Mr. J. Maundy-Gregory this week introduces the admirable play, Lights Out. Mr. Lionel D'Arragon gives a striking portrayal of the old sergeant, Volkhardt; Mr. Richard Fielding acts well as Corporal Helbig; and Mr. Charles Esdale ably suggests the mental agon

T. Morton Powell's company is here this week playing Honour Thy Father, in which Mr. Walter M. Cameron ably depicts Gabriel Garth, the kindly old farmer; while the part of his misguided daughter, Lillian, is pathetically rendered by Miss Mabel Coleman; and that of Miss Garth is portrayed with much feeling by Miss Kate Newton. Mr. Bertram H. Ross gives a dashing impersonation of Captain Jack Halyard. Villainy is so vividly expressed by Mr. W. R. Winning as Duncan Bly that the wrath of the gallery is evoked; Miss Ada Salmon as a country girl gives a fine touch of humour to the character, ably assisted by Mr. W. H. Melrose as a country lad. Miss Muriel Dean is a charming exponent of Mercy Merry; and Miss Maud Grey is also good as Violet Wilfred. A strong impersonation of a mad genius is given by Mr. Claude Merton, who also doubles the part of Job Merry. The phonograph, with Edison-Bell records, fills up some intervals between the acts.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—The new American actor, Mr. Junius Booth, who was at the Metropole last week, is this week stirring the pulses of the Govan playgoers in his own version of Monte Cristo.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. Mussett.—A first-rate programme here includes Bransby Williams, fresh from his successes at the Royal pantomime. His imitation of Sir Charles Wyndham is lifelike, and he embodies several Dickens characters in excellent style. Frank and Jen Latona are great favourites here, and their comedy and musical items are heartily enjoyed; Surrie Lyndon's Monks at Play sketch is well done, and the quartette who take part are first-rate vocalists. Joseph B. Montague and Miss Alys Hardy appear in a racing sketch, The Welsher Welshed, which should work up well; Frank and Marie Free give an amusing comedy turn; Redmond Brothers are smart acrobatic comedians; Carney and Armstrong cause hearty laughter with their rehearsal sketch; and Harry Clifford, Renard Trio, and Gaumont's Chronophone complete a varied list of attractions.

ZOO-HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. N. Bostock.—Mr. John F. Preston and company give a condensed version of that well-known drama, Rogues of the Turf. Mr. Preston as Joe Flaxman, the trainer, gives a realistic portrayal; and Hilda Shirley presents a sympathetic rendering of Nellie Somerton, the trainer's ward. De Witt, Burns, and Torrance are humorous in their original sketch, The Awakening of Toys. George Young, the blind musician, gives a very pleasing performance on different instruments, and was well received by the audience. The Eight Mascottes win hearty appreciation for their singing and dancing; Sybil St. Elmo, soprano vocalist, renders her numbers with charm and finish; Harry Cove and company, in a military sketch, The Young Recruit; Le Cren Trio, eccentric burlesque artists; Silly Billy Elliot, comedian; and the Three Careys, Australian entertainers, are very successful in their respective performances.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—The bill here is topped by W. F. Frame, "the man you know," who gives several eccentric Scotch songs in his own peculiar style, and is accorded a hearty reception. Alice Pierce is a dainty American comedienne, who impersonates stars of the variety and the serious stage; Sammy Shields comes provided with several new items, and, in response to an imperative demand, gives his football speciality. The D'Ostas are a very clever trio at acrobatic tumbling and on the flying rings; Doody and Wright are popular favourites, and their eccentric comedy turn is very good; and Tom Stuart contributes several striking impersonations, including that of Gaspard in Le Cloches de Corneville. Three Brothers Huxter, smart acrobats; Lena Wylie, soprano vocalist; and Bert Marsden, comedian, complete an attractive bill.

COLISEUM. — Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Burdette.—Kate Carney, the coster queen, tops the bill here, and her "'Liza Johnson" scena goes as well as ever; the Stein-Eretto troupe give a smart display of jumping; Mina Brae, from the Royal pantomime, again proves herself a nimble dancer; Simms and Simms, the musical comedians, always take well, their turn being very clever; R. T. Meikle's illustrated songs; Professor Vox, ventriloquist; the sketch, Christmas Eve, by Irve Hayman and Little Marie Montague; Fred Stuart, comedian; and the two Chinese Princesses, in their ladder-balancing act, are also attractive turns on a lengthy programme.

PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Rich. Waldon; General-Manager, Mr. Harry M'Kelvie.—An unusually interesting programme this week includes some notable performers. Marie Kendal, comedienne, is the outstanding attraction, and had a rousing reception from a full house on the opening night, her several songs being rendered with artistic finish; Martin Conway, comedian, also made a good impression, his humorous songs being thoroughly enjoyed. Other interesting turns include the Two Rubies, vocalists and dancers; Katos's automatic theatre; Vasey and Ramsey, comedians and dancers; Steve M'Carthy, comedian; Leotard Brothers, comical clowns; Frank Boyce, vocal comedian; the Two Jays, comedians; and the Bioscope with a select series of pictures.

GAIETY, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. H. Howard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Bowerman.—The Stavordale Quintette make a fine appearance in their banjo and harp selections, which are heartily applauded. Lindsay and Hart are seen in a capital sketch, depicting Scottish character; and "The Early Birds" revive memories by the medium of Bendon's Bioscope. Bertha Norwood is a clever comedienne and dancer; and Nell Brough excels as a sifflеur. The Three Cheers give merry entertainment in a pleasing sketch; Fred Lyndo scores as an eccentric comedian; and Mitchel, described as a soprano vocalist, wins appreciation; the Izons, in The Captain and the Mate, give a breezy nautical turn, and share much applause with the others of the company. Good houses are the rule.

GLOUCESTER.— PALACE. — Owners, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—Duncan's Royal Scotch Collies prove themselves marvels of canine sagacity, and are deservedly applauded; the two ladies who style themselves Tennis and Laune present a capital vocal scena, entitled Chapters from Life; and the Macgregors are expert xylophonists and instrumentalists. Miss Marie Blythe has a nice contralto voice, and scores with her songs; Andy Fagan is an Irish comedian of ability; and Miss Lily Lena is a lively singer and dancer. Messrs. Cline and Clarke are a very agile pair, who make a hit with their dancing; Mr. Charley Dixon, eccentric, meets with a favourable reception; as does also Miss Kate Lynd, comedienne. The Bioscope shows new films.

GRAVESEND.—NEW PUBLIC HALL AND THEATRE.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. R. Feaver Clarke.—Mr. J. A. Thomson's pretty pantomime, Jack and the Beanstalk, was here for the first three nights of the week. The dresses and scenery were in every way commendable, and the piece went with considerable "go." Miss Edith Wallis in the title-rôle sang and acted in a most taking style; Miss Maggie Allwood as Jill was both winsome and clever; Britannia found a capital exponent in Miss Ella Rose, her singing being greatly applauded; as Johnny Horner Miss G. Mansell did well; and as Little Bo-Peep Miss N. Stewart deserves praise. The Sir Peter Piffin of Mr. W. Bosco was decidedly funny, as was the Mother Hubbard of Mr. H. Harcourt; Mr. T. Worth as Tommy Tucker and Mr. P. Galino as Billy Piper also created great merriment, the latter rendering a good bone solo, with an anvil chorus, with marked success.

GRAND THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. David Hart.—Katie Lawrence, the well-known comedienne, is the star turn here this week; Walker and May, real coons, render some good native songs; Les Frasettis, in their musical speciality performance, are highly pleasing; George Leonard, as a comedian, is very successful; Maude Macdonald, "the girl in tartan," sings tastefully; Dudley Hayes does well; and Clive and Clare, in their amusing sketch, The Other Mrs. Brown, prove a thoroughly good turn.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—ROYAL AQUARIUM—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company is here this week with the new romantic drama, A Warning to Women. Mr. Mill effectively takes the rôle of the wandering minstrel, Shaun; Mr. Henry Rutland is successful as Squire Kennion; Dr. Marcus Dread finds an earnest and virile exponent in Mr. Charles Vivian; Fergus McNaughton is well represented by Mr. Wilson Benge; Mr. George Harvey is good as the Rev. Emmanuel Wallace; and Mr. N. Carter Slaughter exceedingly droll as Lord Eversleigh. Miss Rosalind Tate gives a sympathetic rendition of the rôle of Moira Kennion; Sheila is capitally enacted by Miss Grace Barton; Miss Ellen Beverley contributes a clever character-study as Molly O'Moore; and Miss Edith Rutland ably depicts Miles O'Moore.

GREENOCK.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Greenock Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—Human Hearts is being presented here by Mr. Robert Macdonald's company, under the direction of Mr. W. J. Robertson. Mr. W. D. Fazan is seen to great advantage as Tom Logan; Mr. Ernest Gray is sufficiently villainous as Frederick Armsdale; Mr. E. H. Dobell is admirable as Jem Mason; Jimmy Logan has a good exponent in Mr. Fred Lester; and Deputy-Warder Weston is humorously presented by Mr. Hendry Walton. Jeannette Logan is strongly and skilfully portrayed by Miss Maud Lindon; Miss Dora Watson is a capable Ruth Larkins; and Little Grace Logan is cleverly undertaken by Miss Reana Roberts.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—Plantation songs, choruses, and dances, as performed by Billy McClain and company, American coons, are much appreciated; as comedy acrobats the Three De Veres arouse much laughter; some taking comedy comes from Chant and Chant; Ted Saunders gives clever imitations. Other notable items include Phinas and Aida, novelty equilibrists; Zaid, a wonderful contortionist; "Following in Father's Footsteps," by the cinematograph; and a laughable blindfold boxing competition, conclude a good show.

PAVILION THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. A. White.—The enterprise of the management here in securing Miss Victoria Monks has been amply rewarded, and the popular comedienne has been a decided success; Lily Sharplin shows herself to be a clever mimic of musical celebrities; the Paragon Trio are highly successful as speciality vocalists; Stanley and Vandyke amuse with their novel sketch, On the Shelf; A Silly Burglar is the title of another laughable sketch presented by the Waldrons; Millie Howell sings sweetly; and Williams and Warden, a clever pair of cross-talk comedians, also keep the audience well entertained.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Chairman of Directors, Mr. H. J. Curry; Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry.—The revival of the late Wilson Barrett's play, Claudian, is very welcome. Mr. Wm. Maclaren admirably realises the personality of the Byzantian patrician, and his dignified bearing adds to the success of his work. Miss Lily C. Bandmann also wins complete approval for her representation of Almida. The cast is a large one, and among those assisting materially in the success of the revival are Mr. Douglas Earle as the sturdy blacksmith Agazil, Mr. F. Owen Chambers as the tyrannic Tetrarch, and Mr. Ulick Burke as the Hermit; whilst the entertaining comedy parts of Edessa and Belos are played by Miss Maud Garth and Mr. C. T. Challoner.

CURRY'S TIVOLI.—Chairman of Directors, Mr. H. J. Curry; Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—Barton and Ashley are the cause of much hilarity. Their turn comprises an abundance of eccentric comedy, coupled with smart dancing. Florence Yuman scores with her burlesque coon impersonations, whilst the droll manner of Mike Gray, who is also a clever juggler, is another amusing feature. Further fun is provided by the Brown and Kelly combination in a sketch, The Butler's Baby, and by Victor Travers, comedian. The Grays give excellent vocal duets, which are well received; Charlie Jerome sings coon songs; Henri Cazman presents realistic impersonations; and Blanche Holt is a pleasing comedienne.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. V. Allton.—The daring cycling speciality of the Three Demons is causing more than ordinary interest. They perform difficult feats whilst mounted upon bicycles ridden on a rapidly-revolving track suspended in mid-air. A novel sketch, The Way to Win a Bet, is presented by Marie Jones, who impersonates the whole of the characters herself. A dramatic incident illustrating a fight in a forge with heavy sledge-hammers, is contributed by E. Wordley Hulse and company. Walter King scores a success as a comedian; Hesketh Meade sings good songs illustrated by animated pictures; Maude Laverne, a burlesque actress, introduces excellent business; and the Esdale Brothers are responsible for a budget of amusing patter.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. Edmund Tearle's repertory company once more occupies the stage here with Shakespearian and other well-known tragedies. Othello was presented on Tuesday to an enthusiastic audience. Mr. Tearle gave a meritorious representation of the title-rôle, and was loudly applauded at the final fall of the curtain; as Iago, Mr. Bernardt Turner got the most out of the character, being especially praiseworthy in his scenes with the Moor; Cassio has an excellent interpreter in Mr. Clifford Marle; while Mr. J. Cooke Hinton made the most of his opportunities as the impetuous Brabantio; Miss Esther Tearle (who is rapidly coming to the front) was an admirable Desdemona, her enunciation being exceptionally good. Virginius, Ingomar, Jeanie Deans, Hamlet, and The Three Musketeers are in the week's bill.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—A good vaudeville bill is again presented here successfully. The Tally Ho Trio hold the premier position, and their sweet singing is received with acceptance; Selbon's miniature circus, however, is the feature of the performance, the feats performed bringing down the house; Chas. Torbay is very entertaining with his humorous contributions; Keith and Merson, comedians, Jane Temple, a Yankee comedienne, and Letine, a speciality artist, give a good acount of themselves, as do the Czar Troupe, acrobatic dancers.

HANLEY. — ROYAL, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Douglas Elphinstone.—Mr. George Alexander's company is paying a return visit in that successful play, His House in Order. Miss Auriol Lee contributes a most artistic and finished reading as Nina; as Hilary Jesson Mr. Stephen T. Ewart is admirable; Mr. J. Edward Pearce is well placed as Filmer Jesson; Miss Elaine Steddall submits a clever impersonation of Geraldine Ridgley; as Mlle. Thome Miss Jean Cadell gives a most intelligent reading; Miss Carmen Woods as Derek is all that could be desired; Mr. Luke Forster makes a capital Dr. Dilnott; as Sir Daniel Ridgeley Mr. Herbert Lomas plays naturally, and with success; Mr. Ernest R. Holloway makes a good Pryce Ridgeley; Mr. Charles Tyrel's portrayal of Major Maurewarde is first-class; Messrs. Langford Browne and J. Douglas Campbell do well in the respective parts of Harding and Forshaw; Miss Augusta Haviland contributes a clever reading of Lady Ridgeley.

GRAND.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes.—A capital all-round programme is submitted this week. The premier position is held by Wilbur Hill and Willette Whitaker, who contribute an excellent turn, consisting of vocal items and some fine instrumental work; Oswald Williams shows some exceptionally clever illusions, which are much appreciated; the Vernon Troupe are seen in a smart musical act; Rizeni and Robini in their comedy gymnastic act are both clever and funny; the Wheelers cause roars of laughter in their amusing cycle act; Ted Cowan sings a couple of capital songs; Queenie May does well; and Herbert Madden is successful. The pictures are, as usual, interesting.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Fielding Smith. — This week Mr. John Tiller's company is here in Aladdin. Miss Jessie Wilton is a dashing Aladdin, although handicapped by a bad cold; Mr. Fred Dark is good as the dame. The chief honours go to Mr. Harry Elliston as Abanazar; throughout he is most amusing, and has good support in his burlesque drama from Miss Maud St. John, who is a dainty Ting Ling. As Schnapps, Little Britton evokes great laughter; Miss Clara Beck as Princess Balroubadour, is well placed; Mr. Harry Morgan scores especially in his dances; the Schiavonys Troupe are clever acrobats, and well deserve the applause which fall to their share.

HARTLEPOOL. — EMPRESS. — Proprietors, Messrs. Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charlie Ferrier.—The Silvertone Quartette give fine renderings of several concerted pieces; vocal imitations of musical instruments by Erneste are successful; Frank Coyle sings his latest songs in capital style; the comedy acrobatic act by Lavelle Brothers evokes much laughter; Bert Bowden is a quaint comedian; a success is achieved by Elsie Earle in her song scena, Holly and Mistletoe; Master May, a clever boy vocalist, makes a decided hit; the wire and cycling feats of Sam Johnson and Miss De Vere in their pot-pourri act are performed with astounding dexterity; and the pictures are a marked attraction.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—A crowded house was attracted to the first performance here on Monday of Mrs. Henry de la Pasture's comedy, Peter's Mother, presented by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company. Miss Ruth Mackay as Lady Mary Crewys won well-deserved applause; Mr. Charles Harley was a convincing Sir Timothy; Mr. Percy Hutchison was admirable as the unconsciously selfish Peter; excellent comedy was supplied by Miss Mary Griffiths and Mrs. Mallalieu as Lady Belstone and Miss Crewys respectively; Miss Hilda Honiss played delightfully as Sarah Hewell; and John Crewys had a capable exponent in Mr. Eille Norwood. Effective assistance was rendered respectively by Mr. Drew Mackintosh as Dr. Blundell and Mr. William Mallalieu as Canon Birch; and Miss Ethel Royale as Mrs. Hewell. The comedy was preceded by Chalk and Cheese.

ST. LEONARDS PAVILION THEATRE.—Pier Master and Entertainment Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—Lovers of Shakespeare are enjoying a treat this week in the appearance of Mr. Nugent Monck and his talented dramatic company. The early part of the week was devoted to The Merchant of Venice, in which Miss Bruce Potter took the part of Portia in a charming manner; Miss Kathleen Stuart quite realised the character of Jessica; Mr. Gordon Bailey gave a capital portrait of Shylock; Mr. E. Ham did some finished work in the dual parts of Tubal and Old Gobbo, Lancelot Gobbo, being well taken by Mr. Nugent Monck; Mr. F. Morland successfully impersonated Antonio; Bassanio was well played by Mr. Leslie Hamer; and Mr. Edward Coutts was an intelligent Lorenzo. The Taming of the Shrew, Twelfth Night, and Romeo and Juliet are also in the répertoire.

HEREFORD.—DRILL HALL.—Manager, Mr. A. Lovesey.—A crowded house greeted the first performance of Mr. Mouillot's company in The Blue Moon. Mlle. Marguerite Naudin, with her fine voice and graceful acting, is a delightful Chandra; a capital Private Taylor is seen in Mr. Charles Stephenson, who works exceedingly hard; Miss May Audrey is a fascinating Millie, her acting, singing, and dancing achieving a remarkable success; Mr. Victor Wallace's excellent tenor voice contributes greatly to his success as Major Callabon; the dignified Lady Brabasham is well embodied by Miss Mary Glanbrane; Miss Dorma Morgan is a charming Evelyn, and is a pleasing singer; Mr. F. W. Bowes gives a very amusing rendering of Moolraj; the chorus and orchestra are kept well in hand by Mr. Robinson.

HUDDERSFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton, Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Andrews.—The Silver King, here for the week, met with a thoroughly well-deserved appreciation on Monday. The fine old drama was presented most capably by a company which includes Mr. Fred D. Daviss as Denver, Miss Daisy Scudamore as Nellie Mr. Edward J. George as Jaikes; Mr. L. St. John Lowther as the Spider; Mr. Geo. Belmore as Corkett; Mr. Arthur Wright as Coombe; Mr Warriss Lindon as Cripps, Mr. Byron Pedley as Baxter and Miss Viola Holland as Olive, the Spider's wife. The play is very well staged and the accessories are admirable.

HIPPODROME, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—At the top of the bill are the Two Butterflies, a pair of daring youngsters on the trapeze. Also appearing are Carl Rosine, a clever conjurer; the Three Sisters Chester, in song and dance, accompanying themselves on mandoline and banjo; J. W. Mace, comedian; the Three Panamas, an original and clever little troupe of acrobats; the Tennessee Guards, in a series of smartly-executed drill evolutions; Heteb, illusionist; Lennie and Hast, in their original sketch, The Sea Nymph; and pictures on the Biograph.

HULL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Mr. Morton has struck oil with Mr. Popple, of Ippleton, and it is a long time since laughter so bright and unrestrained has been heard in the theatre. In the title-rôle Mr. Arthur Longley is decidedly droll; and in strange contrast to La Bolero, so daintily and vivaciously suggested by Miss Millie Hylton; ever a favourite here, she has even increased her popularity. Miss Cora Lingard is full of go as Violet Brinton. As the wives Miss Alice Reme and Miss Stella St. Audrie are highly amusing. The chorus is strong and well trained, the dresses exceedingly pretty, the scenic effects good, the music "fetchy," and the vocal items well chosen.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Resident-Manager, Mr Wynn Miller.—Once more pantomime reigns supreme, Mr. Jas. Kiddie's Dick Whittington holding the boards. The production is bright, the songs well chosen, and the dresses of distinctive charm. A pleasing Dick is Miss Adele Roze, and Miss Leah Laurie meets with an instantaneous success with her song, "Is it you, Mr. Brown?" Miss Florence Hilton is an acceptable Sir Algernon de Mash, as Idle Jack Mr. A. Kendal contrives to keep the house very well amused, and the whole production has met a very hearty reception.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Mortons, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—It is some time now since The Still Alarm, fresh from Yankeeland, made its first bow to a Hull audience, but despite that fact each visit sees its patrons increasing. The dumb actors, the horses and dog, come in for no little share of applause. Mr. M. H. Glenville is all that one asks from brave Jack Manley, the fireman. Miss Maud Warburton is a most charming heroine. For the benefit of the patrons of the early doors Mr. Morton has introduced a cinematograph show, which is to be henceforth a permanent feature.

HYDE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. R. Feather.—This week the two performances a night system is being adopted with fair success. The bill is headed by the one-legged Donatos, whose unique and skilful performance is vociferously applauded; Meir and Mora give an athletic and vocal entertainment in pleasing style; the funny Millons are clever rink skaters; Miss Nellie Duval is a dashing vocalist; the comical Smaleys introduce plenty of fun into their feats on the horizontal bars; Little Zola is an exceedingly funny comedian, and scores heavily; Erne and Ernest are clever and funny acrobats; the Royal Juveniles give a smart performance, in which songs and dances are introduced; the Bros. Denton, duettists, are well received, and plenty of fun is created by the antics of the competitors in a comic obstacle race. The Bioscope pictures are as popular as ever.

OHMY'S CIRCUS.—James Jee is attracting large crowds here by his marvellous feats on the wire; Du Caleon is as popular as ever in his ladder sensation; Madame De Vena is an expert juggler; Mons. Wilfred Gregory is rightly described "the boneless wonder"; Alec Aubrey gives a skilful gymnastic display; and the acrobatic feats on horseback by the Three Ohmys, and the leaping act by Claude Ohmy never fail to rouse applause. August and September appear in some new sketches, and create roars of laughter, and Little Bishop is also very comical in the clowning line. Obstacle races and riding contests have provided plenty of fun, and Ohmy's living pictures continue to afford enjoyment.

ILKESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—The pantomime, Goody Two Shoes is being played here by Mr. Charles Chard's company. The Goody Two Shoes of Miss Annie Casey is an excellent performance, and Miss Adeline Yohlie is pleasing as Roland. Miss Lily Bronson as Dolly Dimple is much applauded for her graceful and clever dancing; as the fairy, Miss Hawthorne Thwaites is successful, and Miss Julie Fuller appears to advantage as Mephisto. Mr. James Kurry as Sammy Sopps is the life and soul of the pantomime, his quaint manner being thoroughly enjoyed; whilst Mr. James Topping comes in for a fair share of honours as Simple Simon. Mr. Tom Sinclair adds greatly to the fun as Dame Freckles, and Messrs. Sword and Robb as Phil and Tom, work well. Mr. Frank Knowles is a suitable Baron Grabb.

QUEEN'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. T. Knightall.—The programme here includes, this week, a series of Rayograph pictures, Vosper, the facial artist; Sabino, instrumentalist; Gladys Welford, vocalist; Chas. Bradford, comedian; Brenda Leslie, contralto; and Leonard Gale, comedian.

IPSWICH.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Leonard Grey.—Mr. Allan Wilkie's company has been playing a round of Shakespearean pieces and others, fulfilling a nine days' engagement. Othello was produced on Monday night, Mr. Wilkie making a very favourable impression in the character of the Moor; the character of Desdemona was rendered in a tender and pathetic manner by Miss Carrie Baillee; Miss Ine Cameron gave a spirited impersonation of Emilia; and Miss F. Hunter Watts was an efficient Bianca. The rôle of Iago was undertaken by Mr. G. A. Marsh, who gave a forcible picture of a calculating villain; and Mr. Herbert Morgan gave an effective representation of Cassio. The other parts were capably filled. During the engagement As You Like It, Macbeth, Hamlet, Merchant of Venice, and School for Scandal have been produced.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Bob Hutt's No. 1 company is here with an amusing sketch, called Welcome Home. Edgar Budden gives a clever solo on the bones, and shows himself to be an expert on the roller skates. Blanche and Powell are musical comedians of merit; and the De Breans execute some clever juggling. Other turns are those of Cambo, a musical mannikey; Raymond and Colby, patter singers and dancers; George Seeley and Jenny Dowton, vocalists; and the Herald Comedy Four.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jerold E. Reed.—This week Miss Maud Hildyard is paying a farewell visit with The Great Awakening. Mr. A. C. Hardie is good as James Selby; Mr. F. Liston does justice to the part of Jack Merton; Miss Maud Hildyard proves herself a capable actress as Lola Selby, being ably assisted by Mr. Stephen Langton as Guy Rogan, an adventurer; Mr. Gordon McLeod makes a manly Captain Harry Lambert; Miss Doris Digby a charming Molly Merton; and Mr. J. H. Booth is quite at home as Richard Wilson. Mr. Willie Scott and Miss Lilla Nordon cause much amusement as Billy Brass and Selina Worts; and Mr. Tracy Barrow is droll as Antoine. The scenery and dresses are excellent.

KEIGHLEY.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Carson and Kendall; Acting-Manager, Mr. Will Carson.—The boards are occupied this week by Messrs. Hamilton Warden and Chas. Sanford's company in A Woman's Past. Miss Maisie Hanbury, in the rôle of Bessie, plays the part most satisfactorily; Mr. Henry Hargreaves acts impressively as David Heath; Mr. Charles Sandford is a delightful Frank Dellanay; Clement Harper is played with telling effect by Mr. Hamilton Warden; Mr. G. Moreton Williams acts ably as Uriah Craven; Miss Phyllis Moncton is a charming Kate; and Miss Eva Bertram displays ability as Clara Darrell.

KIDDERMINSTER.—NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. C. Gudgeon.—On Monday Miss Florence Glossop-Harris, supported by Mr. Frank Cellier, jun., and company commenced a week's engagement with Twelfth Night. Mr. Cellier, jun., gives a striking display of acting as Orsini; Mr. Geo. Jones ably portrays the character of Sebastian; Mr. Percy H. Vernon of Miss F. Glossop-Harris, whose acting is pleasing to all. On Tuesday and Friday Camille was played, on Wednesday Carmen, and on Thursday Much Ado About Nothing.

KILMARNOCK.—KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Major Ward.—Mr. Stanley Carlton's company opened a three nights' engagement here on Monday with A Life Story. The part of Councillor Berger was excellently portrayed by Mr. Stanley Carlton; as Captain Jack Temple, R.N., Mr. Edward Fryer was a decided success; the character of Max Clifford was ably sustained by Mr. E. Beverley; as Detective Tom Berry, Mr. Sydney Finnes showed to great advantage; Toni Crimonini, in the hands of Mr. Tom Henshaw, provided much of humour; and the part of Lieut. Hugo was well undertaken by Mr. William Annesley. The character of Zieka was capably interpreted by Miss Rubie Maude; Beatrice, by Miss Daisy Humphreys, proved an ideal heroine; and Rosa found an able exponent in Miss Florrie Vennimore. On the last three nights of the week Mr. Charles Frohman's company was to present Leah Kleschna.

KIRKCALDY. — KING'S THEATRE. — Managing Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager Mr. John Burton.—Messrs. Pitt and Halling's company appeared on Monday in £1000 Reward. The villainous rôle of Gilbert Lisle was well filled by Mr. Fred Wilberforce; Mr. J. Newton Cowling was a satisfactory Fred Ingleford; and as his son, Mr. Frank J. Pitt was capital; Mr. Frank Dallas and Mr. Charles Halling were exceedingly good as the detectives, the former being very funny, and the makes-up of the latter clever; Mr. Geo. Scully was well placed as Dick, and along with Miss Crissie Francess as Kitty, was responsible for much comic business; Miss Lynn Darlington was loudly applauded for her rendering of "Eileen Alannah"; and Miss Daisy Halling played effectively as Madam Sanson. Mr. Wentworth Croke's company in My Sweetheart are billed for the latter half of the week.

LANCASTER.—ATHENÆUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. S. Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alfred Hook.—The attraction this week is Napoleon the Great, capitally presented by Mr. Frank M. Thorne's company. The title-rôle is in the hands of Mr. Hugh Montgomery, who does justice to the part. Mr. Oliver Birrell cleverly undertakes the part of Colonel Lavarennes; much humour is introduced by Mr. Frank M. Thorne as Pierre Pomponent; and he is ably assisted by Mr. Albert Sinclair as Sergt. Choupin; whilst Messrs. Bartlett Garth and Phil Harper are equally successful as Paul Laczinska and Colonel Meuron respectively. Miss Leslie Warner gives a fine portrayal of Marie Walewska; and the same remark applies to Miss Maud Russell as Leonie Marbeouf.

LEAMINGTON. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. Harry Hunter.—The attraction here this week is Mr. J. B. Mulholland's company, in The Electric Man. Mr. Stanley Cooke appears with conspicuous success as Walter Everest and the Electric Man, and his very clever delineation of the parts are enthusiastically received; Mr. Archie Selwyn makes an excellent Jack Strange; whilst the part of Jobbins, a diligent private detective, is capably played by Mr. Lloyd Townrow. Miss Lucy Edwin acts with much naturalness as Mrs. Anderson, and her quaint drolleries are quite a feature of the piece. Others who contribute to the success of the play are Mr. E. Vivian Willis, Miss Sybil Brookes, Miss Gladys Jesson, and Miss Amy Francis. An amusing comedietta, entitled A Matrimonial Advertisement, precedes.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—The pantomime, Sleeping Beauty, this week concludes a highly-successful nine weeks' run, liberal patronage having been bestowed throughout.

EMPIRE PALACE. — Moss' Empires, Limited; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Acting Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—A remarkable exhibition of animal intelligence is that provided by Tschernoff's horses and dogs, and the turn is warmly applauded by good houses; Arthur Lennard is singing a new selection of songs in his best style, and gets a big reception nightly; the Dickens selections presented by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lucas are amongst the best things in the programme; the Fitzroys are to the fore with an excellent gymnastic turn; the Knick-Knacks score in song and dance; the clever pair of Jewish comedians, Jordan and Harvey, are again contributing with good success; the Three Missouris are doing their mirth-provoking acrobatic show; George Ridgwell is a smart comedian, provoking much merriment; and there are also good items by Lizzie Fletcher, comedienne.

HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; General-Managers, Mr. Chas. Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—Dick Whittington, a bright, brisk, and well-dressed production, sent out by Mr. John Tiller, occupies the major portion of the evening here, and proves most acceptable to crowded houses. In addition, there is an excellent gymnastic show by the Three Richards; clever bâton swinging and speciality dancing by the Two Dixons; and Mabel le Roy is a chic and charming comedienne.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; General and Business-Manager, Mr. Henry Dundas.—A delightful engagement is being filled here this week by the first appearance of Mr. Robert Courtneidge's principal company in the farcical musical play, The Dairymaids, which is meeting with a flattering reception. A meed of praise should be accorded to the full chorus and augmented orchestra, under Mr. Albert Bartlett. Miss Violet Lloyd, as Peggy, is winsome and vivacious; Miss Edith Blanche well maintains her reputation as a clever actress as Lady Brudenell; Miss Cissie Sephton is conspicuously successful as Eliza; Miss Beryl Vaudrey is capital as Helene; Miss Madge Avery as Miss Penelope Pychase, and Miss Rhoda Gordon as Winfred, are both excellent; Mr. Lionel Victor as the rollicking A.B., Joe Mivens, raises hearty laughter with a very good performance; Mr. E. Statham Staples, who is popular here, is seen to considerable advantage as Sam Brudenell; and Mr. George Desmond as Lieutenant Brudenell admirably depicts the part; Mr. Forbes Dawson is good as Dr. O'Byrne, R.N.; and as Captain Fred Leverton, Mr. Alec Fraser should also be praised.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—This week we have the drama, Her One Great Sin, by Miss Lydia Donovan's company. In the rôle of Grace Warhurst, Miss Lydia Donovan is seen to considerable advantage; and Mr. Claude H. Seaton is good as Reuben Warhurst; Mr. C. Quinton Fulford does well as Arnold Thornhill; both Mr. Fred Hodson as Jerry Jumble, and Miss Nellie Lambert as Nancy Winpenny are humorous and popular; Miss Phyllis Damain as Charlie, and Miss Maudie Lambert as Gracie are both deserving of much praise.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Bertram G. Iles.—After a prolonged absence from Leicester, Auguste Van Biene, the actor-musician, is making a welcome apearance here this week in the playlet, The Master Musician, which proves most interesting. The 'cello solos of Mr. Biene are, of course, a special feature. He is supported in good style by Miss Rose Summers and Miss Lena Burnleigh, his musical-director being Mr. Percival Goffin. Victor Newman is cordially received for his wonderful impersonations of the late Sir Henry Irving and Mr. Beerbohm Tree; Auto-Atlas astounds the audience with the remarkable feat of raising a motor-car, containing two people, and weighing 1450lb., with his teeth, whilst balancing on two upright posts, and he also balances and juggles with heavy weights in a manner which wins for him well-deserved and hearty applause; the Grovini Sisters, graceful acrobats and tumblers, are exceptionally smart; Dus showing much cleverness; Nat Clifford, an up-to-date comedian, caused great laughter; an amusing sketch, A Singing Duo, came from Carr and Rose; Sable Fern rendered several English songs in good style; Juanitas' Spanish acrobats performed some sensational feats; and others in the bill were Amurat, musical comedian; Richardson Taylor, whistling ventriloquist; Herbert La Martine, vocalist and dancer; and Mlle. Marjutti, contortionist.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole. —A capital presentation of Rob Roy has proved a big draw here. In the stock company were Mr. Harry Tresham, a capital Macgregor; Mr. Robert Wilton, a manly Rashleigh; Mr. Sydney Grant, who held the part of Francis with effect; Mr. Percy Boucher, a funny Baillie; Miss Florence Palmer, a sweet Diana; and Miss Beryl Ravenswood, whose Helen was marked by dignity.

PADDINGTON PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. M. Montgomery. —The Royal stock company here is this week giving Emma Litchfield's Guiding Star. The principal parts are in the good hands of Mr. Wallace Campbell, Mr. Frank S. Strickland, Mr. Charles Herberte, Mr. H. G. Brandon, Miss Gladys Hastings-Walton, Miss Lina Nazeby, and Miss Sara Blumenthal.

PARK PALACE, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Success continues to follow the change here from variety to drama. This week the stock company have produced Dearer than Life, Mr. Albert Sember being seen to advantage in the rôle of Harry Royce.

HAYMARKET.—Licensee, Mr. J. S. Childs.—Topping the bill here are Harry Calden and company, with the sketch, A Wilful Lie; the Ashley team of skaters are exceedingly humorous with their Jumbo policeman speciality; Zasma, assisted by Mlle. Delouie, has a pretty gymnastic scena, An Evening's Pleasure; and Flo Carlow is a dainty comedienne and dancer.

WESTMINSTER.—Lessee, Mr. Fred E. Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—Foremost here this week is the H. Leslie Bell and Lily Pearl company, with the novelty vaudeville, A Bit of String, which is much enjoyed; Pete and Juno are a pair of smart comedians; the Evalos go through some humorous juggling; Mr. E has a budget of capital sayings; Prince Ishmael, assisted by Mlle. Valeria, produces some smart illusions; and others who appear are Ella Glautz, vocalist and dancer; Chas. Rutland, comedian; and Will Lynn, boy vocalist.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.— The renowned Paul Cinquevalli is foremost here this week, proving as great a draw as ever; Claire Romaine has a cordial reception for her songs; Nina Gordon gives some capital imitations of leading stars; the Mannings, with the comedy, The Hotel Boots, create endless laughter; Miss Lilian Dundas and company present a striking dramatic sketch, The Doom of Delilah; and others who contribute are Winnie Gordon, siffleuse; Billy Farrell, comedian; Brull and Hemsley, musical artists and dancers; and the Kurios, comedians.

TIVOLI. — Proprietors, Liverpool Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. James Marks. — Heading the bill at this popular resort this week are the Six Brothers Luck, with the funny pantomime The Hôtel Grande; the Tokio troupe of Japanese acrobats have an excellent show; in the absence of Mr. W. J. Churchill a special turn was given by Mr. Hal Forde, whose songs and patter were much enjoyed; the Musical Schaffers provided a pleasing turn; Massona's juggling was of a high order; Edith St. Clare sang several popular songs; the jumping of Gerhardi Mohr was remarkable; and Fred Harrison, comedian, also appeared.

LOUGHBOROUGH. — NEW HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. W. Payne-Seddon and George Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lindsey Edwards. —The Bouncing Dillons, who top the bill this week, give a capital comedy gymnastic act; and Mme. Alice Fontainbleau, with her clever dogs, is also assisting to attract large houses. The Monckton, in their laughable comedy episode, are exceedingly droll; the Casmans are deservedly applauded for a refined comedy act; and Alvantee, on the slanting wire, is clever. Other good turns are provided by Miss Lola Leonard, in illustrated songs; Miss Marie Weston, a clever dancer, and Jack Mansfield, character comedian. The Bioscope concludes the entertainment.

LOWESTOFT. — MARINA — Managing-Director, Mr. E. A. Smith.—Messrs Power and Kirby's company are here with Man's Enemy. Mr. Norman A. Overton submits a finished performance as Harry Stanton, and is seen to great advantage in the doss-house scene, where he finishes up by throwing the villain through a window. Mr. Chas. E. Johnson works satisfactorily as General Stanton, and Mr. T. Arthur Ellis acts naturally as the Rev. Lisle; Mr. John Power renders a clever and forcible reading as Tom Drake, and receives admirable support from Miss Constance Medwyn as Sarah Drake. The last-named has a fine stage presence, and gave a fine piece of acting. Miss Ethel Stuart is sweetly sympathetic as Grace Leslie; and amusing character sketches were given by Miss Fanny James (Polly Harris), and Mr. Fred Owen (Iky Barnett).

MAIDSTONE.—HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. S. Baskerville.—This week we have William Holles and Nannie Goldman and Co., in the clever protean sketch, The Little Charwoman; the Villons, acrobatic cyclists; Horace White, ventriloquist and society entertainer, with some cleverly worked automatic figures; the Crown Trio, speciality vocalists; Madame Sim Reeves, who appears in a selection of songs from her late husband's répertoire; Adelina, facial impersonator; Tom Lesley, comedian; the Vaudevilles, and the Bioscope.

MANCHESTER.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. M. Thorburn.—A second visit of The Belle of Mayfair to Manchester proved welcome to the audience here on Monday. A somewhat more tangible story distinguishes the piece than is usual in musical comedy, and to the attractive music of Mr. Leslie Stuart is added a cast of more than average efficiency, the whole being under the control of Messrs. A. and S. Gatti and Charles Frohman. The principal success is gained by Mr. Fred Rolph, who gives a highly entertaining delineation of Sir John Chaldicott, Bart., M.P. Fine performances are added by Mr. Wensley Russell as Hugh Meredith; Mr. Percy Yorke as the Earl of Mount Highgate—whose military song is especially effective; Mr. Vernon Davidson as the Hon. Raymond Finchley; and Mr. Robert White, jun., as the Comte de Perrier; while among the ladies, Miss Alice Russon is foremost in a very charming impersonation of the title-rôle; Miss Joan Keddie makes a highly effective Princess Carl; Miss Maud Aston is smart and attractive as Pincott; Miss Barbara Huntley's Lady Chaldicott is a distinguished piece of work; and Miss Dorothy Hanbury looks and acts well as Lady Violet Gussop. Miss Christine Rayinski as the Gibson Girl impersonates this notable feature of the piece with distinct success; and among the remainder of the cast Mr. Arthur W. Metcalfe is deserving of a word of praise for his rendering of Captain Theobald. Dresses, orchestra, and general staging leave nothing to be desired.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Last week's attraction at the Grand Junction Theatre, Mr. Andrew Melville's company in Driven from Home, is meeting with a gratifying reception at this popular house. The piece is above the average.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—The programme here is up to its best standard this week. Fred Karno's The Smoking Concert is worthily at the top of the bill, and keeps the house in roars. Fred S. Pealle and company in Adrian the Gambler, a dramatic costume sketch, is also a prominently good turn, the piece being finely acted. Olga Fane, descriptive vocalist, has an excellent voice; Tate and Tate, trampolin acrobats, are smart and amusing; the Saxonias provide a very pleasing musical mélange Douglas and Gordon present a clever and novel comedy act; and other enjoyable items are Valvo, ventriloquist; Conway and Garland, burlesque sketch comedians; and Stephen Blythe, actor-vocalist. The pictures are sensational.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Messrs. Holland and Wood's successful pantomime of Aladdin is the attraction here this week—a return visit to Manchester. The piece is bright and funny.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—At the top of the bill here this week is Dean Tribune's pantomime of Bo-Peep, a typical and amusing entertainment in three scenes. An important turn also is that of W. J. Churchill, who pleases the house immensely by his comic patter and clever songs. Excellent business is added by The Dandies, who, presented by Henry J. Corner, give a very fine vocal variety display; the Wyffs, in a comic episode of a parson in a London flat; Cole and Rags, American comedy jugglers; Michael Nolan, a really entertaining Irish comedian; the Two Bostons, in their novelty burlesque act; Dot Hardy, a smart character comedienne and eccentric dancer; the Bandurria troupe of accomplished mandolinists; and Agnes Hazel, comedienne. The Bioscope shows "The Wreck of the Midnight Mail."

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—Ernest Shand, the well-known comedian, is here this week, and makes a big hit, his patter being productive of much merriment. Another very successful turn is that of Mr. Hymark, the chameleon comedian, whose performance is full of surprises and unique; the Fergana Trio are wonderfully clever head and hand balancers; Watson's dogs are smartly trained; Cliff Ryland has a lot of very funny talk; Master Cliff dances very cleverly; the Three Consol Girls are graceful acrobatic dancers; and an excellent bit of fooling—deservedly well received—is contributed by Howard and Harris. An illustrated song, "The Green Isle of Erin," is sung by Mr. J. F. Hedlam, of the choir; and "The Busy Man" is the Bioscope subject. The last week of The Earthquake is announced.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead. —Bert Bernard's company in The Brewery, a highly amusing pantomimic burlesque sketch, is the principal item on this week's programme here. It is supplemented by some expert and pleasing musical specialities by the Five M.P.'s; and a characteristic exhibition of talent by Ada Fawn, the popular comedienne, in her latest successes. Good turns are given also by Wright, Ismay, and Wright, in a speciality dancing act; Arthur Slater, the whistling man in white; George Foyle, comedian; Daisy Almer, serio and dancer; and Hilda Leigh and company, in a funny sketch entitled Another Man's Wife. The pictures are good, as usual.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Harry Tate's company in Motoring provide the star turn here this week, and cause much laughter. Anthony, the famous comic conjurer, gives a clever performance; and Tony Iveson, as the ragman at the piano, scores a great success; The Maisanos are excellent musicians, and gain much applause; Barfoot and Carson provide plenty of amusement in their comedy act; Harry Briggs, the triple voice vocalist, has a pleasing style, and sings sweetly; whilst smart turns are also contributed by Arthur Stacey. Ellis and Watts, and Billie French, comedians and dancers. An excellent programme is completed by animated pictures.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Manager. Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—A Coster's Honeymoon, presented in fine style by Amy Anderson and company, is the top turn here this week. H. O. Wills, comedian, is very funny; Les Almos, lightning equilibrists and tumblers, are exceedingly smart; and the St. Clairs are good in a comedy cycling act; L. B. Athol does well in his artistic vocal scena, Dreamland; Sam Redfern amuses with good patter; and enjoyable items are also provided by Little Dence, a clever young singer; T. C. Edwards, Australian baritone; and Syd, Myra and dog. "The Prospectors" is a dramatic film shown on the Bioscope, and is followed with interest.

MANSFIELD.—GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—General-Manager, Capt. Cecil Clayton.—Mr. Fred J. Kirke's company presented, the first three nights of the week, the dramatic musical comedy A Naval Detective. Mr. Gerald Alexander proved a capable performer in each of the three characters he assumed; Mr. George Whillis admirably enacted the part of Capt. Hustle; Mr. Louis Fountaine was acceptable in the three rôles she interpreted. The Sisters Shaw gave a graceful rendition of the dancing girls; Miss Edith Claus was an amusing Susan Scrubbs. The singing was excellent and the dancing novel and graceful. On Thursday and Friday evenings the same company presented the musical play In Old Madrid.

MARGATE. — HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot and Mr. W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—The programme this week is made up of some attractive turns. Guy Ryder, vocalist and whistler, is good; Mignon Tremaine, comedienne and dancer, has been well received; Jack Lane, the Yorkshire Rustic, is a most versatile performer; Vera Mayne, comedienne, sings well. and Arthur Boyne, the "funny little fat man," is amusing. The sketch, My Landlord, by Fred Lawrence and company, is full of humour and provocative of a good deal of laughter.

MERTHYR TYDFIL. — THEATRE ROYAL.— Lessees, The South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Lewis Gilbert.—A varied and interesting programme is again in evidence here. Cussac Talma, assisted by Mlle. Yvonne de Forge, is a clever illusionist; Mme. Roza and her wonderfully trained dogs are greatly admired; the Warsaw Brothers are funny musical artists. Others are Dolly Cana, comedienne; Ernie Williams, vocal comedian; the Cromwells, in a novel juggling act; Arthur Elvey, comedian; and new films on the Bioscope.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Rice.— Lord, Murray, and Lord top the bill here this week, and introduce their comedy gymnastic mélange, entitled The Intruder; Dolly Agnes, and Maud, the factory nightingales, are well received; Almero gives a good show; also Leoni, wire artist; Nellie Dunbar, comedienne; Kene and Smith, in pot-pourri; and the Biograph completes.

MIDDLESBROUGH. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson. — The Traitor is this week being presented here by Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson and Mr. Harris Fineberg's company. Mr. Stephen E. Scanlan, in the title-character, gives a strong, well balanced, and altogether satisfactory performance; Miss Gwynne Warren acts with considerable force the part of Countess Zicka; and Elsie Dupres has an able representative in Miss Lilian Matthews; Miss Isabel Hunt is sympathetic as the little Martyr; Mr. Bensley Evans plays Prince Rudolph with distinction; the comedy, in the hands of Mr. Fred Haming, is exceptionally well presented; Miss Olive Santy's performance has undeniable charm; Miss Effie Bartlett is a pleasing Zulie; General Hertz finds a clever representative in Mr. Arthur McCulloch; Mr. Edward Duff is good as General Franz; Mr. S. Hurst makes an excellent Captain Ross; Mr. Edward Lowrie as Zoff leaves nothing to be dseired; and Mr. E. Vincent and Mr. Cyril Maitland are also entrusted with interesting rôles.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, The Middlesbrough Grand Opera House Co., Ltd; Licensee and Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—The visit of Mr. Martin Harvey and company to the Grand has been eagerly looked forward to by the play lovers in Middlesbrough, and this house was crowded on Monday to assist at the performance of The Only Way. Mr. Harvey's interpretation of Sydney Carton cannot be excelled, and he brought out to the fullest extent the human traits of a most interesting character. A great deal of work falls on the shoulders of Mr. Leonard Clarke, who, as Charles Darnay, acquitted himself admirably; Miss Coleridge, who had previously given a sympathetic and refined rendition of the rôle of Lucie Manette, and Miss N. de Silva, in the difficult rôle of Mimi, acted with much tenderness and devotion; a fine study of Dr. Manette was contributed by Mr. Fred Wright; and the other artists to figure prominently were Mr. H. Blackmore, Mr. P. Alexander, Mr. A. E. Raynor, and Mr. Charles Glenny. During the week Mr. Harvey and his company have presented The Cigarette Maker's Romance and Hamlet.

EMPIRE PALACE. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Chas. G. Rambyes.—Chris. Richards says a return visit here this week, and creates roars of laughter; the Maitland Comedy Trio score in their absurdity, The Picture; J. W. Hall is successful with his humorous songs and patter; the Eight Sunrays provide a clever vocal and dancing turn; and the Jackley Trio do well in their comedy act; Bert Raynor and Cissie Reece please in their comedy scena, Early Closing Day; and Billie Burford, comedienne, and Grace Langley, comedienne and dancer, also contribute.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Alf Graham.—Wal Pink's workmen in the comedy Repairs are deservedly most successful. During the time they occupy the boards the fun is fast and furious; Frank Cumminger, who broke the world's record for sand dancing, scores a great success; some astounding feats of strength are given by Titan, who juggles with half a hundredweight; W. B. Raby, comedian, causes much laughter with his songs and patter; and Bosco the musical tramp, provides a clever turn. Other acceptable items are given by Harry Devine, elocutionist, and Telka, vocalist.

MOTHERWELL. — NEW CENTURY THEATRE.— Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant.—Mr. Fred Benton's company has fulfilled a three nights' engagement here in The French Spy. Mr. Beresford Lovett is particularly well suited in the rôle of Captain Somers; and Mr. Claude Aymond is dignified and impressive as Lord Aynsley. Mr. Max Coutts capably sustains the rôle of Count Romanoff; and Mr. Chas. Digby is good as the dandified Count Alexis. Mr. Hugh Travers is a striking and picturesque figure as General Trepoff; and Mr. Fred Benton submits a capital study of the strong man Fritz. Miss Madge Devereux gives a strong and sympathetic rendering of the title-rôle; Miss A. Harrison Tate makes the most of her opportunities as Olga; and mention should be made of Miss Ella Seton as Julie.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE.—TYNE THEATRE. —Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe. —The close of its successful career is quickly drawing near of Mr. Fred Wyndham's pantomime, Aladdin, its penultimate week being entered upon on Monday night. To its very last night one may safely predict the patronage accorded it being of record dimensions. Messrs. Harry Lauder, Dan Crawley, Imro Fox, and Harker Nicholls form a lot of comedians that would spell success to any entertainment; and with Miss Josie Collins and Miss Beryl Somerset leading the ladies, the production, even had it not been on so lavish and picturesque a scale, could not well have been other than a success.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham. —The final week but one of Aladdin, a successful production from its very inauguration, was entered upon on Monday evening. Long will this, Mr. Robert Courtneidge's second pantomime in Newcastle, be remembered, alike for its sound and refined humour, its pretty music, and magnificent stage pictures and ballets. Mr. Neil Kenyon with his quaint Scotch witticisms is ably seconded in his efforts to amuse by Messrs. Fred Allandale, Chas. Harvey, and Bellamy, the last of whom succeeds Mr. Alfred Clarke as the Emperor. Miss Lily Morris, really the most popular of principal boys seen in Newcastle pantomimes for many years, and Miss Florence Smithson, who fills the rôle of the Princess with such daintiness and vocal distinction, are also in no small way responsible for the great success the production has proved.

GRAND THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs. Bacon and Bolam; Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney Bacon.— Mr. J. F. Elliston's pantomime Dick Whittington is here for two weeks, and has already caught on, crowded houses being the order each evening. Miss Maidie Scott is a prime favourite as Dick, her songs going with great swing; Miss Veronica Brady makes a pretty and winsome Alice; Miss Lil Hartley and Miss Flo Chevalier as second boy and girl have many admirers; Miss Gertrude Lytton as the Empress and Miss Clorinda Thurtell as the Fairy Queen both sing and act in a most charming style; Mr. Tom Foy is an inimitable Idle Jack; Mr. Bert Harrow as Fitzwarren—another source of fun—is well supported by Messrs. Jack Foy and Tom Lowen; Mr. J. C. Scatter, a local comedian, comes in for a good reception; and a word of praise is due to the specialities introduced by Miss Violet Morgan, the Aquamarinoff Troupe of Russian dancers, and Mr. Ted Foy.

EMPIRE THEATRE. — Proprietors, Moss Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—The visit of George Lashwood to this popular hall this week is drawing crowded houses. He has many new songs, which he sings with rare spirit and expression. The entertainment of Albert Whelan is delightful, his imitations being admirable; Charles Robinson uses a fine baritone to distinct advantage; the Tupps give a great acrobatic turn; the Cullane Comedy Four are thoroughly appreciated; a clever company of juveniles, trained by St. John Denton and George Rowland, give a capital interlude; and James Brady, Bijou Russell, the Robertys, and the Bioscope complete a good bill.

PAVILION THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—Little Tich tops the bill here this week, and his initial appearance on Monday was the signal for a big outburst of applause. His songs and dances are rendered in his own inimitable style. Wild, Willie, and West, as the Bounding Navvies, give a most laughable acrobatic and trampolin scene; J. H. Darnley and company submit another amusing sketch entitled What a Night; Picitte and Lizette are clever illusionists; and a good ventriloquist is found in Professor Cavalli. Ida Ross, the Jansons, Vera Vere, Sibb and Sibb, Starr and Jerome, and the Barrascope are also included in the bill.

NEWPORT.—EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Ltd.— Manager, Major Gallagher; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Page.—A strong programme here includes the Selbinis, in clever bicycle trick acts; Carrie Laurie's Kindergarten; the Levines, in the musical sketch Dotty, who cause a lot of laughter; the Twin Andersons, vocalists and clever dancers, who scored a success on their first appearance on the boards; and a clever sketch presented by Alice May and company, Tranquillity, which is one of the successes of the show. Sadie Simpson's graceful dancing and excellent singing are justly recognised, a song by Mark Merry was applauded, and the Bioscope showing some comical pictures appeared to give pleasure.

NORTHAMPTON.—OPERA HOUSE. — Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Seddon.—The Four Just Men, the attraction here this week, is well played by Mr. H. Bonhote Wilson as Sir Philip Ramon, Bart., Mr. Oswald Cray, Mr. Wernham Ryott, Mr. Cecil Warde, and Mr. Charles McCann as the Four Just Men, Mr. William Alison with a humorous rendering of Billy Marks, Miss Kate Sydney as a typical American widow, Miss Florence Radcliffe as Juanita Ramon, and Mr. Edgar L. Hocking as Manuel Garcia.

NORTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—A hearty welcome has been accorded Mr. F. B. Woulfe and his company, in Robin Hood. The title-rôle is represented by Mr. Woulfe, whose excellent acting leaves nothing to be desired; Mr. Henry Ernestine is a capable Prince John; and the part of William Fitzalwyn is ably depicted by Mr. Clifford Kean; Mr. Llellwyn Evans is good as King Richard I.; Mr. Cecil Renton scores as Will Scarlett; Mr. A. Edmund Dunstan is clever as Eustace le Beau; and Mr. Bob Anderson creates much laughter as Friar Tuck; Miss Ethel Griffies displays great ability in the rôle of Mistress Marion Zilfain; Miss Winifred Symonds is pleasing as Elwynne; and Miss Edith Lorraine makes the most of Maude.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company is here this week in A Night Out. Mr. Edward Thirlby as Joseph Pinglet was successfully humorous; Mr. Charles Sugden as Paillard acted well; Mr. Mark Lester was good as Mathieu; while Mr. Geoffrey Saville was equally so as Maxime. Mr. Fred Penley as Boulot and Mr. Thomas Barry as Bastien deserve every praise; Mr. Newstead Adams as Botticelli, Mr. Dare Austin as Brochard, and Mr. Geo. Hassleton as Ernest ably filled their respective rôles. Mrs. Charles Sugden admirably portrayed Marcelle; Miss Constance Groves was praiseworthy as Angélique; Miss Lillian Stafford was successful as Victorine; while Miss Emmie Kemp, Miss Elvira Stuart, Miss Dorothy Dance, and Miss Muriel Dance were good as Mathieu's daughters.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fell; Manager, Mr. F. W. Fell.—A capital programme is presented this week. The Leslie Brothers as musical experts are entertaining; Addie Dorina, assisted by Pat Waddock, in their production, Dr. Spot's Patients, is very good; the Three Ettenas, outside their humorous business, are clever globe speciality artists; the Delevines, in their comedy act Flipp and Flopp, are immensely popular; Fred Herbert scores as a topical vocalist; Fred Land, eccentric comedian, is well received; Esme Gordon, comedienne and dancer, is appreciated; while Harry and Lucy Wilton are good duettists and dancers. The Hippo Bio is also attractive.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robt. Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The new Chinese comic opera See-See, produced by Mr. Geo. Edwardes's company, occupies this theatre this week. Miss Lily Elsie is seen and heard to advantage in the name-part; Mr. Leonard Mackay plays up to her so well that the scenes in which they appear together go admirably. Mr. Frank Danby as Hangkee has ample opportunity for his gift of broad humour, being ably assisted by Mr. W. H. Rawlins as Cheoo; Miss Amy Augarde, as Mai-Yai, acts the part to perfection; Miss Topsy Sinden's dancing adds no little to the attractiveness of the performance; Miss Alice Hatton as Lee and Miss Daisy Wallace as Humming Bird look charming and act daintily; and Miss Sybil Grey, Miss Octavia Barry, and Miss Lily Hewitson are efficient as the wives of Cheoo. Mr. Myles Clifton as Wang and Miss Adeline Lester as Mrs. Wang do well all that is required of them.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Bowmaker.—Jake Friedman and company appear in a bright little operetta entitled Happy Holland; Verno and Voyce submit a smart musical and patter turn; Professor Dunning, ventriloquist, elicits a continual flow of laughter; and much amusement is evoked by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finden with Two in One. The Geretti Sisters combine grace and skill in their gymnastic entertainment; Kahn and Kahn supply an interesting item in magic; and the Schwarz Brothers prove themselves capable parodists. As operatic vocalists Les Voces are pleasing; and Jack Camp scores in humorous songs. The American Bioscope adds largely to the merriment by excellent films.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.— Proprietors, Theatre and Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—Mr. Chas. H. Lester's company is here on a return visit with The Bank of England. Mr. Lester again submits an interesting impersonation of Sherlock Holmes; Mr. G. Clifton Boyne plays with ability as Stephen Hartley; Mr. J. H. Firman is well placed as Sir Sidney Barraclough. Mr. C. Herman Pullen as the Hon. Bertie Burlington and Mr. F. Ernstone as Godfrey Dane are effective. Mr. Harry T. Wood as Eric Dane is good, and Mr. Edmond O'Grady is a capital Gordon Isaacs. Miss Marjorie Davenport makes a sympathetic Margaret Dane, and a better exponent of the American widow than Miss Gertrude Godart would be difficult to find. Mr. Edwin Heim as Tommy Sprouts and Miss Tina Shaw as Lucy Locket are highly entertaining. On Thursday and Friday the same company presented The Sorrows of Satan.

OLDHAM.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.— We have Mr. Arthur Carlton's company in The Span of Life. Mr. R. S. Trelawney is the hero, Richard Blunt, and he portrays the part in a capital manner; Miss Guinevere Shilton is sympathetic as Kate Heathcot; the villain is ably played by Mr. Sanderson Moffatt; Cecil Jelf is in the capable hands of Miss Phyllis Graham; and Miss Mary Moffatt makes a very good Cecil Blunt. Others in the cast are Miss Phyllis Hamilton as Mrs. Jelf, Mr. James Jarrett as Joshua Gurnet, Miss Kitty Russell, and Mr. Walter Dale as Nutty Brown. The famous Stebbing Brothers give a capital acrobatic turn.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Howgate.— The Matweef-Hugoston Troupe, in Russian singing and dancing, are excellent, and they perform some smart acrobatic feats; Arthur Kenny does some sensational tricks on a cycle; Sinclair and Parr are capital in a vocal entr'acte, Keeping an Appointment; the Brothers Pim, in a comic gymnastic act; Rosie Sylvester, comedienne and dancer; Mlle. Sylvia's electric tableaux vivants; Herbert Bates, tenor vocalist; Dan Paulton, comedian; and the Royal Dottoscope make up the bill.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Nuttall.—W. J. Ashcroft, the solid man, is starring here, his business proving extremely popular; the Markies earn much applause in their comedy sketch; Polo and Florence, society acrobats, perform in a neat manner; Cedar and Elgar appear in an original comedy turn; others being Ted Waite, comedian; Sill and Sillcott, in a railway skit; and Happy Attwood, comedian; concluding with the Dottoscope.

PAISLEY.—PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Bentz.—Mr. Charles Harrington and company are making their appearance here this week in Uncle Tom's Cabin. Mr. J. Carr as Uncle Tom does effective and clever work; as Phineas Fletcher Mr. J. H. Renny is good; Mr. Charles Harrington undertakes the character of Mr. St. Clair, which he renders with ability; Mr. Leslie Beaufort makes a manly George Harris; a good portrait of the slave owner, Legree, is supplied by Mr. J. Henry Rogers; and Mr. Walter Langford proves an amusing Marks. Miss Hero Hathaway is excellent as Eliza Harris; Miss May Turner makes a dignified Mrs. St. Clair; Aunt Ophelia is given a good rendering by Miss Jenny Malcolm; Miss Holly Haselwood is an excellent representative of Little Eva; Aunt Chloe is capably interpreted by Mrs. Carr; and as Topsy Miss Sylvia Stella is very amusing.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr. J H. Savile; Manager, Mr. Tom Toy.—A capital programme is submitted here this week, headed by the Four Louberts, who are responsible in their comedy act, Uninvited, for a vast amount of fun; Elsie Russell is an American comedienne with many good points; J. W. Cosgrove, a favourite quaint comedian and dancer, is heartily received; Jessie Thorne is a dainty and popular comedienne; the Two D's (D'Argan and Dene) score in a refined comedy act; and the Empire Bioscope is to the front with up-to-date pictures.

PENTRE. — LYCEUM THEATRE. — Sole Owners, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Counsell.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company has had an enthusiastic reception here this week. Their repertoire includes Hamlet, The Taming of the Shrew, and Macbeth. The former was presented on Monday evening, and the pupils at the various schools took this opportunity of witnessing the performance. Mr. Frank Darch as Claudius gave a capital impersonation; Miss Kathryn Stocks was equally as effective in the rôle of the Queen of Denmark. Mr. Arthur Phillips gave an admirable interpretation of Hamlet; as Horatio Mr. Chas. Maunsell was equal to the occasion, and ably seconded Mr. Phillips's efforts. Mr. Leo Briggs gave a vivid portrayal of Polonius; Mr. Bernard Limpus in the rôle of Laertes was seen to advantage; Mr. John Cairns earned praise by his excellent portrayal of the Ghost; Ophelia was vividly impersonated by Miss Christie Laws; and all the other parts were well sustained.

PERTH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—Mr. Charles Macdona's principal company is drawing bumper houses here this week in The White Chrysanthemum. Miss Muriel George is outstanding in an excellent all-round company, her flexibility of voice being greatly admired, and her every contribution as Sybil Cunningham being vociferously applauded; Mr. Shirley Lea scores a great success as the pompous Admiral, Sir Horatio Armitage; Messrs. H. Langdon Bruce and H. E Garden fully merit the hearty reception accorded them for their pleasing delineation of Lieut. Reggie Armitage and Lieut. Chippendale Belmont respectively; Mr. Richard Telford's Sin Chong and Mr. Jamie Dallas's Private Perks are clever and amusing; Miss Wilmot Karkeek is responsible for a striking portrayal of Cornelia Vanderdecken; and Miss Dorothy Sephton's charming impersonation of the young widow, Betty Kenyon, wins special favour.

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. C. F. Williams; Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.— Oliver Twist, as presented by Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company this week, is an unqualified success. Fagin is depicted by Mr. Stanley Drewitt in a realistic manner, his powerful portrayal of the Jew's terror in the last act winning unbounded applause; Mr. Cecil A. Collins scores a great success as Bill Sikes; as does Mr. Comberach in the double rôle of Grimwig and Monks. Mr. Charles Ainworth and Mr. Charlie Clark fill the rôles of the Artful Dodger and Charley Bates admirably; Miss Edith Anton Laing invests the impersonation of Nancy with power and intensity; Miss Eva Stuart in the part of Rose Maylie, and Miss Mirrie as Oliver Twist give sympathetic renderings.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.— The leading turn this week is Mr. Fred Ginnett and company, in the equestrian spectacle, Dick Turpin's Ride to York; Mr. Whit Cunliffe sings three songs in fine style, and scores a great success; Lozell, the gymnast, performs many sensational feats; Alburtus and Jessie Millar, in their sketch, A Scene at the Fair Grounds, introduce clever and amusing business; Vere and Royal, comedy duo; McAskell, the comic talking conjurer; and Ethel York, comedienne, complete an admirable programme.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. C. F. Williams; Manager, Mr. Percy Williams; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Grant.—The military drama A Soldier and a Man is presented this week by the stock company. The part of the hero is played with dash by Mr. Cecil A. Melton, who is admirably supported by Miss Irma Farington as the heroine. Rose Melbury, and Mr. Charles Locke as Jim Farrow; Mr. Edward Beecher gives a good representation of Hubert Walgrave; and Miss Elaine Vanbrugh as Sergeant Jane causes much amusement.

PORTH. — THE PALACE (LATE OPERA HOUSE).— General-Manager, Mr. C. W. Poole; Acting-Manager, Walter Bynorth.—This week a good programme includes George Raper, comedian; Morimura, Oriental magician; Lilian Neville, soprano vocalist; T. C. Callaghan, refined character comedian; Fred and Maud Vipond, society entertainers; Cissie Curlette, mimetic vocalist; E. R. Darnez, with his cleverly trained animals; W. G. Webber, basso; Rappo and Ella, graceful gymnasts; and the Palace Pictures.

PORTSMOUTH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Benson, with their Shakespearean company, are paying a welcome visit. On Monday, in Hamlet, Mr. Benson impersonated the name-part in an impressive and finished manner; Mrs. Benson as Ophelia was exceedingly pathetic, and appeared to the utmost advantage; Horatio was played by Mr. G. F. Hannam Clark with great conscientiousness; Mr. George Buchanan as Laertes did good work; Polonius was well portrayed by Mr. H. O. Nicholson; Mr. George R. Weir was eminently successful as the First Grave Digger; and Mr. Clarence Derwent was well placed as Claudius. Miss Helen Haye acted with nervous force the part of the Queen. The Taming of the Shrew, The Merchant of Venice, Macbeth, The Merry Wives of Windsor, and As You Like It are also in the répertoire

PRIN

Miss Annie Clann gives satisfaction as Patty Woodlands. Miss Sidney Crowe submits a powerful portrayal of the title-rôle.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. A. C. Harrison; Manager, Mr. Sidney Beltram.—Her Nameless Child, a highly interesting drama, admirably staged, is this week being presented by Mrs. Sam Duckworth's company, under the management of Mr. J. W. Evelyn. In his impersonation of Anthony Ford Mr. Evelyn stands out prominently; and Arthur Ford finds a vigorous exponent in Mr. G. Duncan. Lord Henry Woodville is carefully portrayed by Mr. Ellerslie Pyne; as Tom Rivers Mr. J. E. Corlass capably sustains the comedy element; Mongrola is well played by Mr. Fred Griffiths; Miss Pattie Hastings gives an artistic portrayal of Phyllis Ford; Lady Sybil is skilfully enacted by Miss Grace Jones; Miss Georgina Edwards is a vivacious Bessie Brooks; Crayon is well played by Miss Madge Trevelyan; and Miss Beatrice Dover is a satisfactory Sarah.

SHEERNESS.—The Palace.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Phil Reymond.—Mr. Harry Royde's songs are much applauded; Miss Berris Forde, the popular serio, renders her ditties in first-rate style; Mr. Phil Reymond fully maintains his reputation as a character actor; Miss Topsy Levane is another big favourite, her capital comedy songs being highly relished; The Nicholsons conclude with a laughable act, Just One More.

SHEFFIELD.—Lyceum Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—Many Sheffield playgoers have reason to remember Mr. Lionel Rignold with grateful feelings for "evenings at the play" made pleasant by this popular comedian's genial humour, and his reappearance in a new part resulted in the Lyceum being well filled on Monday, when the laughable farce, What the Butler Saw, was played for the first time in Steelopolis. The character of the butler, Pink, quite suits Mr. Rignold, and his mirth-provoking mannerisms, combined with funny dialogue and comic situations, kept the house in a continual roar of laughter. Miss Ada Blanche is another comic artist of good repute with Sheffielders, and as Mrs. Barrington she acted with her accustomed talent and vivacity. A trio of notable local favourites is completed by Mr. Charles Fawcitt, who acted with characteristic ease and finish. All the other characters were cleverly represented, and the piece was elaborately mounted. Such a performance could only be possible with a specially selected company and careful rehearsals.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—The stirring domestic and sensational drama, A London Fireman, began a return visit on Monday. Messrs. J. Forbes Knowles and Edward L. Garside's company acted conscientiously, and the alternate scenes of pathos and fun proved quite to the taste of the Royal habitués. The piece was excellently staged.

Alexandra Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—Dick Whittington finished its eight weeks' run on Saturday, when a crowded house cheered to the echo Miss Alma Obrey, the Sisters Brookland, the clever Monaco Troupe, Mr. Gilbert Rodgers, Pete and Juno, Mr. Alf Clegg, Mr. Jack McKenzie, and the other performers. On Monday, the favourite actress Miss Frances Delaval opened in the thrilling play, Her Lost Self. Miss Delaval submitted an interesting study of a beautiful but unprincipled adventuress; Mr. G. Osmond Tearle did good service, and Mr. L. W. Halfpenny was excellent as the Jew. Other characters were ably sustained, and the drama was mounted with care and attention to detail.

Empire Palace.—Proprietors, The Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—The classically beautiful La Pia appeared to a crowded audience on Monday in a refined and artistic statuary entertainment, the attractive qualities of which were increased by the beauty of the scenic surroundings and the electrical effects. Mr. J. W. Rowley was received with enthusiasm. The Five Bogannys, in their comic acrobatic act, were loudly applauded. A pretty little domestic sketch, well acted by Mr. W. H. Day and Miss Laura Dyson, was very well received; and other talented artists who appeared were Forest and King, the elastic duo; Stevens and Rennion, Mr. Albert Christian, Miss Gertrude Bradshaw, Mr. Frank Darwin, and Miss Katie Cohen, balladist.

Grand Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—The following are billed this week:—Mr. Johnny Dwyer, comic vocalist; Mr. Johnny Warman, comedian; Captain Devereaux's canine actors; Miss Madge Daley, comedienne; Mr. John Holland's combination; and Miss Mona Macdonald, vocalist. In addition, Pallister's Bioscope, with up-to-date pictures, is a popular item in a well-arranged programme.

SOUTHPORT.—Opera House, Winter Gardens.—Proprietors, The Southport Opera House and Winter Gardens, Co., Ltd.; Secretary, Mr. R. Singleton.—Pantomime again forms the attraction here, a charming representation of the delightful old fairy tale, Cinderella, being unfolded to large audiences by Mr. J. F. Elliston's clever company. The title-rôle has a dainty and vivacious impersonator in Miss Mora Hersee, whose vocal numbers are artistically rendered; Miss Barbara Babington infuses sufficient dash into the part of Prince Florizel, which she depicts successfully, both histrionically and vocally; Miss Mimie Miriam lends ample assistance as the confidential valet, Dandini; the fairy Godmother is capitally enacted by Mlle. de Velin, who introduces some brilliant singing; the comedy parts have clever and diverting representatives in Mr. Herbert Wade; and Miss Jennie Gregson, as the two unpleasant sisters; Mr. George Goodfellow is irresistibly humorous in the part of Buttons; Mr. Shaun Greville is responsible for much of the merriment as Baron Harduppe; and other good character studies are supplied by Mr. W. H. Farley, Mr. Tom Rennie, Mr. Alix Lukos, and Miss Maggie Grimshaw.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. J. and F. Coulson.—Mr. C Carlton Wallace's company, in The Love that Women Desire, is paying a return visit. Miss Lalla Stanhope wins favour as Sybil Thorborn; the Squire Abingdon of Mr. J. O. Stewart is a praiseworthy performance; and Mr. Jerrold Heather presents a manly Philip Carnaby. A careful study is given to the part of Richard Abingdon by Mr. Alfred Brandon; and Miss Gladys Murray is effective as Madge Abingdon. The comedy element is amply supplied by Mr. John Hignett, Mr. J. W. Wilkinson, and Miss Violet E. Lawson as Dennis O'Rourke, P.C. Sowerberry, and Pattie Swift respectively.

Empire Palace Theatre.—Proprietors, the South Shields Empire Palace, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—Harry Roxbury's company, in The Prince of Monte Carlo, provide the star turn, and are undoubtedly a strong attraction. Realistic impersonations from the works of the late Charles Dickens are submitted by Eva Hope and Jack Wayho; a smart musical turn by Les Strads wins favour; Bert Dansie, with good songs, is popular. Other interesting turns figuring in the bill are Sylvesta the Mysterious, assisted by Miss Vera Courtenay; Chas. Vincent, clever comedian; Ruth Doris, comedienne and dancer; and the Bioscope.

SPENNYMOOR.—Cambridge Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; General-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—Home, Sweet Home is being presented by Mr. Frank Lindo's company. Miss Marion Wakeford's delightful impersonation of Joan is the outstanding feature of the performance. In the rôle of Stephen Armitage Mr. Lindo has a part which suits his robust style of acting, and he is seen to great advantage therein. The Lucas Lyle of Mr. F. Miles Hodgson is an accomplished piece of work; Messrs. D. Lawrence Doyle as David Armitage, and Mr. George Overs as Dick Redmayne, both submit sterling performances; Captain Gerald Gambier makes an ideal Duke of Ancaster; Mr. Jack Patrick and Miss Ray Rochefort, as the Hon. Percy and Sybil Fay, supply some good comedy; while Miss Daisy Rochefort, as little Dora, is very charming.

STALYBRIDGE.—Grand Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Fioni; Resident-Managers, Messrs. W. A. Jackson and Eugene E. Hardie.—The programme is of the usual excellent character, and includes the Brooklands, dainty duettists and dancers; the Ladderites, in their marvellous feats; Clarke's Nippers, comedians, boxers, &c.; Will Goodwin, a vocal actor of high merit; George and Edwards, comedians and dancers; Ernie Myers, vocal comedian, who is warmly applauded; Lily Lonsdale, a sweet singer of sensible songs; the Three Zaracs, in a sketch, entitled Mashing the Barmaid.

ST. HELENS.—Theatre Royal and Opera House, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader.—Mr. Arthur Linforth's pantomime The Babes in the Wood is here this week. The scenery and dresses are excellent. Miss Mary Ambrose makes a dashing and charming Robin Hood; and Maid Marion is in the able hands of Miss Lily Maxwell. The Schoolmistress of Mr. Fred Lincoln is very droll; the Brothers Harrison, as Raitz and Taxis, are excellent comedians, and give a good display of their talents; the Baron of Mr. C. W. Anson is good; and Mr. Frank Lawton as Winston is heartily applauded for his whistling. Miss Daisy Webb as the Fairy is pleasing; and Mr. John Sandbrook does well as Stormy Petrol. Les Deux Onyz troupe of dancers, and the Mahtal Vocal Quartette are deservedly appreciated.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Vic. Carnell.—The capital entertainment provided here is attracting big houses. The company includes Mr. Tom Davies' Trio, whirling the whirl, and motoring in mid-air; Tiny Arnold, comedienne; Mlle. Pollo, gymnast; Devere and Kenwick, in illustrated songs; Loudon Cameron, conjurer; Edie and Ramsden, in a musical pot-pourri; the Three Behans, comedy artists; and Miss Minnie Cunningham, character comedienne.

STOCKPORT.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Revill, jun.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's pantomime, Aladdin, is being presented here by a combination of exceptional talent. As Abanazar, Mr. Daley Cooper works exceedingly hard, and keeps everybody in roars of laughter; a capital Widow Twankey is Mr. Julian Mack; and Mr. Picton Roxborough fills the character of the Emperor with undoubted success. Funny and amusing are the Brothers Brooks as Hugo and Hi Li; and Mr. Joe Robins as Wot-Zi-It adds his full share to the fun. Miss Fanny Wright is a delightful principal boy; and Miss Kitty Brewster makes a charming Princess, and also displays ability in some clever sword, lance, and club exercises with the Brewster Troupe.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—Hippodrome Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Geo. and Robt. Nicholson; Manager, Mr. W. Ainsworth.—Otto Schumann and his trained horses and dogs are here this week, and present a capital equestrian act. Martinengo, "the unemployed musician," delights the audience with his 'cello solos; Paul Hesse Trio are remarkably clever in their acrobatic feats; Primavesi, an old favourite here, is a unique juggler; the Sisters Russell, character duettists, cause great amusement in their act; and Jack Martin is loudly applauded for his interpretation of the song "Gold." Marie Neilson is a comedienne and dancer of a high order; Leonard Barry is very humorous in his sketch The Moucher's Walk, introducing the up-to-date suffragette. The pictures are interesting.

Grand Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Councillor J. Batty; Manager, Mr. W. Batty.—Conway and Cleland, comedians, head the bill, and are very funny with their patter. Thorpe and Coe present a sketch, My Burglar, and cause great amusement; Four Athos are clever in their acrobatic feats; Marie Elsie delights the audience with her singing and dancing; the New York Comedy Four are a good turn; Harry Morris is well received for his singing and dancing; and Walter Levetto scores in his pedestal dancing act. The pictures, as usual, are worth attention.

STOKE.—Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Manager, Mr. H. Miller.—The Savonas are retained for another week, their rendering of the selections from Tannhäuser being excellent. As the Elliotts, their cycling is much appreciated. The Voldam Brothers, clever acrobats, are well received; Stelling has a well-trained dog; Bessie Travis is one of few lady ventriloquists who are really good; Dolly Denver dances admirably; Charles Sloman is a comedian of much merit; Jack Rae contributes a capital turn on the rings.

STOURBRIDGE.—Alhambra Theatre.—Manager, Miss Maude Lynton.—Mr. Ernest Abbott, a local favourite, is paying a return visit with A Wife's Triumph. In the rôle of the Yorkshire squire, Robert Dewhurst, Mr.. Douglas Phelps gained hearty applause; Mr. Ernest Abbott did well as Frank Wilton; as the villain, Mr. W. H. Garbois was capable; Miss Ada Abbott was an interesting Bessie Dewhurst; Miss Doris Dew an acceptable Alice Wilton.

SUNDERLAND.—Avenue Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin.—Mr. Arthur Hardy's company in Beauty and the Barge is paying a welcome return visit here this week. Mr. Blake Adams is entrusted with the important rôle of Captain James Barley, and does it every justice; Mr. Edward Coventry has ample scope for his abilities as Lieutenant Seton Boyne; Mr. Pennington Gush makes the most of his opportunities as Herbert Manners; Mr. Chas. A. White is a droll John Dibbs; and Mr. Walter Pemberton scores as Major Smedley. Miss Dido Drake fills the rôle of Ethel Smedley with a chic that makes her impersonation very charming; Lucy Dallas finds an apt exponent in Miss Mary Pemberton; Miss Ruby Wyndham gives a capital rendering of Mrs. Baldwin; and Mrs. J. W. Braithwaite scores as Mrs. Porter.

King's Theatre.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Ernest Stevens and R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. L. Carlo.—This is the second and concluding week of the successful pantomime, Cinderella, and on Monday night the commodious auditorium was filled to its utmost capacity. Miss Ellaline Thorne has become a firm favourite by her fine rendering of Prince Casimir; and the Cinderella of Miss Daisy Revett could not be improved upon, her vocal efforts being worthy of special praise; the Fairy Godmother is entrusted to Miss Nellie Wigley, who ranks high among the vocalists; the Sisters are in the hands of Misses Adelaide Gracey and Louie Tinsley, who are much in evidence. Mr. Tom W. Conway's portrayal of Tiny (the Baron's wife) is most amusing; and Mr. George French is another arduous worker as the Baron. Some excellent dances are introduced by the Doreen Girls. Much of the success of the pantomime may be credited to the orchestra, ably conducted by Mr. Thomas Boatwright.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas E. Machin; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jos. Hemingway.—Mr. Arthur Carlton's company is appearing here this week in In Sight of St. Paul's. Mr. Ernest R Allen gives a capital impersonation of Tom Chichester; and the same may be said of Mr. W. H. Domoney as Harry Chichester. Mr. Herbert Cecil plays with considerable power the rôle of John Gridstone; whilst as Bildstein Mr. Henry Gilpin is well placed. Miss Cissie Bellamy gives a refined and pathetic rendering of Aileen Vetch; and the Cynthia Dell of Miss Gussie Everitt is excellent.

Palace of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Managers, Messrs. Alfred Brown and Stringer.—Miss Ella and her wonderfully-trained lions head the bills here this week, and prove as popular as ever. The programme also includes Fred Villars, vocal comedian; Lily Flexmore, contortionist dancer; Ford and Barris Trio, dancers, vocalists, &c.; Lorna Donne, comedienne; Monte Myro Troupe, in sketch; Bert Danson, eccentric comedian; Boyd and Gilfain, in musical turn; and the Palace pictures.

TON-Y-PANDY.—Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; General-Manager, Mr. S. Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ridgewood Barrie.—The attraction here is of a varied character this week. The initial moiety is taken up by the talented American-Indian actress, Go-won-Go-Mohawk and her company, in Wep-ton-no-Mah, the thrilling incidents of which are attentively followed by a crowded house. In the title-rôle, Go-won-Go-Mohawk does not belie her reputation. Manuel Lopez is admirably undertaken by Mr. E. Leroy; and Mr. C. W. Charles does well as Colonel Stockton. Mr. Dan Ryan and Miss Jessie Hart create great amusement as Cassy Cullen and Matilda Sniffles respectively; Mr. G. D. Hackney is suitably cast as Sam White—a happy nigger. For the latter half of the week, Mr. F. R. Benson's company (South) is billed to present The Merchant of Venice, Macbeth, and Hamlet.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—The Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Carey; Manager, Mr. L. J. Gunnell.—Mr. H. Swinerd's company, in Dare-Devil Dorothy, is fulfilling a week's engagement here. Miss Dorothy Desmonde gives a spirited interpretation of the title-rôle, and the principal characters contribute some first-rate specialities, among which may be mentioned the musical numbers of Miss Nellie Harcourt, Miss Marie Vere, and Mr. Bert Edwards, as well as the acrobatic dancing of the Misses Mabel and Lillie Blake; while Mr. Walter Ashley and Mr. H. C. Ward also contribute their share to the success of the piece. One turn which has been specially well received is the plantation scena by Mr. Bert Edwards and Miss Nellie Harcourt, assisted by ten juveniles.

WALSALL.—Her Majesty's Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Mr. Edward Arthur and company head the bill here this week, and prove a great attraction in two scenes from The Lily of Killarney. Mr. Edward Arthur as Myles and Hardress is excellent; Mr. Arthur Gribbon as Mr. Corrigan; the Danny Mann of Mr. David Fuller proves successful, and Miss Fanny Edwards is well placed as Mrs. Cregan. Other items include Azella Wilson, gymnast and trapeze artist; Herbert Shelley in the one-act play, entitled Dan, the Outlaw; Moss and Grayson in The Professor and His Pupil; Will Johnson, comedian; Daisy Martell, comedienne; and the Six Imrie Girls in a clever display of racquet and club juggling. The American Bioscope completes the bill.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—The drama, A Traitor Prince is here this week. In the title-rôle Mr. G. M. Montanini gives a striking impersonation; Miss Mona Hoffe as Vashti ably assists the Prince in his villainy; Mr. Lincoln Calthorpe does well as Lieut. Frank Derrick; Miss Rose Routledge charmingly portrays Lola Vane; Mr. Dudley Wynton undertakes the parts of Richard Vane and Colonel Vane in a most satisfactory manner; and Mr. Harry C. Momber creates amusement as Billy Bright.

Temperance Hall.—The Ediscope and Barnum's animated pictures under the management of Mr. J. B. Kennedy are attracting full houses nightly. A number of star artists give a variety entertainment during the evening.

WEST BROMWICH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. Harding Thomas; Manager, Mr. Herbert Vere.—As Midnight Chimes is being played to well-filled houses here this week by Mr. Leonard Dalrymple's company. Mr. G. B. Williams acts in a manly style the part of Dave Stannard; Mr. Herbert Pearce makes a fine character of Ezra Gamble; the comic parts of Tat Spavvin and Suzette are capitally taken by Mr. James Slater and Miss Madge Beresford; Miss Marion Ryder is decidedly good as the boy Davy; and Mr. Percy Maitland makes the most of the portrayal of Luke Deszard.

The New Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Player.—Miss Dinah Morris and her troupe are being accorded a fine reception. Some good songs are submitted by Mr. Frank Gee and Mr. Harry Cooke; a wonderful pefromance is given by Rozel; Pete and Minnie Lee are smart in their sketch, The Scotchman's Visit to London; James Willard and company, in his screamingly funny sketch, Did He Deserve It? well merits the great applause accorded his company; Mr. Ben Albert keeps the audience in continual roars of merriment with his exceedingly funny songs and patter. Some fine films are shown by the Hippodrome lantern.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—Grand.—Lessee, Mr Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. Herbert E. Feather—Yet another pantomime is visiting here. This time it is Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Levy and J. E. Cardwell's juvenile company, in The Sleeping Beauty. Wee George Wood captivates all who see and hear him as Bertie Dalrymple; Prince Florizel is played in dashing style by Miss Kitty Trewhitt; Beauty has a charming exponent in Miss Dolly Dodds; and as Queen and Asbestos the Brothers Armstrong show to advantage.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—The principal attraction here is Henri Cot, the French giant, and Prince Colibri, the smallest living man, the contrast between whom is causing quite a sensation. The feats of Gicardo, a boy juggler, are performed with remarkable precision; some graceful dancing is contributed by Pyck, Tholl, and Taylor, American comedy artists; the Lancashire comedy of Harry Taylor is amusing; Francis O'Flynn is an adept performer on the banjo; Ray Ford is a chic comedienne, renders her songs in capital style; and Russell Brandow in his latest successes is an attraction.

WHITEHAVEN.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Clark; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Clark.—Mr. Chas. H. Phelps and Mr. Harry Tilbury's company is appearing here in the domestic drama His Dishonoured Wife. Mr. Phelps as Frank Lindon gives a strong portrayal; Mr. Lawrence Brien is capital as the detective; and Mr. Alf Fry is good in the rôle of Lord Devant. Mr. Bernard Webb works hard and successfully as Tom Redman; Mr. Harry Tilbury is amusing as Micky Doolan; Miss Belle Tilbury makes a charming Florence; and Miss B. Newtown is good as Mabel.

WIDNES.—Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. James Kiddie.—Mr. Tom. H. Taylor's company is this week presenting The Worst Woman in London. The play is beautifully mounted and the acting is of high quality all round. Miss Olga Andre created quite a sensation on Monday evening by her powerful and artistically restrained acting in the title-rôle. Mr. George Gaisford is an excellent Jack Felton. The scheming Vincent Lyle is well played by Mr. Paul Barry Lewers; Mr. F. Vernon Travers plays the weak James Milford very ably; Mr. Willie Garvey as the irrepressible Bob Goldfinch proves himself a comedian of great resource with splendid powers of mimicry; Mr. W. H. Monte as Hugh Drayton draws a remarkably good picture of a dissolute old scoundrel; Mr. Leonard Booker is responsible for good work as Philip Armstrong. Miss Elizabeth Watkins is a pleasing and winsome heroine as Ruth Milford; Miss Polly Marsh is amusing in the comedy part of Matilda Parker.

WIGAN.—Royal Court Theatre.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—Mr. Fred Granville's Christmas pantomime, Babes in the Wood, has drawn large audiences during the week. The production is beautifully staged, and in addition to the ordinary features of the piece the Three Graces, or living statues; Boden and Bell, in a clever juvenile act; the Three Bodinas, in a sparkling musical mélange; the Clancy Girls, acrobats and dancers; and the Kimberley Boys, eccentric comedians and knockabouts, lend further attractions to an excellent presentation.

The Hippodrome.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—The Kellinos give a marvellously clever exhibition of tumbling, dancing, &c. Story and Trigg, acrobats, &c., Baffin and Lucas, jugglers, and Dave O'Toole and Gus Garrick, comedians, also provide capital entertainment. The Polio Trio, xylophone marvels, the Primrose Quartet, Will McIvor, in the scena Dreaming, and Dale and Vale, pedestal dancers, are likewise popular. Maymie Cannon sings in excellent voice, and as a trick pianist and comedienne wins general admiration.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—Grand Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. E. H. Bull and Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Percival.—Wolverhampton people are favoured in having the opportunity of witnessing for the first time out of London Mr. Lewis Waller's company in Robin Hood. In the title-rôle Mr. Robert Minster displays great abilities to much advantage. Mr. Augustus Wheatman enacts the part of Friar Tuck in a manner which leaves nothing to be desired; Mr. E. C. Villiers is a capable Little John; Mr. Laurence Tessier makes a smart and effective Will Scarlet; and Mr. Ethelbert Edwards acts and sings in excellent style as Allan A'Dale. The part of King Richard is admirably portrayed by Mr. Stockall Ward; Mr. Bellenden Clarke is successful as Prince John; Mr. Arthur Willerby is an efficient FitzAlwyne; and Mr. H. Elliott Ball a capital Hugo de Longespée. As Maid Marion Miss Marie Polini wins all hearts by her charming impersonation; Miss D. Moore-Lane cleverly fills the part of Adela; Miss Mable Young is a praiseworthy Eleanor of Acquitaine; Miss Lilian Lait does well as Alison Much; and the remaining characters are all in good hands. The play is most effectively staged, and evoked much praise.

WORCESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. F. Le Wards.—Mr. Bert Coote's company is this week paying a return visit in The Fatal Wedding. The production is cleverly staged, and the interest admirably sustained. Mr. Ernest Owtrim makes a capital hero. Howard Wilson, and Miss Catherine Clarke is sympathetic and dignified as his wife; Mr. Guy Hastings finds plenty of scope as the villain; and the part of the adventuress is admirably taken by Miss Leah Marlborough. The comic element is safely entrusted to Miss Julie Temple and Mr. C. H. Hughes; and Miss Marie Wilson was seen and heard to advantage in a child part, singing and dancing excellently. Miss Dolly McCalla, Master Aubrey, Miss Hettie Kelly, and Miss Dorothy Payn contribute acceptable musical items.

WORTHING.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—The Shulamite was presented here on Monday. Mr. Algernon J. Hicks as Simeon Krillett gives a forcible impersonation of the character; Mr. Charles Fancourt as Robert Waring submits a capital portrayal; Mr. Geo. Rammell is a typical Boer as Jan Vanderberg; Miss Emily Levettez puts in some fine work as Tante Anna Vanderberg; Miss Chrissie Bickerstaff scores as the Kaffir girl, Memke; Mr. James L. Rilings does well as Klauss; Miss Ruth Shepherd as Deborah Krillett presents an excellent embodiment.

YORK.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—Sapho (Mr. James Bell's company) has drawn large audiences during the week. Miss V. S. Lawrence in the title-rôle contributed in no small degree to the success of the play. Mr. Otto Minster as Jean Gaussin looked picturesque and acted naturally; and Uncle Césaire was ably portrayed by Mr. Gautley.

Opera House and Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke.—Witty Watty Walton is scoring a tremendous success; Corman's Juveniles have proved a tower of strength: and Raglus, aptly termed eccentric, is one of the neatest jugglers we have seen. The Alberto troupe are equilibrists of the first rank; and the popular baritone, Mr. Albert Chapman, sings in his usual excellent style. The Smithsons, in their sketch Love Germs, are clever; and the Dancing Gilberts secure applause. Jack Crawley, Auto, and the Bioscope complete the list.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE, Dec. 31, 1906.—Her Majesty's Theatre (Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. George Tallis).—The gorgeous spectacular production of the Christmas pantomime, Mother Goose, is proving highly successful, the theatre being packed nightly. On Christmas Eve and Boxing Night hundreds were unable to gain admission. The production has been revised and improved greatly since it was first staged, a number of new and catchy songs having been added. Judging from present appearances, Mother Goose should hold the boards till well on towards Easter.

Theatre Royal (Lessee, Mr. William Anderson; Business-Manager, Mr. Julius Grant).—The Village Blacksmith is earning a great reputation for popularity at this theatre. Miss Eugenie Duggan, Mr. George Cross, and the rest of Mr. Anderson's company all do excellent work, while the mounting is on a most elaborate scale.

Opera House (Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Aydon).—An unusually strong programme is being put forward for the holiday season. George Charti, the lightning change artist, is the chief attraction, his performance nightly being received with great enthusiasm. Fred Russell, the ventriloquist, is back with Coster Joe after an absence of three years. The Alaskas give a finished performance; King and Benson have become popular favourites with their clever singing and neat patter. Other artists who lend valuable assistance include Casselli and James (banjoists), Post Mason, Harry Bedford, Cassie Walmer, the Rose Sisters, Kelly and Agnes, Carleton and Sutton, Lal Logie, and the Harmonious Huxams.

Gaiety Theatre (Manager, Mr. Joe Solomons).—Record business has been done during the holidays, and certainly the patrons of the Gaiety have nothing to complain of as regards the bill of fare provided just now. New arrivals on Saturday included Blutch Jones, Dan Cusack, and Tod Callaway; while pleasing turns were given by Nancy Symmonds, Dave Warne, Laura Diamond, Maud Perman, Frank Melvin, Fred Ireland, and many others.

At the Athenæum Hall the cinématographic story of the adventures of the Kelly Gang is attracting large audiences.

Dreamland, with its numerous attractions, has become a popular resort for the thousands who nightly visit St. Kilda.

SYDNEY, Jan. 8.—Mr. Williamson's double Christmas bill is still going strong. Parsifal, with Miss Tittell Brune and Mr. Gaston Mervale, assisted by Mr. Thomas Kingston, Miss Susie Vaughan, Mr. John Beauchamp, Mr. Harry Sweeney, Mr. J. B. Atholwood, and a large company, has "caught on" marvellously. The matinée performance of Alice in Wonderland, given by a cast of "all Australian" children, was also a complete success. A vast crowd of children throng the stage, all trained by Miss Minnie Everett, and there are a number of specialities introduced.

Mr. Bland Holt is still booming A Path of Thorns at the Royal. Messrs. Ward, Willoughby, and Miss Grace Palotta crowd the Criterion with The New Clown. The vaudeville at the Tivoli keeps up Mr. Harry Rickards' reputation, and delights his patrons. The National Amphitheatre has the Bovis Brothers and a large company. The Athenæum, the Haymarket Hippodrome, Lyceum Prayer and Picture Hall, and Wonderland City has added Signor and Signora Cheffalo, in "Looping the Loop." All these are doing holiday business, as the weather is the coolest that has been experienced at Christmas for many years.

MELBOURNE, Jan. 16.—Her Majesty's Theatre (Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Manager, Mr. George Tallis).—The gorgeous spectacular pantomime, Mother Goose, continues to attract large audiences. The cast includes Harry Phydora, Harry Shine, Sam Gale, H. H. Wallace, Eddie McLean, Queen and Le Brun, Florence Young, Olive Morrell, Pressy Preston, and a host of others, who keep the fun merrily going from the start to the finish. The pantomime is most elaborately mounted, and contains a number of "catchy" songs and novel dances. Judging from present appearances Mother Goose will run for some considerable time.

Theatre Royal (Lessee, Mr. William Anderson; Manager, Mr. Julius Grant).—Mr. Anderson has evidently hit the public taste with his latest production, The Village Blacksmith, the theatre being packed nightly. Mr. George Cross, in the name part, is well placed; Miss Duggan as the heroine lends him able support; while the rest of the company appear to advantage in their various characters. The piece is well mounted, and contains some striking tableaux.

Opera House (Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Aydon).—Chanti, the lightning change artist, is the leading attraction just now; his performance is a remarkably clever one, and is nightly received with loud applause. The bill includes Kelly and Agnes, Cassie Walmer, Lal Logie, Rowell Sisters, King and Benson, Fred Russell, the Alaskas, Annie Laurie, Olive Robinson, Brightie Smith, and a host of others. Mr. Rickards is at present staying in Melbourne for a short holiday.

Gaiety Theatre (Manager, Mr. Joe Solomons).—The Silvenis (lady and gentleman) made their first apearance on Saturday evening, and met with an enthusiastic reception. A complete change of programme was presented by Addie Fromp, Blutch Jones, Maud Perman, Harry Elliott, Charles Moody, Laura Diamond, Dan Cusack, Myrtle Sylvan, Fred Ireland, and Frank York.

Mr. John A. Thomson's pantomime, Jack and the Beanstalk, has been drawing crowded houses at the Worple Hall, Wimbledon. Miss Edith Wallis made a very fine principal boy, and played with great verve. She was well supported by Miss Maggie Allwood, who sang well as Jill, and by Miss Georgie Mansell and Miss Nellie Stewart as Johnny Horner and Little Bo-Peep respectively. Mr. Percy Galino (Billy Piper) and Mr. Teddy Worth (Tommy Tucker) made an admirable comic pair, and were well aided by Mr. Wallace Bosco (Sir Peter Piffin) and Mr. Harry Harcourt (Mother Harcourt). Mr. Reginald Maddox was an adequate Giant Grim, and Mr. R. Lomas caused much laughter by his presentment of Molly (the cow), and also in his really wonderful acrobatic performance as a monkey. Miss Ella Rose as Britannia presided gracefully over her troupe of dainty attendants. A special word of praise must be accorded to the Violetta Troupe of Lady Dancers.

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA—1850-1900.

(COPYRIGHT.)

In these columns it is proposed to give a strictly alphabetical arrangement of the titles of plays produced during the last fifty years. It will be the most complete list ever published, and should prove invaluable to authors desiring to discover whether a certain title has ever been used, and when. To members of the dramatic profession it will be useful in determining the dates of plays in which they have achieved successes. Our readers are politely requested to advise us of any omission or inaccuracy which they may notice.

This list as soon as complete will be published in cheap book form.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NEW YORK, FEB. 6.—Mr. E. H. Sothern and Miss Julia Marlowe, during their present engagement at the Lyric Theatre, will appear in a répertoire of fifteen plays. Herman Sudermann's tragedy Johannes, translated into English and entitled John the Baptist, was the initial offering, and it fell far short of being a popular success. The much-talked-of "Dance of the Seven Veils" was gracefully executed by Miss Marlowe, but there was nothing in it to call for the intervention of the police, and in view of the fact that a large section of the New York public has a chronic craving for "sensations" of that sort, there is no doubt that a great many people were disappointed. Fortunately that disgusting bit of realism, the exhibition of the head on a charger, which caused the withdrawal of the Oscar Wilde version of the story from the Metropolitan Opera House, was omitted from the performance at the Lyric Theatre. The main purpose of Sudermann's psychological drama is to analyse the character of the Baptist, Salome being represented as an incipient wanton. Mr. Sothern's John the Baptist and Miss Marlowe's Salome were praiseworthy portrayals, but the play was monotonous and unimpressive. It was succeeded on the 29th ult. by Jeanne d'Arc, a drama in five acts, by Percy Mackaye, which has been favourably received by the Press and the public. The rôle of Jeanne d'Arc is well suited to Miss Marlowe's personality and dramatic methods, and Mr. Sothern is seen to advantage as Jean, Duke d'Alençon, and cousin to King Charles, a nobleman of studious mind, sincere purpose, and a firm belief in the heavenly mission of the Maid of Orleans. The play covers the history of Jeanne d'Arc from the time when she left her humble home in the village of Domremy until she rode triumphantly at the side of King Charles into the City of Rheims, the scenes being presented in the following order: Act I., The Ladies' Tree, near Domremy, Springtime, 1428; Act II., The Castle of King Charles VII., at Chinon, March 8, 1428; Act III., Outside the Walls of Orleans, the Attack on the Tourelles, May 7, 1429; Act IV., Before the Walls of Troyes en route for Rheims, Night of July 5, 1429; and in the second scene of this act the Coronation Pageant of King Charles in a street in Rheims, seen from an old wall of the castle, Sunday, July 17, 1429; Act V., Jeanne's Prison at Rouen, May 30, 1431.

"THE LITTLE MICHUS" made a decided hit at the Garden Theatre on the 31st ult., and Mr. George Graves in the rôle of General des Ifs scored a personal success of the first magnitude. Misses Alice Judson and Ruth Julian as the Little Michus, Mr. Ernest Lambart as Bagnolet, Miss Elita Proctor Otis and Mr. George Fortescue as the Michus, and Mr. William C. Weedon as Gaston Rigaud were very successful in their respective parts.

MISS ELLEN TERRY received an enthusiastic welcome at the Empire Theatre, when she made her reappearance after a lengthy absence from the American stage, and the distinguished actress was plainly delighted. The satirical humour of Captain Brassbound's Conversion, in which Miss Terry appeared as Lady Cecily Waynflete, was readily understood and enjoyed by the audience, which summoned Miss Terry before the curtain at least a dozen times during the evening and would not leave the theatre until she had expressed her thanks. Mr. James Carew's Captain Brassbound was an excellent characterisation; and Messrs. Rudge Harding, W. T. Lovell, George Elton, Tom Paulton, and George Ingleton rendered good service in prominent rôles. Miss Terry has denied that this is to be her farewell tour of America. She says that she will keep coming here as long as the Americans will receive her.

NEW YORK, FEB. 13.—Miss Camille D'Arville, after a long absence from the local stage, has renewed her popularity in a dainty and delightful musical comedy, entitled The Belle of London Town, by Stanislaus Stange and Julian Edwards, which has scored a decided success at the Lincoln-square Theatre. The piece is a musical version of Mr. Stange's comedy, The School for Husbands, originally produced about three years ago. Sir John Manners and his beautiful wife, Lady Belinda, are not on good terms with each other. Their marriage was a loveless one, Lady Belinda having sacrificed herself for money in order to save her father from ruin. Sir John turns the house into a tavern for his military friends, and openly slights his wife, who resolves to pay him back in kind, and is well able to do so, since, unknown to Sir John, who has gambled away his money, she has inherited a large fortune. As the belle of London Town she excites his jealousy, makes him fight a duel, and finally wins his admiration and affection.

"THE ROSE OF THE ALHAMBRA; OR, THE ENCHANTED LUTE," a romantic comic opera, in three acts, by Charles Emerson Cook and Lucius Hosmer, has been favourably received at the Majestic Theatre. The story is drawn from one of Washington Irving's legends, and from the history of Spain during the early part of the eighteenth century, when Philip V., the Bourbon, was the eccentric ruler of the realm. In his fanciful weave of romance and comedy the author introduces Jacinta, an Andalusian maid, who, with a sour spinster aunt, dwells in a lone tower on the outer wall of the Alhambra. Jacinta builds an air castle of love, which becomes a reality when Ruyz, a Royal page, climbs the wall in search of a stray falcon, whilst the whimsical Philip is on his way to Grenada to rehearse the monks of San Marco in a new requiem for his forthcoming demise. Philip has a playful habit of periodically declaring himself dead. The retinue falls into the hands of Boraldo, a notorious bandit, and Ruyz is taken prisoner to the retreat of the brigands, while Philip is forced to sign the Royal pardon of Boraldo and his band. Jacinta, fearing for her lover, implores the spirit of Zorahayda, a Moorish Princess imprisoned in an enchanted fountain, to save Ruyz. Zorahayda, awakened from the spell which bound her, gives the maid a magic lute, assuring Jacinta that its charm will carry her fame as a singer throughout Spain, even to the Court of the King, over whom music alone is potent to move him from his erratic moods. With this talisman Jacinta starts in quest of her sweetheart. Philip, in one of his eccentric moods, disguises himself as Boraldo, and, with a select party of courtiers, gains the bandit's stronghold. The various characters are involved in a series of ludicrous situations, and the fickle Ruyz, who has been captivated by the amorous glances of Estrella, the brigands' "mascot," is won back by Jacinta with the aid of the magic lute. The music is melodious, and the mise-en-scène is picturesque and beautiful. Miss Agnes Cain Brown, Mr. Henry Norman, and Miss Lillian Hudson win approval in prominent rôles.

MISS LULU GLASER is appearing at the Criterion Theatre in a new comedy, by Sydney Rosenfeld, called The Aero Club, in which the chief incident is a race between a balloon and an automobile. Myrtle Webb, who is engaged to be married to a prominent society man, learns that on the day of the race a young millionaire aeronaut, Jack Chandler, is going to take one of her friends, a married woman, in his balloon. To save her friend from being compromised, Myrtle persuades Chandler that she herself is in love with him, and takes the trip in the balloon. The next morning they land in a dilapidated condition, and the resulting complications are very amusing. Miss Glaser has made a genuine hit as Myrtle Webb, and others who contribute to the success of the comedy are Messrs. FitzWilliam and James H. Bradbury.

MR. JEFFERSON DE ANGELIS, as Don Pascal de Mesquita, the Governor of a South American colony under Spanish rule, is the central figure of a new comic opera, The Girl and the Governor, by S. M. Brenner and Julian Edwards, which forms the current attraction at the Manhattan Theatre. The girl of the title is a spirited English lass whom the Governor has taken prisoner, and whom he wishes to marry. But Ruth Granville (Miss Estelle Wentworth) has surrendered her heart to Dick Kingsley, an English sailor. Ruth keeps Don Pascal at a respectful distance by feigning a shrewish disposition, and giving frequent exhibitions of a violent temper. The sailor lover finds his way to La Guayra in the nick of time, on the day before the wedding, when his disconsolate is contemplating suicide. At a moment when she is venting her rage upon the Governor, Kingsley makes gestures to restrain her. The ruler observes with admiration the success of the sailor man, and forthwith appoints him his official "tamer." The maiden continues to play the shrew, and the lovers carry on their courtship under the Governor's nose, until he discovers that he has been fooled. His plan for a terrible revenge is frustrated, however, when an English ship sails into the harbour, and the Governor is forced to console himself with a lady of his own nationality. The success of the piece is chiefly due to the acrobatic capers of Mr. De Angelis, the singing of several pleasing numbers by Miss Wentworth and Mr. Richie Ling, and the effective rendering of a novel and amusing song, called "The Musical Bullfrog," by Mr. Joseph C. Miron.

MISS MARGARET ILLINGTON (Mrs. Daniel Frohman), who has distinguished herself by her fine performance of Nina in Pinero's His House in Order, will star next season in Dr. Wake's Patient, in which play she will assume the comedy rôle of Lady Gerania.

THEATRICAL PATENTS.

The concise descriptions that we give below of recent patent applications are specially contributed by Messrs. Howard and Co., Patent Agents, 57 and 58, Chancery-lane, London, W.C., who will assist readers in all patent matters:—

APPLICATIONS.

2335. Edward Albert Pickering, Ludgate-hill, London, for "Apparatus for producing the illusion of a voyage on board a vessel, ship, or boat."

2336. Edward Albert Pickering, Ludgate-hill, London, for "Improvements in the manipulation and exhibition of cinematograph pictures and the like."

2350. Julius Kopetzky, Chancery-lane, London, for "Improved apparatus for abolishing the glimmer of cinematographic pictures."

2700. Thomas Barrasford and George Victor Twiss, Southampton-buildings, London, for "Improvements in apparatus for producing the illusion of going on a voyage."

2778. Henry William Palmer, St. Martin's-lane, London. Improvements in mechanism employed in the production of cinematograph and mutascopic pictures and dark slide for carrying sensitive photographic plate for taking impressions.

3526. Oscar Covey (professionally known as Bud Snyder), of Chancery-lane, London. Improvements in apparatus for affording spectacular entertainment.

3618. Carl Hochenegg, of Southampton-buildings, London. Improvements relating to emergency illumination for theatres and the like.

COMPLETE SPECIFICATIONS.

21,329. Acrobatic apparatus. Obiols, G., Faubourg, St. Honoré, Paris. In an apparatus for projecting performers through the air, the performer occupies a seat in a car, mounted upon slides engaging rods, which are fixed to a girder hinged to a bed-plate and supported at any angle by an adjustable rod. The car is attached to two cables, which pass partly round and are fixed to grooved pulleys mounted upon a shaft having a drum, upon which is wound a cable connected with a grooved quadrant and held in tension by the pressure of springs. The car is drawn back by a rope passing over a windlass until a stop on the car frame engages a detent, upon release of which the car is projected forward till it strikes spring buffers, when the upper part containing the performer is projected through the air, the base of the car remaining on the slide. The car is prevented from starting too suddenly by the pressure of a brake upon a tapered piece fixed to the back of the car-frame.

Rimbert ..... M. André Lefaur
Lehugont ..... M. Clement
Séraphin ..... M. Marius Barlay

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, Thursday, Feb. 14.—M. Tristan Bernard has given us an insignificant comedy, but which contains a few episodical personages who impart life to the otherwise rather dull piece. Lucie is engaged to Rimbert, but she tells the young man that she wants to break off the engagement, whereupon he disappears. The truth is that Lucie loves Bariller, a timid medical practitioner, whom she wants to marry. Everybody ignores this; and Lucie's friends not only pity her, but say unkind things about Rimbert, who deserted his fiancée. Jeannine, Lucie's seventeen-year-old sister, is especially indignant; and as she feels certain that Lucie is pining for the wicked Rimbert, she resolves to bring him back. Jeannine has an old friend, called Fister, and she coaxes the man into motoring her to Dieppe. It is not a very long trip, for all the personages in the play are spending the summer on the Normandy coast. In Dieppe, Jeannine puts up at the hotel where Rita, Rimbert's mistress, is staying. When Fister makes his appearance there with Jeannine, Rita and her friends—all of them belonging to the "fast" set—compliment him on his fair companion. Nobody heeds his indignant denials; and he is accepted as Jeannine's lover. All this seems very improbable, especially when Rimbert himself does not recognise the young girl. As it turns out, Rimbert has never seen her, for when he became engaged to Lucie, Jeannine was on a visit with some friends, and before her return the match had been broken off. Rimbert, however, is smart enough to see that Jeannine is a respectable girl. He cannot understand why she has come to this place with Fister, who is neither young nor handsome, nor rich. And he is angry with Fister, with Jeannine, and also with himself, for he discovers that he loves the girl. And she? She has returned the compliment, and leaves the hotel in a hurry when her eyes are opened to this fact. It is, of course, a case of love at first sight. There are many things that shock us. It is not pleasant to see an innocent girl in conversation with women like Rita, like Maud de Meulan, like Thaïs Couturier; but the author has given us such a delightful dialogue and has dealt so adroitly with the situations that we are apt to forget how improbable the whole story is. In the last act we witness the engagement of Jeannine and Rimbert, and of Lucie and Bariller. The plot would have supplied a pretty one act. There is not enough material for three. But, as I said before, we have the episodical personages, and they are really amusing. The good-natured Fister, who dabbles in doubtful securities, which he places among his friends, is a curious character. So is the young doctor Bariller, a great scientist, but so utterly tactless. Nor must I forget the women: Rita, who dances a fandango, whilst her cousin accompanies her on the piano; Maud de Meulan, with her impossible twaddle; and the silly Thaïs. They all are wonderful types. The piece was fairly well acted.

"LES ETOILES,"

Play, in Four Acts, by M. Jean Jullien, produced at the Théâtre Molière on Feb. 9.

Le Colonel Morlet ..... M. Pouctal
Le Capitaine Cheniot ..... M. Valney
Le Capitaine de Salvagny ..... M. Mauge
Le Lieutenant Labasquime ..... M. Combes
Le Commandant Marsillac ..... M. Duval
Le Général Dubourg ..... M. Thorsigny
Huguette ..... Mlle. G. Maxance
Charlotte Jordaim ..... Mlle. Leo Renn
Aurora de Marsillac .. Mlle. Luneville Boscher
Lucie ..... Mlle. Ritter

Les étoiles (the stars) are not the shining bodies seen in the heavens at night, but the badges of rank on the coats of the generals of the French army. The play is a clever psycological study, such as we would expect from M. Jullien; but, like the work just described, it lacks brightness, and proved somewhat boring to the audience. Colonel Morlet is in command of a cuirassier regiment, quartered in a small provincal town. He is a widower, and his ambition is to become General. He has an only daughter, Huguette. Spoilt by her father, the girl does as she pleases, interfering in everything, even in matters concerning the regiment. She, too, has ambitious dreams, and is anxious that her father should secure the coveted "stars"; but, unfortunately, her thoughts have wandered in other directions, and she gives herself to a handsome cavalry captain. The next day she bitterly regrets what she has done, and refuses to meet again the man who has seduced her. The catastrophe has, however, made a deep impression on her, and there is no saying what might have become of her if she had not met Captain Chevriot, an upright man and a splendid soldier, whom the colonel holds in great esteem. Huguette and he fall in love with one another, and Chevriot, an excellent strategist, supplies capital advice to the colonel, whose tactics at the great manœuvres received special praise. The colonel's joy on hearing that the "stars" are now within his grasp is marred by the news that Chevriot has sent a challenge to the officer who took advantage of Huguette's inexperience; in fact, it is through this challenge that he learns for the first time what befell his daughter. Chevriot, too, was thunderstruck when Huguette loyally confessed to him the fault she committed. But Chevriot is a reader of character. He understands that the girl was the victim of a scoundrel, and he does not hesitate to make her his wife. The interpretation was good. M. Pouctal was rather heavy as the colonel, but as one of our confrères wittily remarked, we must not forget that we are in a heavy cavalry regiment. Mlle. Gladys Maxance gave us a graceful and sweet Huguette, and we cannot but regret that Mlle. Ritter, that clever actress, had such an insignificant rôle assigned to her. MM. Valney, Combes, Duval, and Thorsigny also deserves a word of praise.

"Madame Gosse" is the title of a four-act comedy brought out at the Théâtre des Arts. It is by Mme. Marguerite Rolland. Madame Gosse is Pierrette, a young married woman, so called because she looks so childlike. Having caught her husband in an amorous tête-à-tête, she applies for a divorce, whilst the erring, but repentant, husband goes out to China, where he hopes to meet with his death. Left to herself, Madame Gosse is besieged by admirers, foremost among them a certain Stanislas, who succeeds in inducing her to come to his chambers. He proves, however, such a cad that he disgusts her. Then she learns that her husband is dead; a false alarm, for he turns up suddenly and meets Madame Gosse. They fall into one another's arms.

M. Albert Carré has received a new one-act musical play, called Denisette. It is by M. Fernand Beissier, music by M. André Eijan. The principal rôle will be sung by Mme. Dangès.

In the Revue des Folies Bergère, M. Galipaux, the comic actor, directs the orchestra during one of the tableaux, and, to the surprise of the audience, he plays a violin solo in a masterly manner. Few people know that M. Galipaux began his career as a musician, and was awarded the first prize for violin at the Conservatoire.

"LES HIRONDELLES."

Operette in Three Acts, by M. Maurice Ordonneau, music by M. Henri Hirschman; produced at the Gaieté on Feb. 20.

Pomponnette ..... Mme. Tariol-Baugé
Modeste ..... Mlle. Malza
La Directrice ..... Mme. Angèle Lambert
Cécile ..... Mlle. Delimoges
La Sous-Maîtresse ..... Mlle. Dorys
Brignol ..... M. Lucien Noel
Jean ..... M. Sulbac
André Balivet ..... M. Soums
Plantavoine ..... M. Bourgeois
Pancrace ..... M. Bartel

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, Thursday, Feb. 21.—This operette has, it appears, been represented more than a thousand times in the Fatherland. We are also officially informed that the story is not of German manufacture, but was written originally in French, translated into German, and that the work after its successful career in Berlin has now come to Paris to gather fresh laurels. To judge from the reception it met here, it is not likely to prove a success. In questions of art French taste is totally dissimilar to German, and M. Ordonneau might have known his countrymen better than to suppose for an instant that a heavy, old-fashioned libretto, without the least attempt at wit, could please the Parisians. During one of the entr'actes I heard someone remark: "It's provincial"; and that exactly describes it. Here in Paris you cannot damn a thing worse. The scene of the plot, of course, is laid in the eighteenth century. At curtain-rise we are in the courtyard of a hostelry in Versailles. They are expecting the stage coach, which is to bring Mlle. Modeste Blanchard, escorted by her uncle Chantavoine, a priest. Mlle. Modeste is sent to the "Hirondelles," a boarding school, that she might forget the student Brignol, who wanted to marry her, but who has been rejected by the girl's hard-hearted parents. In the courtyard we also see Balivet, another student, in love with Cécile, likewise a pupil in the "Hirondelles." He wants to enter the school, and, donning Modeste's dress, he impersonates her, whilst his servant represents the old priest. Thanks to Pomponnette, an actress, Brignol, too, slips into the house, and then we have a series of silly scenes, like the one wherein Balivet, whom everybody takes for Modeste, is asked to rub down the girls who return from their dip in the river. The libretto is so absurd that M. Hirschman had almost a hopeless task before him to set this piffle to music. He certainly did wonders with it, and although his score is not very original, he has given us some delightful melodies, duets, marches, &c. His music is worthy of a better frame. The work was well interpreted. Mme. Tariol-Baugé is prettily dressed, and sings prettily. Her rôle, unfortunately, is rather short. Mme. Angèle Lambert was an amusing schoolmistress. M. Sulbac, an ex-music hall star, proved himself a capital comic actor, and even a good acrobat, a talent that stood him in good stead. M. Soums was a little too melancholy for his rôle; and M. Lucien Noël, the hero of so many "adventures," received quite an ovation from his fair admirers.

M. Briand, our Fine Arts Minister, has appointed Mme. Sarah Bernhardt professor at the Conservatoire in the place of the late M. Laugier. When the distinguished actress arrived at the old house in the Rue Faubourg-Poissonnière, the courtyard was filled with a number of Society snoblings, the same crowd who always want to be first row in the front at every function. The snoblings were anxions to be present at Mme. Bernhardt's first lesson, and tried to force their way into the classrooms. But M. Fauré had given stringent orders not to admit strangers, and the well-dressed crowd drove away grumbling in a long procession of motors. Mme Bernhardt's appointment has given much amusement to those "in the know." It was a cleverly-hatched little plot between the talented artist and M. Briand. That lady has the utmost desire to pin the little scarlet ribbon of the Legion of Honour on her dress. Thrice she was proposed, and each time the Grande Chancellerie refused to bestow it upon her. "We made an exception in favour of Mme. Bartet," they said; "but in future we will not decorate any more actresses." Few people agreed with the Chancellerie. Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has rendered valuable services to dramatic act, and she fully deserves the distinction. Mr. Briand, however, is a native of Brittany, and, therefore, obstinate and persevering. He has shown these characteristics in his struggle with the Church. He does not know what it is to be beaten, and hit upon a shrewd plan. "If the Chancellerie," he said to Mme. Bernhardt, "will not decorate you because you are an actress, they cannot refuse to do so if you are a professor." And forthwith he gave her the position left vacant by M. Laugier's death. As a political move M. Briand's action was very smart. But is it equally good from an artistic point of view? That is the question. Mme. Bernhardt is very conscientious; and if—as is likely—she takes her new functions as professor seriously, she no longer will be able to go "on tour." Chicago, San Francisco, and other remote cities will no longer be visited by her, for the new regulations of our Conservatoire are drastic, and do not allow professors to absent themselves for any length of time. MM. Le Bargy and de Féraudy found this out at their cost; and when they saw that under M. Fauré's management they could not indulge in unlimited tours they resigned their posts. Mme. Bernhardt will, therefore, devote herself to her pupils. She will teach them how to walk on the stage, and will impress upon them that a perfect enunciation is an indispensable quality in an actress. She will do great things. For all that, the great artist will, it is to be feared, have a dangerous influence on her flock. She has so many qualities that we overlook her peculiarities, which are numerous. The sing-song manner in which she delivers tirades and her curious knack of "forcing" many syllables are distinctly personal, and even impart a distinct charm to her utterance. With a woman possessed of less talent these little mannerisms would be unbearable. And it is here that the danger comes in. Her pupils will not fail to imitate her, and we are threatened with a new generation of little Sarah Bernhardts who will have nothing in common with the original. Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, as is well known, is a great admirer of Sardou, a clever playwright, but whose pieces are unsuited for students practising for the stage. Let us hope that the new professor will not introduce those into the Conservatoire, and confine herself to the old répertoire wherein the budding young actresses have a better opportunity of studying great rôles.

The Revue du Centenaire, to be produced at the Variétés next week, will be gorgeously mounted. In the finale of the second tableau—representing the "Palais de la Danse"—one hundred ladies will take part. There will be two sensational numbers—"The Mattchiche," danced by Mlle. Polaire and a "star" from Madrid; the other, an American fancy step, performed by the inimitable Max Dearly and Miss Béatrix Lawler, who, not long ago, had a curious lawsuit, a full report of which appeared in these colums.

Presentation.—Mr. Leonard Gautier, the late musical director at the Grand Theatre, Croydon, was on his retirement presented with a handsome ebony and gold-mounted bâton from the members of his orchestra. This elegant gift was accompanied by an illuminated address, executed by one of the musicians.

BERLIN, Thursday, Feb. 14.—Hans von Kahlenberg is the pseudonym of Fräulein Helene von Montbart, a cleverwriter of novels and satirical sketches. She is best known by her book "Nixchen," which aroused a storm of indignation when it appeared, and was ultimately prohibited. With all her talent, the author is not a playwright, if we may judge by her first production, and all the nimbus shed upon the opening night cannot make the play anything but a loose series of very confusing episodes which may or may not have taken place during the reign of Frederick the Great. Fräulein von Montbart has many friends at Court, and their Majesties, with Prince and Princess Eitel and numerous other persons of distinction, were present. Added to all this, the mounting was superb, and a report was spread that the picture on the easel in the boudoir scene of the second act was a genuine Titian, valued at 500,000 marks—which report one is at liberty to believe or not. The title (Dresden china) is deducted from a very pretty dance in the third act—which depicts a costume fête. The action, or what passes for such, transpires during the Seven Years' War. We see the King in many scenes familiar to us from Mentzel's paintings—taking snuff, speaking his favourite French, playing the flute. Of course there is an intrigue, but this is so obscure, both in motive and development, that the patience of the audience was greatly tried. Countess Olga Kathinka—a Pole of doubtful origin and shady mode of life—who is the mistress of August der Stärke (King of Saxony), endeavours to avenge herself upon "old Fritz," because he treated her advances—when a young man—with contempt. Madame Kathinka possesses herself of Frederick's private keys and steals a document in which all sorts of secrets are set forth. No damage is done, however, in spite of the general consternation, and the clever Prussian King evidently understands the why and the wherefore better than the audience. The interpretation was extremely good all round, Herr Schmidt-Haessler looking the part of the King admirably. The Kaiser—who complimented the manager warmly—expressed his keen appreciation of this actor's very clever make-up.

At the Kleines Theatre a new Russian play by Leonid Andrejeff was produced last week, meeting with a cordial reception. The title is Zu den Sternen (to the stars), and there are four long and not very interesting acts. Of dramatic nerve and sinew there is not the faintest trace; the whole is a never-ending philosophical tirade against the sad state of things in "holy Russia." The monotonous effect is enhanced by the hero, the manager of an observatory, apostrophising the stars from his lofty eminence, and telling his woes to the unresponsive heavens. Herr Reicher's impersonation of the old star-gazer was a first-rate piece of acting, but even that famous artist could not make the part natural or convincing.

"Haben Sie Nichts zu Verzollen?" is the title of a new three-act farce by MM. Hennequin and Veber (German by Max Schoenau), which has just made its triumphal entry at the Residenz—that home of French farce. To detail the plot with all its whimsicalities and risky "situations" would be an impossibility. The piece serves its purpose, and many an evening will be spent in hearty laughter at the grotesque fun. Herr Alexander—Residenz manager and our most popular comedian—has a rôle which once more fits him like a glove, displaying his broad yet refined humour to the utmost, and he is admirably seconded by Fräulein Vera Witt, as Zézé, and others of the capital cast.

The piquant little Figaro Theatre is doing excellent business. It has become the fashion here—"quite in Parisian style"—to sit at small tables and drink champagne (or something less expensive), while allowing oneself to be amused by the first-rate Figaro company, whose programme always consists of several one-act plays. One or two novelties were produced on Monday evening, the reception being, on the whole, a cordial one. Arthur Stiehler's satirical comedy Eine Hochzeitsnacht made a particularly favourable impression. A young married couple have just started on their honeymoon when they find themselves—by no fault of their own, but through the carelessness of the station-master—compelled to pass the night in the miserable accommodation afforded by the little wayside station. They settle down to the inevitable with as good a grace as possible, but it is cold weather, and the temper suffers. Finally, the bridegroom breaks up for firewood a bench which is the property of the Royal Prussian Railway, and this crime costs them dear. The author describes with capital humour and not a small dose of satire the flutter of excitement and the self-importance of the local jacks-in-office. The honeymooners ultimately narrowly escape the danger of being convicted for a pair of international swindlers, but a mutual friend of well-known high standing turns up in the nick of time, and all comes to a satisfactory conclusion. Herr Stiehler was "called" and warmly applauded, as were also the artists—one of whom, Fräulein Claire Waldhoff, was especially bright and sympathetic. The other successful novelty was a comedy by Felix Berger, entitled Sein Ideal. There is hardly any action, but the dialogue is bright, and one of the scenes is very amusing. A sentimental clerk is in love with his "ideal," to whose eyebrow he composes sonnets. To his horror he discovers the lady is the wife of an aristocrat. The sentimentalist, however, is made perfectly happy by the gift of the lady's photograph, presented to him by her jovial, commonsense husband, to whom such flights of fancy are incomprehensible and amusing. After this piece, too, the author was compelled to bow his acknowledgments, while a third novelty, Katastrophe, met with scant appreciation.

Yet another Sherlock Holmes is to make its début. This time the play is to appear at the Bernhard Rose Theatre (formerly the Carl Weiss), with the actor-manager, Herr Bernhard Rose, in the title-rôle.

A drama by C. Beyer, written in Low German, and bearing the title of Ut de Preussentid, will be produced at the New Royal Opera next week. The proceeds are to go towards a monument to Fritz Reuter—the German Charles Dickens.

As was to be feared, Herr Hauptmann's new comedy Die Jungfern von Bischofsberg has all but disappeared from the Lessing Theatre bill. It will probably see a few more performances at long intervals, and then vanish into oblivion. Herr Hauptmann has left Berlin for his country house in Silesia.

Fraulein Destinn, our Royal Opera prima donna, is a poetess of no mean talent. A charming book of poems has recently appeared, and six songs of hers have just been set to music by Kapellmeister Leo Blech. When one remembers the fact that Fräulein Destinn is a Hungarian one will accord her all the more credit.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, Thursday, Feb. 21.—Herr Gradl is a new star on the operatic horizon, and his first attempt has met with distinct success. The music of the Milliardär is very bright and fresh; it contains several pleasing melodies—notably a waltz air, a delightful little trio, and a march duet—and although much of it is crude, other parts bear traces of great musical ability and even originality. The book is by the well-known farce-collaborators Herren Okonowski and Lippschitz. It is amusing, as might be anticipated, though there is a falling off both in the interest and the humour towards the end. The scene is laid in the United States in the first two acts, that of the last act in Cuba. A multi-millionaire has left the whole of his fortune to his son by a former marriage, on the condition he marries his cousin Olivia. Of the son, Jack by name, nothing has been heard for years, excepting the fact that he exists somewhere or other as a cowboy. He had been brought up by strangers since his childhood, and it is with a sense of tardy retribution that his father has made him sole heir. Robert, the millionaire's nephew, has been depending upon the hope of inheriting, and doing nothing else for a livelihood, consequently he and all the other relatives are dead against the cowboy. Stubbs and Gripps are a couple of mercenary lawyers, who both hope to come in for some of the dead man's dollars. Tempted by the high reward, Gripps succeeds in finding Jack Dillmore at last, but the young fellow is by no means overjoyed at the prospect before him, preferring his free life in the desert. Stubbs makes his daughter Ariella—an adventurous, merry-minded maiden—dress up as a boy, and appear as the rightful heir, a proceeding which leads to some laughable complications. Of course, everything comes right in the end. Jack falls in love with Olivia and becomes reconciled to spending his millions in her sweet company, while Robert consoles himself with the fair Ariella. The last act is somewhat far-fetched, everyone turning up in Cuba, where the war is breaking out, and for no particular reason. The interpretation was so good, however, that even the weakest act met with sufficient applause to carry it over water, and authors, composer, and manager, as well as artists and conductor, were all enabled to appear before the drop. Especial commendation is due to Herr Oscar Braun for his admirable account of Jack Dillmore.

A couple of new farces were produced last week at the Schiller Theatre, N., by the Lustspielhaus company, both of which were most cordially received. The first—a one-act piece entitled Adieu, Therese—is by Ludwig Reuner, who has written it with a good deal of humour, but based it, with too little attempt at originality, upon Schnitzler's Abschieds Souper. The second piece is in three acts, and bears the title of Sein Alibi. It is by Wilhelm Wolters, and the author details very wittily the difficulties of proving—at times—an alibi. There is no small amount of satire mixed up with the fun, especially relating to the ambitions of barristers who make a case out of nothing for their own ends. Both the pieces were very brightly acted, the longer work creating storms of laughter, culminating in loud calls for the author.

"Husarenfieber," Herren Kadelburg and Skowronnek's popular farce, has reached its 100th performance at the Lustspielhaus, and there is every reason to believe it will see another hundred or two. The house was filled in every part, and enthusiasm was as great as it was at the première.

Verdi's Falstaff has been revived at the Royal Opera after a very long interval, and though a good deal of pains had been expended upon the cast and mounting, I fear it is trouble thrown away. The reception was a cool one, the applause evidently being intended for the artists alone—especially such old favourites as Frau Herzog. It is a work that could scarcely become popular anywhere, and although universally praised at the time of its first production, it has never held anything approaching a sure footing in the bill. The title-rôle was given in thoroughly capable manner by Herr Bachmann, with just the right amount of humour; Herr Hoffmann was capital in the part of Ford; and Mesdames Goetze, Herzog, Rothauser, and Dietrich did well in their respective rôles; while in minor parts Herren Lieban, Mödlinger, and others aided the all-round excellence of the performance. The scenery was new in parts and very effective. Dr. Richard Strauss conducted in customary able manner.

"Gansе-Liesl," Fräulein Rosa Dodillet's graceful little fairy play, which was produced at the Lustspielhaus some months ago with a good deal of success, was given at a matinée at the Lortzing Theatre last week. It met with such a cordial reception—particularly from the juvenile portion of the audience—that it will be repeated at regular intervals for some time.

At the Luisen Der Erbe von Baskerville, a four-act sensational play drawn from Conan Doyle's story by F. Gibson, has been produced with unusually satisfactory results. It is perhaps the best put together of all the Sherlock Holmes adaptations with which we have been inundated lately, and is uncanny and sensational enough to please anyone. The piece was exceedingly well acted, author and artists being called repeatedly by an enthusiastic audience.

Tschaikowsky's opera Pique Dame (queen of spades) will be definitely produced, we are told, in the middle of March at the Royal Opera. We have been, however, so often disappointed—it has been announced at least three times already—that we are getting sceptical. Fräulein Destinn is to sing the title-rôle. The action passes in St. Petersburg at the end of the eighteenth century.

A French season is planned here for April and May, M. Lugné-Poé being at the head of the undertaking. Mme. Suzanne Desprès is to be the principal star.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

An excellent students' concert was given on Wednesday evening at the Guildhall School of Music. Miss Elva Barnes played Chopin's "Polonaise in A flat" with marked ability, and Miss Gertrude Goulden was no less successful in her painstaking and neatly-executed solo of the same composer's "Grand Polonaise in E flat"; praise must also be awarded to Miss V. E. Doughty's violoncello solo of Marcello's quaint "Sonata in F major." In the difficult unaccompanied "Chaconne" of Bach for violin, Mr. A. Tschaikov played with a precision and confidence really surprising in so young a performer, and was recalled several times. This clever student not only does great credit to his professor, but ought in time to become a fine violinist. Mr. Walter Lawrence, although somewhat heavy in his touch, gave an able rendering of Liszt's "Rhapsody Hongroise No. 12" for piano, and Miss Winifred Miller was heartily applauded in her violin solo of "Romance from 2nd Concerto," by Wieniawski. The vocal portions of the programme were no less successful than the instrumental. Miss Helen Elsie Wright sang "On the banks of Allan Water" with grace and expression; while Miss Beatrice Jeffreys, who has a voice of excellent quality, was heard in Meyerbeer's aria, "Ah! mon fils," from Le Prophète, an ambitious and fairly successful effort. Mr. J. H. Cullen used a pleasing voice with good effect in Blumenthal's "My Queen," and Miss Marion Watkins sang the difficult aria "Roberto, tu che adoro," from Roberto il Diavolo, with taste and discretion. "Don Juan's Serenade" (Tschaikowsky) was carefully sung by Mr. Ernest Muriel. A recitation by Miss Gladys Moore of "The Vengeful Pickled Pear" and "Rain Charm" concluded the concert. Miss Jenny Hyman, the accompanist, contributed in no small degree to the success of the various vocal and instrumental items.

Presentation.—At the termination of Messrs. Little and D'Arcy's Forty Thieves pantomime at the Opera House, Coventry, on Saturday last, Mr. Will White, F.O.S., was presented with a handsome dressing-case by the Three Sisters Silcott and a solid silver cigarette case by Mr. Archie Daunton Shaw, of the Daunton Shaw troupe.

MR. LOUIS N. PARKER.

(BY OUR OWN COMMISSIONER.)

Lord George Sanger was called the Showman King. Mr. Louis N. Parker might not inappropriately be called the Pageant King, and certainly his name is perhaps more familiar with the public to-day as a writer and director of the magnificent historical displays at Sherborne and Warwick than he is as a dramatist. Of course, recently the name of Louis Napoleon Parker has been heard of more in connection with these wonderful pageants than with play-writing.

Entering into conversation on this subject, Mr. Parker delivers himself of the belief that pageants are of great use to the stage, and their production should be of immense value to the theatre, "because," he says, "these pageants show a great number of people engaged in an entertainment which arouses keen dramatic interest. You will probably recollect that at Sherborne I had a thousand actual performers; at Warwick I had two thousand; and at the forthcoming festival at Bury St. Edmunds I shall have between one thousand five hundred and two thousand, making a total, roughly speaking, of five thousand people engaged in acting. These people include all classes, from peers to peasants. At the places I have mentioned, at least one hundred clergymen and fifty or sixty Nonconformist ministers took part as actors of principal characters. I believe that the pageants are helping to sweep away the barriers between Church and the Stage."

In reply to a question, Mr. Parker tells us that he gives a year of his time to the writing and preparation of a pageant. And everybody will agree with him when he says that to compass into three hours the historical events that have happened from 50 A.D. to 1580 A.D. is no light task. "I shall repeat the Sherborne pageant in 1908, and next year I am due at Bury St. Edmunds. I have an offer for other towns for 1908 to 1910, and I shall do my last pageant in the latter year."

Mr. Parker is a constant and hard worker. He tells us that he enjoys writing plays. His first experience in this direction was not a very pleasant one, for the gentleman who produced his initial effort stole £10 and a coat from the young dramatist. His most successful play only realised for each of its authors the sum of £500. That play was Rosemary, written in collaboration with Murray Carson. Among the pieces which have emanated either from his pen alone, or as translations, or in collaboration, may be mentioned The Love-knot, Rosmersholm, The Bohemians, The Sequel, David, Gudgeons, Once Upon a Time, The Blue Boar, The Mayflower, Love in Idleness, Rosemary, The Man in the Street, Magda, Change Alley, The Vagabond King, The Happy Life, The Cardinal, Beauty and the Barge, The Termagant, and The Jest. He was educated at Freiburg-in-the-Breisgau and at the Royal Academy of Music. He left the latter institution to take up an appointment as director of music at Sherborne School, and remained there nineteen years, when his increasing interest in the drama compelled him to go to London. He was created a Fellow of the Royal Academy of Music in 1898, and his musical publications include the cantatas (for solo, chorus, and orchestra) "Silvia," "The 23rd Psalm," "Young Tamlane," and "Belle Margaret," in addition to songs, part-songs, &c.

Speaking about the development of the drama in this country, Mr. Parker thinks that Ibsen—whose plays he was one of the first to translate into English—has taught the British authors a great deal. "He has taught us to get rid of asides and soliloquies, and he has directed our attention to subjects which had not hitherto struck us as being suitable for dramatic treatment. While I am of opinion that the drama in England has developed in a remarkable manner from what I can remember in the old days, I am faced by the fact that the highest form of drama, such as the poetical drama, is steadily and persistently discouraged here. When a man puts forth his best endeavours to produce a poetical drama, he is met with very disparaging criticism, and the very people who preach the decadence of the drama are the first to shower all the witty sarcasm at their command upon a really fine play—good from a dramatic, artistic, and literary point of view—whether in blank verse or not, and no matter whether by a young beginner or an old hand. It is not given to everybody to write blank verse; but certain critics will not even give the author the credit for having invented a poetical scheme.

"So far as the managers are concerned, I must admit that I have met with the utmost courtesy and consideration from them. The majority of my plays have been, to all intents and purposes, played as they were written. Some of my earlier ventures were unfortunate; but their misfortune was due, not to want of goodwill and assistance on the part of managers, but to want of judgment in many cases; and I can only remember a single instance in which I had unpleasantness with a management—or, rather, a manageress.

"I deplore the apparent somnolence of the romantic drama. I deplore, too, the apparent death of melodrama, especially of the type of A Scrap of Paper and Diplomacy. As to your remark about publishing one's plays, I think it would be very nice if authors could do so; but I would point out that plays are generally printed and produced in such unappetising shape that the average reader feels that he cannot be interested in them. At the same time, I have no doubt that plays which are printed and produced in attractive form, like those of Mr. Pinero and Mr. Jones, would command a sale. Then, again, I do not believe that there is a very large number who read plays, because the public that goes to the theatre is not a large one. I think the British public lacks imagination, and in order to read a play with any enjoyment one must bring imagination to one's assistance. One must be able to see with the mind's eye the action of the play as it would appear on the stage, and you know as well as I do that stage-directions are utterly unmeaning to the average reader. And this brings me to another point. It seems to me that the results of the newer science of the stage have, to a great extent, been ignored in England. I find, for instance, that such matters as lighting and atmospheric effects are years and years behind the best German productions. I marvel that no London manager has thought it worth while to go and study, or, at any rate, to use, the perfectly astounding atmospheric effects of lightning at Bayreuth. I admit, of course, that our managers produce their plays on a lavish scale, but the effect in a certain class of play is garishness."

IT was at about the time of Garrick's withdrawal from the stage that Mrs. Abington set up a handsome carriage. "She was now," writes Mr. Edward Robins, "in the very zenith of her fame. What Abington said, and how she looked, were things that one must know, if one had any pretensions to moving in the gay Ton. Her dresses were more than ever the theme of conversation and journalistic description. 'What did Abington wear to-night?' would ask one sister of another, just returned from the play. 'A beautiful white lutestring, made close to her shape, sleeves to the wrist, and a long train, with her hair dressed far back on the sides, with curls below.' When the actress imported a 'Persian petticoat,' all the women vowed that they, too, must have 'Persian petticoats'; when she wore her hair with red powder instead of white, there was enough excitement to do duty for a change of Ministry."

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MR. CHARLES K. COOPER.

Few present-day actors have had such a varied and extensive experience as Mr. Chas. Kemble Cooper, who commenced his theatrical career in the days of stock seasons and companies at Oxford, Bristol, and Dublin under the respective managements of his late father, Mr. Clifford Cooper, the late Mr. Chute, and Messrs. John and Michael Gunn. He there met and supported a succession of stars, such as Barry Sullivan, Charles Dillon, Charles Mathews, J. L. Toole, Adelaide Nielson, Genevieve Ward, &c., acquiring an intimate knowledge of Shakespeare, the old comedies, melodrama, and farce, for it was no uncommon thing in those days for a young actor to play six or seven parts each week. On the abolition of stock companies and the advent of the present system of travelling, Mr. Cooper joined Craven Robertson's Caste company, playing George D'Alroy, Lord Beaufoy, Sidney Daryl, and similar rôles, remaining with that gentleman till the rights of performing the Caste comedies reverted to his nephew, Mr. Tom Robertson. A short season at the Haymarket followed, Mr. Cooper supporting Barry Sullivan, whose last appearance in London it was, as Francis in The Stranger and Claudio in Much Ado. On the last night of the latter play the veteran actor Henry Howe made his last appearance on the Haymarket stage, after forty years' engagement there.

A tour with Miss Emily Fowler, playing Wildrake, Orlando, Charles Surface, and Claude Melnotte, led to his engagement by Mr. Frank Emery, of the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Liverpool, to support Miss Rose Leclercq as Pygmalion, Prince Philamir, and Sir Charles Pomander, thus commencing a series of tours with that lady which lasted over three years, as on the conclusion of the above he was engaged by Miss Leclercq to play a round of sixteen leading parts in her own répertoire company, afterwards supporting her for nine months in Mr. Kendal's part in The Squire, under the management of Mr. Edgar Bruce, and subsequently in a play entitled Ensnared, under the management of Walter and Elmore Frith. Mr. Cooper's next appearance was under the Vaudeville managers, Messrs. James and Thorne, playing Philip in Geo. R. Sims' comedy The Half-Way House, which was the first play toured by them, afterwards being re-engaged by Mr. Thorne for Mortimer Mumpleford in Confusion.

Tours with Miss Kate Vaughan, Mrs. Langtry (appearing as Rolando in The Honeymoon), and Miss Bella Pateman, supporting her in Mr. Bancroft's part in the Haymarket success, Odette, succeeded, after which Mr. Cooper drifted once more into the "legitimate," playing Romeo, Orlando, Benedick, Claude, &c., with Miss Alleyn, Miss Louise Denman, Miss Agnes Consuelo, and Miss Wallis. On the opening of the Shaftesbury Theatre by the latter lady he appeared as Oliver in As You Like It, and was understudy to Mr. Forbes Robertson, the Orlando of the cast.

Soon after this he visited South Africa with Mr. Lionel Brough, and during a nine months' stay there played no fewer than forty leading parts in old and modern comedies. On his return a stock season at the Pavilion, Mile End, with Mr. Isaac Cohen was foliowed by an appearance as Lantier in Drink, at the Adelphi, with Mr. Charles Warner. Then came a short season with his own company at Brighton, a thirty weeks' tour as Ferebvre in Madame Sans-Gêne, the suburban tour of English Nell with Miss Marie Tempest, and a stock season at the Crystal Palace under his old manager, Mr. F. Emery.

Recently Mr. Cooper has been devoting his attention to his successful sketch, Making it Up, in the halls. Needless to say, Mr. Cooper has had many strange and amusing stage experiences during his career, and, like so many of his brother actors, has a fund of humorous anecdote at his command. Mr. Cooper's one regret, after so much travelling, is that he has never yet had the chance of visiting America.

THE free lease for a term of 60 years of the Free-Masons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, W.C., will be submitted to public tender on Monday, March 4, by Messrs. Orgill, Marks, and Barley. The Tavern communicates with the adjoining Freemasons' Hall, which is the central home of the numerous members of the craft at home and abroad. There are in London 1000 Lodges, Chapters, &c. (many of which have been accustomed to dine at the Tavern), while festivals and other Masonic meetings are frequently held there. Immediate possession may be had.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. Reginald A. Hunt, the producer and stage-manager of Mr. Elliston's Mother Goose company, was on Saturday the recipient of a handsome dressing-case from the principals, and a seal wallet from the dancers and chorus. The presentations were made on the stage of the Empire Theatre, Oldham, at the conclusion of the pantomime, by Miss Isabelle Dillon, the principal boy.

THE roller skating headquarters of the National Skating Association of Great Britain are at the Crystal Palace, and the contests for the speed championships will take place on Saturday evening next. In the amateur championship the distance is 1½ miles, for the Benetfink Challenge Cup. First and second prizes and N.S.A. certificates to be run in heats, the first in each heat to run in the final. For the professional championship the distance is 1½ miles, and the prizes £3 and £2 and N.S.A. certificates. All entries close on Feb. 28.

AT the Fulham Theatre next week Mr. Robert Arthur will present Mr. George Dance's principal company in the musical play, The Beauty of Bath, the great Aldwych Theatre success.

MISS MAUDE LACY.

Miss Maude Lacy, who is a pupil of Miss Stella Brereton's, and has studied for seven years with her, reciting and playing such parts as Ophelia, Juliet, Hamlet, and Ariel at students' performances, made her first professional appearance at the Grand Theatre, Islington, in November, 1904, in Mr. H. Wiber Woods' play, Lady Hamilton, being entrusted with the title-rôle. Mr. Oswald Brand then engaged her to play Oliver Twist, Little Nell, and Ada in Bleak House in his Dickens répertoire company. Later she was engaged by Mr. Louis Calvert for his Garden of Lies tour. The portrait is from a painting by the well-known artist Mr. Joseph Mordecai.

MR. ERNEST H. G. COX.

Unlike many who enter the dramatic profession, Mr. Cox started his career as soon as he left school, having gained his first love for the footlights by taking part in the amateur theatricals which were given twice a year, and from the fact that his special friends were the sons of actors, who are now also doing very well in a profession which he is glad to say he has never regretted entering.

Mr. Cox made his début at the old Aquarium Theatre nearly five years ago, in a sketch entitled The Pierrot's Courtship, under the management of Miss Clarice Trevor, in which he played the character of an old man more or less successfully. After an experience of eighteen months in the music halls, where he tried various lines, appearing as a single turn, double turn, and in sketches, he entered into an engagement with Mr. Cecil Phillips, with whom he played heavies and juveniles in various dramas, such as A Convict's Sacrifice, A Woman's Devotion, and A Noble Brother. Then he was engaged by Mr. Douglas Ware to play Alfred Chesney in The Swiss Girl, and later to play Tony Faust in My Sweetheart. He next secured an engagement with Mr. Ben Greet to play various small parts in The Second in Command, also understudying, and on several occasions playing Medenham in the same piece. Mr. Cox was then engaged by Mr. A. E. Wyn Weaver to play Percy in A Pair of Spectacles, and later by Messrs. T. W. Rawson and A. E. Wyn Weaver to embody Lieut. Alfred Ashurst in Too Many Cooks. He was next engaged by Mr. W. T. Elsworthy to represent Lord Tinsel in The Hunchback, and, later, Dr. Shaw, The Pickpocket, and Frederick Plum, All That Glitters is not Gold. Another tour in A Pair of Spectacles and Too Many Cooks followed, and he was next engaged by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison to undertake the rôles of Green Jones in The Ticket-of-Leave Man and the Marquis de Presles,

The Two Orphans, with Mr. Henry Neville, and, later, to play Lord Robert Wyckham, A Country Mouse, Freddie Tatton, The Liars, and the Rev. James Bartlett, Cousin Kate.

SIR SQUIRE BANCROFT'S opinion concerning "the palmy days" is well worth quoting: "Deep as is my respect, profound as is my admiration, for the leaders in 'the palmy days,' 'the good old times,' I know well that such sayings are the tiresome chorus attached to other callings than the stage—the lawyer, the soldier, the painter, even the bishop, is as much haunted by them as the actor, who from time immemorial had listened to the cuckoo-cry—'the drama is dead.' I have had to stop my ears to its sad refrain ever since my earliest recollections of the theatre; when I was taken as a child to see the attractive Madame Vestris, to listen to the laughing Mrs. Nisbett, and to be conscious of the waning powers of the elder Farren. Nearly three hundred years have rolled away since Philip Massinger, the dramatist, wrote: 'Mark how the old actors decay, the young sprout up.' So will it ever be. The vineyard may keep its most luscious grapes for favoured years, the orchard may not always yield the pick of the basket, but the beautiful art of acting will live on. If the sacred fire burns dimly for a while it will never expire, being 'not for an age, but for all time.'"

A COPYRIGHT performance of The Redemption of Agnes, a religious play of the Middle Ages, was given on Thursday afternoon at the Victoria Hall, Bayswater, under the direction of Mr. William Poel.

MR. HAROLD MONTAGUE.

Mr. Harold Montague was born at Exeter in 1874, and educated privately. For four years he was engaged in a city office; but it was evident that his tastes did not lie in the direction of a commercial career, and about ten years ago Mr. Montague launched out as an entertainer, giving a two hours' show without any assistance, and writing his own songs, words, and music. He met with encouraging success. In Oct., 1905, he was engaged by Mr. Frank Curzon to appear at Wyndham's Theatre to take the place of a curtain-raiser to Mr. R. C. Carton's play, Public Opinion, and also in April at the Criterion Theatre. In March, 1905, Mr. Montague was specially engaged as an entertainer to go on tour with Mr. George Alexander, when that popular actor-manager visited the provinces on a recital tour.

Mr. Montague has written over one hundred comic songs, many of which have been published, and have had large sales. About two years ago he started a vaudeville entertainment, called The Vagabonds, with which he has been touring ever since. He is now engaged at the music-halls with his own company, playing a vaudeville show, which includes a burlesque melodrama and opera, and is booked up for a long time ahead. Mr. Montague has also written two comediettas, entitled Only Amateurs and First Aid to the Wounded, both of which have been played in the provinces with great success, and a musical farce, The Nihilist, which he toured last summer. This year he will become lessee of the Clacton Pier Pavilion, and is also touring another vaudeville entertainment, called Montague's Montebanks. Mr. Montague says: "I think there is a great future for a refined vaudeville show like my Vagabonds on the halls, and the way in which my company is being booked up ahead proves it. The tone of the music halls has been raised very much lately, but it can still be further raised. That the public appreciate a really clean, refined turn is shown by the hearty applause with which my entertainment is received. I have been touring off and on for nearly seven years now, and I find the public taste is improving daily."

Mr. Montague is engaged in writing a new entertainment, which he hopes to produce at the halls very shortly. He has played in nearly every town in England, Ireland, and Wales, and in a few Scotch towns. Two of his songs, "The Artful

Coon" and "A handy little thing to have about you," have been great successes in pantomime, and his song, "Do you follow me?" was sung in Sergeant Brue. Mr. Montague is a hard worker, as is evidenced by the fact that he has had only about four weeks' holiday in five years. He has had a tempting offer for America, which he refused. His principal hobbies are sailing and billiards.

PRESENTATION.—At the Empire Theatre, Greenock, on Saturday last after the curtain had fallen on Mr. R. A. P. Williams' pantomime, Mother Goose, Mr. Harry Marvello, the manager, presented Mr. Tilly Dillson, the Dame, who is leaving the company, with a handsome gold-mounted umbrella as a token of good will on behalf of his fellow artists. Mr. Dillson, who was completely taken by surprise, thanked Mr. Marvello and the company for their elegant gift.

MISS ROSINA FILIPPI'S PUPILS.

A representation of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet was given at Terry's Theatre on Monday afternoon, by the pupils of Miss Rosina Filippi, this being the first of a series of matinée performances of well-known plays, both ancient and modern.

It is related of that famous actress of the past, Miss Fanny Kemble, the daughter of a celebrated actor, that when she made her début as Juliet she was overwhelmed by nervousness, and just before she made her first entrance she sat in a chair in her dressing-room, "as if ready for execution, with the palms of her hands pressed convulsively together and tears falling down her rouged cheeks." In her reminiscences the actress, recording the feelings she experienced, says that, on making her entrance, "she stood like a terrified creature at bay, confronting the huge theatre, full of gazing human beings. I do not think a word I uttered during this scene could have been audible." Nerves do not seem to trouble the present-day girl to such a painful extent. At all events, Miss Vera Cockburn, the Juliet of Monday's matinée, displayed no discernible symptoms of nervousness when she made her entrance as the heroine of the love story, and she certainly was not inaudible. Having the advantages of extreme youth on her side, with the all-important accompaniment of good looks and a graceful manner, Miss Cockburn was well equipped for her task. Moreover, she had been under the tuition of an experienced actress, upon whom her performance reflected great credit. The balcony scene—a sure test of the capabilities of an actress for the part of Juliet—was charmingly played. Miss Cockburn has to be credited with a perfectly natural embodiment of a young girl who is experiencing the rapture of her first love, and finds an innocent joy in the stolen meeting by moonlight with her ardent lover. In the later scenes the new Juliet also did well, though lack of experience made some of the declamatory passages seem a little forced and wanting the true ring of tragic despair. Mr. Lewis Casson, a young actor who has done some good work as a member of Messrs. Vedrenne and Barker's Court Theatre company, was the Romeo, and the earnestness and sincerity of his acting were well matched by expressive features and a good presence. The intensity and passion of Juliet's lover were admirably portrayed. Friar Laurence was excellently played by Mr. Percy Gawthorn, who also appeared as Tybalt. Mr. Maurice D'Oisly was a gallant Mercutio. Mr. Patric Curwen was successful in his embodiment of Benvolio. Mr. Cecil Pearson deserves a word of praise for his treatment of the character of Capulet. Miss Rosina Filippi herself played the part of the Nurse, and made her points with the ease and certainty of an accomplished actress. Lady Capulet had a satisfactory representative in Miss Rose Eltham; and Miss Ruth Gordon scored in the rôle of Peter. Mr. Jack Glass doubled the parts of Cousin Capulet and Balthasar, Mr. Campbell Cargill appeared as the Apothecary, and Mr. Bethuine as Montague. Miss Ruth Parrott as the Chorus spoke the opening lines of the play in good style.

The performance concluded with a fantastic play, in one act, by Miss Filippi, with music by Gigia Filippi, entitled The Yellow Stocking. In this, Miss Rita Legero distinguished herself as Lulu, the little girl who finds a yellow stocking, which has the magical effect upon people of causing them to dance. Other parts were assigned to Messrs. Campbell Cargill, Percy Gawthorn, and the Misses Esmé Hubbard, Irene Clarke, Norah Hawnt, and Sophie Carl Rosa.

FOOTBALL.

BRISTOL X.L.C.R. AND HARRY HARE'S ORCHESTRAL BAND ATHLETIC CLUBS v. MUSIC HALLS A.F.C.

Played on Clifton Downs, Saturday, Feb. 9. Messrs. Harry Belding and Archie Hamlin were able to turn out for their club after several weeks' illness. The following were the teams:—

Bristol X.L.C.R.—H. Belding (captain), goal; A. Hamlin and H. Walenn, backs; A. E. Bailey, H. Slade, and A. Mattocks, half-backs; E. Belding, H. Edwards, E. Palmer, P. Hewlett, and H. Clements, forwards.

Music Halls A.F.C.—F. B. Nicholls, goal; A. Cox, and F. Arni, backs; J. Lacey, T. Neagle (captain), and D. O'Connor, half-backs; P. Reardon, R. Cullen, A. Norman, H. C. Douglas, and F. Hansford, forwards.

Referee, J. Aubrey; linesmen, H. Hare and W. J. Horton. Result: Bristol X.L.C.R., nil; Music Halls A.F.C., 3 goals. Messrs. J. Lacey, D. O'Connor, and P. Reardon scored for Music Halls A.F.C.

AFTER a prolonged absence in the Colonies, Mme. Lilian Tree has returned to London, and will most probably be re-engaged for the summer season at Covent Garden. This English prima-donna made her début at the Bow-street house in Die Walküre during the régime of Sir Augustus Harris (Druriolanus), and subsequently went to Australia.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, Feb. 18, the Play entitled
"HIS HOUSE IN ORDER."

North London playgoers have this week an excellent opportunity of witnessing Mr. Pinero's play which has enjoyed such a long spell of prosperity at the St. James's Theatre, and have duly appreciated the clever work of one of the most distinguished dramatists of the day. The representation of His House in Order has been entrusted to a thoroughly competent company, the result being an even and perfectly satisfactory performance. Special interest attaches to Miss Dorothy Grimston's portrayal of Nina Jesson, and her treatment of the character has fully justified her selection for this important part. She meets with ease and certainty all the demands made upon her in the most telling scenes of the play, and her complete success is never for a moment in doubt. Of such an experienced and well-tried actor as Mr. Frank Fenton it was only to be expected that he would give a satisfactory reading of the character of Hilary Jesson, and anticipation on this point has been more than realised. Mr. Fenton takes advantage of every opportunity of scoring, and his acting elicits throughout the performance warm admiration. Mr. Cyril Harcourt also does good work as Filmer Jesson; and Mr. George Fitzgerald gives a neat sketch of Sir Daniel. Mr. George Silver is well placed as Pryce Ridgeley; and Dr. Dilnott has a capital exponent in Mr. A. E. Benedict. Miss Henrietta Leverett deserves praise for her careful and effective embodiment of Lady Ridgeley; Miss Audrey Campbell plays the part of Geraldine with sound judgment; and Miss Lilli Kehr is seen to advantage in the rôle of Mlle. Thomé, the governess. Miss Maisie Richardson plays naturally as the boy Derek. Mention should also be made of Mr. R. Basant and Mr. F. Felton, who appear as Harding and Forshaw; the two servants' parts being safely entrusted to Mr. W. B. Parker and Mr. R. Thomas. The staging of the play leaves nothing to be desired.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Feb. 18, the Farcical Comedy, entitled
"CHARLEY'S AUNT."

That Brandon Thomas's world-famous farce has by no means exhausted its drawing powers has been conclusively proved during the present week by the excellent audiences drawn to Hammersmith's premier theatre. The piece goes as well as ever, and the ridiculous situations excite as much laughter as when the piece was fresh. In the present revival the play has the inestimable advantage of Mr. Brandon Thomas appearing as Colonel Sir Francis Chesney, who naturally carries out the author's intentions in making him a type of well-preserved military man. As Stephen Spettigue Mr. Walter Beaumont presents an exceedingly effective and humorous picture of the solicitor making love to the supposed Donna Lucia. Mr. Hastings Lynn is a dashing and manly Jack Chesney; and his chum, Charley Wykeham, is ably rendered by Mr. Richard B. Mason. Lord Fancourt Babberley could not be bettered than as played by Mr. Spencer Trevor, the quaint antics displayed by him causing irrepressible laughter. Mr. Sidney Compton makes an imperturbable college scout, Brassett. Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez (the real Charley's Aunt from Brazil) is charmingly performed by Miss Lena MacNaughten, a lady of handsome presence. Miss Bertha Northam undertakes Kitty Verdun in lively fashion; and Miss Ida Vynall is a winsome Amy Spettigue. Miss Ruth Nightingale acts interestingly as Ela Delahay. As a curtain-raiser Mr. Brandon Thomas's interesting one-act play, A Highland Legacy, is represented. In this the author as Tammy Tamson MacDonnel gives evidence of his clever versatility, and scores a decided hit. Mr. Hastings Lynn successfully portrays Gordon MacDonnel, and Mr. Sidney Compton makes an irascible Mr. Dobson. The Cavendish Howley of Mr. Walter Beaumont is really funny; and Mr. M. A. Weatherall renders Job Fixem discreetly. Miss Katherine Vereker is a capable Mrs. Butler; and Miss Elsie Robertson is satisfactory as Clara Dobson.

CORONET THEATRE.

On Monday, Feb. 18,
"THE BEAUTY OF BATH."

Mr. George Dance's company is here with The Beauty of Bath. Mr. Leslie Holland, who not only plays the principal part of the lively young Lieutenant Alington, R.N., but also stage-manages the show, acts with plenty of vivacity. His acting is full of vim and vitality, and he sings the topical ditty, "Humpty Tumty," with point and meaning. Miss Gladys Guy is very bright and animated as the charming Betty Silverthorne. Her singing and dancing are very acceptable, and her manner easy and exhilarating. Her songs, "Like this" and "Hyacinth" (in which Mr. F. Pedgrift participates tunefully from a box) are capitally and daintily delivered. Mr. Jack Crighton is an indefatigable and irrepressible comedian, and his quaint calisthenics as Sir Timothy Bun and his droll get-up as Louie Freear cause considerable amusement. Miss Edith Cruikshanks acts extremely well, with grace and refinement, as the motherly Mrs. Alington, and her brief flashes of high spirits and her simulation of sweet womanly tenderness are very cleverly depicted. Miss Maggie White, a most demure damsel, scores with her prettily-rendered comic songs set to serious music; Miss Jessie Fraser is bright and animated as the actress, Miss Truly St. Cyr, and dances well. Mr. Reggie Grey as Lord Quorn is "well, he knows he is!" Master Sydney Grata is the precocious programme boy, Lemon Goodge, and with his mother, impersonated by Miss Ida Laurie, secures a good proportion of the laughter. Mr. Sheriff Clunes does all that is required of him as Beverley, the actor, and sings the pretty song, "Sloe eyes" from The Cingalee. Mr. Frederick C. Leister as Viscount Bellingham, Mr. John Valentine as the Earl of Orpington, and Misses Florence Hylton, Frankie Fowler, Nellie Wood, Mabel Hay, and other attractive "Buns" are entirely commendable. Mr. J. Alban Newton is the manager of the company, and Mr. Gordon Seamford the musical director.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, Feb. 18, Shakespeare's Comedy
"THE TAMING OF THE SHREW."

Those popular players, Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton, are here this week on a very welcome return visit, and on Monday evening a large and appreciative audience extended a most cordial welcome to them. As on their last visit, they are playing Shakespeare's comedy, The Taming of the Shrew, and the choice is indeed a good one, for in it Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Brayton find characters which suit them admirably and display their talents to the utmost advantage. In this version the Induction is played, and it adds greatly to the interest of the production, and it also serves to give Mr. Asche an opportunity of showing his great versatility in the part of Chistopher Sly. As Petruchio, in the play itself, Mr. Oscar Asche was in fine form, his high spirits and boisterous humour were in perfect keeping with the character, and he carries the story along at an almost breathless speed, never allowing the interest to slacken for one moment. Miss Lily Brayton lends the greatest assistance by her wonderful rendering of Katharine; it is an altogether splendid piece of work, the various moods of the shrew are cleverly depicted and the gradual taming of the spirit of revolt is excellently shown, but whether she be shrew or dutiful wife, the Katharine of Miss Lily Brayton is a person who is most captivating. Baptista is portrayed in a dignified manner by Mr. Alfred Brydone. Mr. H. R. Hignett makes a notably good Lucentio, while Mr. R. J. Penny and Mr. Caleb Porter are both excellent as Hortensio and Gremio respectively. Bianca is depicted in a charming manner by Miss Agnes Brayton, who has some of her sister's talents. Mr. G. Kay Louper is good as Tranio, while the Biondello of Mr. R. F. Anson is a clever piece of work. Mr. Henry Kitts is once more seen as Grumio, and he plays it with his accustomed humour, which met with much appreciation. Mr. Fitz Russell has but a small part as Vincentio, but he makes his mark in the character. Miss Leilia Norris deserves mention as a widow; also Miss Constance Robertson as Curtis. The various other characters are admirably filled. The incidental music by Noel Johnson is delightfully rendered by the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Christopher Wilson. The scenery is very artistic, and the stage is under the management of Mr. W. R. Stavely, the whole being produced by Mr. Oscar Asche. Mr. Alfred Waring is the popular general-manager for the production, and Mr. Wilfred Stanford looks to Mr. Robert Arthur's interests as resident acting-manager.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Feb. 18, the Comic Opera, entitled
"AMASIS."

Mr. Louis Calvert's production of Amasis by the original company has drawn thronged and appreciative houses at Kennington Theatre this week, and Mr. Robert Arthur, the proprietor, and Mr. H. B. Brandreth, the manager, are to be congratulated on their enterprise in providing this front-rank attraction for their patrons. Unfortunately, the opening night was somewhat marred by the absence of Mr. Rutland Barrington from his part of Pharaoh, through sudden indisposition, but his place was creditably filled at short notice by Mr. George Goodwin, and the performance went with almost as much vim as if Mr. Barrington had himself been present. Undoubtedly Amasis is one of the brightest and most whimsical of recent comic operas, and fun reigns supreme through both acts. The music is of a lively and sparkling description, and the chorus, "Has anybody seen our cat?" is one of the best things of the day. The libretto is neatly written, and contains many topical allusions, whilst the staging, dresses, and accessories leave nothing to be desired. The first scene, the Courtyard of the Palace at Memphis, with a view of the Nile, is a fine set, and lends itself well to the picturesque grouping of gaily-dressed principals and chorus, under the direction of Mr. Maxwell Stewart, the stage-manager. There are many pretty dances by the ladies of Memphis, as well as an exceedingly fine solo dance in the second act by Miss Winifred Hart-Dyke, who is a magnificent dancer, and altogether Mr. Frederick Stanhope, who is directing the tour of Amasis, has omitted nothing likely to contribute to its success. The company is of the first order, and among the principals are several artists of repute. Miss Constance Drever gives a splendid impersonation of Princess Amasis, for she has not only a charming presence and glorious voice, but she is also a gifted actress. Miss Drever is ably supported by Mr. Roland Cunningham as Prince Anhote, whose fine physique, robust voice, and dashing bearing enable him to give an ideal interpretation of the part. The songs and duets of both were rapturously received on Monday. Another good singer is Mr. Whitworth Mitton (Cheiro, a scribe in love with Amasis), whose sweet tenor voice might with advantage be more often heard. Mr. Reginald White, as Ptolemy, the Court embalmer, and Mr. Lauri De Frece, as Sebak, keeper of the crocodiles, are responsible for most of the comedy, and their efforts are simply immense. They are both genuine comedians, full of mirth, and constitute an entertainment in themselves. Laughter is general whenever they are on the scene, and their business in the second act is in itself side-splitting. Miss Madge Vincent is a warm favourite as Natis, singing and acting with great vivacity. Her love song with Psamtik, a stalwart Captain of the Guard, who is ably represented by Mr. Frank Perfit, nightly brings down the house. Miss Vincent should have a great future as a comedienne. Mr. Norman Salmond makes a stately High Priest, and the smaller parts are well taken by Mr. R. A. Swinhoe, Second High Priest; Mr. Walter Brodie, Town Crier; Mr. George F. MacKarness, wine merchant; Miss Emmie Souter as Anna; Miss Dorothy Aylmer and Miss Frida Gerrard as fan-bearers; Miss Muriel Hodges as Teresa; and Miss Winnie O'Connor as Rassa. The Misses A. Scholtz, Daisy Nunn, Ethel Graham, Nellie Moore, Winifred Macey, and Paula St. Clair are the ladies of Memphis, whose singing and dancing before Pharaoh form one of the most interesting features of the opera. The chorus is exceptionally powerful and well-trained, and the admirable vocalisation reflects great credit on Mr. J. Van Heuvel, the musical director.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Feb. 18, the Drama, entitled
"THE UGLIEST WOMAN ON EARTH.

A good, strong drama is always a sure "draw" at this theatre, and good houses have been the rule here this week, and have received Mr. Fredrick Melville's company in the above-named play with great cordiality. In casting Miss Beatrice Homer for the name-part, an excellent selection has been made, for it is a trying rôle to play and one in which a less practised actress might well come to grief. Miss Homer, however, comes triumphantly through the ordeal, and holds the attention and sympathy of the audience from first to last. Miss Nell Oliver is responsible for a strong, carefully studied representation of Rose Courtenay, whose vanity, worthlessness, and utter selfishness she portrays to the life. Miss Violet Macaree puts in some very good work along untraditional lines as Morita, and gives an excellent idea of the passionate Italian girl who has sworn to kill her lover's murderer. As Aggie Brown, Miss Nellie Jackson is responsible for a good deal of laughter, and gives a good rendering of an English girl thoroughly able to take care of herself. Mr. Philip Darien makes a resolute-looking Jack Merrimen, his fine stage presence and telling delivery of some very declamatory lines adding to the value of his impersonation. In the character of Hubert Gold, Mr. Leyton Cancellor gives a thoroughly interesting and consistent study of a scheming adventurer, and is to be commended on his successful endeavour to get his points home without undue rant. As Tubby Herrick, Mr. T. Edlin has been provided with a part after his own heart, and keeps the house in roars of laughter at his happy rendering of Tubby's trials and tribulations. Mr. Charles Barrett is responsible for a clever impersonation of Antonio Luchesi, Mr. L. Thackeray does well as Dr. Carr, and Mr. Cecil de Lee gives a characteristic sketch of a London hooligan.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Feb. 8, the Musical Comedy, entitled
"THE GIRL BEHIND THE COUNTER."

Crowded houses are the rule at the Dalston Theatre this week for the attraction is the deservedly-popular musical comedy, The Girl Behind the Counter. There is plenty of life and "go" in the representation, and the general musical accompaniment is all that can be desired. The cast includes Miss Olivia Eltone, who appears as Millie Mostyn, manageress of the Maison Duval; Miss Doris Langdon, head of the millinery department; Miss Rose Hélene, cashier; and Miss Nora Brocklebank, who undertakes the hard-working part of Winnie Willoughby. Miss Brocklebank does not lose an opportunity of taking advantage of the opportunities at her disposal, and the result is a spirited representation of an interesting character. Miss Winifred Knightly as Lady Willoughby has a good presence; and Mr. H. B. Clarke Chadwick fully imparts the element of importance into the character of General Sir Wilkie Willoughby. Mr. Arthur Cartwright has a free-and-easy style as Charles Chetwyn, and he becomes a general favourite; as Viscount Gushington, Mr. Howard Cridland fully realises the class of character which the name implies, and is at times the cause of no small amount of merriment; Mons. Jules Charmettes represents Mons. Duval, proprietor of the Maison Duval; and others in the male cast include Mr. Geoffrey Allsopp, Mr. Frederick Park, Mr. A. M. Moore, and Mr. W. Amery.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

"HER FORBIDDEN MARRIAGE."

Mr. Fred Melville's company is appearing this week in the very up-to-date and realistic "motor" drama, Her Forbidden Marriage, and are meeting with the cordial reception from good audiences which their excellent interpretation of the piece fully merits. Mr. Henry Lonsdale gives a fine impersonation of the rôle of the young inventor, George Madison, and his final triumph over all his enemies is greeted with much interest and applause. Mr. Louis Hector affords a capital study of polished rascality as Charles Devereux. Mr. Fred De Vere has a very humorous rôle to enact as the eccentric Timothy Tuttutt, and certainly makes the most of his numerous opportunities, his drunken scene in the first act being very cleverly rendered. The heroine, Lucy, is ably enacted by Miss Gertrude Bonser, who shows much dramatic force and at times pathos in the part. Miss Madge Yates is very amusing as Patty Lovejoy. Miss Nellie Fletcher invests the difficult character of the Mother Superior with dignity, and acts with much emotional feeling. Mr. Herbert Goddard is an aristocratic and impressive Sir George Lancaster. Miss Gertrude Hunt performs admirably the somewhat unthankful rôle of Lady Lucretia Lancaster. Mr. James Raymond as Dr. Fenwick gives a good character sketch; and the remaining rôles are all adequately represented. The exciting motor race to the church provokes much enthusiasm, being realistically represented, and the whole production is mounted with the extreme care and completeness of detail which invariably characterise all the plays of the Messrs. Melville. The general-manager is Mr. Roland Yorke.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, Feb. 18, the Comedy, entitled
"THE LADY OF OSTEND."

Mr. Lawrence Brough and a good company from Terry's Theatre have been playing with much success in The Lady of Ostend. The play has its good points, and when interpreted by a capable company, serves its purpose well enough. Dick Whortles, the unfortunate hero, whose misfortune it is to be always found out, is capitally played by Mr. Henry Hampson, and he is well supported by Mr. Percy Marshall as Joseph Carbury. Mr. Lawrence Brough makes a great success of Whortles's French friend, the Baron de Longueville. In diction, attitudes, manners, and general make-up, Mr. Brough is a delightful representative of the gay young Frenchman. Mr. Dalziel Heron is most successful as the prize-fighter Krockitt, and his "deportment" when he first calls at Whortles's house is a delightfully humorous piece of acting. This is worthily matched by Miss Marian Ripley as the Lady of Ostend, whose highly "genteel" manner caused roars of laughter. Mr. Evelyn Vernon, Mr. Douglas Cottell, and Mr. Hewson Elliott satisfactorily fill the parts of Humbert, the cinematograph manager, Thompson, the clerk, and James, the butler, respectively; and Miss Eily Boyne puts plenty of spirit into the part of the maid Jane. Miss Bessie Harrison acts as Mrs. Casbury, the mother-in-law, in a vigorous and effective way; and Miss Muriel Marsden plays the ingénue niece with brightness and charm. To conclude, Miss Kate Milford contributes some excellent work as Dorothy Whortles, showing considerable dramatic power. The Lady of Ostend is preceded by a one-act Irish romance, At the Risin' of the Moon, by A. Demain Grange, in which Miss Eily Boyne, and Messrs. Marshall, Heron, and Vernon take part.

THE STANDARD.

On Monday, Feb. 18, Wallace's Opera,
"MARITANA."

Mr. J. W. Turner's English Opera Company commenced their annual season here on Monday with a performance of Maritana. Mr. Turner's return visit has been eagerly looked forward to, and at the initial performance the house was packed with a wildly enthusiastic audience, which showed in an unmistakable manner its appreciation of the excellent work done. Considerable praise is due to Mr. Turner for the very creditable interpretations he places before his patrons. The singing in every case is all that could be desired, and the staging and mounting are perfect in every detail. Mr. Turner still retains his excellent vocal abilities, and sings his various numbers in a manner which is little short of marvellous. In Maritana he undertook the rôle of Don Cæsar de Bazan, and sang himself quickly into public favour. His rendering of "Let me like a soldier fall" was certainly an artistic achievement, and was duly applauded. A meritorious performance was also supplied by Mr. John Ridding as Don Jose. In this character he uses his resonant bass to advantage in the song, "In happy moments," and an encore was demanded in consequence. As Charles II., King of Spain, Mr. Tom Griffiths was a decided attraction in himself. His full and rich voice stood him in good stead in his various numbers, and he is to be congratulated on the excellent service he rendered. The portrayal of the Marquis de Montefoire by Mr. R. Cummings was the essence of drollery, and Mr. George Ridding did all that was possible as the Captain of the Guard. As Lazarillo, Miss Jessie Dennis was pleasing and effective, her fine voice being put to good use in the many morceaux falling to her share. Miss Maud Esdale was all that could be desired as the Marchioness, and Miss Kitty Brownless sang her various numbers with intelligence and skill, besides playing throughout in a manner deserving of warm praise. The augmented orchestra is capably handled by Mr. T. Lawton. Other operas on this week's programme are Satanella, The Daughter of the Regiment, The Bohemian Girl, and Faust.

THE PRINCE'S, POPLAR.

"WOMAN AND WINE."

Messrs. Ben Landeck and Arthur Shirley's popular and stirring drama, Woman and Wine, ever a favourite play in the East End of London, is proving a strong attraction at Poplar this week, and is admirably presented by a talented company under the direction of Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds. The piece received an enthusiastic reception on Monday night from a crowded house, who followed with eager interest the many exciting incidents. The staging of the heavy sets, particularly the Café d'Afrique, Le Bal Masque, and the Flower Market, was in every way excellent. Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds is responsible for the weak-minded spendthrift, Dick Seymour, and gives a straighforward and convincing performance throughout; and a capital portrayal of the odious bully, Alphonse Beaudet, is given by Mr. Fred W. Goddard. Much praise must be extended to Miss Cissie St. Elmo for her strong and dramatic rendering of the unscrupulous demi-mondaine, Marcel Rigadout, which part she enacts with great power, being seen at her best in the third act. Mr. George H. Child contributes a thoroughly amusing impersonation of Professor Sawter, and Mr. Harry Harrop deserves special mention for his work as Charles Sawter, his interpolated song meeting with approbation. Miss Ethel Vinroy cleverly represents Janet Marlow, and a capable exponent of the jealous La Colombe is found in Miss Joan Pereira. The repulsive malformed Pierre Crucru is effectively played by Mr. Arthur Mitchell, Mr. John S. Haydon is successful as Hugh Seymour; and Mr. William Millward as Phineas Collins, Mr. Charles Wilton as Mark Parkins, and Mr. Frank Thomas as Duc D'Arnac are well suited to their respective characters. A charming and sympathetic portrayal of Mary Andrews was given by Miss Violet Sims, who looked the part to perfection. The remaining rôles were carefully handled by Miss Gladys Osborne, Mr. Chris Dashwood, Mr. Samuel Hilton, and Mr. Frank Truro; and valuable aid was rendered by the Lottie Stone troupe of whirlwind dancers. Under Mr. Stephen E. Blythe's efficient direction, the orchestra contributed praiseworthy work; while the comfort of the audience is well looked after by the attentive and courteous general-manager, Mr. Harry Lyons.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

"THE 10.30 DOWN EXPRESS."

After a lapse of two months, drama again reigns at the Shakespeare Theatre, and Mr. Horace Stanley's excellent company is holding the boards with the thrilling drama, The 10.30 Down Express. The plot is interesting, the piece teems with exciting incidents, interwoven with amusing episodes, and the whole performance is thoroughly enjoyable. The acting all round is excellent. Mr. Horace Stanley takes full advantage of his many opportunities in the rôle of the true-hearted bluejacket, Sam Wagstaffe, and keeps the house in uproarious laughter whenever he is on the stage. In this direction he is well supported by Miss Kate Kilpack as Peggy Potts. Mr. George Beverly gives a manly and vigorous portrayal of Lieut. Jack O'Malley; Miss Elsie Capell acts with feeling and delicate pathos in the part of Bessie Leigh, and holds the sympathy of the audience throughout; a sound performance of the villainous James Inderwick is given by Mr. Chas. Burdon, who acts with convincing force; and some excellent work is put in by Mr. Tom Royden as the broken-down gamekeeper, Seth Coombes. Mr. Edwin Clarke is eminently satisfactory as the detective, Huntley Mason; and Mr. Alaric Burton is a dignified Cuthbert Leigh. Miss Evelyn M. Walton creates a favourable impression by her clever impersonation of Letita Leigh, and Miss Josephine Lee acts with sufficient abandon as Olive Coombes. The minor parts are in safe hands, and are all capably sustained, whilst the scenic effects are admirable.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, Feb. 18, the Military Play, entitled
"THE INDIAN MUTINY."

This stirring drama has been doing very well in Marylebone this week, and Mr. Frank E. Burdett is to be congratulated on the all-round excellence of the company he has gathered together to interpret it. Mr. Edward M. Hamilton is full of life and go as Lieut. Manley; Mr. Cyril Harrison is resourceful as Captain Manley; Mr. John Davidson is dignified and determined as Major Ingleby; Mr. G. Birch plays carefully as Ensign Blake; and Mr. Cecil Morand acts Terry O'Brien, with true Hibernian humour and jollity. The imposing rôle of Abul Khan, the Lion of Lahore, is handled by Mr. George Belmont in a convincing way, his handsome stage presence adding much to the dignity of the impersonation. Mr. Villiers Stanley is decidedly impressive as Nebu Singh, the leader of the rebels; whilst Mr. Ernest Keand works in genuine painstaking fashion as the fanatical Ra Goonga. Miss Lillie Grey is full of vivacity as Mrs. Major Ingleby; Miss Agnes Kingston is pleasing as Kate Ingleby; and Miss F. Melrose Millett sustains Ghuz-nah intelligently and well, all her methods being suitable to the part.

RICHMOND THEATRE.

On Feb. 20, the Musical Play,
"THE BEAUTY OF BATH."

It was but natural a warm welcome should have been accorded The Beauty of Bath and her bevy of fair companions; in truth, it would have been impossible for Mr. George Dance's company to have met with a more enthusiastic reception. Premier honours go to Mr. Leslie Holland, who played with unflagging spirit and distinct ingenuity. Mr. Holland models the part of Lieut. Allington on the lines laid down at another house. Never for a moment did the comedy halt when this excellent comedian was on the stage; he was irresistibly funny in the scene with Mrs. Goodge. In Act 2 he scored vocally with "Humpty Dumpty" and in the duet with St. Cyr, "Jenkins of Kensington." Mr. Reggie Grey hit off the idiosyncrasies of Lord Quorn, and Mr. Frederick C. Leister played Viscount Bellingham with due dignity. To Mr. Sheriff Clunes fell the rôle of the actor, Beverley, and he did his best with slender opportunities. He got his chance, however, in Act 2 in the song "Sloe-ey'd maiden"; the concerted finale of this song was one of the musical triumphs of the performance. As the Baronet, Sir Timothy Bun, Mr. Jack Crichton won a good deal of applause. He has a keen sense of humour, and dances perhaps better than he sings; not that he lacks aught in this particular line, for his song, "The social drum," was loudly applauded. Another capable performance was the Earl of Orpington, so admirably portrayed by Mr. John Valentine; Mr. Sidney Grata was sufficiently absurd as Lemon. As the Beauty, Miss Gladys Guy was particularly bright and winsome. She has a well-trained voice, heard to perfection in "My little hyacinth" and "When a little girl's in love." Both were delightfully given with all the charm peculiar to this artist's method. She scored, too, in her dances, and her comedy scenes were provocative of hilarious merriment. Miss Lessie Fraser also won applause for her terpsichorean efforts; her dances were as dainty as they were pretty. Lady Bun was capitally played by Miss Frankie Fowler; while the arduous and somewhat difficult character of Mrs. Allington was sustained with marked ability by Miss Edith Cruikshank. But no one in the cast contributed more genuinely to the success of the piece than Miss Ida Laurie. It is not a part that can be treated unskilfully if the actress would score, and in this respect Miss Laurie as Mrs. Goodge sent the house into convulsive merriment. Nothing could be better than her assumed actor-worship of Beverly, and in her duet with Lemon, "Bloomsbury," she further evidenced her talent as a humorist. The Eight Bath Buns looked sweet—as they should—and won the good graces of the audience. The concerted music and the choruses were alike excellent, and Mr. Gordon Stamford may be proud of his share in the success. Although burdened with the "lead," he found time to efficiently stage-manage the play, and the performance went with a swing from the rise to the fall of the curtain

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, the Dream Play, entitled
"BLUEBELL IN FAIRYLAND."

Kingstonians have been delighted this week in witnessing the production of this charming play, which has been staged in the most complete manner in the matter of scenery and dresses, whilst the members of the company in whose hands Mr. Edward Graham-Falcon has placed the representation of the play have evidently been selected with great care and discrimination. The title-rôle is filled by Miss Mamie Finbow, who has scored a great success in the part; and a pretty and effective bit of acting is given by the Misses Bertha Johnson and Emily Wall, who play Bluebell's little sisters Mab and Winnie respectively. A clever appearance is also made by Master W. Blincoe as the Black Cat; Mr. Lawrence Emery makes a breezy and likelike crossing-sweeper as Dickie; Mr. Frank Lennard gives a good account of himself as the city merchant, Mr. Joplin, and as the Sleepy King in the second act; whilst a good deal of humour is imported into the play by Mr. J. H. Bishop and Mr. Charles Resti as Mr. Joplin's footmen, and as the two schoolboys later on. An amusing picture of a City policeman is furnished by Mr. Harry Douglas in the first act, and as the reigning King in the second; whilst Miss Constance St. Bride makes an imposing and impressive consort; and Miss Vera Vizard acquits herself well as Bluebell's good fairy. The clever dancing of the San Remo Girls and of the three Sisters Holman are not the least pleasant features of a remarkably pleasing performance. The chorus and an augmented orchestra were under the direction of Mr. John Holman, jun.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.

On Monday, Feb. 18, the light comedy, entitled
"THE FREEDOM OF SUZANNE."

Mr. J. Bannister Howard continues to provide high-class entertainment for his patrons here, who are not slow to appreciate it, and are well supporting the excellent company appearing this week. To Miss Mabel Love fall the chief honours of the evening, and she is quite equal to all the demands made upon her art.

To those who have watched the progress of this versatile artist, it must have been a pleasure to see the ease and charm of her rendering of the wayward wife, who is sweetness itself when she has "her own way." Her description of her evening's amusement to her assembled relations was full of clever archness, and every point was made in telling fashion.

Mr. F. G. Thurstans as Fitzroy Harding was most amusing. His dry humour and laughable mistakes kept everyone in continuous laughter. Mr. Patrick Quill as Suzanne's legal adviser, Sir Horace Hatton, was quietly effective and appropriately restrained. Charles Trevor was rendered by Mr. Templer Powell, and his opportunities came in the second and third acts, of which he took full advantage.

Suzanne's three admirers were all most happily contrasted. The doting old nobleman, Lord Datchet, was funny in the extreme in the hands of Mr. J. Hastings Batson, the feeble old would-be Don Juan's mannerisms being quite a study; the raffish Captain Harry Cecil was made a far more dangerous person to marital happiness, as acted by Mr. Townsend Whitling; and the boyish lover, Tommy Keston was as impulsive and eager youth as depicted by Mr. Richard Neville.

Miss Annie Stalman had to make Lady Charlotte Trevor, the mother-in-law, a suspicious and disagreeable person, and did it well; the part of Fanny Minching, Suzanne's companion, was accurately hit off by Miss Florence Harwood; Miss Violet Ley made a distinguished-looking Lady Isabel Bury; and Miss Dorothy Lart, as Mrs. Tustail, whose mission it is to make Suzanne uncomfortable, was a study in feminine "catlishness." Mr. Budd, the King's Proctor's man, was safe in Mr. Montgomery's hands; and Mrs. F. Turner as Mrs. Putman, the charwoman at Trevor's flat, was good in her low-comedy scenes.

THE DELIGHTS OF TOURING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—I cannot help thinking that the uninitiated reading your article on "The Old 'Stock'" might indeed think the present touring system and stage life in general delightful, but I would ask any such to "Look on this picture—and on this." Between seven and eight years I have toured, and, because it is my living, I am compelled to take the first offer that comes, which is generally from a third or fourth-rate touring company. My salary has ranged from £1 to £3. I venture to say that for every first-class company on the road, such as you mention in your article, there will be twenty, probably far more, of lesser degree; and, in the majority of these companies, footwarmers are unknown luxuries on the Sunday journeys. Most of the actors are unable to secure rooms before arriving in the town, chiefly owing to the unreasonable terms often asked, and in many cases the theatre accommodation is bad.

I have turned out on a bleak winter's morning, and been at the station for a four o'clock train call. Much of the day has been spent in a horrible process known as "shunting." We have been sent off to a siding to wait the chance of being picked up by a "special," and it is quite usual to have long waits at dreary shut-up stations, and not a place open where a cup of tea can be had.

Only those who have gone through it know the misery of trudging through the rain to take the train on Sunday, a bag in one hand and rugs in the other; of arriving, still in the rain, and beginning a search for cheap and decent lodgings. In many small fit-up places it is with the utmost difficulty that rooms can be secured at all. Theatrical "diggings" are practically unknown; and those who do take in the poor wayfarer often do so in more ways than one. In Scotland the "guid folk" look upon us as utterly abandoned creatures, and often slam the door in our faces; and I have been thankful on two occasions to sleep in an outhouse rather than trudge through snow for hours. And this "turning out" and "turning in" will often take place every day in small "fit-up" companies.

I think Mr. Cecil Raleigh said there were about five hundred theatres or halls in England. I know there must be a large number, for I seem to have been to hundreds, and though, in the large towns, the artists' comfort has been considered, there are very few No. 1 towns, and there are hundreds of small ones where dressing accommodation, comfort, and sanitation, have been the last thing thought of.

I could write reams on the discomfort of touring, and probably many would give up the stage if they had to do a fit-up tour, or join a fourth-rate company. Yet endless workers endure this hardship week by week, and would rather do so than be in my present condition—unemployed. I am praying the old "stock" may soon return, and give us all plenty of hard work.—Yours faithfully,

A WANDERING ACTRESS.

AMUSEMENTS IN INDIA.

BOMBAY, JAN. 8, 1907.—Mr. Maurice Bandmann's Comedy Company, in a répertoire of London's latest plays, has just finished the most successful season the Gaiety has ever known. The list of plays included Leah Kleschna, Raffles, His House in Order, Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace, &c. Bombay audiences have indeed obtained what they have wanted for some time, class plays with class actors. Mr. Claude King, who takes the lead, has made a reputation here which will last for many years, especially as Raffles, the cool cricketer-burglar. The continued demands at the close of each act for both Mr. King and Miss Hamer showed what a hold the play had obtained. It was repeated by special request later in the short season. As an emotional actress Miss Hamer is admirable, and the meeting with Paul Sylvane at his rooms in Leah Kleschna, together with her scene with Hilary Jesson in His House in Order, proved what a brilliant artist Mr. Bandmann has secured for his Eastern tour. Mr. Pease, who enacts Filmer Jesson, Kleschna, Curtis Bedford, &c., is an actor who has made a distinct hit. Mention should also be made of Messrs. Philip Sanders, Frank Peachey, and Sinclair Cotter. No one here is likely to forget the last-mentioned actor's rendering of Charley's Aunt; his quaint mannerisms kept the house in roars. Miss Dorcas Crosbie gives an excellent rendering of every part she plays. Each piece has been well staged, reflecting great credit on Mr. Butt. The house in front is supervised by Mr. Roy Smith and Mr. Mitchell, the Bombay representative.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

GENERAL MEETING.

Sir Squire Bancroft, the President of the Actors' Association, occupied the chair at the sixteenth annual general meeting of that body held on Tuesday afternoon in The Playhouse. Sir Squire Bancroft was supported on the stage by Mr. Beerbohm Tree, Mr. Cyril Maude, Mr. Edward Terry, Mr. Laurence Irving, Mr. Aubrey Smith, Mr. Brandon Thomas, Mr. Acton Bond, Mr. A. E. Drinkwater, Mr. William Devereux, Mr. Harry Nicholls, Miss Winifred Emery, Miss Beatrice Lamb, Mr. Hayden Coffin, Miss Carlotta Addison, Mr. Clarence Blakiston, Mr. Burton Cooke, Mr. F. Cremlin, Mr. Frank Desprez, Mr. J. Cooke Beresford, Mr. Richard Green, and Miss Minnie Turner.

The report of the Council for the year ending Dec. 31, 1906, and the statement of accounts were as follows:—

REPORT OF THE COUNCIL FOR THE YEAR ENDING DEC. 31, 1906.

The Council beg to present the annual report and statement of accounts for 1906.

During the year the Council have promoted the Irving Memorial, inaugurated "Actors' Day," and have obtained for the members of the Association a scale of remuneration for rehearsals, dependent on duration of rehearsals and engagements.

The Council call particular attention to the system of insurance in operation during last year, and to the still further substantial advantages secured for 1907, as set forth in the coupon covering loss of luggage and of salary resulting therefrom.

To the above work the Council attribute the already considerable increase of subscriptions paid to date.

Various committees are dealing with other matters not yet completed.

Valuable work has been done by the Finance and General Purposes Committee, which has held 45 meetings during the year.

The Council were instrumental in handing over to the Actors' Orphanage Fund upwards of £100 as the result of the amateur billiard handicap held last winter.

The Council are glad to report that members have again availed themselves of the facilities afforded by the Association for arbitration, thereby saving considerable expense and avoiding the publication of the details of professional disputes.

Two hundred and twenty-one engagements have been secured for members during the year.

The Year Book, which is again given to members on payment of subscription, has proved of great utility.

During the year the list of honorary medical officers has again been increased, and the thanks of all the members are due to those gentlemen who so kindly and generously placed their services at the disposal of the Association, the value of those services being incalculable.

There are now on the roll:—

Hon. Consulting Staff of Physicians and Surgeons	6
Hon. Medical Officer of Health	1
Hon. Medical Officers, including Dental Surgeons, in London	69
Hon. Medical Officers, including Dental Surgeons, in the Provinces	171
Hon. Medical Officer in America	1
Opticians	2

134 towns being represented in England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, the Isle of Man, Isle of Wight, and the Island of Jersey, and America.

During the year 1906 the honorary solicitors have rendered valuable services to the members of the Association by advising them on points submitted and in prosecuting claims on their behalf, and the best thanks are due to them and the honorary standing counsel for their unremitting attention.

The Council acknowledge much useful work done in London and the provinces by the commissioners (formerly known as missioners), now numbering nearly 100.

The Council approached the licensing authorities throughout the kingdom, and in all instances were afforded every facility for coming into contact, by letter or otherwise, with the officials having control of local sanitation.

We have examined the foregoing statements and compared them with the books and vouchers of the Association. We certify that all our requirements as auditors have been complied with, and we report to the members that the cash account correctly shows the receipts and payments for the year, and the balance sheet is properly drawn up so as to exhibit a true and correct view of the state of the Association's affairs on Dec. 31, 1906, as shown by the books of the Association.

WESTCOTT, MASKALL & Co.,
Chartered Accountants,
Honorary Auditors,
29-30, Broad Street-avenue, E.C.
London, Jan. 26, 1907.

* The Council call attention to the fact that the sum of £97 10s. 0d. paid in advance for insurance of members covering the year 1907 should be added to the balance as it appears above—making the "Excess of assets over liabilities" at the end of 1906, £127 8s. 4d.

The CHAIRMAN, rising to propose "That the annual report and accounts be read, adopted, and entered on the minutes," said: Ladies and Gentlemen,—The Association has been engaged during the past year in good and hopeful projects. In regard to Actors' Day—a scheme which is dear to my heart—I will only say that the Advisory Board as recommended by the trustees has been formed, and is at work. No doubt their labours will be difficult, but the boat is launched and is powerfully manned. The crew now and again may find it hard to pull together, but they are able-bodied seamen, and, I feel sure, will never let the future of a promising little craft go to pieces on the rocks. She will have a rough time of it no doubt, but I wish her God-speed, and I hope I may be standing at the bar next autumn to see her reach the harbour with a good report and heavily laden. One word upon the Irving Memorial. It has proved a triumphant success—a success reflecting the highest credit upon the Actors' Association, and which, in my judgment, is due to the skill and courage, when presiding at the chief meeting, of Mr. John Hare. Although the bulk of the money required has been so promptly and so generously subscribed, I cannot help thinking there are many actors who would like to give small sums towards the memorial, and who may want encouragement to do so, because they think that the amount they could spare too trifling. Not at all. Those are the gifts that are wanted, so that the roll of players that subscribe shall stretch far and wide. How much anybody gave would be nothing to Irving, but that everybody gave would be something, would be everything, to him. Were he still here it would gladden his large heart and make it beat with pleasure and with pride to know and feel that the tribute was truly the gift of his comrades. Before I move that the report and accounts be taken as read, I will call upon Mr. Acton Bond to give you some figures in regard to the accounts of the Association.

Mr. ACTON BOND said that the Council regretted that through their want of knowledge of the professional rights of the chartered accountants they put a statement under the actual signature of the accountants which, coming from the Council to the members, should have appeared on the other side merely as a comment. In 1905 their excess of assets over liabilities was £198 6s. 1d., and in 1906 their excess of assets over liabilities was only £30 8s. 4d. Subscriptions, including the yearly and half-yearly arrears of subscriptions and entrance fees, amounted in 1905 to £1063 5s.; in 1906 they amounted to £1059 17s. 6d., the difference between those four items added together on the two years being £3 7s. 6d. The actual difference between 1905 and 1906 was practically nothing, as they had a guarantee from the Commissionaires in case anything occurred, and they had £4 16s. 9d. more, so that brought the actual amount from those four items practically a little over in 1906 what they took in 1905. The loss in the year 1905 was £154 1s. 10d.; the loss in 1906 was £167 17s. 9d. In 1906 the working loss was not so great as it appeared, because £59 5s. 9d. was paid for insurances, which was an item never before incurred. They felt that an accident insurance should be included in the benefits for members, and therefore the Council agreed to spend £59 5s. 9d., so that that sum had to be deducted, and made the loss in 1906 £108 12s. Economies were effected in several directions. The stationery account was £9 2s. 6d. less; on advertisements £11 was saved, and in petty cash £4 17s. The membership in 1904 was 1527, and in 1905 it was 1390. In the latter year 137 members did not pay their subscriptions, and thus for the first time they lost on the actual working. At the end of 1906 there were 1372 members, a further loss of 18. The difference between 1905 and 1906 was practically nil, as 110 were abroad in the latter year. When he came to the present year he found that up to that morning 738 subscriptions had arrived. In 1906 on the same day there were 558, and in 1905 only 490, so that there had been a large increase, probably due to the fact that there had been recently suggestions as to a scheme for reform. The advertisements from the Year Book realised £42 14s. 10d., and as the publication only cost £43 5s. 6d., the difference was only 10s. 8d. That was a very good bargain, considering that in any case the list of members would have had to be printed and that they were able to give the Year Book free to members. This year the Council felt that arrangements should be made to include insurance of luggage in the accident insurance, and this extra insurance was operative from Jan. 1 last.

Mr. EDWARD TERRY, in seconding the adoption of the report and accounts, said that it had been already shadowed that they were going to have a very pleasant afternoon. He did not intend to retard progress, and he certainly was not going to put a stop to any reforms. He did not think they should be at all discouraged by the figures given them by Mr. Acton Bond. Figures, of course, could be made to prove anything. He thought that there was an amount of enthusiasm shown in regard to the affairs of the Association which was not evident at the initiation.

The proposition was then put to the meeting and carried unanimously.

Mr. ACTON BOND, speaking as to the constitution of the Council and its working, said that when suggestions for reforms were made inside and outside the Association, he thought it only fair that somebody who had done some work on the Council should be allowed to say something. It seemed to him that there was a desire to manage the affairs of the Association from the Court Theatre. He could not understand why there should be parties in the Association. It was a monstrous proposition for twelve men to band themselves together and say that they would be elected all or none, and that when they got on the Council they would all vote solidly one way. He could suggest what would happen. A case might come up before the Council which might be described as a fairly equal case. What would happen? These gentlemen who had banded together would vote solid one way. It would be manifestly unfair that the case should be thrown out without due consideration of its merits——

Mr. FREDK. TOPHAM (interrupting from the auditorium): Is it proper for a member of the Council to make an election address?

Mr. BOND: I am merely speaking in accordance with the right that every member has. I gave due notice of my intention to speak.

Mr. CECIL RALEIGH: What is on the agenda?

Mr. BOND (reading): "Mr. Bond will speak, before the election of the Council members takes place, as to the constitution of the Council and its working." I am no longer a member of the Council.

Mr. GRANVILLE BARKER: What is the motion before the meeting?

Mr. EDWARD TERRY: I rise on a point of order. With all due respect to our friend, Mr. Bond, he has gone right off the report. We have heard that there is a reform party in existence, but that party has not "come off" at the present moment. I take it that Mr. Bond is rising to tell us what the situation of the Association now is.

Mr. CECIL RALEIGH: I want to know what Mr. Bond's motion is?

The CHAIRMAN: I am advised that Mr. Bond is entirely within his right in speaking to you on the constitution of the Council, but it is not advisable for him to be contentious on the subject.

Mr. BOND stated that the other side had a perfect right to answer anything he put forward, but this was the only opportunity the retiring Council had of explaining what had happened. He had given seven days' clear notice of his intention to speak on the subject.

Mr. CECIL RALEIGH: Are we to be allowed to speak or not?

Mr. BARKER: The rules read "That the election takes place first and the discussion after."

Mr. BOND: It would not be fair that after the election comes only one side had been heard. Surely you will let us give you our experiences of a working Council of 42 members?

Mr. ROY HORNIMAN: We do not want Mr. Bond's version of the report. We have the report before us. If the same latitude is to be allowed to other speakers that has been allowed to Mr. Bond this discussion will be interminable.

The CHAIRMAN: I will ask Mr. Bond not to make an electioneering speech.

Mr. BARKER: We have here no agenda of the meeting, and we have not yet been told what Mr. Bond is putting to the meeting.

By the direction of the Chairman, agenda papers were distributed in the body of the theatre.

Mr. AUBREY SMITH: Certain twelve candidates have put themselves up for election on certain grounds. There has been no opportunity of replying to them, and surely we should have the votes. These people have given no reason for it, and we should simply have to vote on that statement.

Mr. TOPHAM (to Mr. Bond): If you are no longer a member of the Council, what on earth are you doing up there?

Mr. BOND: I did not go out of office until this morning, and it was an understood thing that I should be here on the stage to make my statement.

Mr. RALEIGH: There is no motion on the agenda. I ask that Mr. Bond be ruled out of order.

Mr. BARKER: I have no reason for speaking on behalf of the twelve people who signed the manifesto, but let me say that nothing is more agreeable to us than to be discussed, but we must have something to vote upon.

Mr. TREE: The last twenty minutes have been occupied in discussing points of order. Why not let Mr. Bond talk on a point of disorder for five minutes and so get the matter finished?

Mr. HORNIMAN: I protest against Mr. Tree making such a proposal.

Mr. BARKER: The reform party is perfectly willing to discuss matters.

Mr. RALEIGH hereupon proposed "That we proceed with the next motion on the agenda."

Mr. EDWARD TERRY seconded the resolution, which proved to be the desire of the meeting, and Mr. Bond's proposed address was not proceeded with.

The SECRETARY then read the names of those nominated for the fourteen vacant seats on the Council as follow: Henry Ainley, Arthur Applin, H. Granville Barker, Acton Bond, Cecil Brooking, Fanny Brough, Lewis Casson, C. F. Collings, Frank Collins, F. Cremlin, Welton Dale, Wm. Devereux, H. Athol Forde, C. V. France, Douglas Gordon, Laurence Irving, Clare Greet, Georgina Hamilton, Roy Horniman, Beatrice Lamb, Wynne Matthison, Kenyon Musgrave, Fredk. Morland, Lucy Sibley, A. B. Tapping, and Arthur Whitby.

The following five gentlemen were appointed as scrutineers to receive and examine the voting papers and announce the result: Messrs. Henry Attwater, Arthur Fitzgerald, Richard Green, A. B. Imeson, and Allen Thomas.

Mr. CYRIL MAUDE, in proposing a vote of thanks to the members of the Council for services rendered during the past year, said he considered it a good sign of life in the Association that they were dissenting. There had been too much acquiescence with each other's ideas in the past. He thought it was a good sign that Mr. Granville Barker was working so keenly and anxiously for the good of the Association. He (the speaker) would in a year or two be able to celebrate his silver jubilee of stage work, and he had seen many changes for the betterment of the profession in his time. How truly they realised the splendid example that had been set them by their late honoured chief, Sir Henry Irving, and, without making invidious comparisons, he could say that they had the greatest possible admiration and affection for their president, Sir Squire Bancroft, and for the way in which he had set them an example as to the conduct of affairs in the theatre world. They would be equally proud of the little bodies of men and women who had been working steadily for the stage. He could allude to such gatherings of their brother and sister artists as the Theatrical Ladies' Guild, the Actors' Orphanage, and Actors' Benevolent Fund. Each of these got through their work with a certain amount of pleasure which the members of the Council of the Actors' Association could not get. It was no small thing for their brother and sister artists to devote practically a whole afternoon to what was very dreary work. They had no happiness in seeing children rescued from the workhouse and put in schools; they had no pleasure in signing cheques for large amounts, and seeing them given to poor people who would otherwise starve. A vote of thanks should be given to the members of the Council who had during the past year worked to the best of their ability and power on behalf of the A.A. He was sure the reform party would heartily agree with him in that. Mr. Aubrey Smith and his colleagues on the Council had earned from them a deep debt of gratitude.

Mr. HARRY NICHOLLS briefly seconded the proposition, which was carried.

Mr. AUBREY SMITH, in acknowledging the vote, said he felt as if he were sitting on the edge of a volcano with the rising steam of reform around him. At the same time he thought they should welcome the energetic efforts which were being displayed by the reform party. But he was of opinion that that energy should be held in check to a certain extent. It might be pointed out that eleven out of the twelve reform candidates had never served on the Council, and he did not think that they had as good a chance of judging whether forty-two members were too many or not as those who had worked on the Council. Two members out of the dozen were not even in favour of what they had been asking everybody of vote for. One of the reasons given by the reform party in favour of a Council of twenty-five was that there would be a keener and more regular attendance. Well, one of the reformers, Mr. Granville Barker, had served the Association for a year, and had only attended once. The retiring Council had worked very hard indeed, and the number of attendances had been greater than ever before. There had been an average of sixteen attendances, and if they were going to reduce the number of those serving on the board to twenty-five there would be a correspondingly lesser attendance. They had to remember that there were such things as provincial tours and rehearsals in London. The crying need of the Association was not reform, but more members. Every person in that meeting should go out and get two or three more members to join. That would be doing far more good than carping and yelling for reform. Since Jan. 1 they had elected 79 new members. It was to be hoped that that state of affairs would continue.

Mr. TERRY proposed the re-election of Sir Squire Bancroft as president, and this was agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN, after making suitable acknowledgment, proposed the re-election en bloc of the vice-presidents, Mr. TOPHAM seconding. Carried.

Mr. A. E. DRINKWATER proposed, and Mr. BRANDON THOMAS seconded, the re-election of and a vote of thanks to Mr. Henry Warburton as standing counsel, and Messrs. John H. Mote and Son as hon. solicitors to the Association. Carried.

Messrs. WARBURTON and MOTE expressed their thanks.

Mr. ACTON BOND proposed and Miss BEATRICE LAMB seconded, the re-election of and a vote of thanks to the hon. staff of physicians, surgeons, and doctors; Dr. A. E. Harris, the hon. medical officer of health, Messrs. Westcott, Maskell and Co., the hon. auditors of the Association, and Mr. Ernest A. E. Woodrow, the hon. consulting architect to the Association.

Mr. AUBREY SMITH proposed the following resolution: "That acting-managers, transacting business for a company in which they have no proprietary interest, shall be eligible for election as members of the Actors' Association, subject to a record as to past work, corresponding to that supplied by actor applicants, being satisfactory to the Council." The speaker urged that the inclusion of acting-managers would be of immense advantage to the Association. In the first place, he would remind them that there were only 221 agency engagements made last year. That was a paltry number. It should be 2221, and one way of assisting towards that end was to invite the acting-managers, who would come again and again to the Association if they were permitted to belong to it. They could not expect these gentlemen to give their co-operation if they were excluded from their ranks.

Mr. A. E. DRINKWATER seconded. He concurred with all that Mr. Smith had said. Some people had said that the acting-manager was on the side of the manager. Was not the stage-manager in a similar position? In questions of organisation the benefits to be derived from the services of the acting-manager were incalculable.

Mr. TOPHAM proposed the following amendment: "That this matter be referred to the new Council for consideration."

Mr. GRANVILLE BARKER, in seconding the amendment, said that he thought Mr. Smith was suffering from a very amiable disease—a too great kindness of heart. For every acting-manager that was elected as a member of the Association, two actors would go out. The Actors' Association should be conducted in the interest of actors.

On a show of hands Mr. Smith's proposition was lost and the amendment carried.

Mr. TREE proposed, and Mr. HAYDEN COFFIN seconded, a vote of thanks to Mr. Cyril Maude for the use of his theatre; and a vote of thanks to the Chairman, proposed by Mr. BRANDON THOMAS and seconded by Miss CARLOTTA ADDISON, brought the meeting to a close.

The following list gives the names of those elected to the fourteen vacant seats on the Council, and shows the distribution of the votes:—

1. H. Granville Barker	267
2. Henry Ainley	265
3. Edith Wynne Matthison	261
4. H. Athol Forde	244
5. Lewis Casson	243
6. C. V. France	238
7. Clare Greet	238
8. Cecil Brooking	228
9. Georgina Hamilton	228
10. Frederick Morland	223
11. Kenyon Musgrave	223
12. C. F. Collings	221
13. Laurence Irving	102
14. Acton Bond	80
The following candidates were unsuccessful:—
15. Fanny Brough	79
16. Lucy Sibley	74
17. William Devereux	69
18. Roy Horniman	61
19. Arthur Whitby	57
20. Beatrice Lamb	55
21. Frank Collins	49
22. A. B. Tapping	44
23. F. Cremlin	41
24. Douglas Gordon	40
25. Welton Dale	35
26. Arthur Applin	29

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Please allow me a little space to advance what I consider a simple method to arrive at an understanding beneficial to all concerned. Experience in our profession is everything at such a crisis, for you require to have toured the "smalls," say, twenty years ago, to be thoroughly in sympathy with the temperament of keen workers, aspiring to the highest rank of dramatic art. Matters in general have changed very little in reality, and my opinion is, that if half a dozen veterans could arrange a meeting the best interests of the rank and file would be voiced, and sensible practical suggestions made that would clear the air considerably. Individually, I have been the means of reforming many abuses in the profession; and naturally have received more "kicks than ha'pence" for my efforts; nevertheless, matters stedfastly improve, and that is my reward. Let such a meeting be arranged at the offices of the Actors' Association as soon as possible, and it will prove the beginning of the end of all the trouble.—Yours faithfully,

HENRY TWEEDIE,
Touring Manager since 1886.
45, Creswell-road, Richmond Bridge,

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Should the proposal of the Union go through, may I enquire in what way they would relieve the many so-called actors and actresses whose work is not even worth 30s. a week? For it stands to reason, I think, that they would be thrown out of work. This would, of course, be to the ultimate advantage of all concerned. But, in the meanwhile, how would they fare?—Yours faithfully,

CHARLES CAREY.
Opera House, Tunbridge Wells, Feb. 22.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LEAGUE.

In connection with the meeting held at 3, Bedford-street, on the 8th inst., with Mr. Arthur Bawtree in the chair, the provisional committee chosen to organise an Actors' Union have issued a circular containing the following suggested rules for the proposed Union:—

The provisional title of the body is the Dramatic and Musical League.

This body to be registered under the Companies Acts, 1862 to 1900.

That this League is being formed for the object of working for the sole welfare and interest of actors and actresses in the dramatic and musical profession.

That the League shall consist of two degrees of membership—Fellows and Associates—the qualification for membership being for Fellows five years and for Associates two years' actual experience, and, this being proved, that each candidate be proposed by a member and seconded by two others who, from personal knowledge, can vouch for the candidate as professionally and socially fit for membership.

That all have full voting powers. But only Fellows be eligible to sit on the Council.

That the entrance fee to be 2s. 6d. and subscription 6d. per week. Limit of credit ten weeks, except with reasonable excuse to the Council.

A levy of 6d. per head to be made on all members on the occasion of the death of a member of the League.

That a Provident Fund (from the then existing fund) will be considered as soon as the League is on a sound financial footing.

That any member of the League becoming a manager or acting-manager shall during the period of his management forfeit his right of vote, and cease to hold executive powers in the League.

That the Society be governed by a Council of twenty-four Fellows, annually elected by members, the Council to have powers to add to their number.

That branches of the League, at the earliest date possible, shall be formed in other centres, such as are already forming in London and Manchester.

The committee hope that those who are in favour of the scheme will give it immediate practical support by endeavouring to organise, in the towns they are in, meetings of actors and actresses and by putting the purposes outlined in the circular before these meetings.

Members will be known by their numbers, and each will have a card for the purpose of affixing stamps, thus denoting the payment of subscriptions.

A.A. SOCIAL.

Mr. J. T. Grein addressed the members of the Actors' Association on Friday afternoon last week on the subject of an "Entente Cordiale Theatre." Mr. Lawrence Grant presided.

The lecturer pointed out that the drama was a powerful factor in creating a friendly relationship between two countries. Because there was nothing which could so deeply arouse human emotions, it was a greater influence than the diplomacy of the politician, the writings of the novelist, or the sermons of the preacher. The drama had been responsible for one of the most collossal agitations in the world, for it was the production of a play which brought about the dissolution of the union which formerly existed between Holland and Belgium. In regard to Mr. Tree's forthcoming visit to Germany, the lecturer thought that it would be a great success if only a right répertoire had been chosen. With France, at the present moment, we were on a much more intimate footing than with the land of the Teuton. German soil at the present moment wanted fertilising, as French soil was open to reception for dramatic purposes. The French theatre in London, which had been patronised by the King, had shown us some of the best French acting and some of the best French plays. He did not think that the English theatre, which he suggested should be established in Paris, should at the first give Shakespeare, because the French had not yet realised that Shakespeare was not merely a classic for his own time and his own people, but for all times and for all peoples. In Germany, where, perhaps, Shakespeare was even more popular than in England, there had lately arisen a new form of Shakespearean acting, which was as akin to modernity as it could be. Turning again to the question of what plays should be at the offset produced in the English theatre in France, the lecturer suggested The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, The Liars, The Walls of Jericho, Lord and Lady Algy, and others of that class, which would acquaint French people with the different phases of English life, and would come as a novelty to them. A critic in Holland had once said, after witnessing the performance of The Walls of Jericho, that that play gave him the exact meaning of the words "lady" and "gentleman." What surprise it would cause the French people to see a company of English actors and actresses who knew how to move about a drawing-room! A beginning of the "Entente Cordiale Theatre" might be made by giving six performances of English plays in Paris next winter. The lecturer was sure that Frenchmen of culture, as well as American and Englishmen, would be only too ready to subscribe in order to help this young enterprise. The German theatre in London could boast of an annual subscription of £2,000, in addition to a guarantee fund.

A brief discussion followed, and the lecturer was accorded a vote of thanks.

BRINGING DOWN THE HOUSE.—In a German provincial theatre the other day they were going to give a performance of Piccolomini, and the "star" was coming from the metropolis to take the leading part. At rehearsal, in the banqueting scene, he said to the footman, as he was about to present to him the inkstand in order to sign the declaration, "Ah! while I think of it, I wish to explain to you, my friend, that I have a little trick here for which you had better be prepared. When you hand me the inkstand this evening I shall, in my excitement, wipe my pen on your shirt collar. Of course, it will make a stain, but you will see—it will fetch the house!" "Capital," replied the other; "just at this place, I, too, have to introduce a little trick of my own. As soon as you have wiped your pen on my collar, I shall deal you a tremendous box on the ear. Of course, it will hurt, but you will see—it will bring down the house!"

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

Mr. Beerbohm Tree, who stumbled over the head of a tiger skin on the stage of His Majesty's Theatre last week and slightly injured his side against a table, was obliged to resign his part on Saturday to Mr. Charles Quartermaine. Monday evening, however, saw the eminent actor-manager back in the character of Antony, when he had a reception affectionate and hearty. Added attractiveness, it may be remarked, is given to the matinée of The Red Lamp at His Majesty's on Thursday in aid of St. Mary's Hospital for Women and Children, Plaistow, by the promise of Mr. Tree to announce the proceeds of the performance from the stage at the close of the play.

The loss of nineteen members of the German Opera Company in the wreck of the Berlin on Thursday gives a melancholy interest to the ill-fated enterprise. The Winter German Opera Syndicate, Limited, was filed with a registered capital of £10,000, in 100 ordinary shares of £100 each. At a meeting held at Covent Garden last Saturday it was decided to close the season, and the "notice" went up on Monday morning. A statement of the affairs of the company is now being prepared by the auditors and accountants. The Grand Opera Syndicate, Limited, have nothing to do with the matter, except as superior landlords. Mr. Frank Rendle made a contract with the German Opera Syndicate to find the house, lighting, scenery, and costumes, and certain employees. The German Opera Syndicate, Limited, provided "everything seen and heard" on the stage, including the orchestra.

Mr. George Alexander has selected the evening of March 8 for the production at the St. James's of Mr. Alfred Sutro's new play, John Glayde's Honour. A répétition générale will be given on the previous Thursday evening.

Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton, with their full Adelphi company, open a week's engagement at the Kennington Theatre on Monday, when The Taming of the Shrew will be presented. On Thursday they will give a matinée of Othello—a production which is being looked forward to with great interest in South London.

Mr. E. S. Willard sails for England on April 9, per the Kaiser Wilhelm, and is due at Plymouth on Monday, April 15. The eminent actor, it is recalled, had a remarkable run with The Middleman, by Henry Arthur Jones, which he has played for eighteen years, but one season having passed in which it did not form part of his répertoire. In America the popularity of the play is as strong as ever, as is instanced by it having drawn over £440 at a recent performance at the Nixon Theatre, Pittsburg, and this in spite of a snowstorm that raged for forty-eight hours before the performance. It is true that Pittsburg knew it was Mr. Willard's farewell to the city in the part of Cyrus Blencarn, but it was to the popularity of the play that the large house was primarily due.

Mr. Edward Compton had a sharp attack of influenza, aggravated by total loss of voice, and could not appear at the Lyceum Theatre, Edinburgh, on Monday and Tuesday. Fortunately his son, Mr. Montagu Compton, who was with the company for the final rehearsals of his new comedy The Gentleman in Grey, was able to take up most successfully the parts of Charles Surface and Bob Acres.

Mr. Hayden Coffin and Miss Ruth Vincent will be the principals of Tom Jones, the new comic opera, founded by A. M. Thompson and Robert Courtneidge upon Henry Fielding's novel, with lyrics by Charles Taylor and music by Edward German, to be produced at the Apollo on Thursday, April 18. Mr. Dan Rolyat, who leapt into fame at the same theatre as the merry bluejacket of The Dairymaids, will have the part of a barber, and the cast will also comprise Messrs. John Morley, Arthur Soames, Ambrose Manning, Jay Laurier, Walter Rignold, Reginald Crompton, Harry Cottell, and Harry Welchman, and Misses Carrie Moore, Marie Daltra, Dora Rignold, Dorothy Ward, Florence Parfrey, Maud Thornton, and Cicely Courtneidge.

Shareholders of Howard and Wyndham, Ltd., at a meeting at Edinburgh on the 15th inst., unanimously agreed to sell their undertaking, comprising six theatres—three in Glasgow, two in Edinburgh, and one in Newcastle—to Robert Colburn Buchanan, of the King's Theatre, Edinburgh, and Ernest Stevens, of the Marlborough Theatre, London. The original price fixed was £146,000, a sum equal with the ordinary market price, equivalent to £6 5s. per share, but at the meeting it was intimated that Buchanan and Stevens had agreed to increase the offer to £160,000, bringing up the price per share of the Howard and Wyndham shareholders to something like £7 5s.

Mr. Martin Harvey's promised production of a play adapted from the German during his forthcoming London season, which commences in May, is causing considerable interest. Up to the present Mr. Harvey has been laudably faithful to the native dramatist, and it is felt that his new production, at present named The Rich Youth, must possess some signal features of merit to have led the favourite actor to depart from custom. The author, Karl Rössler, has won a distinguished position in Berlin as a dramatist, and his works possess a quality which should not be lost in adaptation to the English stage. Meantime, Mr. Harvey continues to enjoy success on his provincial tour, and this week at the Grand Theatre, Middlesbrough, enormous audiences have been the rule. On Monday Mr. Harvey, Miss N. de Silva, and company appear at Her Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen, where the liveliest interest is being shown in the revival of Hamlet.

Mr. Cyril Maude added appreciably to his laurels at the Royalty Theatre on Friday afternoon, the 15th inst., when he appeared in the little French play L'Anglais tel qu'on le Parle. Mr. Maude essayed the part of the Englishman, Hogson, who journeys to Paris in pursuit of his daughter, eloped with a bank clerk. Hogson is utterly ignorant of the language, and a native who poses as an interpreter is almost equally limited in his knowledge of English. Through the latter's muddling it is made to appear that Hogson accused his would-be son-in-law of having stolen his pocket-book, and an amusing imbroglio follows. Mr. Maude was very diverting as the irascible Briton, and Miss Alexandra Carlisle was very charming as the errant daughter. The other parts in the comedietta were sustained by members of the French company in London.

The interest of the afternoon was further maintained by other English artists of eminence, Mr. Lewis Waller winning an encore for his recitation of "The Portrait," and responding with a stirring delivery of Henry V.'s speech before Agincourt. Miss Edna May and Miss Ruth Vincent contributed delightful selections; Mr. Harry Fragson entertained at the piano; and the quarrel scene between Brutus and Cassius from Julius Cæsar was given by Mr. Basil Gill and Mr. Lyn Harding. Miss Viola Tree assisted in the sale of programmes, and the matinée, which was organised by Mr. Gaston Mayer in aid of the French Hospital, the French Benevolent Society of London, and the Lord Mayor's Jamaica Fund, realised the handsome sum of £452. The Prince and Princess of Wales were present, as well as Princess Christian, and the audience also included the French Ambassador.

Mr. J. Bannister Howard is in the enviable position of holding two licences—dramatic and music hall—for the Royal Theatre, King's Lynn, and will re-open it as a hippodrome on Monday, March 4. Mr. Howard is trying the experiment of running three nights only each week, two houses a night, and booking the other three nights in conjunction with Mr. Montefiore, of Bury St. Edmunds. The house will be run as a music hall until the autumn season commences, when it will again open with dramatic fare.

Mr. Arthur Bourchier will reappear in the evening bill at the Garrick on Wednesday, March 6, when he will create the character of the brilliant dramatist in Gladys Unger's four-act comedy Mr. Sheridan. Miss Alexandra Carlisle will be the Esther Ogle, and the cast will be completed by Messrs. Sydney Valentine, Walter Pearce, Cyril Keightley, Charles V. France, Leonard Calvert, Arthur Whitby, Lawson Butt, Alfred Bristowe, Edward Rigby, William Burchill, Charles Goodhart, Frank Lacy, Harrison Carter, and Douglas Imbert, and Misses Helen Rous, Pamela Gaythorne, and Nancy Price. The first three acts are laid in Mr. Sheridan's house at Wanstead, and Act. IV. in "The Happy Hymen" Inn at Dorington.

Mr. Walter Passmore and Mr. Harry Randall, the comedians of the Drury-lane pantomime, gave a tea-party to the boys and girls engaged in Sindbad on the 15th inst. About 100 youthful performers sat down to a sumptuous repast in the salon of the National Theatre, and enjoyed themselves to their hearts' content. Two "lucky tubs," containing presents for every boy and every girl, were provided by Miss Queenie Leighton, Miss Marie George, Miss Warde, Miss Rosamund Bury, Mr. Harry Fragson, Mr. Fred Emney, and others, most of whom joined in the children's games, of which Mr. Arthur Collins was an amused spectator.

Mr. W. T. Lovell, who is on tour with Miss Ellen Terry in America, shared fully in the success obtained by Captain Brassbound's Conversion. Mr. Lovell appears as the American Captain, the difficulties of which in the circumstances will be apparent, and has met with unbounded praise from Press and public alike.

The estate of the late Mr. C. Hamilton Aïdé, the dramatist, novelist, and composer, has been valued at £43,208 gross, with net personalty £42,782. Among the beneficiaries is Miss Viola Tree, daughter of the famous actor-manager, to whom £200 is bequeathed. The testator leaves all his musical library and musical copyrights to Mrs. Winifred Coombe Tennant, of Cadoxton Lodge, Vale of Neath; all his remaining literary copyrights and certain articles to Lady Stanley (widow of Sir H. M. Stanley); and all his journals, manuscripts, and literary documents to Mr. Morton Fullerton, of Paris, leaving it to his discretion to publish or destroy such of his journals, manuscripts, and other literary matter as he may think best.

Miss Decima Moore, who has been spending her vacation on the West Coast of Africa, is now on her way back to resume her part in All-of-a-Sudden Peggy, with Messrs. Lionel Glenister and Wood-Ingram, whose tour in the autumn proved such a great success. We understand that a long tour in all the No. 1 towns has been arranged for the spring.

Mr. Charles Hawtrey will have the best wishes of all for a speedy return to health after the operation which he underwent on Thursday by Dr. William Hill, the well-known aural surgeon, at St. Mary's Hospital. The operation, which involved the removal of an abscess at the back of the ear, was quite successful, and the popular comedian is progressing as satisfactorily as possible.

Mr. James Welch will send out in the autumn two companies with When Knights Were Bold, the fantastic comedy now running successfully at Wyndham's. Dates for the tour are being arranged by Mr. Arthur Whittaker, at Wyndham's Theatre.

Mr. Spencer Trevor, who opened in the part of Babs last Monday evening in Mr. Brandon Thomas's Charley's Aunt company at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, was taken suddenly ill on Tuesday, and has been unable to appear since. His doctor ordered an immediate operation. Fortunately, it was not of a dangerous character, and he is progressing favourably, and hopes to be able to resume the part again in a couple of weeks.

During the afternoon Mr. Thomas, who was at the meeting of the Actors' Association at the Playhouse, received a telegram from Mr. Trevor. As the tour had only just started, it was not thought advisable to call upon the understudy except as a last resource, and telegrams and messengers were sent to everybody who had previously played the part on the chance of one of them being disengaged. All replies were in the negative. As a last resource Mr. James Welch was asked to lend Mr. Arthur Chesney, who is engaged to understudy Mr. Welch at Wyndham's. This he kindly consented to do. Mr. Chesney arrived at the King's at 8.40, went on the stage in his old part at 8.50, and gave an excellent performance. Mr. Chesney will continue playing the part until Mr. Trevor's return.

A concert and dramatic performance was given at the Great Queen-street Theatre on the 8th inst. by Mrs. Edward Sondheim, in aid of the Jamaica Earthquake Fund. Among those who contributed to the excellent concert must be especially mentioned M. Jean Cakkinis, who rendered the Ariso (Pagliacci) "La donna e Mobile" in such fine style that after three recalls an encore was demanded. Signor Zardo sang in his usual artistic manner; Mme. Kebbell and Miss Helen Sola also sang, and Signor Pente delighted his audience with a violin solo. The Arabian Nights which followed was very well played by Mr. Willie Sinclair, Mr. Geo. W. Hodgson (under whose direction the performance took place), and Mr. Bayley. Mrs. Edward Sondheim and Miss Gigia Filippi both won honours in their respective parts, and the other characters were well sustained by Miss Ida Sondheim, Mrs. Shoppee, Miss Essie Hucks, and Mr. W. J. Standish. The proceeds handed over by Mrs. Sondheim to the Daily Mirror was £115—a very handsome sum.

Mr. Charles Hannan's four-act romantic play, The Coachman with Yellow Lace, dramatised by him from his novel of the same name, will be produced for a week before Easter at the Hammersmith Lyric Theatre by Mr. Samuel James, who is forming a special company for the production. The play is a costume one, the period being that of the seventeenth century.

That popular young provincial leading man, Mr. Jerrold Heather, is well booked up, and is at present starring as Phillip Carnaby in The Love that Women Desire. At Easter he is engaged by Mr. T. Edward Ward to star in the leading juvenile part in Walter Howard's new Manchester production, and is secured by Mr. W. H. Hallatt for the autumn, to star as Commander Noel Tregarthen, R.N., in Walter Howard's Two Little Sailor Boys.

"Sir George of Almack's," a new costume comedy by H. F. Maltby, is to be produced for the first time on any stage on Thursday, March 28, at the Theatre Royal, Dover.

"The Little Admiral" is the title chosen for the new play by Horace Hodges and T. Wigney Percival in which Mr. Lewis Waller is to appear at the Lyric on March 9. The personage to which the title refers appears only in the first act, but the story is dominated by his influence throughout. Mr. Waller and Miss Evelyn Millard will again act the parts of lovers, and the cast will also contain Miss Carlotta Addison, Mr. Charles Groves, Mr. Charles Fulton, Mr. C. M. Lowne, Mr. A. E. George, Mr. Herbert Jarman, and Mr. Herman de Lange.

The O.P. Club will entertain two eminent representatives of the different forms of drama at their ladies' annual dinner at the Criterion on Sunday, March 17, when Miss Winifred Emery and Miss Edna May will both respond to the toast of "The Ladies," to be submitted by the president, Mr. Sidney Dark. Miss Marie Illington will add to the attractiveness of the occasion by proposing the health of the chairman.

The King's Theatre, Walthamstow, is to be offered at auction by Mr. Wm. Houghton at the Mart, Tokenhouse Yard, on Monday, March 18. The property consists of freehold theatre, residence, and extensive site, covering a total area of about 33,000 super feet, in the heart of a thickly-populated and rapidly-increasing parish, accessible by the electric tram system and rail from the surrounding districts. The theatre, of which immediate possession may be had, has seating accommodation for about 1500 persons, and is fully licensed for music and dramatic performances.

The Mart, E.C., has also been selected for the disposal of the St. James's Hall, Kingston-on-Thames, the sale of which by Mr. A. G. Bonsor is to take place on Wednesday, Feb. 27. The hall is fully licensed for music and dancing, and has a floor area of 3,248 square feet, containing seating accommodation for 700. It is capitally ventilated, heated by hot-water apparatus, lighted by electricity and gas, and fitted with a spacious stage, and has a dry basement running under the whole building.

Among forthcoming sales is that of the Middlesbrough Grand Opera House, which will be offered at auction by Messrs. Willman and Douglas on the premises on Tuesday, Feb. 26. This admirably appointed theatre was built in 1903, and occupies a central position on a corner site of the principal thoroughfare of the town. It has seating accommodation for 3,500 persons, with ample means of access and exit to and from all parts of the house. The stage and auditorium are equipped on the most modern principles, electric light, gas, and heating apparatus being provided throughout. The theatre is fully licensed, and will be offered together with the furnishings, fittings, stage effects, &c., as a going concern.

Mr. Neil Forsyth's first announcement since his appointment as general manager to the Covent Garden Opera Syndicate is very welcome to musical enthusiasts. As no festival is to be celebrated at Bayreuth this year, it has been arranged to give at Covent Garden two complete cycles of Der Ring des Nibelungen and two performances of Die Meistersinger under the musical direction of Dr. Hans. Richter. Das Rheingold will be given on Tuesday, April 30, and on Wednesday, May 8; Die Walküre on Wednesday, May 1, and Thursday, May 9; Siegfried on Friday, May 3, and Saturday, May 11; Götterdämmerung on Monday, May 6, and Tuesday, May 14; and Die Meistersinger on Thursday, May 16, and Wednesday, May 22.

The operas will be presented in their entirety, without cuts, in the same manner as at Bayreuth and at Covent Garden in previous seasons. Die Meistersinger will commence at five in the afternoon and terminate at eleven o'clock, with an interval, after the first act, of an hour and a half for dinner; and similar arrangements will exist in the case of all the other works with the exception of Das Rheingold, which will last from 8.30 till 11. Prices for the complete cycle, including the entire "Ring" and Die Meistersinger (five performances in all), will be—private boxes, from 10 to 20 guineas; orchestra stalls, £6 17s. 6d.; balcony stalls, £4 12s.; and amphitheatre stalls, from £1 15s. to £3 6s.

At the seventh annual meeting of the Grand Opera House, Harrogate, Company, Ltd., held on the 14th inst. with Mr. J. H. Wilson, J.P., C.C., chairman of the company, presiding, a dividend of 7½ per cent. was declared. The retiring directors, Messrs. Mudd and Raworth, were re-elected.

Royalty has been busy among the theatres during the last few days. The Queen and the Princess of Wales witnessed the performance of The Yeomen of the Guard at the Savoy on Saturday evening. The Prince and Princess of Wales went to the Royalty on Monday to see Mme. Jane Hading in Adrienne Lecouvreur. Wednesday saw Prince Edward of Wales at the matinée at the Duke of York's in the full enjoyment of Mr. J. M. Barrie's Peter Pan, and on Thursday the King and Queen, Prince Arthur of Connaught, and suite were again present at the New Royalty, where Le Maitre de Forges was being played.

Matinees of Her Son, the new play by Horace Annesley Vachell, which has been rewritten and reconstructed since its production at Glasgow in November, are to be given by Mr. Cyril Maude at the Playhouse. The series will begin on March 12, and will be continued every Tuesday and Friday until April 5, with the exception of Holy Week, during which the performances will be suspended. Mr. Maude will be in the cast, principal parts in which will also be held by Miss Winifred Emery, Miss Nina Boucicault, Miss Dolores Drummond, Miss Florence Haydon, Mr. Alfred Bishop, and Master Reggie Andrews.

Mr. Charles Frohman announces, with more than a tinge of regret, that Miss Edna May, whose popularity has so long reflected the wise judgment of the enterprising manager, will leave the stage upon her forthcoming marriage to Mr. Oscar Lewisohn. Miss May's withdrawal into private life will date from the end of the run of Nelly Neil at the Aldwych.

Mr. Lewis Waller's Robin Hood company, from the Lyric Theatre, under the direction of Mr. Arthur Whittaker, has met with remarkable success on the first week of its tour at the Grand, Wolverhampton. The company, the production, and the play have all won the greatest approval, with the result that business has been phenomenal. Two tours will be sent out in the autumn, dates for which may be obtained of Mr. A. Gifford Stacey, the general manager.

"The Great Conspiracy" is to be the title of the English version of La Belle Marseillaise, in which Mr. John Hare and Miss Irene Vanbrugh are to appear at the Duke of York's on Monday, March 4. The author of the French original is M. Pierre Berton, and in the new adaptation Mr. Hare has the part of Napoleon.

The report that Mr. Fred Eastman is going to the Waldorf Theatre is incorrect. Mr. Eastman has for some time been under contract to Mr. Charles Carey, and opens within a fortnight as the Colonel in The Pick of the Bunch, a new musical comedy which Mr. Carey is shortly producing in conjunction with Mr. Harold Wantage at suburban and other big theatres

Miss N. de Silva (Mrs. Martin Harvey) enjoyed an amusing experience during her recent sojourn at Hull with her husband's company. The accomplished actress was leaving her hotel one morning, accompanied by Mr. Harvey's well-known prize-winning Skye terriers, the animals looking comfortable and cosy in their warm coats. The attention of a couple of street loungers was attracted by the dogs, and Miss de Silva overheard the following colloquy:—First Street Lounger: "Wot is them dogs, Andy?" Andy: "Why, any un knows wot their breed is." First Street Lounger: "Well, Oi dussn't, any'ow. Wot is they?" Andy (triumphantly): "Them's the breed of the Treshams, in course, yer hignorant hignoramus!" Each of the loungers scuttled off a shilling the richer.

The usual weekly meeting of the Council of the Actors' Association was held on Tuesday, when there were present:—Messrs. C. Aubrey Smith (chairman), A. E. Drinkwater (deputy-chairman), Mr. Henry W. Mote (hon. solicitor), and Messrs. Cecil Barth, J. Cooke Beresford, Clarence Blakiston, Acton Bond, Burton Cooke, C. Hayden Coffin, F. Cremlin, William Devereux, A. E. George, Walter Russell, Algernon Syms, Brandon Thomas, and Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary). Ernest Rivarz, May Warley, Stanley J. Warmington, and Beatrice Wilson (for reinstatement), Kenneth Douglas (for reinstatement), and Fred Kerr (for reinstatement) were nominated for election.

The hon. solicitors reported they had advised several members, and they were requested to press for payment of a member's claim, and also to advise another member upon a point submitted. Dr. Daniel, 13, Nevern-square, South Kensington, Dr. Cooke, of Greenock, Dr. Donald, of Paisley, and Dr. Stevenson, of Edinburgh, were elected as hon. medical officers to the A.A. The following former members were reinstated, namely: Mabel St. James and Philip Cunningham.

The Irving Memorial Committee held a meeting last Friday week, with Mr. John Hare in the chair, supported by Messrs. G. P. Bancroft, Norman Forbes, and Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary). Several matters in connection with the fund were considered, and the secretary received instructions.

The cast of The Prodigal Son, due next week at the Adelphi, includes the name of Mr. Fred Grove, who appears as the Pastor. This makes the seventh part Mr. Grove has played in Mr. Hall Caine's dramas.

Mr. William Mollison, whose success as Macbeth, Shylock, and Jaques has been so pronounced, is adding Richard the Third and Julius Cæsar to his répertoire. The autumn tour, as already arranged, will embrace the principal theatres in Liverpool, Belfast, Dublin, Nottingham, and Birmingham, and negotiations are also in progress for other important theatrical centres.

Mr. Bannister Howard is shortly moving his offices from 3, Bedford-street, Strand, to the Crystal Palace, which will in future be his headquarters. Mr. Howard's wardrobe and scenery is now made at the Palace, and the results in the matter of convenience thus gained are plainly apparent.

Mark Hambourg will give a pianoforte recital this afternoon at the Crystal Palace, and will be assisted by his brothers, Boris and Jan Hambourg, Miss Bessie Bucktrout acting as accompanist. It is interesting to learn that the great Russian pianist will probably appear for the last time as a single man, as on the 5th of next month he is to be married to Miss McKenzie.

Mr. Walter W. Hedgcock has arranged for the following artists to appear at the Crystal Palace at next week's promenade concerts, which commence at six o'clock and on Saturday at 6.30:—Monday, Miss Maggie Kirkbride and Mr. A. H. Gee; Tuesday, Miss Ursula Rae and Mr. Peter Dawson; Wednesday, Miss Maud Hardy and Mr. Ottaway Dunford; Thursday, Miss Blanche Gaston-Murray and Mr. Reginald Brophy; Friday, Miss Violet Love and Mr. Frank Hicks; and Saturday, Miss Gertrude Maxted and Mr. Frank McCormack.

Visitors to the Crystal Palace Theatre are assured of a hearty laugh next week, for which Mr. Bannister Howard has secured Mr. Charles Macdona's principal company, including Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sugden, in A Night Out. For 700 nights, it will be remembered, the piece drew crowded houses to the Vaudeville, and its success at Sydenham is pretty well secure. Mr. and Mrs. Sugden will be supported by an excellent company, including Misses Constance Groves, Lillian Stafford, Lillian Elen, Elvira Stuart, Kathleen Keele, Elmie Kemp, Dorothy Dance, Messrs. Edward Thirlby, Mark Lester, Geoffrey Savile, Thomas Barry, Fred Penley, James Willoughby, and Graham Postance.

Morning dress will be the wear at the ladies' concert at the Managers' Club on Sunday. Mr. C. St. John Denton will take the chair, and a social evening in its most agreeable form may be anticipated.

"The Angel of Unrest," a new romantic drama of the Napoleonic period, by Richard A. Greene, will be produced by Messrs. Alec Flood and Aubrey Fitzmaurice on March 4 at the Theatre Royal, Brighton, and will immediately go on tour for about eight weeks. The story of the play relates to Napoleon's Russian campaign of 1812. Napoleon himself—the Angel of Unrest—is the commanding figure of the plot, and the author has portrayed a side of his character not usually seen on the stage. Scenery of picturesque design is being built for the production, and the electrical effects will be novel and beautiful, especially so in the last act—the retreat from Moscow. An elaborate plant of printing is being prepared, and costumes and wigs specially made. The play will be produced under the stage direction of Mr. Alec Flood, who will also enact Napoleon. Amongst a very powerful cast of seventeen artists appear the names of Messrs. Creagh Henry, James Chippendale, Henry Belding, and Miss Florence Tressilian. The tour is under the direction of Mr. F. Martin Morris.

Miss Katie Johnson has been engaged by Messrs. Lionel Glenister and J. Wood-Ingram to understudy Miss Decima Moore on their tour of All-of-a-Sudden Peggy.

Miss Annie Hughes is enjoying a highly prosperous tour with Mr. Jerome K. Jerome's play Tommy, which has recently had a most favourable reception in several suburban theatres. So pronounced, indeed, has been the success of the charming actress that she has refused an offer to return to New York this season.

Mr. Langhorne Burton has been engaged to play the part of Brigadier Gerard on tour, in place of Mr. Loring Fernie, who has now rejoined Peter Pan. Mr. Burton recently played in the Stage Society production of The Cassillis Engagement at the Imperial, and has for some time been connected with the Frohman tours of their London successes.

Messrs. Adeler and Sutton are sending out a Pierrot company to India and the Far East under the auspices of Mr. Maurice E. Bandmann. The troupe includes Misses Emilie Tait, Evelyn Hughes, and Florence Beech, and Messrs. George Villiers-Arnold, Maynard Dakin, Harry Herbert, Norman Osborne, and Gordon Stamford. The tour opens at the Theatre Royal, Calcutta, on March 20.

The final competition for free open scholarships in the Royal College of Music took place on Thursday, when the following candidates were successful:—Pianoforte: Arthur E. O. Norman, Gertrude M. Mustard; Singing: Evelyn B. Jennings, Queenie I. A. Robinson, Elsie E. Webb, Henry Thompson, Gladys M. E. Honey; Organ: Robert A. Greir; Violin: Dora F. Coombs, Elsie I. Main; Violoncello: Marion A. B. Harrison, Cedric Sharpe; Bassoon: Reginald de H. Tupper; Harp: John T. Cockerill; Composition: Edward D. Taylor, John D. H. Greenwood. The Pauer Memorial Exhibition (£7 10s.) for the student of at least one year's standing in the College who attains the highest position among the proxime for the pianoforte was awarded to Lucia T. Simpson.

The foundation-stone of a new concert-hall now being built in Great Portland-street will be laid by the Lord Mayor at noon on Saturday, April 20. The hall is to be called St. James's Hall, and the builders have contracted to have it ready by September next.

The King's Theatre, Kirkcaldy, was the scene late on Saturday night or early on Sunday morning of a daring attempt at burglary. Some of the officials entering the building on Sunday morning were surprised to find the door unlocked, and the manager's room in a state of disorder. An effort had been made to open the safe, which contained a large sum of money. The safe has three locks, and the thieves placed some gelatine in the central lock and, wrapping one of the stage carpets round the safe, exploded the gelatine. The safe was completely destroyed, while the ceiling of the room underneath was badly broken and cracked, and the carpet blown to powder. The thieves were evidently alarmed at the noise of the explosion and made off, fortunately without securing any plunder.

Mr. J. F. Elliston's pantomime of The Sleeping Beauty and the Mystic Yellow Dwarf finished a highly-successful tour at the Theatre Royal, Huddersfield, on Saturday evening. There was also a matinée that day, and at each performance hundreds of applicants for admission were met by the "House full" boards. Mr. Albert C. Duncan, Mr. Elliston's manager, notes that identically the same number of people paid for admission in the afternoon as for the evening performance—a remarkable coincidence indeed.

Mr. Wyn Weaver, who has just concluded another engagement in pantomime with Mr. Peter Davey, has been re-engaged by Mr. H. F. Maltby for his second year of tour. Since Mr. Weaver commenced his career twelve years ago with Mr. Louis Calvert, he has sustained in the provinces many leading parts originally played in town by Mr. Cyril Maude, Mr. James Welch, and Mr. John Hare; and he will appear in the title-part of Mr. Maltby's new costume comedy, Sir George of Almack's, which is to be produced at the Theatre Royal, Dover, next Thursday.

During the Shakespearean Festival Week at Tunbridge Wells Mr. Norman V. Norman will produce As You Like It, and scenes from Much Ado About Nothing, Romeo and Juliet, Richard III., and Macbeth. In the last-named Miss Beatrice Wilson will appear for the first time as Lady Macbeth. Miss Wilson, by the way, has been appointed on the Advisory Committee of the Actors' Day Fund.

Miss Mary Allestree, who is playing Maureen in the new play Terence, produced at the Theatre Royal, Margate, this week, has been re-engaged to play Mrs. Dick in The Little Stranger at the Theatre Royal, Brighton on Monday.

Mr. C. Robert Perkins, who is retiring from the management of the Opera House, Jersey, took his farewell of the theatre on the 15th inst., when a large audience was present. At the close of the pantomime, Little Red Riding Hood, the orchestra struck up "Auld Lang Syne," and on the curtain being raised again, Mr. Perkins came forward and said that that evening he would ring down the curtain for the last time, after holding the reins of management for seven years. He wished to express thanks for the loyal support accorded him by the people of Jersey during that period, and also for the ever-ready assistance given him by the members of his staff. Mr. Perkins presented Mr. John Le Cras, who had been connected with the theatre in Jersey for over 40 years, with a handsome gold watch in case, and also asked him to take charge of a similar gift for Mr. Pinwell (master carpenter of St. Julian's Hall, Guernsey). Mr. Perkins also presented to Mr. A. W. McKee, the conductor of the orchestra, a silver-mounted bâton in case, and to Mr. Arthur Williams, his assistant, a case of chiropodist's instruments. In conclusion, Mr. Perkins said a few words in behalf of his successor, Mr. Edward Marris.

At the Opera House, Cork, on the 15th inst., Mr. Gus Walker, the Dame of the pantomime Sinbad the Sailor, became suddenly indisposed, and at short notice his understudy, Mr. Ted Warner, stepped into the breach, and went through the entire songs, business, &c., with complete success. Mr. Warner, who was highly complimented by the management, also played the part at the Saturday matinée and evening performances.

A crowded audience assembled in the Grand Theatre, Brighton, on Saturday evening, when the pantomime Cinderella completed its long and prosperous run. All the principal ladies received presents and bouquets. The enthusiasm reached its height in the Palace scene, when Mr. Ernest Carpenter took the opportunity of thanking his patrons for their generous support. The pantomime, he said, had been the most successful financially that he had produced in Brighton. Aladdin will be his next Christmas production. Gifts from the company to the theatre staff were presented by Mr. Carpenter. Mr. J. D. Newton, stage-manager, received a case of cutlery; Mr. Ben Court, acting-manager, a smoking cabinet; Signor G. D. La Camera, the musical director, a fountain-pen; and Mr. Hammond, who supplied the advertising motor-car, a pair of motor gloves.

Ibsen's play of Hedda Gabler will be given at the Court Theatre for a series of afternoon performances beginning on March 5, and continuing on the following Tuesdays and Fridays until the 26th inclusive. Mrs. Patrick Campbell will be the Hedda, and Miss Adela Measor, Miss Evelyn Weeden, Mr. Trevor Lowe, Mr. James Hearn, Mr. Laurence Irving, and Miss Mary Raby will constitute the rest of the cast.

It was during the run of Patience at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, says the Reader, that Sir Arthur Sullivan, who was conducting the opera, complained that late-comers annoyed the audience during the matinées. The manager, Mr. John Stetson, sent for the scenic artist, whose name happened to be Sharp, and told him to paint a door-sign to the effect that the matinées invariably began at two o'clock, and that late-comers disturbed the performance. Obeying the orders, the scenic artist painted a sign in large letters, as follows:—"Please Take Notice! The Matinée Performances Begin at Two o'clock Sharp!" The manager passed the theatre later, and, seeing the sign, became livid with rage. He sent for the scenic artist, and blurted out, "Do you run this theatre or do I?" "Of course you are the manager," answered the painter. "Then take your name off the sign, and put in its place 'John Stetson'!"

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Mr. H. B. Irving on Acting.

MR. H. B. IRVING, at the Harvard Union, on the eve of his return to England, spoke to the students of the present position of the actor in England and in America. The serious difficulty with regard to the actor of the future, said Mr. Irving, is the question of training and experience. With the disappearance of the old stock companies, the comparatively few companies of the present day which are devoted to the performance of anything like an extensive repertory and with the modern system of long runs, the young actor is to-day deprived of any satisfactory means of learning his business. And if, from a commercial view, it be his good fortune to play in very successful pieces, which run for a considerable time, he is condemned to long periods of comparative idleness, during which he is unable to increase his experience or to develop the talent he may have. To the earnest young actor really desirous of educating himself in his profession the present condition of things is galling and unsatisfactory to the last degree. To the young actor less earnest, less ambitious, it is merely demoralising. We can only look to the establishment in some form or other of an academy or conservatory of acting similar to that which exists in the present day in France; that is to say, a school of acting in which the teachers are successful and accomplished actors, whose personal success has given them the right to teach others.

Miss Terry in New York.

MISS ELLEN TERRY, telling an American interviewer how she came to play in Captain Brassbound's Conversion, said that Mr. Shaw always insisted that he had her in mind when he wrote the piece, as far back as 1889. "It is singular, indeed," Miss Terry observed, "that the play should have waited so long for a production, and it is also singular that, after fifty years on the stage, I should now, for the first time, be making an appeal to the American public through a strictly modern rôle. People think I must be terribly old because I have been on the stage for fifty years. They forget that I made my first appearance in Mamillius when I was only eight. And, so you see, I am not so old as it sounds, and I feel as young as ever I did." Miss Terry has so many friends in New York that her days, to use her own words, were "fearfully busy." One thing that she enjoyed very much was her daily ride in a motor hansom from her hotel, near Central Park, down to the Empire Theatre, on Broadway.

The Point of View.

THAT the personal element often influences our literary judgment the following will perhaps help to show. Scene: The river at Stratford-on-Avon. Time: Between the plays during Shakespeare week. One of the auditors, a strenuous young High School mistress, is being rowed on the river by an old boatman with conversational proclivities. After some talk, he asks her which she considers the best of Shakespeare's plays. Carefully considering, and anxious to guide aright one who seems to be a would-be student, she gives it as her opinion that perhaps Julius Cæsar contains the finest passages. "Well," replies the boatman, who is also scene-shifter at the Memorial Theatre, "give me Coriolanus. You sets up the 'Market Place' in the second act, and then you hasn't got to do nothing more for near on an hour!"

Unpleasant Plays.

I OBJECT strongly, writes Mr. E. A. Baughan in the Daily News, to the modern plays which pretend to deal with life, and do not. Among these I class the realism of M. Brieux, whose plays are one-sided tracts, and the flat "realism" of M. Bernstein. Life is not mirrored in these plays. Nor is it in such a piece as Bernard Shaw's The Philanderer. The people who walk through this play are unpleasant caricatures. They libel humanity. A play, too, must be judged as a whole, and in art there is no excuse for a representation of life which is not beautiful in effect. It does not matter how that beauty is expressed. It may well be through means which are ugly in themselves. It may well be through a representation of life which might shock the minds of the genteel. But whatever means he employs, the artist must show us how beautiful and how mysterious life is in its essence. If he cannot do that he is a mere artisan.

Mr. Hicks's Habits.

BECAUSE (writes Mr. Seymour Hicks in the Daily Express) I do not habitually go out to supper or make a nightly practice of staying at a club until I am asked to conform to the rules by leaving, I am, I know, regarded in some quarters as priggishly exclusive. Well, it is the penalty of doing what seems to one to be the sensible thing. As a matter of fact, I neither sup abroad nor make a fetish of the midnight club, because I have come to regard it as being more in accord with my plan of an early independence to go home immediately after the theatre, sup in the quiet of my own dining-room, and go to bed as near to the hour of half-past twelve as may be.

The Drama in the Provinces.

A CORRESPONDENT signing himself "One of Them" writes:—"It would now appear to be universally acknowledged that Monday night throughout touring theatre-land pronounces for good or bad on the visit of a particular company, inasmuch as the public have been so misled by big names associated with poor plays, and poor names associated with so-called big shows, that they now positively decline to nibble such bait and be drawn to a theatre until they are assured of value for money. Education advances, and it will be well for the theatrical profession when resident managers bear in mind Shakespeare's phrase, "The play's the thing," for it is contended that the theatres never had a better opportunity of doing business than now. The fair and healthy competition of the halls should really be a stimulus, as there will ever be a public who prefer a connected entertainment to that of rapid turns who are hardly able to do themselves justice in the limited time given for their performances. Theatrical fare at the present moment is practically the same as it was when the halls first began their opposition fight. A place of entertainment speedily becomes known and popular by its enterprise. If it goes to sleep the public has no keen ambition to awaken it."

A Baboo "Deadhead."

MR. EDWIN CROUESTE sends us the following quaint application of a Madras conjurer for free seats:—"In accordance with the esteemed commandments of the gentry of this Metropolis, I am here with my assistant giving various performances, and the highest enconiums has been bestowed upon me by the leading high-class journals. Just now it gives me greatest pleasure to learn that by your ansurpassed ability and indefatigable assuidity you are able to rebuild your company at the shortest possible time; and that in the very city where your company providentially sustained some misfortunes. As a matter of professional delicacy, you will be pleased to favour me with a ticket for me and my assistant, that we may jocundly feast our eyes with the performances of rejuvenated, prosperous circus company, as I understand that the acquisition of one of my trade—a magician—is the novelty of your immortal circus company.—Yours faithfully, V. Swaininathaizer."

We shall be obliged if our readers will send us any amusing anecdotes they may hear, or accounts of any quaint incidents they may witness while acting or rehearsing.

EDWARD COMPTON IN ABERDEEN.

Mr. Edward Compton was the guest of the Aberdeen Pen and Pencil Club at the Imperial Hotel in that town on the 14th inst. Mr. Archibald D. Reid, A.R.S.A., presided, and the large gathering included members of the Compton Comedy Company, which had paid its annual visit to the town. The standing orders of the club prohibit speeches at its meetings, but in view of the interesting nature of the occasion the rule was suspended.

The Chairman, in proposing the health of the guest of the evening, said that during the existence of the Pen and Pencil Club they had had the honour and privilege of entertaining many distinguished men, eminent in the drama, literature, science, and art; but to none of them did their hearts warm more than to Mr. Edward Compton. They could not see Mr. Compton and his company too often. He (the Chairman) asked them to join in extending a cordial welcome to their distinguished guest, to drink his health, and to express the hope that he might live for many years to charm and delight them, and to provide for their benefit the clean, wholesome fare of good Old English comedy.

Mr. Compton was accorded musical honours, and on rising was warmly cheered. If his voice did not travel so far as he would like it to do, he said, it was on account of a very bad cold. The cold must be the result of the sudden thaw that had brought about this unexpected lapse in his voice. Of course, they had everything sent them from America, and they had now the trial of a "thaw." It had been very trying to him. He did not think that the Chairman—who was as modest as he was gifted—had recognised one thing, and that was that that day was St. Valentine's Day, and he (Mr. Compton) could assure them that no "maiden of bashful fifteen" ever received with more delight her Valentine than he received their card of invitation. It struck him as a curious coincidence to receive it for that day, and he could not avoid quoting the words of an old Valentine which occur in "The Road to Ruin":—

"The woodbine sweet and turtle dove
Are types of chaste and faithful love;
Ah! were such truth and faith but mine
I'd gladly be your Valentine."

Faith and Truth were precisely the two things that Aberdeen playgoers had loaded him with for the past twenty-five years, and he could never thank them enough for their constancy. When they looked back on the past twenty-five years, he could not help feeling that a great change had come over Aberdeen in theatrical affairs. He was not old enough to have been connected with the old Marischal-street theatre, but he usually went to Marischal-street whenever he was in Aberdeen, and watched the spot on which the old associations and the old times and the old manners and customs in the old world had been perpetuated. He loved old friends, old times, old manners, old books, and he thought the Chairman would allow him to say he had been pretty fond of old comedies. Of course, in the theatrical world, one had to appeal to many decisions. There were those who loved society plays—he meant that class of characters in a play that one could not possibly meet in any society. Then there were those who were fond of red-hot drama, of which he had very small experience, and which, he had no doubt, were perfectly true to life, only he did not live in those days or surroundings, and so could not give an opinion; and then there were the irresponsible, go-as-you-please musical comedies and farces, the plays which they heard so much about lately—the wonderful "woman with a past" and the musical girl with a future. He (Mr. Compton) had very few opportunities of going to the theatre except when he was off duty, but when he did go, he liked to go home from the theatre and feel that he had not only been amused and delighted, but interested and instructed also, and to feel that the evening's amusement would bear the morning's reflection. That was what he had striven for during the past quarter of a century, and although many men might claim to be cleverer and to be more hard-working than he, still he yielded to no one in sincerity, earnestness, and perseverance in his art. If he had not been as gifted as other men, he would yield to no man in that honest desire to give the public the very best, and not send them away with the sense that they had wasted their evening. He was now going to be rather personal. If, as he understood and believed, he was familiarly—and he hoped affectionately—known as the "king" of old comedy, he always said he was "Edward VIII." At anyrate, he always got a royal welcome in Aberdeen. He would like to mention that he had read hundreds of new plays, and produced several. Mr. Compton then referred to plays in which he had appeared, and said he was producing a new one at present which he was rehearsing. It was called The Gentleman in Grey, and he mentioned the fact because it was a play written by a young gentleman who was their guest that night. Hitherto the young gentleman had been known by a very good Scotch name—indeed he might very well paraphrase Rob Roy, and say his foot was on his native heath and his name was—Mackenzie. But in future he would be known—and he (Mr. Compton) hoped very favourably known, because he happened to be the young gentleman's father—he would be known by the name of Montague Compton. Mr. Compton, in conclusion, said that during the last quarter of a century he had played the part of Davy Garrick 340 times, which was unique. He had played Charles Surface close on 1,000 times, and that was unique, and that night was further unique, because he was standing there as the guest of the Pen and Pencil Club for the second time running. If they would not think that his gratitude took the form of "a lively sense of favours to come," he hoped that the next time he was in Aberdeen they would invite him again, because then he would be able to say to all the world—"I am the Dick Whittington of Scotland, and everybody must bow to me, and the Lord Provost must bid him kneel, and say, 'Rise, Sir Edward Compton, thrice the honoured guest of the Pen and Pencil Club.'"

The Chairman proposed the health of Mr. Montague Compton, which was cordially pledged, and Mr. Montague Compton replied in appropriate terms.

By kind permission of Mr. Ernest Carpenter, a special matinée performance was given at the Grand Theatre, Brighton, on Tuesday last in aid of the widow and children of the late Mr. Arthur Wheeler, who was for over forty years connected with the Theatre Royal, Brighton. There was a crowded audience. The long and varied programme was admirably sustained by Mlle. Adeline Genée, Miss Adele Haas, Miss Marie Stiven, Miss Ada Taylor (accompanied by Blind Harry), Mme. Helen Birch, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carpenter, Mr. Sam Walsh, Mr. John Le Hay, Mr. Harry Paulton, Mr. George Hyde, Mr. Arthur W. Hamilton, Mr. Ottley Cranston, Master Percy Hutchings, the Highwaymen, Mr. A. Coote-Suggitt, Miss Nellie Chandos, Will Driscoll, Minnie Hunt and Rhys Thomas, Roma and Romani, and the Brighton and Hove Symphony Orchestra. The duties of conductor were shared by Mr. Chas. W. Johnson, Signor De La Camera, and Mr. Leggett; Mr. H. Clark acted as stage-manager, and the responsibilities of hon. treasurer and hon. secretary were borne by Mr. S. W. Johnson and Mr. Edwin Gain respectively. On behalf of Mrs. Wheeler and family Mr. Carpenter thanked the audience for their support, and a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Carpenter for providing the theatre free of charge.

CHAT WITH MR. HARRY NICHOLLS.

(BY OUR OWN COMMISSIONER.)

When you meet Harry Nicholls—off the stage, of course—you meet a man whose conversation will keep you interested until he himself is actually tired of speaking—and that, in the case of an actor, should mean a lot. The stories of his early days of struggle upon the stage would fill a volume of extremely readable matter, and his later reminiscences would make an equally excellent and lengthy "sequel." And, before going any further, let it be here recorded what an enthusiastic reception he got upon his recent return to the footlights as Walter Everest in The Electric Man. We can appreciate the truth of his statement to the effect that it is one of the most difficult parts he has ever studied.

As to the past. When the time came for Mr. Nicholls to take life more seriously than he had been accustomed to do as a mere boy, he determined to go on the stage. When this youthful decision was made known to his friends, there was a general shout of derision. His mother and sister, however, gave him some little encouragement, while his father exclaimed, with brutal sarcasm, "Go on the stage! It's all you are fit for." His old friend, Frank Braine, then organist to Mme. de Falba and now organist at St. Matthias, Earl's Court, openly sympathised with the young man. "Go on the stage by all means," said he. "I believe you'll succeed." And no one will deny that the prediction has been justified by subsequent events. "I shall never forget my early stage struggles," says Mr. Nicholls. "They commenced when I was eighteen, at the Theatre Royal, Windsor. The show was a dismal failure. We then tramped to Uxbridge, but another failure awaited us, and then I walked into London penniless. But I won't go into details, except that I will refer to my first engagement in a first-class theatre, which was under J. C. Cowper's management at the Theatre Royal, Liverpool. The "season" lasted a week. With a pal whom I had known previously, I walked about Liverpool almost starving, and I was too proud to write home for money."

In course of time Mr. Nicholls moved to the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Birmingham, where there was a stock company, and where he had an opportunity of meeting a number of stars. One of his troubles was that he could not get the management to let him play low comedy. He was always cast for walking gentlemen or young lovers, and it resulted in his having a very bad spell at Birmingham; so much so, that, in desperation, he sat down and wrote a farce. It was entitled Timson's Little Holiday, but he could not get it put on for a very long while, till at last it was produced at Drury Lane. How later on this effort was turned by him and his friend Lestocq into a three-act farcical comedy called Jane—which made a big hit, thanks to Charles Hawtrey—is too old a story to make a further allusion to here. To let the interviewee resume in his own words: "Presently I left Birmingham, and came to London, where I got an engagement at the Surrey Theatre under William Holland as second low comedian. I remember that I did not get on too well at first. I was cast to play the part of Mrs. Ali Baba in the pantomime. Now my notion of an old-woman part was made up of my two aunts and a bit of my mother thrown in. But no one seemed to appreciate my ideas. I was expected to make my first entrance falling over some thing, and showing a lot of white stocking; but no relation of mine ever entered a room like that. And I simply couldn't. Holland took me on one side during the last rehearsal and rated me soundly, declaring I should ruin his pantomime. However, in the end I wheeled my perambulator containing the two children on to the stage, came down to the footlights, and gave 'em one of my old woman's sniffs. There was a laugh, then a round of applause, and I didn't let go of the audience after that. Holland, apparently, was quite satisfied, for I heard no more of his remarks. It was after this, when a young man, that I made a success as Michael Feeney in Arrah-na-Pogue. I have very happy recollections of my engagement with George Conquest at the Grecian Theatre, and it was during that engagement that I met the sister of Henry Pettitt. Three years ago last April she celebrated with me our silver wedding."

There is no need to detail a full list of the parts played by Mr. Nicholls. He has been seen and, we venture to say, admired—in the dramatic sense—as the Artful Dodger and Bumble in Oliver Twist, Micawber in Em'ly, Uriah Heep in Mr. Andrew Halliday's Little Em'ly (the most favoured version of "David Copperfield"/, and Jeremy Cruncher in A Tale of Two Cities. He is a great lover of the works of Dickens, of whose books he possesses a particularly fine edition. His library, in fact, extends to all the famous writers of this and other countries; and he has an enviable collection of old pictures, prints, and engravings, and theatrical "relics." One of his greatest treasures is an autograph photograph of Mme. Ristori. In Masonic circles Mr. Nicholls is scarcely less eminent than in theatrical. He is a P.G.S.B. of England and a Past Master of four lodges—Drury Lane, Savage Club, Jubilee Masters, and the Greenroom.

A syndicate has been formed to "run" Mr. Nicholls with a play of his own. And, before we forget, it is worthy of mention that he is part author of The Runaway Girl and The Toreador.

AT the Devonshire Park Theatre, Eastbourne, considerable changes have been made in the orchestra. There are now eleven skilled performers, and Herr P. Tas is the new musical director. On Monday evening a capital programme of concert music was rendered, and the audience liberally applauded the various items, "William Tell" receiving marked approval.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

This simple and delightful play, which gives a slight glimpse of Irish life, is full of animation, and the production by the Theatre Répertoire Association, under the direction of Mr. A. Austin-Leigh, gave every satisfaction to a delighted and at the same time keenly critical audience. The play is an adaptation by Mrs. B. M. Croker of her successful novel of the same name, and the dramatist has succeeded in retaining all the chief elements of the story with a definite plot and a happy ending. Almost every character is powerfully drawn, there are clever lines in abundance, and all the necessary ingredients for an appetising theatrical dish.

The chief action of the play takes place in the entrance hall of the Fly and Fish, a hostelry at Ballybay, co. Kerry. The place is invaded by British tourists, among them Sir Greville Fanshawe and his wife, Nita. There is Bertie Lovell, a handsome, seductive society man, who has an illicit love for Nita. There is also a mahogany-faced sporting widow, who is credited with a penchant for Nita's husband, some other couples, and a Paul-Prying, middle-aged lawyer, Foulcher by name, a mischief-making old rascal, who is responsible for all the trouble that occurs. The heroine is Maureen, an Australian, Nita's half-sister, who is heiress to a huge fortune left by her father; and lastly there is Terence, the coachman to the Tourist Company, in whom and Maureen the interest of the play largely centres. Terence is, in reality, the last of the Desmonds, playing at coachman because of his poverty, while his haughty grandma enjoys £1000 a year in Dublin City. In the first act most of the characters are introduced. The Baronet, Mrs. Duckett, and four others plan an excursion to the Skelligs, a group of islands of the main, and Nita and her admirer arrange a prolonged tête-à-tête. In the next act Nita and Maureen are anxiously awaiting the return of the fishing party. It is blowing a gale, and people have been known to be stranded for days on the Skelligs. To Nita's annoyance and disgust the party return safely except her husband and Mrs. Duckett. It is not a planned, intentional stay-behind, but a pure accident, the boat being swept out to sea before they can be taken off. Nita, in foolish pique, listens to the voice of the tempter, and takes coach with Lovell to the nearest railway station. When Maureen makes the discovery, she determines that Nita must be saved against herself. With Terence she dashes away over the mountains on horses he has been able to impress, and their departure, witnessed by old Foulcher, is, of course, wrongly construed. In the third act the runaways are overtaken; Nita, who already is regretting her hasty step, seeks peace in brave Maureen's arms, whilst Terence interviews Lovell and succeeds in getting back from him Nita's foolish letters. Then comes a race for home against time, so that Fanshawe may never know of his wife's escapade, but unfortunately he gets back to the hotel some twenty minutes before Nita and Maureen, time enough to learn from Foulcher of Maureen's flight with Terence and Nita's journey to fetch the "erring girl back." Maureen secures the tell-tale note Nita had left in the hall; Sir Greville overwhelms his wife with praises and caresses, and spares no pains in telling Maureen what he thinks of her, and reviles Terence for his dastardly conduct. Both remain quiet under the stinging words of reproach to save Nita's honour, but the innocent are not long allowed to suffer for the guilty. The old pensioner tells the truth, shows that Terence is not the fortune hunter Sir Greville accuses him of being, and the husband, being a sensible man, takes his wife to his heart, and there is the proverbial happy ending in perspective.

The acting was all round excellent. Mr. A. Austin-Leigh was in his element as the unassuming Terence, a type of honest manliness that was portrayed with a quaint mixture of the merry, happy-go-lucky Irish coachman and the dignified representative of the last of the Desmonds. In Maureen was seen a refreshing type of true womanliness, as wild as the kangaroos of her own country, but with a heart full of love and kindly feeling for everybody, and especially her half-sister, whom she idolises. In this rôle Miss Mary Allestree won the entire sympathies of the audience. Lady Fanshawe, one of fashion's favourites, somewhat selfish, but a woman only requiring a word of warning to save her from herself, was charmingly played by Mrs. Culling. Her acting was delightfully crisp, and the part was clearly defined and individualised. Mr. A. S. Barber was a success as Sir Greville Fanshawe, a character he impersonated with all the requisite touches which went far to make it interesting; whilst as Bertrand Lovell Mr. Geo. Harcourt was also particularly good. Miss Mabel Archdall rendered good service as the sporting widow, Mrs. Duckett, a rôle she infused with quiet humour; and the part of Simon Foulcher found a capable representative in Mr. Henry Austin. Mr. James R. Lefane was effective as the garrulous old pensioner Patrick Ryan, and Mr. J. A. Whitehouse put in good work as the angular, oracular old sport, "The Judge," a boatman. Miss Eugénie Vernie looked and acted the buxom landlady, Sally O'Hara, to the life; what little Mr. A. Penbury had to do as Capt. Norris was well done; the Misses Lilian Rogers and Maud Abbott were good examples of the gossip-loving servants, Julia and Bridget, and the other characters in the cast were all satisfactorily presented.

The principal piece was preceded by a comedietta in one act, by Hugo Ames, produced for the first time. entitled

"THE RADICAL CANDIDATE."

Sir Joseph Wagthorpe ..... MR. J. R. LEFANE
Mr. Claude Markenden ..... MR. A. S. BARBER
John Burrowes ..... MR. RICHARD TRIEVE
Lady Wagthorpe ..... MISS EUGENIE VERNIE
Aline Atterley ..... MISS LILIAN ROGERS
Maidservant ..... MISS MABEL ARCHDALL

Lady Wagthorpe, a keen politician, is anxious to see her husband, Sir Joseph Wagthorpe, a Member of Parliament, and he has been pushed forward by his pushful wife as the Radical candidate for the division of East Wessex. An ardent naturalist and entomologist, Sir Joseph is more intent on specimen hunting than seeking for votes. It requires all the energies of his wife to keep him screwed up to anything like the requisite pitch of political ardour, but matters are beginning to shape satisfactorily when Aline, who has a total disregard for politics, brings home a friend, Mr. Claude Markenden, with whom she is desperately in love. At the dinner table it transpires that the gentleman in question is the Conservative candidate, and complications ensue until the announcement is received that the Member who was about to resign and thus cause the vacancy has altered his mind, and a humorously strained situation is relieved, much to the satisfaction of the young people and the Radical candidate himself, with happy visions of a wedding in the near future.

Miss Eugénie Vernie sustained the rôle of Lady Wagthorpe with plenty of animation and vivacity, and Miss Lilian Rogers was a piquant and resourceful Aline, sometimes known as "Fluffy," always bright and entertaining. Mr. J. R. Lefane played the doddering old imbecile Sir Joseph Wagthorpe exceedingly well; and Mr. A. S. Barber was capital as Mr. Claude Markenden. Mr. Richard Trieve as John Burrowes, a political agent, and Miss Mabel Archdall were each good in their respective parts.

"THE MELCOMBE MARRIAGE."

A very cordial reception was given to this new play by a large audience at the Theatre Royal, Brighton. It is ably written, and the characters are effectively drawn; but there is a superabundance of dialogue, which (particularly in the second act) requires considerable compression. The first act opens in the drawing-room in Philip Carlusen's house in Melbury-road, Kensington. He and his sister, Judith, are deeply attached to each other, and Philip, the sole representative of the firm of Whittaker and Carlusen, solicitors, is enamoured of Muriel Lestrange, niece and ward of Lady Savourin. The young lady reciprocates his love, but Philip's happiness is marred by very serious financial troubles. The young solicitor, acting under the influence of his villainous friend, Vladimir Dembowski, has forged cheques, and thus robbed the estates of the Earl of Melcombe of the sum of £10,000. The old Earl has died, and his affairs must be settled up by Philip, who forsees nothing but ruin. The Earl has left his estates to his grandson, Oscar Brabazon, an explorer, on condition that the latter marries within two years. Brabazon comes to Philip, and requests him to secure him £4000 in order that he may obtain the release of a friend who has been captured by brigands. The terms of the old Earl's will are pointed out to him, and Brabazon declares he will marry any worthy lady the lawyer may select as his wife, and promises he will settle £10,000 upon her, never ask her name, and leave her at the church door for ever. Dembowski suggests that Philip should induce his sister Judith to marry the young Earl, and thus save his honour by securing the £10,000—the amount he had embezzled. A stirring scene between the brother and sister ensues, and finally Judith consents to sacrifice herself to save Philip from the impending disaster.

In the second act, at The Hall at Melcombe Royal, two years later, we find that Philip has married Muriel, and that Judith, after her mysterious marriage with the new Earl, has become companion to Lady Savourin. Among those at the Hall are the Earl, who is in love with Judith, though he has no idea she is his wife, and Dembowski. The last-named has paid Muriel's gambling debts, and imagines he has her in his power. Philip arrives upon the scene, upbraids Dembowski for his marked attentions to Muriel, and vainly tries to induce her to return with him to London. In an evil moment Muriel consents to elope with Dembowski, and the pair go away in the Earl's motor-car. Judith, still unaware of the fact that the Earl is her husband, sets off to rescue Muriel, and the Earl also pursues the villainous Dembowski. As the curtain falls, Muriel, who repented her false step and escaped from her lover, makes an unexpected appearance upon the scene.

In the last act, in Dembowski's chambers at the Albany, London, the villain is confronted by the Earl. The latter soon makes it evident he is aware that Dembowski had shot an Englishman in a gambling den on the Continent, and threatening him with exposure the Earl secures the cheques that Philip had forged. Judith arrives upon the scene—the Earl on her approach having rushed into Dembowski's bedroom—and searches for Muriel. To her surprise she encounters the Earl. In a painful scene the whole story of the forgeries and also the reason for the mysterious marriage arranged by Philip are revealed. Explanations ensue; the forged cheques are burnt, husband and wife are re-united, and, as the curtain falls, the Earl again places Judith's wedding ring upon her finger.

Mr. Kendal acted with dignity and earnestness as the Earl of Melcombe, and was especially convincing in the telling scene with Dembowski in the last act. Mrs. Kendal gave a charming and finished impersonation of Judith Carlusen. At the opening of the first act her devotion to her brother was marked by graceful touches of histrionic art, while in the scene in which Philip induced her to sacrifice herself to save his honour she moved the audience by her exquisite tenderness and great depth of feeling. At the closing scene of the play, too, Mrs. Kendal was powerfully effective. Mr. W. M. Rutherfurd submitted an admirable portrayal of Philip Carlusen; Mr. Bassett Roe merits unstinted praise for his forcible and convincing acting as the villainous Dembowski—the various phases of the character being presented with masterly skill and artistic restraint. Mr. Ernest Hendrie was highly entertaining as Doctor Eustace Pemberton; Miss Marie Lohr played with sincerity and personal charm as the young and frivolous Muriel Lestrange, her best efforts being in the second act when refusing to listen to the appeals of her distressed husband. Mr. Metcalfe Wood as Evelyn Byng was very amusing; Mrs. A. B. Tapping was well suited as the chronic invalid, Lady Savourin; and Miss Dora Fellowes made the most of her few opportunities as Mrs. Pemberton. The four servants had satisfactory representatives in Mr. F. Chas. Pool, Mr. C. E. Talbot, Mr. R. Burnett, and Mr. F. J. Cole.

PRESENTATION.—On Friday evening last week Mr. Ben Court, acting-manager of the Grand Theatre, Brighton, was accorded a benefit, the performance being that of the pantomime Cinderella. During the evening the stage-manager, Mr. J. D. Newton (in the unavoidable absence of Mr. Ernest Carpenter), presented the beneficiary on behalf of a number of his friends, with a purse of gold, an illuminated address, and a pair of gold links. Mr. Court expressed his thanks to the audience for their attendance, and to the donors of the presents made to him.

JACOB GORDON'S play, The Jewish King Lear, as presented by the capable members of the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Company, was again played at the Pavilion Theatre on Monday evening to a large house, when excellent performances were given by Mr. C. Natansohn as David Mesheles, Mme. Natansohn as Hanna Leah, and Mr. J. Scherman as Shamai. During the week The Wise Man, Jews in Morocco, and The Beggar have been played.

MUSIC HALL CONTRACTS.

The case of Harvey v. the Tivoli (Manchester) came before his Honour Judge Woodfall in the Westminster County Court on Wednesday, and was a claim by the Harvey Boys, variety artists, for £32 10s., one week's salary, or, alternatively, for a like sum as damages for breach of contract.

Mr. Ernest Williams, counsel for the plaintiffs, said there was a contract between the Harvey Boys and Messrs. Wilkes and Company (on behalf of the Tivoli) for the troupe to appear at the Tivoli, Manchester, for one week—twice nightly and at matinées if required—for the sum of £32 10s. They were to appear in October, and in August one of the brothers Harvey died. While the Harvey Boys were performing at Liverpool, Messrs. Wilkes wired, cancelling the engagement, owing to the death of one of their number. He contended the death of one of a number of performers was not sufficient ground for termination of a contract. He was prepared to prove the death did not make the performance worse; in fact, he could prove it was better. The point was a new and technical one and of importance.

Dennis Harvey, of Russell-road, Brixton, deposed the contract produced was signed by him—"Harvey Boys"—after returning from a tour in the States. No question was asked as to the personnel of the troupe. His brothers, Edward and Frank, were members of the troupe, and when Edward died in August, 1906, he engaged someone to take his place. The new member did very well, and the value of the turn had gone up in price.

Cross-examined by Mr. Stephen Lynch, counsel for the defence, Mr. Harvey said he performed some time ago before the show sailed for Australia, at the Tivoli, Manchester. He had had several engagements from Messrs. Wilkes, perhaps nine.

Mr. Lynch: You and your brother fight?

Witness preferred "box" to "fight."

Mr. Lynch: And your little brother runs on?

Witness: Yes.

I suggest you and your brother Edward were the show? You did not inform defendants of the death?—It was in all the papers.

Mr. Lynch: You and your deceased brother shared the salary?—Yes.

Now you take the salary and share it?—Yes.

For the defence, Mr. Charles Ambrose Wilkes, managing director of the Tivoli, Manchester, Ltd., said the registered offices of the company were at 150, Strand, London. He had employed the Harvey Boys from 1897, and engaged the two brothers, the one giving evidence to-day and Edward. The third brother was a child when he first engaged the brothers. He would not have minded if the third one had dropped out of the show.

Cross-examined: When he heard Edward was dead he looked upon the show as done, as he regarded Edward as the better comedian of the two. He expected to get what he bargained for—the brothers Dennis and Edward—and when he found he was not to have them he cancelled the contract. He had not seen the present show. Prices had gone up since the date of this contract.

His Honour, without hearing the defence further, found for the defendants with costs. It was clear defendants bargained for the performance of the brothers Dennis and Edward, and the former should not have assumed they heard of Edward's death. The performance might be much better, but it was not what the defendants bargained for.

Notice of appeal was given.

OUTSIDE THE V.A.F.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—The one thing which has struck me most during the controversy which has been raging over the music hall strike is that there has been hardly a letter or speech written or delivered which has not teemed with personalities. Mr. Verener in his remarks on my letter has proved no exception to this rule.

Mr. Verener seems to think I "rushed into print" for the purpose of showing the salaries I had received. He altogether fails to perceive that if a man claims to be a performer it is necessary that he should state on what ground he founds that claim, and the salaries were given in my letter not with the object Mr. Verener attributes to me, but to show the readers of my letter that it was a man of a varied experience who has been through the mill and is not ashamed to own it who was putting his pen to paper.

Had it been as Mr. Verener suggests—merely a matter of advertisement—I should have mentioned the first decent salary I received as my low-water mark, and not gone back to the days when, following the course marked out for me by Mr. Victor Vernon (by whose kind advice and assistance I was able to leave the precarious profession of the actor for the very much more lucrative one of the performer), I accepted anything and everything that offered, even though it only paid my railway fares.

When Mr. Verener in his next paragraph asks how many engagements I hope to get by "my bold defiance of the V.A.F.," does he imply that some serious damage threatens me, and that unless I am willing to be "led by the nose as asses are" I shall, as Mr. Costello said in his speech, "Get a taste of what is in store when the V.A.F. let loose the real dogs of war."?

The V.A.F. is ostensibly fighting against what they call the tyranny of the managers, and one of the chief points insisted on, and rightly so, is that no animus shall be shown to any who have taken part in the agitation, but while making this demand for themselves, they have persistently, both at their meetings, in their official organ, and sometimes in private conversations, made it palpable that they do not intend to extend even a twig of the olive branch to those who may have differed from them as to their methods though possibly agreeing with them in part as to their objects. I could say more upon this subject, but I do not wish to add to the bitterness of the present situation. I will, therefore, content myself by observing that your columns can prove that I have never hesitated to express opinions which did not tend to get me engagements when I considered such opinions might be of service to my fellow artists. I have rushed into print on this occasion, not as spokesman for the managers, but for the bonâ fide performers who are not V.A.F.'s; and as the managers appear very well able to fight their own battles without my assistance, and are most of them astute business men, I think it highly improbable that they will offer me a single extra engagement or put a shilling more on their valuation of me as a performer as a result of my present action.

As to the good taste, or decorum, of Mr. Verener's suggestion that I must have dreamed I ever received the salary I distinctly stated I had received, I will say nothing, but should Mr. Verener care to write to Mr. John Brill, I have no doubt that that gentleman, with his usual courtesy, will not only inform him that I did receive the sum stated, but will also tell him the number of weeks that I had the pleasure of seeing his treasurer on Friday night. And now, having to the best of my ability, dealt with all the points raised by Mr. Verener in his letter, I would ask, What have they to do with the subject matter of the letter to which his, I presume, was intended to be a reply?

Faithfully yours, H. A. LANGLOIS.

TESTIMONIAL TO MR. FRANK PARKER,

STAGE AND EQUESTRIAN DIRECTOR OF THE LONDON HIPPODROME.

Whether it was the brilliant success of The Treasure Ship in Fairy Seas at the London Hippodrome, Mr. Frank Parker's birthday, and the anniversary of his wedding day, singly or collectively inspired the splendid presentation to him on Saturday last, Feb. 16, in the arena, remains to be seen. But suffice to say, Mr. Frank Parker was the recipient of some wonderful presents from his immediate confrères. These consisted of—

1. Silver soup tureen, in form of nautilus shell, supported by mermaids, emblematical of his own production. From artists, stage-staff, orchestra, Treasure Ship in Fairy Seas company, and friends.

2. Pair of menu-card holders, in the form of treasure-ships, to match. From T. Percival, assistant stage-manager, and Mrs. Percival.

3. Compendium of games. From Mr. Ringmaster and Mrs. Otho Twigg.

4. Serviette rings. From Mme. Allata and wardrobe staff.

5. Gold fountain pen. From the Eight Snowdrops.

It is remarkable that Mr. Parker cannot, even when he does get a moment to himself, be allowed to take a rest. His friends are so many and so loyal, and also so appreciative, that, like "the manna from heaven," he is spurred on to new life through their almost killing him by kindness.

The presentation took place on the stage, and was attended by nearly 400 members of the staff, who literally forced upon him these tokens of love. Mr. Carl Kiefert officiated as spokesman, and said:—

"Mr. Parker, you see friends gathered round you to wish you many happy returns of the day of your birth. I have been asked to address these few words to you, and I cannot express sufficiently in words the pleasure and delight it gives me to do so. Some of us assembled here have known you many years, some have only recently become acquainted with you, but I am sure there is not one of us who does not feel a certain pride and delight in wishing you all Heaven can grant you on this day. Now, Mr. Parker, you are a great believer in the number seven being a lucky one for you; now to-day is your forty-third birthday, add the two figures and you find it is a seven. Last Christmas you produced your seventh annual piece, The Treasure Ship. Let us hope that these two coincidental sevens may be a good omen for you, and we all hope that you will be spared for many years to come to be the ruling spirit in this beautiful establishment. Not only in this country but in every continent of the world you are known by artists who have appeared here, and I am sure all of them will say Frank Parker is a jolly good fellow. Now once more accept our heartiest good wishes for your birthday, which is also your wedding day, and we hope that it will return for many years and always find you and your dear wife in the best of health. We now ask you to accept a slight token of our regard and esteem to remind you of everyone connected with The Treasure Ship, from artists down to your splendid little army of employees."

This was supplemented by a capital retrospective eulogium from Mr. Twigg, and another from a person representing the staff. Mr. Parker, in his reply, broke down—his sympathetic nature showed itself too strongly—but he managed to bring out the words "God bless you all!" and so finished the function.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

In the concert given by the students of the Royal Academy of Music on Wednesday afternoon at Queen's Hall the first item in the programme was a piano solo by Miss Adelaide M. N. Dodgson, who played D'Albert's "Scherzo in F sharp" with delightful delicacy and finish, though with hardly sufficient power for so large a hall. Brahms' "Sonata in F minor" for violoncello and pianoforte was cleverly performed by Mr. B. Walter O'Donnell and Miss Myra Hess. The tone produced by the pianist was, however, far fuller and richer than that of the 'celloist. Mr. Sydney Rosenbloom's skilful "Theme and Variations" (MS.) for piano was admirably played by the young composer, and very well received by the audience, the variations being cleverly worked out and melodious in character. Miss Gladys Clark, Miss Elsie Owen, Mr. Thomas Morgan, Miss Gwendolen Griffiths, and Mr. John Munday gave a spirited performance of Schubert's "Allegro ma non Troppo" and "Scherzo" from Quintet in C, for two violins, viola, and two violoncellos, and Mr. Urik Tschaikowsky was entirely successful in his violin solo of Sarasate's "Zigeunerweisen," the young violinist being loudly applauded at the close. Mr. Percy Hughes gave ample evidence of technical ability in Chopin's "Ballade in A flat," and Miss Esther Colenso produced a good tone in her violoncello solo, "Sonata in C," by Marcello. The vocal items included "Die Ablösung" (Alexis Hollaender), and "Waldeensamkeit" (Max Reges'), sung by Miss Edith L. John; "O Paradis," from Meyerbeer's L'Africaine, rendered with considerable dramatic power by Mr. Thomas Gibbs; while Mr. J. McNaughton Duncan gave a fairly impressive interpretation of Schubert's "Der Erlkönig." In Handel's air "Care Selve" Miss Natalie A. Campbell sang intelligently, but with hardly the requisite power, and Brahms' "Von ewiger Liche" was expressively sung by Miss Evelyn Brown.

"THE GENTLEMAN CRACKSMAN."

A Dramatic Sketch, in Three Scenes, produced at the Hammersmith Palace on Monday, Feb. 18.

The Gentleman Cracksman.....MR. E. FERRIS
His Sweetheart (and other characters)
MISS ADIE BOYNE
The Burglar .....MR. ARTHUR KIRBY

There is a strong flavour of Raffles about The Gentleman Cracksman—a capital sketch—which was produced by Mr. Edward Ferris on Monday evening. The first scene shows us Lady Unstart's boudoir. Her ladyship is just going out, and at the last moment she tells her maid to leave her jewels on the dressing-table. Both depart, and William Grimes, a burglar, enters. To the light-fingered Bill the task of transferring the jewels from the table to his capacious pockets is but the work of a few seconds. He is about to make his exit when he is faced by a revolver, tightly clutched by a professional-looking gentleman in evening dress. Most of the jewels change hands, and the newcomer orders the disappointed Bill to make himself scarce, and as the Gentleman Cracksman holds his shooting-iron in a manner which suggests the possibility of Bill's becoming associated with a world he has his doubts about, he obeys the order and goes. Lady Unstart's companion returns, and is somewhat startled to find her sweetheart—the Gentleman Cracksman—in the rôle of a thief. However, even when the hue and cry is raised and a policeman enters the room that peculiar feminine sense of honesty—or dishonesty—which a girl is always prepared to display where her lover is concerned, no matter how bad his crime, asserts itself in her, and permits of his escape. The next scene is a characteristic representation of a barrister's chambers in the Temple. The smartly-dressed Gentleman Cracksman is here, giving instructions to his clerk, for he is the owner of the chambers. In a significant way he bids goodbye to the clerk, and remarks that he may not occupy his rooms again. Then enter the rough, uncultured Mr. Grimes and a lady of his own social position. Their relation to each other is quite apparent. The woman remains in an antechamber while the two men carry on their discussion. Bill has come in no pleasant mood, and he now demands the jewels that were taken from him at the point of a revolver on the previous night. The Cracksman declines to deliver them up to him, and there is an angry scene in which Grimes threaten to inform the police as to the real identity of the Gentleman Cracksman. Another man has been wrongfully charged with the crime. It is Bill's desire that that man shall suffer the penalty for it. The cracksman-barrister has made up his mind that this shall not be. In the quarrel which ensues Grimes raises a knife with which to stab the Cracksman, but the latter hastily draws his revolver, which is as quickly snatched by the burglar, who now imagines that the game is in his hands. But with wonderful sangfroid the Cracksman flings a few cartridges on the desk, and advises Bill to see that the weapon is loaded before firing. Bill puts down the revolver in disgust, but is still more disgusted when the other picks it up and shows that it is loaded by firing a charge. We are next taken to an Assize Court. The case proceeding is the trial of the falsely-accused man. The Gentleman Cracksman, in wig and gown, is counsel for the prisoner. Grimes is here, too, and he is responsible for amusing incidents which, although entertaining enough in themselves, are out of place in an atmosphere of strict legal formalities. Several witnesses are called, the last being Grimes, who is actually incriminated by the Cracksman himself. Then Grimes "peaches" on him, and the closing scenes show counsel for the defence admitting his guilt, but stating that his crime was not actuated by ordinary motives of burglary but revenge for wrongs done. He then commits suicide.

Mr. Edward Ferris acts in an admirably skilful manner as the Cracksman, and he cuts a fine figure as counsel. His delivery is beyond reproach. Miss Adie Boyne proves herself an accomplished quick-change artist, for she plays all the feminine rôles, and very cleverly too. Mr. Arthur Kirby treats us to some delightful low comedy as the burglar, and altogether his performance is a highly creditable one.

THE PUTNEY HIPPODROME.

Programmes were presented here last week which were full of interest and variety, and there is no mistaking the manifest enjoyment of the many who have wended their way to the comfortable hall in the Felsham-road. The overture of Martha having been extremely well played by Mr. Allington's orchestra, a pleasing diversion is provided by the acceptable dancing of Miss Mabelle May. She is followed by Mr. Harry Bancroft, an actor-vocalist with a good voice, who sings of the pleasures attending "Ballooning," and later has his audience with him in a lilt about "Seagulls," which has an easy and "catchy" refrain. The next turn is a clever exposition of juggling by Miss Ada Gatley, who seems to be quite as much at home on a swinging slack wire as others are on terra-firma. Pent-up expectancy breaks out into loud applause as the number goes up for the next artist—Miss Vesta Tilley—and is again and again renewed when the charming comedienne makes her appearance. Her first contribution is an old favourite, "Following in father's footsteps," and every point is made to tell. Enthusiasm is increased by her second song, "Jolly good luck to the girls who love the soldiers." Her impersonation of the young recruit out for an airing is irresistibly comical, and is done with the inimitable style and finish which has made the "London Idol's" reputation world-wide. After an enthusiastic recall, a great contrast is presented in a new number, "The king of the house is baby," in which pathos and maternal pride are beautifully blended. "Indian Pastimes" afford Ara, Zebra, and Vora an opportunity for a display of clever ground tumbling; and "The Smart Set Entertainers" are very successful in a part-song scena. Millis, the well-known ventriloquist, gets some amusing gag for his numerous figures from the strike. Lady Mansell and her juveniles provide an amusing interlude entitled "A Concert Rehearsal," in which two very young performers play prominent parts. Mr. James Stewart, the tramp at the piano, creates great laughter, and finishes a clever turn by dancing a hornpipe to his own accompaniment. Mr. Jack Charman has a good voice, and sings "What's the use of worrying father?" well; Miss Emmie Ames finds favour with her singing, and with her introduction of a Christmas tree, from which she distributes favours more or less appropriate to members of the audience. Mr. Frank Lynne, now happily recovered from his recent indisposition, warbles gaily of his "New hat," which is certainly built upon unconventional lines. Admirers of the "noble art" have a very "rousing" turn in the sketch presented by Billy Ross and his company, two feather-weights who spar cleverly, being followed by Billy Ross and another in an exhibition of clever boxing, remarkable for lightning-like movements and terrific hitting; the turn also includes club swinging, and one member of the "crowd" interpolates some funny business, which seems to be enjoyed. Miss Ruby Emerson, comedienne and dancer, is also included in the bill, but did not put in an appearance on the evening of our visit. Ruffell's Pictures brought to an end a long, attractive, and enjoyable evening's entertainment. By means of the Bioscope an announcement was made that the management had discontinued the weekly matinée performances.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

A CHAT WITH MR. ALBERT BRUNO.

A HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL COMEDIAN.

Although aspirants to fame on the variety stage are innumerable, there are comparatively few who have achieved such distinction as Mr. Albert Bruno, who so splendidly sustains the leading rôle of Perkins in the farcical sketch, entitled Moses and Sons, by Fred Karno. The success which has attended this production has been phenomenal, and the appreciation which it has evoked is certainly quite exceptional. Therefore, a few particulars relating to Mr. Bruno, who, besides playing the principal part, is stage manager of the company during its provincial tour, may well be given upon this page.

Mr. Bruno is a Londoner by birth, and his facial expression is almost sufficient warranty for saying that he is a born comedian. As an amateur he played in all Gilbert and Sullivan's operas. "I obtained an engagement with Henry Dundas in A Run of Luck, and was understudy to Charles Dodsworth. After that I went to John Douglas's company and played the juvenile lead. I used to do the great dive in a tank of water. Following that I went on the music halls with a sketch company, The Blind Boy, playing the principal comedy part of Tommy Atkins; after which I was for a number of years with Frederick Maxwell's company. Then I went with Tom B. Davis's Florodora company, of which I was stage manager and principal comedian for a number of years, playing the part of Tweedlepunch all over the provinces. I afterwards had a special engagement to appear as Welland Strong in A Trip to China Town. Then I again returned to Tom B. Davis's company, playing in The Medal and the Maid. I also produced Madame Shelley for George Dance. Afterwards I became re-engaged by Wentworth Croke, appearing in my old rôle of Tweedlepunch in Florodora. While I was appearing in this part at the Grand, Fulham, Mr. Karno called and specially engaged me for Moses and Sons. At the time Mr. Kitchen, who was originally playing Perkins, had obtained a pantomime engagement at Glasgow."

Mr. Bruno, as we have said, is a born comedy-actor, and his conception of the impersonation of Perkins, and the versatility and humour with which he presents the rôle and the grasp of the possibilities of the situation, tend considerably towards the success of the piece, supported, as he is, by a talented company of ladies and gentlemen.—From News and Views, Southampton, Jan. 5, 1907.

The following is an extract from the diary of Sir Walter Scott, under date Oct. 21, 1826, when the author of "Waverley" was on a visit to London:—"Returned to a hasty dinner in Pall Mall, and then hurried away to see honest Dan Terry's Theatre, called the Adelphi, where we saw The Pilot, from an American novel of that name. It is extremely popular, the dramatist having seized on the whole story, and turned the odious and ridiculous parts, assigned by the original author to the British, against the Yankees themselves. There is a quiet effrontery in this that is of a rare and peculiar character. The Americans were so much displeased that they attempted a row—which rendered the piece doubly attractive to the seamen at Wapping, who came up and crowded the house night after night to support the honour of the British flag. After all, one must deprecate whatever keeps up ill-will betwixt America and the Mother Country; and we in particular should avoid awaking painful recollections. Our high situation enables us to condemn petty insults, and to make advances towards cordiality. I was, however, glad to see Dan's theatre as full seemingly as it could hold. The heat was dreadful, and Anne (his daughter) so unwell that she was obliged to be carried into Terry's house—a curious dwelling no larger than a squirrel's cage, which he has contrived to squeeze out of the vacant space of the theatre, and which is accessible by a most complicated combination of staircases and small passages. There we had rare good porter and oysters after the play, and found Anne much better."

Jules Rivière, in "My Musical Life and Recollections," tells the story of an infatuated drummer who was a member of the Adelphi Theatre orchestra at the time that Rivière was its leader. He writes:—"Whilst Mrs. Boucicault was playing the parts of heroine in Adelphi melodrama, an amusing incident occurred in the orchestra. I had noticed for some time the extraordinary get-up, in point of dress, of the drummer, whose place was in the right hand corner of the band. His hair was curled, his moustache always waxed, and his handkerchiefs scented in true Don Juan-like fashion, whilst his button-holes must have made large inroads in, if they did not swallow up, the whole of his salary. Like his companions, I wondered what all this lavish outlay meant, without, however, guessing the cause. The poor fellow, it turned out, was passionately in love with Mrs. Boucicault, and these extravagances had been resorted to with a view to fascinating the lady. The story would, perhaps, never have come out, but for his own indiscretion. Not content, however, with admiring the actress by night, he took to dogging her footsteps by day, and, on one occasion, when she was walking in Kensington Gardens with a lady friend, the impassioned drummer approached her and thrust a letter into her hand, frantically kissing his hand to her on retiring. Boucicault brought this letter to me with a view to having the handwriting identified, and together we read through its burning contents. The poor, bewitched drummer lost his situation in consequence, for he had committed the stupid, though I am afraid common mistake, of assuming that his passion was returned. Ashamed of his conduct, he left London, never to return, and the last time I saw him, which was in the orchestra of the Opéra House at Marseilles, there was such a paterfamilias air about him, that I refrained, of course, from reminding him of his early passion for a stage heroine."

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

Now that the music hall war is over, it is pleasant to learn that the employees of the various theatres and music halls in Manchester and Salford have formed a benefit society, which will provide all members with aid during sickness, and will ensure a sum of money to be paid on the death of a member. Persons of either sex may join. About 125 have already enrolled their names. The registered office is at the Angel Hotel, 357, Chapel-street, Salford.

ON Saturday, while working at the Hackney Empire, George Kitchen, age 22, had some scenery fall on him, so injuring his leg that he was admitted to the Metropolitan Hospital.

"THE ERA" LETTER-BOX.

A Stamped Envelope, plainly addressed, must be enclosed with application for each Letter. Letters, after lying at this Office for One Month, are forwarded to the Postal Authorities, to be returned to the Senders.

THE L.C.C. AND AMUSEMENTS.

The usual weekly meeting of the London County Council was held on the 12th inst. at the County Hall, Spring Gardens.

THE CANTERBURY.

The Theatres and Music Halls Committee recommended that the seal of the Council be affixed to a document appointing an arbitrator under the Arbitration Act, 1889, for the determination of the matters in dispute between the Council and the owners of the Canterbury Music Hall, Westminster Bridge-road, with regard to the structural works required by the Council in respect of these premises. Agreed to.

THE OXFORD.

The Committee reported that they had considered a drawing, submitted by Messrs. Wylson and Long, showing a cinematograph chamber proposed to be constructed at the Oxford Music Hall, Oxford-street. They recommended that Messrs. Wylson and Long be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the drawing submitted by them, provided the undermentioned conditions be complied with—that the opening in the front face of the chamber be fitted with a hardwood shutter capable of being operated from a position outside the door to the chamber; that the fire hydrant be properly refixed, and that the regulations of the Council with regard to electrical work be complied with.

Approved.

PALACE, STOKE NEWINGTON.

The Committee recommended that the application of Mr. A. A. Gilmer, for the transfer to himself from Mr. H. G. D. Bennett of the music and dancing licence for the Palace Theatre of Varieties (formerly Alexandra Theatre), Stoke Newington, be granted; that notice of the transfer be endorsed on the licence, and that the seal of the Council be affixed to such endorsement.

Approved.

PROPOSED NEW HIPPODROME.

The Council on Jan. 22 approved, subject to certain conditions, drawings submitted by Mr. B. Crewe, of a Hippodrome proposed to be erected in Harrow-road. Amended drawings had now been submitted by Mr. Crewe showing how it is proposed to give effect to certain of the conditions in question. The Committee recommended that Mr. Crewe be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the seven drawings submitted by him showing how it is proposed to give effect to certain of the conditions attached to the approval of the drawings of the Hippodrome proposed to be erected in Harrow-road, provided the undermentioned conditions be complied with—that the electrical arrangements in connection with the fans be carried out in accordance with the regulations of the Council; that permanent means of access be provided to the fans and the gear in connection therewith, and that such means of access be properly and permanently lighted; and that upon the completion of the building, tests of the ventilating apparatus be carried out to the satisfaction of the Council, and that should the Council consider it necessary additional controlling gear be installed. Agreed to.

BATTERSEA EMPIRE.

The Committee having considered a drawing submitted by Mr. A. E. Brooker, recommended that he be informed that they have no objection to the provision of an iron ladder and trap-door proposed to be provided at the Battersea Empire, York-road, as an additional means of escape from the dressing-rooms on the prompt side, subject to the trap-door being covered on the outside with copper or zinc. Agreed to.

The treatment of superfluous hair is something which requires the greatest nicety and care.
X. BAZIN'S DEPILATORY POWDER
Is the result of much study of the cause and problem of destroying these growths without injury to the skin, or leaving a scar or the slightest disfigurement.
There is no necessity for any woman whose refinement and good breeding have made her sensitive about these unfortunate marks to be subjected to the pain of electrical treatment and the consequent eruptions.
X. Bazin's Depilatory Powder is absolutely safe, and destroys the hair without pain—a simple dainty way of effecting a cure.
The great skill and science employed in the compounding of X. Bazin's Depilatory Powder make it absolutely safe and reliable.
If some former remedy has been tried without success, it is because the right powder was not applied.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.
For Sustaining the Voice.
Indispensable for PUBLIC SPEAKERS
GENTLEMEN,—For sudden affections of the Bronchial Organs I use and most cheerfully recommend "Brown's Troches." They are regarded as most eligible, convenient, and indispensable by numerous artists of my acquaintance, BOTH IN EUROPE AND AMERICA. They seem to act specially on the organs of the voice, and produce a clear enunciation.—Yours truly (Signed), MARIE ROZE MAPLESON.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT
FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER.
BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B.
Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes," which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette.
"The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," by Albert A. Strong, LL.B., solicitor, author of "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" office), seems to be the one compendious and indispensable authority on the subject, as vexed as the "Bermoothes" and as tortuous as a Chancery suit, that has long been wanted. It is in every essential a text book for the perplexed layman, and no solicitor or barrister worth his salt ought to think of taking or appearing in "proceedings" without consulting its pages. It must suffice, after what has been said, to state little more than that the contents include five chapters, respectively named "Copyright as Opposed to Performing Right," "Performing Right," "Infringement and Remedies," "Musical Copyright," and "International and Colonial Copyright." The work, for all its precise authority, is not dry reading. The statutes, with the elucidatory notes, necessarily impose a task on the reader which takes some tackling, but they had to be there. The cases adduced, however, are full of interest. Certain of them might fitly find a place in the romance of copyright. There was the fight of Charles Reade with George Conquest over "It's Never Too Late to Mend," for instance, and the equally interesting conflict of Mr. J. A. Cave with Chatterton over "The Wandering Jew." The latter was a famous battle. Chatterton took it to the House of Lords, and was finally beaten, to the unspeakable relief of Mr. Cave, who is never weary of relating the story. Had the result been otherwise, it would have meant his ruin. I well remember meeting him on the day of his victory and "crashing a cup with him" in honour of the same. "The Law of Copyright" is dedicated to Mr. A. W. Pinero.—Sportsman.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1907.
"The Era" Annual, a most useful record of theatrical events, has just been issued. It contains, as usual, many short stories by well-known players.—Globe, Jan. 21, 1907.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1907.
"The Era" Annual for the current year, besides having all the usual valuable features which make the work so necessary for reference, has, for a special feature, a series of short articles, stories, or sketches by prominent members of the dramatic and musical profession, a well-executed portrait of each writer accompanying the text. The obituary for last year—unfortunately a heavy one—is given in a series of photograph likenesses of those departed. The full-page portrait of Mr. J. L. Toole is, indeed, worth more than the humble shilling at which the Annual is sold. The monthly calendar is, as usual, a storehouse of interesting facts connected with the stage.—Weekly Times and Echo.

ASSOCIATION AND REFORM.

The proceedings at the meeting of the Actors' Association at the Playhouse on Tuesday did not certainly "come up to expectations." Everybody anticipated what was ironically described by Mr. EDWARD TERRY as a "pleasant afternoon." There was a "spirited discussion" ahead—at starting; but it was, somewhat strangely, "shelved." This was the situation: The Reform party mustered strong in the auditorium of the theatre. On the stage was Mr. ACTON BOND, a "Conservative," who held a brief for the actual condition of the Association. These Actors' Association meetings have been, in the past, so friendly and informal that he was, unwarily, set down to speak not in support of a motion, but—as the Scotch gentleman swore—"at lairge." Now there can be little doubt that the Reform party was eagerly desirous of drawing on a debate; their whole attitude during the afternoon showed it. But they were afraid that Mr. BOND was going to be allowed to state his side of the case, while they would have no opportunity of stating theirs. The difficulty might have been got over by Mr. BOND proposing a motion to which he could have spoken without being out of order; or by a promise demanded by, and granted to, the Reformers that they should be allowed to reply. We do not regard as serious the objection which was made in a female voice that this would lead to a long sitting. These annual general meetings are surely intended for the expression of any pent-up feeling that may have gathered in the past year; and it is better that it should have vent, even at the cost of some patience, than that it should be smothered and suppressed. That, however, is what happened on Tuesday. The Reformers were determined that all the rules and formulas of a public meeting should be observed; the "Conservatives" were perhaps glad to "get the job over" without a "contentious" debate; and so, with the exception of a significant opposition to the admission of acting-managers to the Association, the proceedings were more or less formal and conventional.

As we understand—and we shall be glad if any of our readers in the profession will correct our general impression by their definite information and experience—the trouble is caused by the tendency of the drama in England to become a trade, in which master and man are opponents, instead of an art in which there is between them artistic sympathy, personal acquaintance, and kindly assistance. It is the question of what CARLYLE calls the "cash nexus" taking the place of semi-paternal or feudal government. The acme and model of the latter we had in the late HENRY IRVING, whose scale of payment and treatment of his old servants were famous. We cannot point to any manager at present as the acme of the "cash nexus" system, because the latter is only in its infancy in England as regards the drama.

At present, a large proportion of actors and actresses are under the semi-paternal or feudal system of management. They are thoroughly loyal to their manager, who is alluded to by them as the "chief" or the "governor." On the other hand, the manager is an ardent promoter of all the charitable associations for the benefit of the actor and actress. He presides at the dinners which are given for the purpose of promoting public generosity; and his name is on the lists of subscriptions for a handsome amount. The fact that he is usually an actor—"a man of like passions with themselves"—greatly assists his comprehension of the wants and feelings of his company.

But there is a large number of artists in the provinces who work under entirely different conditions. Their company is owned by a proprietor or a syndicate, and is "run" purely as a financial speculation. The only bond between master and man is the cash nexus. The connection is a purely "business" one; and the interests of the manager, who wants to buy service as cheap as possible, and the artist, who wants to sell service as dearly as possible, are, without rancour, opposed to each other. When this system of government has become the rule and not the exception, the next step is the formation of "unions" on the one side and of "associations" on the other. This involves, of course, the withdrawal of the employer from any charitable or generous attitude towards the employed, and the assumption by the latter of entire independence, and of the responsibility of assisting their "poorer brethren."

There is an easy and obvious way in which the Actors' Association might possibly be turned into an Actors' Union, and that is for every actor and actress to join the Association. If all those outside it were in favour of Reform, and would enter its ranks, they would obviously, with the reformers who are already members of the A.A., form a "compact majority" who could simply dictate terms to the body. No actor or actress who was really in earnest in the matter would grudge putting by 3½d. a week for the purpose; and besides, if the Association numbered 3,000 instead of fourteen hundred or so, the subscription might easily be brought down to 2d. a week.

At present, the real condition of affairs in the provinces is more or less unknown. Data are wanting; generalities are always to be distrusted in matters of this sort. We are surprised that more artists have not taken advantage of the veil of anonymity which is always respected by the Press to ventilate their grievances, as our correspondent "A Wandering Actress" does this week. We are always ready to lend our columns to informative communications which throw light on the burning questions of the stage. We shall be glad to hear from any of our readers in the provinces who have anything to say on the proposals made by the Reform party in the Actors' Association. We consider the result of the election on Tuesday as most encouraging as regards the future of the Association. It shows that there is life in it, that it includes a young, vigorous, and sanguine party of progress, who, if they are not able to realise all their anticipations and revolutionise the body, will at least keep it from stagnation and stimulate experiment.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

At Covent Garden on Saturday, Feb. 16, Nicolai's opera, Die Lustigen Weiber von Windsor, was revived with great success. It was originally produced at Berlin, March, 1849, and first heard in London at Her Majesty's Theatre in 1864, with Mme. Tietjens and Mr. Santley in the cast. It was also given in English by the Carl Rosa Company with successful results. Although slight in its treatment for so large a stage as Covent Garden, the music is bright, effective, and very appropriate to the subject, and in Germany it is constantly performed; but in this country, apart from the charming overture, the opera is seldom heard, and although the music is melodious and sparkling, it is doubtful if Die Lustigen Weiber von Windsor will become popular in London. The revival on Saturday last was interesting, and though there were no such great artists in the cast as Mme. Tietjens and Mr. Santley, the performance on the whole was a good one. Herr Max Lohfing, who played Falstaff, has a fine bass voice, and invested the part with considerable humour; his make-up was also admirable, and he fully realised the character of the fat and jovial knight; while as Frau Fluth, Fräulein Jenny Fischer sang fluently, although at times her intonation was somewhat faulty. Frau Minnie Nast made a charming Annie Page; and Frau Von Kraus Osborne was entirely satisfactory as Frau Reich. The part of Fenton was most fervently sung by Herr Franz Naval; and Herr Theodor Bertram gave a capital rendering of the part of Herr Fluth; the characters also of Page and Slender were well sustained by Herr D. Wilhelm Jung and Herr Willy Birkenfeld. Under Herr Hugo Bryk, who conducted for the first time this season, the orchestra gave a spirited performance of the music. This was the last performance of the present season, as, owing to the continued indisposition of M. Van Dyck, which prevents him undertaking the duties of general-manager, the directors have been obliged to close the season a week earlier than they intended.

LADIES AT HOCKEY.

MISS LILLIE BELDING'S XI.
v. MISS WINIFRED BRADLEY'S XI.

Played near Clifton Downs, on Feb. 9. The following were the teams:—

Miss Belding's XI.—Miss Minnie Leonard, goal; Miss Ivy Bowman and Miss Lilla Carter, backs; Miss Lillie Belding (captain), Miss Gertrude Thomas, and Miss May Dadley, half-backs; Miss Gracie Leonard, Miss Bertha Godfrey, Miss Lillie Clayton, Miss Trixie Maynard, and Miss Minnie Stephens, forwards.

Miss Bradley's XI.—Miss May Fisher, goal; Miss Alice Gibbs and Miss Rosie Davies, backs; Miss Edie Lawrence, Miss Jessie Stephens, and Miss Nellie Lawrence, half-backs; Miss Alice Mitchell, Miss Maudie Burgess, Miss Winifred Bradley (captain), Miss Irene Bradley, and Miss Minnie Hamilton, forwards.

Referee, Miss Ethel Bowman (Miss Cecilia Fowler's team). Result: Miss Belding's XI., 1 goal; Miss Bradley's XI., 4 goals. Misses May Dadley, Rosie Davies, Irene Bradley, and Edie Lawrence scored goals for their respective sides.

MISS CECILIA FOWLER'S XI. v. MISS WINIFRED BRADLEY'S XI.

Played near Clifton Downs on Saturday, Feb. 16. Miss Fowler, after her severe attack of rheumatic fever, was, happily, able to turn out once again for her club. The following were the teams:—

Miss Fowler's XI.: Miss Cecilia Fowler, goal; Miss Lilla Carter and Miss Ivy Bowman, backs; Miss Lillie Belding, Miss Gertrude Thomas, and Miss Nellie Hinder, half-backs; Miss Bertha Godfrey, Miss Amy Bernard, Miss Trixie Maynard, Miss Lillie Clayton, and Miss Gracie Leonard, forwards.

Miss Bradley's XI.: Miss May Fisher, goal; Miss Alice Gibbs and Miss Rosie Davis, backs; Miss Edie Laurence, Miss Nellie Laurence, and Miss Lucy Edney, half-backs; Miss Winifred Bradley, Miss Irene Bradley, Miss Alice Mitchell, Miss Minnie Hamilton, and Miss Maudie Burgess, forwards.

Referee, Miss Ethel Bowman.

Result: Miss Fowler's XI., 1 goal; Miss Bradley's XI., 3 goals. Misses Lilla Carter, Winifred Bradley (2), and Rosie Davies scored for their respective sides.

MR. TREE AND BERLIN.

(BY OUR OWN COMMISSIONER.)

It was only a few days ago that Mr. J. T. Grein was advocating the visit of an English company of actors and actresses to Paris, there to make the beginning of what he hoped would be an English Theatre in France. At the same time, he pointed out that the German soil required fertilising for dramatic purposes, and Mr. Tree's forthcoming visit would be a great success if only a right répertoire had been chosen. Mr. Grein on that occasion refrained from making such a proposition as that in reference to France; he did not suggest that there should be an immediate attempt to extend the idea of what he called the "Entente Cordiale Theatre" to Germany, but he asserted that Shakespeare's works were quite as popular, if not more popular, in Germany than in England; and lately in the former country there had arisen a new form of Shakespearean acting which was as alien to modernity as it could be.

There can be no doubt that the drama may be made, and has been made, a powerful factor in creating friendly—or, for the matter of that, adverse—relationships between two countries. It was stated some time ago to be the desire of the promoters of the German Theatre in London to promote a better feeling between the Briton and the Teuton, to help them to understand each other's national ideas and characteristics. And to aid this and other laudable motives the German Government subsidised the undertaking by granting it a considerable sum of money. The establishment of an English Theatre in Germany is not at the present moment contemplated, nor, we are informed, is another visit similar to that which Mr. Tree will pay to Berlin in April. But, apart from the expense involved in taking an English company to Germany—and we can conceive it possible that that expense would be more than met—we see no reason why there should not be a short season every year of English plays and players in Berlin.

It would be a forcible illustration of the influence of the stage if the exchange of dramatic—in the theatrical sense—courtesies between Germany and this country should eventually result in a friendlier attitude of each towards the other being adopted. At the present moment, admittedly, the two nations scarcely regard each other with feelings of affection. What if Mr. Tree should—perhaps unconsciously—prove to be an ambassador of peace through the medium of a common art?

In conversation with Mr. Henry Dana, Mr. Tree's general manager, the writer was informed that the visit to Berlin was not to be regarded as a commercial undertaking. Sixty tons of scenery would be carried, and over sixty people would be sent to Germany. The "season" was to last from April 12 to April 18, and on the six nights would be devoted to the production of Richard II., Merry Wives of Windsor, Twelfth Night, Hamlet, Trilby, Antony and Cleopatra. It was possible that a matinée of Trilby might be given, but this is not as yet a definite arrangement. All the plays mentioned will be produced, as regards scenery and as nearly as possible as regards the personnel of the casts, in precisely the same manner that they have been presented at His Majesty's. The principal ladies of the company will be Miss Collier, Miss Crawford, Miss Viola Tree, and Miss Cicely Richards. The leading gentlemen will be Mr. Lyn Harding, Mr. Basil Gill, Mr. Fisher White, Mr. Edmund Reece, Mr. Julian L'Estrange, Mr. Charles Quatremain, and Mr. Courtice Pounds. Several special engagements in addition to these are pending.

Mr. Dana and all the heads of departments will go to Berlin ten days in advance, so as to get everything prepared and in working order.

"The only difficulty we shall have is in the question of lighting," says Mr. Dana. "The Berlin stage is not illuminated so brightly as the London stage, and the German people do not use limelight to the same extent that we do here; in fact, they scarcely use it at all. They depend entirely on the electric batten and links to light their stage. We shall have to fit our electric appliances to their stage."

"No; we are not going to take our orchestra, but the conductor will accompany the party. Entr'acte music is not performed in the Berlin theatres."

Mr. Dana tells us that the highest Government officials as well as the theatre people did everything they could for him, and were most courteous and obliging. Naturally enough, the members of Mr. Tree's company are looking forward with the most enthusiastic anticipation to the visit.

THE URBAN CLUB.

The Lord Mayor of London (Sir William Treloar) presided at the annual Urban Club Ladies' Night held at the Gaiety Restaurant on Thursday. He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Treloar; and amongst those present were Messrs. Sheriff Dunn, Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary of the Actors' Association), C. I. Coltson (secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund), Thos. Catling, L. D. Powles, John Dawson, Walter Grace, Jas. Perfect, Walter Browne, A. Hance, R. Northcott, J. Hancox, W. E. Church (hon. secretary), and a large number of ladies.

The Chairman, in proposing the toast of "The Club," stated that it was started fifty years ago, and then consisted largely of well-known actors, authors, and dramatic critics. The first meetings were held at St. John's-gate, Clerkenwell, and he had had the pleasure of meeting some of the original members of the Club. Before resuming his seat the Chairman proposed the toast of "The Ladies," coupled with the name of Miss Prescott, B.A., who made an apt speech in response.

Mr. Thomas Catling, who replied to the toast of "The Club," related how on one occasion he walked home from the Savage Club accompanied by the actor William McIntyre. On arriving at his house at Islington he invited the actor in to partake of refreshment, and the tones of his powerful voice penetrating to the rooms above resulted in the appearance of the speaker's wife, who wanted to know what was the matter. The actor's only comment was, "I didn't know you were married, Catling." Before sitting down Mr. Catling proposed the health of the Lord Mayor and his daughter.

The Chairman having responded, Mr. L. D. Powles proposed "Our Gentlemen Visitors," and Mr. Sheriff Dunn briefly responded. Between the toasts and the replies Mr. G. Pritchard, of the Orchestral Association, played pianoforte selections.

A musical entertainment by the Wandering Players followed the speeches. Mr. Philip Williams sang "Poor Pierrot" in good style, and Miss Dot Reeve was applauded for her rendering of "Her little dog" from The Madcap. Mr. Herbert Burney scored with "A little bird," and Miss Marian Stenner gave Sullivan's song, "Poor wandering one" with excellent effect. A duet, "The love-lorn lily," was well rendered by Miss Dot Reeve and Mr. Philip Williams; and Miss Florence Gardner, a little girl, was applauded for a song and dance, "My little chimney sweep." The same artists contributed to the second part of the programme. Mr. Reginald Bellew was the accompanist.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

BY A. A. STRONG, LL.B. (LOND.), SOLICITOR.

Your book will, I am sure, be a valuable aid to all managers and actors.—SIR HENRY IRVING.

Mr. Strong states the whole case very clearly.—Illustrated London News.

Should be found very useful.—Pelican.

"URBANORA" AT THE ALHAMBRA.

New Urban productions have taken the place of the Parisiana ballet in the Alhambra programme, and a more interesting or artistic series of films has never been seen at the "national variety theatre." The display opens with pictures of Miss Annette Kellerman, the famous lady swimmer, giving an exhibition of her skill in the English Channel. Taking her stand on a board projecting over the water from one of the piers Miss Kellerman repeatedly dives from this lofty elevation into the sea below, the splash being imitated with realistic effect. Next we see the champion lady swimmer making her way through the water with powerful strokes; and finally, after landing on the beach, she bids us a smiling adieu.

"Euston to Erin" is the very appropriate title of a series of films illustrative of a journey from London to Ireland; and giving many of the most famous scenes in the Emerald Isle and vivid views of Irish life. Busy Euston station is the starting point, and by a London and North Western train we proceed to Holyhead calling en route at Rugby, Crewe, and Conway. Then follow pictures of the steamer crossing the Irish Channel on a calm summer's day and the arrival at its destination. Some of the main streets in the fine city of Dublin are depicted, and an Irish car at once affords conclusive evidence that we are in the land of the shamrock. The barracks are shown, with soldiers marching, and a cavalry corps also comes into view. Then from Waterford we proceed by rail to Wexford, and there are pictures of the transportation of the American mail at Kingston on board a White Star liner, and the passengers embarking on the huge vessel. Interesting, too, are the fine films of Blarney Castle and the River Shannon; with the Giants' Causeway and troops of tourists making their way over the rough stones. The curious and undeniably ugly monoline at Ballybunnion and the manner in which it is worked are then shown, followed by pictures of the Isle of Achille. The rural scenes depicted—many of them being of a semi-humorous character—give the untravelled spectator a good idea of life in the more remote portions of Ireland. The vivacity and natural gaiety of the Irish race are evidenced by the dancing not only of a youth and a maid, but also of an old man and woman. A cabin with a young girl peeping out of the doorway, and a sow with her numerous litter are, of course, quite typical of the country, and so, too, are the old ladies who are quietly enjoying their pipes, their weather-beaten faces wearing an air of content. A number of bare-legged boys and girls entering a school playground is another film that arrests atention; and considerable interest attaches to the peat bog industry, which is fully illustrated. It is seen that donkeys are largely employed in the conveyance of the material from the spot where the excavations are made. Finally, we have charming views of the Gap of Dunloe and the world-famous lakes of Killarney, with pretty colour effects. Altogether the journey to Ireland has proved most interesting and instructive, and its delights are increased by the appropriate music which has been specially arranged, composed, and selected by Mr. Geo. W. Byng, the Alhambra musical director.

Recent additions to the attractive programme include the Alexandroff troupe of Russian singers and dancers, whose performance evokes the hearty applause of the audience; and Francis Marty, who wins favour both as a vocalist and violinist. His selections are well chosen and admirably rendered. Mr. J. W. Winton, the ventriloquial humorist, with his comical figure "McGinty," is still here; Miss Annie Mars, in the song-scena Home again, my Cherry Blossom has the assistance of a dozen Alhambra girls, who present an attractive appearance in Japanese costume, and the song has become very popular. Gobert Belling continues to afford much amusement, his embodiment of a circus equestrienne causing great merriment. The ballet entitled L'Amour has proved quite to the liking of the patrons of the Alhambra, and all the leading performers make excellent use of their opportunities, Signor Amedeo Santini and Signorina Morino being especially conspicuous. The scenery and dresses are quite up to the Alhambra standard, and are the object of general admiration. Mr. and Mrs. Zancig conclude their remarkably successful engagement to-day. With Mr. George Scott as manager and Mr. H. Woodford as business-manager and secretary the arrangements in front of the house continue to be of the most satisfactory character.

At the commencement of the present century some dilapidated dwellings, dating back to the time of Charles the Second, and traditionally said to have been a portion of the farm and dairy supplying cream and butter for the Royal household, stood on the ground now occupied by the Adelphi Theatre. Adjoining these premises was the shop of an oil and colour man, and the proprietor, Mr. John Scott, having made a fortune by the sale of a liquid dye, called "True Blue," of which he was reputed to be the inventor, thought he could profitably employ his capital by purchasing the adjacent property. Accordingly, in 1802, he obtained a lease, pulled the old premises down, and built a small theatre in their place. At first the difficulty of getting a theatrical licence limited the performance to a monologue, written, sung, and spoken by Miss Scott, the clever daughter of the old oil and colour man, and the piano sank down a trap at the end of each part of the entertainment to admit of mechanical and optical exhibitions. The speculation proving successful, Mr. John Scott expended another £10,000 in enlarging the building, and on Nov. 27, 1806, it was opened as "The Sans Pariel," an original but rather awkward title for a playhouse. The requisite licence having been obtained, dramatic performances were given, depending largely on the talent of Miss Scott, who as actress and authoress was the principal support of the theatre for fourteen years. In 1819 the house was disposed of to Messrs. Rodwell and Jones, when it changed its name with the change of ownership. After the death of Mr. Rodwell in March, 1825, the property was sold by the executors for £25,000 to Messrs. Terry and Yates, who became the managers, and the theatre was re-opened on Oct. 10 with a drama called Killigrew. In the drama called The Pilot referred to by Sir W. Scott, T. P. Cooke made a hit in the part of Long Tom Coffin, and the piece ran for two hundred nights.

"The Solid Man" was originally the title of a topical song written by John Poole, of New York, in 1870; and sung by Mr. Tony Pastor, the world-renowned American comique, and proprietor. Four years later, Mr. Edward Harrigan, comedian and author, wrote the words to the old Irish air. Mr. W. J. Ashcroft arranged the introduction and dance music with his conception in character, in 1875. When Ashcroft was at Liverpool, in 1876, Mr. D. Saunders, manager of the Star Music Hall, made a great feature in advertising "The Solid Man"—so much so, that Ashcroft became widely known by that title, and he was always obliged to sing the song nightly wherever he went. His introductory music, walk-rounds, and dances he composed himself, or selected, as his grandfather and father were both excellent musicians, being able to retain many of the Irish melodies for hundreds of years back.

RUDOLF HERZOG'S Condottiere is still the great attraction at the Neues Theater, Berlin—the most artistic stage in Germany. This epoch-making drama has been adapted for the English stage by L. H. David.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

The Executive Committee of the Entertainments Protection Association has been strongly reinforced, and now includes Messrs. Oswald Stoll, Geo. Adney Payne, Henri Gros, J. L. Graydon, Alfred Moul, Henry Tozer, Henry Sutton, H. H. Wells, Joseph Davis, and Thomas Barrasford.

The state of siege experienced during the last few weeks having been relieved by Mr. Askwith, the Arbitrator, the errant sheep fulfil their contracts, and return to the fold on Monday next. The bell-wether is Mr. Arthur Roberts, who opens at the Tivoli with an entirely new version of his funny sketch, Where's the Count? with fresh, up-to-date, and wonderful gags. Cinquevalli, Clarice Mayne, Dion Wade, Burt Shepard, Marriott Edgar, and others follow Mr. Arthur Roberts.

Lady Bancroft occupied a box at the Scala at the Saturday matinée. She expressed the great pleasure the performance had given her, and told Dr. Distin-Maddick that it reminded her of the old style of burlesque, of which she was one of the best exponents when in her teens.

Miss Marie Lloyd, it is announced, has been engaged by Mr. George Edwardes, who, like his great predecessor, Honest John Hollingshead, has secured many stars from the firmament of variety. To the old Gaiety in the early seventies went those brilliant performers, Ryley and Barnum, who did turns in the Strand and at the Oxford on the same evening. Later came the Two Macs, and Jenny Hill shone for a short period in the realms irradiated by the beams of the Sacred Lamp. At a later period came Charlie Ross, Lottie Collins, Millie Hylton, and Cissie Loftus, the artistic coterie being completed by Connie Ediss, whose first song in London was given in the costume of a jockey. Miss Lloyd has yet a number of contracts to fill at the variety theatres. Miss Lloyd sailed from Southampton for Madeira on Saturday.

Mr. Harry Randall, who has been a resident of Canonbury for some years, has purchased a house at Hampstead, in which delightful district he will shortly take up his residence. The popular comedian was formerly a near neighbour of Mr. Fred Williams, who is now a resident of Clacton, where, having given up stage work, he welcomes old friends as the cheery proprietor of a prosperous boarding-house.

Julius and Agnes Zancig, after a phenomenally successful season of eighteen weeks at the Alhambra, start on a British tour next Monday, under the direction of Mr. Alfred Moul. The Zancigs will be supported by a high-class concert party, including Miss Ethel Grimes, Miss Katie Moss, Miss Clara Alexander, Mr. Sydney Jarvis, Mr. David Brazell, Mr. Harold Scott, and Mr. Thornley Dodge. All the principal towns and cities of the United Kingdom will be visited. Mr. Moul has engaged Mr. Sydney Paxton as his business-manager, who will have charge of the company.

As a motor-car was proceeding through Piccadilly Circus last Saturday evening one of the tyres burst, and the car immediately came to a standstill. An observant policeman, accompanied by the usual London crowd, gathered, and pushed the car to the kerb. Then a young gentleman in evening clothes, wearing also a tight-fitting frock overcoat, immediately alighted. On being informed of the damage "he" gave certain directions to the driver, and walked briskly through the brilliantly-lighted Shaftesbury-avenue, and turned in at the stage-door of the Palace Theatre. The "young gentleman" was Miss Vesta Tilley, the famous male impersonator, whose last song at the Putney Hippodrome was "I'm a bachelor," which number is the first on the programme at the Palace. No one had the slightest idea of Miss Tilley's identity, and she appeared at the Palace in her usual order.

"The Little Stowaway," written nineteen years ago by Mr. Fred Bowyer, is probably the most successful sketch ever produced. Since Jenny Hill first played the name part it has been staged in every theatre of note in the United Kingdom, but, curiously enough, has never been presented outside these islands. Moss Empire have now acquired exclusive rights in The Little Stowaway. It has been re-written by the original author, brought up-to-date, and will be produced by Mr. Bertie Shelton (Mr. Beerbohm Tree's late stage manager) at New Cross Empire on Monday. Mr. Louis La Rondelle is responsible for the incidental music; Miss Eva Lumley will play the part of the waif; Mr. J. K. Walton will be the big-hearted skipper; and Mr. H. G. Shaw the autocratic first lieutenant.

"The Queen of Spades," the new grand ballet in three tableaux, will be produced on Monday. The scenario is by Alfredo Curti, the music by Mario Costa. Its theme illustrates the ever-raging battle between self and the purer influences of self-denying affection. The manifold nature of temptation is treated with all the dramatic strength of another Carmen. Recalling the brilliant success achieved by Signorina Guerrero in the bygone Alhambra ballet based on Bizet's opera, Mlle. Alexia, whose remarkable talents as a danseuse de genre are peculiarly suited to the present work, applied to the directorate to afford her a similar opportunity, which they have done. To the position in the cast of principal mime Miss Julia Seale will return with her popularity greatly enhanced by her successes of the past eight years made in the highest company in France and Italy.

The Oxford announces for Monday Henriette de Serris' artistic bas-reliefs and living pictures, which have recently captivated Paris. The pictures are copied from such masterpieces as "The Shepherdess" by Levolla and "The Gleaners" by Millet. Extraordinary and beautiful effects are obtained in the lighting. Twenty Parisian models have been specially engaged.

Mr. Tom Carney (who, jointly with Mr. Charles West, directed a capable company of entertainers at the Pavilion, Gorleston, during the summer months of last year) has been selected by the Corporation to provide the artists during the ensuing season. The genial Irish comedian holds his annual "Bohemian" at Myddleton Hall, Islington, on March 11, when many prominent artists will support him.

Mr. Clifford C. Fischer, who controls the American and European Vaudeville Agency, at Holland Buildings, 1440, Broadway, New York, has opened branch offices in London at 17, Green-street, Leicester-square, W.

Mr. Clarence Sounes is by way of building a Hippodrome at Aldershot, and has secured the services of Mr. Bertie Crewe, the well-known theatrical architect. This gentleman's plans have met with the approval of the authorities, and an unrestricted licence has been granted. The Temperance Association of the town offered some opposition, and the Superintendent of the Police advanced some objection on account of the proximity of other licensed houses. Mr. Sounes, however, cleared the way to a sensible decision by his announcement that he intended to confine the sale of intoxicants to the bars during the time that the house was open to the public. The Hippodrome will be ready for opening in the late autumn.

The amended plans for a new Empire, Barnsley, were passed by the Town Council last week.

Plans have been passed for a new Hippodrome to be built in Middlesbrough. Mr. Ward, of Birmingham, is the architect, and Signor Pepi, of Barrow, Carlisle, and Darlington, has been appointed managing-director. Building operations will commence immediately.

The Moss-Stoll tour from Easter Monday next will be extended yet another two weeks. Mr. George Dance's Swindon Empire and Reading Theatre have thrown in their lot with Moss Empires, and all bookings will in future be done from that firm's head offices in Cranbourn-street. The entry of these two houses into the fold of "the greatest aggregation of variety theatres in the world" now enables Mr. Stoll to offer artists a tour of 40 weeks.

The result of the recent Edinburgh Theatrical and Variety Sports was the realisation of £280 for charity. This sum was equally divided between local hospitals and dispensaries, the Actors' Orphanage, and the Music Hall Home.

Mr. Edwin W. Smith, late proprietor of the Parthenon, Liverpool, which place of amusement is now closed, will take a matinée benefit on Tuesday next at the Star Theatre, which has been kindly lent by Mr. Harris Fineberg. Mr. Smith has been in the theatrical business for many years, and has hosts of genuine friends, who, it is hoped, will rally round him, and accord him well-deserved support. Thousands of members of the music hall profession will recall with pleasure his unfailing courtesy and good nature. Included in the enormous programme that is to be given will be a novel Revue, for the first time on any stage, the artists engaged being the principals of the Royal Court Theatre pantomime.

The annual Liverpol Theatrical Gala was held on Tuesday, and proved highly successful. This event, which has been held for a long period, has for its object the raising of funds for the local hospital and the music hall charities. During the last ten years alone the sum of £6037 has been gathered in. The weather on Tuesday was fairly fine, with the result that there was a big attendance at the football ground, where scores of pantomime artists worked hard to extract money from sightseers.

The procession through the streets was a big attraction, some particularly fine tableaux on waggons being provided by the proprietors of the Tivoli, Shakespeare, Star, Queen's, Lyric, Park, Westminster, and Hippodrome theatres. On the ground football matches were indulged in by teams from several of the halls, and entertainments provided by members of the profession, prominent among the latter being Malcolm Scott, Harry Tate, and Johnny Danvers. The Lord Mayor of Liverpool and the Mayor of Bootle were present, and greatly enjoyed the sport.

Mr. Andie Caine, who holds a lease from the Filey Council for five years to give exclusive entertainments on the sands, has purchased a plot of land near the Crescent, known as the Sylvan Glade, with the object of building a hall to seat 600 persons. It will be constructed on American lines, so as to permit of the performances being given on the roof in fine weather.

Carl and Carr, comedians, on their benefit night, Friday, Feb. 15, at the Theatre Metropole, Devonport, were presented with a purse of gold, a travelling rug, silver mounted walking sticks, silver fruit knives, shaving sets, a box of cigars, a bottle of brandy, silk ties, gold tie-pins, &c. Such a multiplicity of gifts reminds one of the palmy days of the Britannia Theatre festivals at Hoxton in the days of Mamma Lane, when the stock company used to be bombarded with presents.

The Edinburgh public will part with much regret from Mr. Fred Lewis, late acting-manager during Mr. John Henry Cooke's winter season there. Mr. Lewis is a man of wide experience in his profession, having toured Canada, the United States, and Australasia, as well as having travelled many years in responsible positions in all parts of the United Kingdom. Mr. Lewis's friends wish him well in any new post which he may occupy, and they will gladly welcome his bright and courteous presence whenever he comes back to the Northern capital.

It is quite on the cards that Mr. Edgar Curtis will again have the management of a select band of entertainers during the forthcoming season at a favourite Kentish seaside resort. His yeoman service at Clacton for Mr. Robert Forsyth for some years, and later for the proprietor of the Palace-by-the-Sea there, doubtless had something to do with his being summoned to Ramsgate by the Entertainments Committee a few days since. Mr. Curtis is a good comedian, and no stranger to the variety stage, having been for years a member of the Harry White and Elsie Phyllis combination.

A very happy party sat down to dinner on Wednesday at the Bodega Café Royal, New-street, Birmingham. The gathering consisted of fourteen gentlemen, including Mr. Lester Collingwood (chairman), Mr. Geo. Robey (vice), Mr. A. W. Matcham, Mr. A. Bushell, Mr. T. A. Shale, Mr. R. Lee Butt, Mr. Tom Hearn, Mr. Arthur Haytor, Mr. Geo. Miller, Mr. Harry Lewis, Mr. Gus Hearn, Mr. Philip Rodway, Mr. E. C. Farris (host), and Mr. Joseph Berry (The Era). The dinner was put on in Mr. Farris's best style, which is good indeed, the tables being tastefully decorated with flowers by Mrs. Wallace, and the speeches, jokes, and quips flowed with delightful vim. Mr. Collingwood proposed Mr. Robey's health, and Mr. Robey paid a just tribute to Teddy Farris's excellent catering and good-fellowship.

Miss Constance Juno, who has just finished nineteen months' engagement with Fox and Melville's singing pictures, is now working at the Pavilion, Leicester, and meeting with great success.

Mr. Albert Bushell, manager of the Birmingham Gaiety, took his annual benefit on Tuesday in the presence of an overflowing audience. The programme was contributed by the artists from the local pantomimes and music halls, plus the Gaiety Company, and numbered thirty-eight turns, including Mr. George Robey, Mr. Edward Lewis, Miss Ethel Haydon, &c. During the performance Mr. Councillor Marsh took the stage, and surrounded by the beneficiare and his friends, testified to the esteem felt for Mr. Bushell, not only by the public and profession, but also by the Gaiety directorate.

Mr. Badman, managing-director, gave similar testimony. Mr. Councillor Marsh also, on behalf of numerous friends, presented Mr. Bushell with a substantial cheque, a silver cheese-dish from Mr. A. W. Matcham (who also, in recognition of Mr. Bushell's sporting taste, added a formidable gun to his offering), a diamond bracelet for Mrs. Bushell, a bangle for Miss Elsie Bushell, and a handsome hall-stand from the staff for Mr. and Mrs. Bushel. Mr. Bushell himself made presents to Messrs. Camp and Smith of a set of fishing-rods and an umbrella respectively. Among those present were Messrs. Harry Westwood, Young, Solmersitz, Lewis, Parkes, Macintosh, Wallace, and Lester Collingwood.

Mr. Joe Elvin returns to the Oxford on Monday in Trespassers Beware, a farce that offers the cockney comedian plenty of opportunities for the exposition of a happy form of humour that may be best described as Elvinesque.

Mr. Walter Gibbons' new Palace of Varieties at Willesden will not be completed in time for Whitsuntide, and the opening, therefore, will be deferred until August Bank Holiday.

The Balham Empire, which has been run with variety entertainments and theatrical pieces, is to be offered at the Mart on Tuesday, March 5, by George Head and Co., in conjunction with Stimson and Sons. The property is held on a long lease at a small ground rent, and is for sale at a low reserve.

Mr. Pople, the stage manager of the Stratford Empire, has left the West Ham Hospital, and is being well attended at home. He is progressing favourably, although slowly, and it will be many weeks before we shall see him at the "prompt" side, looking "'Appy," as he is called.

Miss Edna May was unable to get away to christen the three lion cubs born at the Mammoth Fun City, so Hackenschmidt, the Russian Lion, who is fulfilling an engagement at Olympia, was called upon to perform the ceremony. The leonine babies were named Mammoth, Fun, and City.

Mr. Sam Mayo recently brought an action for libel against The Sun newspaper in consequence of a paragraph in their issue of March 31, 1906, but all imputations having been unconditionally withdrawn and regret and apology expressed, Mr. Mayo's whole object in bringing the action has been attained. The settlement arrived at before Mr. Justice Jelf may, therefore, be considered quite satisfactory to everyone concerned

Miss Winifred Hare, who has made such a great success in Aladdin both at the Shakespeare, Clapham, and in Birmingham, where she was visited by a deputation of "gallery girls," who came all the way from Liverpool especially to see her, will commence a month's engagement at the Tivoli on March 4. Visitors to the Tivoli during that period may come in for lively times one fine night, for Miss Hare has received an intimation from a number of her friends and admirers "among the gods" at Birmingham that they propose to come up to London by excursion train en masse one day in order to accord her an ovation that will take her by surprise, and will serve as a send-off to a contemplated tour abroad.

Mr. Fred Marlow, who was proprietor of the Bow Palace, and who has for years past been located at the Empire, Southend, has taken up his quarters again in London. He is now at the Marquis of Lorne, in St. Martin's-lane, where he will be glad to see old friends and make new ones.

Miss Lil Hawthorne and her husband (Mr. John E. Nash) arrived in Liverpool on Thursday from New York, per s.s. Baltic. Miss Hawthorne commences the season by a special week at the Empire, Bristol, commencing on Monday next; then the Moss and Stoll tour.

Miss Louise Zetland, the sister of Mr. Leon Zeitlin, of the Metropolitan, who has been singing with great success at the Tivoli and Metropolitan, unfortunately injured her eye during the process of "making-up" the other evening. An oculist has ordered complete rest for several weeks.

Mr. Andrew Howard, of the Mysterious Howards, silent mental telepathists, has nearly recovered from his illness, and will resume his engagement at the Palace Theatre, Shaftesbury-avenue, shortly.

Mr. Albert Bruno, who is playing the part of Perkins in Mr. Fred Karno's Moses and Sons (originally produced at Birmingham), commenced his career by taking an active part with his father in the management of an important London hotel. The stage, however, for which he hankered, had too many attractions for him, and after appearances as an amateur and a preliminary canter as a successful understudy in the production of Aladdin at the Metropole, Camberwell, he played juvenile lead in a tank drama by John Douglass.

He found his true metier as Tweedlepunch (Willie Edouin's part) in Florodora, and while appearing in this character at he Grand, Fulham, his performance was watched by Mr. Fred Karno, who immediately engaged him to take up the part of Perkins in Moses and Sons, relinquished by Mr. Fred Kitchen, who had obtained a pantomime engagement. Mr. Bruno has also played Welland Strong, in which rôle Mr. R. G. Knowles appeared at Toole's Theatre. Such a bright and clever comedian as Mr. Bruno is an acquisition to the halls.

Mr. William Lee, the esteemed father of Miss Hettie Lee, died on Monday at his residence through the terrible malady cancer, and leaves a wife and eight sons and daughters to mourn his loss. The funeral will take place on Saturday, at two o'clock, at Tooting. Since writing the above we have heard with great regret that Miss Hettie Lee (Mrs. Harry Nation) has lost her daughter (Winifred Maude), who passed away quite suddenly on Thursday.

Mlle. Ghita Corri, who appeared last week at the Gaiety, Chatham, in place of Miss Katie Lawrence, was at once re-engaged by Captain H. E. Davis for the present week, and has again made an enormous success at this popular Chatham theatre in selections from her extensive répertoire national and favourite songs, including her latest song-scena, "La Cigarrera," a haunting Spanish melody and dashing episode illustrating the life of a fascinating cigarette-girl, of which big Continental attraction, we understand, Mlle. Corri has secured sole English rights. Next week she will present "La Cigarrera" at the Crouch End Hippodrome.

Miss May Lilian Levey is delighting Scotch audiences with her bright and up-to-date songs. At Aberdeen this week there is a three-cornered election in full swing, with open-air meetings held every night, and the Women's Rights League addressing crowds in the streets and public squares. This has not prevented the patrons of the Rosen and Bliss Palace from putting their money down in thousands to hear Miss Levey's humorous vocal illustration of the "Suffrage for Women" question.

A cable to hand from New York states that the Three Laurels (acrobats) and Alexandre and Hughes (recently playing the parts of the comic men in the production of Cinderella at the Camden) opened on Monday with enormous success.

The Mohamed Ben Mohamed troupe of Souasa Arabs are at present achieving a huge success at the Winter Gardens, Berlin, the foremost vaudeville theatre of Germany.

Mlle. Lucretia, who is this week appearing at the Theatre Royal, Smethwick, in the rôle of Dick, in Messrs. J. R. Moore and Kennedy's pantomime, Dick Whittington, has, owing to her great success, been re-engaged for Christmas, 1907-8. Mr. Percy Victor, with his wonderful musical dogs, and Mr. J. Pauletti, her clever cat, have also been engaged.

Mr. Harry Conlin is very proud of having won the silver cup presented by Mr. F. W. Wyndham to the Edinburgh Theatre Royal Golf Club.

Mr. Ernest Hampson (of the Hampson Bros.), out of numerous applicants, has been granted the sole permit from the Prestwick and Girvan Town Councils to give pierrot entertainments in connection with the Girvan bandstand. Mr. Hampson will also be lessee of the refreshment rooms.

The news that Messrs. Francis and Day will during the forthcoming week be offering artists some special novelties in the way of songs will induce numbers who are so fortunate as to be in town to pay a visit to Mr. Lester Barrett in order to select something to suit them in their individual lines. The well-known house is especially rich just now in what promise to be "real winners," a few of which figure in the firm's advertisement elsewhere.

The famous Native Choir from Jamaica, who so successfully toured the provinces last year, are safe in Kingston. None of them have been injured by the recent terrible earthquake, although some have lost relatives also their homes and property. The Jamaicans will return to Liverpool next month, and their managers are now booking another tour to commence on Easter Monday.

Mr. Walter Bellian, who is well known in dramatic circles as business-manager, and has held appointments as resident-manager at the Grand Theatre, Swansea, Clarence Theatre, Pontypridd, Prince of Wales's, Wolverhampton, and Royalty Theatre, Chester, produced on Monday a new sketch at the Circus of Varieties, Bury, entitled A Night's Frivolity. Mr. Bellian played the leading part, and was capitally supported by Mr. I. W. Groves as principal comedian and Miss Ethel Potten. The sketch met with an enthusiastic reception, and Mr. Culling, proprietor of the Circus, immediately booked it.

The 500th meeting of the Executive Committee of the M.H.A.R.A. was held on Wednesday afternoon, with Mr. Pat Carey in the chair. Mr. Douglas White proposed, and Mr. Fred Neiman seconded, the resolution that a further sum of 100 guineas be divided between the charities of ten railway companies. This was put to the meeting, and carried unanimously. The weekly statement of receipts and expenditure was submitted and passed as read. Dr. Cookson, of Moor-lane, Preston, was appointed as hon. medical officer, and Mr. George Robinson, of Northumberland-court, Blackett-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne, was also appointed as dental surgeon.

Mr. Will Oliver, the evergreen, completes his fifty-fifth year to-day, and we feel sure that he will be overwhelmed with congratulations from friends in all parts of the United Kingdom. "The man on the spot" retired from the stage nearly seventeen years since, and is proud of the fact that his last engagement was with dear old Sara Lane, and that Miss Marie Lloyd, then in her teens, was principal girl in that production. His appearances behind the footlights now are restricted to the special annual performance given by the Water Rats at the London Pavilion. At the last matinée of that popular fraternity Will appeared as the "army" in the travesty of Robin Hood. Booted and spurred and in armour burnished and bright he looked a gallant knight indeed! He keeps his weight down to 112lb. His shadow, therefore, must not grow less.

The latest quotations of music hall shares are as follows:—Alhambra, 1⅛; Canterbury, ¾; Empire (15s. paid), 1½; Empire (10s. paid), 1⅛; London Pavilion Ord., 4⅛; London Pavilion Pref., 5; London Coliseum, ⅛; Metropolitan, ¾; Moss Empire, 5½; Moss Empire Five per Cent. Pref., 3⅛; Oxford, 6⅛; Palace, 11s. 6d.; Tivoli, 6; Varieties Consolidated Theatres, 13s.

John Kibble, 24, a costermonger, of Douglas-place, Clerkenwell, was charged at Clerkenwell with assaulting Frank Mabe and Arthur Preston, agents of the Music Publishers' Association. A man named Walter Jones was also charged with disorderly conduct. In consequence of two men having been charged with attempting to break into a shed in Douglas-place, the attention of the police was directed to premises, which it was alleged, contained pirated music. Sergeant Barton, warrant officer, stated that he found 800 copies of music on the premises, but they were apparently not pirated. He, however, found one copy of "How'd you like to spoon with me?" published by Francis and Day. He seized some catalogues with a pencil mark against the song mentioned, and he also discovered a paraffin oil tin. Mr. d'Eyncourt adjourned the case against Jones, and ordered Kibble to pay a fine of 40s.

Miss Ella (of Ella's Lions) was presented by the management at the Empire, Middlesbrough, last week with a handsome gold medal suitably inscribed. This is the thirty-sixth medal this famous lady has received from various managers during her four years' stay in England.

The Elbas have this week been mystifying audiences at Wakefield in their expositions of second-sight and thought reading. On Wednesday night three of the smartest clerks in the town were invited to the platform to use the chalk as quickly as they could on three separate blackboards at one time. Mme. Elba correctly called out the answers to each sum, the Professor remaining quite silent on the stage.

The Donohoes, including that celebrated comedienne Miss Ruby Hallier, are making a gratifying success in the screaming absurdity, The Man That Never Saw a Woman, from the pen of E. Carter Livesey and T. W. Rawson of Would-be Actors fame.

Chung Ling Soo, the Chinese conjurer, will be seen once again at the Hackney Empire next week. His father was Scotch and his mother Chinese, and although born in China, he has spent a good part of his life in Western countries. Chung has a curious story to tell of himself. His father, a missionary named Campbell, in Canton, married a native girl. These mixed marriages are said to be not at all uncommon, for missionaries are human, after all, and the girls of Canton are said to be the prettiest in all China. The name Chung Ling Soo means "Extra Good Luck," and it was given to him because he happened to be the first boy born into the family after a run of four girls. His wife's maiden name, Suee Seen, means "Water Lily."

Chung became a conjurer by inclination. When a young medical student in Canton he was attracted one day by a conjurer at a street corner and so fascinated by the fellow's tricks that he began to pay more attention to sleight of hand than to anatomy or the pharmacopœia. Finally, the sight of another conjurer friend fixed his destiny. He threw physic to the dogs, and became a prestidigitator. He has been four times round the world, and will soon undertake a fifth tour. Chung, who has workshops at Manchester, makes no secret that he owes his success as a conjurer to mechanical appliances, as well as to quickness of hand and eye. When performing before the terrible Dowager Empress of China he took her fancy so much that she made him a Mandarin of the First Button and gave him a bracelet of pure gold.

Speaking at the Hackney Empire Music Hall on Thursday, where a matinée was held on behalf of the Lord Mayor's Cripples' Fund, the Lord Mayor said her Majesty the Queen had consented to open a function at the Mansion House in June in aid of the fund.

Mr. Sinclair, formerly with Mr. Forbes-Robertson, was appointed on Friday (yesterday) manager of the new Alhambra Theatre, Belfast.

Mr. Ernest Ch. Gittins, for the present, has reluctantly cancelled his elaborate preparations for the production with nine artists of Donizetti's La Fille du Regiment, as this popular opera is already being toured on the music halls. His next venture will be Balfe's charming operetta, The Sleeping Queen, played alternately with his own version of the Bedroom Scene from Fra Diavolo. Mlle. Adèle Prescott will undertake the rôles of the Queen and Zerlina respectively.

Mr. Harry Dacre, who claims that his songs have produced a greater pecuniary profit than those of any other author-composer, living or dead, has lately been seized with a severe attack of "autographobia." The amiable Harry wishes to secure and preserve the signatures of all those public singers who have sung his phenomenally successful songs. The signatures of seaside serenaders will be equally welcome with those of scintillating stars. Already Mr. Dacre has filled a huge album with autographs, but he is insatiable.

By permission of Mr. Charles Wertheimer, the series of living pictures at the Empire now includes reproductions of the two pictures stolen from his house in Norfolk-street, Reynolds' "Hon. Mrs. Yorke," and Gainsborough's "Nancy Parsons." The originals being only kitcat size, some difficulty has been experienced in their representation as exact copies, but this Mr. Wilhelm has surmounted. The two works of art were shown for the first time at the Empire on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Tom Fancourt and Miss Jennie Rubie are by way of producing shortly a comic opera, entitled Gretna Green, which will play thirty minutes. The costumes will be of the period of the Farmer King, George the Third. Of course, there is an exciting elopement of the lovers. The comedy relief will be strong, and specially-composed musical numbers will add to the attractiveness of a most agreeable novelty.

Mlle. Camilla D'Alberg, the piquante actress who within a year has proved herself to be an attraction of the first order in the wordless play La Main, is at present engaged in rehearsing a novelty, not as intensely dramatic as the above-mentioned, but most humorous, and at the same time artistic and refined. This wordless farce will very shortly be seen on the boards.

The offer of an engagement from a Manchester music hall has reached the laziest man in the world, George Thompson, who, though healthy, stayed in bed for twenty-nine years in his mother's house near Belfast. The offer is £8 a week to appear on the stage for a certain time each evening. Thompson's decision is uncertain, for hitherto he has despised "filthy lucre," even refusing all monetary inducements to allow himself to be photographed. He recents publicity, asking, What business is it of anyone if he lies in bed?

Mr. Billie Williams, the Australian vocalist, this week published with Mr. David Day's firm two new songs, one from his own pen—"John, go and put your trousers on," the tale of a kilt—and one by C. W. Murphy and Dan Lipton, entitled "Where, oh, where!"

Seldom has a selection of popular songs "caught on" so instantaneously and abidingly as the "Monte Carlo Selection, No. 1." Alike in theatres, music halls, and first-class restaurants, in town and country, is this melodious pot-pourri to be nightly heard, a fact exciting little wonder, when one learns that it contains such world-wide successes as "Bamboo bungalow," "Queen of Old Samara," "Tiny firefly," "Remember me to mother dear," and other equally notable melodies.

"THE WINDOW CLEANER."

A Sketch, by Herbert Sargent, Produced for the First Time at the Tivoli, Liverpool, on Thursday, Feb. 14.

This smart little trifle, which was in the hands of Miss Stella Millar, Mr. Frederick C. Leighton, and Mr. Weston, is quite up to Mr. Sargent's standard, and went particularly well. The story concerns a young lady who, in order to avoid being forced into an unwelcome marriage by her uncle, leaves home and takes a small flat in a remote part of London. While here she learns that he has discovered her whereabouts, and in order to prevent him taking her home again induces a window cleaner to declare himself her husband. A knock at the door is followed by the appearance of not the expected uncle, but her lover, who has returned from abroad, and found her hiding-place. Still fearing the arrival of the uncle she keeps up the marriage story, and introduces the window cleaner as her husband. The lover, however, discovers the trick, and quarrels with the cleaner, who is thrown downstairs. The latter reappears in the course of a few minutes disguised in female garments and announcing himself as the mother of the injured cleaner, demands compensation, which he receives, whereupon he at once reveals himself.

Miss Millar afforded much satisfaction as the runaway young lady; and a deal of fun came from the efforts of her two fellow-artists. There were some excellent opportunities for creating merriment, and it may be safely prophesied that The Window Cleaner will find favour wherever presented. The audience followed it with delight.

FRED LOCKE FUND.

The arrangements in connection with the benefit to be given at the Princess's, Glasgow, on Friday, in aid of this unfortunate author and his family, are taking definite shape, and there is every prospect of a handsome sum being realised. An attractive bill has been got out, and practically every artist of note within reach of Glasgow will appear. Many sympathisers in the profession who happen to be engaged at a distance on that day have sent cheques in token of their good wishes, and we have much pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of the following sums by the hon. treasurer of the Fund, Mr. J. S. Crichton, 9, Bridge-street, Glasgow:—

SONGS. WRITERS. AND SINGERS.

THE fame of Charles Wilmott and Herman E. Darewski, jun., and of their song, "Home again, my cherry blossom," is being noised abroad, and the principal Continental military bands are now using the melody as a march. A leading newspaper, the Karlsbader Tagblatt, thus eulogises the number in a recent issue:—"Not only in London but practically all over England this song, which has already established itself, promises to become the rage everywhere. Pretty Miss Annie Mars, who has only just entered her seventeenth year, is singing this popular number with extraordinary success every evening at the Alhambra, London. Rarely has a song shown such quick signs of becoming a 'hit.'"

THAT well-known artist, Charles J. Taylor ("Cee-Tee") whose sketch of the late George Le Brunn which appeared in these columns is treasured by many, has just written and composed two humorous songs, which will shortly be issued by Messrs. Francis and Day. They are entitled "It's nothing to what he's going to have" and "I think I ought to tell you." Mr. Taylor was responsible for the well-known success "I mustn't let her see me all at once."

THAT inimitable comedian, Little Tich, has just accepted from the author of his famous ballet-girl travesty, "My sweetheart had been in the sun" (Mr. John P. Harrington), an entirely new and original comedy study, entitled "The General." This novelty, which has been appropriately melodised by that popular composer, Mr. Jas. W. Tate, whose work has been much in evidence of late, is now in active rehearsal, will be produced at an early date.

MR. ALEC HURLEY and his talented company are now busily engaged in rehearsing Messrs. Harrington and Tate's new musical comedietta, Cockneys in Japan, which will see the light in London at no very distant date. Report speaks most highly of a charming sentimental song in the piece for Mr. Hurley, in which, while wooing a supposed Geisha, he, in mellifluous tones, extols the many virtues and graces of "A gal—a little gal across the sea."

So unprecedentedly great has been the success that Miss Lilian Lea has achieved with the Monte Carlo Publishing Co.'s big winner, "Queen of Old Samara," by J. F. Lambe, as a pantomime hero, not only in Sunderland but also in Leith and Greenock, that this talented artist has now arranged to specially "feature" it at all Mr. G. Adney Payne's halls, during her forthcoming London season. As a first song Miss Lea will sing the same firm's tuneful German song, "I'm going back to the Fatherland," by Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford, which is also being sung by Miss Lena Verdi and Talbot and Pearce.

THAT the répertoire of even our foremost singers and comedians leaves something to be desired need hardly be insisted on. Our stars themselves and the public have long felt that some wider choice of subjects is desirable, and as a step towards improvement Mr. L. H. David has made arrangements with several celebrated song-writers, both French and German, and has prepared English versions of their most successful songs—humorous, comic, and serious. If, as is stated, the melodies of these numbers are tuneful and catchy and the lyrics possess literary worth, there should be a great demand for them.

THE Shapiro, Von Tilzer Music Co., Ltd., have just added to their catalogue two attractive numbers, one a coon serenade, "My dark-eyed Lou," written by Percy Edgar and composed by Harry Von Tilzer, and the other, "Share my little nest with me," written and composed by George Arthurs and Orlando Powell. These two numbers are of the "free" variety.

A CHARMING descriptive ballad, by Andrew Sterling and Harry Von Tilzer, entitled "Just across the Bridge of Gold," featured with great success by Miss Florrie Forde and Mr. Jack Charman, has just been published by the Shapiro, Von Tilzer Co. A limited number of permissions will be granted.

A HIT of the Royal Court pantomime, Liverpool, is the charmingly-rendered song by Miss Hetty King "When I get back to Piccadilly." The publishers, Shapiro, Von Tilzer Co., have had big calls for this number, and are now printing the third edition.

MISS AMY CLEVERE, the charming vocalist and dainty dancer, has arranged to produce immediately a pretty song, entitled "Pearl," written and composed by A. J. Mills. This is No. 24 on the Star Company's catalogue, and it will be "heard of" anon. No. 25 on the same list is a semi-humorous Scotch love-song, entitled "Jeannie McGregor," which has just been successfully produced at the Empire, Swansea.

MISS ANNIE PURCELL in London and Miss Florrie Gallimore in the provinces are both making great impressions with Castling and Murphy's quaintly pretty Welsh song, "On the Isle of Anglesey." As a result the Star Company have had to reprint in large quantities to cope with the demand for copies.

A DELIGHTFUL new song, "Primrose," by A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott, will be staged in a most elaborate manner, the rustic setting representing Primrose Farm being a masterpiece of scenic art. "Primrose" will be sung by Miss Lilian Lea.

MR. WHIT CUNLIFFE, the man who has made the country ring with "Hello! hello! hello! It's a different girl again," has a new song by the writers of that great hit (Geo. Arthurs and Bennett Scott) which bids fair to rival its predecessor in popularity. The new ditty, which has some really humorous verses and a bright, dashing melody, is entitled "Beware! beware!" and will shortly be issued by the Star Company.

MR. ALEC HURLEY has accepted a song from Medley Barrett's versatile pen. It is entitled "His nibs, my son," and is published by Messrs. Francis and Day, who have just secured from Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford a ditty called "If you don't want lots of gold."

A VERY dainty song, entitled "Rosebud," by Harry Castling and F. Godfrey, will presently be placed on the market by Messrs. Francis and Day, and a taking number in preparation by the same firm is Murray, Leighton, and Hilbury's "Comrades, here's health to you!" Miss Marie Kendall will feature the first-named morceau.

THAT dainty trio, the Floradora Girls, who achieved such a success in the Grand Theatre, Brighton, pantomime with their rendering of "Queen of Old Samara," have just accepted from Messrs. Harrington and Tate a new comedy scena of a most novel character, entitled Two's Company—Three's None, which they are now busily preparing for production at Camberwell the week after next.

CHARMING Miss Edie King, fresh from her successes in the Crown, Peckham, pantomime, will specially "feature" all through the Stoll tour a new and dainty ditty, written and composed by Messrs. Dave Hall and Herbert Rule, entitled "Joan, Joan, Joan, come home!" Miss Madge Temple will also sing this "taking" song in the West End, and the Monte Carlo Publishing Co. are issuing it in their "Sixpenny Successes" series.

MR. BERT CLARK EXPLAINS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Now that the struggle is over, would you mind me using your columns to point out to my brother and sister artists a few facts which have not been explained to them by an over-zealous Executive and Alliance Committee of the V.A.F.

I have, much to my dismay, been called a traitor. From the start of the struggle, I never fully believed in the precipitate methods used, and at a mass meeting held at the Surrey I essayed to ask certain questions showing plainly how I felt, but the enthusiasm of the meeting, wrought up to fever point by the platform agitators, compelled me to sit down unheard. It is said that I convened the first meeting of an independent committee to inquire into the situation. This is true, and from that meeting emanated the common-sense movement towards peace. At that meeting were the following people:—Marie Lloyd, Arthur Roberts, Vesta Tilley (represented), Little Tich, Harry Randall, Wilkie Bard, Marie Dainton, Carl Hertz, the MacNaughtons, Alexandra Dagmar, George Leyton, Alice Lloyd, Fred Ginnett, Raymond and Kurkamp, Annie Purcell, the Gothams, Joe Elvin, Arthur Rigby, and Wal Pink. The three latter are members of the Executive Committee of the Alliance. At that meeting the various points were discussed, and a letter was sent to the executive of the V.A.F. as follows:—"Will the Executive Committee of the V.A.F. meet a committee consisting of the undersigned to consider the present state of affairs, with a view to some honourable and amicable settlement to both parties concerned?" All the names heretofore mentioned in this letter, with the exception of the three members of the Executive Committee, were among those who affixed their signatures. The Executive signified their willingness, and met us at Frascati's two hours after the note was sent.

What took place at that meeting was that we asked if they would consider a third party to find out from the managers what they were prepared to offer—the answer, of course, to be taken back to the Executive Committee. We, the third party, anticipating that a reply would be delayed, sent the following letter to the Executive Committee of the V.A.F. and National Alliance:—"Feb. 2,'07.—We, the undersigned, would like to know the result of your decision re the suggestion put before you yesterday. Kindly let us know definitely before 12 o'clock to-night to address given. In the event of no reply to our request, you leave us no alternative but to adopt such measures as we may deem necessary for all concerned in the present crisis." The signatures above appended were also attached to this note.

The result of this ultimatum was a meeting at the Trocadero between the managers and the third party, Mr. Joe Elvin acting as intermediary. If there had been any idea up to this time that I was acting solely for the managers my attitude at the meeting would have completely dispelled it, and I would like either Arthur Roberts, Arthur Rigby, or Miss Marie Lloyd to substantiate my contention. I court the fullest investigation. The people who sympathised with this movement, but were prevented from attending, sent the following wire:—"Congratulate on wholly sensible course. Personally cannot stand interference of paid agitators, whose only virtue is 'gift of the gab,' which leads emotional people astray.—G. ROBEY." "Yes, with pleasure; sooner settled the better.—FANNY FIELDS." "Impossible to be at meeting to-day. Am in sympathy with you, but have no faith in outside agitators.—WILKIE BARD." "Certainly; am with you whatever you arrange.—WILL EVANS." "Am with you; and I trust for diplomatic settlement advantageous to all.—VESTA TILLEY."

From here the work of the third party was finished, as a Conciliatory Board, composed of four great Labour leaders, stepped in, as we did, with the object of saving all they could, I believe, for the stage hands and musicians. I personally took no further action, and might add that I did not, and have not, worked; therefore cannot be called a blackleg. If, however, the facts I have stated brand me as a traitor, then I plead guilty to the charge. It was stated by Mr. Ben Tillett that I had sold my conscience for a contract and a ride in a motor-car. Mr. Ben Tillett can scarcely be conversant with music-hall work, as the first contract I could accept would be in the year 1912.

In conclusion. It is always a well-known fact that a man coming in between two people grappling each other by the throat, and both equally determined, will surely receive some of the misdirected blows of each antagonist; and if those blows have hurt and have to be borne with I shall bear them; but the future will justify my actions and that of the third party herein mentioned. I have asked the Executive Alliance Committee for a fair and impartial trial of my movements during the strike. This is two weeks ago, but have received no answer.—Thanking you in anticipation, believe me, yours faithfully,

"THE DEVIL'S SUNDAY" AND "A WOMAN'S HONOUR."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—My attention has been called to a sketch produced at the Middlesex Music Hall on Feb. 11, and in your criticism of same you say (referring to the incident of putting out the lights for a duel), "such novel conditions for a duel can assuredly never before have been invented."

Your critic had evidently never seen The Devil's Sunday, produced by Mr. John Lawson at the Metropolitan, Nov. 26, 1906. In this sketch all lights are extinguished for a duel with revolvers between the prisoner on bail and Lord Harrington. "One, two, three" is counted, and both men fire. The lights are then raised, and the latter character is discovered dead.

This same situation (with very little alteration) is in the sketch your criticism refers to, and it can hardly be called a coincidence, as I notice you state it was produced for the first time last Monday.—Yours faithfully,

(MRS.) RICHARD POLE,
Author of The Devil's Sunday.

Queen's Club, West Kensington, Feb. 16.

THE amalgamation of the Keith and Williams establishments in the States is, we are given to understand, to be opposed by another combine headed by Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger.

END OF THE STRIKE.

THE ARBITRATION.

Mr. George Ranken Askwith, the arbitrator appointed by the Board of Trade in the music hall strike, made an interim award upon certain points which it was necessary should be cleared up before the questions of wages and contracts could be entered into. This award, which was issued on Feb. 14, was as follows:—

"The managers of music halls in London and the provinces having had certain matters of dispute with artists, musicians, and stage hands in their employment, and all parties having agreed to refer all matters in dispute between them to me, the undersigned, George Ranken Askwith, and having requested the Board of Trade to confirm such reference, and the Board of Trade having formally appointed me, the undersigned, to act as arbitrator, and the parties having requested me to issue immediately an interim award upon certain matters necessary to be determined before the hearing of questions of wages and other matters in dispute, I award and declare that on and after Saturday, the 16th day of February, no artist who is under contract to the above-named managers, or has agreed to abide by the result of this arbitration, shall perform at the Scala Theatre or elsewhere, in violation of any contract, or in furtherance and continuance of the present strike; and that all legal proceedings by any of the managers against any of the artists, or other persons concerned, shall be withdrawn, and that all artists and other persons holding contracts shall be allowed to fulfil their contracts with the managers on and from Monday, the 25th February, upon giving notice of their intention to fulfil their contracts on or before Saturday, the 16th February; and, further, that all pickets, meetings, and issuing of circulars or notices in connection with, or in furtherance of, the existing strike, shall forthwith cease.—As witness my hand, this 14th day of February, 1907. (Signed) GEORGE RANKEN ASKWITH."

In consequence of this notification the National Alliance decided to close the Scala on Saturday night, the 16th. The lease of the house for four weeks cost £1,200, without the incidental expense of producing the revue, A Night With the Stars, the nucleus of which was found by the author, Max Goldberg, in his melodrama, Secrets of the Harem.

The arbitration proceedings opened on Tuesday at the St. Bride's Institute before Mr. G. K. Askwith, of the Board of Trade, who was accepted by both parties on the Conciliation Board. There were present on behalf of the music-hall managers Mr. Walter Payne (barrister), Mr. Henry Tozer, Mr. Henri Gros, and Mr. Philip Rutland, J.P. (solicitor to the managers). The artists were represented by Mr. Edmund Browne (barrister), instructed by Messrs. Pattinson and Brewer, Mr. W. H. Clemart (Variety Artists' Federation), Mr. Wal Pink, Mr. Joe O'Gorman, and Mr. Brewer (solicitor to the artists). Others present included Mr. J. B. Williams and Mr. C. Jesson (for the musicians), and Mr. W. Johnson and Mr. C. Pickering for the stage hands. Alderman Mitchell and Mr. Arthur Roberts attended as representatives of the Conciliation Board. The proceedings were strictly private.

On Wednesday arrangements were made by which a number of musicians will return to work on Monday next, and a further number a fortnight later. Conferences are taking place between the parties with regard to the remainder. These arrangements will shortly be embodied in the form of an interim award by the arbitrator. The question of finding employment for the stage hands is now under consideration.

That Mr. George Ranken Askwith is entitled to fill the difficult position of arbitrator in the music hall dispute is readily conceded by all parties. As a peacemaker he possesses a remarkable record. When with Lord Alverstone in Paris at the time of the Venezuelan Arbitration, he made a speech which occupied two days in delivery. He was also with Lord Dunraven in New York at the Valkyrie-Defender Inquiry, and for years he has been chosen by the Board of Trade to arbitrate in some of their most difficult cases, and has taken part in some historic settlements, among them being the Manchester tramways dispute, the weavers' strike in Scotland, the London Compositors' dispute, the tin-plate workers' dispute in Wales, the Nottingham lace weavers' strike, which lasted eight weeks, and a colliery dispute. The Army Council sent him to deal with the Raunds bootmakers' march, and he felt highly flattered when, as a result, the district boot trade chose him as their permanent arbitrator.

"WHEN, when, when is your ship a-coming home?" by Pelham, McGhee, and Rule, will be "featured" by that rising young singer, Miss Minnie Mace, at all her engagements, and bids fair to be one of the most successful numbers issued by the enterprising Monte Carlo Publishing Co.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE PALACE.

Like other theatrical and operatic stars, Mr. Hayden Coffin has found a temporary home at the Palace Theatre, which holds a very high place in the regard of both professions, due possibly to the happy thought on the part of the managing-director, Mr. Alfred Butt, of providing special programmes for special audiences. In the decadent days of the halls it was considered a great error of judgment to introduce music in any way seriously as an art, and singers of the calibre of Marie Tempest and Hayden Coffin were regarded as quite beyond the pale of a variety contract. Two causes have hitherto contributed to this estrangement between the halls and the exponents of the highest cult in singing—the prejudice of the artists themselves, and the fear on the part of the proprietors lest, in any attempt to get out of the beaten track, they should be making halting steps towards an educational policy that might be resented by pit and gallery. Mr. Butt has, however, the courage of his convictions, largely based no doubt on the dicta of that departed Nestor of caterers, that Gamaliel of managers, Mr. Charles Morton, who, like all representative men, was in advance of his time when he made operatic selections and part-songs the chief plank of his variety entertainment at the Canterbury. Mr. Morton, we know, was always ambitious to engage the best representative English singers for the Palace Theatre stage, and though he did not live to see the fruition of his hopes, he was much encouraged by the direct upward trend of the entertainment over which he presided so ably.

To return to Mr. Coffin. He commenced his selections on Monday with "Melisande from the wood," which he also sang on the night of the Palace anniversary. Goetz's song was accompanied by the orchestra as well as the piano, and the interpretation lacked nothing in warmth or fervour. "Tommy Atkins," a favourite number from The Gaiety Girl, won a popular success by its rousing chorus and catchy melody, and the enthusiasm shown on Monday was quite sufficient to justify its selection. Mr. Coffin sang it in a more robust style than usual, and won a hearty encore by the vigour and spirit of his rendering. He then introduced a dainty setting by Ethelbert Nevin of "Oh! that we two were maying," and in his rendering showed his perfect appreciation of tone-colour, as well as his command of mezza voce. The song, which should speedily have a wider popularity, has been specially orchestrated by Mr. Herman Finck, whose "effects," produced mostly by muted strings and wood wind, are most artistic. The orchestra may also be complimented. Every musician seemed to play con amore, and aided in no little degree a matchless interpretation. Mr. Hayden Coffin has held for over twenty years a unique position on the English stage, and when listening to him on Monday one could quite comprehend the reason why. Granted that he possesses great natural endowments, there are few gifted with such high intellectual appreciation of tonal shading or such perfect phrasing.

Miss Vesta Tilley is still giving much pleasure to crowded audiences by her male impersonations. On Monday she introduced an old friend in "Algy," the Piccadilly Johnnie, who has won the regard and excited the laughter of the spheres. Theatrical history of late has taught us that, after all, Algy is a welcome adjunct to the theatres, and though Miss Tilley's presentation of his little weaknesses—which are mostly those of downright good-nature—does not excite our respect for him, we think there is much to be said for him when we contrast him with the superior and very blasé young exquisite of less aristocratic pretensions. Miss Tilley is unapproachable in the character.

Among Mr. Butt's latest introductions are Mas Andres, a pigeon pair of French duettists, who present a burlesque of a Parisian revue. The commère is a smart little actress, who acts more or less as a feeder to her companion, a grotesque who will be even funnier when he gets more used to English audiences. He is responsible for a clever bit of quick-change business as a gendarme and a pickpocket, and parodies with many touches of eccentricity an Italian conductor. A novel sensation of the bill is the lariat-throwing of Jack Joyce, who has won his remarkable skill during his daily life as a Texan cowboy.

THE TIVOLI.

The Tivoli has introduced to the London public this week a turn of exceptional interest by securing the services of a Buddhist dancing girl—by name Ser Pharah. Her series of devotional exercises is such as the Hindu dancing girl—trained to religious worship, and living and dying in the temple—is accustomed to daily. The acts of devotion are spread over five tableaux representing the offerings of a maiden to the god Shirah, and subsequently some poses. Ser Pharah translates the sacred legends into action by a number of slow and undulating movements of the most graceful and artistic kind. At the opening of the scene, which is laid in an Indian forest outside a temple of Buddha, Ser Pharah is discovered slumbering at the feet of a golden image. Awakening, she decks herself with jewels, and swathing her comely form in a raiment of cloth of gold she commences her acts of terpsichorean devotion before the shrine. Her sinuous movements are marked by gradations of fervour, until at last she works herself into a frenzy of devotion, tears off her trinkets, casts off her wraps, and as a suppliant humbles herself before the shrine in that state "which is expressly imposed upon its votaries by the Buddhist creed, and is the acme of purity."

Mr. Aubrey Fitzgerald, who recently made a plunge into variety at the cosy Strand house, is now presenting a comic interlude entitled The Spider and the Fly. It is the old story of a gentleman of adventurous spirit coming to the wrong flat. This time it is the secretary of the Bayswater Moral Mission that arrives in the apartment of a lady of the stage who is expecting her fiancé to sup with her. He should have gone to a floor higher up, but he is not altogether sorry he has made a mistake. The modern Eve, in a bewitching gown, tempts him to drink champagne and persuades him to eat. Under the subtle influence of her charms, and inspired by Bacchanalian impulses, he hurls defiance at an elder of the church—an uncle, who also comes to the wrong flat—and locks him in with the lady in her bedroom On this embarrassing situation the curtain falls. Mr. Aubrey Fitzgerald plays the Stiggins-like character on very amusing lines; and the lady finds an attractive representative in Miss Madge Hyde.

Mr. Nelson Jackson, against whose name the word "raconteur" is printed, is that and a good deal more He entertains one with an amusing burlesque of an Italian song, in which very little of the language of the Campagna can be recognised. At the piano he also describes in song the three ages of man—twenty, forty, and sixty—and his optimistic views of the good time possible at each of those stages of life are convincingly given and tunefully set. Mr. Jackson's stories are also decidedly good, and as a monologue entertainer he is exceptionally droll. Mr. Horace Lane, a new find of Mr. Joseph Wilson, at times reminds one of Mr. Ernest Shand, and is a genuinely smart comedian; Miss Alice Hollander, who has returned to the Tivoli on her recovery from indisposition, is singing "O, dry those tears" with her customary success; Miss Madge Lessing and her merry maids are seen and heard to advantage in Snowland; and Miss Annie Purcell makes her newest song, "In the Isle of Anglesey," a very acceptable number indeed. The other turns in the bill have already been noticed in these columns.

HOLBORN EMPIRE.

In the programme at the Holborn Empire this week there are several names that are unfamiliar to the regular patron of the London halls, but all the same the entertainment is excellent of its kind, and includes an unusually large number of refined musical turns. The quintet under the direction of Mr. Benbrick Blanchard, and styling themselves the Roman Singers, wear the classic garb of ancient Rome, and their voices harmonise in very pleasing style in the rendering of several well-chosen selections. The five vocalists, who have adopted Roman titles that possess a punning significance, are Miss Ella Lorraine, Miss Dorothy Carter, and Messrs. Lawrence Wensney, J. C. Cox, and Roland Bagnall. The last-mentioned is responsible for the comedy element, and, seated at the piano, sings the song of "The Simple Curate," concluding with an amusing imitation of the reverend gentleman announcing various coming events in the parish. The Roman Singers are very well received. Another musical performance in which artistic excellence is a very marked feature is that given by the Metropolitan Operatic Quartette, consisting of two lady and an equal number of male vocalists. They give selections from well-known operas, and their admirable singing evokes loud applause from every part of the house, showing that there is no lack of appreciation of really good music when its interpretation is entrusted to capable artists.

An attractive novelty in the current bill is the appearance of Mme. Yvette de Laabe in a series of charming art poses, representing the work of the sculptor. A number of classical figures are represented by Mme. de Laabe, and some of these are set off by some beautiful electric effects. Amongst the most striking figures are those of the famous Venus of Milo, Eve before the Fall, Salambo, Galatea, and finally a beautiful female doing homage to the marble bust of King Edward the Seventh. During the brief intervals between the poses an interesting series of art pictures are shown, so as to avoid any risk of tediousness being experienced by the spectators.

The Trentanovis are two ladies—apparently mother and daughter—who give a clever gymnastic act, and meet with a favourable reception. The apparatus used in the performance is prettily decorated with flowers, adding considerably to the general effect. Les Sousloffs, described as terpsichorean experts, who made their London début at the Palace some time ago, are here, and their marvellous dancing, more particularly that of the lady, evokes nightly a perfect furore. The last-mentioned announces the name of each in pretty broken English, and is from the beginning on good terms with the audience. Miss Edie Gray and her two coons give a telling rendering of a well-arranged trio, and are repeatedly recalled. Miss Lily Harold appears in a charming scena entitled Lavender, in which she has the assistance of a young lady vocalist. She next gives the ditty "What does it matter?" which is illustrated by the appearance of a Gibson girl and a number of Suffragettes who are "moved on" by an energetic constable. Mr. Jay Laurier is a comedian with a style of his own that is both quaint and effective. He has a laugh which is quite infectious, and makes good use of it in his ditty "Silly Billy Brown." Miss Elsie Bernard is an American comedienne who wears a dress that is the admiration of all the ladies, and in her song "At the top of the tree" introduces patter having reference to John Burns, the Suffragettes, and other topical matters. Her turn is quite a success. Mr. Dan Filmer has a good song in "Nothing to worry about"; and Miss Molly Doone, a pleasing comedienne, scores with the ditty "I wish I were you," concluding with a neat dance. Mr. Charles Cardle, who possesses a capital voice, also contributes to the programme, a special feature of which is the appearance of Mr. John Lawson and company in the famous sketch Humanity. The Imperial Bioscope shows us Little Tich in some of his latest and most comical impersonations. Mr. Claude Marner is the manager here, and Mr. J. C. Cuthbertson fulfils the duties of acting-manager.

THE EUSTON.

A prominent place on the Euston bill is occupied by Edith Finlay's company, in The Pet of the 21st, which we noticed on its original production in 1905 at the Bedford. It is a shortened version of La Fille du Régiment, an opera in which the talents of that great singer, Jenny Lind, were employed to the fullest advantage. The score, by Donizetti, is full of brightness and sparkle, in accordance with the theme of the story, which never dwells on a sad note. The little girl who has been found on the field of battle when an infant and brought up by the regiment—the 21st—is played by Miss Edith Finlay, who sings an aria from the opera with considerable culture and refinement. Again do we hear the celebrated "Rataplan," one of the tunes that never die, and the choruses generally are spiritedly given. Mr. S. Rodhart puts plenty of vim and sparkle into his rendering of Sergeant Pierre, a part that he invests with all the amiable and soldierly qualities demanded. Mr. R. Hyett is effective as Tony; Miss Evelyn Shelley is a sufficiently amusing Marchioness; and Messrs. R. Braham and J. H. Boyde adequately fill the other parts.

A comedy sketch that affords considerable amusement is discovered in My Birthday, played by Lambert and Glover. The gentleman who has the birthday is living in bachelor apartments, which are invaded by an old sweetheart of the long ago, who affects to be a very tyrant in petticoats. She smokes and drinks and generally makes things lively. Eventually she explains who she is, and the mere male having discovered that there is a loving heart behind all the apparent boisterous mannishness, elects in future to go in double harness. The trifle is admirably played by both artists, and meets with a deservedly cordial reception.

Major Newell, long since at the London Pavilion, proved his wonderful facility as a skate-dancer, and his act, always interesting, has lost nothing of its skill or cleverness. Wonderful high kickers are the Sisters Caselli, whose undulating grace and unity of movement are well displayed in a double dance, which is a veritable tour de force. A very big hit is made by Miss Mattie McNichol, who looks very pretty and interesting in the tartan of a youthful clansman. Mattie sings "Annie Laurie" in a way that goes straight to the heart, and in another Scotch ditty is loudly applauded and recalled. This bonnie Scotch lassie has evidently caught on in London.

The Minnesota Quintet are heard to advantage in an original comedy-singing mélange; the three Sisters Kay appear in the dual rôles of vocalists and mandolinists; Frew and Frew (from the North) go in for cross-talk of quite the conventional pattern; Haig and Russell present the comedy duologue, Your Loving Aunt; and Miss Evelyn Taylor is also announced as among the current attractions, but did not put in an appearance on the occasion of our visit.

THE SURREY.

The strongest attraction in the strong programme here this week is the appearance of Georg Hackenschmidt, and packed houses have acclaimed his powers as a wrestler. On the evening of our visit the champion had for his first opponent a stalwart butcher of Walworth, Dick Burber, whom he easily defeated in 1min. 45sec. His second opponent was Ted Miller, and the champion found him a very wily and tough customer indeed, Miller keeping him very busy for 6min. 8sec. The Surrey boys nearly went frantic with excitement, and rewarded Miller with an ovation for his plucky performance.

The Treshams, in their smart comedy act, Roads Up, keep the audience highly amused.

Seated around the watchman's fire, five young gamins give excellent effect to a part-song, which eventually awakens the watchman in his box, who goes for the youngsters, and then ensues a wild revel of pantomime and knockabout business. The watchman at last captures his tormentors and agrees to let them go free if they will give him an extempore entertainment. The youngsters soon demonstrate that they are quite efficient artists, for one lad sings "Sally in our Alley" with absolute perfect expression, while others indulge in step-dancing, comic boxing, and a military finale.

That dainty and charming young dancer Edie King wins all hearts in a pretty song-scena, "Let me show you." She gives a series of international dances that are most captivating, and fully demonstrates the poetry of motion and the undeniable skill of a thorough artist. Zeta Grey and company appear in their comedy act, The Lancashire Lass, and her singing of "Alice, where art thou?" and selections from popular operas, wins enthusiastic approval. Eldra and his clever and intelligent dog give a charming and interesting entertainment, which is further heightened by the dark background and electrical effects. The audience divide their admiration between the skill, patience, and acrobatic abilities of Eldra, and the docility and intelligence of the dog. Harry Champion is always sure of a hearty and sincere welcome here, and the insistent demands of his admirers impelled this popular comedian to nearly double the time allotted him.

Rell and Butt are resourceful comedians, and keep their audience in a merry vein with quaint patter, lively cross-talk, buck and rag-time dancing, and much amusing side play, especially their novel cigarette act. Wallace Whitney as a burlesque fireman is full of fun and patter, and creates much laughter when at the telephone. Bert Brantford has a good original song in "The Sweep Coon," and his smart dancing wins him warm appreciation. Beattie Foster gives a quaint character study in her song, "My old man's football mad." Harvey and Holt do remarkably well in their musical mélange, set in a very pretty and original winter scene. Lester May, a comedian of the Harry Ford type and methods, has a good song in "Did I? Yes."

Raymond's Bio-Tableaux is in itself an entertainment, and the laughable incidents attending the adventures of "A Gay Old Masher" are followed with shrieks of laughter, which is eloquent of thorough enjoyment. The excellent order kept in every part of the vast auditorium is a tribute to the efficient management of Mr. Charles Craig.

EAST HAM PALACE.

In A Noble Brother Mr. Charles Carte and company have an interesting sketch. The principal character of Jerry, the tramp, as played by Mr. Carte, is a somewhat difficult one to comprehend because of its seemingly varying and peculiar phases. We have neither seen nor heard of any other tramp like this Jerry, and in Mr. Carte's hands our derelict assumes a changefulness of mood and action and manner which, if it does nothing else, certainly denotes intense originality on the part of its creator. But in its representation on the stage we get just a little too much buffoonery, which tends to destroy whatever sympathy we might feel for the victim of a noble deed of self-abnegation, and at the same time makes one question the sincerity of the pathetic scenes. Otherwise, as we have already indicated, the playlet is of considerable human interest. Mr. Carte knows how to act, and we are sure he will do nothing which would lose him what has always been extended to him in the past, namely, the favour of his audience in his excellent enactment of many rôles. Miss Doris Brookes is delightfully engaging as the heroine, Nana Leigh; and from Miss Esther Faithfull as Mrs. Leigh we get a quiet, dignified, and altogether charming study of an elderly lady. Mr. Payne Reynolds does well as the hero, and Mr. Burton Ford is sufficiently obnoxious as Henry Travers; while a commendable portrayal is the veteran soldier of Mr. Howard Thorne. Miss Winnie Rose is successful as Rose Rapid.

The musical comedy sketch, A Trip to Coon Town, is a wild, whirling, noisily-laughable performance. We are told that the company has been chosen from the artists in the late In Dahomey production. Certainly they give good value for their money. The singing of such pieces as "The old home," "Erastus Johnson," "Sandy," and the "Flower Song" are marked by that quaintness of melody and manner that is characteristic of plantation folk. The dancing, too, is both attractive and smartly executed. A man, an elephant, a horse, and a pony join in an altogether admirable demonstration of animal intelligence directed by the human brain. The trainer is Captain Maximilian Gruber, and he is to be complimented upon a show which indicates a great amount of thought and care and patience on his part. Some of the tricks performed by the animals are very amusing, some very clever, and all worth witnessing. Miss Ivy Adelaide, a dainty soubrette, entertains the house with her enchanting rendering of a love song; and young Vento, the boy vocalist, also distinguishes himself in a similar direction. One can always listen to Miss Ruby Emerson with a feeling of pleasure. This week she is doing her best to increase the marriage rate of East Ham, and time will tell whether her efforts prove successful. In her song "Then you're all right" she points out what an absolutely silly thing it is to be a bachelor. Take a small flat, take some furniture, take a girl, and—"then you're all right." The song is delivered with a capital appreciation of the subject of the lines; and Miss Emerson is also heard to advantage in "Boys and girls." Benson and Geoffreys are hugely amusing with their comedy duologue; and Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope Company is to be congratulated upon the series of pictures entitled The Boy's Revenge.

WALTHAMSTOW PALACE.

Although recent unfortunate events have, naturally, had a bad effect on business here as well as elsewhere, the public for whom Mr. Arthur J. Barclay caters so wisely and so well have shown no disposition to desert him at a critical time. Indeed, there has been an almost remarkably good attendance on many occasions of late, notwithstanding the conspicuous absence of stars of the first magnitude, and on Monday of this week the house presented as prosperous an appearance as one could desire. In the frequent absences of Mr. Barclay, necessitated by the dual control of two establishments, he leaves behind him an admirable substitute in Mr. Geo. F. Slatter, on whose willing shoulders much of the brunt of the battle has fallen.

The programme for the present week includes several items of exceptional interest, while all may be described as quite up to a fairly high-water mark of excellence. After an agreeable overture, well played by the orchestra under the experienced direction of Mr. H. Petersen, Mr. Fred Pollard, eccentric comedian, opens the ball with considerable success in an amusing song, "Awfully ticklish here," and a rather clever parody on "Excelsior," both of which take the fancy of the house. Miss Irene Meldon, looking very dainty, sings with much charm, and fairly captivates the audience with her exceedingly neat and nimble dancing. The Sisters Victoria, four pretty young ladies, besides proving themselves accomplished performers on various instruments, sing with much acceptance, and finish their performance with some energetic dancing; altogether a charming and refined turn. One of the pronounced successes of the programme is the performance of Newell and Niblo, who play with amazing dexterity, precision, and fulness of tone on the saxophone and the xylophone. Their manipulation of the latter instrument especially is very good, and rouses the audience to something like enthusiasm, resulting in a well-merited encore. Miss Lily Arthur is a little lady possessed of a large amount of talent, which is skilfully exploited, firstly in a dialect song descriptive of a country girl's experiences in London, and afterwards in a tuneful number in which she impersonates a poor flower-girl. Miss Arthur is a capable actress as well as a good singer, and she may be described, without any flattery, as one of the most promising young actress-vocalists we have had here for a long time. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, as usual, is immensely popular, and this week the pictures are quite up to their best and most interesting form.

Sketches are always an important feature in the Walthamstow bill of fare, and this week we have two excellent examples of this popular form of variety-theatre entertainment. The first of these is that clever and interesting little piece, written by Louis N. Parker, and entitled The Man in the Street. There is much genuine amusement in the sketch, while every now and then a chord of tender pathos is touched. The Man in the Street is played by Mr. Nevill Graham and his company, and it could not have been consigned to better hands. Mr. Nevill Graham himself gives a marvellous picture of the "wastrel," Gover, loquacious to a degree, suspicious, and not over scrupulous on the vexed subject of meum and tuum—a character-picture of rare merit admirably played; Mr. C. Wallace Aston is good as the artist, Philip Adare, and Miss Margaret Watson acts with discrimination as his wife, Minnie. The piece is received with hearty applause. The other "episode" of the evening, Beauty and the Burglar, by Geo. R. Sims (it is unusual to have the names of two such distinguished authors on one programme), has been seen here before, but is none the less welcome on that account. It is pure, unadulterated farce from beginning to end, and keeps the audience in a constant simmer of amusement. Miss Millie Engler's company is engaged in its interpretation, and it could not have fallen into better hands. Miss Engler looks supremely handsome, acts with great point and finish, and sings brilliantly a pretty song by Garnet Wolsley Cox. Mr. W. L. Rockliffe does his share of the work well as the unexpectedly-returned husband, Jack Rippleby, who tries to pose as the burglar. But the prime favourite of the cast is undoubtedly the servant, Polly, played by Miss Louie Tinsley. This lady is that rara avis, a genuinely funny female low comedienne, who brings out every point of the strange character to its full value, and carries the audience with her from start to finish. The programme finishes with something like an actual novelty, although it is but a variation of the well-established human statuary idea. This is Mme. Clasen's living art bronzes. The figures are taken from several well-known pictures, such as Millet's "Angelus." After all, the best of the series are those that reproduce statuary, the most successful to our mind being "The Thorn," "Eros," and "Ishmael." These are all impersonated by a handsome youth, and are exceedingly artistic. Altogether, as a bid for novelty, the experiment is well worth seeing, and much care and thought have evidently been bestowed on the subjects. The stage-management is in the capable hands of Mr. Joseph Grant.

CAMBERWELL PALACE.

A comprehensive list of artists is this week filling the Camberwell hall, the patrons of which are flocking in gratifying numbers to the Palace by the Green. Conspicuous in a well-assorted bill is a production called Outflanked, an elaboration of a sketch which some time since attained popularity. The sketch deals with a sergeant of the 9th Lancers who is ordered abroad for active service, but is reluctant to depart without his sweetheart. Kitty Benson, the maiden in question, is equally opposed to the prospect of leaving England, and the sergeant hits upon an ingenious scheme whereby to make his sweetheart disgusted with her situation at an hotel and induce her to accompany him. He repairs to the saloon in the character of a young man bound for a fancy ball. His dress is that of the Georgian period, powder, wig, and all; but scarcely has Kitty turned her back to get him a drink than the young "buck" is changed into a tramp of the most disreputable kind, who demands a pint of ale. Kitty, with disgust, goes to fulfil the order, and in a trice the tramp disappears, and Kitty is greeted by a brawny Scotchman. The kilts give place to the skirts of an ancient dame, who in turn is replaced by a giggling female in gorgeous array. At this point Kitty, who has been growing more and more perturbed, penetrates her lover's disguise, and indignantly refuses to relent until she is offered the post of a Red Cross nurse in the coming campaign. The sergeant speedily appears in full regimentals, and the young lady's facility in quick-change is displayed by her assumption of the uniform of the hospital brigade. The series of impersonations is crowned by a representation of Britannia—a change which is perhaps the most astonishing of all.

The transformations are made in view of the audience by Mr. Henry Coutts, whose alertness and agility in his work is of an extraordinary character. The various episodes are fitted with funny dialogue, in which the vivacity and brightness of Miss Dot Kemp as Kitty are invaluable. The young lady also dances neatly and sings snatches of songs with ability. The sketch is in two scenes, and is realistically mounted, Mr. Louis Du Cane making a smart captain of Lancers. It is asserted that Mr. Coutts is the first artist in his line to perform without assistance. £500 is offered to anyone, stage hands included, who can prove that he uses a double, or has any help in the effecting of any of his changes, but as they are made in the very centre of the stage far from any friendly hand, it is apparent that the money is not likely to change hands. Great applause is lavished upon the skilful performer, who has many recalls.

Midway in the programme is the dramatic episode The Sorceress, in which the tale of a Jewess who resorts to many bold expedients in order to trace her lost child is told. The sketch has some thrilling moments, and is well acted by Miss Esther Phillips in the title-rôle, by Miss Kitty Carlisle as the daughter, by Miss Millie Luckstone as an Italian Countess, by Mr. Fergusson as a young Count, and by Messrs. Beaton and Beverley as two thieves. Vernon's Bioscope supplies a couple of films, in one of which the experiences of a yawner are mirthfully portrayed, while the other deals fantastically with the pranks of "Puck." A distinct hit is made by Gillin, a ventriloquist, who has an unlimited fund of humour. His parleying with a puppet is very droll and fresh, and the voice of the cheeky boy proceeding from under the table is admirably simulated. Mr. Gillin keeps his audience amused throughout, and loud applause is justly bestowed on him. The Loves are two clever boy and girl duettists, who sing well and do a skipping-rope dance with admirable precision. Mr. Harry Freeman exhilarates the audience with his songs "Not me" and "Share it among the lot"; and another trusted favourite is seen in Miss Lottie Lennox, who gains the ungrudging assistance of the audience in her choruses. An eccentric method recommends the effusion of Mr. E. W. Selman to favour; and the programme is also contributed to by Mr. Rossi Ashton in a song-sketching act; Miss Kate Walters, the fisher-girl; and the Boisset (Frank and Albert) Troupe in The Bricklayers. Mr. P. A. Lennon, the manager, thoroughly maintains his reputation for courtesy and business-like methods; and Mr. Leon A. Bassett's orchestra responds loyally to his beat.

The birthday of Stylo, the juggler, and that of his wife (Miss Beatrice Bourne) happens to be on the same date—the 28th inst—and, strange to say, they are of the same age.

MR. T. C. CALLAGHAN.

Mr. T. C. Callaghan, a popular comedian, is a gem from the Emerald Isle, having been born in the county of Mayo. Early in life he migrated to Birmingham, where for a few years he worked as house painter and decorator. His first appearance was as a clog dancer in a ghost show called Morris's Ethescope, three shows a night and six and seven on a Saturday, for the large salary of seventeen and sixpence a week. With this show he came to London, and pitched on some vacant land behind Park House, where now stands Charrington's Tabernacle; from here they went to the Berners Hall, which is a part of the Agricultural Hall. After eight weeks there they moved into St. Mary's Hall (now the Islington Empire), as the Berners Hall was not large enough for the big business they did. After that they visited Aldershot, and put in a season of seven months at the Alexandra Theatre. This should have been followed by a season at Croydon, but on the

MR. T. C. CALLAGHAN.

Sunday previous to their opening on the Monday the booth was destroyed by a gale, being literally blown to pieces.

After that Mr. Callaghan joined Dr. Lynn, the celebrated humourist and conjurer, and with Lim he stayed nearly four years at the Egyptian Hall. When the Doctor decided to go touring through India Mr. Callaghan made up his mind to try the music halls, and made his first appearance at the Rodney's Head, Mile End Road, at which hall a good many now well-known music-hall artists made their débuts. He was rather successful at this hall, as clog dancing was in great demand then, and he was pretty good with the clogs. The late George Harwood saw him at the Rodney's Head, and engaged him for the Varieties, Hoxton. Then Harry Hart gave him a six weeks' engagement at the Old Raglan, in Theobald's-road. Since that date he has appeared at almost every hall of note in the United Kingdom. It was while performing at Gatti's (Arches) that T. P. Hudson (Hudson's Surprise Party) saw Mr. Callaghan and his wife (Florrie St. Clair) do their turns, and he was so satisfied with them that he at once engaged them, through Will Oliver, for a twelve months' tour through India, which reminds Mr. Callaghan of many pleasant days and grand sights too numerous to mention here. He was the first to do Irish songs and dances à la Ashcroft, and thus made a palpable hit.

After India he made up his mind to try Australia. He got an engagement with Frank Clark at the Gaiety, Melbourne, for a month, and stayed a year. It was here he first introduced the boy singing in the gallery, a novelty which was soon copied in this country to an alarming extent. He was next engaged by Frank Smith, of the Alhambra, Sydney, for three months, and stayed nine, and subsequently returned for another six months; then he joined Mr. Hudson again for a tour through Queensland and Tasmania. After finishing with Mr. Hudson Mr. Callaghan joined Percy St. John's pantomime company, playing principal dame parts; he played six weeks in Brisbane, then toured South Australia and New Zealand. Then he returned to Sydney to fulfil engagements with Mr. Harry Rickards.

While engaged with Mr. Rickards at the Melbourne Opera House he observed a little incident which he thinks worthy of recounting. Mr. Will Whitman, the great comedian and end man, used to sing a parody on a well-known ballad, and at the conclusion a dog used to go on and push him off. One night his wife was standing in the wings with the dog when a lady artist went on to sing the self-same parodied ballad, but immediately she began the dog rushed on the stage and commenced to push her off. The laughter that followed may be imagined.

About eight years ago Mr. Callaghan returned to old England, and opened at the Empire, Bristol, under Mr. Adney Payne's management. Since then he has done six Moss and Thornton's tours, and begins the tour again after Christmas. He has been to Johannesburg three times with Mr. Sydney Hyman, from whom he received a flattering testimonial.

Mr. Callaghan was one of the principal judges when the late Dan Leno won the clog-dancing championship of the world; also one of the judges, with Dan Leno and Eugene Stratton, when Minnie Ray and Bella Perman danced for the ladies' championship at the London Pavilion. It may be added that Joe Elvin was a great friend to Mr. Callaghan, while the latter was in Australia, and always kept him well supplied with all the latest successful London songs.

Miss Gwennie Hasto, the charming dancer, is suffering from loss of voice and laryngitis, and has been compelled to rest by doctor's orders.

"Cash" is a comprehensive term for money in this country. In China, the word "cash" signifies the amount of smallest value issued in the Celestial Empire. It is a quaint piece of money, having a square hole punched through the middle. This is to enable the people to run a string through a large number of coins and to keep them secure. They are of bronze, and the mint authorities, each time a consignment is manufactured, before destroying the die, make one coin of silver. This is balloted for, and he who gets it is a very fortunate individual, for it is supposed to be a talisman against ill-luck, even as the old-time English lucky penny was. Chung Ling Soo has in his possession a number of these coins, and, to signalise his third visit to the Empire, Hackney, his little four-year-old daughter, Bamboo Flower, will give one of these Chinese silver lucky pennies away to the first person who each day books a seat for the circle. Soo says, "If I had my way, I would give every member of the audience one, but there are not that number in existence." Competition to secure one of these unique coins should be keen amongst patrons of the Empire week.

THE EMPRESS.

All manner of sketches—farcical, operatic, and melodramatic—are contained in Mr. Nelson Francis's bill this week at the Empress, where large audiences are being nightly entertained. In the first category must be placed a new comedietta in one scene by Eric Albury, produced on Monday, entitled

"JUST IN TIME."

Cecil Fairfax ..... Mr. Eric Albury
Arthur Weston ..... Mr. Herbert C. Walton
Mrs. Chamberlet ..... Miss Naomi Hope-Scarth
Susan ..... Miss Alice Howard
Policeman XY 4 ..... Mr. Chas. Huntley

Comic incidents are numerous in the little piece, in which two impecunious young men share the comforts of a combined room, for which the rent is overdue. They fancy a "12 to 1 chance" for the day's race, but have not the wherewithal to back it, until an opportunity presents itself in the silver teapot which has come up with the breakfast. One of the young men hurries off with it to the pawnshop, leaving the other to face the revilings of the landlady, who misses her property and sends for the police. Fortunately, at this moment, the friend, who with marvellous celerity has pawned the teapot, backed the "cert.," drawn the winnings, and redeemed the utensil, returns just in time to place the article unobserved on the table, and save his companion from disaster. Mr. Eric Albury as a young man in pyjamas and an eyeglass keeps the merriment well alive throughout, and Mr. Herbert C. Walton gives a droll rendering of the brother in distress. Funny conceptions are provided by Miss Naomi Hope-Scarth, who makes a good deal out of her part as the landlady, and by Mr. Charles Huntley, who is a jovial policeman, a "slavey" being typically portrayed by Miss Alice Howard.

An operatic turn is given to the entertainment by Messrs. Lempriere Pringle and J. C. Piddock's company, in the musical episode, The Romany King, written by E. C. Matthews, and composed by Clement Locknane. The scene is a gipsy encampment, and the harmony is begun by Mr. Morgan Williams, who, as Reuben, a Romany "kinchin," displays a pleasing tenor in a joyous ballad. Mr. Pringle himself has the part of the Gipsy King, and asserts his right to the title in an inspiriting number, which fully displays his rich baritone. The King is about to wed Cynthia, one of the tribe, but there is a Castilian Count who tries to lure her from him. The result is a duel with daggers, in which the Count is disarmed and at the mercy of his opponent, who, however, lets him off, and the interesting excerpt ends with a quartet, in which tuneful aid is given by Miss Mary Powell as the charming Cynthia, and by Mr. Piddock as the baleful Count.

The element of the dramatic is furnished by Mr. Fred Maxwell and company in the powerful sketch, Dick Dare, M.P., which has already served the popular actor so successfully. Mr. Maxwell's impersonation of the chivalrous M.P. is a thrilling one, and his vigorous acting and spirited delivery make an irresistible appeal to the house, from which constant cheers are elicited. The dual part of the twin sisters is undertaken with sweetness and grace by Miss Louise Biddulph, who imparts not a little dramatic strength into the impersonations. Mr. Charles Levey creates a marked impression as the scheming Rafael Valois; and Mr. Sam Harcourt as Lord Savage and Mr. Wm. Clare as Sir Edward Vernon supply the comedy relief. The playlet is elaborately mounted and proves enthralling to a degree.

Prominent in popularity is Mr. Alec Hurley, who at Brixton is seen in two new impersonations, in which his versatile talents are vividly reflected. A well-written song, with the refrain, "Come along, my little 'Liza," presents the coster in the attitude of a lover bidding his "donah" elope. The song has a fascinating lilt, and, sung in Mr. Hurley's skilfully-modulated tones, quite entrances the house by its tunefulness as well as its fantastic fun. Humour is also contained in greater proportion in Mr. Hurley's impersonation of an individual who "ain't no one in particular," and obstinately refuses to divulge his identity. The song is so well sung and acted that the audience is kept on the qui vive of amused expectation up to the very last word, and the favourite comedian can only escape after many curtain-calls. Valazzi does wonders in the juggling line, in which a heavy cannon-ball figures; but the missile is put to still more startling uses when he performs what is described as "sloping the slope," by walking the metal spheroid up and down a steeply-inclined board, a feat which gains ringing plaudits.

A novel musical act is supplied by Diamond and Beatrice, the first-named playing a harp, which he carries bodily, at the same time doing a step dance, the lady afterwards playing skilfully on the clarionet. Miss Margaret Ismay and her White Coons sing songs and give clever dances, of which the Indian scena, Kickapoo, is an agreeable feature; the Gotham Quartet revive the best features of their entertainment, in which melody and mirth are so agreeably mingled; Effie Stuart, a juvenile Scotch comedienne, does a pretty skipping-rope dance; and others who contribute to the programme are the Llewelyns, in operatic duets; the Mayvilles, the Liliputian novelty artists; Jean Rae, eccentric; the Pitrescu Brothers, in a musical act; Mr. Jack Dawe, comedian; and Ruffell's up-to-date pictures.

THE GRANVILLE.

At the Granville this week Mr. Tom Costello is the bright particular star, and he contributes a turn replete with artistic and entertaining items. His new patriotic song concerning the proposed reduction in the Navy and the still, small voice of Nelson's spirit whispering words of warning to John Bull against leaving unguarded our sea-girt isle, will appeal to all lovers of their country. It has a catchy and tuneful refrain, in which audiences speedily take part. In his most popular scena, The Poor Old Clown, he especially scores with a fine character-part, and quite pathetic is the scene where he practises his old tricks on a real "Bobbie" in the street. His new burlesque, The Suffagettes, is in lighter vein, and his accessories in the shape of Snuffy Amy and Tow-haired Sarah ably assist in the fun-making.

Mr. R. A. Beaton and company present a capital farcical sketch, by Roy Redgrave, entitled

"POOR PHIL GARLIC."

Major Garlic ..... Mr. R. A. Beaton
Lieut. Phil Garlic ... } Mr. Edwin Fergusson
Lieut. Jack Chanter } Mr. Edwin Fergusson
Ben Buggins ..... Mr. Albert Spencer
Boots ..... Mr. Ernest Cole
Nance Garlic ..... Miss Bessie Beaton
Sarah Chanter ..... Miss Gertrude Rosalind

Lieut. Phil Garlic is supposed to have been slain in the Boer War, but was really only wounded. His wife and child, of whose existence his father was unaware, come and plant themselves on Major Garlic, his father. Lieut. Jack Chanter, who has conceived the idea of passing himself off as Phil, and to that end has changed clothes and papers with him, also arrives with Ben Buggins, his wife's brother, to acquaint Major Garlic of his escape from death. Shortly after Sarah arrives on the scene with her child, and is followed by the real Phil Garlic. Here is an imbroglio which, being cleverly and comically worked out, it can be left to the imagination of the reader to conceive the laughter it provokes. Specially good are Mr. R. A. Beaton as the distraught Major and Miss Gertrude Rosalind as Sarah, Jack Chanter's hysterical wife.

Gillin, the unique ventriloquial humorist, supplies a very good turn, and the way in which his figure shows its teeth and grins after scoring off him is alone worth seeing. His patter is clever and original, and never vulgar. Charles Dare's Minstrels take one back to the palmy days of Moore and Burgess's Ethiopians, from whom his troupe is recruited, their methods being identical with those of the celebrated occupants of the platform at the late St. James's Hall. Their songs—comic and serious—and the jokes which are interlarded find great favour, being clever and well delivered. Little Agnes Tina is a marvel as a child mimic, and her imitation of Marie Lloyd is quite equal to that of many a renowned adult. Lottie Lennox is a great favourite down Walham Green way, and her ditties about the inconsolable "grass-widow" who had to take her old man's trousers out of pawn to remind her of her sailor-husband, and, again, in the reverse of the medal—the sailor absentee who wrote home for news of the old homestead—she is immensely popular. Lee and Kingston cause much fun by their latest successful impersonation of the difficult courtship and the humours of its exposition; Alice Maydue causes considerable laughter by her skit on the methods of melodrama; the Three Cape Girls prove their great agility as dancers; Harry Maynard is heard to advantage both as an advocate of man's rights and in a more serious and sentimental ballad of the rich and the poor man; Vernon's Bioscope with new pictures—"A river trip in France," "The Yawner," and "Puck teasing a suburbanite"—is, as usual, well to the fore; Hughes and Elliott (singers and dancers), Cissie Hare in "Only a waif," the Mayvilles (lilliputian artists), Arthur Croxon in his one-man village concert, and Alice B. Raymond and John Kurkamp in their musical speciality act complete the programme.

THE PALACE, STOKE NEWINGTON.

The principal item in the programme at the Palace, Stoke Newington, this week is the engagement of Dr. Walford Bodie, who is giving his amazing electrical exhibition, and drawing crowded houses nightly to witness it. Dr. Bodie has acquired an enviable reputation in London, and his performance has lost none of its power to attract large audiences. The engagement is ample evidence of Mr. Albert Gilmer's desire to place the best that is obtainable before his patrons, and Dr. Bodie's experiments in the treatment of paralysis have evoked the customary display of enthusiasm. The variety portion of the programme is marked by excellent contrast. A most amusing sketch, entitled Binks' Blunder, is provided by Mr. Harry Russell and company, and is played to shrieks of laughter from start to finish. There is not a dull moment in it, the plot taking some fresh turn when least expected, and maintaining the interest to the end. Played, too, for all it is worth by the lady and gentlemen who appear in it, its popularity is no matter for surprise. The Sisters Love contribute a taking duet with an ear-haunting melody, "I want no other little boy but you," and the dance with which they conclude evokes much enthusiasm. The child stories of Mr. Sam Spira cause much amusement. Mr. Spira handles the piano so skilfully that he leaves his audience craving for a longer exhibition of his talent in this direction. The trick bicycle riding of Lincoln and Warren is neatly and cleverly executed, and that their performance is entirely to the liking of those witnessing it is proved by their enthusiastic reception. The smart patter and energetic dancing of the Sages add not a little to the enjoyment of the performance, and theirs is among the brightest and most attractive of many bright and attractive items. Miss Blanch Juliet, Mr. Julian Ross, Enid and Ediss all do good work, and the Palace Pictures retain the popularity they have enjoyed since the opening of the hall. More than a word of praise is due to the orchestra, which is under the experienced direction of Mr. Norfolk Megone, while the comfort of those in front is looked after by Mr. T. J. Robinson with all his customary care and consideration.

GRAND, CLAPHAM.

The Russian Lion is rampant this week at Clapham Junction, the residents of which thriving suburb have flocked to witness the prowess of Hackenschmidt in his "catch-as-catch-can" contests. At each performance a challenge is issued from the stage, the terms of which provide that £10 will be paid to any British wrestler whom Hackenschmidt fails to throw in ten minutes, and £25 to any opponent similarly qualified whom he is unable to overcome in fifteen minutes, while £100 lies in wait for any British athlete who can vanquish the Russian in fifty minutes. A local champion essayed to gain the first-named award on the evening of our visit, but he held out for less than half the time. A bout with a gentleman not inappropriately named John Strong proved more protracted, but the contest was finished in five minutes. Hackenschmidt seems just now to be in the best of trim, and his lithe and active movements are watched with breathless interest, his manner of "getting to grips" being especially admired.

A big line on the bill is devoted to Cora Williams and company, who present a musical mélange, entitled Willie off the Yacht. The individual alluded to in the title is a blithe young man, who leaves his yacht to enjoy the society of two charming young ladies. For their pleasure, as well as that of the audience, he sings a number of songs, the most effective being "For ever in my dreams," in which his fine baritone is exercised with inspiriting effect. Nor are the ladies backward in vocal accomplishments, one of them appearing as a "lady from the moon" and singing a descriptive song agreeable to the theme. The other young lady, besides joining in the choruses, is responsible for a hornpipe, an impersonation of a Gibson Girl, and for many droll expressions of indignation when she learns that Willie's choice is in favour of her companion. The trifle is very well played, and gets a thoroughly gratifying reception. A comedy sketch is also supplied by Paul Kaye and company in The Knight of the Garter, which tells of the infatuation of a foppish youth for an actress who loses an article of attire, and in which a travesty of a "Johnnie" stands out prominently.

The banjo is manipulated in novel fashion by Mr. Ben Jackson, who, after a number of choice morceaux, shows how it is possible to play the instrument with one hand and do some clever card-palming with the other. His strumming of the banjo in all sorts of positions, selected more for their inconvenience than as an aid to melodious expression, forms an amusing feature of Mr. Jackson's entertainment which is greatly enjoyed. Lecarsha exhibits considerable deftness in conjuring with cards, doing the trick of reducing the size of a pack very neatly. An illusion with a tea-caddy is also skilfully done, and the performer gets on excellent terms with his audience. Miss Ida Brophy is a petite comedienne with a prepossessing manner, a good voice, and a decided talent for dancing, Her singing of a song with the refrain "I wish I were you" appeals tunefully to the ear, and her dancing possesses the elements of novelty as well as of neatness. Miss Brophy makes a decided hit, and the audience were enthusiastic in their demands for an encore. Another comedienne with terpsichorean abilities is found in Miss Agnes Hanson, who supplements her song of the love-story of "Harry and Carrie" with a dance in which some remarkable high-kicking is done. Mr. George Lill, a comedian of eccentric methods, gets a hearty laugh for every verse of "I couldn't resist the temptation"; and similar results are accorded his parody of the familiar nursery rhyme, "Sing a song of sixpence," which deals with a variety of subjects. The Pasquali Brothers, equilibrists, are also contained in the diversified programme, of which the Bioscope is a greatly-interesting feature. Mr. H. Keteman is still in command of the Grand Hall, and his efforts to secure the comfort of the patrons remain unrelaxed.

THE fair at Lynn Mart this year presents many new and attractive features, and Mr. W. H. Wright Market Inspector, is to be congratulated on the admirable arrangements of the ground.

THE great novelty of this year's fair is the magnificent new motor-car machine—the very latest thing in motors—turned out by Messrs. Savage Bros., Ltd, the well-known roundabout makers of Lynn.

THIS machine presents a whirling maze of light and colour, with an interior roof (revolving), and lit up with powerful electric lamps. The motor-track is built larger than usual, and the entrance-ways more commodious. The music is supplied by one of Marenghie et Cie's latest masterpieces, and the decorations and artistic fittings are of the most rich and chaste character. Messrs. Relph and Pedley are the proprietors, and we anticipate that the latest new thing in motor-car machines with the Relph and Pedley enterprise behind it will have a big season of success.

THERE are two other sets of motor-cars at Lynn, each perfect of its kind. We refer to the high-class machines of G. T. Tuby and Sons and Ben Howden and Son (G. Asplands). G. T. Tuby and Sons also exhibit a capital composite set of horses and cockerels. Other special features of the fair are two gliding towers, P. Collins's helter-skelter, and J. Holdsworth's Alpine glissade. There are juvenile motors by Holmes and park swings by W. Thompson and W. Cheeseman.

THE main positions on the fair-ground are occupied by three cinematograph theatres—E. Farrar's, J. Proctor's, and Messrs. Tuby and Sons' well-known concerns. Each of these splendid shows exhibited special ranges of up-to-date films, and were patronised in turn by delighted audiences.

BRAHAM'S trained birds and the charming lady conjuror, Miss Braham, in her pleasing interlude of magic and mystery, gave their usual performances to appreciative crowds; and Laing's picture gallery did good business. The shooting-ranges and bottle-batteries, always a big feature of this fair, were supplied by Messrs. H. Westrop (2), W. Westrop, F. Cooper (2), G. Holmes, W. Forster, H. Parkins, Wm. Cheeseman, J. Holmes (2), and Sherratt; football-net frames by C. Summers, and coker-sheets and varieties by Holmes, and other caterers; bazaars by Bond, Whyatt, Cooper, Cheeseman, and local traders; pannum stalls by Messrs. Thompson and Suett. There were about seventy stalls of various traders—confectioners, jewellers, novelty and toy dealers, handsellers, and market traders.

IT was especially interesting to see the great Market Square and the many streets leading to it crowded with thousands of visitors all on pleasure bent. The first four or five days of the fair have been blessed with fine, though cold, seasonable weather, the railway companies, with their usual enterprise, ran many extra trains and cheap excursions, and the quiet town of Lynn was all alive with the eager, show-loving people from the countryside

THE first day of the fair witnessed the quaint local ceremony known as "Proclaiming the Mart." Owing to the unavoidable absence of the Mayor, the ex-Mayor (Alderman Dunn) declared the Mart open. The weather was very fine, and a large crowd of people attended the formal opening ceremony. As in past years a platform was erected opposite the Bank Chambers, in front of two sets of switchbacks, on which a large proportion of those present assembled. The Deputy-Mayor, who was attended by the sword and mace bearers, was supported on the platform by Messrs. S. S. Burlingham, C. H. Ayre, R. Green, W. R. Smith, F. J. Carpenter, G. Gemmell, L. Skinner, R. Taylor, C. W. Croad, F. J. Miles, W. O. Jones, H. M. Wilkin, E. J. Rolfe, J. W. Woolstencroft (town clerk), J. H. Webb (surveyor), C. T. Ives (magistrates' clerk), J. W. Shaw, W. G. Payne (chief constable), G. H. Anderson (borough accountant), H. Barrett, and J. Atkinson. Amongst the showmen present were Messrs. Tuby, Howden, Proctor, Pedley, Farrar, Geo. A. Howden, Holdsworth, Braham, Westrop, and Holmes.

THE Deputy-Mayor said:—"Fellow townsmen and strangers from afar. We have met together to-day to celebrate once more the very ancient institution of opening the King's Lynn Mart. Before I call upon the official to read that learned document, the proclamation, which is very ancient, let me say that we wish that those who have come from a long distance may enjoy good health, and I hope," he added, with characteristic humour, "that they have not brought the spotted fever with them. We wish them all very fine weather, we wish them all very good trade, and when they leave us we hope they will think no worse of us than they do to-day." The Town Crier then read the proclamation, after which the Deputy-Mayor said: "Just one word from the Mayor. He is unable to be present to-day, but he would like the visitors to know that there is ample accommodation for the children in the schools. He, being an earnest and religious man, would also like them to know that there is every provision made for them to worship on the Lord's Day. The Mayor's best wishes to you all."

THE Rev. T. Horne, Guild Chaplain (in fulfilment of a promise given to the vicar of Lynn last year) conducted Divine service on the Fair Sunday. Though primarily intended for show-people, the service was attended by a considerable number of friends. The choirs of St. Margaret's Church and St. Nicholas' Church, with the local clergy, walked in procession from their respective parishes and united forces on the show-front, making a most impressive sight. The service was held in Proctor's cinematograph show, kindly lent for the occasion. The showmen and their families attended in most gratifying numbers. The Guild service (sung throughout by the united choirs) was heartily taken up by the congregation. The Vicar of Lynn, assisted by the parish clergy, took the service, and the Rev. T. Horne (chaplain) preached. The showmen's service in a show booth has been the universal theme of conversation in Lynn during the week.

IT is, we understand, the intention of the chaplain to give similar services on the principal fair-grounds of the United Kingdom during the coming season.

PRESIDENT KEMP'S cinematograph exhibition, with its splendid organ, is present on the Darwen Market Ground.

A PUBLICATION which has just been issued by the Great Northern Railway Company should prove extremely useful to fanciers, agriculturists, horse and cattle dealers, and sportsmen. It takes the form of a handy booklet, and gives particulars of the principal dog and poultry shows, cattle and horse fairs, agricultural shows and racing fixtures to be held during 1907, in addition to a large amount of information as to rates, fares, &c. Copies of the book may be obtained gratis on application to any Great Northern station or office, or from the Chief Passenger Agent, King's Cross Station, London.

THE ORIGINAL TOM THUMB.

The numerous and confusing paragraphs concerning the interesting dwarf Garnsey, of Wellington, whose death we recorded last week, of necessity revived in the minds of old showmen many memories of the original and most famous of all dwarfs, "General Tom Thumb." We suppose that the confusion in the minds of the busy paragraphists arose from the somewhat misleading title "Field-Marshal Tom Thumb," assumed by Mr. Garnsey when he was before the public as a prodigy of nature.

P. T. Barnum, in "the story of his life," written by himself, says "that in November, 1842, I was at Bridgport, Connecticut, where I heard of a remarkably small child, and at my request my brother, Philo F. Barnum, brought him to the hotel. He was not two feet high; he weighed less than sixteen pounds, and was the smallest child I ever saw that could walk alone. He was a perfectly-formed bright-eyed little fellow, with light hair and ruddy cheeks, and he enjoyed the best of health. He was exceedingly bashful, but after some coaxing he was induced to talk with me, and he told me that he was the son of Sherwood E. Stratton, and that his own name was Charles S. Stratton. After seeing him and talking with him, I at once determined to secure his services from his parents and exhibit him in public. I engaged him for four weeks at three dollars a week with all travelling and boarding charges for himself and his mother at my expense. They came to New York on Thanksgiving Day, Dec. 8, 1842, and I announced the dwarf on my museum-bill as 'General Tom Thumb.'"

That was the introduction to the world of this famous midget, and the story of his after-success in America and through Europe is set out in several interesting chapters in the story of Barnum's life and enterprise.

The success of the little General in Liverpool and afterwards in London was instantaneous and complete, but it must never be forgotten that the success was as much due to the daring and original showman, Barnum, as to the talent and charm of the little man. Barnum's biggest hit in London during his successful season with the General at the Egyptian Hall was when he was able to close the door of the hall, and exhibit the announcement, "Closed this evening, General Tom Thumb being at Buckingham Palace by command of Her Majesty."

One of the best stories of the ability of the little General was concerned with this visit to Royalty. Barnum thus details it—"Surprise and pleasure were depicted on the countenances of the Royal circle at beholding this remarkable specimen of humanity so much smaller than they had evidently expected to find him. The General advanced with a firm step; as he came within hailing distance he made a very graceful bow, and exclaimed 'Good evening, ladies and gentlemen.' A burst of laughter followed this salutation. The Queen then took him by the hand, led him about the gallery, and asked him many questions, the answers to which kept the party in an uninterrupted strain of merriment. The General familiarly informed the Queen that her picture-gallery was first-rate, and told her that he should like to see the Prince of Wales. The Queen replied that the Prince had retired to rest, but that he should see him on some future occasion. The General then gave his songs, dances, and imitations, and after a conversation with Prince Albert and all present, which continued for more than an hour, we were permitted to depart."

The funniest incident of this visit was occasioned by the little General's reading of the instructions given him by the Lord-in-Waiting as to "backing" out of the Royal presence. Barnum, who had been duly instructed as to the etiquette of leaving the Royal presence, exhibited the greatest aptitude in the somewhat awkward movement. The little General, however, not wishing to be outdone by Barnum, when he was losing ground turned immediately and ran a few steps until he was level with Barnum, and then with all solemnity and ceremony resumed the process of "backing" out, and so continued to alternate his methods of reaching the door of the gallery, and so making his exit from the Royal presence. These tactics of retreat provoked the greatest possible merriment from the Royal spectators.

Upon another visit to Buckingham Palace, Queen Victoria kept her promise, and introduced him to the Prince of Wales. "General," said the Queen, "this is the Prince of Wales." "How are you, Prince?" said the General; and then, standing by the Prince, he added, "The Prince is taller than I am, but I feel as big as anybody," upon which observation he strutted up and down the room as proud as a peacock amidst shouts of laughter from all present.

A most interesting chapter in Barnum's book is concerned with the courtship of General Tom Thumb and Lavinia Warren, the charming little woman who became Mrs. Tom Thumb. It appears that when Miss Warren was on exhibition at Barnum's museum, the General was taking a "vacation" at his country house, and, like most other professionals, whenever he visited New York he must call upon Barnum at the museum, and there it was he met his fate—the charming Miss Warren. Speaking to Mr. Barnum, he said, "She is the most charming little lady I ever saw, and I believe she was created on purpose to be my wife. Now," he continued, "you have always been a friend of mine, and I want you to say a good word for me. I have got plenty of money, and I want to marry and settle down in life, and I really feel as if I must marry that young lady." Barnum could not repress his little joke, and said "Lavinia is engaged already." "To whom, Commodore Nutt?" "No, General, to me," Barnum replied. "Never mind," said Tom Thumb, laughing, "you can exhibit her for a while, and then give up the engagement; but I do hope you will favour my suit with her." Realising the little man's earnestness, Barnum, who had always stood his friend, said, "I will not oppose you in your suit, but you must do your own courting. I tell you, however, that the Commodore will be jealous of you; and, more than that, Miss Warren is nobody's fool, and that you will have to proceed very cautiously if you can succeed in winning her affections."

How cautiously and well Tom Thumb did proceed is shown in the fact that he won Miss Warren for his wife, although he had a most formidable rival in Commodore Nutt, then on exhibition with the charming Lavinia at Barnum's museum.

And to finish this eventful story—the little man sought Mr. Barnum's help to break the news gently to the defeated Commodore. "Mr. Barnum," he said, "I want somebody to tell the Commodore that Lavinia and I are engaged, for I am afraid there will be a row when he hears of it." "Do it yourself, General," Barnum replied. "Oh," said the General, with a shudder, "I would not dare to do it, he might knock me down." Then it was that the intrepid Lavinia came to the rescue and said "I will do it." The bold Commodore got over his defeat, and officiated at the marriage as the General's best-man.

SHOWMEN'S MEETING AT KING'S LYNN.

The annual meeting of the United Kingdom Showmen and Van-dwellers' Protection Association (the Showmen's Guild) took place in the Assembly Room, the Town Hall, Lynn, on Wednesday, Feb. 20. The Mayor (Councillor Rose) presided, and was supported by the Vicar of Lynn, the Rev. Gordon Roe, Aldermen Miles and Dunn, Councillor Skinner, Mr. Wm. Savage, and other local gentlemen.

The showmen present included Wm. Mitchell, John Whiting, George Kemp, Ben Mitchell, H. R. Hibbert, John Green, R. Chipperfield, J. Chipperfield, Henry Studt, Jacob Studt, S. Braham, J. Proctor, Tom Harniess, H. J. Wallis, Ben Howden, Alf. Ball, Wm. Holmes, J. George, and others. Amongst the agents and trades present were Messrs. Wm. Kemp, L.N.W.R., H. G. Bloxham, J Brown, S. Sconce, and Denby.

The Mayor, in opening the proceedings, said that, in the name of the Corporation, he welcomed the showmen to Lynn. He had a vivid memory of Lynn Mart nearly half a century ago. The contrast between things as they were then and as they exist to-day was indeed great. He well remembered the ancient idea of roundabouts—the hobby-horses. He had as a child helped to push the platform round that contained the weird, carved images supposed to be horses and to drive round the more fortunate children who had pennies to purchase a ride; or, when more fortunate than his schoolmates, he himself bestrode a hobby and was driven round by his companions of those days. These were pleasant memories, and they made him very tender towards and tolerant of the Mart as an old institution of Lynn. Compare the small beginnings of his early years with the grand roundabout machines on the Mart to-day and the improvement was tremendous. He further instanced the vast progress in the shows. When he was a boy a famous show—that Lynn people thought marvellous—was Clapton's Mechanical Exhibition. So great had been the advance in shows that a show like Clapton's would have little chance alongside the magnificent concerns that came to the Mart in these days. (Applause.) He had read, with great pleasure, the Rev. T. Horne's interesting article, "British Shows and Showmen." He found in that article full justification for the aims and work of the Showmen's Guild, and he wished the Society all possible success. Showmen might rest assured that all the Corporation of Lynn could do would be done to further their work of supplying good and wholesome amusement for the people. (Cheers.)

Mr. T. Watson Wright, Guild solicitor, then delivered a trenchant address on the legal and Parliamentary work of the Guild. When, in the year 1889, they began their trade-protection work they only knew of one or two dangers at the most threatening them and their business. They would never forget the war of calumny and of prejudice they had to meet and fight nearly twenty years ago, centred in and waged around the Movable Dwellings Bill of the late George Smith. That Bill was not allowed to become law. Public opinion, aroused by the work of their Society, would not tolerate the proposed invasion of the civil liberties of showmen, whose business was as right and as lawful as any other class of traders in the Empire. (Applause.) After defeating the iniquitous Movable Dwellings Bill, they were compelled to improve their organisation and to oppose restrictive bye-laws, and then further to extend their work by Parliamentary opposition to Private Bills containing additional power clauses against them and their business. He referred at length to the sixty Private Bills that the Executive Committee had opposed and successfully dealt with during their six or seven years of Parliamentary work. He instanced the great concession won for showmen from the important County Council of Middlesex, and he showed how far-reaching and how beneficial such a victory would be. Coming down to the present year, he pointed out that only two Bills were before the Houses of Parliament that in any way touched their interests—Bills promoted by the local authorities at Rawtenstall (Lancashire) and Penrith. The committee had opened negotiations with both these Corporations. Penrith had met them in a fair and reasonable spirit, and they had come to a friendly understanding with Penrith. (Applause.) With regard to Rawtenstall, they had failed to secure just rights by friendly negotiations, and they were now opposing that Corporation by petition against their Bill. He was fully convinced that only by the continued and strenuous work of their Society could showmen be secured in their business in life and the large capital sunk in it protected. (Great applause.)

At this point the Mayor, owing to a prior engagement, had to leave the meeting, and his place in the chair was kindly taken by Alderman Miles.

Before calling upon the next speaker, Alderman Miles said that he wished to endorse all the kindly words of welcome used by the Mayor, and to add to that his own appreciation of the way in which the showmen carried on their enterprises at the Mart. Like the Mayor, he was a man of Lynn—in fact, he was a product of the Mart, having been born on the Fair day—a "Valentine." All his life he had felt a warm interest in the shows and other entertainments of the Mart, and he had, during the two terms of his office as Mayor of Lynn, attended their meetings when they were held in the Corn Exchange. He would ask the Rev. T. Horne, Chaplain, to address the meeting. (Applause.)

The Hon. Chaplain said that he would not travel over the ground so well and so fully covered by the Guild solicitor and his colleague (Mr. Watson Wright). He would rather, for the purpose he had before him, confine his remarks to the public part of their necessary and important work. Less than ten years ago it was thought a remarkable thing for a parson to identify his life and his work with travelling show-folk. It has ceased to be extraordinary when we have twenty or thirty clergy in all parts of the country acting as hon. chaplains to the Guild and scores more interested in travelling show-people. Only last Sunday the clergy of the parish of Lynn had taken part with him in a showmen's service in a show-booth on the Mart. So quickly had public interest and public knowledge of them and their work grown. He ventured to maintain that the service in a show on the fair-ground was as devout, as reverent, and as helpful a service as could possibly be. Not only was this so as regards show-people, but it was also true of their Christian friends who came and joined in their fellowship of worship. (Applause.) Twelve or more years ago Lynn stood alone in its civic welcome of the travelling showman. Lynn was the only borough that, by its Mayor and Corporation, recognised the work and life of the people's amusement caterers. He assured the chairman that the good lead of King's Lynn had been followed by other important Corporations. Towns like Gloucester, Hull, and Rotherham had, like Lynn, welcomed the showmen, and their chief magistrates and civic dignitaries had testified in public meeting assembled their readiness to co-operate with the showmen to increase and to improve the open-air pleasures of the people. These things were no slight achievements to have secured in their past years of anxious and arduous struggle. Showmen were now recognised as having a right and proper place in the economy of the State. The hard strain and stress of modern industrial life required the relief and the absolute change and necessary recreation so admirably afforded by our national holidays, our fairs, feasts, and wakes. (Applause.) It was now admitted by all true students of human life that cessation from toil—good and necessary as it is—is not enough. There must be amusement as well as rest. The powers of mind, neglected by the pressure upon and overwork of other faculties, needed to be exercised and drawn out. Unless our people are to be allowed to sink, or are driven into, the state of mind that borders dangerously on the insane, there must be times of rest and times of sensible play. Shows and showmen at all periods in our national life have provided such rational and necessary amusement. The showman of to-day is not only up-to-date, but, in many instances, a bit before his time. He sometimes introduces a novelty that fails to touch public imagination until the showman actually educates his patrons up to the show. (Cheers.) He mentioned, with pride, that here in Lynn it was like carrying coals to Newcastle to testify to the civic patronage and encouragement of the show and the showman. How far they had progressed was seen in the fact that great public bodies like the London County Council had expressed their desire to co-operate with the showmen to make the holiday fairs of the people in and around London all the better and brighter for the multitudes using the great open spaces under the Council's control at holiday times. This better spirit was being manifested all over the country, and it augured well for the continued well-being of their Society and its work. (Great applause.)

The Rev. Gordon Roe, Vicar of St. Margaret's, Lynn, said how glad he was to welcome the show-people once more to his parish, to gather their children into the parish schools, and in every way to minister to their necessity in the things of God. He had no fear for the success of the Guild so long as it had two such splendid champions as the solicitor and the chaplain. (Applause.) He had listened with peculiar pleasure to the two excellent addresses—the strong, fighting speech of the legal champion and the lucid and interesting speech of their chaplain. Both were admirable, and both had the power of putting the case for the showman before the general public in a way that carried conviction. Mr. Horne had referred to the service on the Mart on the previous Sunday. That service, attended as it was by a great number of show proprietors and their wives and families, had greatly gratified both himself and his people. Not only Mr. Horne's address in the show-booth in the afternoon, but his sermon in the Parish Church in the morning had much impressed them. He would be glad to welcome their chaplain another year. (Cheers.) He desired to thank Mr. John Proctor, proprietor of the show in which their Sunday service had been so well held. He concluded by wishing them every success and blessing in their work and life.

Letters of apology were read from Mr. John Wilmot, vice-president, Glasgow, prevented by illness, who sent his annual subscription of £5; and from Mr. Fred Bibby, of Manchester. It was also announced that the showmen on the Mart would give their annual benefit night to the Lynn charities.

On the motion of the Rev. T. Horne, votes of thanks were accorded to the Mayor, Alderman Miles, and the Vicar, and the meeting terminated.

LYNN MART.

The people of the Royal Borough of King's Lynn are justly proud of their annual fair, locally known as Lynn Mart. The Mart, or fair, can be traced back without any break to the days of King John, and it is one of the historic glories of this interesting Anglian town that the Mart has continued with undimmed glory through all the changes that have marked the chequered record of the ancient town. The proclamation of the Mart is quite a special feature of the fair, the Mayor, accompanied by the Town Clerk and other officials of the Corporation, and with them a goodly number of the Aldermen and Borough Councillors, formally opens the fair. In addition to the corporate body, King's Lynn boasts a number of special state functionaries; there are no less than four mace-bearers and the sword-bearer (an important functionary, for the sword in question was presented by King John to the town of Lynn after the signing of Magna Charta).

Surrounded by the members of the Corporation and the officials, the Mayor takes his place on the very spot formerly marked by the Market Cross, and addresses a few words of welcome to the showmen, and makes reference to the holding of the Mart to the whole body of listening townsmen. The Mayor then calls upon the Town Crier to read the ancient Charter—the very bond and seal of the corporate liberties of the people of Lynn.

The wording of this ancient document is as follows:—

"Oyez—oyez—oyez! Whereas, by Royal Charter and Prescription, the Corporation of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Borough of King's Lynn, and their successors, are empowered to have and hold in perpetuity within the said Borough one Mart or Fair yearly, on the 14th day of February, and for six days thenceforth next and immediately following, with all the accustomed liberties and privileges thereto belonging and appertaining: Now the said Borough Corporate, acting by the Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Councilmen of the said Borough, do hereby by Proclamation of their Common Crier, publish and make known that the said Mart or Fair, to be holden this year, doth begin on the present 14th day of February at 12 o'clock noon, and shall continue for the space of six days, from henceforth next following, with all the ancient and accustomed liberties and privileges so far as the same will now apply. And that all persons do forbear to show forth wares on the Lord's Day. And, further, that all such persons as may be justly suspected of evil behaviour do avoid this Borough and the Liberties thereof.—God Save the King! Oyez—oyez—oyez!"

Probably no fair in the United Kingdom better illustrates the remarkable transition from the ancient to the modern conception of what a pleasure-fair may be. With the exception of Oxford Fair, we know no place in the United Kingdom where the conditions are so markedly favourable to the natural growth of the show business. Of course Oxford holds its fair at a time of the year when the climatic conditions are completely in favour of the open-air pleasures of the people. September is an ideal month for the people's pleasure fair, and it is a great contrast to see the people in the midst of the severe cold and most changeable weather of February bravely endeavouring to get all the fun and merriment out of their fair at Lynn.

We have made a pilgrimage to Lynn Mart for many years in succession, and the remarkable thing to our mind has been the unconquerable optimism and undaunted perseverance of the showmen in particular and the people of Lynn in general in persevering with a fair that as often as not is held in snowstorms or the severe cold of mid-February.

Lynn is the Mecca of travelling showmen; whether they have business at the fair or not, showmen from all quarters journey to Lynn Mart. The principal shows and riding-machines beginning their round at this fair include those that keep in this part of the country, following a succession of fairs right away up to Easter.

Lynn is celebrated for its roundabouts machine works, the celebrated firm of mechanical engineers established many years ago by John Savage, and now carried on as Savage Bros., Ltd., doing the biggest trade in the making and repairing of roundabouts in the world. Many of the best machines on the road are sent to Lynn at the end of the show business season to be thoroughly overhauled, repainted, and prepared for the next year's season. If there are novelties in the roundabout world they are generally seen for the first time at Lynn Mart, so it often happens that the keen showman combines business with pleasure when he makes his visit to Lynn Mart.

Another interesting feature of Lynn Mart is the annual meeting for that part of the country of the Showmen's Guild, fully reported in another column.

THE SHOWMEN'S GUILD.

President, Lord George Sanger.

Hon. Chaplain, the Rev. T. Horne.
Hon. Treasurers: W. M. Mitchell, Esq., Manchester Centre; F. H. Pedgrift, Esq., London Centre.
Hon. Secretary, T. Hurst, Esq.
Office of the Guild: The Era Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, London, W.C.

Objects of the Guild.

1. To conserve the business interests of all open-air amusement caterers and entertainers, whether menaced by faddist legislation or by public bodies.

2. To vindicate the character and the avocation in life of the showman whenever unjustly maligned or attacked.

3. To defend the fairs and holidays of the people whenever and wherever threatened, and to encourage all legitimate efforts for uplifting and betterment of the entertainments of the people.

Further subscriptions, whether from members, traders, or friends, may be sent to either of the hon. treasurers, the hon. secretary, or to the Guild secretary, The Era Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

Three weeks ago Wallace, the fine African lion, who permits himself to be seen by visitors to Olympia, walked proudly up and down his cage with the full consciousness that he was a father of three as fine cubs as ever played with their own tails. The Mammoth Fun City closed its successful career on Saturday last, so the "naming" ceremony of the baby lions had to be hurried up. It took place in the circus arena on Friday afternoon last. Miss Edna May had promised to officiate, but at the last moment she sent the following telegram to Mr. Cochran:—"Regret frightfully Mr. Frohman has read notices of my appearing, and refuses to allow me to appear. Please know it is not my fault as was looking forward to it tremendously. Very sorry.—Edna May."—An efficient substitute was found in Hackenschmidt, the champion wrestler, who, after throwing two opponents in the approved style, clothed his pink and white flesh in the ordinary garb of civilisation, and marched back to the ring, followed by three people carrying the fluffy little balls of brown and black fur, quite sleepy and innocent-looking. For the "naming" water was used, as the baby elephants christened at Olympia by Miss Marie Studholme have developed alcoholic tendencies. Hackenschmidt poured a liberal supply of water over each furry head—the size of his hands is well known to Madrali and others—and named the first cub Mammoth, the second Fun, and the third City. They were decorated with neck ribbons of red, white, and blue, entwined with a rosegay. Mrs. Cochran stood sponsor to the little ones.

The first American Amusement Park ever built in England is to be opened on May 20 in the Royal Botanical Gardens, Manchester, which is to be converted to the purposes of an exhibition on a scale unprecedented in the thriving manufacturing town. Propositions from the best park shows for installation on a sharing basis are invited by Mr. John C. Brown, the general manager, of 64, Cross-street, Manchester, who, however, confines his invitation to concerns already established and not in need of financial assistance.

"THE ERA" NEW YEAR'S SHILLING FUND FOR THE MUSIC HALL HOME

MR. THOMAS BARRASFORD'S APPEAL.

Once more we take pleasure in opening our columns to The Era New Year's Shilling Fund on behalf of the Music Hall Home, and in doing so we take still further pleasure in being able to associate with that appeal the names of the president of the Fund, Mr. Thomas Barrasford, and Miss Vesta Victoria. Mr. Barrasford's kindly offices in connection with the Music Hall Home are well known, and the fact that he has again given permission for the use of his name in calling attention to the requirements of the home is a guarantee—if, indeed, guarantee were needed—that he is satisfied as to the way in which the institution is being conducted, and that he considers it worthy of support. It is also gratifying to be able to associate with the New Year's appeal such a prominent variety artist as Miss Vesta Victoria who, though in New York, continually expresses her interest in the work of the home.

There can be no question as to the usefulness of the Music Hall Home. Its address is 31, Wilson-road, Camberwell, S.E., and Mr. and Mrs. Fruin, the secretary and matron respectively, put forward every effort for the comfort of the inmates. At present there are eight of these, and the desire is to increase the number, which can only be done when sufficient funds for the purpose are collected. During the past year two or three of the temporary inmates have recovered their health and strength sufficiently to enable them to look for engagements. These secured, they left the Home, and the vacancies thereby created were immediately filled up. Now, this home requires keeping up, and it cannot be kept up on air. There is no need for us to refer to all the good work which has been performed by the institution in the past, as this must be within the recollection of our readers. The ages of the inmates range from fifty to seventy-six. In all probability these men will be maintained in the home until the day of their death, and their funeral expenses will be paid for out of the funds of the home. The vice-presidents and the committee are sincerely desirous of increasing its scope of usefulness. They would like to be in a position to afford shelter to many more deserving members of the variety profession, who have been stricken with poverty and illness in their declining years.

We feel we need say little more. Mr. Barrasford and Miss Victoria join in a strenuous appeal for the generosity of the profession in support of The Era Shilling Fund. When, twelve months ago, we brought before our readers the claims of this deserving charity, a very considerable sum of money was collected in separate shillings. That last year's appeal, however, and most of the money obtained by it, are, as Miss Marie Lloyd would say, "a thing of the past, old dear." We are entering upon a new year. What is the prospect? It is that of help badly needed by many of your brother and sister artists who are, in common parlance, "down on their luck," and some of whom, by reason of their age, are likely to remain in that unhappy condition.

RICHMOND THEATRE.

An attractive list of artists was billed last week. A prelude to the good things provided is an excellent selection by the capable band. Miss Jessie Burnett, a clever comedienne, sings quite prettily the lament of a coon who is anxious that his love should return to Borneo, that particular locality being apparently in high favour just now. Mr. Wal Robbins, a study in black and white, gets off witticisms anent trades generally and the contradiction of woman in particular. He evidences his ability as a musician by a really capably interpreted performance of "Queen of the Earth" on the Japanese one-stringed fiddle, and was deservedly applauded. "Will you love me in December as you do in May?" is the musical interrogative put forward by Miss Lola Vereker with pictorial suggestions by the bioscope. Miss Vereker is a refined and clever vocalist, and sings delightfully. Mr. J. H. Darnley's sketch, Ducks and Drakes, illustrates the follies and foibles of the eccentricities of Sandsea beach. The Cape Girls specialise in Terpsichore pure and simple; their dancing is wonderful in its way—in fact, their versatility is a matter for wonder. On Monday they won popular verdict "hands down" by reason of their clever performance; they had the distinction of a triple "call." Miss Ouida MacDermot confides to the audience musically the wonderful things she would do "When grown up," which include a wild ambition to play Lady Macbeth. Mr. George Newburn is a mimic of some merit; his imitations of Mark Sheridan, Fred Earle, Harry Lauder, and George Lashwood are vociferously applauded and keenly appreciated by the audience. Artists have already recognised the value of the bioscope as a pictorial ally, and Mlle. Dionde is not slow to avail herself of so powerful an adjunct. Many of her excerpts are very beautiful, but she achieves a real triumph in "The Doomed City." Vernon's Bioscope showed one of the loveliest stretches of the beautiful Meuse from Anseremme to Dinant, and, combining humour with interest, finished with the humorous film of "Two Little Scamps."

The Pathé Frères, of Charing Cross-road, have completed a new series of films illustrative of the Passion Play. The Biblical account of the Saviour's life and death is set out in four groups dealing with the birth of Christ, His early childhood, His public life, and His death and passion. The subjects are elaborately staged and beautifully coloured, and altogether furnish pictures of a most superior kind.

will Sell by Auction, at The Mart, E.C., on THURSDAY, March 7, 1907, at 2 o'clock precisely,

FREEHOLD BUILDING SITE, possessing the important frontage of 98ft. to Ilford Hill, with frontage in rear of 58ft. 7in. to Roden-street, and an average depth of over 270ft., forming a splendid site for erection of either of which is urgently required in this populous district.

Plan and particulars of Messrs. RUSSELL and SONS, Solicitors, 59, Coleman-street, E.C.; and of the AUCTIONEERS, 16, Finchley-road, N.W.
Tel., 2818 P.O., Hampstead.

LAURISTON STREET AND LADY LAWSON STREET.

For SALE,

By PUBLIC ROUP,

IN DOWELL'S ROOMS, 18, GEORGE STREET, EDINBURGH,

On Wednesday, 6th March, 1907,

At 2 p.m.,

PROPERTY, comprising:—

(1) The PREMISES, extending from LAURISTON-STREET to LADY LAWSON-STREET, formerly known as "Ross's Auction Mart," and now occupied by the Scottish Motor Traction Company, Limited; and (2) The SHOPS, Nos. 38, 40, and 42, LADY LAWSON-STREET, occupied by Mr. W. T. White, Furniture Dealer.

The Buildings are substantial, and have recently been put into a good state of repair. The Premises would be eminently suitable for a Motor Garage, Auction Mart, Extensive Storage, or other Business purposes, and the Property would also form an excellent position for a Theatre, Music Hall, Carnival, or other place of Entertainment.

The Property has a Frontage to Lauriston-street of about 91ft., and to Lady Lawson-street of about 74ft. The depth is 184ft. or thereby.

Feu-duty, 15s.

UPSET PRICE £9,000.

Apply to HENRY WAKELIN, Esq., Solicitor, 37, George-street; or to Messrs. MENZIES, BRUCE, LOW, and THOMSON, W.S., 23, York-place, who have the Titles and Articles of Roup.

NORTH RIDING OF YORKSHIRE

MIDDLESBROUGH GRAND OPERA HOUSE

FOR SALE

AS A GOING CONCERN.

This exceptionally handsome and well-arranged modern theatre (erected 1903), standing in a central position on a splendid corner site of the principal thoroughfare of Middlesbrough, the capital of the Cleveland Steel and Iron Trades, has seating accommodation for 3,500 persons, with ample means of access and exit to and from all parts of the house. There is a population of about 250,000 within radius of four miles, with an excellent tram and train service to all parts. The furnishing is luxurious, and the internal decoration is of a choice and elegant character.

There are cloak-rooms, two Foyers, four well-appointed fully licensed Saloons and Bars, twelve Dressing-rooms, &c.

The Stage and Auditorium are equipped on the most modern principles—electric light, gas, and heating apparatus throughout.

There are seven Lock-up Shops, all occupied.

WILLMAN AND DOUGLAS have received instructions to Sell by Public Auction (if not previously disposed of), at the Theatre (entrance from Southfield-road), on Tuesday, the 26th day of February, 1907, at 2.30 for 3 o'clock in the afternoon, all that FREEHOLD FULLY-LICENSED THEATRE, known as the GRAND OPERA HOUSE, MIDDLESBROUGH, together with the furnishings, fittings, stage effects, &c., as a going concern.

For particulars and conditions of sale and cards to view, apply to A. I'ANSON, Esq., C.A., Erimus-chambers, Queen's-square, Middlesbrough; the Auctioneers, at their offices, 26, Albert-rd., Middlesbrough; or Messrs. Lucas, Hutchinson, and Meek, Solicitors, Middlesbrough and Darlington.

AT A LOW RESERVE.
WITH EARLY POSSESSION.

BALHAM EMPIRE,

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not re-booked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follows :—

MANCHESTER, LIVERPOOL, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALAN W. YOUNG.
Empire Theatre, Liverpool.

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING.
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. WILLIAM COLLINS.
The Empire, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

TRADE MARK MARK

TRADE MARK

WE LEAD, OTHERS FOLLOW.

LADIES OF THE WHIP.
Code Word, CARNIVORE.

An excellent comic film, depicting the rivalry between the old-fashioned cabby and the up-to-date lady Jehu. The situations are exceedingly funny, and is a laughter-provoking film from beginning to end.

577ft. The Subject £9 12s. 3d.

A GOOD CIGAR.
Code Word, BYRRH.

A beggar follows a swell to try and get the stump of his cigar. The swell thinks he is a robber and calls the police. The beggar picks up the cigar thrown down through the confusion of the swell. Disgust of the police at not being able to make an arrest. Very amusing.

215ft. The Subject £3 11s. 8d.

TOMMY AT PLAY.
Code Word, CAHIER.

A little boy plays all kinds of practical jokes on unoffending people, and causes shouts of laughter from people in the pictures as well as the audience.

248ft. The Subject £4 2s. 8d.

INDIANS AND COWBOYS OF THE FAR WEST.
Code Word, CIREUR.

Cowboys v. Indians. The capture of horses. Exciting scenes when the Indians steal the horses. A wild chase. The cowboys are saved by the timely intelligence of one of their faithful animals. Charming pictures throughout. Specially recommended.

643ft. The Subject £10 14s. 4d.

CARNIVAL AT NICE, 1907.
Code Word, CALOMNIE.

The most perfect and realistic scenes of the gay fête which has just taken place at Nice. Really brilliant scenes.

THE PORK BUTCHER'S NIGHTMARE.
Code Word, CHEVRETTE.

The terrible dream of the Pork Butcher. The pigs come to life and conduct him to their domain, where he is prodded with spears, and put in a mincing machine

345ft. The Subject £5 15s. 4d.
Colouring extra, 9s.

TWO LITTLE SCAMPS.
Code Word, CABOULOT.

A very amusing film, showing the adventures of a little baker's boy and sweep. They ring bells, jump on to motor cars and cabs, pull off the table cloths from a restaurant table, and generally annoy everybody—finally arrested by the police. Absolutely perfect quality.

280ft. The Subject £4 13s. 4d.

A DIFFICULT ARREST.
Code Word, CHEVREAU.

Most exciting scenes of policemen chasing some thieves. All kind of adventures and ridiculous situations. Intensely funny.

396ft. The Subject £6 12s.

THE INDIARUBBER MAN.
Code Word, BRUSQUE.

The two American drolls Price and Revost in their sensational turn "The Tumbling Man." Full of interest from start to finish.

264ft. The Subject £4 8s.

CRIME ON THE RAILWAY.
Code Word, CIPAYE.

One of the most dramatic films ever shown. A guard is egged on to drink by two rogues. In this state he boards his train. The rogues sneak into his carriage while the train is in motion, attack him, steal the mail bags, and escape. The guard is reproved and dismissed the Company. In revenge he kills a signalman, gives a favourable signal to the on-coming express. An awful disaster ensues. Very exciting and dramatic.

528ft. The Subject £8 16s.

THE YAWNER.
Code Word, CABOSSER.

This is ridiculously funny. A poor man has a tendency to yawn on every occasion, and being very infectious, every one who meets him catches the complaint. Very droll.

280ft. The Subject £4 13s. 4d.

POLICEMEN'S RUN.
Code Word, CABANE.

This is quite a novelty in pictures. A powerful bull dog steals a leg of mutton. Pursued by one policeman, the number is increased to several in a very short time. Through streets, over roofs they go. Finally the tables are turned and the dog pursues the police to their station. Intensely funny.

379ft. The Subject £6 6s. 4d.

WHEN we produced this beautiful picture about this time last year, one of our business confrères announced that they would be placing a far better thing of the same kind on the market at an early date, and advised those who thought of purchasing such a subject to wait until they produced theirs; this was eleven months ago. We find they have just accomplished this feat. This is extremely gratifying to us, for it always requires competition to prove superiority, and our "Christ Among Men" has now an ambitious rival, against which it can prove its incomparable all-round superiority.

No. 1298.

THE NUN.

A handsome youth is pouring the old old story of love into the ear of a maiden, who is sitting under a tree, in a lovely, natural wood. The young girl responding easily to his pleading, they become, as is usual, quite lost in their tender thoughts for one another. A stern father, drawing near to where they are seated, is enraged at the sight of love proceeding against his wishes, and clubs the forward youth who has dared to press his suit. The young man falling to the ground, the irate parent draws his daughter from the scene, and takes her to the gates of a convent. Making application in the usual way, he comes to terms, and leaves his daughter within the fold, despite her earnest pleading.

The girl is instructed by a monk as to her future life inside the convent, and the nuns re-arrange her dress in conformity with their own. Tying back all her hair, they place on her head the usual emblems of the sisterhood. She is taken to the kitchen, where certain work is given her to accomplish within an allotted time.

The young lover, recovering from his temporary unconscious state, goes to the convent where his sweetheart is confined, and requests to see her. His entreaties being in vain, he looks around in desperation to force his way in. A huge tree being near one of the barred windows, he climbs up, and, with his dagger, removes the obstruction, and gets inside.

The new sister is quietly at her work in the kitchen, when the sudden appearance of her lover pleasantly startles her. After renewing their vows she looks for a place of concealment, knowing well the nuns will soon return to see the progress she is making. A large oak chest is opened, and the young man getting in, she arranges so that everything appears quite orderly to prying eyes. The abbess entering, is pleased to find everything satisfactory, and the girl nervously goes on making pastry. The lifting of the lid of the chest by the abbess so upsets the girl that she drops her basin of flour, smashing it in many pieces. For this carelessness the Mother Superior rings the bell violently, and in rush the abbot and many nuns. The guilt being explained, the Father deals out the sentence, and the poor girl is led away by the nuns to receive punishment. The monk staying behind for a short while, is suddenly seized from behind, and with dismay sees a man holding a dagger unpleasantly near to his throat. Under threats the good man is compelled to give up his outer garments, which the youth quickly appropriates. Then, throwing flour into the monk's face, he makes him get into the box.

The lover, now robed in the monk's garb, leaves the kitchen in search of his dear one.

In a cold, dismal dungeon, the offending nun is brought in and quickly secured by her hands to an instrument which holds her firmly. One of the persons allotted to give punishment brings forward a whip with many nasty-looking thongs, and proceeds to administer lashes upon the girl's back. He is suddenly seized and thrown to the ground by the lover who has just discarded the monkish robes. Releasing the half-exhausted girl from her position, he dashes towards an exit which has been boarded in, and hacks the obstruction to bits with his dagger. The nuns rushing in are too astounded to offer resistance to this desperate man as he draws his sweetheart to him ready to depart, but the monk, who has got free from his imprisonment, makes a frantic but ineffectual effort to stop them. The lovers leave the building quite happy.

THE WORLD'S BIOSCOPE OUTFITTERS.

THE UNHAPPY HARLEQUIN,

Code Word, HARLEQUIN.

This is a dramatic story. It depicts the poor harlequin and his dying child, and his having to play his merry part at the theatre. The child dies, and his wife goes to the theatre for him. The manager is angry, but he is resolute and leaves. The actor returns home to find his dead child. He tries to commit suicide, but is saved by the priest who is present. Grand quality. 350ft. £8 15s.

THE VISION OF A CRIME.

Code Word, VISION.

A man dreams a terrible dream in which he sees a whole ghastly tragedy. He wakes up thoroughly frightened. In the morning he goes to where he imagines the place of the murder, and sure enough discovers the corpse of the victim. Very exciting interest all through. 270ft. £6 15s.

THE ANIMATED PILLAR-BOX.

Code Word, PILLAR.

The men have just erected a pillar-box, but not too securely. Two rogues come along, see this, and move the box. One gets inside, placing it at different points. The public and postmen are mystified, and are finally joined by a policeman to stop the rogues. In the end the policeman is beautifully hoaxed. Very amusing indeed and creates great laughter. 325ft £8 2s. 6d.

THE BORROWED LADDER.

Code Word, "LADDER."

The wind blows a man's hat to the top of a tall lamp-post. He goes for a ladder; unfortunately stops on his way back for some drinks. The result is, he knocks into many harmless individuals with the ladder, finally comes into contact with the police, is taken to the station, and there dreams of all kinds of ghostly ladders, which dance over him. Extremely funny and fine quality. 480ft. £12 0s. 0d.

TRACED BY A LAUNDRY MARK.

Code Word, "LAUNDRY."

A very exciting story in several dramatic scenes. The villain pays unwelcome attentions to the girl; she refuses him. He swears revenge; procures two accomplices to abduct her. Frustrated by the girl's lover, a terrible fight ensues. The villain stabs the lover, and flees from justice. The detective on the track traces through a cuff he leaves, and, by means of the laundry mark, to the possessor. Exciting chase. Villain attempts to shoot detective. Overpowered, finally commits suicide and begs forgiveness from the girl. The lover recovers. Thus virtue is triumphant. Grand quality. Exciting interest. Beautiful scenery. 425ft. £10 12s. 6d.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIAL.
Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham, S.W. 24th January, 1907
Dear Sir,—I enclose you cheque in payment of your account for cleaning dresses. I may say that I consider it perfectly marvellous that you should take away at 9.30 p.m. sixty-two elaborate Pantomime dresses from Clapham Junction and return them perfectly cleaned by 3 p.m. the following day. I am sending you about 150 dresses next week which will have to be done at lightning speed, feeling perfectly confident that they will be returned at the time promised. You are at liberty to make any use you like of this letter.
Yours very faithfully, ROBERT CROSSMAN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—Mr. Martin Harvey opened on Monday before a crowded house with The Only Way. His acting as Sydney Carton is splendid, not only in its sincerity, but also in its restraint, and the impression he makes will for ever remain in the memories of many playgoers. Miss de Silva played with exquisite tenderness as Mimi and Miss Coleridge's Lucie Manette was exceedingly graceful and winning; Mr. Charles Glenney acted with all his usual power as Defarge, and excellent work was likewise contributed by Messrs. Craske, Alexander, Hewland, and Fred Wright, sen. During the week A Cigarette Maker's Romance was also played.

PALACE THEATRE. — Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Resident Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—The sensational turn of Miss Ella and her forest-bred performing lions is followed with breathless interest; the Five Abradoffs appear in a quaint comedy act, Prehistoric Times. They are rapturously applauded. Vasey and Ramsay also contribute an amusing comedietta; the Prinellas produce a unique scena, A Country Flirtation; Les Bollingers give an original lightning painting turn; and among other successful artists are Mr. Victor Travers, comedian; Miss Bertha Norwood and Miss May Tudor, comediennes; and the Levans, with illustrated songs.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. Walter Melville's company opened here on Monday in The Girl Who Took the Wrong Turning. Mr. Roy Redgrave gives a painstaking performance as Willie Mason; Sidney Sarl must be complimented for his acting as Bill Slater; the part of Jack Fenton is ably presented by Mr. Frank Robertson; and Willie Reed is good as Johnnie Walker. Miss Frances Ruttledge gives a scholarly reading of Sophie Coventry; Lucy Coventry is in the safe hands of Miss Hilda Baynton; and the remaining parts are capably sustained.

HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Willmot, Potter, Vandy, and Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Parsons.—Capital entertainment is provided at the above hall this week. Edie and Ramsden, one of the smartest turns we have seen here, is clever, refined, and amusing; Prince Ismail is an Indian fakir with some very neat tricks; Lord, Murray, and Lord gave an excellent sporting gymnastic act, which is well received; the Greys, operatic duettists, render some excellent numbers in good style; the Haley's Juveniles are always welcome; Frank Maura is a clever foot-manipulator; Will, character vocalist, is good; and the Hippo-Bioscope furnishes some very good pictures.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. E. Williams.—Dare-Devil Dorothy is on a return visit. Mr. J. W. Cordiner is still piloting the tour for Mr. Henry Swinerd, and, if anything, the comedy is more attractive than ever. Miss Nellie Harcourt is an old favourite, and, besides her lively acting, she skilfully contributes dancing, songs, and skipping-rope items. The Sisters Blake as acrobatic dancers are particularly clever; Miss Dorothy Desmonde uses a splendid contralto voice to advantage; and Miss Marie Vere is also a success vocally; whilst Mr. Bert Edwards has a fund of humour as principal comedian. Mr. Walter Ashley (Fielding) and Mr. H. C. Ward (Dudley) are clever with their respective impersonations; Mr. Dean Cliffe is amusing as Featherstonhaugh; and Mr. B. Edwards convulses the audience with his humorous Silas. Miss Dorothy Desmonde's is a charming impersonation of Dorothy; Miss Marie Vere is capable as Ruth; and Miss Nellie Harcourt is full of life and go as Judith.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Revill.—This week we have Mr. Fred Karno's company in Saturday to Monday. The piece runs merrily, Mr. Roland Martin's characterisation of Johnny Willie Jaggs, the bridegroom, provoking much laughter; Miss Amy Rogerson as the bride contributes her full share to the absurdity of the varied situations. Good work is done by Messrs. Bradbury, Melville, H. Summers, H. Wallace, J. Fletch, G. Cooper, F. Palmer, S. Lansdown, V. H. Crawford, Dick Rose, and Misses Daisy Stone Ada Maskell, Louie Arnold, Lily Olive, Lucy Walden, Mabel Clarke, Kathleen Dennis, Louie Lilian, Muriel Palmer, and Valletta Rushton.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—Mr. Harry Tate is here again with his really funny Motoring sketch; Rosie Reval is a charming serio, with a gay and dashing manner; Amy Anderson and company introduce a new sketch in three scenes; good business is introduced by those expert musical eccentrics, Zanfretta and Napio; Sid, Myra, and the dog are a trio of performers whom the audience would willingly watch for a longer "turn"; the actor-vocalist, L. B. Athol, gives an artistic vocal production, entitled Dreamland, which is very interesting; Douglas and Gordon are also very entertaining in a novel comedy act; Fred S. Perke and Co. introduce a sketch of the Charles II. period, Mr. Perke being seen in the title-rôle; the Bioscope pictures illustrate a drama of the Western goldfields.

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. A. Wordsworth. — The popular picture entertainment once more holds sway here with an interesting and up-to-date series of films. Miss Marion Scott, burlesque artist, has been engaged, and her efforts are highly appreciated.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. T. Edward Owen.—The enterprising management here has done well in securing the famed Savonas as the leading attraction during the present week, for packed houses are the rule at every performance, and the legend, "house full," is much in evidence. As a musical turn the Savonas are without rival, whilst the stage setting and the novel electrical effects are lavish and beautiful. The Elliotts give a daring bicycle act, for which they receive well-merited applause; Miss Eloina contributes a graceful gymnastic display; Mr. E. C. Clayton has a fine series of pictures, including "A Venetian Tragedy"; Mr. Claude Tomlin is an acceptable character vocalist, his style being easy and his songs of the sensible order; a mirth-provoking turn is that of Mr. Jack Rae as a comedy gymnast and juggler; and a strong contribution is that of Snowball and Miss Dolia, American comedy eccentrics.

AYR. — GAIETY THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. W. Day.—On Monday and Tuesday the attraction was the powerful drama, The Scarlet Clue, with Miss Grace Warner in the leading part, supported by Mr. George Gordon and an excellent company. In the rôle of Michael Stanton, alias Flash Mike, Mr. Gordon gives a powerful portrayal of the villain; as Billy the Rotter, Mr. J. L. Leigh keeps the audience in the best of humour throughout; Mr. Arthur Page gives a clever exposition of the part of Crazy Jim; Miss Hilda Herne acts to the life of Elsie Dane, a Sister of Mercy; Miss Kathleen Cranston as Mother Scrooge, a hag, does exceedingly well; Mr. Jack Armitage gives a clever delineation of the double part of Jack and Harry Esmond, twin brothers; in the exacting rôle of Sal Scarlet, in which she assumes various aliases, Miss Grace Warner displays her versatility.

BACUP.—NEW COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Dudley Harcourt.—Mr. Fredk. Melville's company is the attraction here this week in the drama, The Beast and the Beauty. Mr. Herbert Ford submits a masterly representation of Jack Barrymore, the "Beast," and Mr. William E. Passmore furnishes a good impersonation of the Earl of Loman; the part of Henry Denner is embodied in capital style by Mr. Bernard Mervyn, the villainy of the character being well depicted; Mr. Harry Winpenny as Dick Soanes meets with a good reception and Father Paul is in the capable hands of Mr. Stanley Vivian; Mr. Will Corrie portrays Tom Chicken with good effect; Mr. Eric Campbell gives a manly and earnest rendering of the part of Ned Sampson; Mr. Alfred Wood is suitably placed as Mr. Sharp, and Mr. Harry Seton as James, a footman, is successful. Miss Lydia Andre ably represents Violet, the "Beauty," and Miss Daisy Gwynne submits a forcible delineation of Delilah Vane. A special word of praise is due to the scenery and staging of the drama.

BARNSLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. A. C. Mitchell.—Mr William Greet's company in The Earl and the Girl is paying a return visit here this week. Mr. Alfred Donohue convulses the house with his quaint assumption of Jim Cheese; Mr. Thos. Kennard is successful as Dick Wargrave, his vocal numbers being capitally rendered; Miss Gertrude Simpson is delightfully interesting as Elphin Haye; Mr. Leslie Owen as Crewe Boodle scores in his rendering of "The Grenadiers"; Miss Winnie Plumpton is a graceful and dignified Miss Bliss; Miss Kathleen Gerrard, as Mrs. Shimmering Black, has a part which suits her admirably; Mr. Greville Hayes as Bunker Bliss, Mr. Ernest Plumpton as Downham, and Mr. Sam Lyons as Mr. Talk add considerably to the humour of the play; Miss Lina Hicks is a pleasing Liza Shoddam.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS. — ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stone.—Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company, in Lucky Durham, is here. Mr. Edmund Kennedy is a convincing and forceful John Durham; and Miss Alice Esther Belmore an engaging and winning Helen Vallerton. Lord Mountfallon has a good representative in Mr. Robert Forsyth; Mr. Arthur Leigh is eminently successful as the Hon. Reginald Steighton; Miss Florence Dulhunty is a natural and graceful Margaret Steighton; and Mrs. Durham is a dignified and fine character as drawn by Miss Louisa Gourlay.

HIS MAJESTY'S.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Mr. Frank Bateman's dramatic company, in No Wedding Bells for Her, is here. Miss Lizzie Montague gives a fine portrait of Lola Delaspierre; and Doris Fane is beautifully presented by Miss Dora Pass. Mr. Stuart Lomath is a typical clergyman, Mr. Percy Shaw an admirable Dick Delver, and Mr. George Herbert contributes a good character-sketch of Horatio Fane.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—Mr. H. A. Saintsbury, who has for the last few weeks been touring in the West with his dramatic version of the novel Anna of the Plains, occupies the boards here. Mr. Saintsbury himself gives a graphic rendering of the pious veldt farmer, Matthew Kerrins; the jealous disposition of his spouse, Sarah Kerrins, being vividly brought out by Miss V. Vivian. The young Britisher, Michael O'Donoghan, is portrayed by Mr. Hilliard Vox; and the Boer settler, Piet Van Heller, by Mr. C. H. Croker-King, each of whom enact their parts with care and effect. Miss Dorothea Desmond acts with becoming delicacy and discrimination the difficult character of Anna. The amusing two-scene play, The First Night, follows, and the same artists exhibit versatility in their lighter work. On Thursday, a new afterpiece, entitled Jocelyn and Jester, by Mr. Ronald Macdonald, was down for production.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth. — The varied programme for the current week includes Henry Cot, the French giant, and Prince Colibri, the Russian dwarf, the great contrast between them creating much curiosity and amusement; Cull-Pitt, in his pot-pourri of conjuring, wit, and mimicry, is highly entertaining; muscular manhood, combined with wonderful equilibristic feats, is supplied by the Wifords; Dickinson and Johnson, after a long absence, are again giving their clever and graceful tank performance; old favourites are the well-known coloured duo, Smith and Johnson; Dan Robins, baritone vocalist, sings a couple of ballads with acceptance; Mona McDonald proves herself an accomplished comedienne; Raymond's Bio-tableaux show a fine series of Swiss scenery in winter.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—On Monday night Miss Elaine Verner's company opened a week's stay here. In Saints and Sinners Mr. Harding Thomas gave a capital portrayal of Jacob Fletcher, his acting being decidedly above the average. Mr. E. Rayson-Cousens appeared as George Kingsmill; Mr. Edgar Kent scored as the villain, and the part of Samuel Hoggard was in the capable hands of Mr. John J. Hooker; Miss Elaine Verner was successful as Letty Fletcher, and the part of the servant Lydia was played in excellent style by Miss Ada Clarke. In Judah the rôle of Vashti Dethic was taken by Miss Verner, and Mr. Thomas was responsible for the interpretation of Judah Llewellyn. The Middleman was played on Wednesday, when the parts of Mary and Cyrus Blenkarn were played by the two principals.

BELFAST.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—We are favoured this week with a visit from Mr. Harold V. Neilson and company, who are presenting Mr. Alfred Sutro's play, The Perfect Lover. Mr. Harold V. Neilson, an exceedingly clever actor, must be accorded chief honours for his brilliant and skilful impersonation of Joseph Tremblett; and a delightful actress, Miss Amy Sangster acquitted herself with distinction as Lilian Tremblett. Mr. W. Lemmon Warde was all that could possibly be desired as William Tremblett; and one could not desire a more admirable impersonation of Lord Cardew than that submitted by Mr. Frank Beresford. The rôle of the Hon. Susan Lesson was done full justice to by Miss Gertrude Sterroll, a clever actress; Miss Dorothy Milne was certainly charming as Martha Tremblett; the parts of Mrs. Morphitt, Mrs. Barter, and Mrs. Bonham were splendidly portrayed by Miss Lilian Kevil Davis, Miss Edith Dent, and Miss Elsie Savile. Miss Renee de L'Estrade gains many admirers for her finished impersonation of May; and other rôles were capitally sustained by Messrs. John Detlow, Reginald Hargreaves, H. B. Peppin, and D. Gow.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Freece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—Miss Alice Pierce has been accorded a splendid reception for her impersonations of celebrated actresses; as Raymond's living studies in animated sculpture, Clito furnishes a wonderfully effective turn, the various poses being much admired; Mr. C. St. John Denton and Mr. George Nowland's company, including Marjorie Lawrence, present the "Punch and Judy Girls," a company of exceedingly smart juveniles, who have made a big hit. Mr. Fred Earle, of "Seaweed" fame, has been accorded a capital reception for his comic songs; and the Tokio troupe appear to great advantage in their sensational acrobatic and equilibristic act; a splendid exhibition of the art of Terpsichore has been presented by Las Molasses; and also here are

Miss Alice Ormonde, a charming comedienne; Burnette and Corri, eccentric jugglers; and the Palace pictures.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—Miss Carlotta Levey, who made such a tremendous hit in local pantomime, has been strikingly successful with her clever rendering of all the pantomime hits, "Cheyenne," &c. The jumping feats of the Stein-Eretto troupe are certainly marvellous; and an immense reception has been accorded Prof. Vox, one of the smartest ventriloquists before the public. Mr. Harry Thorpe and Miss Zoe Coe appear to much advantage in their high-class comedy episode, My Burglar; and the charming ballad vocalism of Miss Sybil St. Elmo has fairly delighted the crowds. Carney and Armstrong have afforded much pleasure with their speciality act; and also appearing are Miss Lily Tiso, comedienne and dancer; and Mr. Harry Clifford, comedian.

New Alhambra Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The Alhambra Dramatic Company, under the direction of Mr. M. Montgomery, is here with Mr. Walter Howard's drama, Man and Wife. Mr. Horace Denton furnishes an exceedingly clever impersonation of Paul Revere, his acting throughout being worthy of high praise; and the iniquities of Captain D'Espaire are realistically portrayed by Mr. Balfour Dennistoun. Miss Roma Tremayne gives a delightful representation of Marcelle, the heroine; and Mr. Cyril Grier treats us to a careful study of Sergeant Jacques. Miss Nina Blake-Adams's enactment of the cripple boy is a skilful performance; Mr. Elmore Frith must be commended for his splendid impersonation of Colonel Latour; and Miss Mattie Crawford is vivacious and charming as Rosette. The humour of the piece is mainly sustained by Mr. Tom H. Solly, who was decidedly funny as Bambo; and Miss Alice Clarke was all that could possibly be desired as Ruth Revere. Other parts were carefully interpreted by Messrs. Ed. Smythe, J. E. Davies, and F. Moselle. Mr. Tom H. Solly is responsible for the stage-management. The Alhambra Bioscope, under the direction of Mr. W. E. Newlove, exhibits a splendid picture this week, "Pals; or, My Friend, the Dummy."

BILSTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Battersby; Musical-Director, Mr. J. E. Machin.—Beauty and the Beast pantomime is an attraction here. The singing of Miss Vesta Fay as Prince Charming and the acting of Miss Lizzie Round as Beauty are two prominent features. The Misses F. Gibbs (Fairy Starlight), Nellie Newman (Bon Bon), and Girtie Newman (Daisy) are well to the front. The antics of Edwin and Atom, as Flip and Flop, are very diverting; Mr. Mark Lane is a good Twiddleums; and Mr. Charles Rowen works hard as the Baron.

BIRKENHEAD.—New Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Pell.—On Monday and during the week the Clifton Operatic Society have been giving representations of Dorothy in aid of the funds of the local charities. The opera is presented in a highly creditable manner, Mme. Florence Bellamy in the title-rôle and Miss Agnes W. Spears as Lydia Hawthorne, acquitting themselves with marked ability; Mr. Thomas E. Francis as Harry Sherwood, displayed considerable skill; Mr. Jack Henderson is an excellent Lurcher, and Squire Bantam is well played by Mr. G. E. T. Read. Remaining parts are filled in a very creditable manner. Special scenic effects have been provided by Mr. W. W. Kelly, and the augmented orchestra is under the baton of Mr. F. Hamilton Jackson.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties. — Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Mr. Whit Cunliffe is a prominent attraction, and the Ten Loonies, in their mad musical sketch, Dotty, have made an unmistakable hit; the Five Casino Girls, brass instrumentalists, are a great success, and Miss Effie Stuart, Scottish comedienne, has many admirers. Other turns are contributed by Mr. Dick Geldard, comedian; Starr and Leslie, club manipulators; Mr. Walter King, comedian; and Brown's Royal Bioscope.

BIRMINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The Queen of Hearts has now reached its second edition, and the theatre is, if possible, more crowded than before. The pantomime is now embellished with a harlequinade, in which Mr. George Robey, who makes an inexpressibly droll clown, is supported by that admirable comedian, Mr. Edward Lewis as pantaloon, Mr. T. A. Shale as policeman, Mr. Tom Hearn as Lord Edgbaston, Miss Millie Lindon as harlequin, Miss Valli Valli a graceful columbine, and Miss Ethel Haydon as nursemaid. Furthermore, several new songs have been introduced, including "Queen Elizabeth," by Mr. Robey; "The picture frame," which is a new song written by Mr. W. Jackson Houlston, composed by Mr. Guy Jones, and sung with every success by Miss Lindon; "The Queen of Samara," by Miss Valli Valli; and "Eileen Allanah" and "My cherry blossom," by Miss Haydon. Mr. T. A. Shale now contributes "Lou, Lou," and the new and funny business presented by the comedians meets with the heartiest success. On Friday "Students' Night" was announced, when the medicos, in multi-coloured garments, were expected in full force.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—Captain Swift takes the place of Crusoe's Adventures, which was withdrawn on Saturday last amid many expressions and tokens of goodwill to those engaged therein. Captain Swift is presented by Mr. M. Russell Rosse, who has cast the piece with excellent taste and discretion. Mr. Edward Sorley, as Captain Swift, brings out the latent goodness of the rôle with considerable feeling and effect: Miss E. Nolan O'Connor shows clever emotional power as Mrs. Seabrook; Mr. Chas. Boult acts as Gardiner with excellent self-possession; Mr. T. Weldon Atherstone applies much force to the rôle of Marshall; Mr. Martin Roland depicts the impetuosity of Harry Seabrook in an excellent manner; Miss Adah Barton reflects the charm of Stella with much ability, and Mr. Albert Bernard, Mr. W. E. Chewd, Miss Beatrice Marsdene, and Miss Lillian Revell shine in the cast. A Happy Pair precedes.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood.—Cinderella is running with undiminished success, the bookings for this widely-popular pantomime extending as far as Easter. Meanwhile, Mr. Collingwood's anniversary approaches, this being an occasion which his myriad friends and patrons never fail to celebrate with due éclat and circumstance.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—The Soldier's Wedding paid its first visit here last Monday, and immediately took the crowded house by storm. Mr. Wingold Lawrence stirred the audience into frequent outbursts of applause with his fresh and manly impersonation of Jack Brown; Mr. Beresford Whitcomb was well suited both in ability and appearance as Col. Graham; Mr. Raymond Wood gave a forcible rendering of the Colonel's nephew, Courtenay; Miss Jessie Winter displayed vivacity and winsomeness as Nancy Lee; Miss Marie McAulay did justice to the rôle of Julie de Beauvrais; Mr. A. G. Melford scored as Tommy Spratt; and Mr. Fred Yarnold, Mr. Frederick Byron, Miss Georgie de Lara, Miss Ettie Carlisle, and Little Albert did well. The play is staged in Mr. Walter Melville's usual complete style.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—The London Fireman draws large audiences this week with Messrs. Garside and Knowles's company. Miss Nelly Shirley is highly popular in the rôle of Ida Curtis; Miss Nelly Garside figures successfully as Polly Bramble; Miss Beatrice Sinclair is seen to advantage as Grace; Mr. Philip Renouf as Bill Stinger is all that could be desired; Miss Nelly Waddington acts finely as the Countess Fleming; Mr. J. Forbes Knowles as the hero, Hal Curtis, gives a striking impersonation; Mr. Edward L. Garside shines in his vivid assumption of the returned convict, Ratty; Mr. Herbert Humber realises the rôle of Viscount Fleming with due effect; and Messrs. Lionel Thomson, Walter Wilby, Fred Monney, W. Burgess, Joe Rockley, and Edward Wishaw are exceedingly good in their parts.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—The Lion and the Mouse is staged here by Mr. Walter Maxwell's company. Mr. Leslie Carter's powerful impersonation of the American financier, Ryder, is much appreciated; Miss Christine Silver gives a charming as well as strenuous impersonation of the heroine, Shirley Rossmore; Mr. Douglas West finds favour as James Rossmore; Mr. Lewis Edgard gives full effect to the part of Jefferson Ryder; Miss Margaret Nybloc is graceful and clever as Kate Roberts; Miss Elspeth Dudgeon ably interprets the rôle of Mrs. Ryder; Mr. John Wheatman portrays the character of J. Whitmore Roberts, M.P., very successfully; and Mr. Herbert Chown acts with agreeable humour as the Hon. Fitzroy Bagley. Nearly Severed is also in the bill, and is very successful.

Empire Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—Mr. Hymach is a quick-change artist of an original character, who, dispensing with the usual screens, changes his clothes in full view of the audience with lightning-like rapidity. Marie Kendall's several new songs are rendered in fine style; Mlle. de Dio gives an exposition of weird and fantastic dancing, obtaining wonderful effects by means of coloured lime-lights; a clever entertainment is presented by De Witt, Burns, and Terrance in The Awakening of Logs; while the Five Bogannys are expert risley artists. A Night in Montmartre is the title of a sketch for which Mildred Devere and company are responsible, depicting life in the slums of Paris at midnight: Harry Labourne, comedian; Steve Macarthy, the Irish coon; and Ernie Mayne, the simple comedian, contribute enjoyable items.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The Three Demons present about the last thing possible in the art of trick cycling. Miss Nell Emerald sings several enjoyable songs, which are well received; Harwood's Juveniles present a clever sketch, entitled A Children's Christmas Eve; Amurat is a strong man, who varies his performances with musical selections; and Sable Fern is a charming vocalist. Belle Davis, with her "pick-chick" actors; Carr and Rose, humorist: Frank Gee, burlesque comedian; N. Richardson comedian; Welda and Wynne, comedy artists; and Harry Russon, comedian, complete an enjoyable programme.

Bordesley Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—Mr. Fred Winn's company are seen in the sketch The Light at the Window, written by Mr. Frank Dix. In the rôles of Mrs. Wishart and Jim Wishart, Daisy England and George W. Cockburn respectively perform in a satisfactory manner. The Vasillescu company prove very attractive pantomimists; a protean sketch is presented by Alice May and company, called Tranquillity—it is full of amusing incidents; Allen Hanbury and Robb Gillmore are two capital comedians; while the Fergano Trio, head and hand balancers; and Ruth Dorris, juvenile vocalist, also entertain in their several ways.

Curzon Hall.—William Hamilton's Excursions are attracting crowded houses here. The pictures are very realistic, and form an enjoyable evening's entertainment. The scenes are enlivened by several variety artists, including Judge's cockatoos, parrots, and macaws; Hector, in an exhibition of hoop-twirling and wire-walking; and Howe and Hardie, in a smart acrobatic turn.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — Eden Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. Addison; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. J. Huntley.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company, under the direction of Mr. James Willard, is here with The Midnight Mail. In his impersonation of Harry Steyne Mr. George Harvard stands out prominently; Mr. Fred G. Evison makes a capable villain, and Mr. Austin Mortimer is a most convincing Leonard Royle. The rôle of Hassin Padisha is well filled by Mr. Harold B. Lewis, and Mr. Harry Emmerson is an excellent Donald Craig; Miss Ada Oakley as Mary Steyne proves an ideal heroine, and Lady Phyllis Eustace has an able exponent in Miss Phyllis Dailley.

BLACKBURN. — Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Yorke; Manager, Mr. Reginald C. Yorke.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company in Are You a Mason? is visiting here, and the farce is drawing good houses. Mr. E. H. Patterson is extremely comical as Amos Bloodgood, and as Frank Perry Mr. Howard L. Tracy is also responsible for much fun; unusual interest centred in the appearance of Mr. Victor Kerr as Ernest Morrison, for Mr. Kerr is a Blackburn man; Miss Adelaide Grace appears as Caroline Bloodgood, and plays the part well; while Miss Margaret Fareleigh, Miss Babs Stuart, and Miss Madge Henrique are excellent as her three daughters. The piece is preceded by the one-act dramatic episode, A Bad Penny, in which Miss Dora Harvey, Mr. Buchanan Wake, Mr. George R. Austin, Mr. Victor Kerr, and Mr. C. W. Hammond appear with good effect.

New Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page.—Mr. Tom H. Taylor's company in The Worst Woman in London, with Miss Olga Andre in the title-rôle, is appearing here.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will Murray.—The following artists are appearing at this place of amusement:—The Six Brothers Luck company in their comic sketch, The Hotel Parade; Gracie Bard, coon artist; Vowles and Bryan, vocalists; Carlton's mysterious cross; Max Duffex, contortionist; Gus Harris, Hebrew character delineator; and the Tally Ho Trio in musical comedy.

BLACKPOOL.—Her Majesty's Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr. William Mollison and company are here in three Shakespearean plays. The Merchant of Venice was played on Monday, and met with a most cordial reception from a big house. Mr. Mollison gave a powerful rendering of Shylock, and quite won the approval of the audience; Bassanio and Antonio were skilfully played by Messrs. Henry Worrall and B. A. Pittar respectively; and Mr. Henry Deas gave satisfaction as Gratiano. The Duke of Venice found a dignified exponent in Mr. W. A. Mackensy; Mr. Roy Cushing was painstaking as Lorenzo; and Launcelot Gobbo was fittingly impersonated by Mr. Alec F. Thompson. Miss Evelyn McNay contributed an excellent study of Portia, and in the trial scene evoked the warmest enthusiasm by the spirited manner in which she delivered her lines. Nerissa was pleasingly played by Miss Elsie Vron; and Jessica, in the hands of Miss Edith Blair-Staples (an actress well known in Blackpool), found a most attractive representative. Macbeth was played on Tuesday, and As You Like It Wednesday, each play being repeated during the week.

Grand Theatre.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—Sinbad the Sailor, played by Miss Lena Stanton and Mr. Harry Joseph's company, has found a home here this week. Miss Stanton appears in the title-rôle, and acts, sings, and dances with considerable cleverness. Tinbad, the tailor, is played by Little Keno, a comedian endowed with rare gifts. Mr. Harry Joseph wins approval as King Krusty and Mr. Bruce Green plays Mrs. Sinbad. Specialities are introduced by the Alhambra girls, vocalists and dancers; Wyman, comic acrobat; P. J. Durney, globe expert; and Farrell and Gorman, musical eccentrics.

BLYTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—Mr. John H. Tomkinson's No. 1 Royal Gipsy Choir has supplied the attraction at the Royal this week, and has been well patronised. Being a strong variety combination the programme has met with much appreciation.

BOLTON.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Melvin.—This week Miss Florence Baines and a well-selected company are appearing here in the musical farce, Miss Lancashire, Limited. The part of Mary Ellen Thompson, "the Lancashire lass," is undertaken by Miss Florence Baines, and during the time she is before the audience they are continually kept laughing. The remainder of the characters are in capable hands.

Grand Theatre, Ltd. — Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—A good show is given here by a clever company, comprising the Three Sisters Macarti, in their graceful and clever speciality act, concluding with a serpentine dance in mid-air; Clifford Morgan, baritone vocalist; Harry Marlow and May Manton, in an interesting sketch, Other People's Babies; Fred Hallam, comedian; Ernest Montefiore and company, in their original dramatic and musical sketch, The Little Colonel; Cline and Clarke, black and white speciality dancers and comedy artists; Carl Lynn, animal mimic; the Marconis, electric wonders; Hardie Palm, comedian; James Shingleton, singing collier; De Wynne Brothers, clever head and hand balancers; and the Imperial Bioscope.

BOOTLE.—Muncaster Theatre. — Proprietors, Messrs. Pennington; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Young.—A musical drama, entitled His Sister's Honour, is being presented here this week by Messrs. E. A'dell and F. Charbot's company. The piece is full of interesting pathetic situations interspersed with some bright portions of humour. Miss Kathleen Eckart enacts the rôle of Dora Stanley with much feeling, and Miss Ethel Ashleigh is well placed as Ivy Merton. The difficult part of Frank Stanley is capitally sustained by Mr. Evelyn A'dell; Sir Richard Redevers is adequately impersonated by Mr. H. C. Robinson; while much amusement is caused by Mr. Sidney Dean as Timothy and Miss Bessie Deares as Maria.

BOSCOMBE. — Hippodrome.—Joint-Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. De Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Ball.—At the head of the bill is Fred Ginnett's company, in the equestrian sketch, Turpin's Ride to York, in which the training of the marvellous mare, "Black Bess," shows to great advantage. A hearty greeting is accorded Dutch Daly; Sydney and Maud score in song and a dainty dance; Fred Villars is a vocal comedian of no mean talent; Zelda is a versatile instrumentalist; the Sister Brooks are particularly clever dancers and singers; Beatrice Mayer is a pleasing vocalist; and the Hippodrome pictures are as interesting as usual.

BOSTON.—Palace Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Geo. Saphrini.—A good house assembled on Monday to welcome a return visit of Mr. Ed. Ranier, who has made himself a great favourite amongst the Bostonians with his sketches. This week he is presenting A Son's Devotion and The Bank Robbery, and is meeting with a cordial reception. Les Henris do a clever and interesting turn; the Brothers Mills perform some wonderful tricks on the trapeze; Jock McKay, Scotch comedian; Zernyi, hand-balancer; Joe Henessey, club swinger; the Victorian Boys, International dancers; Alice Maude and company, in Apartments for Two, complete a really good programme.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Proprietors, David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Rowland Stewart.—Alice Sit-by-the-Fire is paying a first visit here, and this clever play is well acted by Mrs. Russ Whytal's company. The title-rôle, which is admirably suited to her, is charmingly played by Mrs. Whytal; Mr. J. J. Bartlett is very successful as the peppery Colonel; no one is better placed than Mr. Aubrey Mallalieu, who is quite convincing in the part of Stephen Rollo; while Mr. T. Pauncefort as Cosmo Grey does good work. Considerable praise is due to Miss Beatrice Bramah for her clever rendering of Amy Grey; and Miss Lucie Verrier as Leonora and Miss Ninon Dudley as Richardson complete a strong cast.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—Peter Pan was presented to a crowded and eager audience here on Monday night by Mr. Charles Frohman's company. Miss Zena Dare's wistfulness, buoyancy, and pathos are delightful features of her acting in the part of the freakish Peter; Mr. Lionel Mackinder's Pirate Captain is wonderfully grotesque; Mr. G. W. Anson as Smee and Mr. Stratton Mills as Gentleman Starkey are very humorous; Mrs. Irene Rooke is excellent as Mrs. Darling; and Miss Florence Wells as Tiger Lily and Mr. H. Warden as Panther are picturesque. The work of the juveniles of the company is cleverly accomplished, Miss Ella Q. May, as the demure Wendy, being particularly noticeable. Others who merrily fill their parts are Master Walter Cross and Master Philip Tonge, as John and Michael Darling respecively. Peter's Band, viz., Miss Malthere as Nibs, Miss Markham as Curly, the Misses Phyllis and Florence Markham as the Twins, Master Leslie Oswell as Slightly, and Mr. G. Lupino as Nana (the nurse dog) are delightfully entertaining.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Cinderella's successful run is drawing to a close. Miss Florrie Forde, the principal boy, had her benefit on Monday night, when a crowded audience proved a fitting testimony to the lady's popularity. She was the recipient of many floral tributes, and a silver-framed mirror and clock, the mirror being presented by Miss Alice Williams, the charming Cinderella of the pantomime. Extra turns were contributed by Little Vi Davis, Miss Marie West, Miss Cissie Williams, Mr. Jo Monkhouse, Miss Alice Williams, Miss Ray Forde, Mr. George Gray, Mr. Arthur Lennard, the Maitland Trio, Messrs. Percy Hannon and Harry Taylor, Mr. Lavater, Mr. F. Sumner, Miss Flo Florence, and Miss Estha Hayward.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—The popular actor-vocalist Arthur Lennard is on a return visit here, and is again well received, and amongst the members of the excellent company who also win favour this week are Lizzie Fletcher, comedienne; the Mannings, entertainers, in their droll new edition of The Hotel Boots; Paulinetti and Piquo, the amusing comedy gymnasts; the Kellinos, in their remarkably clever Risley act, Venetia; Andrew Roy, with good tenor songs finely illustrated; the smart Chester Sisters, banjoists, vocalists, and dancers; and the droll comedian and raconteur G. W. Hunter. Some fine up-to-date films are shown by the American Bioscope.

Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. H. Foster.—Marie Loftus, the comedienne, bright as ever, in her usual "chic" style is delighting the audiences here this week. Harry Taylor, Lancashire comedian, contributes successfully; The Man in Possession is a capital comedy sketch by Blake and Granby; Percy Hannon contributes some good baritone songs; an instrumental performance by Salvino, a clever juvenile, forms a popular item; Simosa San juggles with great dexterity; in their comedy sketch, The Pictures, the Maitland Comedy Trio are amusing; and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux show some fine pictures.

BRIGHTON.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harcourt M. Beryl.—Mr. Charles Steuart and company are here this week with The Little Stranger. The boy-actor, Edward Garratt, gives a distinctly clever and amusing impersonation of Tom Pennyman, the manikin, who poses as the little stranger; Miss Dora Hole makes an admirable Nurse; Miss Mary Allestree meets with warm praise for her enactment of Mrs. Dick Allenby; Miss Daisy Atherton acts brightly as Effie Peacock; and Mr. Charles A. Doran as Paul Veronsky, and Mr. Charles Hanbury as Alec Howard, submit excellent character-studies. Mr. Charles Steuart is well placed as Captain Dick Allenby; and the remaining characters are ably sustained. The farce is preceded by The Second Mrs. Grundy. At Thursday's special London matinée Mr. James Welch and company from Wyndham's Theatre appeared in When Knights Were Bold.

Alhambra.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General-Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—There is a capital company here this week. Carter Livesey and Lilian Rosebery are delightfully entertaining in The Would-be Actors Rehearsing in a Drama; the Lyons Trio are pleasing pantomimists and dancers; Conway and Garland are well received in their screaming absurdity, Left in Charge; Rosie Archer is highly successful as a mimic at the pianoforte; Frank Halter and Marie Ray, in their comedy speciality act, provide much fun; Ethel Dover is an amusing and versatile comedienne; the Three Sados give a clever juggling entertainment; the Sisters Caselli are capital duettists and dancers; Connie Morie is a dainty comedienne and dancer; J. C. Morris and Ted Cowan, comedians, submit good turns; and the Alhambrascope pictures are interesting.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—An excellent programme is sustained here this week. Hal Forde, comedian, gives a capital turn; the Juanitas, Spanish acrobats, are clever and original performers; the Lilian Brothers are smart silver chain experts and acrobats; Ross and Grayson are warmly applauded for their musical and dancing mélange, with "piano playing extraordinary"; Mlle. Marjutti is remarkably lissom in her acrobatic feats; Cairns and Lynch are neat American buck dancers in wooden shoes; William Gourlay is well received in "The Return of Hamlet"; Andrews and Thomson are pleasing operatic comedy duettists; Mamie Cannon is a capital coon comedienne; Austin and Cowan are successful vocal entertainers; and the Barrascope pictures are amusing.

BRISTOL.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Humpty Dumpty still attracts crowded houses at each performance. It is in all respects a very fine pantomime, the scenery is painted in artistic style, the dresses are exceptionally tasteful and of the very best quality, the ballet is decidedly good, and the speciality dances of the Superba Tiller Quartette obtain much appreciation. Miss Sybil Arundale is well placed as Rudolph, the principal boy; she has a bright and engaging style, sings with much expression the various numbers allotted to her part, and she dances cleverly; Miss Maud Darling is in every way pleasing as Princess Aurora (the principal girl); she acts vivaciously, sings in a pleasing style, and dances exceptionally well. The comedians are all very smart in their respective parts, their amusing songs all taking well. Mr. John Donald has now taken the place of Mr. Cyril Thompson as the Demon Soaro, the latter having to leave the company, by permission of Mr. Chute, in consequence of his engagement with The Geisha company. Mr. Donald's fine voice is heard to advantage in several songs, and on Monday evening he had a flattering reception.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. F. Crowe.—This is the last week of the highly-successful pantomime Cinderella. On Tuesday evening Messrs. Karr and Kooney had a benefit, when the house was packed. These able exponents of Ceasem and Grabbem, the broker's men, have been very popular with all parts of the house, and on the night of their benefit had a most flattering reception. The pantomime went admirably from start to finish, and new specialities and business were introduced by most of the principals. By kind permission of Mr. J. M. Chute, Carlton, the clever card manipulator from the Prince's Theatre, appeared as an extra attraction. T. E. Dunville, the well-known comedian, by kind permission of Mr. Horace Livermore, also appeared, and there were numerous other extra attractions.

Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—T. E. Dunville, the popular comedian, heads the programme; his songs are amusing, and he obtains much applause for his efforts. Dandy George and his wonderful dog, Rosie, present an interesting turn, the little dog being so admirably trained that it appears to evince almost human intelligence. The Brothers Huxter, acrobats, do a clever turn in which are included some remarkable somersaults; Lozelle, gymnast, does a sensational performance; McCaskell does some smart conjuring tricks; Herbert Adams, in his act, "Cyclumina," displays his skill as an expert trick and fancy cyclist; Keith and Morson amuse with their absurdity, The Meet; Jennie Sydney is a pleasing vocalist and dancer; and the performance concludes with a good display of animated pictures.

Empire.—Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—Lil Hawthorne, comedienne, heads the bill here in a clever and interesting turn, and is warmly applauded. Maud Courtney is a pleasing vocalist, with amusing stories; "Mr. C" has a good baritone; and is also successful in patter; Marie Reeve, coon comedienne and dancer, is appreciated; Phern and Phern are decidedly clever musical speciality artists; Tom Woottwell, eccentric comedian, has some amusing songs, and is much applauded; Barlee and Smith entertain with a smart comedy act; An Agent's Office; and Charles Lilburn, comedian, makes the most of his opportunities. The performance concludes with a display of pictures by the Empire Bioscope.

BROUGHTON.—Victoria Theatre, Ltd.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company, in the play, The Village Blacksmith, by G. Carlton Wallace, had a flattering reception on Monday. Mr. Sam Livesey, a man of fine physique, cleverly sustains the title-rôle; the other strong man, Mr. Joseph Carter, makes a splendid villain; little Miss Bertha Hanbury as the child, Harry Strong, is remarkably intelligent, and gives promise of a successful future; Mr. George V. Campbell is very funny as Billy Twigg; and comedy is also ably represented by Mr. Thomas E. Marshall as Jeremiah Parkins, Mrs. T. C. Livesey as Sal Parkins, and Miss Edith Giddens as Martha Mopps. Lucas Marle and Sir John Harman are efficiently played by Mr. Edwin Maydew and Mr. George Wilton; Miss Cassie Le Grande is a charming Ruth Parkins; and Miss Maggie Edwards is seen to advantage as Kate Strong.

BURNLEY.—Victoria Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—A lively and vivacious performance is that of Mr. Chas. Macdona's company in The Gay Parisienne at this house this week. Mr. Will Harman very cleverly fills the part of Ebenezer Honeycombe; Miss Lilian Talbot is a charming Julie Bon-Bon; Mr. Squire Day a funny Major Fossdyke; Mr. Phillip Moore sings most acceptably as Tom Eversleigh; as also does Miss Nance O'Neill as Norah. Mr. Clifford Seyler is a lively Mr. Pompler; and Miss Holford Beringer a dignified Mrs. Honeycombe. Some delightful quartettes are rendered by the Imperial Glee Singers; and the whistling solos of Mr. Cecil Lawrence are very good.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — Opera House (New Hippodrome).—Proprietor, Mr. H. Dudley Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Waller.—Ray and Miles are responsible for an amusing juggling act; and Mlle. Rosini, with her miniature menagerie, represented by dogs, is well received; a sweet and pleasing singer is Winnie Wentworth; and Jean Seul, the man of mystery, submits some bewildering tricks. A really good turn is given by Craig, Rose, and Craig, in their gymnastic speciality; Mr. Keane Harker gains golden opinions for his comic songs and patter; and the Clement Trio, in their flying trapeze act, fairly astonish the audience. The Raymond Bio-Tableaux exhibits some of the very latest pictures.

BURY (Lancs.). — Theatre Royal and Opera House, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—A Royal Divorce, under the management of Mr. W. W. Kelly, is being played here this week. Miss Edith Coles as Josephine is delightful; whilst the part of Stephanie is charmingly played by Miss Helen Richmont; Miss Agnes Imlay is good as Marie Louise; Mr. Frederick Victor gives a fine impersonation of Napoleon; and Mr. Claude Agnew makes an excellent Talleyrand. The play is well staged.

The Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead.—Mr. H. A. Langlois and company are appearing here in his farcical sketch entitled Loose Tiles. Mr. H. A. Langlois makes up capitally as Littlejohn, the giant of the mountains. Other turns are Doris Myddleton, mimic; Joe Dale, comedian and dancer; Charles Howarth, comedian; the Saxonias, in their musical mélange; Clare Chadwick's ladies' quartette; and Diana Hope and Co. in sketch, The Wishbone.

CAMBRIDGE. — New Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—Mr. Silvanus Dauncey and Mr. M. V. Leveaux's company paid a return visit here on Monday night with The Walls of Jericho. The play was beautifully produced and well received, Mr. A. E. Anson playing with great skill Jack Frobisher; while Miss Gladys Mason, as his wife, Lady Frobisher, won golden opinions. Mr. George A. Brandram as Hankey Bannister was excellent; and Miss Mona Wynne gave a natural representation of Lady Lucy; as did Miss Marguerite Cellier as Lady Westerby. A noteworthy cast was completed by Mr. Cyril Baleine, Mr. Alexander Cassy, Mr. A. W. Tyrer, Mr. George Percy, Mr. Joseph Herbert, Mr. Wilfred S. Lune, Miss Edith Cuthbert, Miss Leonora Thomas, Miss Evelyn Maxwell, Miss Muriel Mason, and Miss Millie L. Emden.

CARDIFF.—New Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robt. Redford.—The Little Michus is here this week, the company being Mr. George Dance's. The part of General des Ifs is capably undertaken by Mr. Foster Courtenay, who keeps the house in one continuous roar; another comedian who is responsible for many a laugh is Mr. Gilbert Childs as Bagnolet, his antics throughout the piece being exceedingly humorous. In the rôle of Gaston Riguard, Mr. William Everard is seen and heard to advantage; and Artistide Vert is interpreted by Mr. Robt. C. Harcourt with quiet, but effective, humour. The Little Michus have captivating representatives in Miss Alice Coverick and Miss Gipsy Dale. This latter young lady is a Cardiff actress, and the audience on Monday night accorded her a special reception. Miss Mary Young as Mme. Michu gives a bright and pleasing delineation; while Mr. Leon Simkin is praiseworthy as Pierre Michu. Mlle. Marjorie as Mlle. St. Cyr daintily executes two solo dances.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—The drama, At Cripple Creek, has attracted large audiences at the Royal. The part of Joe Mayfield is enacted by Mr. Stanley Bedwell in a most praiseworthy manner; Miss Agnes Verity as Dynamite Ann gives an exceptionally powerful delineation; while a particularly charming heroine is found in Miss Lily Beagle. Mr. Eric Hudson as Martin Mason and Mr. Oscar Power as Manuel Alvarez are two very capable actors; Mr. Will Hook gives a lively and amusing interpretation of Reggie Harwood, and receives excellent support in his comedy from Miss Daisy Carlton as Maggie Mason. Little Rosie Hopkins as Tatto captivates all by her wonderful representation.

Empire.—Managing Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. W. Lea; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. S. Dring.—The sketch The Devil's Sunday makes a great impression with its striking moral, and Mrs. John Lawson's fine rendering of Fay Faber is a clever piece of acting. D'Arc's Marionettes are the perfection of this line of business. The D'Arcs are Cardiffians, and have been accorded a most flattering reception. Miss Nellie Coleman is a most entertaining comedienne; the Thrapnell Family are graceful and talented acrobats; Dome, the clay modeller, is particularly entertaining; and Little Don is successful with his amusing comedy. The Cambrian Trio of lady vocalists, King Kingston (the popular tenor), Fanny Erris (character comedienne), and the Bioscope with pictures of the Berlin disaster complete the programme.

CARLISLE.—Her Majesty's Theatre.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart McKim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company, in the ever-popular musical comedy, Florodora, is appearing here this week. Mr. Alf E. Passmore, a funny Tweedlepunch, scores a decided success; Mr. H. V. Cropton sings and acts nicely as Abercoed; and Mr. Stanley White makes an excellent Cyrus W. Gilfain. Captain Donegal and Leandro are well-played by Mr. Harry Perry and Mr. Edwin Oxlee respectively; Miss Kate Leicester is a fascinating Lady Holyrood; Angela Gilfain is brightly and vivaciously played by Miss Lily Gullick; Miss Daisy Lake is a charming Dolores; and Miss Nellie Barnwell a pretty and pert Valleda.

The Palace.—Proprietors, the Palace Theatre, Carlisle, Limited; Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. E. Nicholls.—The Stavordale Quintette, who head the list this week, are scoring a great success with their excellent banjo playing, &c. The New York Nippers, in Bed-time, are paying a return visit; the Jackley Trio cause plenty of fun in an acrobatic act; Harry Conlin is a funny comedian and a great favourite; Gwennie Hasto, vocalist and dancer, is much appreciated; George Fairburn scores with his mimicry; Fentone, speciality entertainer, does well, as also does Nellie Martell, comedienne. The Pepiscope complete the bill.

CARMARTHEN.—Assembly Rooms.—Proprietors, Public Rooms Co.; Secretary, Mr. Edward Baldwin.—On Monday and Tuesday evening the Ormonde Family appeared at the Assembly Roo

QUEEN'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Chas. Beauland and W. H. Emerson; Business-Manager, Mr. W. H. Emerson.—Henderson and Stanley, in their instrumental and acrobatic act, occupy a prominent place on the bill. Their business is clever, and provides a quarter of an hour's genuine amusement. George Rennard sings some good songs, and is making a success; Herman, juggler, provides a clever turn, and is adroit in the gentle art of making something out of nothing; Rowan and Moore get a good reception as speciality artists; the Brothers Brooks give some humorous fooling of the best quality; some dainty dancing and charming singing is provided by the Sisters Brand; Miss Flo D'Orville is in evidence as an original ballet girl; Hy. Gold is a distinct success in a song-scena, Cloudland; the Loyal Dominion's company of animated pictures are still showing some interesting pictures.

CHATHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr. Geo. G. Ridley.—Mr. George Dance's company is paying a return visit with Veronique. Miss Ethel Negretti is engaged for the title-rôle, and makes a popular success. Agatha is represented in excellent style by Doris Greville; as the Countess Miss Edith Devonshire proves quite a favourite; Miss Neste Laurel is a pleasing little Denise; Mr. Roland Bottomley is repeating his easy interpretation of Florestan de Vallancourt; Mr. Percival Knight is a sprightly M. Loustot; and in the hands of Mr. Tom Seymour M. Coquenard proves a highly-amusing personage.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. Frank J. Donne.—The leading attraction here is the Daunton-Shaw Troupe of Australian trick cyclists; Walker and May are adding to their many local admirers; the New Macs patter, sing, and dance to everyone's satisfaction; ballads are pleasingly rendered by the Three Grosvenors; the Edisonograph has a laughable film, "The Tomboys"; the Sisters Dorell are neat dancers; and Maudie Macdonald, ballad vocalist; and George Leonard, comedian, complete the bill.

CHELTENHAM.—OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—This week an acceptable change is afforded by Miss Florence Glossop-Harris and Mr. Frank Cellier, jun.'s, Shakespearean répertoire company, which opened on Monday evening with Romeo and Juliet. Mr. Frank Cellier as Romeo, youthful and gallant in appearance, was by turns impetuous and tender, despondent and hopeful, speaking his lines with emotion and real feeling; Miss Florence Glossop-Harris was a very sweet, poetic, and girlish Juliet; Mr. Percy H. Vernon played the part of Mercutio with spirit and intelligence; the Tybalt of Mr. A. Cotton-Holmes and the Capulet of Mr. Edward Landor were very satisfactory studies; Miss Kate Turner was excellent as the nurse; Miss Ethel St. Barbe was prominent as Lady Capulet; Mr. David Santley was convincing as Friar Lawrence; Mr. Basil Deane a good Benvolio; and Mr. Herbert Halford acted with commendable drollery as the clownish Peter.

CHESTER.—ROYALTY THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—Sergeant Brue, as presented by Messrs. E. Lockwood, R. Crossman, and P. M. Foster's company, is the attraction here this week. Mr. E. Russell is a tower of strength in the title-rôle; Mr. Tom Shelford is excellent as Michael Brue, his topical song, "Do you follow me?" bringing down the house. Miss Ella Daincourt makes a great success with her song, "Under a panama"; Miss Constance Berkeley submits an amusing impersonation of the servant, Daisy. Inspector Gorringe has an able representative in the person of Mr. Clive McKee; whilst Mr. Henry Chichester makes a hit as Mr. Crank. Miss Edith Housley makes a charming Lady Bickenhall, scoring heavily in her song "Instinct." One of the chief factors in the success of the piece is Mr. Charles McLagan's laughable portrayal of Cookie Scrubbs. Other characters are in capable hands.

MUSIC HALL.—Agents, Messrs. Phillipson and Golder.—Dr. Carl Herman, the electric-healer, is appearing here, supported by a variety company and the Bioscope.

CHESTERFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Armstrong.—Pardoe's pantomime, Cinderella, constitutes this week's attraction. Miss Lottie Holland is a splendid Prince Charming; and Miss Beattie Shamrock, in the title-rôle, is all that can be desired. Miss Nelly Rose is a good Princess Rosalla; and Miss Ada Sterling is praiseworthy as Dandini. Miss Elsie Kedward shows grace as Fairy Rose Leaf; Miss Violet Rivers and Miss Louie Bright appear with success as the sisters, Eva and Maud; specialities are introduced by the Pardoes, the Brothers Hannaway, Miss Nellie Rose, the Desmond Girls, and Zenith, animal impersonator.

CHORLEY (Lancs).—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. G. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Hemingway.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company is presenting The Silver King at this theatre. Mr. Paul Beckett submits a capital impersonation of the Spider; and Mr. William Dempsey as the wily Elijah Coombe, Mr. Ralph Leo as the timid Henry Corket, and Mr. Seton Bernard as Cripps are capable exponents of the Spider's accomplices. Mr. Horace B. Herbert shows considerable ability in his delineation of Wilfred Denver, and the coolness and resourcefulness of his acting are very pronounced; Miss B. Doyle plays with much tenderness and pathos the part of Nellie Denver; Mr. Percy Foster's impersonation of the faithful Jaikes is a first-class piece of acting.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. C. Upton.—Messrs. E. H. Knight and G. Denham's company in The Grip of Iron opened here on Monday to a large house. Mr. Fred Powell, with whose personality as Simmonet, the strangler, the locals are well acquainted, was in quite his best form; Mr. George Denham as the Smiler was intensely funny; Mr. Wallace Curnock made a manly Paul; Miss Muriel Inglis aided the success as Sophie; Miss Rosabel Dodd, charmingly attired, was extremely good as Cora; and Miss Maggie Stuart was a capable Marie Guerin. A couple of really humorous parts were those of the new and old school detectives as delineated by Mr. J. R. Lockwood and Mr. John Brittain; and De Belfort and De Ribas were ably sustained by Mr. Norman Tracy and Mr. A. G. Polson-Turner.

HIPPODROME.—Joint-Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Jack de Frece; Resident Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—Mr. Chas. Morritt is paying a return visit this week with entirely new business; Mme. Beulah proves herself a marvel of mental telepathy; the Boy Samson gives a fine exhibition of weight-lifting; the Blind Man of Memory, also on a return visit, is accorded a hearty welcome; Marie Blythe possesses a voice of great power; and Chas. Sloman is extremely good with his eccentric songs and patter.

CONSETT.—NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Variety occupies the boards this week, and for the first time the two-houses-a-night system has been tried here with great success. The programme includes Osmond, musical comedian, who is well received; Miss Ada Clare, serio-comedy vocalist; Professor Willard's mannikins; Miss Clare Hastings, vocal comedienne; Mexican Max, assisted by Mlle. St. Clair, in a sensational shooting act; the Izons, grotesques; Joe Hasting, in feats of jumping; the bounding Loubetts, in their excellent acrobatic turn, concluding with a series of animated pictures, which are exceptionally good.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—The Night of the Party is the attraction for the week, and was well received on Monday night. As Mr. Crosbie Mr. Sebastian Smith was admirable; he played with great spirit, and caused much amusement. Mr. Douglas Munro as Flamber was successful; Mr. Frank H. Denton was a capable Frank Frayne; and as Bogle Mr. Stanley Arthur was amusing.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Henry Kemble.—An excellent bill of fare here includes Charles Spessardy's Bears, who give a clever performance; Lily Healy is a smart dancer; Fox and Melville, in illustrated pictures, give an entertaining turn. Valazzi scores as a juggler and equilibrist; Onda and Leon are a pair of clever horizontal-bar performers; Louis Hardt performs some wonderful feats of strength; the Musical Schaffers, in their speciality, are entertaining.

COVENTRY.—THE EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Dance; Manager, Mr. A. Rand.—One of the chief items here is a pantometta, entitled Bo-Peep, by Martin Byam, produced by Dean Tribune. The piece contains many popular songs, and is altogether very successful. Terry and Lambert make a big hit in a couple of character studies from life; Prof. Dunning gives a very clever ventriloquial act; Watson's dogs are presented, and show to what perfection animals can be trained; Frank Lynne is successful as a transatlantic comedian; Kahn and Kahn, modern necromancers, are well received; and there are the usual Bioscope pictures.

CREWE.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Taylor, J.P.—Pantomime is again the order of the day here, the Moore-Kennedy company presenting Dick Whittington Mlle. Lucretia, who is an old favourite, is an ideal principal boy, and is a pronounced success in her various musical numbers; Miss Helena Barton is a charming Alice Fitzwarren; Miss Josephine Townsend is captivating as the Princess; Miss Mollie Revell is well suited as the Fairy Queen; and Miss May Vincent, as Viscount Piccadilly, and Miss Lily Rhodes as Sir Rowland, are good. Mr. Will Sands humorously sustains the rôle of Idle Jack; Mr. Will Tozer is a capital Emperor; the Canadian Boys (Kino and Kirby) create roars of laughter as Shuffle and Shirk; Mr. Clarence Turner is an able exponent of Captain Bunting; Mr. Percy Victor is commendable as Alderman Fitzwarren; Mr. Fred Fulton gives a creditable performance of Betsy Mary Ann; and Little Hatch is funny as Bullock. Mons. Pauletti displays cleverness as the Cat. Specialities are introduced by Mlle. Lucretia, Mons. Pauletti, Will Sands and May Vincent, Victor's Musical Dogs, Palais Royal Quartette of Dancers, Tom Lewis, Clarence Turner, and Little Hatch. The chorus is a powerful one, and the orchestra is under the able direction of Mr. H. E. Nation.

CROYDON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Lambert.—Mr. Milton Bode has sent us an exceptionally good company this week to interpret the tuneful Belle of Mayfair. Miss May Yates wins all hearts by her enchanting portrait of Julia Chaldicott; Miss Mabel Dent makes a lively Pincott; Misses Paola Fernau and Jessie Swinney are charming as Sophia and Corrie Fay; Miss Agnes Tandy has a remarkably fine stage presence as H.S.H. Princess Carl of Ehrenbreitstein; Miss Emily Stevens is a comely and attractive Lady Chaldicott; Miss Aurelie de Loriere is great in the dual rôles of Countess of Highgate and the Gibson Girl; and Misses Evelyn Davenport, May Harriss, and Leslie St. John are fascinating as Lady Rosaline Rockesby, Lady Violet Gussop; and Diana P. Cholmondeley. Mr. Haddon Cave gives a sound performance as the Earl of Mount Highgate; Mr. Edward Hugonnet sings and acts to perfection as the Hon. Raymond Finchley; Mr. Harry Parker is quaint and curious as Sir John Chaldicott; Mr. Gwyn Alwyn makes the most of the rôle of Hugh Meredith; Mr. Lauri Lisle gives a capital sketch of Comte de Perriet; Mr. George McCloskie is good as Dr. Marmaduke Lawrence, Bishop of Brighton; and useful work is put in by Messrs. Fred Brundon, Louis Wigley, and H. Buckland.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Herrick.—Mr. Horace Stanley and company are presenting the well-known drama, The 10.30 Down Express, here this week. Mr. Geo. Beverley is distinctly good as Jack O'Mally; Mr. Chad Burden as James Inderick acts with strength and power; Mr. Edwin Clarke as Huntley Mason is well placed; Mr. Alaric Burton gives an excellent representation of Cuthbert Leigh; Mr. Tom Roydon as Seth Coombes is very convincing; and Mr. Horace Stanley is particularly able in the rôle of Sam Wagstaff. Miss Elsie Capell as Bessie Leigh acts with grace and sincerity; Miss Evelyn M. Walton causes much merriment as Lettie Leigh; Miss Josephine Lee makes the most of the part of Olive Coombes, and Miss Kate Kilpack as Peggy Potts is commendable.

PUBLIC HALL.—The Zancigs gave their marvellous "thought-reading" act here on Monday, and caused quite a sensation. Two performances were given to packed houses. The Zancigs were supported by Miss Katie Moss, soprano and violinist; Miss Clara Alexander, in plantation songs; Miss Ethel Grimes, light soprano; Mr. Sydney Jarvis, baritone; Mr. David Brazell, operatic baritone; Mr. E. Thornley-Dodge, society entertainer; and Mr. Harold E. Scott, solo pianist and accompanist.

DARWEN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. A. M. Loader; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. J. Robinson.—We have here this week the American drama, entitled Alaska, played by Mr. Hilliard Vox's company. Mr. Percy Ballard is successful as Skookum Jim, being excellently supported by Miss Violet Crawford as Alaska. Mr. G. Flayton works hard as Ned Larson; Baptiste, the half-bred, is well represented by Mr. H. Naylor Grimson; and Mr. Geo. Poole creates amusement as Pompey. Miss Muriel Vox displays ability as Jessie Dalton; and as the Widow's Mite Little Winnie Webster is worthy of mention.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley.—Mr. Lewis Waller's company is attracting highly-appreciative houses here this week with Robin Hood. As the romantic outlaw himself Mr. Robert Minster plays with both daring and genius. As Lady Marion de Vaux Miss Marie Polini has the sympathy and admiration of her audience from start to finish. An outstanding feature of the production is the striking presentment of Prince John by Mr. Ballendon Clarke. Richard of England is very capably handled by Mr. Stockall Ward; and FitzAlwynne is well played by Mr. Arthur Willerby; while Hugo de Longespee has a powerful exponent in Mr. H. Elliott Ball. As Little John Mr. F. C. Villiers takes a high place; and Mr. Augustus Wheatman is a really capital Friar Tuck. Mr. Hugh Wakefield carefully portrays De Tracy, and Mr. Edwin H. Jacobs is praiseworthy as the Abbot. Allan-a-Dale is excellently accounted for by Mr. Ethelbert Edwards; and Will Scarlett is cleverly depicted by Mr. Laurence Tessier. Queen Eleanor is finely sketched by Miss Mabel Younge; Miss Moore Lane submits an exceedingly dainty characterisation of Adela; and Miss Lilian Lait well merits honourable mention as Alison Much. It is hardly possible to speak in terms too commendatory of the vocal efforts of Mr. Ethelbert Edwards and Mr. Augustus Wheatman.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Herbert Taylor.—Phil and Nellie Peters, American comedy entertainers, top the bill this week, and prove themseves quite the funniest turn seen here for some time. Their indescribable drolleries fairly take the house by storm. Another capital turn is that of Les Rallis, the artist and his monkey, a splendid impersonation, by the way, which introduces some clever knockabout comedy. The Seven Wulfrunas, lady and gentleman acrobats, execute various difficult feats in capital style, and are deserving of high praise. Fred Forsfall, a mimic, is an undoubted success; Marie Leonard, comedienne, appears to distinct advantage in her charmingly-rendered songs; the Brothers Levett submit a brilliant vaulting act; and Steeley and Dowton, burlesque artists, cause much diversion. The Palace Bioscope also contributes in no small way to a good all-round programme.

DEVONPORT.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Geo. S. King.—John S. Thompson's company enter on the last week's engagement with their pantomime, Red Riding Hood. It is a well balanced and richly mounted little production, and a distinguishing feature of the entertainment is the first-class excellence of the specialities. Mme. Bartenelli performs some astounding contortionist feats; Pulo is a very accomplished juggler; Carl Esmond, tramp cartoonist, reaps plenty of applause; and a smart little quartette of exponents of the terpsichorean art, the Vanetta Troupe, add to the attractiveness of the programme.

DONCASTER.—NEW THEATRE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—Messrs. Glenville and Osmond's company presented The Still Alarm to a large gathering on Monday. Mr. Glenville himself is an athletic exponent of Jack Manley; Mr. George Arthur had the sang-froid necessary to an interesting rendering of John Bird; and Mr. Tom Beasley brought out effectively the nobility of Willie Manley. Mr. Fred Osmond's Doc Wilber was artistically presented; and the rôle of Franklyn Fordham was satisfactorily rendered by Mr. Lewis Gordon. Miss Mabel Veriton was the embodiment of a mother; Miss Gertie Reid made an admirable Cad Wilber; and Miss Maud Warburton was a pathetic Elinor Fordham.

DOVER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Chairman of Directors, Mr. B. Carter; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred C. Dew; Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Ltd.—That the return visit of Mr. H. F. Maltby's Youngest of Three company was a popular engagement was proved by the excellent houses and enthusiastic audiences attracted the early part of the week. There has been a complete change of cast, the only exception being Mr. Maltby, who still retains his original part of George Wendover. This clever young author-actor's impersonation was even more strikingly effective than on his previous visit, its chief point still being the absolute naturalness that carries conviction. Mr. A. S. Wyn Weaver has been allotted the part of Gerald Wendover, and scored a distinct success with his rendering of the courageous young lover. The leading traits in the character of Philip Radford lost nothing of their significance as portrayed by Mr. Reginald Favell, and Mr. Frano Stoney made prominent by admirable acting the minor part of Samuel Johns. A genuine bit of real comedy was contributed by Mr. Lyndon C. Irwin as Paul, and Mr. Harris Fraser also showed considerable humour as Joshua Pynne. The charming personality of Miss Mora Maltby did much to render the character of Lucy Dulley lovable. The pathetic part of Florence was emphasised with skill by Miss Grace Richardson; and Miss Janet Hodson realised to the full the pride of the stately eldest Miss Dulley. Much amusement was caused by Miss Dolly Cousin's good work as Jane, particularly in the last act; and Mr. S. Amclegg as Hickey, Mr. R. Seeth Innes as Loke, and Mr. George Laidlow as Perkins considerably helped towards the general success. On Thursday an entirely new play by Mr. Maltby was produced. This proved to be a costume comedy of the eighteenth century, entitled Sir George of Almack's.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Lessees, The Vaudeville Syndicate; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Holt; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. C. R. Standfield.—Fred Lawrence and special company top the bill this week, and gain a good reception for their admirably-played comedy-drama, My Landlord, produced under the direction of Mr. Lew Lake. The Brothers Curran bring down the house with their exceedingly clever boxing act. A humorous turn is given by Billie Taylor, a most amusing comedian and expert dancer. The Sisters Edwards, two prettily-dressed comediennes, score with their well-chosen songs. The popular Eton boy, in the person of Miss Lillian Victoria, gains much applause for her interesting turn. Some smart cross-patter is contributed by the Brians. The Brothers Addeley appear in the comedietta, An Officer's Servant, their musical item being also novel, and gaining an encore. The Bio-Tableaux Pictures are highly amusing.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mrs. Michael Gunn; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Hyland.—Mr. George Edwardes's company is here this week in the enterprising manager's latest production, The Lady Dandies (The Merveilleuses), which has drawn excellent houses. There are many old friends in the cast, Mr. Eric Thorne singing admirably in the character of St. Amour, Prefect of Police, and causing no end of amusement. Mr. W. Tallier Andrews has a nice voice, and appears with great success as Dorlis. Mr. Lennox Pawle as Tournesal and Mr. Jack Cannot as Malicorne are a most amusing pair; Mr. Robert Hale as the dandy Lagorille has a good voice, and acts with consummate ability. Miss Anna Hickisch, with her excellent voice and pleasing appearance, gains great appreciation for her portrayal of Lodoiska (La Merveillense); Miss Deborah Volar sings nicely as Illyrine; and Miss Dora Langham, in the rôle of Egle, is particularly good. Miss Vivian Talleur as St. Cyr, a dancer, is also successful. The dresses and scenery are splendid, and the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Harold Vicars, is all that could be desired.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—The Hippodrome season here continues to attract good houses. This week we have Mme. Alice Esty, in her operatic scena, "Betta the Gypsy," Mme. Esty's excellent acting and her artistic singing as Betta being greatly admired. Mr. Crawford Kent as Betta's husband, Mr. Charles Ommaney as the Chief of Gypsies, and Miss Lena Pierpoint as the Queen also appear with success. Kreamer and Braun, in their cycle act, introducing the American horse Dolly Varden in a racing performance, are well received. Voldam Brothers are clever Dutch acrobats, and score decidedly; Bert Williams is an excellent ventriloquist; and Gerhardi Mohr does some smart somersault feats; the Three Olympiers give a series of beautiful bronze scriptural figures, which are most artistic; the Paul Hesse Trio, in their acrobatic and wire act, win appreciation; and Bert Coote's Yankee Doodle Girls sing and dance in a pleasing and effective manner. Toch and Tard, gymnastic eccentrics, are warmly applauded for their grotesque wrestling, which is particularly smart; and the Royal Pictures are also an attraction.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—The fare submitted here this week is again of a first-class nature, the principal attraction being Miss May Moore Duprez, whose excellent songs, dances, and amusing patter receive well-merited applause. Martin Adeson presents a new sketch, entitled The Masked Lady, which provokes much laughter; Carrie Joy renders her songs in a style which elicits hearty appreciation; Fred Elton's speciality act, "On Board an Ocean Liner," is highly amusing. The Allisons, comedy artists, meet with a good reception; Kelly and Ashby, "bounding billiardists," give a clever performance; the Clarence Corri company, in their sketch, Office Hours, is brimful of fun; Edie Veno gives an enjoyable turn of song and dance; and the Empire Pictures are, as usual, interesting.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—Ricardo and Salving top the bill here in a smart acrobatic and equilibristic act, which is loudly applauded. The Cecilias, lady instrumentalists, perform some clever musical selections, and the Westwoods score again in their comedy cycling act. Florence Smithers and company, in their sketch, Hard Lives, create much amusement; and capital business is added by Newman and Gros, dialect comedians; Bert Lytton, swell comique; the Orchids, duologue artists; Harry Fife, versatile comedian; and Elton and Elma, triple-bar performers. The Bioscope pleases with new films.

ABBEY THEATRE.—The White Cockade, a comedy in three acts, by Lady Gregory, was again presented here on Saturday night last, and was well received by the large audience present. The rôle of Patrick Sarsfield was graphically depicted by Mr. F. J. Fay, and King James II. had an able exponent in Mr. Arthur Sinclair. Mr. J. M. Kerrigan did full justice to the part of Carter, Secretary to King James, and Miss Sara Allgood effectively portrayed the rôle of a poor lady. The comedy element was well sustained by Mr. W. G. Fay as Matt Kelleher, and he was ably supported by Miss Maire O'Neill as his wife Mary; while Mr. J. A. O'Rourke was satisfactory as the son, Owen Kelleher. Mr. Harry Young made the most of the part of the Williamite Captain; and as the first and second Williamites Messrs. A. Power and W. Wright were both good.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The artists appearing here include:—Walter Boyd, versatile comedian; Little Eva, American coon vocalist; the Moodys, comedians; Alex Kennedy, comedian and dancer; Nellie Lloyd, chic comedienne; Little Leno, boy comedian; and the Cinematograph.

DUMFRIES.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. W. E. Potts; Manager, Mr. Payne-Seddon.—For the first three nights this week the attraction is Miss Delaval and company in Her Lost Self and The Biggest Scamp on Earth. Miss Francis Delaval played with much acceptance the part of Philiphine Marcel. Miss Clare O'Sullivan as Lucille and Dorothy was very favourably received; Miss Min Johnston as Daddy's Darling was well portrayed. Mr. Cecil Gray was a marked success as Wilfred Daventry; Mr. G. Osmond Tearle was well placed as Norman Esmond; Mr. Leslie Yorke as Paul Kimberley and Mr. L. W. Halfpenny as Victor Elsworth were very good, the rest of the company lending good support.

DUNDEE.—PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Manager, Mr. E. J. Dexter.—May Henderson occupies the place of honour this week, and her vigorous dancing meets with much appreciation. Horton and Linder, two exceedingly clever gymnasts, give an exceptionally clever performance, which is characterised throughout by great skill and daring; Helen Charles, who is possessed of a good voice, supplies a novel and very enjoyable turn in her drawing-room entertainment. Others who contribute to a varied and attractive programme are the Brothers Ralson, Lena Brunton, Barney Armstrong, Bert Dawson, and Lade Henderson; while the Bioscope, like the poor, is always with us.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—Star turn here is May Lilian Levey, who is scoring a terrific success, her song, "The Suffragette," being encored again and again. Magna, in classical and artistic poses, is another strong draw. Philip Sefton, baritone vocalist, a big favourite at this house, scores again; while George Young, blind musician and concertina player, contributes a very enjoyable musical turn. The Percys, speciality performers, are decidedly clever, their "Showman" song being a delightful bit of comedy. The Chronophone and the North-American Animated Pictures are amongst the other attractions.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—Owing to their enormous success last week, Mr. Percival has wisely retained Mr. Jury's Animated Photo company for another week. An entirely new series of pictures are shown this week, combining humorous, pathetic, and tragic subjects. The picture programme is pleasingly interspersed with variety turns, including Vera Bateman, a charming ballad vocalist, and Harry Jennings, a capital comedian and dancer. Quite a feature of the entertainment is the delightful music supplied by the orchestra during the picture show.

DUNFERMLINE.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. E. Potts.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company opened here on Tuesday night a two-nights' engagement in A Chinese Honeymoon. Mr. Harold Cotter is a capable Hang Chow; Mr. Louis Ashmeade is a creditable Chippie Chop; Mr. Frank Sutton makes a good Hi Lung; Mr. J. Maxwell Edwardes ably sustains the part of Tom Hatherton; and Mr. Ernest Sefton sings and dances well as Mr. Pineapple. Miss May Davis is bright and pleasing as Mrs. Pineapple; Miss Alma Bolton does credit to the rôle of Mrs. Brown; and Miss Kitty Clayton is exceedingly funny as the eccentric little waitress, Fi-Fi. Miss Louie Leighton does well as Mi-Mi; Miss May Stevenson plays with great charm the part of Soo-Soo. The chorus is highly efficient, and the staging and dresses excellent.

EASTBOURNE.—PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Messrs. Gale and Polden's animated pictures of naval and military life are being shown this week. The pictorial work is throughout most entertaining and admirable, and appeals strongly to the audience. Very clever musical sketches are contributed by Mr. Wilfred Lyndon; and Miss Maudie Wright is an excellent and pleasing vocalist.

DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Devonshire Park and Baths Co., Ltd.; Managers, Messrs. Murray, King, and Clark. Mr. Russell Rosse's company is appearing here during the week in A Pair of Spectacles and Caste. In the former, Mr. David James gives an even and effective performance as the kind-hearted Benjamin Goldfinch; Mr. Norman Clark's work as Uncle Gregory from Sheffield was of the very best, and the audience frequently recognised his conspicuous success; Mr. Albert Wray and Mr. Eric Maxon were both smart and capable as Percy and Dick; and Mr. F. J. Hampson and Mr. M. Denham deserved praise as Lorimer and Bartholomew. Miss Ida Phillips was an interesting and animated Mrs. Goldfinch; Miss L. Kingston an attractive Lucy Lorimer; and Miss Rachel de Travis a satisfactory Charlotte. A Silent Woman was well acted as the curtain-raiser.

EDINBURGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—The successful pantomime here has been followed by the powerful drama Lights Out, presented by a company under the direction of Mr. J. Maundy Gregory. The various parts are sustained with admirable ability. Mr. Charles Esdale as Lieut. Von Lauffen gives a clever performance of the light-hearted villain, acting throughout with excellent dramatic effect. Mr. Lionel D'Arragon's portrayal of Sergeant Volkhart is a strong piece of melodramatic acting; and Mr. Kenneth Brampton as Lieut. Von Howen forcible and impressive. Mr. Francis J. Bithell supplies an amusing character study as Corporal Queiss; and the acting of Mr. Frederick Clifton as Private Michael is full of humour. Miss Francis Davie is charming as Klara Volkhart, and the emotional passages of the part are acted with sincerity and pathos. Good work is also done by Mr. Arthur Stone as Captain Von B. Bameurtz; and by Mr. Lambert Plummer as Capt. Ledenburg—a bright bit of comedy acting. The drama is preceded by a smart little play, A Hundred Years Hence, capitally acted by Miss Bella Donaldson and Mr. Lambert Plummer.

ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull.—The customary cordial reception has marked the appearance of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Benson and their Shakespearean company in a round of the well-known plays. The week's engagement opened with Hamlet, of which an excellent rendering was given. Mr. Benson's scholarly interpretation of the leading part is marked by careful study; and the Ophelia of Mrs. Benson is a sweet and winning impersonation. Mr. Clarence Derwent as the King, Mr. H. O. Nicholson as Polonius, Mr. George Buchanan as Laertes, and that sound comedian Mr. George R. Weir as First Gravedigger played with force and spirit; while Miss Helen Haye and Miss Leah Hanman were successful as Gertrude and the player Queen. Julius Cæsar was effectively staged on Tuesday, with Mr. Benson at his best as Marcus Antonius, Mr. Edward A. Warburton a really noble Brutus, Mr. Clarence Derwent a vigorous Cassius, and Mrs. Benson and Miss H. Haye in the rôles of Portia and Calphurnia. The Taming of the Shrew, Macbeth, As You Like It, and The Merchant of Venice have been included in the productions of the week.

KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard.—Mr. Robert Courtneidge's production of The Blue Moon remains here for another week, and has been drawing good houses. Miss Florence Imeson is a tower of strength in the part of Millicent Leroy, which this clever actress plays with abundant dash, while her singing and dancing are marked by daintiness and brightness. Mr. Reginald Switz has deepened the favourable impression made by his really humorous powers as a comedian; and Mr. Alfred Beers as Moolraj is distinctly droll. Nothing can be more graceful than Miss Clarice Lockstone's impersonation of Chandra Nil, the Blue Moon, and her singing is characterised by fervour and expression. Mr. Thomas Holding is a stately Prince; and the other members of the company, notably Mr. J. Edward Fraser as Captain Jack Ormsby; Mr. George Mudie, jun., as Bobby Scott, and Mr. Alfred Clark as a Major Vivian Callabone, give skilful performances of their respective parts. The chorus work is admirably rendered, and Mr. Ernest Hurman displays much ability as conductor.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Parham Wells.—Baby Betty Green and Nipper Lupino Lane are apt and clever juveniles, whose singing and dancing quite take the fancy of their audiences; while Miss Daisy Dormer and Miss Violet Englefield are charming comediennes. Miss Jeannie Mackay renders her several songs very delightfully in finished and artistic style; Mr. Billy McLain's coloured sextette put great animation into their coon songs and dances; and both Mr. Charles Vincent and Mr. James Brady are adepts in singing humorous and character ditties. Smart conjuring tricks and illusions are deftly performed by Sylvesta; Lidden and Hayward contribute an interesting musical speciality; and the entertaining sketch His Birthday is most enjoyably presented by Miss Minnie Hunt and Mr. Rhys Thomas. The outstanding feature of the bill is the extraordinary acrobatic display given by the Kremos, whose astonishing Risley performance is carried through with wonderful skill and neatness.

EXETER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—This week Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company is presenting here Oliver Twist. As Fagin, Mr. Stanley Drewitt gives a finished performance; and Mr. Cecil A. Collins is capital as Bill Sikes. Miss Edith Anton Laing is decidedly good as Nancy. her acting being all that could be desired. Little Mirrie Omar does well in the title-rôle, and although young, shows great promise; as Rose Maylie, Miss Eva Stuart is a distinct success, her acting being natural; Mr. Edward Comerbach ably sustains the part of Mr. Brownlow; and Mr. W. H. Rotheram is good as Mr. Grimwig and Monks. Mr. Paige Lawrence's Harry Maylie is a success.

FALKIRK.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—Human Hearts is the title of the drama which ran for the first three nights of the week. It was presented by Mr. Robt. MacDonald's company, and took very well indeed. Mr. W. D. Fazan played the hero very well; while Mr. Ernest Gray made a palpable villain. As Jem Mason, Mr. E. H. Dobell is deserving of a special line. His low comedy work was very clever. The part of the mother was played with rare effect by Miss Edwin Palmer; and the quiet and loving Ruth Larkins (Miss Dora Watson) stood out in bold relief against the unscrupulous and base Jeannette Logan (Miss Maud Lindon). Miss Rena Roberts, as a girl-actress, did her part very nicely. The other parts were well filled. On Thursday the Falkirk Operatic Society appeared in the comic opera Dorothy.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—The attraction this week is Peter's Mother, capitally presented by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company. The character of Lady Mary Crewys is capably interpreted by Miss Ruth Mackay; Mr. Charles Harley acts impressively as Sir Timothy Crewys; Mr. Percy Hutchison is responsible for a striking portrayal of Peter Crewys; Miss Mary Griffiths does excellent work as Lady Belstone: Mrs. Mallalieu leaves nothing to be desired as Miss G. Crewys; Mr. Eille Norwood as John Crewys plays naturally and with success; Mr. William Mallalieu makes a good Canon Birch: Dr. Blundell is in the safe hands of Mr. Drew Mackintosh; Miss Ethel Royale shows ability as Mrs. Hewell, and Miss Hilda Honiss is conspicuously successful as Sarah. The comedy is preceded by Chalk and Cheese.

GAINSBOROUGH.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Stear.—On Monday and two following nights Mrs. Morton Powell's company appeared here in When it was Dark. This interesting play was excellently presented, Miss Elizabeth Watson giving a fine impersonation of Gertrude Hunt. Mr. Cyril Austin-Lee submitted a powerful rendering of Rev. Basil Gortre, and Mr. Geo. H. Pitt dealt with the difficult part of Constantine Schuabe in an artistic manner. The Llewellyn of Mr. Arthur B. Murray was a fine character-study; and Mrs. Morton Powell was a charming Helena Byers. The other characters were well filled by Messrs. Hy. Heller, Miller Wilson, G. Mortimer, and W. B. Somerville.

GATESHEAD. — King's Theatre. — Lessees, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; General-Manager, Mr. Harold Arnold.—The Dayton Family, risley performers par excellence, top the bill here this week, and obtain richly-deserved applause; Collinson's company in The Topsy-Turvy School, causes much amusement; Susie and Protti, continental speciality dancers, submit a clever entertainment; wonderful is the correct description of the dancing of Lily Flexmore, who makes a tremendous hit; there is much that is excellent in the ventriloquial business of Russell Carr; Richardson Taylor, siffleur and mimic, is warmly praised; Milner Verren, an acceptable tenor; Jack Barrie, Scotch comedian; and the pictures shown by Vernon's Bioscope make up a capital "show."

Metropole Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Councillor Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France.—Miss Maud Hildyard is presenting The Great Awakening to good audiences here this week. Miss Hildyard's Lola Selby takes rank as one of the best pieces of work ever presented to Gateshead playgoers. Mr. A. C. Hardie proves an able exponent of James Selby; and Mr. Frank Liston shows great ability in the dual parts of Sir Henry and Jack Merton: Mr. Stephen Langton makes the most of his opportunities as Guy Rogan; and Mr. Gordon McLeod is effective as Harry Lambert. Mr. J. H. Booth is well placed as Richard Wilson; and the comedy is capitally exploited by Mr. Willie Scott (Billy Brass) and Miss Lila Nordon (Selina Worts). A very dainty Molly Merton is presented by Miss Doris Digby.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Councillor Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—Mr. Frank Ayrton's company is appearing here in The Power of Gold. Mr. Geo. Lyttleton supplies an effective Hadgi Zambra; Mr. R. F. Stacy is well suited to the rôle of Paul Judson; Mark Harley is cleverly rendered by Mr. Richard Harris; Mr. Wilson Wyte as Marc Anthony, Mr. Frank Holyoake in the part of Dr. Saunders, and Mr. W. Victor as Peter Maguire, are responsible for good embodiments: whilst Mr. Ayrton is quite at home in the humorous part of Sammy Smudge. Miss Amy McNeill makes a powerful Lady Brandon, and Miss Lily Prescott does well as Meg Judson; Miss Madge Seymour is a vivacious Norah Donnelly, and Little Prudence as Paddy Blake is very popular.

GLASGOW.—King's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—The Moody-Manners Opera Company opened their second week's engagement with Faust before a crowded audience. Mr. Joseph O'Mara gave a very fine rendering of the title-rôle, and was repeatedly recalled. Mr. Charles Manners, whose voice is so well suited to the part of Mephistopheles, was eminently successful, and largely shared the good appreciation of an enthusiastic audience. Mr. William Denver as Valentine was highly successful, being gifted with a fine voice and good stage presence. The Marguerita of Mme. de Vere was a charming study, and her singing throughout was irreproachable. Miss Mildred Bryan as Siebel sang sweetly and took no small share in the general success. The other parts were in able hands, and the chorus thoroughly competent. The treatment given by the orchestra, under the able direction of Signor Ronnaldo Sapio, was very fine, and largely contributed to the successful interpretation of the work. Nicolai's Merry Wives of Windsor; Verdi's Aïda, for the first time by this company; Tannhäuser, Carmen, Il Trovatore, and the ever-green Bohemian Girl complete the répertoire here.

Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphrys.—This week the Orpheus Club are giving their annual production in the cause of charity, their choice being the Savoy opera, Merrie England.

Royalty, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—Mr. Charles Frohman's company has opened here for two weeks with Peter Pan. This company closed on Saturday at the Duke of York's Theatre, and opened in Glasgow on Monday, when the play went without a hitch, a feat worth recording, considering the elaborate scenery required for Peter Pan. Miss Pauline Chase is the Peter Pan, a change since the extravaganza was last in Glasgow, and a charmingly simple little fellow she makes; while Miss Hilda Trevelyan as Wendy is a delightful "little mother." The other Darling children are nicely portrayed by Master George Hersee as John and Master Ernest Hollom as Michael; also the dog-nurse, Nana, by Mr. E. Silward. Mr. Loring Fernie demonstrates what diversity of character an actor can assume by doubling the parts of a mild city gentleman and a truculent captain of a band of pirates. Miss Mary Mayfren is equally excellent as the attentive mother seeing her children put to bed, and as the bereaved one who thinks her little ones may be gone for ever.

Grand, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. D. Macfarlane.—On Monday the Carl Rosa Opera Company had an excellent send-off for their fortnight's season of opera, the house being crowded in every part, while the enthusiasm of the audience was very marked. Mozart's Marriage of Figaro was the opening selection, and under the conductorship of Mr. Walter Van Noorden an exceptionally good performance was given. Mr. Charles Victor in acting and singing made an ideal Figaro; while the Susannah of Miss Elizabeth Burgess was full of sprightly humour and vocally perfect. Miss Lucille Hill made a welcome reappearance as Countess Almaviva, and gave the music of the part with sympathetic charm. A distinct hit was made by Miss Doris Woodall as Cherubino, her performance being voted one of the best seen here in recent years. Mr. Arthur Winckworth's fine voice proved of immense advantage as the Count, while his acting as the amorous and jealous husband was specially good. Miss Annie Walker, Miss Douglas Wilson, and Messrs. Frederick Clendon, Albert Felton, Alec Richard, and Frank Inniss completed a good cast. On Tuesday Il Trovatore was given, with Miss Grace Nicoll, Mr. Julius Walther, and Mr. Dillon Shallard in the leading parts. On Wednesday Nicolai's Merry Wives of Windsor was given with an exceptionally clever cast; and performances of Fidelio, Cavalleria Rusticana, Pagliacci, Tannhäuser, and Rigoletto complete the week's list of attractions.

Princess's.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—Mother Goose is now the only pantomime running in Glasgow, and still continues to attract large houses nightly. The principals have all introduced new business and new songs. Miss Ethel Campbell as Robin has established herself a favourite; the same may be said of Miss Ella Retford as Marguerite; and the Sisters Hall as Strephon and Dorothy have danced themselves into popularity. The Fairy Greatheart of Miss Sadie Wade is a charming performance, and Miss Grace Elvio pleasingly portrays the part of Spirit of Discord. The comedians all work hard, and keep the house in good humour. A very clever performance is that of Messrs. Foreman and Fannan (Spottem and Robert), their business being very amusing. Other favourites are Messrs. Austin Lenton, Wal Croft, and Harry McClelland.

Metropole, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—The French Spy is proving a very strong card at this popular house. Mr. Fred Benton has a good company. As the strong man, Fritz, he makes a most enjoyable study of the rôle, and is much in evidence. In a lengthy cast, where there are quite a galaxy of capable performers, we may single out especially the Captain Sommers of Mr. Beresford Lovett, Lieut. Maxwell (Mr. L. Chasby), Count Romanoff (Mr. Max Coutts), General Trepoff (Mr. H. Travers), Alexis (Mr. Chas. Digby), and Knipps (Mr. S. Perry). The ladies—Misses Ella Seton, A. Harrison Tate, and Madge Devereux—deserve commendation.

Lyceum.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—Colin's Excursions Round the World take the form of an interesting series of animated pictures, which are shown under the "conductorship" of Madame Ainsworth. Between the various scenes a variety entertainment is offered, and adds to the enjoyment of the night. Sterling and Cashen are clever dancers; Miss Violet Robson's scena, The Lady Artist, is well received; as are the efforts of Fred Lyndo and Barney Noble.

Empire.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. Mussett.—Geo. Lashwood, vocal comedian, meets with a rousing reception, his several songs being delivered in masterful style, and being thoroughly appreciated. The Harmony Four also are welcomed, their comedy creating great amusement. Other notable turns include Florence St. John and company in a perplexing comedy interlude; May and Lily, vocalists and instrumentalists; Ed. E. Forde, facial contortionist: Park's Eton Boys, vocalists; Burns and Burns, comedians; the Maningos, juvenile balancers; Leipzig, conjurer; and the Bioscope with an up-to-date series of films.

Zoo-Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The conjuring act, The Magic Carpet, is a most mysterious item, and wonderfully well carried through. Lillian Dundas and company appear in a dramatic and thrilling sketch entitled The Doom of Delilah, written by Cecil Raleigh. Rose Hamilton gets quite an ovation on her first visit since the Metropole pantomime concluded, and her songs are given with much vivacity. Howard and St. Clair in a comedy turn are as funny as ever; Cullane's Comedy Four contribute a lively musical sketch, with lots of fun. Another good comedy and vocal turn is that of Vay's Juveniles, who were heartily received; the Three Taberts play well on their xylophones: Marzella's cockatoos, &c., are wonderfully trained: and Vetter Bros. give an equilibristic speciality. On the Bioscope, pictures of Little Tich are shown with much fidelity to life.

Pavilion, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr Samuel Lloyd.—The energetic manager here has again made a happy hit by securing Little Tich, who has not been in Glasgow for a considerable time, and as a result the Pavilion is crammed to its utmost capacity. The versatile Tich is in great form, and his newest ditties are quite in his best style; in addition, he obliges with a big-boot dance. Three artists from the Grand pantomime are retained here—Luna Love, who proves a great favourite: Little Maudie Francis, whose tiny voice and clever step-dancing catch on immensely; and Frances Kapstone, the smart soubrette. Ernest Rees is another strong card in the programme, and his eccentricities take well. Cribb and Cribb are a smart pair of humorists; the Ringling Trio are clever stilt-walkers, &c.; and Millie Howell's motto songs catch the public ear at once.

Coliseum.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Ltd; District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Burdette.—We are visited by Fred Karno's company in The Football Match, a mirth-provoking burlesque of the popular game, in which the well-known footballers, W. C. Athersmith, J. W. Crabtree, and Fred Spikesley appear as more or less serious players, while the comic business is cleverly sustained by Harry Weldon, Will Poluski, jun., Jack Royal, and others. The musical specialty of Frank and Jen Latona is always welcome in this city, and the present visit is no exception; the balancing feats in Carlos Caesaro's naval act formed a picturesque feature in the programme; two diverting turns are seen in the amusing contortions of Burley and Burley, and the smart patter of Bernard and Weston. Ailsa Douglas sings a couple of songs in good style, and that promising juvenile, Wee Mona, shows a real aptitude for song and dance.

Palace.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; General-Manager, Mr. Harry M'Kelvie.—W. F. Frame, Scotch character comedian, tops the bill, and had a splendid reception on the opening night, his songs being received with rounds of applause. H. O. Wills, "water-rat" comedian, also shared the honours, and received marked appreciation Other turns are those of Ada Martine, comedienne and dancer; the Zampas, duettists and dancers: Jack Hylton, comedian; the Two Dixons, banjoists and dancers; Charles Gardner, eccentric comedian: and the Bioscope, with a select series of pictures.

Gaiety, Ltd. — General-Manager, Mr. Harry Bowerman.—There is a good company here this week under the management of Mr. Bowerman, who assumed control a week ago, in place of Mr. W. H. Howard, resigned. Curtis and Vanity, acrobatic dancers, who are in great favour in Glasgow, top the bill, and, as usual, had a big reception: the Sisters Desmond sing and dance in a pleasing manner; and a popular local baritone, Stratton Wilson, sings well-chosen songs in an artistic style. The Harmony Boys are entertaining in Home for the Holidays, a song-scena; Fred Collins, Scotch comedian; Cling and Clancy, in patter, singing, and sand-dancing, also furnish enjoyable turns: and Bendon's Bioscope shows some up-to-date pictures.

GLOUCESTER.—Palace.—Owners, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—Mr. F. V. St. Clair, the topical and extempore vocalist, pays his first visit to the town, and makes a decided impression. The Smythsons are also accorded a hearty welcome for their clever and novel sketch, The Lie Alarm. Miss Flo Inman is a neat serio and dancer; and Mr. Tom Collins, with his songs founded on nursery rhymes, is quaint. Bell and Bell are responsible for a sketch, Making the Best of It; and Beattie Kent has some taking songs, which she supplements with smart dancing. Mr. Johnny Dwyer, both in low comedy and a homely ballad, gets at once on the best terms with the audience; and Hicks' Clerks, as comedians, vocalists, and dancers, are applauded. Mr. W. G. Webber displays his excellent bass voice to advantage in popular ballads. The Bioscope is this week showing some capital and realistic films of the Berlin disaster off the Hook of Holland.

GOOLE.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John E. Tomlinson. — Messrs. A. Hamilton - Warden and Chas. V. Sandford's company is appearing here this week in the domestic drama, A Woman with a Past. Mr. W. Henry Hargreaves gives a manly and vigorous portrayal of David Heath; Mr. A. Hamilton-Warden acts with much power the rôle of Dr. Clement Harper; Mr. G. Moreton-Williams as the villainous Uriah Craven is excellent; Mr. Chas. V. Sandford's highly amusing portrayal of Frank Dellannoy is the cause of much merriment Miss Maisie Hanbury charms the audience by her graceful, tender, and womanly portrayal of Bessie: Miss May Dallas is bright and winsome as Dorothy Heath, and Miss Eva Bertram gives a powerful portrayal of Clara Darrell. The dresses are quite a feature, and the scenery and effects worthy of special mention.

GREAT YARMOUTH. — Royal Aquarium. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—The attraction for the week is the convict drama, Sentenced for Life, played by Mr. Bulmer's company. Sir Wallace Stillwell is well represented by Mr. R. Brancepeth-Nevell; and Captain Derrick and Lieut. Stillwell are capitally portrayed by Mr. Tom Robertson and Mr. Ernest Dare. Mr. T. C. Glenville is successful as the Rev. Martin Orris: much amusement is caused by Mr. Chas. Conway as Bill Sharkey, and Mr. Reg. Aldroyd as Toby. Miss Hilda Merriless is effective as Adele Gray: and Kate Rennel, Lady Stillwell, and Lady Gray find able exponents in Miss Violet Wentworth. Miss Dorothy Howard, and Miss Kitty Huntley.

GREENOCK.—Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietors, The Greenock Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—The annual visit of the Compton Comedy Company is an interesting event, vastly enjoyed by local playgoers, and on Monday Davy Garrick was the attraction. In the title-rôle, Mr. Compton was seen to great advantage, and his efforts were greatly appreciated; Miss Mackenzie as Violet deserves great praise; Mr. Henry Crocker, as usual, made an admirable Alderman Gresham; and as the Hon. Tom Tallyhaut, Mr. Dennis Cleugh was very good. Miss Marie Hassell made an excellent Mrs. Rumbelow; Miss Barbara Pigott does well as Selina; and the other members of the cast lend valuable support. On Tuesday The Gentleman in Grey, a new play from the pen of Mr. Montague Compton, was presented for the first time here to a large, enthusiastic audience, and was received with every mark of approval. Other performances announced for the week were The School for Scandal, She Stoops to Conquer, and Edmund Kean.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—The Pichel Troupe of Risley performers head the bill here, and they perform feats of exceptional cleverness and daring; another interesting turn is that provided by the Brothers Durrant. Other acceptable turns are the Two Jays, "kwarrelsome komedians"; Tiny Arnold, a dainty comedienne; Arthur Slater, the whistling man in white; and Clark and Gold, banjo artists. The Empire pictures complete the bill.

Pavilion, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. A. White.—Bennett and Martell, in their nautical scena, The Lost Mariners, cause much merriment; Alice Blandford is a popular contributor, her songs being good and brightly rendered; Joseph B. Montague, assisted by Miss Alys Hardy, appear in a sketch entitled The Welsher Welshed, which proved as laughable a burlesque as has been seen here; Tom Stewart's impersonations are good; Blanche Marion is a sprightly comedienne; Sammy Shields, an old favourite, makes a hit; and the Paviscope pictures are excellent.

GRIMSBY.—Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Chairman of Directors, Mr. H. J. Curry; Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry.—The third pantomime of the present season is proving very attractive. It is Mr. Gar Kiddie's version of Bo-Peep, and is on thoroughly up to date lines. Miss Lizzie Payne is altogether charming as Bo-Peep, her dainty dancing being a popular feature. An ideal principal boy is seen in Miss Susie Bevan, and her singing is greatly admired. Mr. W. Hagues Gatty as the Demon, and Miss Nora Beverley as Fairy Moonbeam, are also responsible for good vocal work. The comedians are in exceptionally strong force. Mr. Kiddie himself appears as Tommy Long, and scores greatly as an eccentric comedian; whilst Mr. J. W. Groves is genuinely funny as Granny Brown. Mr. Bert Allen, despite his diminutive proportions, is also a cause of much merriment as Johnny Stout, and is ably supported by Mr. Albert Kail as Jimmy Green. Messrs. Gilroy and Cross introduce an abundance of amusing business as the tramps, Weary William and Tired Thomas; and Mr. R. C. Carlton makes the most of the character of the Baron. Specialities are presented by the Lohrenz quartette, the Solon trio, and the Hammersley troupe of dancers.

Curry's Tivoli.—Chairman of Directors, Mr. H. J. Curry; Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—The miniature musical farce, The Prince of Monte Carlo, is repeating its former success here. It is presented with an abundance of dash and spirit, and Mr. Harry Roxbury provokes unlimited mirth as the eccentric policeman. J. P. Ling is not only a clever mimic, but also displays engaging humour, and his many impersonations are well received. Wragg and Wragg perform remarkable feats of swordsmanship; Gillin is a ventriloquist with new ideas; the Lynches contribute good songs, accompanied by artistic limelight illustrations; Lily Lena is a vivacious comedienne; and Harry Barclay, comedian; and Boyd and Gilfain, in a comedy and vocal act, complete an attractive programme.

The Palace Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. V. Allton.—The illusions invented and produced by the Ten-Ji troupe, a quartette of Japanese magicians, completely mystify the audiences. The tricks are both smart and novel. Mount and Corelli prove to be extremely versatile artists, their turn including good singing, clever dancing, and new jokes. The Sisters Grovini display more than average skill as acrobats; Harry Hilton also accomplishes neat conjuring feats; Clito Clifford meets with favour as a Creole vocalist and dancer; Harry Carsdale is a successful mimic; whilst Hans and Lux, comedians and dancers; and the Donohoes, in a sketch, also present entertaining business.

HALIFAX. — Theatre Royal, Ltd. — General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson's company in Revenge is attracting good houses here, chief honours falling on Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson and Mr. George Da'per, who successfully interpret the principal rôles.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Hayman and Franklin's trifling American concoction The Matrimonial Agency has set Halifax laughing. Rossi Ashton's caricatures are sketched with lightning rapidity; Rita and Roma sing excellently; Fred Casburn is as eccentric as ever; as are Frobel and Ruge, Continental grotesques; Bert Dansie, Florence Deighton, the Bros. Corcoran (musical shipbuilders), and some mirth-provoking pictures complete the bill.

Palace and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Ed. Harrison.—The great music hall sketch The Fighting Parson is being played here to large and delighted houses by Mr. George Gray and company, after a short absence. Mr. Gray's interpretation of the title-rôle is a well-conceived study. In addition to the above, Ray Ford, Francis O'Flynn, the Lorrisons, and Pyck, and Tholl and Taylor are on the programme. On Thursday a gala matinée was given, when the stars, including Florrie Forde, appeared from the Leeds and Bradford pantomimes.

HANLEY. — Royal, Ltd — Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Douglas Elphinstone.—Mr. Charles Harrington's company is paying a visit in Uncle Tom's Cabin. Mr. J. W. Rogers is all that can be desired as Legree; Mr. Walter Langford as the lawyer proves most amusing; Mr. Harrington sustains St. Clair admirably; Uncle Tom is cleverly played by Mr. J. Carr; Miss Sylva Stella is a capital Topsy, her representation being much appreciated; Eva is nicely played by Miss Holly Haselwood. The harmonised melodies are much applauded, and the scenic effects are first class.

Grand.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes.—Ernest Shand heads the bill here, and scores an undoubted success; the Albert and Edmunds comedy troupe are seen in a sketch, Two in a Tree; the Saxon Trio are always welcome, and their performance, as usual, is truly wonderful; Cleland is most amusing, and his tumbling is heartily enjoyed; Mme Ada Gatley contributes a really clever turn upon a swinging wire; Horace Jones, Welsh comedian, scores a great success in his football song; Tate and Tate provide an amusing and clever performance; Raie Walters in her fishing song is appreciated. The pictures are capital.

HARROGATE. — Grand Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Smith.—For the first three nights of this week the Opera House was occupied by Mr. John Gerant and company in the military drama, At Duty's Call. As Harold Alison, Mr. John Gerant repeated the clever performance he has given now close on 2090 times; Mr. Harry Scott was excellent as Captain George Alison; and General Gordon had an able exponent in the person of Mr. Ernest St. John. The comedy element was in the safe hands of Miss Eva Belle as Mary and Mr. Harry Ugar as Terry O'Hallason, and they were applauded loudly for their efforts. As Salema, Miss Weston gave a finished performance; and Miss Lily Grammonde did well as Dora Drummond. Messrs. Warden and Sandford's company in A Woman's Past are here for the rest of the week.

HARTLEPOOL.—Empress.—Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charlie Ferrier.—Laughter reigns supreme whilst Doody and Wright, the Australian comiques, are on their funny business: Rose Elliott, "the singer of sensible songs," has thoroughly ingratiated herself with her audience; Harry Burns's juveniles have returned, and their smart dancing and singing are much admired; Alsopp and Bekwith are amusing in song and patter; with pretty stage effect Handel and Lee introduce a variety of well-executed musical selections, and gain a well-deserved encore; the dramatic sketch The Club Raid is performed by the Collinson Co.

HASTINGS.—Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—Miss Annie Hughes and company opened a week's visit here on Monday in Jerome's admirable play, Tommy. Jane was finely presented by Miss Annie Hughes, who was equal to the varying demands of the rôle; and "Mr. Morrison" was cleverly delineated by Miss Winifred Pearson. The young girl, Honour, had a capable exponent in Miss Ida Richardson; the punctilious editor of Good Humour was well played by Mr. Evelyn Vernon; and Mr. Willie Hartill acted in a breezy style as William Clodd: Mr. Rupert Lister was convincing as Dick Danvers; and Mr. Reginald F. Beach was very amusing as Flipp, the office boy.

Pier Pavilion. — Pier-Master, Mr. R. Turner; Entertainment Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—Mr. Fred J. Little and Mr. Fred Darcy's company is paying a return visit, and appearing in the domestic play The Shadow of a Crime. Mr. W. Ruddle-Brown well sustains the important rôle of Harry Bullington; the villainous character of Ralph Esmond is cleverly portrayed by Mr. Hugh Mowburn; Miss Nellie Hovitt gives a charming rendering of Loyale Norman; and Dora Bullington, in the hands of Miss Nellie Moore, is delightfully natural; Mr. J. B. Murray's Sir Edward Bullington is a fine, manly performance.

Hippodrome Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Norman.—Miss B. Lawton, a pleasing singer, takes the place of honour on the bill this week. Considerable artistic musical ability is shown by The Staccatos; Miss Vera Mayne is an excellent vocalist; Mr. G. K. Steadman displays remarkable skill as a trick violinist; a good turn is given by The Sprees, vaudeville artists, who are warmly applauded; Miss Nellie Navette is a charming serio and dancer; Marlo is a remarkably smart juggler; the droll sayings and manner of Mr. Joe Conway are greatly applauded; the special Bioscope films are interesting and the entertainment concludes with a highly amusing sketch by Geoffreys and Benson.

St. Leonards Pavilion Theatre.—Pier Master and Entertainment Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—Mr. Nugent Monck and company continue to attract by the production of Shakespearean dramas. This week The Taming of the Shrew is being played. Petruchio could hardly be in better hands than those of Mr. Gordon Bailey; Grumio has a careful and painstaking exponent in Mr. Nugent Monck; Mr E. Coutts also gives satisfaction; Miss Hilda Bruce Potter as Bianca is sympathetic and womanly; Miss Katherine Stuart brings to the part of Katherine a passionate energy at once refined and natural.

HUDDERSFIELD.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Andrews.—The Prince of Pilsen, played by Mr. Harriss's company, is having a cordial reception. Much of the success of the presentation is undoubtedly due to the very clever fooling of Mr. Harry Kilburn, who, as Hans Wagner, keeps the house in a roar with his quaint sayings; Miss Sophie Harriss looks a fine figure of a woman as Mrs. Maddison Crocker; Mr. Frank Crimp sings with much taste as the real Prince, and Mr. Bernard Russell does not spare himself in his representation of that ineffable fool, Shrimpton; Mr. Ernest Gifford as François is as lively as if he were stuffed with mercury; Miss Alice Nixon looks sweet as Nellie Wagner; and Miss Mollie Wynne is delightfully pert as Jimmie.

Hippodrome, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M Robinson.—The bill includes the Four Juggling Geraldos, in their clever manipulation of hoops and clubs; Miss Mabel le Blanche, comedienne; Spry and Monti, in a busting duologue; the Four Jumels in a well-executed musical act; Don Miguel's bulls, an exhibition of animal training; Martinengo in his finished performance on the 'cello; the Three Celtics, with their happy mixture of artistic singing and dry humour; the Rinaldos, a trio of expert acrobats; and the Biograph.

HULL.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—It is obvious that many years have sped since the playgoing public witnessed an original presentation of Monte Cristo. Dumas' drama has been burlesqued times out of number, but the striking episodes of the play proper have not been seen for many a day. The version that Mr. Junius Booth submits is one that affords ample scope for the actor as well as the dramatist. As Edmond Dantes Mr. Booth gave an excellent performance; and as Mercedes Miss Lally Forsythe acted admirably. The play was beautifully mounted.

Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—The bull's-eye of public appreciation and admiration has been hit this week by that excellent comic opera Amasis. Hull being the first starting point of the present tour, the audience had the opportunity given it of welcoming that charming singer and fine actor Norman Salmond, who was a resident here before taking to the stage. Inspired by the warmth of his reception, Mr. Salmond sang in excellent style as the High Priest. Miss Constance Drever has a voice of exquisite tone and wide range, allied to fine histrionic power, and Mr. Rutland Barrington has proved himself to be an ideal comedian, and created a fine impression in the city. Mr. Richard White and Mr. Laurie de Frece are admirable adjuncts to the clever comedy of Mr. Barrington.

Alexandra Theatre.—Morton's, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. G. W. Morton.—One really marvels how Mr. Morton manages to keep the pot a boiling as he does for the patrons of this very popular playhouse. Each week in rapid succession he brings for his patrons striking melodramas, which never fail to please. In The Woman who Gambles Miss Mabel Mannering as the Countess comes back with a reputation which she very ably sustains.

HYDE.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. R. Feather.—The two performances a night continue to be popular here. Topping the bill are Mme. Angelo's Living Statues in classical poses; Buffalo Bill's Guards go through a series of military manœuvres, pyramid-building, and fort-scaling with smartness and precision; the Gentry's provide a novel tumbling act; Whisper is a clever juggler, and introduces some smart patter; the Three Macdonalds are expert musicians, and their performance is vociferously applauded; the Keylsos Company create much merriment in their laughable burlesque, The Silly Servant; Miss Beattie Bloom is a charming vocalist, and the Bioscope pictures are excellent.

Ohmy's Circus.—A great attraction here this week is the grand spectacle Dick Turpin's Ride to York, the principal characters in which are ably sustained by Mr. Ohmy, the Misses Ada and Bella Ohmy, and Mr. H Dale, and Claude Ohmy's equestrian feats continue to maintain their popularity; the Two Stidders provide a capital musical entertainment; Mlle. Montaro's horse is exceedingly well trained; Yorick and Yorick are clever acrobats; Mons. Silleto is an expert juggler; the Wambas (La Belle Lily and Albert) are smart gymnasts and clever comedy musicians; and some interesting living pictures are shown. August and September create roars of laughter in a funny sketch.

ILKESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee, L. F.A. Rogers.—We return to drama this week with Mr. Arthur Carlton's company, in The Span of Life. Mr. R. S. Trelawney ably plays the part of the hero; and Mr. Sanderson Moffat, in the heavy part, makes a distinct success; Mr. Walter Dale and Miss Kitty Russell provide the comedy in good style. Others are Mr. James Jarrett as Joshua Gurnet, the Stebbings Trio as Dismal Brown, Tipton Brown, and Dapper Brown. Miss Mary Moffat ably fills the rôle of Cecil Blunt; and the same may be said of Miss Phyllis Hamilton as Mrs. Jelf and Miss Guinevere Shilton as Kate Heathcote.

Queen's Palace of Varieties.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. T. Knightall.—"Juggling on the Lawn" by the Garellys is warmly appreciated. Helena Sleath and Chas. Aldin entertain with their musical performance, named Dashing Duval. Mons. Gela wins applause for his gymnastic display; and other artists who contribute to the programme are Sabino, instrumentalist; Albert Reade, in a dramatic performance; Madeline Love, soprano; Gladys Welford, comedienne; and Leonard Gale, comedian.

IPSWICH.—Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The programme here this week is headed by the Leslie Brothers, in a sketch entitled Music. Mad—a clever act. The Three Ettenas are seen in a smart display of globe-walking and balancing; Fred Herbert as a topical vocalist is entertaining; Fred Land's singing is well received; Esme Gordon is a bright and vivacious comedienne; the Two Wiltons are capable duettists and dancers; and the Delevines appeared to advantage in a comedy act called Flipp and Flopp.

JARROW.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr Jerold E. Reed.—This week Messrs. Levy and Cardwell's juvenile pantomime company is here with The Sleeping Beauty. Miss Dolly Dodds is well placed as Beauty; while Miss Kittie Trewhitt is capital as Prince Florizel, and Miss Mona Townshend is quite at home as Sir Alfronso. The Bros. Armstrong prove excellent fun-makers in the parts of the Queen and Asbestos; Miss May Gibson is charming as Queen Claribel. The singing and dancing of various members of the company is much appreciated, and several specialities are introduced by the Margueritte Troupe of Dancers and Miss Edie Camm, baton swinger; La Belle Annette, solo dancer; and Wee George Wood, miniature comedian.

KEIGHLEY. — Queen's Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Carson and Kendall; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Carson.—Messrs. Carson and Kendall present a variety entertainment this week. The sketch, Ferdie's Ma-in-Law, interpreted by Mr. Flockton Foster's company, is exceedingly funny; Mr. Ernie Myer's humour creates roars of laughter; the charming singing of Lillie Lonsdale is a musical treat, and her songs are encored nightly; King Leo is an excellent ventriloquist; and Mr. Ugo scores in his magical scena. Fannie Humber's musical entertainment is much appreciated; and the Lovelaces and Kate Eplett provide good turns. Weisker Brothers' Bioscope completes an excellent programme.

KIDDERMINSTER. — New Opera House. — Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. James P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. C. Gudgeon, jun.—The boards are occupied this week by Mr. Percy Norman's company, who present each evening the drama A Woman Worth Winning. Mr. Sydney Barton ably depicts the part of the Czar Nicholas; while Mr. Gilbert Standing as Amos Pauloff is good. Mr. A. Mackay, in the rôle of Fergus Lovinskie, gives a good display of acting. Roma Pauloff is well-played by Miss Maud Buchanan; and Miss Iris Daventry, in the rôle of Lola Kalnovky, excels herself.

KILMARNOCK.—King's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager Mr. J. Major Ward.—On the first three nights of this week the powerful drama, Held Apart, was staged by Mr. A. Clifton Alderson's company. Mr. H. K. Ayliff gave an excellent impersonation of James Douglas (alias Jim Barlow); Mr. Leonard Lawrence acted skilfully as John Douglas; Mr. A. W. Norman made a successful Captain Ford: Mr. E. G. Batley submitted an entertaining delineation of the character of Hugh Trevor; and Mr. R. B. Drysdale as Andrew M'Pherson created much laughter. Miss Ruby Loncraine was a graceful and charming Sybil Grey; Miss Beatrice Holmwood an impressive Lady Grant, and Miss Ethyle Murry an admirable Countess. Miss Grace Warner, supported by Mr. George Gordan and company, was billed for Thursday.

KIRKCALDY.—King's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Burton.—Mr. George Henry's company appeared in The Sledge Hammer on Monday. Mr. Cliffe Appleby in the rôle of Matthew Derrick was a very effective old man; as his three sons, Messrs. Morris Maude, Wm. Carriden, and S. Crossley were capital; good amusement was provided by Mr. Frank Litchfield as Tom Walker and Mr. Victor C. Rolfe as Sammy Shaw, and Miss Marion Ashley as Katherine. Miss Jessie Hope was excellent as Rose Maywell, and Miss Lottie Davis a satisfactory Mrs. Derrick.

LANCASTER.—Athenæum.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alf. Hook.—Mr. Norman V. Norman and company are appearing here this week with a round of plays which includes Robin Hood, David Garrick, and The Adventures of Lady Ursula. The last-named was presented on Tuesday evening to a large audience. Mr. Norman appeared as Sir Geo. Sylvester, and acted with remarkable skill; Mr. Francis Hope was admirable as the Rev. Mr. Blimboe; Mr. Brember Wells was all that could be desired as Mr. Dent; whilst Mr. Aubrey Mathers was most successful as the Earl of Hassenden. The title-rôle was in the hands of Miss Beatrice Wilson, who gave an exquisite rendering; Miss Sybil Ruskin as Dorothy Fenton won great praise; as also did Miss Hilda Gregory as Mrs. Fenton.

LEAMINGTON. — Theatre Royal. — Lessees, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. Harry Hunter.—Mr. Allan

capable Emilia. Other characters were ably sustained by Mr. G. W. Dockwray, Mr. John Paley, and Mr. George Munro. Hamlet, The Lady of Lyons, The Merchant of Venice, Romeo and Juliet, As You Like It, and The Bells were also billed.

ROYAL ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Lessee, Mr. A. White.—The Scarlet Merrions, a smart troupe of first-class entertainers, are making their first appearance in Leamington this week. Quite a feature of the entertainment is the introduction of Mr. Norman Sinclair, clever banjo soloist; Mr. Frank E. Probin, a refined baritone, sings with artistic taste; and Mr. Harry Watson's items are equally well rendered. Mr. Tom Purslow scores a great success with his humorous contributions; Mr. J. D. Driscall's comic character songs are well received, and prove highly amusing. The troupe have some excellent concerted items, which they render in excellent style; Mr. Hamilton Gough is a pianist of decided ability.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—The new musical play, See-See, replaces pantomime this week, and with an excellent George Edwardes's company presenting it, proves a very popular engagement. Mr. Frank Danby looms large on the comedy side of the production, his drolleries as Han Kee keeping the house in a continual roar; Mr. W. H. Rawlins, too, extracts a great deal of quiet fun from his rôle of Chevo, and is very popular; Mr. Leonard Mackay plays the love-sick wooer to perfection, singing honeyed love-ballads with rare ability; Miss Lily Elsie is very pleasing and attractive in the title-rôle; Miss Amy Augarde delights with accomplished vocal work as the fortune-teller; and Miss Topsy Sinden scores an emphatic success in a generous part, her clever dancing being quite a feature of the evening. The production is staged and dressed in Mr. Edwardes's usual sumptuous style, and a well-balanced chorus supports.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—The vocal sketch, Happy Holland, which occupies a big place in the week's bill here, is chiefly welcome because it features that clever artist, Jake Friedman, whose work is always popular. A second novel episode, called Crystal-Gazing, with W. H. Day and Laura Dyson as chief executants, also proves an enjoyable tit-bit. We are pleased to renew acquaintance with Seeley and West, the musical comedy pair; that clever dancer, Bijou Russell, foots it in inimitable style; the Dandies contribute vocal and miscellaneous contributions; Florence is an accomplished mimic of music hall stars; Harry Drew, with his songs, scores the usual success; a fine gymnastic turn is executed by the Rohda Brothers; and J. W. Magers is a smart and effective comedian. The Bioscope pictures continue to be of excellent quality.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; General-Managers, Mr. Chas. Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—John Tiller's delightful production of Dick Whittington is here for a second week, and continues to attract full houses nightly. There are some first-class variety turns in addition, notably, Keen and Waller, with a novel and amusing speciality; Ida Ross, comedienne; and Starr and Jerome, who prove very entertaining in song, dance, and comedy business.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; General and Business Manager, Mr. Henry Dundas.—Mr. George Alexander's company in His House in Order is meeting with a gratifying reception. In the exacting part of Nina Miss Dorothy Grimston scores a brilliant success; and Mr. Stephen T. Ewart as Hilary Jesson is conspicuous with a finished performance, both artists being accorded unstinted applause. Mr. J. Edward Pearce as Filmer Jesson is very good; and Mr. Herbert Lomas as Sir Daniel Ridgeley, Mr. Ernest R. Hollway as Pryce Ridgeley, Miss Augusta Haviland as Lady Ridgeley, and Miss Elaine Sleddall as Geraldine Ridgeley are all to be complimented on excellent portrayals. Miss Doris Champion plays exceedingly well as Derek Jesson; and Miss Jean Cadell is capital as Mlle. Thome. Both Mr. Charles Tyrel as Major Maurewarde and Mr. Luke Forster as Dr. Dilnott are a success; and Mr. Langford Browne as Harding and Mr. J. Douglas Campbell as Forshaw deserve a meed of praise. The play is beautifully staged.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—The American drama A Fight for Millions is being presented here this week by Mr. Robert Perris's company, under the direction of Mr. Karl H. Edwards. Mr. Robert Perris as the hero, Tom Manley, is very good; and Miss Eva Purcell as Pearl Rivers is also to be complimented on a meritorious performance. Mr. J. Schofield does well as Hudson Rivers; and Mr. Alex. C. Grant as Richard Dudley is a success. Miss Elma C. Turner as Helen Dudley is excellent; and Miss Dorothy Wilkinson as Little Madge is all that can be desired. Much hearty laughter is created by Mr. Karl H. Edwards as Willie Neverwork, Mr. Harold Turner as Solomon Moses, and Miss Rosie Kearns as Betty and Mag Brady. Miss Edith Hook as Mrs. Hudson Rivers, Mr. Nicholas Conway as Harold Hobbs, and Mr. George Hodges as Robert Mackenzie, are also to be praised.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Bertram G. Iles.—Mr. John F. Preston and company are seen in the racing episode Rogues of the Turf. As Joe Flaxman (an old trainer) and Nellie Somerton (his ward) Mr. John F. Preston and Miss Hilda Shirley are very good; and others in the company who also deserve much praise are Miss Mabelle F. Barlow (Marion), Mr. Horace Custins (Sammy Flaxman), and Mr. George Harvard and Mr. Hardy Marco as the rogues of the turf. Verno and Voyce, the delightful singing comedians, are scoring a splendid success in their up-to-date duet "The Amateur Newsboy"; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finden, a clever pair of light comedy artists, create roars of laughter with their success, Two to One; Les Voces are operatic vocalists whose singing is received with unstinted praise; the Robertys are very smart juvenile whirlwind and national dancers; the Bioscope is showing "The Animated Mattress"; and the Schwartz Brothers, Continental parodists, also appear. Frank and Free, a most amusing comedy duo, who are very successful; and Fred Glenville, an entertaining artist with illustrated songs, are deputising for Mr. Jack Camp and the Sisters Geretti.

PAVILION THEATRE. — Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—Mr. Roy Cochrane and company are presenting the interesting domestic story A Rolling Stone, the chief parts in which are sustained in excellent style by Mr. Roy Cochrane (Dorison North), Mr. T. Nellar (Perk E. Perkins), Mr. G. Stephenson (Jim Hastings), and Miss L. Hastings (Lena Merrick). They are also playing with success an original comedy entitled A Scottish Legacy. Captain Devereux's dogs are put through a wonderfully clever show, which meets with a very hearty reception; Lytton and Bland score a well-deserved success with their speciality A Lesson in Love; R. C. Note goes well; Helen Martin, a fine vocalist, is well received; Daisy Devonport is a capital comedienne and dancer; Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope, which is hugely popular here, is showing "A Tour in Bonnie Scotland."

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Cragg; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Rousby.—Pantomime again holds sway this week, Mr. Peter Thompson's company being here in Babes in the Wood. Miss Maud Beaumont plays Robin Hood in a sprightly manner, singing with much spirit; as Maid Marion Miss Lou Langley is all that can be desired; Mr. T. G. Vane is a most comical Dame; the Danbys cause much amusement as Tim Tired and Willie Wearied; Mr. Wilton Marsh figures agreeably as the Baron; and as the Babes Miss Renee Grahame and Miss Babs Lloyd contribute largely to the success. The specialities include N. T. Kioto, the Japanese equilibrist; Miss Renee Grahame, male impersonator; the Yankee Quartette of acrobatic dancers; Miss Rosa Walmsley, skipping-rope dancer; and Miss Babs Lloyd.

LEITH.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—Honour Thy Father is receiving a powerful interpretation at the hands of Mr. T. Morton Powell's company here this week. Mr. Walter M. Cameron appears with distinction in the rôle of Gabriel Garth, whose wife, Gertrude, is ably impersonated by Miss Kate Newton; and to Miss Mabel Coleman is allotted the trying part of the erring daughter, Lilian, which she portrays with much success. Mr. W. R Winning acts cleverly as the evil genius Duncan Bly; and the hero, Jack Halyard, is played in manly fashion by Mr. Bertram H. Ross; a charming representative of his sweetheart, Mercy Merry, being found in Miss Muriel Dean. The humorous element is well developed on conventional lines by Mr. W. H. Melrose and Miss Ada Salmon in suitable parts; Mr. Claude Merton, Mr. Frank Eden, and Mr. Fred Rolls lend efficient aid; and the many minor characters in the cast are adequately filled. A very effective tableau precedes the final fall of the curtain.

LINCOLN. — PALACE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Sydney Arthur.—George Brooks is scoring heavily on a return visit, and the bill also includes the Three Whirligigs, Charles Torbay, Counsell and Mills, Lizzie Daniels, Harris and Worth, the Katos, and Raymond's Bioscope.

LIVERPOOL. — ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—In Holy Russia, played by Mr. J. Rice Cassidy's able company, has proved a big draw here this week. Mrs. Cassidy acted with dramatic strength as Renee Rubinoff; endless laughter followed the work of Mr. Cassidy in the rôle of Micky Nolan; Mr. Frank Copeland was a stately Sir Harry Beresford; Mr. Martin Sands scored as Count Petrolski; and good support also came from Mr. Robert Cockroft (Czar) and Mr. Arthur Stratton (Colonel Forrest).

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs. T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—The programme submitted here this week includes Lydia Yeamans, a great favourite in Liverpool, whose songs and mimicry are loudly applauded. The Four Rios are undoubtedly in the forefront as gymnasts: Corbyn's dogs provide an excellent turn, their tricks and antics being both clever and amusing: Frank Dunlop is a capital laughter-maker; Thompson's Topweights create a good impression with their boxing and wrestling; Marie Collins delights the audience with her songs; Burnett is a clever impersonator; Emma Don's black and white coons sing and dance prettily, and the Sisters Hall are well received.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—The Girl who Lost Her Character has been played here to packed houses. Mr. Vincent W. Carlyle presented a most creditable Rev. Robert Everton; Mr. Stanley W. Gordon afforded every satisfaction as Jack England and Private Johnson; Miss Ethel Bracewell earned the sympathies of her audience by her able Molly Vernon; and valuable assistance came from Mr. Frank Adair (Captain Caversham), Miss Emmie Barton (Rose Seymour), Miss Lydia Mannington (Marian Franklyn), Mr. George Mitchell (James Sutton), and Miss Daisy Meynard (Isabella Jones).

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Carson and Kendall; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred L. Arthur.—Woman and Wine has afforded much pleasure here this week, being interpreted by an excellent company, under the control of Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds. Miss Cissie St. Elmo acted with effect as Marcel Rigadout; Mr. Edmonds offered a capital picture of the student, Dick Seymour; Miss Violet Sims made a pathetic Mary Andrews; as Professor Sauter Mr. George Child scored; Mr. John S. Haydon, in the character of Hugh Seymour, was effective; and other well-played parts were Janet Marlow (Miss Ethel Vinroy) and Alphonse Beaudet (Mr. Fred W. Goddard).

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Top of the bill here this week is Arthur Prince, who gives a capital all-round ventriloquial turn; Raku, a Japanese wrestler, is watched with interest; J. H. Darnley and company have a screamingly funny act, What a Night; Jack and Evelyn are a popular pair of comedy artists: Claire Greta has some smart Spanish dances; and also in the list are the Jansons, gymnasts; Harry Briggs, vocalist; Terry and Bentley, comedy artists; Walter Stanley, comedian; and Johnny Fuller, acrobat and jumper.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—Shadows of a Great City has been played here this week by the "Royal" stock company, headed by Mr. Percy Boucher as Jem Farren.

PADDINGTON PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. M. Montgomery.—The "Royal" stock company here is giving with great success Her Fatal Past, the principal parts being in the safe hands of Mr. Wallace Campbell (Mark Desmond), Mr. H. G. Brandon (Nobbs). Miss Lina Nazeby (Ruth Fernside and Belle Lara). and Miss Gladys Hastings-Walton (Honor Symes).

PARK PALACE, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Mr. James Kiddie's pantomime, Little Cinderella and the Glass Slipper, has paid a visit to the popular south-end house this week.

WESTMINSTER.—Lessee, Mr. Fred E. Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—The smart comedians, Harrigan and Holt, are foremost here this week, delighting everybody; the Sisters Russell present a clever comedy skit, Josephine; Dolly Andrews, a rising young comedienne, sings sweetly; and also in the list are T. W. Barrett, comedian: Bright and Bright; Don Cameron, vocalist; and Jules Kiora, hand balancer.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.—Top of the bill here this week are Fred Eustace and company with an ably-presented sketch, Our Curate; Auto-Atlas gives a remarkable exhibition of weight-lifting with his teeth; Little Ganty is as funny as ever; Surrie Lindon's vaudeville entertainers have a neat comedy mélange, Monks at Play; and others who appear are Madge May, a dainty comedienne; Cole and Rags, humorous jugglers; Charles Frazer and company, with the smart, mystifying entertainment, the Enchanted Iona; Barrett and Knowles, patter comedians; and Hettie Chattell, burlesque actress.

LLANDUDNO.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. R. Chaplin.—On Monday Mr. Carr Loates's company appeared here in At the World's Mercy. Mr. W. H. Irving as Captain Frank Manley acts well throughout; Mr. Carr Loates as Jabez Barber sustains that character in good style; Mr. Geo. D. Knight as Morris Goldstein (the Jew) is well placed; Mr. Jess Boxer, in the comic part of Charlie Smart, is excellent; Skittles is in the capable hands of Miss Cissie Milford; Miss Kate Johnson does well as Alice Lloyd; and Miss Gwenny Ashdown is effective as Dot.

LOUGHBOROUGH. — NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Payne-Seddon and George Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lindsey Edwards.—After a three weeks' variety entertainment we return again to drama, and excellent fare is provided by Mrs. Morton Powell's company in When It Was Dark. The cast is a powerful one, and includes Miss Elizabeth Watson as Gertrude Hunt; her sympathetic acting wins for her much well-deserved applause. Mr. Cyril Austin-Lee, in the rôle of the Rev. Basil Gortire, creates a favourable impression; and Mr. George H. Pitt is a capable Constantine Schuabe. As Helena Byars, Mrs. Morton Powell is very effective; Miss Bessie Ellis does capitally as Grace Goldeye; and other parts are well sustained by Mr. Henry Heller as the Rev. Mr. Byars, and Mr. Arthur B. Murray as Sir Robert Llewellyn.

LOWESTOFT. — MARINA.—Managing-Director, Mr E. A. Smith.—Lovers of drama are again well provided for this week by the first presentment locally of A Warning to Women. The members of the company all work well, and the staging and dressing are particularly fine. Mr. C. Watson Mill gives a fine study as Shaun, a wandering minstrel; and Miss Rosalind Tate is seen to advantage as Moira Kennion.

MANCHESTER.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, the United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—Mr. Arthur Bourchier's company opened here on Monday in The Morals of Marcus. Some good work was apparent in the presentation of the piece, notably Miss Hilda Antony's version of Carlotta, a difficult but entirely successful impersonation. Mr. H. Nye Chart as Sir Marcus Ordeyne gave also a fine and skilful rendering of the philosopher in a quandary; while Mrs. H. Nye Chart provided an acceptable impersonation of Judith Mainwaring, the woman moving in the background; and Mr. David Domville was sufficiently cynical and shallow as Pasquale, the libertine and poseur. A good word should be added for Miss Eleanor Gilbart as Antoinette, Mr. Cecil Brooking as Stenson, Miss Mary Weigall as Mrs. Ordeyne, Miss Gladys Purnell as Dora, and Miss Conyers Radcliffe as Mrs. McMurray; and the remaining parts were suitably filled.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, the United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. M. Thorburn.—The Belle of Mayfair remains another week, playing to good houses.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—A return visit of Messrs. Northway and Garrod's company in The Prodigal Parson is the attraction here this week. Mr. W. V. Garrod as the Rev. Tom Godley has a good part, which he renders with excellent dramatic effect; and Mr. Alfred Northway provides a capital contrast as the suave and villainous Enoch Jaggins. Miss Gwen Stewart plays sympathetically as Fern Godley, Tom's wife; Mr. William Hayward is successful as Ben Jaggins; Ned Kettlepin is cleverly portrayed by Mr. Walter Vincent; and a very nice rendering of Myrtle, the blind child, is to the credit of Miss Violet Jeffreys. Light humour is added in good style by Mr. Owen Remonde and Miss Lydia Hart.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Charles Baldwin's company in Bank Clerks, a very funny concoction, is the top turn here this week Wright, Ismay, and Wright are also prominently successful in their wonderful dancing act; and good turns are given by Pueblo and Cropp, versatile Creole speciality artists; Harry Morris, a smart character comedian; Standing, the singing mill lad; Stanley and Vandyke, in a clever sketch, On the Shelf; Annie Cohen, ballad vocalist; Little Dence, an accomplished young songstress; and Chas. Lestree, a clever juvenile juggler. The pictures add to the amusement.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—The big turn here this week is provided by Kate Carney, the popular coster comedienne, whose répertoire includes the enormously successful scena, Liza Johnson. Claire Romaine, who also figures prominently on the bill, gives a trio of songs in capital style; Lilian Lowe, ballad vocalist, has a good voice and is well received; the Ongars give a wonderfully clever exhibition of international dancing; Gus Garriell, comedian, makes a hit in his burlesque imitations; and other entertaining items are added by Dusty Rhodes, a comedy raconteur; Harry Rodgers and company in a dramatic episode, Told in a Flat; Jimmy Shields, the one-legged eccentric dancer; and the Solari Duo, vocalists and instrumentalists. The Bioscope depicts a variety of sensational pictures.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—Messrs. John Lawson and company are to the front here this week in a sensational episode, The King's Minister, which is presented with considerable success, Mr. Lawson's assumption of the title-rôle being particularly satisfactory. Carrie Laurie's Juvenile Comedy Company are seen to advantage in The Belles of the Kitchen; and the amusing business of the Kirbys is well received. The statuesque poses of the Montague Brothers are very effective; the O'Gorman Brothers have some good patter; one, Billy Farrell, is a capital coon comedian; and Cecilia Maude is a refined vocalist. "Down the vale" is well rendered by Miss Mildred Timms, assisted by the choir, who also render West's madrigal, "Lacking my love," in fine style. "Flags and Faces of all Races" is a decidedly novel subject shown on the Bioscope.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead — The attraction here this week, by way of a change from the usual variety programme, is a condensed version of the popular drama, Life's Sweetest Sins, presented in excellent style by a company under the direction of Mr. T. Arthur Jones. The rôle of Captain Harold Marston is depicted in strong, heroic fashion by Mr. T. Arthur Jones; while Miss Marie Daventry succeeds in depicting the natural and sympathetic character of Doreen Rivers. The sinister part of Dr. Colbrooke is in the capable hands of Mr. Oswald Douglas; while others who act well in important rôles are Mr. Robert Sawin, Mr. Clem Horlock, and Mr. Alexander Wills. The humorous element is well brought out by Mr. Edgar Morgan and Miss Elsie Warton.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Messrs. Holland and Wood's capital pantomime, Aladdin, after a very successful week at the Grand Junction Theatre, are doing good business here.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter de Frece; Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—The star turns here this week are provided by charming Lelia Roze in her delightful quick-change and musical scena A Dressing-room Drama, and that highly original comedian, Edwin Boyde. Another good turn is that of Chris Richards, the quintessence of eccentricity; and exceptionally well trained are the animals introduced by Alfred Trentanovi. Very amusing are the Brothers Ashley in their comedy boxing act, Next, Please; Lloyd Morgan is a pleasing vocal comedian; Lanos and Montes are clever eccentric acrobats; and Fred Harrison, comedian, contributes a song. Interesting pictures of the wreck of the "Berlin" are shown by the Palace pictures.

TIVOLI. — Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—The Howes, in their triumph of mental telepathy, and La Rochells, the charming artist's model, in her classical poses, are still the attractions here. Les Rubens are good singers; the Columbia Trio are amusing in their vocal absurdity; Ye Merrie Peasants score in a scena, A Village Courtship; and the Brothers Hayes are smart cross-talkers and sand-dancers. Other satisfactory items are contributed by Les Montaldos, equilibrists on the slack wire; Agnes Hanson, a neat dancer; Rowland Hill, eccentric comedian; Jennie Lynwood, comedienne; and Hunter and Maris, comedy artists. As usual Raymond's Vivagraph pictures are good.

HIPPODROME, HULME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—The Days are wonderfully smart in their second-sight performance, and top the bill here this week. The Woodwards are exceptionally clever trick cyclists; and the ventriloquial absurdity of Eustace and Eyre is exceedingly good. Harry Taft, comedian, is well received; Little Tim, a comedian of the quaint order, keeps the house in a good humour; Beau and Belle are good singers; Charles Somers, comedian, and George Foyle, comedian, are both very amusing; and Ellis and Watts dance well. The Bioscope pictures depict the "American Convict's Escape."

MANSFIELD.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Mansfield, Sutton, and District Theatres, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Cecil Clayton.—Mr. Bert Rutley's company is here in the musical play An English Belle. The whole of a heavy cast sustained their respective parts in a very efficient manner. Among the specialities, the Revell Troupe caused great laughter in their farcical sketch, Mischief. The singing throughout was good and the dancing graceful.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Herbert Darnley; Resident-Director, Mr. Tom Jennings; Acting Manager, Mr. Mark Lorne.—Mr. Leonard Dalrymple's company is appearing here in the drama As Midnight Chimes. Mr. Percy Maitland plays the part of Luke Dezzard in a masterly manner; as Dave Stannard, Mr. G. B. Williams is very successful; Mr. James Salter, in the comedy part of Tat Spavin, causes roars of laughter; Mr. Herbert Pearce is excellent in the rôle of Ezra Gamble; Mr. Leonard Dalrymple represents the coastguard with credit; Miss Maud Hastings wins the sympathies of the audience by her admirable rendering of the part of Mary Stannard; Miss Madge Berresford is an amusing Susette, a French maid; Miss Marion Ryder creditably plays the part of Little Davy; and Miss May Swire, in the rôle of Zamora, a Hindu girl, is excellent.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Manager Mr. George FOX.—Mr. Edgar Brooks and company have occupied the boards here this week. In addition to an excellent series of Empire pictures there are some good variety turns. Mr. Harry Daubney gives an excellent ventriloquial turn; Miss Gertrude Standish contributes some good songs; the Levanos appear in an amusing sketch, entitled How's Your Uncle?; and the musical turn by Zembra and Zembra is appreciated.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Edward Michael; Business-Manager, Mr. A. Austin-Leigh.—The Margate stock company has appeared here this week in a successful production of Haddon Chambers's four-act comedy, The Tyranny of Tears. The piece has been produced under the direction of Mr. A. Austin-Leigh, who plays admirably the rôle of the young novelist, Clement Parbury; Mr. Austin-Leigh cleverly portrays the indulgent husband; Miss Lilian Rogers makes a capital Mrs. Parbury, her consistent acting going far towards sustaining the interest of the comedy; Miss Mabel Archdall is very good as Hyacinth Woodward, Parbury's secretary; and some admirable acting is done by Mr. Wallis Clark as George Gunning, the cynic. Mr. J. P. Allen creates considerable amusement in the character of Colonel Armitage, the dapper little man of the world; Evans, the servant, is capably interpreted by Mr. J. P. Lallen.

HALL-BY-THE-SEA. — Joint-Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—The Claymores, juvenile performers, in an original speciality dancing and juggling act, are a good turn this week; and Harry Bold comedian and raconteur, proves amusing. The Sages, comedy artists, are good in their special line, which includes dancing, singing, and burlesque acting; and Bob Hamilton, Scotch comedian, creates plenty of hearty laughter. Holden's original comic manakins are cleverly manipulated; Florence Leonard, ballad vocalist, contributes to the programme, which is concluded with two very laughable cinematograph pictures.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees, The South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Lewis Gilbert.—Frank Seeley scores a genuine success in slap-dab fights; Winifred Ward is a pleasing male impersonator; Spencer and Marks in their act, entitled The Stage-struck Waifs, meet with warm appreciation; Stan Leigh's humour is greatly enjoyed; the Three Preston's provide plenty of fun in their laughable absurdity The Liftman's Kiss; Dolly Weston is very entertaining; and Desmouli and Mora give a clever performance on the triple bar. The theatre Bioscope completes the programme.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Frece.—The Three Moxons, Continental acrobatic comedians, give a good show; Florence Carlow is well received; and the Royal Quintette of Vocalists meet with approbation. Zasma is a smart gymnast; Harry Belmont's clog-dancing is highly appreciated; and Hector and Sultan are excellent comedy grotesques.

MIDDLESBROUGH. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Charles Imeson.—Mr. Herbert Ralland's principal company presents the comic opera, La Poupée, here this week. The rôle of Hilarius is admirably impersonated by Mr. Fred Seymour; Miss Mysie Devine, a very graceful and attractive Alesia, sings sweetly and acts capably; Miss Nina Zambray is a delightful Marie; and Miss Dora Dickens and Miss Mita Cree are pleasing as the Dolls. Miss Edith Hunter is a success as Mme. Hilarius; and Miss Doris Dickens and Miss Alice Roche do full justice to the parts of Henri and Guduline. Mr. Fuller Allen as Baron Chaterelle, and Mr. Bert Rolfe as Bazilique, are all that can be desired; and Mr. A. Stephens sustains the part of Benoit to perfection. Mr. Arthur Cozens is amusing as Lancelot; and Mr. Walter Balfour good as Father Maxime.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, The Middlesbrough Grand Opera House Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—Mr. Fred Jarman's company is here this week with Under the Czar. In the leading part of Nicholas Yeroslaff, Mr. Willson Howard is really good; Miss Lillian Herries's impersonation of the true Russian girl is full of interest; Mr. Gerald Smythe acquits himself admirably as Captain Johnson; and Miss Beatrice Annersley is exceedingly good as Siomka. Mr. G. Fleming does justice to the part of Captain Gurko; Miss Madge Clare is effective as Zara Bhurs; Mr. George H. Doyle is seen to advantage as the Major; and Mr. W. Bestwick is a clever representative of Count Nesseldorf.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor and Director, Mr. Alf. Graham.—Claude Feldman's Beau-Ideal Troupe of juveniles score a tremendous success here with their act of mimicry, dance, and song; Mahatma, styled the queen of second sight, astounds audiences; Joe Humphreys, vocal comedian, fully sustains his reputation; the Gladenbecks provide some thrilling hand-balancing and ring acts; and Callie and Walker create roars of laughter. Other turns are provided by Marie Weston, vocalist; F. C. Fields and Miss F. Lewis, and the Palascope.

MOTHERWELL. — NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant. Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer and company are paying a return visit here, and on Monday opened with From Washerwoman to Duchess. Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer very successfully sustains the rôle of Catherine, afterwards Duchess of Dantzig; Mr. Robert Pitfard is a masterly and soldier-like Lefebvre; Mr. F. Skein's interpretation of Fouche is one of outstanding merit; and Mr. Leonard Cheetham does well as the indiscreet young Lieutenant. Mr. Sydney Bland is effective as Napoleon I.; Miss More Dunphie gives an interesting study of Mme. de Stael; and Miss Rita Sponti is a bright and vivacious Rosalie. For the last three nights of the week Mr. F. B. Woulfe and company are announced to appear in Robin Hood.

NEATH. — CASTLE THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Will Haggar.—The capital presentation of The Nihilist has proved a big draw here. Mr. Will Haggar is an excellent Ivan; Mr. Jack Desmond, as Prince Alexandra, plays the part with effect; Mr. James Haggar as John Smith is amusing; Mrs. Will Haggar as Princess Olga is charming; Miss Sylvester as Katerine is very good; and Little Jenny scores as the Little Czarina. Leah, The Wicklow Wedding, and The Gipsy King are also in the week's bill.

NEWPORT.—EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Major Gallaghar; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Page.—Peggy Pryde, who heads the bill here, sings songs that captivate the house. Lilian Warren, with the aid of pictorial representation, sings some pretty numbers; and Orpheus, in his musical scena, The Solitary Rehearsal, give excellent performances upon various instruments. A turn that is popular is that by a father and daughter, described as "a collier and his child," who give a mental telepathic performance; Gladys Mavius does well in the song-scena, "Rosie is waiting," in which she is well supported by Dot, whose dancing for a child is excellent; Newhouse and Ward display ability upon cycles; a knockabout turn by the Karno Four affords much amusement; Ike Scott and Son are successful in song and patter; and the Bioscope, showing interesting pictures, complete the bill.

NORTHAMPTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Seddon.—Mr. J. B. Mulholland's company opened here on Monday, presenting the new fantastical farce, The Electric Man. Mr. Bernard Copping appears as Walter Everest and the Electric Man, and his clever duplication of the parts evokes much laughter and applause; Mr. Sydney Lynn plays Jack Strange with due effect; Mr. Legai Robinson makes an amusing Mr. Jobbins; Mr. Chris Grose is an effective General Pomery; Miss Dorothy Hullah is a capable Mrs. Everest; Miss Amy Fanchette gets some fun out of the part of Mrs. Anderson; Miss Gertrude Tate is a charming Stella; and Miss Isa Bellington an efficient Mary.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—The boards here this week have been occupied by Messrs. Pitt and Halling's company with £1000 Reward. As Gilbert Lisle, Mr. Fred Wilberforce is a decided success; Mr. J. Newton Cowling makes the most of Fred Ingleford; Mr. Frank J. Pitt, is good as Fred Ingleford, his son; and Vincent Rainsworth is played in capital style by Mr. Charles Halling. Mr. Frank Dallis makes quite a hit as Inspector Gilbert; Mr. Geo. Scully is clever as Dick Springthorpe; As Mme. Sanson, Miss Daisy Halling plays the part in a satisfactory manner; Miss Cissie Francess scores as Kitty Springthorpe; and Miss Lynn Darlington is highly successful as Meg, her rendering of "Eileen Alannah" meeting with much applause.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould.—The Simsons, in The Burglar's Surprise, are proving a great attraction here; Messrs. Belrose and De Velin, vocal artists, have met with a cordial reception; Mr. Fred Spencer is a capital comedian; Miss Cissie Trixie, juvenile vocalist and dancer, is clever; Messrs. Rayner and Reece, comedians, go well; Cavalli, entertainer, is loudly applauded; Mr. Walter Levetto, the dancing marvel, is smart; and the Bio-Photoscope meets with its usual success.

NORTHWICH.—CENTRAL THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs. S. Golden.—Mr. Henry E. Leigh's company in The 'Varsity Belle is here. As Professor Septimus Stoney, Mr. James Danvers is excruciatingly funny; Theocritus Ward Sparkleton is cleverly portrayed by Mr. Edward Chester; the two undergraduates, George Barker and Albert Perrin, find excellent representatives in Messrs. R. H. West and R. Barraclough respectively; and Mr. Frank Liliput is a typical College Scout. Miss E. Rainbow is decidedly good as Mrs. Barker; Miss Tessa Myers submits a charming impersonation of Maud Stoney; and Miss J. Sullivan's Eve Stoney is admirable. Miss Josephine Ellis dances well.

NORWICH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Councillor F. W. Fitt.—An attractive programme is presented this week. Mr. Syd May is an excellent impersonator of popular variety artists, and his representation of the late Dan Leno evoked much applause, and as Hackenschmidt wrestling with a dummy, was most amusing; the Cumberland troupe are clever cyclists, and were well received; May Martin is a pleasing comedienne and very smart; George Prince is a veritable "crazy comic," and creates much fun; the Herald Comedy

Four, in harmony, comedy, and dancing, are amusing; while Primavesi exhibits some clever juggling tricks; Rose and Calvert, in a comedy scene, are entertaining; and Woolmer Young as a comedian is appreciated. The Hippo. Biograph has some very attractive pictures.

NOTTINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The Lady of Ostend pays its initial visit this week, and has been warmly welcomed. Mr. Lawrence Brough gives the requisite humorous touch to his portrayel of the light-hearted Baron; Mr. Henry Hampson plays with characteristic agitation as Dick Whortles; and Mr. Percy Marshall lends substantial aid in the rôle of the elderly Joseph Carbury. Mr. Dalziel Heron capitally exploits the prize-fighter, Toby Krockitt; Miss Marion Ripley scores throughout in the name-part; Miss Kate Milford impersonates Dorothy Whortles in a graceful and charming manner; and Miss Bessie Harrison puts plenty of spirit into her assumption of Matilda Carbury.

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Chas. P. Cooke.—Her Love Against the World has attracted large audiences this week. Mr. Walter Howard, the author of the play, acts with military dignity as the Earl of Strathmere; Mr. W. H. Hallatt gives an effective rendering of Prince Othmar; Mr. Mayor Cook excites the keenest repugnance by his portrayal of the knavish Prince Ravensburg; and the Prince Maurice of Mr. Sam Arthur is a conscientious piece of work. Miss Ellen Snow plays the Princess Idalia with artistic conception and dramatic intensity; Miss Blanche Steele earns distinction as Shulah; and Miss Julie De Esco satisfactorily impersonates Corona. The humour is capitally exploited by Mr. Richard Webb as Fritz, and Mr. Henry B. Lewis as Heinrich Pimpernickle.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles H. Bowmaker.—The Isle of Ooma, a comedy operasketch, is being presented here by Arthur Rigby and company, and proves a great attraction, being admirably staged and mounted. Carrie Laurie's Kindergarten is a turn which always pleases, and the clever dancing of the twin Sisters Anderson ensure them a very hearty welcome; Edward Arthur and company are seen and heard to great advantage in an abbreviated edition of The Lily of Killarney; and the musical scena presented by Lennie and Hast is deserving of every praise. Jack Neil, comedian, and Sadie Simpson, a great favourite here, highly commend themselves; Victor Newman mimics well-known actors; the Strads can always be relied upon for a diverting entertainment; and the programme is completed by an admirable series of films.

NUNEATON. — Prince of Wales's Theatre and Entertainments Co., Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—Mr. Bulmer's company opened here on Monday to a good house with When Woman Hates. Miss Chrissie Dunbar gives a striking portrayal of Cora Daintry; Mr. C. Lodge-Percy does good work as Godfrey Lawton; Mr. Leslie Lingham gives an excellent study of Lieut. Rokeby; and Miss H. Schrier as Marie wins favour. Miss Zara Dare makes a pathetic Little Nellie; Miss Gladys Hawthorne as Edith Rokeby is well placed; an abundance of comedy is supplied by Mr. Evan Roland (Pat O'Brian), Mr. Walter Clark (Alfonso Picolet), and Misses Mary Dolby and Sybil Houghton as Mrs. Potts and Sally.

OLDHAM.—Empire Theatre.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—This week Mr. J. Gar Kiddie's company conclude their successful tour with the pantomime, The Babes in the Wood. Misses Baby Lillybelle and La Belle Sylvia are well placed as the Babes; Miss Amy Allnut is a dashing Robin Hood; and Miss Anena Walton as Maid Marion sings and acts well. Miss Kathleen Emmett and Miss Nelly Dyson, as Will Scarlet and Merrie Mavis, are very pleasing; as are Miss Gertrude Mason and Miss Nellie Cross as Little John and Allan-a-Dale. The company is strong in comedians, among whom are Mr. D. J. Tandy (Sir Brokah de Pawn), Mr. Harry Albery (Araminta), Mr. Dawson Dewick (Sammy), Messrs. Grapho and Jackson (Burgling Bill and Gentle George), and Farr and Farland as the Two Pages, are capital banjo duettists. Miss Norah Prendergast is very good as Sylvania; Mr. Leonard Charles makes an impression as Infernalto. Specialities are introduced by the Lohrenz Quartette and the Hammersley troupe of lady dancers.

Colosseum.—Manager, Mr. W. Eastwood.—Messrs. Carpenter and Cooper's company present for the first time here The Spider and the Fly. Miss Amy Venimore as Stella gives a good account of herself; Miss Nina Vaughton plays Edith Macalister very nicely; and Miss Lucy Murray as Molly Blake is capital. Others who acquit themselves creditably are Mr. Benson North and Mr. E. J. Preston, as Cyril and Welby Girdlestone respectively, Mr. A. H. Hill as David Strong, Mr. H. C. Lancley as the pastor, and Messrs. C. Preece and C. Russell as Remus and Romulus.

Royal Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Howgate.—Fred Kitchen and Frank Lister, in a well-acted sketch, entitled No. 99, are a feature here, and have caught on. Another excellent turn is provided by Miss Sarah Berry, a favourite vocalist in Oldham; Minnie Cunningham, the charming comedienne, sings as well as ever; the New York Comedy Four are a good quartette of humorous harmonisers; Robins and Collier, in The Lady and the Porter, are entertaining; the Stack and Milton Trio are exceedingly smart in a bounding bar act; Nina Martina sings some capital songs; and Ford Williams, Welsh baritone, also takes well. The Royal Dottoscope is showing new pictures.

Hippodrome. — Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Nuttall.—Jack Pleasants, a comedian with a style of his own, creates much laughter; the Donatos are a pair of smart acrobatic clowns, and they receive much applause; the Five Musical Palmers are excellent in their musical entertainment; Leslie and Player are a pair of refined duettists and patterers; and Daisy Almer is a praiseworthy vocalist and dancer. As a character vocalist Miss Florence Watson is to be commended; and the Sisters Brenton are engaging comediennes and dancers. George Hall gains high opinions as a whistling comedian; and the Dottoscope shows interesting scenes.

OXFORD.—New Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. C. Dorrill.—On Monday night Mr. Lewis Waller's company opened here with Brigadier Gerard. Mr. Arthur Somers, excellently made up, played with considerable force as Napoleon; Mr. George Mallett showed great skill in delineating the wily Talleyrand; Mr. Cecil Wynne scored well as General Goulaincourt; the officers of the Hussars were played in brave fashion by Messrs. F. Powell, J. H. Twyford, E. Bennett, W. Blake, W. Thompson, H. Standing, and Percy Baverstock; Mr. H. Turner capitally represented the faithful trumpeter Papilette; while Mr. Langhorne Burton realised to the life the gallant and enterprising Captain Gerard, who carries all before him. Agnes and Mère Lafitte found excellent exponents in Miss Margery Chard and Miss Florence Denbigh; while Miss Muriel Godfrey Turner invested the character of the Comtesse de Roqueleure with a charm that captivated all present.

PAISLEY.—Paisley Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Bentz.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's capable company, including that popular artist, Miss Minnie Palmer, is paying a visit here this week with the interesting and well-known play, My Sweetheart. Miss Palmer as Tina is charming, both in manner and appearance; as Tony Faust, Mr. Robert H. Howard displays exceptional abilities; Mr. Gilbert Heathfield does excellent work as Dr. Oliver; Mr. Fred W. Leonard submits a capital sketch of Joe Shotwell; very amusing is the Dudley Harcourt of Mr. Alfred Ibberson; Mr. Leslie Tyler makes a commanding Harold Bartlett; Mr. Alfred May as Farmer Hatzell is good; Miss Mildred Sylvester presents a careful study of Mrs. Fleeter; Mrs. H. E. Russell as Mrs. Hatzell is to be commended for an excellent embodiment; and Peek-a-Boo is intelligently played by Miss Elsie Forster.

Empire.—Lessee, Mr. J. H. Savile; Manager, Mr. Tom Toy.—Appearing with success here this week are the following:—Esmond, Verona, and Esmond, in their comic knockabout absurdity, The Raw Recruits; Nell Brough, siffleuse; Jack Brindall, Scotch comedian and dancer; D'Auras, in their thought-transmission act; the Aubreys, comedy gymnasts; Denton Brothers, acrobatic comedians; and Frank Coyle, versatile comedian.

PERTH.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. H Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—Perth is fortunate in having Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company (North) here during the week, the répertoire including The Taming of the Shrew, Merchant of Venice, Macbeth, Merry Wives of Windsor, and Hamlet. In The Taming of the Shrew, Mr. Lionel Bevans adopts the rôle of Baptiste with much acceptance; Mr. Philip Merivale proves a suitable exponent of Vincentio; Mr. Gerald Ames's Lucentio wins special favour; Mr. Henry Herbert evinces considerable skill in his powerful portrayal of Petruchio; Mr. Reginald Owen also shows fine points in his adaptation of the old gentleman, Gremio; Mr. Henry Morrell's Hortensio is a pleasing feature; Messrs. E. Spencer Geach and Charles Francis are clever and suitably adapted to the parts of Tranio and Biondello; Mr. Esme Filmer is well placed as a pedant, as also is Mr. Charles Bruce as a tailor; Mr. Ross Shore's Grumio is clever and amusing; Miss Mary Webb is an admirable widow; Miss Louise Graeme is all that one could picture the graceful Bianca; and Miss Dorothy Green's Katharina, the shrew daughter of Baptista, is a powerful production of one who is rightly classed as an actress of no ordinary talent.

PLYMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—Mr. William Greet's company, in The Earl and the Girl, is again "down West," and is quite as popular as it was a year or two ago. The management are distinctly fortunate in being able to retain the services of Mr. William Stephens as Jim Cheese, the dog-trainer, the drolleries of this accomplished comedian in his many embarrassing situations being irresistibly funny. The Misses Jennie Richards ('Liza Shoddam), Beatrice Anderson (Mrs. Shimmering Black), and Hilda Gray (Flora, Lady Rosedale), who are at different times associated with Mr. Stephens, also contribute very materially to the diverting situations; Miss Frances Earle is quite bewitching as the American heiress, Elphin Haye; Mr. Arthur Harrold as Dick Wargrave has an excellent voice, the audience receiving the full benefit of the same in the vocal numbers allotted to this part; Mr. H. Courtin is realistic as the impetuous American, A. Bunker Bliss; and as the respective representatives of the American and English legal professions, Messrs. W. Norman and Greene Taylor make the most of their opportunities. The dance, "L'Entente Cordiale," in which Miss B. Ford, L. Doran, N. Lawrence, E. Beverley, B. Grand, and G. Scott participate, is a very pretty exhibition, and proved popular. On Monday, by the generosity of Mr. Williams, a collection was permitted for the Crusade of Rescue and Homes for Destitute Children, London.

Grand Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. C. F. Williams; Manager, Mr. Percy Williams; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Grant.—The Guilty Man is the attraction at the Grand this week. Mr. Cecil A. Melton as the hero, George Seymour, impersonates a very difficult part with plenty of realism; Mr. Edward Beecher as James Redman, the "guilty man," plays with consummate ability; Mr. Larry Clements has seldom been seen to greater advantage than in his rendering of a Jew; and Mr. Arthur Beaufort introduces a welcome touch of humour as an innkeeper. Miss Elaine Vanbrugh gives a creditable rendering of the part of Audrey Priestly, the village schoolmistress; Miss Beatrice Hudson as Sukie Barton plays well; and Miss Irma Farington capably impersonates Nell Radford.

Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—Acrobatic cleverness is the distinguishing trait of this week's programme, Ryan and Hall, comic wrestlers, going through some wonderful contortions; Mason and Bart perform exceedingly difficult feats on the horizontal bar; Harry Grey, the Australian nugget, again scores in his quaint feminine "get-up"; Kitts and Windrum have a tasteful and refined little sketch, entitled The Cuckoo; Osborn and Brooks present an item of a similar nature in The Motorist and the Maid; Olive Armidale is correctly styled a dainty comedienne; and May and Theresa have an up-to-date protean act. The remaining turns are Bartlett and company, in a sketch, and Vernon's pictures.

PORTSMOUTH. — Theatre Royal. — Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Mr. George Alexander's fine company, with the great comedy, His House in Order, opened here on Monday evening to a well-filled and keenly-appreciative house. Mr. Frank Fenton gave a masterly performance of the part of Hilary Jesson, his efforts being substantially rewarded by numerous recalls; Mr. Cyril Harcourt was all that could be desired in the much family-managed Filmer Jesson, M.P.; Sir Daniel Ridgeley was well portrayed by Mr. George Fitzgerald; Mr. George Silver did admirably as Pryce Ridgeley; and Miss Moyna Hill was well fitted with the part of the boy, Derek Jesson. Nina was characteristically played by Miss Auriol Lee, who made her points with great effect; Lady Ridgeley was sustained by Miss Henrietta Leversett with perfect naturalness, just suited to the part; Geraldine Ridgeley was taken by Miss Audrey Campbell with distinct success; and Miss Lilli Kehr did extremely well as Mlle. Thomé. The mounting of the piece was much admired.

Princes's Theatre.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—The powerful and well-known drama, The Lights of London, is being played here this week by Mr. Herbert Hollister and company. Mr. C. F. Collins gives a fine and impressive personation as Harold Armytage; Clifford Armytage is taken by Mr. Riddell Robson with complete success; Seth Preene is ably and consistently performed by Mr. Herbert Hollister; the kind-hearted Jarvis Family are well represented by Mr. Chris Mason, Miss Nellie Fern, Miss Rennie Douglas, and Mr. Arthur Bell, who do full and ample justice to the lighter side of the drama; the street arab, Joey, is capitally taken by Miss Rita Wallace; and Bess is sympathetically and well sustained by Miss Jeanne Burgoyne. The remaining characters are in excellent hands, and the staging all that could be desired.

PRESTON. — Royal Hippodrome. — Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Linsdell.—The chief attraction is a laughable burlesque, entitled The Smoking Concert, presented by arrangement with Mr. Fred Karno; A Night in Japan is a very pleasing musical sketch, finely staged, and including some pretty songs and dances; Polo and Florence give an excellent acrobatic display; Anthony is a novel and skilful comic conjurer; the Maisanos gain hearty applause for their clever and droll musical act; Harry Hallam and Josephine Stanton present an artistic musical sketch, A Broken Journey; good turns are also given by Nell Cotter, comedienne; and George Duval, humorous entertainer and stump orator. Bioscope pictures complete the entertainment.

RAWTENSTALL. — Grand Theatre. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—Mrs. F. Wybert Clive's company is here this week in The Conscript, which was performed on Monday evening before an appreciative audience. As Karl Truevitch, Mr. H. Creagh Hunt gave a capital portrayal; and Mr. Douglas Watson was very effective as Ivan Manloff; as Paul Hardisti, Mr. Walter Steele gave a powerful reading of the part, gaining a distinct success; Mr. William Head was an excellent Doggervitch, and Mr. P. Strongbow scored as Tretch Troloff; and Mr. Wybert Clive gave a clever impersonation as Maxim Fredka. Miss Cissie Reenan was a sweet and clever little Carl; and Miss Nellie Douglas as Wanda submitted a sparkling and taking portrayal of the character; Miss Maud Elliott as Dame Katinka was good; as also was Miss Olga Datre as Catherine; Miss Florence M. Daly gave a charming personation as Nadia Truevitch.

READING.—Royal County Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. A. Wenman.—Dr. Walford Bodie, the electric wizard, is an attraction this week in a double sense, and his marvellous cures and performances are causing much wonder and excitement. Dr. Bodie is supported by an excellent variety company, which comprises Bella Skene, a smart burlesque actress and vocalist; little Dolly Robson, the child wonder; Belford and Mars, two clever comedy duettists; Clarice Mignon, the banjo queen; T. Duriah, comedian; and Mr. T. Norman Mills, the Australian actor vocalist.

Baker's Hippodrome is still doing good business. An excellent variety entertainment is being given, together with a splendid show of bioscope pictures.

ROTHERHAM.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy.—Mr. Bert Coote's company is paying a return visit with The Fatal Wedding. Mr. Ernest Owtrim is seen to advantage as Howard Wilson, and Mr. Guy Hastings scores as Robert Curtis; Mr. C. H. Hughes is very amusing as Toto, and Mr. Cyril Melton is quite a phlegmatic Peter Schwartz; Mr. Jack Waring is deserving of mention as O'Reilly, and Mr. Arthur Law Raynor is successful as the Rev. Dr. Lanceford. Miss Katherine Clarke gives a clever portrayal of the part of Mabel Wilson; Miss Leah Marlborough does well as Cora Williams; Miss Julie Temple scores as Bridget; little Miss Marie Wilson is pleasing and interesting as the Little Mother; and Master Freddie Hockling is to be commended for his portrayal of Frank. Special turns are introduced by Miss May Maddison, vocalist; Mr. Walter Aubrey, Lancashire clog-dancer; Miss Dorothy Pain, who is deservedly applauded for her singing of "Killarney"; Miss Edith Alcoe; and Miss Marie Wilson, who sings "Honey, won't you stop teasing me?" together with a well-balanced juvenile chorus.

RUGBY. — Theatre Royal. — Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geoffrey Fulton.—This week Mr. Barr is presenting the pantomime of Aladdin. Mr. Carl Fredericks is excellent as the Emperor of China, and proves himself to be an excellent comedian and vocalist: Mr. David Phillips as Widow Twankey is capital: Messrs. Duncan and Morton, as the two Chinese policemen, cause much amusement by their clever and humorous acting; the part of Abanazar is in the capable hands of Mr. Will Sherlock, who does exceedingly well; Mr. Wilfred Dave is very good as the Vizier. Miss Maudie Vincent is delightful as Aladdin; and as the Princess, Miss Lora Lyndon is charming; Miss Maudie Vincent is also successful as a vocalist. Little Della as the Genii of the Lamp is a clever little actress of bewitching personality; Miss Dorothy Wilson is fascinating as Pekoe, and Miss Ormisha as the Captain of the Guard is a success. The Ta Pynketos, Jap magicians, give a remarkable juggling turn; Miss Peggy Lyndon scores in her musical act; the Sisters Hawker give a refined exhibition of acrobatic dancing; Duncan and Morton, as comedy artists, are much appreciated; Mme. Cordelia in her electric picture dance is one of the chief features; the Ohio Male Quartette give much pleasure, and the Empire troupe of lady dancers are very good. Mlle. Zarina Tankerville proves to be an exceptionally graceful dancer.

SALFORD.—Prince of Wales.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—The Unseen Power, written by Mr. Harry Starr, drew a good house on Monday, when the author undertook the part of Fred Granville, and the disguises as a costermonger, a young lady, and a darkey commanded the fullest appreciation. Mr. Fred W. Graham as Horatio Cracklesby made a lot of fun out of the character; and was ably assisted by Miss Lizzie Jacobs as Jennie Smith. The villainous Antonio Romano was well portrayed by Mr. Edwin Firth; Mr. William Miller submitted a capital study of Harold Granville; Mr. Will Hee was very good as George; and Miss Dolly Starr presented the waif, Chris, in a highly-successful manner. The trying part of Lucretia found an excellent exponent in Miss Kate Norris; Miss Madge Blundell as Amita made a satisfactory impression; and a charming Lucy was provided by Miss Lye Jeffries. Otto, the Outcast, was announced for the latter half of the week.

Regent Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—Fred Karno's The Dandy Thieves, under the management of Mr. Harry Dooley, was presented on Monday night. Sergeant Lightning was very cleverly undertaken by Mr. W. E. Matthews; Mr. Frank Morton acted and sang well as Lord Essem; Miss Leonora did well as Lady Maud; and Mr. Charles Usher was a satisfactory Mr. Miffin. The other characters were in good hands, and the choruses were much enjoyed.

Royal Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—An enjoyable variety entertainment, twice nightly, is provided this week. The Smart Set is a very good show, including Miss Hilda, light soprano, and Miss Georgie Martin, comedienne. The comical musical clowns Alec Hurline and Tom Le May; Sam Redfern, the Black Emperor; Bessie Travis, musical ventriloquist; Yorkshire Tom, mimic; Bert and Dora, comedy artists; Tony Iveson, ragman at the piano; and T. C. Edwards, baritone, also appear, and give most acceptable turns.

SALISBURY. — County Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. Arthur Whitehead; Business-Manager, Mr. T. Brinsmead. — Messrs. W. Payne-Seddon and George Robertson's company have had a hearty reception from good houses in Charley's Aunt. Mr. Basil Lynn gives a spirited rendering of Jack Chesney. and Mr. J. E. Stephenson as Charley Wykeham acts in a manly fashion; Mr. McCausland Stewart is entrusted with the part as Sir Francis Chesney, which suits him capitally; as Stephen Spettigue. Mr. Percy Tyler is very good, and loses no opportunities; and Mr. Tom Macfarlane as Lord Fancourt Babberley scores heavily and is loudly applauded. Miss Sybil Greig as Amy and Miss Dorothy Barrington as Kitty both play with skill and refinement; Miss Grace Baring makes a dignified Donna Lucia, and Miss Norah Johns is capital as Ela Delahey.

SCARBOROUGH. — People's Palace and Aquarium.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Morgan; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Walter Kitchingman.—Fanny Robina, the star turn here this week, has had most gratifying receptions in the favourite songs, "The Albert Hall Concert" and "King Baby." Miss Florry Cooper, who is possessed of a well-trained voice, renders "The stars are angel voices" with great effect; Miss Fredrica's troupe of well-trained terriers and pony perform wonderful tricks; Lottie Poole sings and dances well; Frank Weir has a good supply of capital songs; J. H. Malva is an entertaining ventriloquist; Alfred E. Rick is an amusing comedian; and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope's new pictures include "The Billiard Fever," and "Oh! that Molar." Carley and Place are also in the bill.

The Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. George Zalva; Manager, Mr. Morgan.—An excellent entertainment is provided here. Bob Stephenson dances with remarkable dexterity; Alf Bishop causes plenty of merriment; Miss Dot Moss is a charming little artist; Harry Friskey submits an up-to-date juggling turn full of humour; and the Metropole animated pictures greatly add to the attractiveness of the bill.

SHEERNESS.—The Palace.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Phil Reymond.—A capital company appears here this week, comprising Mr. Nick Ohlson, an eccentric comedian; Miss Josie Watson, who is greatly admired as a comedienne and vocalist; Mr. Phil Reymond still continues a huge favourite; Miss Topsy Levane, too, is a first-rate burlesque actress and vocalist; and the Holroyds conclude with a screaming comedy sketch, My Yorkshire Cousin.

SHEFFIELD. — Lyceum Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—The fantastic farce, The Electric Man, was played for the first time in Sheffield on Monday by Mr. J. B. Mulholland's company, the audience being kept thoroughly amused by the novel and laughable situations. Mr. Stanley Cooke, who was, as usual, cordially welcomed, added to his reputation by a clever and original impersonation of the Frankenstein-like inventor, Walter Everest. Mr. Lloyd Towman was firm as the industrious detective, Jobbins; and Mr. Archie Selwyn did good work as Jack Strange. Miss Lucy Edwin showed a stronge sense of humour as Mrs. Anderson; and the fun was kept going by Miss Amy Francis, Miss Sybil Brookes, Miss Gladys Jesson, and Mr. Vivian Willis.

Theatre Royal. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—The late George Daventry's famous money-making military play, The Indian Mutiny, has long been a favourite with local lovers of stirring melodrama, and Mr. Frank Burdett's company has again demonstrated the strength of its hold on the sympathies of popular audiences.

Alexandra Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—Mr. Frederick Melville's company is here this week in the exciting drama Her Forbidden Marriage, which is well played and effectively mounted. As George Madison, Mr. Harry Lonsdale acted in a manly, convincing way; Mr. Fred de Vere caused great amusement as Timothy; the villain, Devereaux, was cleverly represented by Mr. Louis Hector; and Mr. James Raymond was good as Dr. Fenwick. Miss Gertrude Bonser was a graceful, pathetic, and interesting Lucy; Miss Nellie Fletcher a convincing Lady Superior; and Miss Madge Yates a bright and vivacious Patty Lovejoy.

Empire Palace.—Proprietors, The Moss Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—On Monday Mr. Auguste Van Biene appeared with great success in his pathetic sketch, The Master Musician, in which he had the assistance of Miss Lena Burnleigh. Mr and Mrs. Lucas, in their scenes from Oliver Twist and Little Nell, were very successful, and both sketches were carefully staged. Mr. Charles Robinson, with illustrated songs, proved a good turn; the Sisters Neilson danced and posed gracefully; and the Misses Nina did a refined drawing-room entertainment. The Two Bostons are old local favourites; Mr. Cliffe Ryland pattered as humorously as ever; Master Clifford danced with neatness and agility; Goggin and Davis did a comic military acrobatic act; and the smart juggling of Selma Braatz won repeated and deserved applause.

Grand Palace of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Richard Ralli.—The following talented performers are delighting the Grand clientèle this week:—The Czar Troupe, Mr. Andie Burn, Fred Southern's combination in a sketch, the clever Steckels, Ashby and Moore, and Miss Constance Juno. A pleasing feature is Pallister's Bioscope with local pictures.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Victor Samson.—Aladdin brings the pantomime season to a finish here, and variety business is the rule again.

SHREWSBURY.—Theatre Royal. — Licensee and Business-Manager, Mr. W. C. Dornton.—Mr. Charles Majilton's company of eccentric comedians are here this week in The Trippers, Round the Clock, and The Plumber, all extravagantly funny. In Round the Clock, which was put on on the opening night, Mr. Chas. Majilton was agile and clever as Gabriell Gadforth; Mr. Herbert Ashmore acted well as Old Gewgag; Mr. Ben Storey made much merriment as Denby; and Mr. Jim Bond was successful as Mr. Bartle Burk. Mr. Frank Majilton as a policeman was droll and lively; Mr Rundle Wilson made a good cabman, and Miss Maddie Majilton looked well and played brightly as Mlle. Salprunelle. Miss Amy Majilton sang and acted creditably as Bertie Kelvin; and Miss Nora Christie was excellent as the servant, while Miss Harriet Round won praise as Miss Binkle.

SOUTHAMPTON. — Grand Theatre. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fred Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Weston.—Mr. and Mrs. Kendal are this week delighting large audiences with a répertoire of popular plays. They opened on Monday with The Ironmaster, which was well received. The acting of Mr. and Mrs. Kendal in the respective rôles of the Ironmaster and Claire was admirable, and they had to repeatedly bow their acknowledgments. On Tuesday The Elder Miss Blossom was successfully presented; and on Wednesday and Thursday the farcical comedy, A Tight Corner, was given with equal success.

Palace.—Proprietors, the Palace (Southampton), Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Wm. Trussell.—The premier attraction is Mr. Lew Lake and company in My Pal Jerry, which creates unbounded enthusiasm. Barton and Ashley excel as a comedy duo; the Albano Troupe of instrumentalists submit an entertaining turn; and others who do well are the Alaskarno Trio of acrobats; Speedwell, lightning sketch artist; Gicardo, boy juggler; and Ethel Yorke, comedienne.

Hippodrome.—Sole proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. P. Howell.—Irma Lorraine, in her series of artistic poses, occupies the place of honour, and well merits the applause she receives. Harry Champion and Horace Wheatley are a couple of old favourite comedians who do well; Max Gruber, with his elephant, horse, and pony, gives a clever animal turn; and others who contribute are the Sisters Wingrove; Kopski, pianist; and Maud Wilton, mimic.

Philharmonic.—The marvellous Zancigs drew two packed houses on Thursday, and mystified everyone with their wonderful seance. They were supported by a capable company of concert artists, and the entertainment, which was under the direction of Mr. Alfred Moul, was a complete success. Mr. Sydney Paxton, the touring business-manager, met with a most cordial reception, and was heartily welcomed by his many Southampton friends and admirers.

SOUTHPORT.—Opera House, Winter Gardens.—Proprietors, the Southport Opera House and Winter Gardens Co., Ltd.; Secretary, Mr. R. Singleton.—Mr. William Maclaren and Miss Lily C. Bandmann are this week paying a return visit in the late Wilson Barrett's powerful play Claudian. Mr. Maclaren's conception of the title-rôle is marked with dignity, deportment, and realistic characterisation; Miss Lily C. Bandmann submits a careful study of Almida; and Mr. F. Owen Chambers presents a capital portraiture of the crafty Tetrarch; Mr. Douglas Earle does full justice to the part of the blacksmith Agazil; Mr. C. J. Challoner is highly commendable as Belos, and praiseworthy performances are given by Miss Maud Garth, in the character of Edessa, and Mr. Ulick Burke as the Hermit.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. John and Fred. Coulson.—Mr. Arthur Carlton presents In Sight of St. Paul's to appreciative audiences. John Gridston is powerfully delineated by Mr. Herbert Cecil; a capital portrayal of Tom Chichester is given by Mr. Ernest R. Allen; Mr. W. H. Domoney is good as Harry Chichester; Bildstein is well accounted for by Mr. Henry Gilpin; Miss Gussie Everitt depicts forcefully the part of Cynthia Dell; and the Aleen Miller of Miss Cissie Bellamy is a praiseworthy performance. The humorous parts are well sustained by Mr. Herbert Colley as Jim Palfrey and Miss Sybil Hammersley as Becky Vetch.

Empire Palace Theatre.—Proprietors, The South Shields Empire Palace, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—The sketch Fishing, presented by Harry Tate's company is very popular. The Four Royal Welshmen, vocalists, are proving a great attraction; and Oakdene, comedy ventriloquist, provides a unique turn. The Three Panamas are a good troupe of acrobats and dancers; other good turns embrace the Tupps, comedy acrobats; Kate Trail, in an entertainment at the piano; Charles Russell, in a song-scena; and the Bioscope.

SPENNYMOOR. — Cambridge Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; General-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—Local patrons assembled in full force on Monday to witness the performance of Lucky Liza by Mr. Dickie Clare's company. Miss Madge Brownie in the name-part is the life and soul of the piece, her songs and dance being executed with much vigour and skill. Mr. Clare, who sustains the rôle of Silas Slim, succeeds in keeping his audience in the best of humour; Mr. Syd Hind, a droll Paul Pettitoe, is ably assisted by Miss Vesta Brownie, a delightful Virginia; and as Peter Pettitoe and Barnaby Blatherwick, Mr. T. W. Benson and Mr. A. W. Thompson are extremely amusing.

STAFFORD.—Lyceum Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Elphinstone.—Ediscope Barnum Pictures are the principal attraction here this week, augmented by variety turns, including Lulu, lady instrumentalist, who gives a very clever and very effective turn. Otto Ethardo is a skilful juggler, Mlle. Pardoe a clever dancer, and Loder Lyons a ventriloquist of marked ability.

STALYBRIDGE.—Grand Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Fioni; Resident-Managers, Messrs. W. A. Jackson and Eugene E. Hardie.—Amongst the artists in a well-selected programme are Sandy and Carl, the gentle knockabouts; Mlle. Vanda, the adroit juggler; McCann's Dog Circus; Herbert Madden, light comedian; Miss Tosco, the queen of equipoise; Ray and Calden, American comedy duo; Sisters Terry, baby mimics; and Ormonde Penstone and his Chinatown belle, Tsaou-ngo, in their magical potpourri, &c. The performances on Thursday evening were for the benefit of local charities.

ST. HELENS.—Theatre Royal and Opera House, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader.—Sherlock Holmes is the attraction here this week, capitally played by Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart's company. Mr. Stewart himself essays the part of the detective, and quickly ingratiates himself in the hearts of his audience. Miss Gladys Harvey is seen to distinct advantage as Alice Faulkner; Mr. W. H. Pemberton represents Dr. Watson with ability and due care; as Professor Moriarty, Mr. James Skea shows that he has studied the requirements of the part well; and Miss Georgina Wynter is an excellent Mrs. Larrabee. Master Leslie Hall gives a very smart performance as Billy; Mr. James Hare does well as James Larrabee; and all the other characters are well placed. Mr. Walter J. Bayliss is manager for the company.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Vic Carnell.—Miss Florrie Gallimore heads the bill here. She has a budget of new songs, and adds to her numerous successes. Others contributing to an excellent programme include Mr. J. H. McCann, roller-skate dancer; Pete and Juno, coloured vocalists and dancers; Miss Nellie Farrell, comedienne; Munroe and Jones, in duologue, The Way to Win a Bet; Mr. J. A. Wilson and his dog Towser; and the Brothers Pim, gymnasts.

STOCKPORT. — Theatre Royal and Opera House. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Revill, jun.—The appearance here this week of Mr. Charles Macdona's company in The Toreador has attracted large audiences. Mr. Sidney Granville is distinctly successful as Carajola; Mr. Robert Rous is funny as Sammy Gigg; Mr. Fred Thompson thoroughly amusing as Sir Archibald; and Mr. J. Herbert Willis acceptable as Augustus Traill. Miss Mina Carlton as Donna Teresa acts and sings effectively; Mrs. Malton Hoppings is delightfully impersonated by Miss Gwen Clifford; Miss Mabel Gregory makes a captivating Nancy; and Susan is pleasingly played by Miss Leah Howard.

Empire. — Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—The remarkable acrobatic abilities of the Leopold Family have been the chief feature here this week, and among others Oakley and James, in A Tit-bit of Everything, are exceedingly smart. The Calcotts give a pleasing and refined musical act; Jones and Mansfield, in a vocal scena, Jack Sheppard, are greeted with much favour; whilst The Siddons, comedy jugglers; Adams and Ward, acrobatic comedians; Mary Glenn, Scotch character vocalist; and Henry Bekker, illusionist, add their full share to the entertainment.

STOKE.—Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Manager, Mr. H. Miller.—Good houses welcomed the Countess Romanow on Monday in her classical poses, representing modern and antique statuary. Mr. C. Wordley Hulse and company are seen in a capital sketch, The Fight in a Forge, which is much appreciated; Donna's Trio contribute some smart balancing feats; Geo. Gulliver is a good ventriloquist; Katie Marsh sings and dances admirably; Wilson Blackledge, in his musical humorous sketch, his song "Rabbits" causing much amusement; La Bolero is in the able hands of Miss Millie Hylton, who does that important rôle every justice, her vocal efforts winning for her hearty applause, especially in the song entitled "Oh, Lu la-lu" Miss Nellie Hodson makes the most of her opportunities as Louise, and also sings well; Mr. L. Bullock-Webster scores by his clever rendition of Norman Popple; and Jacques Kenyon finds an apt exponent in Mr. Robert MacLachlan.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin.—Mr. Edward Graham-Falcon's company is appearing here this week in Bluebell in Fairyland. The title-rôle is entrusted to Miss Mamie Finbow, who fills the part in excellent style; Mr. Lawrence Emery is much in evidence as Dickie; and Mr. Frank Lennard scores as Mr. Joplin. The Fairy is in the hands of Miss Vera Viyard, a vocalist of considerable ability. The rôles of Mab and Winnie are ably filled by Miss Bertha Johnson and Miss Emily Wall.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. Hemingway.—Mr. G. Carlton Wallace's company with The Love that Women Desire is the attraction here. Mr. Jerrold Heather acquits himself in excellent fashion as Philip Carnaby; Mr. Alfred Brandon gives a powerful rendering of Richard Abington; Mr. J. C. Stewart is well placed as Squire Abington; and Mr. John Hignett causes much amusement by his clever impersonation of Dennis O'Rourke. Miss Lalla Stanhope is a charming Sybil Thorburn, and Miss Gladys Murray a pleasing Madge Abington.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Managers, Messrs. Alfred Browne and Syd. B. Stringer.—Another excellent all-round programme is provided here this week. Fred Ginnett's Boys' Army, a cavalry regiment in miniature, provide a somewhat unique turn; J. H. Milburn, the ever-popular comedian, is as amusing as ever; Harry Nelson, the Tyneside comedian, gets a flattering reception; Reed and Stevens score in an amusing duologue, entitled Married, or Photographed; Cookson is a ventriloquist of more than usual ability; Edie Grey and the Boys, in harmony; Fatmah Diard, vocalist; and Mons. Slippere, blind pianist, also contribute. The entertainment winds up with an admirable show of animated pictures.

SUTTON-IN-ASHFIELD.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Mansfield, Sutton and District Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Cecil Clayton; Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—Mrs. Fred J. Kirk's company in The Naval Detective is paying a visit here this week. On Monday the company gave a smart all-round performance, and gained a favourable verdict. Mr. Gerald Alexander works hard and wins success in the title-rôle; Mr. Alf Stretton is good as Dr. Schreiner; Mr. W. S. Hybert plays the Hon. Bertie Fairlox in most amusing fashion; Miss Edith Claris is responsible for some capital comedy; Miss Louie Fountaine as Phyllis Leslie exhibits versatility in the assumption of three distinct characters; the Sisters Shaw give a good exhibition of dancing. In Old Madrid was announced for the last three nights.

TON-Y-PANDY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ridgewood Barrie.—Mr. W. Greet's No. 1 Company is here with The Sign of the Cross. Marcus Superbus is admirably undertaken by Mr. Frank Petley; Mr. C. Yorke gives a clever interpretation of Nero; the Tigellinus of Mr. Charles Aldred is thorough in point of viciousness and cruelty; Mr. Frank Wood is well cast as Glabrio, while the Favius of Mr. Walter Fleet is most praiseworthy. Miss Marie Leonhard makes a sympathetic and graceful Mercia; Miss M. Newcomb is nicely suited as Poppæa, and as Stephanus Miss Dulcie Greatwich wins the sympathies of the audience.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—THE OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Carey; Manager, Mr. L. Gunnell.—Messrs. Hardie and Von Leer's company in Two Little Vagabonds has been well received this week. In the name parts two clever young actresses in Miss Edie Martin and Miss Josie Beltram have been secured, while the principal adult characters are well sustained by Mr. A. E. Melbourne as George Thornton, Mr. Sidney Vautier as Captain Darville, and Mr. L. Ellis as Bill Mullins, while among the ladies Miss Grace Heywood and Miss Rosslyn Vayne portray the parts of Thornton's wife and sister respectively.

WAKEFIELD.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Messrs. G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company is here this week in the drama, The Silver King. Mr. Fred D. Daviss gives a powerful and artistic representation of Wilfred Denver; Mr. Edward J. George repeats former triumphs as Jaikes; Mr. T. St. George Lowther proves very capable as Captain Skinner; and is well supported by Mr. Arthur Wright as Coombes, Mr. George Belmore as Geoffrey Corker, and Mr. Warris Lindon as Cripps. Mr. Byron Pedley is smart as Baxter, the detective; Miss Daisy Scudamore gives a sympathetic conception as Nellie Denver; Miss Viola Holland acts with power as Olive Skinner; Miss Mary Simpson gives satisfaction as Mrs. Gamage; and the juvenile characters are well undertaken by Miss Florence Hale Daviss and Master Douglas Thomas Shine.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Selwyn; Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The Four Merry Japs, in a Japanese song scena, get a good reception; Mr. Will Godwin, comedian, contributes an interesting turn; Mr. Alf. Levarne is smart on the wire; the Four Monte Carlo Girls dance well; a clever performance is given by Miss May Zant's troupe of juvenile vocalists and dancers. Miss Nellie Young, comedienne, and Mr. Phil Rees, double-voiced vocalist, also merit favour.

WALSALL.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, The Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—The Selbinis are performing their unique bicycle somersault from a spring board; the Garganis, acrobats, and Esta Stella, coon comedienne and dancer, are well received; Will Van-Allen creates great fun; Little Zola, comedian, meets with a good reception; Parker and Parr, a duo of Welsh comedy vocalists; Mlle. Sylvia's vocal tableaux; and the American Bioscope, contribute to the programme.

GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietors, The Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Mr. and Mrs. Maclaren's company are appearing here this week in Proof. Mr. Gerald Kennedy makes a fine, manly Pierre Loraine; Mr. W. J. Butler is most successful as Lazare; as Chamboran, Mr. Wilford Bailey is well placed; Mr. Carl Beechey makes a capital Count D'Aubeterre; Miss May Grimshaw makes a charming Valentine; Miss Avron is seen to advantage in the part of the Duchess D'Aubeterre; Miss Phena Powell sustains the part of Mme. Deprets; and Miss Beatrice Shirley sustains the part of Adrienne with good effect. The scenery and mounting are excellent.

WEDNESBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's No. 1 company, in the drama entitled The Little Bread Winner, is proving a great attraction here this week. Mr. Eugene Santley's interpretation of Lord William Dorrington is warmly appreciated; whilst the part of Richard is characteristically sustained by Mr. Mathew Boulton. Mr. Alfred Maurice submits an able rendering of Joseph Prior; a considerable amount of humour is displayed by Mr. Stanley Leedham in his able representation of Charles Prior; the highest praise is due to Little Miss Emmie Thomas for her clever portrayal of Meg; the part of Margaret Daventry is in the capable hands of Miss Mary Fulton; and Miss Nellie Thorne-Hallam gives an excellent embodiment of Kate Cherry.

WELLINGBOROUGH.—EXCHANGE THEATRE.—A hearty reception has been accorded Mr. and Mrs. John Walters' Babes in the Wood pantomime this week. Mr. Ally Benson scores immensely as Dame Flossie, and Messrs. Traynor and O'Connor are ideal Robbers. These, combined with Mr. Ernest Thirlway (who, as the Baron, is excellent), make a quartette of humorists that ensures the success of the pantomime. The Landor Brothers and Mr. Phil White as Clown, Pantaloon, and Policeman, are also very diverting; Miss Lillian Florence as Fairy Goodheart shines with first-rate songs; and the Babes are charmingly rendered by Miss Sally Hooley and Baby Blyth. A vivacious Maid Marian is found in Miss Fanny Adamson; and Miss Bertha Cousins does well as Robin Hood. Mr. Frank Stanhart quickly established himself as a great favourite in the part of Soft Tommy.

WEST BROMWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Harding Thomas; Manager, Mr. Herbert Vere.—The Heart of a Hero is here, the drama being staged well and capitally played by Mr. Lingford Carson's company. Mr. Charles Draycott evinces considerable power in his impersonation of Jim Resdale; Mr. J. Dobson Clyde does well as Mark Marl; Mr. Ernest J. Fare is well suited to the part of Wilfred Marl; Timothy Heighno, the funny man of the piece, is capitally sustained by Mr. Will White; Mr. Sidney C. Cranston is all that can be desired in the character of Jack Collinson; Mr. Morley Carroll makes a smart Detective; and a clever bit of character-acting is submitted by Mr. Harry Scatchard as the miser George Winson. Miss Marie Robson is good as May Ryder; the same remark applies to Miss Nellie V. Warden as Susie Slack; and Miss Muriel Thompson does full justice to the part of Nell Resdale. For the end of the week the same company is playing The Octoroon and The Ticket of Leave Man.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Player.—Mr. J. E. Coyle, who heads the bill here this week, gets a hearty reception; a smart turn is submitted by Ruby Aston; Will Musgrave creates great fun with his popular songs; a novel performance is given by the Three Delaries, in "the Demon Grotto"; Rogers and Weston present a funny sketch entitled In Answer to an Advert; a remarkable turn is that of Datas, who astounds the audience with his wonderful memory; Miss Dot Hardy gives some clever songs; and Lee and Kingston, in their practical joking, cause much fun. The Hippodrome pictures are still up to date.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—GRAND.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. H. E. Feather.—The interesting and intensely dramatic success, Leah Kleschna, is paying a return visit, and, as played by H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company, is having a gratifying reception. The Leah of Miss Bessie Rignold is a powerful impersonation, which calls forth the warmest appreciation; William F. Grant gives a studied rendition of the rôle of Paul Sylvanie; Paul Belmore creates a deep impression in the character of Kleschna; Campbell Goldsmid deserves unreserved praise for his acting in the part of Schram; and Hamilton Deane is effective as Raoul Berton; and others who creditably fill the parts allotted them are Ronald Daniel as General Berton, Ethel Russell as Mme. Berton, and Helen Belgrave as Claire.

PALACE. — Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—Johnny Holland and company, with their sketch, The Millionaire, meet with considerable approbation; Silbon's miniature circus of performing cats, dogs, and ponies, and Meier and Mora, in their exhibition of ball-punching, are also old favourites, who are remarkably well received. Sparkling vivacity is shown by the Eight Sunrays in their pretty dances; Miss Gladys Witton, a clever juvenile artist, has a fine contralto voice; the marvellous contortions of Mlle. Sylvesto create quite a sensation; the comedy act, Stage Aspirants, by Dene and Dawson, is provocative of hearty laughter; and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux are more than usually amusing.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—The late Mr. Walter Melville's combination, in the popular moral play, A Girl's Cross Roads, has been well received during the week. An excellent representation of the part of the ingenuous old farmer, John Meadows, is given by Mr. Chas. Franmore. Mr. Wilson Gunning is good as Jack Livingstone; Mr. Fred Ingram accentuates the humour in the part of Toby Turvey; and the character of Cuthbert Lumley, a queer card, has a capital exponent in Mr. Gerald Gordon. The part of Barbara Wade, the drunken wife, is tragically portrayed by Miss Hilda Beverley; Miss Florence Zillwood scores as Nellie Meadows, the farmer's daughter; and Miss Mabel Scudamore capably impersonates the part of Tilly Vane.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—The Dancing Gilberts; the Violas, thought readers; Renson and Waite, a comedy couple; and the Three Renards, in a fine gymnastic aerial show, are loudly applauded. The Aurora troupe are wonderfully clever trick cyclists; and the Alburtus give a startling exhibition of club-throwing; and, in addition, Jessie Millar is an admirable cornet player. Other first-class turns are given by Little Pete, comedian; Shang Hia, Eastern magician; Earle and Melville, patterers, comedians, &c.; and Stewart and Morgan, vocalists, in the scena, The Return to Ireland.

WOLVERHAMPTON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. E. H. Bull and Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Percival.—This week Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company is appearing here in The Four Just Men. Mr. Oswald Cray fills the part of Geo. Manfred in a clever and skilful manner; and is well supported by Mr. Wernham Ryott as Jules Polecart, Mr. Cecil Warde as Don Gonsalez, and Mr. Charles McCann as Miguel Thery. The character of Sir Philip Ramon is admirably portrayed by Mr. H. Bonhote Wilson; Mr. Edgar L. Hocking is a capable Manuel Garcia; Mr. Norman Aveling does well as John Blount; and Mr. Arthur Gordon is a successful Superintendent Falmouth. As Juanita Ramon Miss Florence Radcliffe is seen to advantage; and Miss Kate Sydney is an effective Mrs. Travers. The remaining characters are in good hands, and the play is capitally staged.

THEATRE ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—The attraction here this week is The Trumpet Call, which is produced by a good company, of whom the principal artists are Mr. Leonard Yorke, Mr. Chas. F. Cooke, Mr. John Dennys, Mr. Freddy Bentley, Mr. Jos. Bracewell, Miss Helena Millais, and Miss May Foster.

WORCESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. F. Le Wards.—The popularity of A Country Girl appears to show no diminution, and Mr. Chas. Macdona's company is this week receiving liberal support. Mr. Arthur Staples as the ubiquitous Barry is particularly droll; Miss Florence Brewster makes a bright and vivacious companion, Sophie; Mr. Martin D. Pitts is well suited to the part of Geoffrey Challoner; Miss Violet Leslie is a charming Margaret Joy; Nan is safely entrusted to Miss Edith Maynard, whose songs get a most flattering reception; Mr. Bernard Vaughan finds the part of the Rajah of Bhong exactly to his liking; and Miss Irene Wood sings well as the Princess.

EXETER HALL, for so many years the home of the Y.M.C.A., has just been sold by Messrs. Garrett, White, and Poland, of Hanover-street. It is understood that the purchasers are Mr. Joseph Lyons and Mr. M. Gluckstein (both partners of the well-known firm of Messrs. J. Lyons and Co., Ltd.), who have obtained a renewal of the lease from the Crown and intend erecting a new building suitable for commercial purposes upon the site. The contents of the hall will be sold by auction after the forthcoming May meetings, when the new owners take possession.

"WHEN KNIGHTS WERE BOLD."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—About three years ago at the County Theatre, Kingston, I produced, for copyright purposes, "a new and original fantastical fairy play" entitled My Fairy Fanciful, which I had written in conjunction with Mr. Ernest Martin. The argument was to the effect: In these progressive days of ours there are still, it must be presumed, "evil spirits," Idleness, Retrogression, and Destruction, which are still doing their utmost to counteract and retard the beneficent influence of the "good fairies"—Education, Progress, and Enlightenment. To illustrate this, it became necessary to take the action of the play from the present century back into the middle ages. The idea of the modern characters, being suddenly cast into the midst of their ancient ancestors lent itself to many humorous situations.

Two of the characters, Dick and Tom, in My Fairy Fanciful, attired in modern costume, demonstrated up-to-date accomplishments before these people of the middle ages. Tom accidentally ignited a match, and the whole crowd of spectators—apprehensive of witchcraft and demonology—became panic-stricken. In When Knights were Bold at Wyndham's, Mr. James Welch, in similar circumstances, lights a cigarette, and the crowd of "the good old times" behave just in the same way. Like unto Tom and Dick, Mr. Welch as Sir Guy de Vere also creates fun out of his modern dialogue as contrasted with ancient prose. I contend that the idea upon which Charles Marlowe's piece is founded belongs to My Fairy Fanciful.—Yours faithfully, CHARLES ROSS.

O.P. Club, Feb. 28, '07.

THE ACTORS' UNION.

SIR,—Soon we shall be called on to elect officers to govern the Actors' Union, and I hope all members will see the necessity of having a large majority of rank-and-file actors on the council; if not, it will only be another Actors' Association. The élite of the profession cannot see eye-to-eye with their less distinguished brothers.

I trust the governing body will be equally as humble as the provisional committee, although a few are standing aloof, owing to our lack of weight, as they put it.—Yours faithfully,

Feb. 22, '07. ROBSON PAIGE.

"OTHELLO" AT KENNINGTON.

On Thursday, Feb. 28, Revival, at the Kennington Theatre, of Shakespeare's Tragedy.

Othello	MR. OSCAR ASCHE
Duke of Venice	MR. J. FRITZ RUSSELL
Brabantio	MR. CALEB PORTER
Senator	MR. HENRY KITTS
Iago	MR. ALFRED BRYDONE
Cassio	MR. H. R. HIGNETT
Roderigo	MR. G. KAY SOUPER
Montano	MR. REGINALD IAN PENNY
Lodovico	MR. ERNEST GRIFFIN
Gratiano	MR. STANLEY FARBRIDGE
First Gentleman	MR. R. F. ANSON
Second Gentleman	MR. GORDON HARKER
Emilia	MISS CONSTANCE ROBERTSON
Bianca	MISS LEILA NORRIS
Desdemona	MISS LILY BRAYTON

It is not often that a surburban theatre is selected for so important a revival of a Shakespearean play as that of Othello, at Kennington, on Thursday afternoon; but the keen interest taken in the performance of the tragedy was shown by the presence of an enthusiastic audience which filled every part of the house. Those who have closely followed Mr. Oscar Asche's stage career, and admired the many fine character-impersonations he has presented in various notable productions, must have had a fairly good idea of the manner of man his Othello would be. From a mere physical point of view there could be no question as to his fitness for the part, and Mr. Asche's admirers had little doubt as to his possession of other, and far more important, qualifications for one of the most trying and arduous rôles in the whole range of Shakespearean tragedy Nor were they disappointed. Mr. Asche achieved a triumph that must have well repaid him for the close study and real hard work involved in a successful representation of the Moor. Perhaps the most striking feature of the new Othello was the vivid contrast between the quiet, dignified bearing and speech of the Moor in the first two acts, and the tempestuous passion exhibited after the poison of a morbid jealousy has worked its baleful effect upon his nature, and transformed him into a furious being wholly intent upon having an awful revenge for the perfidy of the woman for whom his love has turned to hate. The speech to the Senate was delivered quietly and naturally, but it was impressive nevertheless. In the stirring third act Mr. Asche rose to the occasion, and the storm of passion once broken loose, the hitherto sedate, unemotional Moor becomes a prey to the fiend of jealousy, and there quickly forms in his turbulent soul the resolve to murder the woman he has been led to believe has wronged him. The scene was so powerfully and vividly represented that, at its conclusion, the curtain had to be raised many times. And so on to the end of the tragedy Mr. Asche held the audience, and did every justice to the mingled brutality and pathos of the bed-chamber scene. With regard to the costume of Othello, he appeared throughout the play as a Moor, and not dressed in the usual mediæval Italian costume. In the first act he wore a putty-coloured Oriental tunic, with a broad silk sash, and a dagger thrust into it. His head-dress was a long, striped burnous, falling in heavy folds down his back. The feet, save for the thin, open Moorish slippers, were bare. His jewels consisted of massive gold earrings and a large emerald on the first finger of the right hand. The charm of Miss Lily Brayton's Desdemona was its sweet womanliness and the apt expression of regard and intense love for her lord and master. Desdemona's pitiful pleading for her life in the bedroom scene roused the deepest sympathies of the audience. Indeed, throughout the performance Miss Brayton's reading of the character left little to be desired. Mr. Alfred Brydone, in his embodiment of Iago, was evidently bent upon avoiding the presentation of an ordinary melodramatic villain. His conception of this leading part had many good points, not the least conspicuous of which was a grim humour that was most effective in the less important scenes. Mr. H. R. Hignett gave a good rendering of Cassio, earnestness and sincerity being conspicuous features of a thoroughly satisfactory performance. Mr. G. Kay Souper was an amusing Roderigo; Mr. J. Fritz Russell was a sufficiently dignified Duke of Venice; and Mr. Caleb Porter scored as Brabantio. Mr. Reginald Ian Penny was well placed as Montano; and the Lodovico of Mr. Ernest Griffin made a favourable impression. Mr. Stanley Farbridge was an excellent Gratiano; Miss Constance Robertson played with acceptance as Emilia; and Miss Leila Norris as Bianca completed the cast.

MR. WALTER W. HEDGCOCK has arranged for the following artists to appear at the Crystal Palace Promenade Concerts during next week at six o'clock, except Saturday, when the concert will commence at 6.30:—March 4: Miss May Peters and Mr. Alfred Heather; 5th: Miss Agathe Irelande and Mr. Philip Ritte; 6th: the Westminster Singers, including Messrs. George May, Wilfrid Kearton, Bertram Mills, and W. H. Brereton; 7th: Miss Mabel Silvester and Mr. Alexander Tucker; 8th: Miss Phillis Davies and Mr. David Evans; 9th: Miss Annie Bartle and Mr. Fred Upton (with stories and condensed novels).

"THE JACKDAW."

A Comedy in one act, by Lady Gregory, Produced for the first time on any stage at the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, on Saturday, Feb. 23, 1907.

Joseph Nestor	MR. F. J. FAY
Michael Cooney	MR. W. G. FAY
Mrs. Broderick	MISS SARA ALLGOOD
Tommy Nally	MRS. ARTHUR SINCLAIR
Sibby Fahy	MISS BRIGIT O'DEMPSEY
Timothy Ward	MR. J. M. KERRIGAN

The scene of this amusing comedy is the interior of a small general shop at Cloon, and the owner, Mrs. Broderick, who is the possessor of a jackdaw, expecting a writ for ten pounds, her neighbours come to console her, amongst the number being one Joseph Nestor, who is noted as the best man in the country for advice. Mrs. Broderick's neighbours advise her to go to the Courthouse and see the magistrate or creditor, which she consents to do, leaving the shop in charge of Nestor. Presently a stranger enters and inquires for Mary Broderick. The new-comer turns out to be her brother, who has been for years in South Africa, and whose name is Michael Cooney. He has come to pay her debt, but does not wish to let her know, fearing she might apply to him for help too often. He censents to buy the jackdaw for the sum of £10, but he wants the money to be given to her in some secret way, and being suspicious of Nestor's good faith, he is in a dilemma as to what to do. Nestor suggests putting the notes in "Old Moore's Almanac," and asking Mrs. Broderick some question which will necessitate reference to the book on her return. Cooney demands a receipt for his money and departs. While Nestor is fumbling with the almanac Mrs. Broderick enters, and he thrusts the notes into his pocket, and tries to cheer her. At length an idea strikes Nestor Mrs. Broderick has a jackdaw which a friend of his in South Africa would be willing to buy, as he wants a bird to remind him of home, and if she will consent to sell it he will give her £10. She accepts, and hurries off to the court to pay her debt and be free. The neighbours, hearing of her luck, rush in search of the man who will give cash for birds. It is here the fun becomes fast and furious, and as the police enter to hold an inquiry the curtain falls. Mr. W. G. Fay caused no end of laughter by his impersonation of Michael Cooney and Miss Sara Allgood displayed considerable ability in the rôle of Mrs. Broderick; Mr. J. F. Fay as the self-important Joseph Nestor was highly successful, and Miss Brigit O'Dempsey was excellent as Sibby Fahy; Mr. J. M. Kerrigan created much amusement as Timothy Ward and Mr. Arthur Sinclair was capital as Tommy Nally.

DEATH OF MR. O. GOLDSCHMIDT.

Mr. Otto Goldschmidt, the husband of Jenny Lind, and himself a well-known musician, died on Sunday morning at his residence, Moreton-gardens, South Kensington. He had been ill for some time, but the end was sudden. Otto Goldschmidt was born in Hamburg in 1829, and although he was associated with his famous wife, whom he married in America in 1852, in her successes in various lands, he became a naturalised Englishman and settled here after Mme. Lind's retirement twenty-four years ago.

Mr. Goldschmidt first appeared as a pianist at the age of 16. Mendelssohn, Schumann, Von Bulow, and Chopin were his teachers. His best known composition is "Ruth," an oratorio performed at the Hereford Festival in 1867, and in which his wife sang. Mr. Goldschmidt founded the Bach Choir, and was its first conductor. He and his wife also instituted the Mendelssohn scholarship, and he was associated with the Royal Academy of Music, of which he was once vice principal.

Jenny Lind died at Malvern in 1887; there she is interred, and in the same grave her husband who has survived her nearly twenty years, was buried on Thursday. The obsequies were largely attended, Canon Pelly, Vicar of Malvern, officiating at the graveside. The immediate mourners were Mrs. Maude (daughter), Mr. Walter Goldschmidt and Major Ernest Goldschmidt (sons). Mr. Victor Maude (grandson), and Mrs. Gregory (granddaughter).

The first part of the service was conducted at St. Mary-le-Bolton's Church, Kensington, in the morning, before the remains were transferred to Malvern. Among those attending the service were Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Maude, Mr. Victor Maude, Sir George Martin (organist of St. Paul's Cathedral). Sir Hubert Parry, Sir Squire Bancroft, Sir Bartle Frere, and Mr. Ernest Glehn (representing the Bach Choir).

THE WORLD OF CRIME. True Detective Stories by M. F. Gordon, late Chief of the Paris Detective Police. Edited by Albert Keyzer. Mr. Keyzer certainly had a "lucky find" when he "discovered" the diary of the late chief of the Paris detectives. The matter in these most exciting and interesting narratives is sufficient to suggest a dozen sensational novels; and Mr. Keyzer has done his work of putting the facts into literary form very cleverly. "The World of Crime" is a book which it is difficult to lay down when once one has dipped into it; and its perusal leaves the reader wishing there was a second volume of the same sort to enjoy.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.
On Monday, Feb. 25, the Drama, entitled
"THE UGLIEST WOMAN ON EARTH."

Mr. Melville's curiously-named play attracted a fairly large audience to the King's on Monday evening, and certainly found favour with the occupants of the pit and gallery, who were very vigorous in their appreciation. The drama is exciting enough in all conscience, as the trio of villains do not appear to be backward in the slightest degree if murder becomes necessary to ensure success to their plans. Then the curiosity of the audience is excited to a tremendous pitch by the fact that the "ugliest woman" appears thickly veiled throughout the piece until a few minutes before the curtain falls. Mr. Philip Darien makes an exceedingly capable Jack Merriman, the hero, who meets with the usual amount of persecution, until at the end he emerges triumphant from the ordeal. As Hubert Gold, Mr. Leyton Chancellor, who is used to such characters, succeeds in portraying an out-and-out villain, who stoops at nothing to gain his ends; Mr. Charles Barrett makes a good second scoundrel of Antonio Luchesi; the young artist, Tom Redvers, is so capitally played by Mr. Allan Devonport that regret is expressed at his early disappearance from the play; Mr. Gerald Valentine is a breezy Griffiths, the purser; Mr. Tubby Edlin, in the ridiculous part of Tubby Herrick, contrives to extract an endless amount of laughter; the London hooligan, Raggles, is powerfully depicted by Mr. Cecil de Lee; the small characters of White, Bullock, and Green are admirably sustained by Messrs. George Potter, Fred Newton, and George Burton; and Dr. Carr is carefully performed by Mr. Leonard Thackeray. "The ugliest woman"—unnamed all through the piece—is unquestionably well acted by Miss Beatrice Homer, in view of the difficulty arising by being veiled during the piece. Miss Nell Oliver acts spiritedly and looks fascinating as Rose Courtenay; and Miss Violet Macree's conception of the Italian girl, Merita, meets with distinct approval, her acting evoking loud applause from the audience.

THE MARLBOROUGH.
On Monday, Feb. 25, the Comedy, in Three Acts,
"CHARLEY'S AUNT."

Charley's Aunt has evidently the recipe of Cleopatra for perennial youth, for the present return visit finds its drawing powers undiminished by age. As Col. Chesney, Mr. Brandon Thomas contributes very largely to the success; and Mr. Walter Beaumont gives a very humorous portrayal of the amorous old solicitor, Stephen Spettigue. In Mr. Hastings Lynn we find a dashing exponent of the undergraduate Jack Chesney; and as his chum, Charles Wykeham, Mr. Richard B. Mason renders very useful assistance. Mr. Arthur Chesney puts any amount of "go" into his embodiment of Lord Fancourt Babberley, and causes much amusement with his quaint impersonation of Charley's Aunt, from the place "where the nuts come from." Favourable comment is also due to Mr. Sydney Compton for his portrayal of Brassett, a college scout. Miss Lena MacNaughton merits warm commendation for her amusing performance as the real Aunt from Brazil, Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez; and the sprightly interpretation of Kitty Verdun by Miss Bertha Northam is well appreciated. Miss Ida Vynall is an attractive Amy Spettigue; and Ela Delahay is represented in a fitting manner by Miss Ruth Nightingale. Charley's Aunt is preceded by a play in one act, also by Mr. Brandon Thomas, entitled A Highland Legacy. The author himself undertakes an important part in the play, namely, Tammy Tamson MacDonnel, and is highly successful. Mr. Hastings Lynn is an able representative of Gordon MacDonnel; and Mr. Walter Beaumont capably delineates the character of Cavendish Howley. Other rôles are very satisfactorily filled by Mr. Sydney Compton (Mr. Dobson), Mr. M. A. Wetherall (Job Fixem), Miss Katherine Vereker (Mrs. Butler), and Miss Elsie Robertson (Clara).

THE CAMDEN.
On Monday, Feb. 25, the Comedy, entitled
"THE FREEDOM OF SUZANNE."

This week a change is made from the comedy of Shakespeare to the light comedy of modern days, and Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company are appearing here in Mr. Cosmo Gordon Lennox's very amusing play, The Freedom of Suzanne, which is attracting good audiences, who find ample scope for a good evening's entertainment in the doings of Suzanne Trevor. As Suzanne, the young wife who longs for freedom, and when she acquires it prefers the mastership of a husband, Miss Mabel Love is quite delightful, and her rendering of the rôle is in every way praiseworthy. Perhaps Miss Love is seen to the best advantage in the quieter scenes of the play. However, it is evident that she has been very wise to go in for this style of play, and we shall look forward to seeing her again. As the husband of Suzanne, Mr. Templer Powell acquits himself admirably and scores a big success. Mr. F. G. Thurstans is most amusing as Fitzroy Harding, the gentleman who has the habit of generally "putting his foot into it," much to the merriment of other people. It is a capital piece of acting. Miss Annie Stalman is good as Suzanne's stately mother-in-law; while Lady Isabel Bury is charmingly depicted by Miss Violet Ley. Sir Horace Hatton is played in a most finished manner by Mr. Patrick Quill. The doting Lord Datchet is presented in a neat little character-sketch by Mr. J. Hastings Batson; while the other two of Suzanne's admirers, Captain Harry Cecil and Tommy Keston, are capitally portrayed by Messrs. Townsend Whitling and Richard Neville. Miss Florence Harwood displays her skill as a comedy actress by her playing of Fanny Minching, the companion. Miss Dorothy Lart is seen to advantage as Mrs. Tustail; and Mr. Bruce Smith does well as the butler. The comedy is preceded by a bright little trifle from the pen of Miss Rosemary Rees, entitled Her Dearest Friend, a one-act play of more than usual interest, in which the characters are capitally sustained by the Misses Violet Ley and Annie Stalman and Mr. P. Quill. Both plays are adequately staged, and the costumes are extremely pretty. Mr. John E. Watson is the manager for the company.

CORONET THEATRE.
On Monday, Feb. 25,
"A CHINESE HONEYMOON."

Milton Rode's company is appearing this week in the successful Strand musical comedy, A Chinese Honeymoon. The pretty music by Howard Talbot and the numerous vocal bonnes-bouches are welcome as ever, and the ingenuity of the plot tickles the sense of humour of the audience. Mr. Rudolph Kloss makes a capital Emperor Hang Chow, his great stature, urbane manner, and his clear, resonant voice are admirably suited to the part. Miss Nancy Rossiter is a graceful and refined exponent of the part of the Princess Soo Soo, and her song, "Egypt," with elaborate "business" embellishment, is highly effective, and nightly gains a decided encore. Her song with Japanese parasol effects is also much appreciated. Miss Gladys Ward is bright and alert as the ex-typewriter. Mrs. Pineapple, whose jealousy gets her and her spouse into such dreadful trouble. She sings "The à la girl" and a coon song capitally. Mr. George Rydon is a highly successful fun-maker as Mr. Pineapple—"he of the rosy whiskers," as George Robey would say—and he materially adds to the gaiety of the proceedings, whilst his delivery of the "Happy, happy land" ditty is truly comical. Chief honours, though, fall to Miss Gwennie Harcourt, who cuts the quaintest little figure imaginable as the weird wisp of a waiting-maid. Fi-Fi, and keeps the audience in one continuous roar of laughter by her droll antics. Her rendition of the always popular songs, "I want to be a lady" and "When I make my début," are all that could be desired in the way of whimsicality. Mr. P. Allerton Turner is appropriately cynical and saturnine as the law-making Lord Chancellor. Chippie Chop; and Mr. Leonard May enacts the part of Hi Lung, Lord High Admiral and marriage-monger, on broadly humorous lines. Mr. Harry Jennings breezily flits through the part of Tom Hatherton, with the playful topical ditty, "I hear they want some more," brought well up to date. The parts of the bridesmaids are played by a smart and attractive group of girls—Misses Dorothy Radcliffe, Iris Roy, Kathleen Kerr, and Elsie Shillings. Misses Ada Booth, Daisy Moule, and Bertha Buckley represents small parts of maids-of-honour, &c. Mr. P. Allerton Turner undertakes the duties of stage management, and Mr. Alfred Munro assists Mr. Edward Lytton in the front of the house.

DALSTON THEATRE.
On Monday, Feb. 25, the Sporting Drama, by Mrs. F. G. Kimberley, entitled "BOUND TO WIN."

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company is presenting the domestic and sporting drama, Bound to Win, at the Dalston Theatre this week. The applause indicates that both story and acting are acceptable. The representation certainly lacks nothing in the matter of general "go," and in several individual instances the acting is of pronounced merit. Mr. Frank Holbery as Harry Lyndon; Mr. Edward Bikker as Squire Forbes; and Mr. George Steel as Philip Ayre represent gentlemen of the sporting world in a way which renders the characters absolutely true to life. Mr. Arnold Allen's character sketch of Horatio Buffit, a racing swell, and his singing of a song about a millionaire, make him popular; Mr. J. Franklin also does well as Ned Oakley; Willie Winkins, a stable lad, is effectively played by Mr. Dick Seddon; and other typical personages are well portrayed by Mr. Sidney Rudge as Joe Blake, a tipster bookie; Mr. Harry Honk as George Moores, a wrong jockey; Mr. Stead as a workhouse keeper; and Mr. Herbert King as Detective Shirley. Miss Effie Macintosh effectively enacts the part of Winnie Oakley, an interesting character in the piece; Miss Violet Langley is equally good as Marion Forbes; and Miss Kate Froude as Gladys Orme so convincingly portrays a thoroughly heartless woman that she stirs up the feelings of the audience to quite a pitch of resentment. Others in the cast are Miss Annie Lee, Mrs. J. Franklin, Mr. Sam Warren, and Master Willie Aytom.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.
On Monday, Feb. 25, the Musical Play, entitled
"THE DAIRYMAIDS."

The popular manager, Mr. Cecil Paget, following his usual practice of presenting local playgoers in turn with all the London successes, this week provides a great attraction by the engagement of Mr. Robert Courteidge's company in The Dairymaids. The production is well staged, and excellently acted, the result being that crowded houses have been the rule. Miss Violet Lloyd is a very fascinating Peggy Brudenell, and her acting is most vivacious. She scores great successes with her songs, "The Sandow girl," and "Tinker, tailor, soldier, sailor," and the duet with Mr. Staples, "Mary and Jane." Miss Rhoda Gordon is a charming Winifred, and gains a triple encore for her taking song, "Hello! little stranger," in which she is ably assisted by three clever little children. Mr. Lionel Victor soon makes himself a prime favourite as the jolly Jack tar, Joe Mivens, and his genial humour is contagious. Sam Brudenell is ably impersonated by Mr. E. Statham Staples, who dances well, and is loudly encored for his topical song, "The ladies' club." That experienced actor, Mr. Forbes Dawson, rattles through the part of the light-hearted Irishman Dr. O'Byrne in delightful fashion; and Mr. Alec Fraser as Captain Fred Leverton is deservedly encored for his artistic rendering of the pretty ballad, "Dreamland." Miss Beryl Vaudrey acts and sings well as Helene. Miss Cissie Sephton as Eliza gives a capital character-sketch of the country maid-of-all-work, and her songs "Mary" and "Why does she want to grumble" are excellently sung. Her dancing is also much appreciated. Miss Edith Blanche is a stately Lady Brudenell; and Miss Madge Avery displays appropriate dignity as the schoolmistress, Miss Pychase. Mr. George Desmond is a gallant and light-hearted Lieut. Bruedenell. There is a large and efficient chorus, and the orchestra is under the able bâton of Mr. Albert Bartlett. Mr. J. B. Gordon acts as general-manager. The scenery by Conrad Tritschler is a notable feature of the production, the set of the first act, the Model Dairy at Hindstead, being a particularly pretty piece of brushwork.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.
"THE CATCH OF THE SEASON."

Mr. George Dance's company is here this week with the above-named bright musical play, which is a strong attraction. Miss Moya Mannering as Angela has a delicate, dainty style that is admirably suited to the portrayal of the combined maidenish reserve and girlish high spirits of the modern Cinderella. Miss Mannering throws herself whole-heartedly into her work, and as she is as good a vocalist as she is an actress she at once firmly fixes herself in the good graces of her audience. Miss Emily Mellon is amusing as Lady Crystal; and Miss Isobel Dickens and Miss Florence Lee are sufficiently designing and selfish as the two daughters, though they are both far too charming to come up to the traditional idea of the "ugly sisters." Miss Maud Davies is a stately and pretty Duchess of St. Jermyns. As the Duke of St. Jermyns, Mr. Frank Lincoln has a part in which he simply revels, his untiring energy and clever dancing and singing making him a worthy successor to the well-known creator of the character. Mr. Lincoln is particularly successful with the delivery of the "patter" with which the part abounds and keeps his audience laughing almost continuously. Lord Dundreary finds a capable exponent in Mr. E. H. Kelly, who hits off the foolish young nobleman to the life, the fatuous manner in which he delivers his inanities being very amusing. Mr. Hampton Gordon distinguishes himself in the small part of Sir John Crystal; and Mr. Franklin Miles makes the most of Mr. William Gibson. The page, Bucket, is played with great success by Master Grata, who is responsible for a great deal of laughter, and is indeed a youngster of much promise. The chorus is tuneful and remarkably well stage-managed, the dresses are pretty, and the scenery is on an unusually elaborate scale, the ballroom being a particularly handsome set.

THE PAVILION.
On Monday, Feb. 25, the Play, by Jacob Gordon, entitled
"THE BROTHERS; OR, EVERLASTING HATE."

Jacob Gordon's drama, The Brothers; or, Everlasting Hate, was staged here on Monday by the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Company. The piece was excellently represented, and mounted with much completeness. The histrionic ability of Mr. C. Natansohn was seen to advantage in his presentment of Reb Gedalie Lurie, the quality of manly endurance being cleverly expressed. A charming and delightful impersonation of Rivkele by Mme. Natansohn materially contributes towards the success; and Mme. Goldstein is competent as Soreh Dveire. Mr. Isaacowitch plays Alter Zipes with the requisite seriousness; and an earnest portrayal of Reb Shrage is given by Mr. J. Goldsmith. An agreeable representative of Yerachmiel is found in Mr. J. Soherman, who enacts his comedy scenes with admirable ease and spirit. Mr. J. Fineberg depicted with sufficient incisiveness the part of Tobih Lurie; and a performance of great merit is given by Mr. M. Gusofsky, who is quite at home as Yankele. Mr. N. Hamburger is useful as a doctor; and Mme. Bloom is an efficient servant. During the week The Rich Beggar, The Kreutzer Sonata, The Beggar, Holy Sabbath, and First Love; or, No. 87, have been played.

LYRIC OPERA HOUSE, HAMMERSMITH.
"AN UNWEDDED WIFE."

This drama is being witnessed by crowded houses, and is proving very popular. Miss Ethel Van Praagh plays with much power the leading part of Marian. "the unwedded wife," being especially good in the pathetic scene in Act 2, when Marian's child (sweetly played by Little Doris) dies. Miss Van Praagh is supported by a capable company, which includes Mr. Valentine Henry, who gives an admirable rendering of the part of Frank Armstrong. As Philip Blackstone, the cause of all the trouble in the play, even to the extent of murdering his own child, Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes acts forcibly; Mr. Logan Dana is good as John Hawthorne; David Drummond is cleverly performed by Mr. J. A. Grove; Miss Violet Wilson, a pretty Elsie Langham, acts with much sweetness; the comedy is well supplied by Mr. Will Casey, who is very humorous as Napoleon B. Boomer; Mr. Harry Townley is funny as Perkinson Pimple; Miss Jessie Gillette plays Caraway Crumpet well; and as P.C. O'Runyin, C.I., Mr. J. Edward Whitty is most amusing. The play is well staged.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.
On Monday, Feb. 25, Farcical Comedy, entitled
"A NIGHT OUT."

Mr. Charles Macdona's company is here with a revival of this well-known piece, and with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sugden in the principal parts, it goes as well as ever. The second act, with its true Palais Royal flavour, is the making of the play, and the best efforts of all concerned were combined to secure an admirable representation. The volatile, though elderly, Joseph Pinglet is ably played by Mr. Edward Thirlby, whose impersonation of a hen-pecked husband for once "off the chain" is very funny. Mr. Mark Lester gives due emphasis to the broad humour of the part of Mathieu, the old country notary with the convenient stammer; and Mr. Godfrey Saville makes up well as the studious schoolboy who is led astray. Mr. Charles Sugden's easy and natural style is well suited to the portrayal of Paillard, the unemotional architect, whose indifference to his wife is the mainspring of the complications of the play, and his acting is as fresh and breezy as ever, which is saying a good deal. Mr. Fred Penley displays great agility as the younger waiter at the Hôtel Mascotte; and Mr. Thomas Barry is excellent as Bastien, the head waiter at the same doubtful establishment. Mr. Newstead Adams is lively and vehement as the Italian, Botticelli, one of the guests at the Hôtel Mascotte. Mrs. Chas. Sugden as Mrs. Paillard, the neglected wife, is good throughout, much of the fun of the situations being due to her acting, while her costumes and hats have also a striking effect. As Angelique, the wife of Pinglet, Miss Constance Groves is a real "home-ruler," with a genuine sense of humour. The sprightly maid, Victorine, is in the hands of Miss Lilian Stafford, who gives a piquant portrayal of a pert domestic; Mathieu's four charming daughters are merrily acted by Mesdames Dorothy and Muriel Dance, Elvira Stuart, and Emmie Kemp; and Mr. Dare Austin is very good in the small part of the Inspector of Police, Brochard. The play involves two heavy changes of scenery, the whole of which has been specially designed for this company, and serves to complete an excellent production.

GRAND, FULHAM.
"THE BEAUTY OF BATH."

At Fulham Mr. George Dance's principal company is giving an excellent show in The Beauty of Bath. Mr. Leslie Holland is responsible both for the production and for the rendering of the leading rôle, Lieut. Alington, R.N., a part in which he does uncommonly well. His acting is breezy and vivacious, and his spirits never flag, whilst when occasion calls for real dramatic effort, as in the love scenes and the meeting with his mother, he is quite equal to the situation. Mr. Fred Leister is dignified as Lord Bellingham; and Mr. Reggie Grey is good as the fatuous Lord Quorn, also furnishing a clever patter song. Mr. Sheriff Clunes does all that is needful as Beverley; and Mr. Jack Crichton is an amusing representative of Sir Timothy Bun, contributing one or two capital songs and several clever eccentric dances. Mr. Sydney Grata enters into the part of Lemon Goodge, the programme boy, with great spirit, and scores repeatedly. Miss Maggie White as Dorothy Bun charms with her graceful acting, and entertains the audience with some clever versions of comic songs in ballad time. Miss Jessie Fraser does well as Truly St. Cyr, the actress, and adds to her reputation as a particularly graceful dancer. The eight Bath Buns are represented by a bevy of charming young ladies in ravishing toilets. Miss Ida Laurie is good in the difficult part of Mrs. Goodge, late of Bloomsbury. To Miss Edith Cruikshanks as Mrs. Alington falls the most dramatic episode in the play, the reunion with her son after ten years absence, and in this her acting rises to a really high level of excellence. The title-rôle, Betty Silverthorne, the Beauty of Bath, is taken by Miss Gladys Guy, who acquits herself admirably, her acting, singing, and dancing being alike charming, and well deserving of the applause obtained. The play is handsomely mounted and dressed. Mr. Leslie Holland is responsible for the stage management, and Mr. Gordon Stamford acts as musical director.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.
On Monday, Feb. 25, Shakespeare's Comedy,
"THE TAMING OF THE SHREW."

The interest with which Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton have been able to invest Shakespeare in the popular mind was fully exemplified by the cordial reception which was accorded the production of The Taming of the Shrew by the large audience which filled the Kennington Theatre on Monday night. Mr. Asche has gathered round him a remarkably strong and well-balanced company, the members of which all put their best work into the piece, and gave a thoroughly sympathetic interpretation of the comedy. The staging and dressing were both excellent, the room in Baptista's house and the garden scene in particular being very fine sets. In this version the Induction is played, and the humour of this added largely to the enjoyment of the evening, besides enabling Mr. Oscar Asche to show what a consummate artist he is. His representation of Christopher Sly appealed with potent effect to the sense of humour of the audience.

As Petruchio in the play itself Mr. Oscar Asche scored a big triumph. His rollicking high-handedness in dealing with the refractory Katharina evoked perpetual merriment, and was in strict accordance with the best conceptions of the part. Mr. Asche is certainly one of the best exponents of Shakespeare which the present-day stage possesses. He was admirably supported by Miss Lily Brayton, who gave a magnificent delineation of the complex character of Katharina. It is a long time since the many-sidedness of the Shrew has been presented with such complete success, and Miss Brayton is to be congratulated on her brilliant acting.

The Lucentio of Mr. H. R. Hignett was a wonderfully clever study. He was quite at home in the rôle and became a warm favourite with the audience. Miss Agnes Brayton made a demure and lovable Bianca. The two rejected suitors for her hand, Gremio and Hortensio, were well taken by Mr. Caleb Porter and Mr. Ian Penny, who are both fine actors. Mr. G. K. Souper was a remarkably fine Tranio, while Mr. B. F. Anson's Biondello was well worthy of mention. Mr. Henry Kitts made an amusing Grumio, and Miss Constance Robertson was seen to advantage as Curtis. Mr. Alfred Brydone did very well as Baptista, and Mr. FitzRussell was all that could be desired as Vincentio. Mr. W. R. Staveley as the Pedant, Mr. Gordon Harker as the Tailor, Miss Leila Norris as the Widow, and Mr. Stanley Farbridge as the Steward all deserve a good word, for although their parts were small they were played skilfully and well.

THE PRINCE'S, POPLAR.
"THE COAL KING."

Since its production at the Elephant and Castle on October 24, 1904, Messrs. E. Martin and F. Llewellyn's drama, The Coal King, has met with considerable success in the provinces, and on Monday it was submitted at Poplar's handsome playhouse to the judgment of a large audience, who received this healthy piece with acclamation. The play is well written as regards dialogue, which is of the requisite vigour, while the construction abounds with dramatic effect, and does infinite credit to the skill of its practised authors. Messrs. G. M. Polini and L. Maitland's excellent company work hard throughout the evening, with happy results. A manly and earnest Tom Roberts is found in Mr. Lauderdale Maitland, who infuses such goodwill and power into his acting as to find much favour with those in front. Mr. Escott Robinson plays Walter Hartford with unconventionality, his performance being a consistent and well-thought-out sketch of unforced malignity. Mr. Cole Aspinall is well adapted to the rôle of Sir Reginald Hartford; and as the vacillating and remorseful Dick Shirley, Mr. Frank Dalton makes full use of his opportunities, giving an interesting portrayal. Mr. Alfred Terriss causes much amusement by his humorous rendering of Jim Williams: and Mr. John Coghlan is impressive as Seth Baker, being remarkably good in the entombment scene. Miss Gertrude Valentine is charming as Grace Shirley, her acting throughout being of unusual excellence. Miss Sinna St. Clair succeeds in enlisting the sympathy of her audience by her fine exposition of Mad Ann; and the necessary piquancy and pertness of Araminta Green are well displayed by Miss Enid Ross. Capable support is given by Mr. Angus Hall as Ned Jenkins, Mr. Harry Nelson as Jack Brown, Mr. L. Fenwick as James, Mr. Louis Stanford as Thomas, Mr. Fabian Lock as Saxby, and Miss Eveline North as Mrs. Baker. The staging and mounting are in the best possible taste, while the general manager of the theatre, Mr. Harry Lyons, is ceaseless in his efforts in looking after the comfort of his audience.

THE STANDARD.
On Monday, Feb. 25, Balfe's Opera, entitled
"THE PURITAN'S DAUGHTER."

The performance of Balfe's delightful opera, The Puritan's Daughter, was accorded an excellent reception at the Standard on Monday. The members of Mr. J .W. Turner's company did full justice to their respective rôles, the result being an interpretation of high excellence. Mr. J. W. Turner scored an instantaneous success as John Wilmot, Earl of Rochester, and created a profound impression from first to last. He tunefully rendered the pieces of music falling to his share, and won well-deserved applause. Mr. Tom Griffiths is worthy of warm commendation for his artistic efforts as Charles the Second. He uses his excellent voice to good effect, and met with due appreciation. The part of Clifford, a young cavalier, was portrayed by Mr. George Ridding with distinguished ability: whilst Mr. Sidney Clifford must be congratulated upon his fine performance as Colonel Wolff, and his singing of several pleasing numbers was much appreciated. Mr. F. Clark did all that was possible as Fleetwood, and Mr. G. Ridding as Seymour gained sincere approbation for his careful and melodious rendering of the songs allotted to him. Again Mr. Richard Cummings was given an opportunity of proving his worth in a part of mirthful nature, and he certainly did so in a capital manner; as Ralph he was particularly amusing. Miss Jessie Dennis placed before her admirers an excellent conception of Jessie, her tasteful and pleasing singing being much enjoyed. Miss Kitty Brownless sang with expression and feeling as Mary Wolff, and deserves high praise for her graphic interpretation of the rôle. The carefully-trained chorus was responsible for some tuneful music, and the orchestra rendered admirable service under the bâton of Mr. T. Lawton. Other operas for the week are The Bohemian Girl, The Rose of Castille, The Daughter of the Regiment, The Lily of Killarney, and Il Trovatore.

THE TERRISS.
Monday, Feb. 25, the Drama, by Gordon Holmes, entitled
"THE CONVICT'S DAUGHTER."

The favourite stock company is now back again at the Terriss, appearing in the above exciting drama. Needless to say, each member receives a cordial reception, and the combination gives an interpretation of the piece which is in every respect satisfactory. Mr. Ashley Page has the principal part, which is one that affords him every chance of showing his versatility. As Weary Willie, the tramp, Michael Grahame, the man wrongfully convicted, and Convict 89, Mr. Page scores a distinct success. Miss Marion Denvil makes a sweet and sympathetic Edith Neville, and acts with great effect in the powerful scene in the third act, where Edith recognises Michael Grahame as her father. Mr. Johnny Chippendale brings out all the comic possibilities of the character of Patrick O'Laragan, an Irish constable; and Miss Mattie Everett ably assists in the fun-making as Betty Hyne. Mr. J. C. Aubrey brings out forcibly the unmitigated villainy of Jasper Thorn; and Mr. Tom Taylor, the popular stage-manager, gives an excellent character-sketch of the stern, but good-hearted, Superintendent of the Gaol. Mr. John Sargeant ably enacts the rôle of the benevolent banker, Frederick Neville; and Mr. Ernest E. Norris makes a chivalrous and engaging young lover as Harold Trevalyen. As Marian Thorn, Miss East Robertson is very sympathetic; and Messrs. Gerald Morgan and Archie Turner cause some laughter as a couple of unruly convicts. The scenery and effects are well up to the mark, and the production is received throughout with much favour.

THE SHAKESPEARE.
On Monday, Feb. 25, the Opera, in Two Acts, by W. S. Gilbert and Arthur Sullivan, entitled
"THE MIKADO."

The enormous success that is being attained at the Savoy by the revival of the popular Gilbert and Sullivan operas has whetted the appetite of suburban playgoers, and in large numbers they have availed themselves of the opportunity afforded them this week at the Shakespeare Theatre of witnessing the performances of such old favourites as The Mikado, The Gondoliers, The Yeomen of the Guard, Patience, and The Pirates of Penzance. An excellent company has been obtained by Mrs. D'Oyly Carte, and they must have been highly gratified by the enthusiastic reception accorded their presentation of The Mikado on Monday evening. In Miss Hope Hastings was seen an admirable Yum Yum. She rendered the music in a manner that stamped her as an artist possessed of exceptional gifts, and quickly gained the favour of the audience. An ideal Pitti Sing was found in Miss Lulu Evans, who made a charming appearance in the part, and was heard to advantage in her songs. Miss Theresa Rassam, an accomplished vocalist, sang and acted well in the rôle of Katisha; and Miss Mabel Burnege was eminently satisfactory as Peep Bo. Mr. Charles Walenn scored a decided hit in his embodiment of Ko Ko, and his quaint and irresistible humour provoked the audience to roars of laughter. Mr. Fred Billington as Pooh-Bah fitted the character to perfection, and acquitted himself with distinct success. Mr. Pacie Ripple as Nanki Poo made the very most of his opportunities, and his fine voice was greatly admired. The talents of Mr. Albert Kavanagh were well employed in the part of the Mikado; and Mr. Leicester Tunks is to be commended for his representation of Pish Tush. The orchestra and chorus, under the direction of Mr. T. Silver, contributed in no small degree to the success of the performance. Mr. H. E. Bellamy is business-manager, and Mr. Fred A. Leon stage-manager, for Mrs. D'Oyly Carte. The comfort of the audience was, as usual, well attended to by Mr. E. de Hague Body, the popular acting-manager for Mr. Dudley Bennett.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.
On Monday, Feb 25, the Musical Play, entitled
"THE GIRL BEHIND THE COUNTER."

Mr. Mouillot has a strong company appearing at the Royal County Theatre this week in this amusing and tuneful production, which has been attracting good houses. The title-rôle is filled by Miss Nora Brocklebank with a dainty charm that has won her many friends; Mr. Arthur Cartwright makes an admirable Charles Chetwyn, in which part he discloses the possession of a fine baritone voice; a successful impersonation of the café proprietor, Mons. Duval, is given by Mons. Jules Charmettes; and Mr. H. B. Clarke Chadwick is equally good as General Sir Wilkie Willoughby. Mr. A. M. Moore, who appears as the waiter, sustains much of the humour of the production; whilst good work is also put in by Mr. Howard Cridland as Viscount Gushington; by Mr. Frederick Park as Adolphus Dudds; by Miss Olivia Eltone as Millie Mostyn; by Miss Doris Langdon as Ninette; and by Miss Rose Helene as Susie. There is a numerous chorus, which, with an augmented orchestra, as ably controlled by Mr. Herbert Sullivan Brooke.

BROADWAY THEATRE, S.E.
On Monday, Feb. 25, the Play, entitled
"THE SPRING CHICKEN."

This popular success was enthusiastically received, and the various pretty numbers loudly applauded. Mr. J. S. Durant's Gustave Barbori was a capital performance, full of brightness and go: Mr. Henry Averill was excellent as the head clerk, Boniface; Mr. A. Drinkwater submitted a clever character-study as Baron Papouche; and Mr. Edwin Dodds was most amusing as head waiter at the Crimson Butterfly. Mr. Fred Payne was a warm favourite in the part of Mr. Girdle, playing with quaint humour throughout; his wife (Mrs. Girdle) had a capital representative in Miss Nellie Kavanagh; Stephen Henry Girdle and Emmy Lou were amusingly impersonated by Mr. C. Brierley and Miss Lilian Errol; the Baroness Papouche was well played by Miss Clarice Cartner; and Dulcie Barbori had a very charming representative in Miss Florence Wix. Miss Sally Leonard and Miss May Fraser were very good as La Belle Cissi and La Modise. Clever Miss Chrissie Ralland was deservedly a huge favourite as Rosalie; Mr. John Dace was excellent as Napoleon, the office boy. The other parts were all admirably filled by Messrs. E. C. Moylan, Lipscomb, F. G. Davis, C. Baker, Emil Adame, and G. Fisher; Mesdames Mollie Esmond, Enid Brook, Irene Vivian, Ella Stanley, Ida Hamilton, Vera Dart, and Laura Haydn. The chorus sang well and looked most attractive in their pretty dresses. The scenery was beautiful and appropriate, and the augmented orchestra played well under the direction of Mr. Knight Pearce.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.
"THE ASSASSIN."

Mr. Augustine Knight's company is meeting with every success this week in The Assassin at the Stratford Theatre Royal. Mr. Augustine Knight, in the important rôle of Prince Demetri, plays with considerable power, and dons many handsome uniforms to advantage. Miss Ella Vane acts with force and feeling as the Countess Wanda, "the Assassin," and is always realistic and convincing. Mr. Edward E. Ashby's fine stage appearance well befits the part of Ipanoff, and he plays with successful results. Mr. Theo Balfour makes a soldierly and dignified Duke Karl; and Mr. Cecil H. Raymond provokes plenty of mirth as the gesticulating Baron Alphonso. Mr. Edwin Jenner as the stolid, good-hearted Captain O'Neil, is a great favourite; Mr. Tom J. Taylor is very droll and amusing as Peter; and Mr. Chauncy Morris is seen to advantage as General Nicol. Miss Hetty Senior is decidedly popular as the genial American, Connie Jonathan; Miss Frances Waring contributes a sympathetic performance as Nita; and Miss Marie E. Robertson is a bright and vivacious Katrina. The remaining parts are all carefully played, and the piece is capitally mounted.

BOROUGH THEATRE, STRATFORD.
On Monday, Feb. 25, the Comedy, entitled
"WHAT THE BUTLER SAW."

The return visit of this amusing piece is proving a strong attraction at the Stratford Borough Theatre this week. Mr. Lionel Rignold continues to score heavily as Pink, the rôle of the ubiquitous Butler affording many opportunities to this exceedingly droll comedian, of which he does not fail to take full advantage. Miss Ada Blanche obtains a most cordial reception as the pseudo widow, Mrs. Barrington, and she plays the part with a becoming brightness and gaiety. Mr. Charles Fawcett makes a buoyant and manly Jack Barrington; Mr. William Dunlop plays with ease and fluency as Sir Charles Foden; and Mr. George Ascott hits off exactly the idiosyncrasies of General Dunlop. Mr. Harry Rignold plays in true comedy vein as the Hebraic parvenu Abraham Weinstein, and Mr. Roy Byford is responsible for a capital sketch of Professor Shale. Sidney Clifford is well played by Mr. Leo St. Clair, and Mr. Alec Alves makes an excellent Vere de Bogyne. Miss Marie Daltra as the conventional Miss Foden submits a performance of considerable merit; and Nora is charmingly impersonated by Miss Jennie Wigney. The two Miss Dunlops have graceful exponents in Miss Dorothy Hart and Miss Vera O'Connell; Miss Elsie Gaunt plays with all the necessary hauteur as Mrs. Fleming Smyth; Miss Julie St. George is a very appropriate Mrs. Hake; and Miss May Hart gives a clever display of juvenile precocity as Sophonisba Hake.

Presentation.—At the Royal, Hull, last Saturday, Mr. H. R. Mathews, on terminating his engagement as musical director for the Mr. Popple company, was presented on the stage by Miss Millie Hylton, on behalf of the company, with a well-filled sovereign purse, inscribed "To one of the best." Miss Hylton, after thanking Mr. Mathews for the able manner he had conducted for her, expressed the great regret they all felt at losing him, and she hoped they should meet again. Mr. Mathews, in thanking them, said he should always appreciate the kind thought that had prompted them to make such an unlooked for and generous present. He particularly desired to thank the ladies and gentlemen of the chorus, who had worked so loyally for him, enabling him, whilst doing his duty to his employer, to earn their esteem and respect. Mr. Mathews, by the way, is the brother of the popular manager of the Duke of York's Theatre.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's drama, A Soldier's Honour, produced at the Grand Junction Theatre, Manchester, on Monday, the 25th, contains without doubt all the elements of a popular success. It is compounded of situations for the most part already known in melodrama, though they are freshly contrived and made to carry a more than ordinary weight of pathetic interest, which gives a strong human value to the play.

Motives of love and deception create the opening situation. Captain Jack Deane, in love with Doreen Illingsworth, but persuaded by Henry Thornton—the swell captain of a gang of thieves—that she does not return his love, marries in a fit of pique Cora Lea, an attractive woman who is secretly at the head of the female branch of the thieves' gang, and whose object in marrying Jack is to gain entrance into society for nefarious purposes. When Captain Deane discovers that he has been duped by Thornton, and that Doreen really loves him after all, he is inclined towards suicide: but the revolver with which he is about to commit the act—from which his friend Captain Gerald Temple saves him in time—is used with fatal effect by Cora Lea to silence Jack's mother, who has overheard some incriminating conversation between her son's wife and Thornton. Thornton himself is in love with Doreen; but Cora's affections are fixed on Gerald Temple. That the woman has possibilities of good in her is shown in a scene where the two soldiers are at the mercy of the gang in their den, and for the sake of her love for Gerald she releases them both, though her object had been to rid herself of Jack, so as to be free to marry the man of her heart if he will have her—which he will not. Her hatred of her husband increases since her true self has become known to him, and Gerald's scorn does not abate. After nine years she, in company with her child and Jack's and a clever member of the gang named Holly, follows her husband's regiment to South Africa—the period being that of the Boer War—and engages upon a scheme to dishonour him in the eyes of his General and the army, by obtaining possession of certain despatches with which he is entrusted. The scheme succeeds, but Cora presents her confederate, who is there on behalf of the gang, with a dummy packet, while the real one she is impelled—through a softening influence—to give back into the hands of Gerald Temple, who is thus enabled to save his friend's honour. In this section of the play much interest centres round the child Queenie, between whom and her father pathetic passages occur. Her influence also is felt in the adjustment of the situation created by the theft of the despatches. Cora's duplicitous act toward the gang leads eventually to her downfall from the position she has held among them—though in the culmination the sentiment of redemption is in her, and she is shot dead in protecting Queenie from the thieves, who would have killed the child to obtain some diamonds which she has taken from her mother's hands, insisting that they are a gift from Santa Claus—the time being now Christmas. The child's share in these later incidents is pretty and highly effective, and the whole concludes upon a note of tragic though happy readjustment.

Miss Lottie Addison's delineation of Cora Lee was admirably done, though the part is full of subtle difficulties. As Captain Deane Mr. John B. Shinton played with a manly and commendable sincerity, and in the rôle of a true friend. Gerald Temple to wit, Mr. J. O. Stevenson presented a natural and heroic character-sketch with unfaltering precision. Mr. Clavering Craig made an excellent villain of uncompromisingly evil intent; while a clever piece of work was the General Rochester—a dupe of Cora Lea's—of Mr. Arthur Keand. Miss Ada Ryder's Doreen Illingsworth was a beautifully neat and unaffected depiction of a true-hearted and sweet-natured girl; and the child Queenie, a character of potentially similar type, was nicely impersonated by Miss May Craig. In humorous parts, Mr. Frank Howard was excellent as Lieut. Brattle, and Miss Edie Macklin made quite a success as Jemima Eliza. Others who distinguished themselves were Mr. Fred Tenaur as Holly, the hypocrite; and Miss Sylvia Vickers as Florence Deane, Jack's mother; while the smaller parts were satisfactorily filled.

Incidental music has been supplied by Mr. W. C Pike, and the handsome scenery is by Mr. H. O. Richardson. The play is certain of a successful run.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The programme of the orchestral concert of the Royal College of Music given on Thursday evening, Feb. 21, was more than usually ambitious. The orchestra first performed Beethoven's Leonora No. 1 overture with a fair amount of success, under the watchful care of Sir Charles V. Stanford; and Mr. James Friskin gave a skilful rendering of Cesar Franck's symphonic poem, "Les Djinns," for piano and orchestra, although at times the soloist was somewhat overpowered by the orchestra, the young performers of which simply revelled in the crashing chords and weird harmonic effects of this remarkable work. The final item of the concert was Berlioz's symphony, "Fantastic," "Episode de la vie d'un artiste." Of this famous symphony, which was first heard at the Paris Conservatoire in 1830, Schumann says:—"Berlioz was a young student of medicine in Northern France, a brilliant composer, who thinks to surpass Beethoven by employing five movements for the 'Fantastic' Symphony, Beethoven only requiring four." But Schumann was very complimentary to the young French musician, and said the eccentric passages fully illustrate Berlioz's second title, "An episode in the life of an artist." The orchestra did excellent work in the symphony, being most effective in their playing of the second movement, the "Ball scene," the "March to execution," and the wild music of the "Witches' Sabbath." The duet from Verdi's Otello (closing scene), Act 1, was sung with considerable dramatic intuition by Miss Ada B. Ritchie and Mr. Thomas Watson, the audience being lavish in their applause; the orchestral accompaniment was also admirably played. In Recitative and Air, "Dove Sono" (Figaro), Mozart, Miss Ethel Duthoit was successful in her singing of the familiar music. There was a very large and enthusiastic audience.

PRESENTATION.—At the King's Theatre, Sutton-in-Ashfield, on the 20th ult., Mr. Edward Gray, the popular manager, who on this occasion took his second annual complimentary benefit, was presented with a large photo of himself in fine dark oak frame, with a brass plate attached bearing an inscription, as a token of esteem and regard from the stage, orchestra, and house staff.

The Midnight Wedding, which was first produced at Manchester in the autumn of 1905, is a very good specimen of the romantic drama. In the first place there is a romantic marriage, and that means a capital beginning for a play of this type. When the Princess Astrea Von Strelsburg weds at the midnight hour in the private chapel of this noble family an entire stranger, who happens to be Paul Valmer, the sword master of the Red Hussars, and they part immediately after the ceremony is over, the interest of the audience is at once enlisted, and the expectations which are aroused of exciting events to follow are fully realised. The explanation of the midnight wedding is that the Princess has been persecuted by the odious attentions of Captain Rudolph Von Scarsbruck, and to escape being forced into marriage by him adopts the desperate expedient already referred to. The villainous Captain has an ally in the Princess's brother, Lieut. Eugene Von Strelsburg, who is a reckless gambler, and has lost not only his own money but his sister's fortune at the gaming table The Captain continues his relentless pursuit of the wife in name only, and plots with her brother that he shall be discovered in her bedroom at night, so as to bring shame and disgrace upon her. He accordingly climbs to the balcony of Astrea's chamber and enters by the window, from which the Princess had just previously been gazing. Happily, Paul Valmer sees the Captain enter, and, suspecting danger to Astrea, follows, and is able to foil the villainous intentions. A duel between the two men is arranged, but Paul, having been injured in the right arm, is compelled to fight with his left, and is dangerously wounded. But ere these events the Crown Prince has acknowledged Paul to be his son, whose mother he deserted. He is now desirous of winning Paul's forgiveness and publicly acknowledging him as his son and heir. The Princess, who to be near the man she loves has donned the uniform of a lieutenant in the Hussars, bravely defends herself when attacked by Captain Von Scarsbruck, but is severely wounded. However, there is a happy ending to the romantic story; and the devotion and fidelity of the hero is adequately rewarded.

Mr. Alfred Paumier bears himself gallantly as Paul Valmer, and he also plays the part with an earnestness and spirit deserving of the highest praise. In the scene where he confronts Von Scarsbruck in the Princess's bedchamber, and again in the duel with that officer, his acting is real and impressive. Miss Annie Saker is equally successful in her portrayal of the Princess Astrea Von Strelsburg, displaying not only a womanly charm in her rendering of the part, but delivering her lines with marked effect. Astrea's love for Paul Valmer is also expressed with genuine feeling. Miss Saker also looks well as the supposed lieutenant, and her spirited encounter with Von Scarsbruck evokes the enthusiasm of the audience. Mr. Clinton Baddeley gives an excellent representation of Captain Rudolph Von Scarsbruck, the bold attitude and bullying tone of the villain being admirably assumed throughout. Mr. Ernest E. Imeson does all that is possible with the part of Lieut. Eugene Von Strelsburg, for whom one feels even more contempt than for the villain-in-chief. Mr. Fredk. W. Freeman gives a forcible impersonation of the Crown Prince Leopold, and Mr. W. S. Hardy is a dignified Father Gerard. The romantic story is pleasantly lightened by some comic scenes, in which Sergeant Max, Corporal Otto, and Private Bobo, who are comrades in war but rivals in love, play leading parts. They are all enamoured of Kathie, the waitress at the "Golden Lion"; and by a trick the private gets the preference. An exchange of clothes which takes place between Bobo and Kathie while they occupy two sentry boxes placed close together causes roars of laughter, the little private being comically impersonated by Mr. Algie Spalding. The corpulent sergeant has a capital exponent in Mr. James E. Page: and Mr. Edward Fletcher is good as the corporal. Miss Ada Champion is a sprightly representative of Kathie. Miss Marion Fawcett is well placed as Rozel, alias "Satanella"; and minor rôles receive careful treatment at the hands of Messrs. Arthur Radford, J. Harringay, C. E. Dane, Chas. Stephens, Mark Shelding, and Bert Lewis. The tour is under the able direction of Mr. Alfred Paumier; the scenery is from the brush of Mr. H. O. Richardson, and the incidental music is by Mr. Ben Barrow.

"A HUNDRED YEARS HENCE."

A New Fantastic Play, in One Act, by Margaret Stanley Clark, Produced at the Royalty Theatre, Glasgow, on Monday, Feb. 18.

Hon. Billy Windermere .. MR. LAMBERT PLUMMER
Astrea Dacre ..... MISS DONALDSON

This new comedietta deals with the theme made familiar by novels like "Looking Backward," and plays such as Mr. Edward Compton's To-morrow, viz., the bewilderment of a person projected into a century other than his own. There are only two characters in this version—the Hon. Billy Windermere, a relic of A.D. 1907, and Astrea Dacre, a lady living in A.D. 2007. The Hon. Billy, after a late night up West, which concluded with the drinking of a potion prepared by a studious old professor, wakens next morning (as he thinks) in a bewildered state, to find himself included in a collection of curiosities in the museum of a scientist of a hundred years hence. His evening dress and white shirt are, strange to say, as spotless and immaculate as if he had only laid down for forty winks Through a series of questions addressed to the lady he acquires the information that in the year 2007 ladies rule Parliament, propose to the gentlemen, work hard to keep their dear husbands in ease and comfort, and heliograms and air-ships have reached such a state of perfection that anyone can receive wireless messages from China or Peru, and can spend part of the day in St. Petersburg, and yet be home in time for tea. The Hon. Billy is so much impressed by these manifest advantages that he graciously and modestly accepts the lady's proposal to marry him, and prepares to settle down under these improved conditions. The play was pleasantly interpreted by Mr. Lambert Plummer as the vacuous swell of 1907, and Miss Donaldson as the lady in the Greek robes, which are to be the mode in 2007.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

DEATH OF ROSINA BRANDRAM.

We regret to announce the death at Southend, on Thursday night, of Miss Rosina Brandram, one of the "Old Guard" of the Gilbert and Sullivan company. Miss Brandram had been suffering from a complicated attack of illness, and it had been evident for some time past that there was no hope of her recovery. Her friends must all be thankful that her suffering is over.

Miss Brandram as a child possessed a voice of phenomenal depth, and while on a visit to Italy was introduced to Signor Nava, the celebrated maestro di canto, under whom she entered on a course of training. At the completion of this she returned to England, and soon obtained her first engagement. She made her theatrical début at the Opéra Comique in 1877, where she succeeded Mrs. Howard Paul as Lady Sangazure in The Sorcerer, and played Little Buttercup in Pinafore on occasion. She was afterwards the first representative of the following parts in Gilbert-Sullivan opera:—Lady Blanche in Princess Ida, Katisha in The Mikado, Dame Hannah in Ruddigore, Dame Carruthers in The Yeomen of the Guard, the Duchess of Plaza-Toro in The Gondoliers, Lady Sophy in Utopia, Limited, and the Baroness Von Krakenfeldt in The Grand Duke. She was Kate in the first American cast of The Pirates of Penzance, and when the opera was revived in London in 1888 she played Ruth. Among her other original parts are Mrs. Bowcher in Mock Turtles, Aunt Olympia in Tobacco Jars (1889), the Widow Jackson in Captain Billy (1891), Mrs. Crumpet in He Stoops to Win ((1891), Lady Vernon in Grundy and Sullivan's Haddon Hall (1892), Miss Sims in Barrie, Doyle, and Ford's Jane Annie (1893), the Marquise in Carré and Messager's Mirette (1894), Joan in Pinero, Carr, and Sullivan's Beauty Stone (1898), Dancing Sunbeam in Sullivan and Hood's The Rose of Persia (1899), Lady Newtown in Sullivan, German, and Hood's The Emerald Isle (1901), Queen Elizabeth in German and Hood's Merrie England (1902), and Nell Reddish in German and Hood's A Princess of Kensington (1903); also, rôles in Little Hans Andersen (Adelphi, 1903), and Veronique (Apollo Theatre, 1904).

THE LATE MISS ROSINA BRANDRAM.

A Play, in Three Acts, by Henry Harding; produced for the first time at the Balfour Institute, Liverpool, on Saturday, Feb. 23.

Wilson ..... MR. HARRY ASTLEY
Mrs. Allington ..... MISS IVY PIERPOINT
Colonel Horace Allington .... MR. J. R. ASHTON
Lady Barbara Lyndell ..... MISS M. A. FORBE
Sir Aubrey Lyndell ..... MR. H. SANDERSON
Hon. Charlie Carter ..... MR. FRANK SHEARIM
Dr. Julian Meredith ..... MR. HENRY HARDING
Muriel Lyndell ..... MRS. FRED WILKINSON
Mrs. Maher ..... MISS P. RUTHERFORD

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The author, who is a well-known Liverpool amateur actor, has written a most interesting, and, at the same time, clever play. It is skilfully contrived, and full of dramatic point, and should certainly prove sucessful when it is presented by professional players and sent on tour, as is intended. The theme is somewhat novel, and being full of human feeling obtains a good hold upon an audience. Briefly the story sets forth that Dr. Meredith cherishes an honourable attachment for Lady Barbara Lyndell, wife of Sir Aubrey, who shows towards her persistent neglect. A report having come from abroad that the Knight is dead. Lady Barbara, after much hesitation, accepts Dr. Meredith's offer of marriage, but as the wedding party arrive home from the church the missing Sir Aubrey turns up. The situation is certainly a dramatic one, and very powerfully presented. Awakening to a sense of his selfishness and past neglect of his wife, the Knight resolves to atone, and leave her happy with her new husband by attempting suicide. Meredith, however, saves his life by performing an operation, shrinking from the temptation to kill him, and, after re-uniting the couple, leaves them for ever. The play is considerably lightened by the introduction of comedy, while the dialogue is crisp and interesting. As Meredith, the author played in excellent style, fully realising the character; equally good was the Sir Aubrey of Mr. H. Sanderson; Miss Forde went through a trying ordeal with flying colours, her Lady Barbara being a carefully-studied piece of work. It was particularly convincing in the stronger scenes. Mrs. Fred Wilkinson is worthy of commendation for her Muriel; Mr. Harry Astley did the most with the part of Wilson, the old servant; Miss Rutherford was a perfect type of respectable housekeeper; as the Colonel, Mr. J. R. Ashton played with spirit; Mr. Frank Shearim threw a deal of life into his embodiment of Charlie; and Miss Ivy Pierpoint proved satisfactory as Mrs. Allington. The play was produced by the Lyric Amateur Dramatic Society, under the guidance of the author, to whom the audience at the close gave a rousing reception.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. Wm. Gillespy, lately acting-manager at the Metropole Theatre, Glasgow, was presented on Saturday by the staff with a handsome gold hunter watch, suitably inscribed, and a morocco leather pocket-book. Miss Gillespy, who assisted in the clerical work, was the recipient of a beautiful ruby and diamond ring, and a crocodile leather purse.

MR. BANNISTER HOWARD has arranged for a special flying matinée on Tuesday, when Miss Decima Moore and full London company will appear at the Crystal Palace Theatre in All-of-a-Sudden Peggy.

IN our notice of The Beauty of Bath at the Richmond Theatre last week, the name of Mr. Gordon Stamford, the musical director, was given as stage manager, whereas the duties of that office were efficiently attended to by Mr. Leslie Holland.

"THE GENTLEMAN IN GREY."

A Comedy in Three Acts, by Montague Compton, Produced, for the first time, at the Royal Lyceum Theatre, Edinburgh, on Friday, Feb. 22.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The interest of Mr. Edward Compton's engagement at Edinburgh last week was heightened by the initial performance of a new play from the pen of his elder son, Mr. Montague Compton. The theatre was crowded by an audience which gave an enthusiastic reception to the work of the young dramatist. The scene is laid in the picturesque period of the middle of the eighteenth century, and the plot turns upon the love affairs of Miss Phyllida Courteen, the young daughter of a rich widow. Francis Vernon, a roué masquerading under the name of Amor, has had several clandestine meetings with Phyllida, and has at length presuaded her to leave home, taking with her a valuable pearl necklace, and join him at the "Basket of Roses" Inn, where she is to enquire for him as "the Gentleman in Grey." Charles Lovely, an impulsive, warm-hearted young man, who has quarrelled with his only relative, an uncle, Sir George Repington, a wealthy merchant in London, has also met Phyllida and fallen in love with her. To replenish an empty purse, Lovely has made a bet with Vernon to hold up the stage coach for London, and in this enterprise he is joined by his friend, Anthony Clare. The first scene closes with the discovery of Phyllida's elopement, and the departure of Mrs. Courteen, accompanied by the members of the household, Betty, her maid, and Thomas, her footman, and two elderly admirers, Major Constantine Tarry and Justice Gregory Moon, to find the runaway. In the second scene of the first act Lovely and his friend successfully stop the stage-coach and rob the passengers, who include, in addition to Mrs. Courteen and her companions, Lovely's uncle, Sir George Repington. Lovely and Clare in Act 2 make their way for shelter to the "Basket of Roses" Inn. The former is dressed in grey, and the landlord, mistaking him for Vernon, announces to Phyllida the arrival of her lover. The young girl is covered with confusion at seeing a stranger, whom she remembers having met once only, and the gentlemen retire to allow her to regain her self-possession. Vernon now appears on the scene, and, in an interview with Phyllida, reveals his real nature, and tells her that he has possessed himself of the pearl necklace which she gave into the charge of the postboy. Stung to desperation, the girl strikes him across the face, and he is about to retaliate when Lovely and Clare re-enter. Lovely hears Vernon addressed as Amor, takes in the situation, and resolves to rescue Phyllida from her plight. The party sit down to supper, which is interrupted by the arrival of the delayed stage-coach, and Phyllida escapes to her room. Lovely is placed in an embarrassing position, but he carries it lightly through, bantering passengers, driver, and guard alike, and his identity is suspected only by Sir Charles Repington and Betty. Vernon sees his opportunity, and charges Lovely with being the highwayman; but the latter turns the tables on his accuser by denouncing him as the robber of the pearl necklace, and Vernon is bound, and locked up under the guard of Thomas, the footman. The third act is devoted to unravelling the tangled skein of circumstances into which Lovely has been drawn. He restores their property to the passengers, makes peace with his uncle, and generously permits Vernon to escape. The discomfited villain, however, returns at the moment when Phyllida is endeavouring to leave the inn. He makes a last appeal to her, but is repulsed, and is once more forced by Lovely's entrance to retire checkmated. A love scene between Phyllida and Lovely follows, and the comedy ends with the anticipation of happiness for both. Mr. Montague Compton has written an attractive, agreeable play, in which much skill is shown alike in dialogue and construction. Many of the lines have an epigrammatic ring and freshness, and there are dainty gems of speech which have an almost Elizabethan flavour. The comedy is full of exceptional promise, but as it stands it is too long. The scene at the robbing of the stage-coach will bear condensation, and so, too, will the third act. Montague Compton's comedy should prove a worthy addition to his father's repertory.

Mr. Edward Compton, under whose direction the play was rehearsed and produced, was seen at his best in the character of Charles Lovely. There are abundant opportunities in the part for the display of Mr. Compton's versatility, and the actor was equal to all the demands made upon him. The robbing of the stage-coach was carried through with an air of gay bravado; there was force in his scenes with Vernon, pathos in the act in which he is recognised by his uncle, and beauty and tenderness in his acting in the love passages with Phyllida. Mr. Compton made a distinct triumph in the part, and was loudly recalled at the close of each act. Mr. Henry Crocker, in the well-drawn character of Sir George Repington, played with virility and power. Mr. Dennis Cleugh as Francis Vernon presented an admirable picture of the scheming villain, and he evinces command of passion in the scene with Phyllida in the third act. A quaint character, Tabrum, landlord of the "Basket of Roses Inn," who gives flowery names to everything, was well acted by Mr. G. Wallace Johnston, but the senility of the part was somewhat overdone. Thomas, the footman, who has a great command of Biblical illustration, was humorously portrayed by Mr Philip Gordon; and Anthony Clare was excellently acted by Mr. Vernon O. Crabtree. The conventional characters of Justice Gregory Moon and Major Constantine Tarry were sustained by Mr. Montague Lane and Mr. Charles Rogers. John, the guard, and Dicky, the driver, of the "Invincible" stage-coach, were adequately presented by Mr. Hubert C. Brett and Mr. Arthur Elsmore. In Miss Phyllis Relph, who played the part of Phyllida, Mr. Compton has found an actress of talent. Miss Relph, who is graceful of figure and beautiful of face, completely realised the character of the trusting maiden, and she showed dramatic gifts of sympathy, pathos, and power. Miss Mackenzie was a bright, exuberant Betty; and Miss Marie Hassell was highly entertaining as the amorous Mrs. Courteen. Miss Marion Le Strange was a capital Mrs. Tabrum; and an exceedingly clever impersonation of the small part of Polly was given by Miss Barbara Pigot. The play was beautifully mounted, and at the close the members of the company were recalled, and bouquets were handed to the principal ladies. On the final fall of the curtain there were loud calls for the author, and Mr. Compton led his son on the stage. Enthusiastic applause followed, and Mr. Compton said that that was a memorable evening for him. Amongst the many birthday presents which he had received on his last anniversary there was the gift of the manuscript of The Gentleman in Grey. He read the play, and when he had finished, he said, "Edinburgh," and made up his mind to produce the play in the city which he considered one of the most critical in the kingdom. He had shown his faith in the comedy by producing it, and he asked the question fearlessly, and expected as fearless an answer, "Was the play a success?" A unanimous shout of "Yes!" came from all parts of the house. Mr. Compton, resuming, said that that verdict had made the author's mother, who was present, a proud and happy woman; it had made him, the author's father, a proud and happy man; and it had made the author himself one of the proudest and happiest young men in the country. Renewed applause succeeded the close of Mr. Compton's speech, and Mr. Montague Compton again bowed his acknowledgments. In answer to shouts of "speech," Mr. Compton said his son thanked them from his heart, but preferred to be known rather as an author than as an orator.

"THE ROSE OF DAWN."

A Poetical Play, in Three Acts, by Herbert T. Rainger, Produced at the Victoria Rooms, Cheltenham, Feb. 22.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

In this new play Mr. Rainger has certainly gone one better than his previous efforts, The Cap-Maker's Daughter and The Bitter Sea. He has cleverly utilised a difficult theme, and handles his subject in a praiseworthy manner. Aglovale, a King whose throne has been usurped by his son, Morten, lives in disguise amongst the woods with Melias, his illegitimate son. Being of a dreamy, romantic disposition, he is more contented in the forest than upon the throne. His great fear is lest a prophesy, uttered at the birth of Melias, that the latter should die upon the sword of his brother Morten, should be fulfilled. For many years they live peacefully amongst the peasants, until at length King Morten conceives a violent passion for a fair lady named Ettarde, whom he meets while hunting in the forest. She flies from him, and claims Aglovale's protection. Aglovale reveals himself to his son, who is stricken with remorse, declaring that he will not only marry Ettarde honourably, but also restore his father to the throne. Aglovale, though filled with great fear concerning his meeting with Melias, readily forgives Morten. Ettarde, however, does not love Morten, nor can his entreaties move her. Melias intervenes, and a struggle ensues in which Morten is slain. And now Aglovale, though horrified at Morten's death, cannot help feeling relieved that Melias, whom he so dearly loves, can now never suffer the fulfilment of the prophesy. He conceives the idea of getting Melias placed upon the throne. The latter has become enamoured of Ettarde, and finds that his love is returned. But even as he clasps her to him a wild hermit, the same fanatic who uttered the prophecy years before, intervenes, and forbids the union, as Ettarde is the child of Melias's mother by a peasant husband. Melias is filled with horror and despair, and when Ebel brings to him Morten's sword, he falls upon the blade, preferring death to a life of sin or sorrow. And so Aglovale, hastening to tell Melias that he is King, is confronted with his dead body; but at the bidding of the holy man he sets aside his sorrows and takes up the crown.

Owing to the illness of one of the cast, the author was called upon at the last moment to assume the rôle of the exiled King, Aglovale, which he did with considerable success. The strongly contrasted parts of the King's sons were played by Messrs. Edgar Waithman and Mr. Reginald Bach; the former looked well as Morten, and spoke his lines forcibly and clearly, and the ill-fated Melias became a most attractive personality in the hands of Mr. Bach. Mr. Lyn Rainger as Ebel provided the necessary touch of comic relief in scenes with Godda, a part well played by Mrs. R. Webb. Miss Joan Brady acted nicely as Ettarde; and Miss Nora Prosser submitted a pleasing study of the peasant girl, Linet. Mr. J. Welland coupled the parts of the Jester and the Holy Man in a satisfactory manner; and Messrs. E. Weaver and H. Humphris did well as Reuten and Itho. Appropriate music was composed by Mr. Ernest A. Dicks, F.R.C.O., who conducted the orchestra. "A song of the woods," in the first act, was capably rendered by Mr. Lyn Rainger, and Mr. J. Welland, the Jester, footed it to a lively dance measure in the second act.

OPENING OF EAST OXFORD THEATRE.

Under the management of Mr. Frank Stuart, this house, originally known as the Empire, was reopened on Monday night under the immediate patronage of the Mayor (Coun. E. J. Brooks). The theatre was crowded in every part, and great enthusiasm was evinced by a very appreciative audience. One of the chief and most important of the alterations carried out has been the entire reconstruction and enlargement of the stage, which is now 40ft. wide by 28ft. deep and 40ft. high. The proscenium opening, which formerly was 21ft. wide by 18ft. high, is now 26ft. wide by 20ft. high, and by means of the fireproof curtain the stage, in case of necessity, can be entirely isolated from the auditorium. The building is fitted throughout with electric light.

The opening attraction was Mr. Charles Macdona's company in Mr. Paul Rubens' musical play, Three Little Maids. Mr. Frank Henderson made a capital Lord Cheyne, and kept the house in roars of laughter with his excellent by-play, and he was ably supported by Mr. Eric Barrington as M. de L'Orme and by Mr. Frank Wilson as Bryan Molyneaux. Mr. Bert Barton was good as Cupid, and danced in grand style; Mr. Burgess Barratt was a typical parson as the Rev. Mr. Branscombe; the Three Little Maids found dainty representatives in Miss Mabel Kerridge as Ada Branscombe, Miss Daisy Sylverton as Hilda, and Miss Eva Weigh as Edna Branscombe; all three danced and sang artistically. Miss Kate Graham-Beck bore herself with befitting dignity as Lady St. Mallory; while Miss Laura Wright fairly revelled in the humorous part of Gretchen. Lady Rosemary Beaulieu, Venetia Grafton, and Lady Marjory Crichton received careful treatment at the hands of Misses Hilda Stericker, Bertha Trench, and Nellie Clapton respectively. At the close of the performance Mr. Frank Stuart made a speech, in which he thanked in fitting terms his patrons for their hearty support on this auspicious occasion. The future bookings are attractive, and should help to make the house a success, both artistically and financially. Mr. Macdona's scenery showed the new stage to the greatest advantage, the tea-shop in Act 2 calling forth the loud applause of the house.

METZLER AND CO. are the publishers of the whimsical ditty, "Cupid's Motor Car," written by Percy Greenbank, and composed by Carlotta Rowe, who has put in the easy key of C a melody that will cause the most inexperienced vocalist no trouble. In fact, "Cupid's Motor Car" will charm the amateur, when more ambitious music might disgust them, for which reason the discussion between Cupid and Old Father Time as to the method of employing the motor car so as to lead up to wedding bells may be warmly commended.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

Sir Charles Wyndham is on his way home after a brief sojourn in Egypt, thoroughly invigorated, it is hoped, and ready for his season at the Criterion, which begins on April 8. Rehearsals of The Liars, in which the eminent actor reappears with Miss Mary Moore, are to begin immediately. The cast will be, in many respects, identical with the original one, but the part formerly played by Mr. Alfred Bishop will be taken by Mr. Henry Kemble. The Criterion is now undergoing complete renovation, and will present a spic-and-span appearance on its reopening.

Mr. Lionel Brough is being tenderly nursed by his daughter Mary, his son Sidney, and Mr. Brough's sister, Miss Lily Brough In the garden of his house in South Lambeth-road is a rose-bush standing in a tub, and to one of the branches of the plant is tied, daily, a fresh bulletin of the patient's condition. Our latest information on going to press was that Mr. Brough was much weaker, and that his condition was causing great anxiety.

Mr. Beerbohm Tree was able to announce a splendid result of the matinée of The Red Lamp, given at His Majesty's in aid of St. Mary's Hospital for Women and Children, Plaistow, on Thursday, the proceeds of the performance reaching £875. In the course of a speech Mr. Tree announced that The Red Lamp would be promoted to the evening bill on Saturday, the 16th inst, when the programme would include a new dramatic episode, in one act, entitled The Vandyck, for which Mr. Weedon Grossmith had been specially engaged. The run of Antony and Cleopatra will end on Friday, the 15th inst., when the entire production will be transferred to Berlin.

The Academy of Dramatic Art, the idea of which originated in the mind of Mr. Tree and which was founded by him three years ago, is progressing in a highly satisfactory manner. The first meeting, and also the opening classes, took place at His Majesty's Theatre. It was soon decided, however, that the school must have a home of its own, and the house in Gower-street, where Mr. St. John Hankin, the dramatist, used to live, was secured for the purpose. About a year ago Mr. Tree handed over the school to a board of administrators, and the institution was reconstituted and the management vested in a Council, which included such prominent members of the theatrical profession as Sir Squire Bancroft, Mr. John Hare, Mr. George Alexander, Mr. Edward Terry, Mr. Forbes Robertson, Mr. Cyril Maude, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Mr. Arthur Pinero, and Mr. J. M. Barrie.

Although Mr. Tree personally, by reason of his various responsibilities, is prevented from taking a share in the conduct of the Academy, he keeps himself au fait with what goes on at 62, Gower-street, and has been responsible for introducing several of the pupils to the stage. At the present moment, however, Mr. Tree is well enough content with having been the originator of a successful undertaking which has done, and is doing, good service to British drama. Pupils are at this moment waiting to be admitted to the Academy, and it has been found necessary to start evening classes in order to supplement the tuition given in the daytime. It will, however, be necessary to enlarge the accommodation of the Academy so as to permit of a greater number of pupils taking advantage of its benefits.

The memory of the late Wilson Barrett is to be perpetuated in the new church at Elvanfoot, in the Leadhills district, fifty miles from Glasgow, where a stained-glass window is being erected, bearing the inscription, "In memory of Wilson Barrett, Actor and Dramatist, 1847-1904." A full-length figure of Christ is depicted in an attitude of entreaty. Above is a group of cherub heads surrounding the prominent emblem of the Cross, and the sacred monogram, with the last words from The Sign of the Cross—"O come to the Light beyond."

The origin of the memorial is interesting, and characteristic of the wide sympathies which the late actor always displayed. Mr. Barrett was a frequent visitor in the neighbourhood, and on the last occasion, shortly before his death, he handed to a well-known lady in the district a sum of money as a contribution to the new church. On hearing of Mr. Barrett's death, the lady devoted the money, so generously given, for the erection of this memorial window, which is from the designs of Mr. Stephen Adam, F.S.A.

Mr. George Alexander has been greatly impressed during his electoral campaign by the interest in political economy displayed by his lady constituents, and as a consequence has become a convert to Woman's Suffrage. The decision of the popular actor-manager is no doubt further influenced by the fact that among his most ardent canvassers are a number of favourite actresses, headed by Mrs. Alexander, and including Miss Nina Boucicault, Miss Lilian Braithwaite, Miss Phyllis Broughton, Miss Alexandra Carlisle, Miss Grace Lane, and Miss Nancy Price, who scour the highways and byways of South St. Pancras in search of votes for their candidate.

The Copyright Play Protection Association, which has recently been established at 11, Newport-house, Great Newport-street, is welcome. Its objects are to prevent, first by warning managers, afterwards by taking legal process, all unpaid-for, unauthorised, and piratical representations of members' dramatic properties in Great Britain and Ireland; to stop, as far as possible, the wholesale trading in copyright MSS, which leads to piratical performances; and to guard the interests of authors and proprietors of copyrights generally.

The original members include Messrs. Geo. R. Sims, Ben Landeck, F. Sutton Vane, Eric Hudson, Walter Melville, Fredk. Melville, Geo. Gray, Arthur Shirley, Walter Howard, E. Hill-Mitchelson, Henry Bedford, W. W. Kelly, Graham Falcon, Walter Henry Tilson, and W. J. Patmore. The secretary, Mr. S. Clare, invites information with regard to infringements of authors' rights, and adds that some scores of day-bills sent from all parts of the kingdom, announcing representations of various comedies and dramas unauthorised by the authors or proprietors, are in the committee's possession.

The Managers' Club was packed with a brilliant assemblage on Sunday, when the first ladies' concert was given. The entertainment, which was under the direction of Mr. Charles St. John Denton, was unanimously voted the best concert yet given under the auspices of the club, whose new premises are cosily situated in Savoy-mansions. Miss Ethel Walker, the gifted young comedienne, opened the proceedings with a pianoforte solo, and later on sang humorously "Are we downhearted?" and "If you only knew." Mr. J. M. Hay gave a couple of his choicest selections: Mr. Alfred Lester introduced "The Scene Shifter's Version of Hamlet"; Mr. Charles Collette commanded hearty laughter with a patter sketch; and the programme was also contributed to by Mr. Frank Grahame, Mr. Leonard Russell, Miss Dorothy Southgate, Miss Ethel Denny, Miss Eily Heléne, Miss Ethel Beech, Mr. George Rowlands, Miss Violet Loraine, Mr. Fred Pomé, Miss Maud Denny, Miss Ivy Moore, and Mr. Norman Latham

Miss Lena Ashwell, having finished her American tour under the management of the Shubert Brothers, arrived in England on Wednesday by the White Star liner Majestic.

Mr. W. Clarkson has testimonials from innumerable celebrities as to the efficacy of the art he so skilfully practises. The latest is made in connection with the unfortunate Harry Thaw, now undergoing his trial for murder. "At one of those night clubs where one might amuse oneself harmlessly if one wanted," said a writer in Vanity Fair recently, "Thaw had been forced into a quarrel by certain men who knew more about his future financial prospects than we did, and as a result he was very badly mauled. On the following morning he called to see me in the not very smart cab which he used by the day—and night—with two of the most dreadful black eyes imaginable. Mr. Clarkson may remember how Thaw, who was giving a large party that night, was facially painted so successfully that none of his guests were aware that he had been operated upon."

Mr. E. S. Willard is making his farewell tour of the Western States, America, where he is held in the most affectionate regard, and is drawing abnormally crowded houses at the various towns visited. At Milwaukee his reception was particularly distinguished by warm enthusiasm, and the feeling of the audience was one of keen regret at the loss of so distinguished an ornament of the stage. Mr. Willard sails for England on April 9.

Miss Ellen Terry celebrated her birthday on Wednesday, and was the recipient of congratulations from admirers both in England and America. The famous actress showed the versatility of her art at the Empire Theatre, New York, on the 11th ult., when she appeared in a double bill, composed of The Good Hope and Nance Oldfield. It was the first performance in New York of the former play, and Miss Terry's exquisite embodiment of the fisherman's widow was followed with intense interest, the appreciation of the audience being manifested in a most emphatic manner at the close of each act.

"Amasis," the charming comic opera by Fredk. Fenn and Philip Michael Faraday, finished up its run in London last week at the Princess's Theatre, Kennington, and during the present week has been played at Hull. The full London company is being retained with the exception of Miss Ruth Vincent, for whom, however, a capable substitute has been found in Miss Constance Drever.

Last week Mr. Rutland Barrington was unable to appear through indisposition, but has now completely recovered. Mr. Barrington is a comedian for whom it is extremely difficult to provide a competent understudy, and the management were somewhat at a loss, until on Tuesday night, at very short notice, Mr. Faraday, the gifted composer of the opera, stepped into the breach, and played the part for the remainder of the week. The secret was well guarded, and therefore th applaus given to Mr. Faraday was fairly and squarely earned.

An interesting golf handicap took place at Bristol on the 22nd inst., when the artists and staff of the Prince's Humpty Dumpty pantomime competed for a silver cup presented by Mr. Horace Mills. In the first round Mr. David Fisher beat Mr. Carlton (received 36 strokes), Mr. Cyril Thompson beat Mr. George Chapman (received 10 strokes), Mr. F. Conquest (received 10 strokes) beat Mr. J. M. Chute, Mr. Horace Mills beat Mr. F. S. Green (received 25 strokes), and Mr. F. Griffiths, sen., beat Mr. F. Griffiths, jun. In the second round Mr. F. Conquest beat Mr. F. Griffiths, sen. (received 18 strokes), Mr. Horace Mills beat Mr. Cyril Thompson (received 15 strokes), and Mr. David Fisher was a bye. The semi-final resulted in Mr. David Fisher beating Mr. Fred Conquest (received 10 strokes), Mr. Horace Mills being a bye. In the final, Mr. David Fisher (15) defeated Mr. Horace Mills, and thus won the cup.

Mr. George Alexander had a busy day last Thursday. He rose at eight, and while dressing and while at breakfast answered enquiries concerning his election. At ten he went to his study, and worked with his secretary for half an hour. Thn he motored to the St. James's and rehearsed John Glayde's Honour, amidst constant interruptions concerning municipal business. He left at 2.45 in his motor-car for his committee-rooms at St. Pancras, and was engaged for an hour with canvassers, after which he went canvassing himself. In the evening he spoke to a crowded meeting at Toplady Hall, under Whitfield's Tabernacle.

Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's production of the late Wilson Barrett's last play, Lucky Durham, is in its third year, and is booked far into 1909. The entire production built by the author for his London season, is travelled complete, and the company selected is a powerful one. Leah Kleschna, toured by the same progressive firm, is also in its third year, and booked well ahead. the whole of the New Theatre production being carried. Among Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's enterprises is also the Heath—Wilson Barrett (Bullock) version of East Lynne, which is proverbially a safe card for a manager to play.

Henry Seton Merriman's wonderful novel, "With Edged Tools," has been dramatised by Mr. H. Armitage, the late Wilson Barrett's Manager, who, with his partner, Mr. Arthur Leigh, is engaged in touring Leah Kleschna and Lucky Durham. The story has been closely adhered to, and the vital interest of the story of the society woman who plays fast and loose with the affections of two good men, and is in turn cast off by both of them, is fully sustained. A star cast is being got together, and the production will run well into four figures, everything, including furniture and all accessories, being carried.

A new domestic drama, in four acts, entitled The Robe of Righteousness, by Norman Towers, will be produced on Wednesday, March 13, at the Theatre Royal, Ilkeston. The cast will include Mr. Frank Dallas, Mr. Chas. Halling, and Miss Daisy Halling.

"The House that Jack Built" concluded its most successful career at the Grand, Glasgow, on Saturday, and the utmost enthusiasm prevailed. Presentations were the order of the evening, and all the principals were the recipients of handsome gifts. Miss Luna Love, the popular Jack of the pantomime, by the way, won the prize offered by a local paper for the most popular pantomime artist. It consisted of a pearl and diamond brooch, with green enamel lover's knot above, and was suitably inscribed.

The great success of The Shulamite has been so pronounced that Mr. H. Theodore has decided to send out a second company in the autumn. The Shulamite, it may be recalled, is not a melodrama, but a powerful play dealing with stirring times among the Boers. Mr. Theodore, by the way, is the managing-director of the Victoria Theatre, Broughton, Manchester, a property that has mightily improved under his regimé, and is fast becoming one of the best, as it is among the newest and most beautiful, theatres in the provinces.

The last week has been reached of Mr. Robert Courtneidge's successful production, at the Theatre Royal, Newcastle, of Aladdin, perhaps the most popular pantomime of the Arthurian reign at the Royal. Tuesday evening was set apart for the benefit of Miss Florence Smithson, and a crowded house showed appreciation of this talented artist's efforts. Mr. Dan Rolyat, one of the favourites in the previous year's pantomime, Mr. Dan Crawley, Mr. Imro Fox, Mr. Tom Leamore, and Reynolds' Minstrels assisted in making the evening's entertainment a memorable one.

Mr. George Edwardes is perfecting his plans for the provision of a successor to The New Aladdin at the Gaiety, and has secured from Mr. George Grossmith, jun., and Mr. E. L. Bernam a piece dealing with the famous Koepenick incident over which the world was recently moved to mirth. Mr. Adrian Ross and Captain Basil Hood are to be responsible for the lyrics, and Mr. Ivan Caryll and Mr. Lionel Monckton for the music. Mr. Edmund Payne will be seen as the amazing pretender, a part which should yield unlimited drollery, and a number of interesting pictures of German student and military life will be contained in the piece. An interesting announcement in connection with the production is the engagement of Miss May De Sousa for one of the principal rôles.

Another representative of the drama seeking election to the County Council is Mr. Walter Reynolds, who has long been associated with theatres at Leeds and Blackburn, and has gained no little renown as an actor. He has also made a name as a playwright, and nearly twenty years ago brought out his drama, Church and Stage, at the Avenue. and only five years ago produced his own play. The Sin of a Life, at the Princess's. Mr. Reynolds some time since married the popular actress, Mrs. Lancaster Wallis, among whose many artistic achievements may be numbered that of having played Cleopatra to the Antony of the late Mr. James Anderson, when Chatterton revived the tragedy at Drury Lane in 1874. Mr. Reynolds is standing in the Moderate interest for Hampstead.

Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison, who are enjoying such enviable prosperity with Peter's Mother, have now added another London success to their list, Mr. Otho Stuart having decided that The Stronger Sex, now running to crowded houses at the Apollo, shall be seen in the provinces under the Hutchison management. Mr. Percy Hutchison is already booking the tours of Mr. John Valentine's fine play, which makes the thirty-first first-class attraction secured by this management during the last twenty years. The Stronger Sex is one of the hits of the West End season, and its many fine dramatic situations may be relied upon to appeal powerfully to country playgoers.

A flying matinée of You Never Can Tell will be given by Messrs. Vedrenne and Barker at the Theatre Royal, Brighton, on Thursday. The entire company from the Court Theatre will travel to Brighton for the matinée, which will in no way interfere with the usual performance at the Court in the evening.

The Brixton Theatre is to be reopened on Monday with the pantomime Aladdin. Mr. Dan Thomas, who has acquired no little renown for dame parts in pantomime, will be the Widow Twankey, and the title-rôle will be played by Miss Daisy Yates. The pantomime will be followed by a succession of the best attractions touring. The theatre, which was temporarily transformed into a music hall at the latter end of the year, but failed to obtain the permit to give two performances a night, was redecorated for the occasion, and now presents a bright interior. Mr. R. W. Allum will resume his former position of manager.

The Middlesbrough Grand Opera House was sold by auction on the premises on Tuesday afternoon by Mr. T. Douglas, of the firm of Messrs. Wellman and Douglas. The theatre—an admirably-appointed one—was erected in 1903, and occupies one of the best positions in the town. Bidding was started at £15,000, and when it had reached £18,500 it was declared an open sale. Messrs. Richard Murray, of the North-Eastern Breweries, and other bidders carried the offer to £22,500, when Mr. Albert Smith bid £23,000, at which figure the property was knocked down, amidst applause. Mr. Smith has been chairman of the directors of the Opera House since it was built.

A pleasing incident took place at the Royalty Theatre, Barrow-in-Furness, on Saturday night. when Miss Annie Stone ,daughter of the very popular resident-manager, was the recipient of a beautiful solid gold bracelet in commemoration of her twenty-first birthday. Miss Stone is a clever and capable young actress, and has several times assisted the companies at the theatre by stepping into the breach due to the indisposition of an artist.

Mr. Alfred Martin, who recently concluded his seventh pantomime engagement as advertising-manager for Mr. Milton Bode at the New Theatre. Cardiff, and Opera House, Leicester, has just been re-engaged by Mr. Bode for one of his companies as advance-manager in the autumn and as advertising-manager for one of his pantomimes next Christmas.

"Richard III." will be the next dramatic reading of the British Empire Shakespeare Society. and will be given at Queen's Gate Hall on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Athol Stewart will be the Richmond; Miss Gertrude Scott, Margaret; Miss Eily Malyon, Elizabeth; Miss Beatrice Irwin, Anne; and Mr. Acton Bond, Richard III. The other principal parts will be taken by Messrs. C. Leveson Lane, Arthur Burne, Philip Knox, Carlton Brough, and Theodore A. Hill; and Misses Evelyn Hope, Ruby Feetum, and M. Davies Webster.

Mr. Godfrey Tearle, supported by a strong company, including Miss Molly Malone, will on Monday, March 11, at the Prince's Theatre, Poplar, produce for the first time in London, A Soldier of Fortune, by Gordon Holmes. It is a romantic costume play, and will be elaborately staged, the scenery, dresses, wigs, &c., having been specially designed and executed for this production. The tour will be under the direction of Haldane Crichton, and the advance manager will be Mr. Alfred Martin.

Mr. Bannister Howard this week completes the first year of his enterprise at the Crystal Palace Theatre, which was reopened on Feb. 26 last by Sir Charles Wyndham. Mr. Howard has quite fulfilled the undertaking he then made to supply the theatre-lovers of the district with the best available talent, and as a consequence the house has entered upon a career of the utmost prosperity. Next Monday witnesses the production of Anna of the Plains, a new piece, adapted by H. A. Saintsbury from the novel by Alice and Claude Askew. The play is of strong domestic interest, and is centred around a Boer family on the veldt in South Africa. Anna of the Plains will be followed by a new one-act costume play of the period of 1820, entitled Jocelyn the Jester, written by Ronald Macdonald specially for Mr. Saintsbury, who will appear in both pieces.

Miss Dorothy Clifton at a moment's notice filled the place of Miss Alice Williams, who was unable through indisposition to appear in the title-rôle of the pantomime at the Prince's Theatre, Bradford, on Tuesday. Miss Clifton, who is a niece of Mr. Chas. B. Bedells, and has already achieved success in The Christian and Veronique No. 1 companies, made a charming Cinderella.

Mr. Alfred Donohoe, who is making such a success as Jim Cheese in William Greet's Earl and the Girl company, will shortly appear at the music halls. Mr. Donohoe has a quaint personality that should appeal at once to the humorous perception of a variety audience.

Mr. J. H. Russell, the musical director at the Royal County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, has taken over the licence of that well-known riverside hostelry, the Anglers' Hotel, at Teddington.

Mr. Martin Harvey has won a great triumph as Hamlet at the new and handsome Her Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen, this week. Both performances have been attended by the local "intellectuals" in force, and Scottish reserve has given place to warm enthusiasm, in which Miss de Silva has shared appreciably. Mr. Harvey opens at the King's Theatre, Glasgow, on March 11, when he will play The Spell in conjunction with The Corsican Brothers. In the revival of Miss Violet Longbridge's piece on March 11, Mr. Harvey, Miss Mary Rorke, and Miss de Silva will appear in their original parts. The specially-written music by Mr. Norman O'Neill, which shows this rapidly-rising composer at his best, will be employed as heretofore.

Messrs. Bode and Compton, the proprietors of the Leicester Royal Opera House, have now completed an excellent system of heating the theatre, stage included, which has added much to the comfort of the patrons of the house. The offices of Mr. Henry Dundas, the general and business manager, will in future be found at the front of the theatre, having been transferred from the back of the stage.

Mr. Henry Moxon, an able actor, who has been before the public for upwards of forty years, has we regret to learn, been stricken with paralysis, and will never be able to act again. He is in urgent need of assistance, and Mr. E. Hoggan-Armadale, of whose company Mr. Moxon was for five years a member, is organising a fund to aid him in his dire necessity. Mr. Moxon, whose age is between sixty and seventy years, is now residing with friends in Barrow-in-Furness. Subscriptions will be welcomed by Mr. Hoggan-Armadale at Castle View, Ruthin, N. Wales, and will be acknowledged in our columns.

Mr. Thomas Sidney, the stage-manager at the Royalty, is deserving of every credit for the brevity of the "waits" during the French performances this season. On Monday night, with the King present, and the heavy "strikes," the entr'actes were eleven minutes and nine minutes—an achievement the more notable when the smallness of the stage is considered.

Mr. Norman V. Norman gave a special performance of Robin Hood on Thursday at Barrow-in-Furness which was under the immediate patronage of the Mayor, the Societies of Foresters and Oddfellows, and the principal residents of the town.

Mr. J. E. Beaumont, General-Manager of the Lyceum and Theatre Royal, Sheffield, who was recently elected president of the dramatic branch of the Sheffield Dickens' Fellowship, produced for that society on the 22nd ult. a version of Dickens' novel, "The Cricket on the Hearth," at the Cutlers' Hall, Sheffield. The scenery and effects were kindly lent by the Directors of the Sheffield Lyceum and Royal Theatres.

Miss Jennie Armstrong, who has made a distinct success this year at the Theatre Royal, Manchester, the "Suffragette" song being a special feature of the pantomime, has been re-engaged by Mr. John Hart for principal boy, 1907-8.—Mr. Mayor-Cooke has been engaged by Messrs. Howard and Hallatt for the autumn as Prince Ulric, the heavy lead in Her Love Against the World.

Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson on Monday assumed the active management of the Metropole Theatre, Glasgow, of which his father is the managing-director. Tall and of fine presence, young Mr. Jefferson seems to be the right man for his place, and the appointment is sure to prove a popular one.

Owing to the indisposition of Miss Connie Leon, the part of Sidone in Baron H. Harriss's No. 1 Prince of Pilsen company on tour was pluckily undertaken at short notice by Miss Peggy Franklin. Miss Franklin was most successful, and played the part three nights.

Since taking over the management of H. M. Theatre, Carlisle, Mr. Thos. Courtice, joint-lessee with Mr. R. Stewart M'Kim, has worked with such energy and enterprise that this pretty theatre has now become wonderfully popular. The first visit of the Moody-Manners Opera Company last week proved an extraordinary and unqualified success, the previous best week's business being exceeded by no less than £200. This is a just tribute to Mr. Courtice's business capacity and local popularity, and a proof that the extensive improvements he has carried out are fully appreciated.

A pleasing little ceremony took place on the stage of the Edinburgh Theatre Royal on the occasion of Mr. Mark Sheridan's benefit on Friday evening of last week, when Mr. Geo. T. Minshull, the general-manager of Messrs. Howard and Wyndham's Theatres, presented the beneficiare with a valuable diamond and pearl breast-pin as a mark of the company's appreciation and in recognition of the fact that this season was the twelfth consecutive engagement which he had filled under the present management. Mrs. Sheridan was also presented with a handsome diamond ring. Mr. Sheridan suitably acknowledged the gifts. Saturday evening saw the close, amidst a scene of great enthusiasm, of the pantomime The Babes in the Wood. The principal members of the cast were called upon to make speeches, and at the end of the final act actors and audience joined heartily in the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco, the world's monarchs of magic, have been making their usual success in Portugal, and have just terminated two months' season at the Colysee Royal, Lisbon. This building is a combined theatre and circus, with a stage 240ft. deep. The auditorium has 99 private boxes and holds over 7,000 persons. During the recent carnivals it was packed at every performance. Oporto is now claiming Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco for a few weeks. In the autumn, Servais Le Roy will produce his mystical musical play for a run of the best British provincial theatres, the bookings for which are being arranged by Mr. Scott Phipp.

Miss Violet Barton-Astor, who has been playing with great success the rôle of Millicent in Messrs. Lionel Glenister and Wood-Ingram's All-of-a-Sudden Peggy company, has been released from her engagement, having to rest for six months under doctor's orders. She is re-engaged by Messrs. Glenister and Ingram for the autumn.

"The Lily of France" is to be the title of Mr. Louis N. Parker's new play, relating to Joan of Arc, which Mr. Beerbohm Tree will produce at His Majesty's on his return from Berlin. The character of the heroine will be sustained by Miss Viola Tree.

Mr. Charles Hannan's new play, The Coachman with Yellow Lace, which is adapted from his novel, will be produced at the Hammersmith Lyric Theatre on March 25. Mr. Hannan's fantastic comedy, The Electric Man, which proved so successful at the Royalty, is being adapted into German by Mrs. Bertha Pogson.

Miss Gwynne Herbert has received her third re-engagement from Mr. Frederick Harrison, and will take up the part of Mrs. Hawell in Peter's Mother, which is to be transferred to the Haymarket this afternoon. Miss Herbert has recently been playing Mrs. Charles Calvert's part in Lady Huntworth's Experiment—a new line of business in which she met with gratifying results.

The annual meeting of the Drury Lane Lodge of Freemasons, No. 2,127, was held at the Hotel Cecil on Saturday, when the Lord Mayor and many Grand officers were present. The theatrical profession was represented by Mr. James Fernandez, Mr. Henry Neville, Mr. Harry Nicholls, and many others. The W.M., Mr. C. T. Coggin, installed Mr. S. H. Tatham Armitage, M.D., P.G.D., as his successor in the chair. The new Master appointed Mr. James Powell and Lord Athlumney as his wardens, Mr. Thomas Catling treasurer, and Mr. J. Percy Fitzgerald secretary.

Mr. Tree is to respond to the toast of "The Players," which will be proposed by Mr. A. B. Walkley at the Stage Society's annual dinner, to be held on Sunday week at the Criterion Restaurant. The chair is to be taken by the Right Hon. Sir John Gorst, and other speakers will be Mr. J. T. Grein, Mr. W. J. Locke, Mrs. Pember Reeves (wife of the High Commissioner of New Zealand), and Mr. Frederick Whelen, the chairman of the Society, who will respond on its behalf.

The Actors' Orphanage Fund has received £150 from the Lyceum Provident and Benevolent Fund, which has just been wound up. The funds of this excellent institution have also been added to by the sums of £11 16s., collected by Miss Pauline Chase for her autograph, and £10 1s. from Mr. and Mrs. Fred Terry (Miss Julia Neilson), gained from the same remunerative source.

Miss Sophie Harriss, whose pet Yorkshire toy terrier Dodger made quite a reputation for himself by reason of the numerous prizes he won, to say nothing of his extraordinary escapades, one of which brought him to an untimely end some two years ago at the Hotel Cecil, has been replaced by a pedigree canine of the same costly breed, named Hero, who promises to outvie his gifted predecessor, although he has only reached the tender age of ten months. This latest addition to Miss Harriss' entourage shares his fair mistress's craze for motoring, and has already developed a marked partiality for witnessing The Prince of Pilsen.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, whose appointment as professor of the Paris Conservatoire has given such widespread satisfaction, has had at least one predecessor in the past. We refer to Augustine Brohan, who was not only an accomplished comedienne, but was also a cultivated lady of great social distinction. She came in contact with all the most illustrious in the art, literature, and politics of Paris, and, like Mme. Bernhardt, added greatly to the prestige of the French stage.

A marriage is arranged and will take place at Emmanuel Church, West Hampstead, on April 27 next, between Mr. Trevor Langton Lane (Messrs. A. and S. Gatti and Mr. Charles Frohman's companies) and Miss Amy Gertrude Nathan-Burgess. daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nathan Burgess, 6, St. Margaret's-place, Brighton.

The Celli Fund has been enriched this week by one guinea from Mr. Martin Harvey, one pound from Mr. H. G. Pelissier, ten shillings from Mr. Ernest H. Maude, and one guinea from Mr. Frank Maitland.

Mr. H. B. Irving's late Waldorf success, Lights Out, has made its début before Glasgow and Edinburgh audiences during the past two weeks. meeting with widespread criticism and hearty enthusiasm. Mr. Maundy-Gregory has been complimented both by the Press and play-going public on the care which he has shown in the production.

The first performance of Mr. Coryton Day's new play, The Unknown Philanthropist, will take place on Thursday at the Ladbroke Hall, Notting Hill, under the direction of Mr. Robert Castleton. The principal parts will be played by Miss Mabel Durrant, Miss Helen Tytler, Miss Grace Batley, Messrs. E. W. Thomas, Madgewick, Howe, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Castleton.

Mr. E. H. Sothern and Miss Julia Marlowe begin their London season on or about April 22 at the Waldorf Theatre. The programme for the first week will include Gerhart Hauptmann's fairy play, The Sunken Bell, Mr. Percy Mackaye's drama, Jeanne d'Arc, and Twelfth Night. The second week will be devoted to When Knighthood was in Flower, The Daughter of Jorio (by D'Annunzio), and As You Like It; and Romeo and Juliet will have a place in the programme for the third week. Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe, who will appear in all the plays, bring over a large company and the entire scenery for their productions.

A concert, under distinguished patronage, will be given at Queen's Hall on Thursday next at 8. The giver of the entertainment, Mr. A. Sarga, has furnished the programme with dramatic poems for recital, as well as songs and other attractive selections.

Mr. Edward Compton's second son, Francis Sydney, has just been gazetted to the Inniskillen Fusiliers, and will probably go to India with the second battalion.

Police investigation at the King's Theatre, Kirkcaldy, which was entered by burglars last week, has proved that the theatre door was not unlocked, and that the building had been made secure in every way on the previous Saturday night. The burglars, it appears, entered by means of an adjoining roof near a staircase window at the back of the theatre. The office was burst open, the lock hanging by a splinter of wood. The safe. had only one lock, with three bolts, yet after the failure of the thieves to blow it open, it took the police fully half an hour to unfasten it in order to ascertain whether or not its contents were intact.

Mr. W. Burdett-Coutts writes from 1, Stratton-street, W.:—"Will you allow me to make it known, in answer to many inquiries and communications on the subject, that I propose to write, or to engage a more competent literary hand to write, a 'Life of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts'? May I ask that those who are disposed to aid my object, and who possess letters of interest from the Baroness, should send them to me (after May 1) or communicate with me on the subject. All documents will be treated with great care and returned intact to their owners after the necessary extracts have been made from them."

Mr. F. Teale Lingham, the manager of the Theatre Royal, Newcastle, was the victim of a brutal assault on Monday at the hands of a man named John Rollins, a stall-holder in the local market-place. Rollins, who was under the influence of drink, had been creating a disturbance in the pit, and was being ejected by the attendant, when Mr. Lingham came along the vestibule and advised the man to leave the building quietly, but the latter continued his disorderly behaviour, and finally struck Mr. Lingham a violent blow over the left eye, causing a wound which had to be stitched by a doctor. The man was taken into custody and charged at the Newcastle Police Court on the following day, when the Bench imposed a fine of 10s. and costs or fourteen days for drunkenness, and on the charge of assault sentenced him to a month's hard labour.

In response to numerous requests, Mr. George Edwardes has arranged to give a special extra matinée of The Lady Dandies (The Merveilleuses) at Daly's on Wednesday, March 13, when the 135th performance of this successful play will be reached. The special representation will in no way interfere with the usual Saturday matinée.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The "Lay On" Boys.

AN old actor writes, with reference to our article on Stock Companies, to describe an organisation with the above title at the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, in the "'seventies." The "Lay-on" Boys were a gallery claque; and the name originated in the cry, "Lay on!" which was the signal for the applause of the gang. It was their custom to wait outside the stage-door, and, at the departure of the actors and actresses, to blackmail them politely. Most of the performers found it best to comply with these demands, as refusal resulted in a hurricane of hoots and hisses on the next appearance of the refuser. Our correspondent remembers the coaxing request of one of the "Lay-on" Boys for half-a-crown for the gang. "It's better than having your eyes gouged out, isn't it, sir?" remarked the young ruffian; and the "Lay-on" Boys did not hesitate, in cases of stubborn opposition, to apply the severest punishment. The "Lay-on" blackmail became a troublesome tax, and the police were helpless against the offenders. The system gradually died out with the advent of travelling companies.

The Entente Cordiale.

JUST at the time when Mr. Tree will be going over to Germany, Director Gregor will be bringing the entire company of the Komische Oper across to London. Director Gregor has taken the Adelphi for a season of eight weeks; orchestra, chorus, and scenery go direct from the Komische Oper to London, and the expenses of the undertaking will be considerable. Offenbach's delightful work, Hoffmann's Erzahlüngen is to be the pièce de résistance, and there is little doubt that it will meet with the same appreciation as it has done here, where it has passed its 300th performance. Lakmé, too, may possibly be put in the bill during the season. Director Gregor will break the ice in London in the matter of a no-star system. His company is an admirable all-round one, and he himself is an advocate of the modern "ensemble" theory, which puts the effect of the performance as a whole before the effect produced by individual singers. Hoffmann's Narration has never yet been given in England, and can scarcely fail of its mark. It is genuine light opera, full of charming melodies that would become favourites with any nation.

Othello's Nobility.

THE keynote of Othello's character, says Mr. Oscar Asche in a Daily News interview, is his nobility. He is a blunt, good-natured soldier, and so simple that he is easily imposed upon in things unfamiliar to him or too subtle for him to understand. His very passions—love, hate, jealousy—are mere expressions of this elemental temperament of his. When Othello gets wild he becomes a true savage. His rage is unbounded. He "sees red." But not once does he betray any method in his fury. It is sudden, overpowering, as is generally the case with all honest, simple people.

Married Already.

A MUNICH paper has published an amusing story of how a gentleman from Nebraska was so immensely impressed by the performance of Miss Olive Fremstad, in the part of Salomé, in Richard Strauss's opera, that he wrote proposing marriage to her in these terms:—"Dear Miss Fremstad,—You are unique in the world. I would bet my last dollar against a match that there is nothing for you, in the whole universe, but the sacred interest of art. I, too, am alone in the world. I am six foot high, have a fine position, blue eyes like yours, all my hair, and much landed property. Will you marry me? I will buy a piano. I would rather that my head were in your hands—even if it were on a dish, like John's—than that it remained on my shoulders, and me to be the husband of any girl you like in Nebraska. Here is a stamp for the reply." The lady answered:—"I have received your letter, but I do not see how I can agree to your kind suggestion. My work at the theatre leaves me no time to concern myself with the many formalities and ceremonies involved in getting married. Besides, there is another obstacle. Mr. P. S. Edson would never allow it." There the letter ended, but it was followed by a postscript, which said:—"Mr. P. S. Edson is my husband."

Royal Playgoers.

KING EDWARD and the Royal Family, says the Express, have been patronising the theatres to an unusual extent since the beginning of the year. His Majesty, who has always been particularly interested in the French theatre, has seen the French plays at the New Royalty on four occasions since Jan. 1. On an average King Edward goes to the West-end theatres about fifteen times in the course of a theatrical season. The Prince and Princess of Wales have also had an exceptional spell of theatre-going this year. They have seen many of the more popular productions at the West-end houses, and they have taken Prince Edward with them to see Sindbad, Peter Pan, and The Yeomen of the Guard.

Parker and Pageantry.

"MY plays have to give way to pageants at present," says Mr. Louis N. Parker in P.T.O. "I am, however, expecting to be called for rehearsals very shortly in connection with Mr. Tree's production of my Joan of Arc, the leading character in which drama is to be portrayed by Miss Viola Tree. I am not sure whether Mr. Tree will appear in it himself, but he has promised to produce it as soon as a new play is required, and has had mine in hand for the last eighteen months. The first announcement flooded America with Joans of Arc, and I am loth to give particulars of other plays I have in hand, for obvious reasons."

Looking Backward.

LET us place ourselves, says Mr. William Ascher in the Tribune, in the year 7000 of our era, and, looking backwards, try to discover Shakespeare among the luminaries of the spiritual firmament. Is it conceivable that he should then subtend any appreciable angle of vision? No doubt, if anything at all resembling the English language survives, some portions of his works will survive; for he wrote with incomparable beauty, and beauty is the one thing really worth conserving. But will the world of 7000 A.D. have any relish for his stories, except, perhaps, as we relish the stories of Jack the Giant Killer and Sindbad the Sailor?

Chopin's "Because."

MR. MARK HAMBOURG has told a Daily Express representative that no pianist should start on his trip without at least two hundred pieces in his repertory to draw from. The concerto Mr. Hambourg is most asked for is the Tchaikowsky in B flat minor, and of Beethoven's sonatas, the "Appassionata." These "requests" he receives from ladies all over the world, and they are generally handed to him as he enters the concert hall. One of the most curious "special requests" he ever had made to him was in Melbourne. He was sitting down to perform an encore piece, when a shrill voice suddenly cried, "Please play Chopin's 'Because.'" Musicians need not be told that the "Berceuse" was intended, though some might think it was a companion piece to Schumann's "Why?"

We shall be obliged if our readers will send us any amusing anecdotes they may hear, or accounts of any quaint incidents they may witness while acting or rehearsing.

THE ADELPHI.

On Tuesday, Feb. 26, Revival of the Drama, by Hall Caine, entitled

"THE PRODIGAL SON."

Magnus Stephensson	MR. FRANK COOPER
Oscar Stephensson	MR. WALTER HAMPDEN
Stephen Magnusson	MR. HENRY NEVILLE
Oscar Neilson	MR. AUSTIN MELFORD
Dr. Olsen	MR. OSCAR ADYE
The Pastor	MR. FRED GROVE
The Sheriff	MR. FRANCIS CHAMIER
Neils Finsen	MR. HERBERT HEWETSON
Director of Casino	MR. CECIL ROSE
Eric Arnasson	MR. KENELM FOSS
Jön Vidalin	MR. DERWENT
Agent of the Bank	MR. HOWARD RUSSELL
A Croupier	MR. A. E. MAYNE
Helga Neilson	MISS CECIL CROMWELL
Margaret Neilson	MISS FLORENCE WOOD
Anna Magnusson	MISS DORA PERCIVAL
Madama Pandher	MISS KATHLEEN CARTERET
Gudrun	MISS MARJORIE DAY
Marta	MISS DORA E. CLEMENTS
Thora, Elin	MISS LILY HALL CAINE

The great strength of Mr. Hall Caine is that he is not afraid to be simple. All his stories are elementary in their appeals. And this really is the method of the greater artists. They take a primitive theme, and exalt it by elaborating the treatment. The plot of Balzac's Grand Homme de Province à Paris is not more complex than that of The Prodigal Son, which was revived with complete success at the Adelphi Theatre on Tuesday evening. Both are tragedies of the artistic temperament. Where Mr. Caine has shown his perception of the necessities of the stage in The Prodigal Son is in his Monte Carlo business. With this exception the action moves on dramatic rather than theatrical lines. Soon after the rise of the curtain we realise the position of affairs at the old "Inn Farm" in Iceland. The selection of the locality alone is thoroughly judicious. A sentiment of poesy and romance still clings to these rarely-visited and comparatively unknown countries. We are free to give the reins to our fancy, and to believe that romance still lives in the land of geysers and diminutive ponies. And then the contrast between modernity and primitive life is so curious! Oscar Stephensson, the "born musician," comes back from Oxford and "up-to-date" civilisation into an atmosphere of elementary passions and non-complex emotions. The curious perversity of Thora Neilsen, who prefers the brilliant ne'er-do-well to his brother, Magnus, has often been paralleled in real life; and the result, as in reality, is misery. For the fickle Oscar soon tires of the tame little Thora, and finds "metal more attractive" in her sister, Helga, the vocalist. And so, of course, everything goes amiss. Thora is killed by the shock of learning her husband's infidelity; and Oscar forges his father's name to a heavy cheque.

Then the "theatrical effect" comes in. It is more or less of an accident that Oscar finds himself penniless at Monte Carlo, and is induced by the proprietor of a gambling "hell" to become an accomplice in a scheme to cheat at the tables. It is, however, absolutely necessary for the purposes of the play—which demands a powerful scene at this point—that Oscar should have a revulsion of feeling which makes him hurl his winnings among the gamblers, and rush out, resolved on repentance and reform.

Then we revert to drama proper, and witness Oscar's return to the farm, rich and repentant, to find Magnus ruined by Oscar's forgery, but still cherishing Thora's child. And the prodigal atones for his errors by saving his brother from bankruptcy, and then goes out into the wide world again.

All our readers will remember how successful was the production at Drury Lane Theatre in the September of 1905 of Mr. Hall Caine's popular play. It had, indeed, an admirable cast, including Mr. George Alexander, Mr. Henry Neville, Miss Mary Rorke, Mr. Frank Cooper, Mr. Austin Melford, Miss Nancy Price, and Mrs. John Wood. Fortunately several of these first-rate artists are available for the present revival. Mr. Frank Cooper repeats his fine portrayal of Magnus Stephensson. The deep seriousness, the intense earnestness, and the suggestion of repressed emotion which originally distinguished Mr. Cooper's creation have, if anything, been matured and increased by repetition; and his acting throughout is full of the stern sincerity and the manly pathos which make his Magnus Stephensson one of the greatest of this clever actor's achievements. It is no small factor of his success that he is able without difficulty to realise the broad-shouldered, muscular, and virile individual of Mr. Hall Caine's conception. Mr. Henry Neville's absolutely accomplished art enables him to deal with the rôle of Stephen Magnusson in a manner which leaves nothing to be desired in the way of firmness and finish, and he endows his representation with a geniality and generous warmth which are thoroughly appropriate. Mr. Austin Melford's striking individuality and practised ability lend distinction to the part of Oscar Neilson, which stands out much more strongly than if it were in the hands of a less original artist. Mr. Melford's make-up has perhaps something to do with this agreeable result. Miss Lily Hall Caine suggests very happily the amiability and simplicity of Thora's character, her agreeable ingenuousness, her gentle kindness, and her sensitive nature being shown with great tact and skill. As Elin, Miss Caine is also very sucessful, the sweet, unspoilt character of the girl being very delicately depicted. Miss Cecil Cromwell is well chosen to represent the wayward and fascinating Helga, and realises admirably the reckless, selfish, and unprincipled impulses of the adventuress. In the third act she plays with deep earnestness and passionate power. Miss Florence Wood gives a very humorous and effective interpretation of the quaint and cynical Margaret Neilson, making every droll speech tell by her acute and emphatic delivery; and Mr. Oscar Adye does excellent and well-considered work as Dr. Olsen. Mr. Fred Grove contributes a neat embodiment of the Pastor; and Mr. Herbert Hewetson must be warmly praised for his clever treatment of the character of Neils Finsen. Mr. Cecil Rose supplies an effective portraiture of the Casino Director; Mr. Kenelm Foss must be congratulated on his efforts as Eric Arnasson; Mr. Derwent as Jön Vidalin is thoroughly satisfactory; Mr. Howard Russell's Agent of the Bank of Denmark deserves distinct commendation; and Mr. A. E. Mayne is seen to advantage as a Croupier. Miss Dora Percival as Anna is the most amiable and indulgent of mothers; Miss Kathleen Carteret is excellent in every way as Madama Pandher; and Miss Marjorie Day and Miss Dora E. Clements are efficient as Gudrun and Marta respectively. Triumph over the difficulties of the part of Oscar Stephensson is achieved by Mr. Walter Hampden, whose handsome exterior, vivid and spirited demeanour, and dramatic intensity where the latter quality is necessary, make his reading of the rôle in every respect highly satisfactory.

The revival of The Prodigal Son is thoroughly artistic and conscientious. Comelli's costumes, Mr. J. M. Glover's music, and Messrs. R. C. McCleery, H. Emden, and Bruce Smith's scenery, were again admired at the Adelphi on Tuesday. The play had the heartiest of receptions from a highly-delighted audience, and Mr. Hall Caine, on his appearance at the conclusion, was warmly applauded.

DINNER TO MR. J. M. GLOVER.

Mr. J. M. Glover's election to the Mayoralty of Bexhill-on-Sea was fittingly signalised on Sunday evening at the Hotel Cecil, when he was entertained at a banquet attended by a goodly company of his London friends and others. Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., presided, the vice-chair being occupied by Mr. Marshall Hall, K.C. The table list was as follows:—Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P. (chairman), Councillor J. M. Glover (Mayor of Bexhill), Lord George Loftus, Mr. John O'Connor, M.P., Mr. T. E. Rogers (Town Clerk of Bexhill), Mr. Kennedy Jones, Mr. Leopold Wenzel, Mr. Walter Lumley, Mr. J. Strauss, Mr. Brinsley Harper, Mr. Sidney Smith (Drury Lane), Dr. Horace Duncan, Mr. G. W. Byng, Mr. H. Wilson (hon. sec.), Mr. E. Marshall Hall, K.C. (vice-chairman), Mr. Peter Keary, Mr. Herbert Johnston, Mr. I. Seaman, Mr. Herman Finck, Mr. F. Trevoe, Dr. George, Mr. W. H. Keeping, Mr. Hy. Isaacs, Mr. R. Northcott, Mr. J. N. Rogan, Mr. Geo. Scott, Mr. W. M. Brutton, Mr. T. Miller, Mr. Sidney Smith, Mr. E. Mallinson, Mr. Max Isaacs, Mr. E. Pickering, Mr. H. Woodford, Mr. J. Willing, Mr. Ben Nathan, Mr. E. J. Pape, Mr. H. Billinghurst, Mr. H. H. Olley, Mr. J. L. Latey, Mr. D. Nathan, Mr. Lovell Phillips, Dr. Kelson, Mr. W. Woodward, Mr. J. McCauley, Mr. P. Teofani, Mr. E. Cousans, Mr. G. Astoul, Mr. J. Crook, Mr. Chas. Angelo, Mr. Edwd. Jones, Mr. F. Swindell, Mr. J. H. Wood, Mr. Wallace Read, Mr. W. Frampton, Mr. M. Matthew, Mr. F. Wilson (Bexhill Observer), Mr. F. H. Douglas, Mr. Hubert Greenwell, Mr. Frank Rowe, Mr. Harman, Mr. A. Campbell, Mr. C. Pennack, Mr. B. O'Donnell, Mr. J G. Durant, Mr. M. Parker, Mr. C. Pavone, Mr. A. Comelli, Mr. H. Blackmore, Mr. C. H. Thomas, Mr. J. Jacobs, Mr. C. H. Taylor, Mr. Bruce Smith, Mr. Holliday, Mr. J. D'Auban, Mr. E. D'Auban, Mr. Luigi Naintree, Mr. A. Schmid, Mr. C. Alias, Mr. Lionel Belmore, Mr. Harry Fragson, Mr. F. Van Duzer, Mr. A. Conquest, Mr. J. Nathan, Mr. A. Davidson, Mr. Arthur Sturgess, Mr. R. Pool, Mr. W. Webster, Mr. W. P. Watkins, Mr. J. F O'Hea, Mr. M. Stockley, Mr. H. T. Antiss, Mr J. W. Meadows, Mr. B. Schweitzer, Mr. C. Fryer, Mr. C. H. Cochran, Mr. Louis Tracey, Mr. Angelo Asher, Mr. Oldbury Brough, Mr. J. R. Hall, Mr. J W. Davis, Mr. Timms, Mr. Leonard Carter, and Mr. O'Brien.

MR. T. P. O'CONNOR, proposing the health of "Our Guest," said he need claim very little indulgence at their hands when he stood up to propose what was the toast of the evening. The big gathering of friends before him was the highest testimony to the merits of the Mayor of Bexhill. He was somewhat tempted to give them a short biography of him, and perhaps he was in a better position to do so than most gentlemen in the room. There was a rumour that he came from the same country as the speaker, one of whose earliest recollections before he left the Emerald Isle being of a very brilliant musician named Prof. Glover, who was one of the highest authorities on music in the country, who held a high official position in the Education Department, and was the editor of the classic edition of the melodies of Moore. That Professor Glover was the grandfather of their guest that evening, with whose history he (the speaker) would now deal. The present Mr. Glover emigrated from Ireland as a very young man. He could then be traced to Normandy, and from Normandy he found his way to Paris. Finally, he came to London. He (Mr. O'Connor) recollected that some thirty-seven years ago, on his first journey to London, he found himself the companion of a violinist, who was employed at the old Grecian Theatre. He firmly believed that that violinist was now sitting on his right. He first found mention of him in the year 1885, at the Empire Theatre, where Mr. Glover was the musical director. After that Mr. Glover gradually found his way to Drury Lane, and now Glover and Drury Lane had become synonymous terms. In fact, Mr. Glover's name had become a household word and an institution in the City of London. Now that gentleman had been seized with a morbid desire for political distinction. At that moment, too, the distinguished manager of a theatre was seeking the suffrages of London as a member of the County Council. Many members of the theatrical profession had received titles, and they might yet have Mr. Beerbohm Tree as the Duke of Haymarket and Mr. George Alexander as Viscount St. James. Political ideas had also entered the brain of Mr. Walter Reynolds. Well, all those gentlemen were merely aspirants. Mr. Glover had ceased to inspire—he had become the chief in the Council of Bexhill-on-Sea. He (Mr. O'Connor) confessed that he had never been to Bexhill, but he had always heard that that rising seaside resort was a very charming place, with good hotels and excellent golf. It was a high compliment to Mr. Glover that he had been elected Mayor by the Municipal Council of Bexhill when his connection with that body had not been of very long duration. They were there that night to say that, in their opinion the Council could not have made a better choice. Mr. Glover's career had been one of steady success. A man who for over fourteen years had been able to conduct so complex and difficult an enterprise as a Drury Lane pantomime was no common man and no ordinary musician. He held his office by no tenure excepting the tenure of his own ability. In the musical profession—a profession which held a great place in the speaker's heart, and for which he had endeavoured to do something—Mr. Glover held a very high place. Mr. Glover was a versatile man. He had been a valued contributor to journals with which Mr. O'Connor himself had been, or was still, connected, and there was not one of his literary productions which did not show a kindly and a generous spirit towards the craft and the members of the craft with which he was associated. They would not have gathered there that night in such large numbers merely to honour a Mayor; they were honouring a man they all knew and they all loved. They would all join heartily in drinking long life and prosperity to the Mayor of Bexhill, Mr. Glover.

MR. J. M. GLOVER, rising amid a loud ovation after his health had been most enthusiastically toasted with musical honours, said that his old friend, Mr. O'Connor, had said a great deal about him which he did not think he should be able ever to live up to. The chairman had drawn, from a chronological point of view, a faithful history of his career from the night that he left Ireland, but he would tell Mr. O'Connor that his first public appearance as a public singer was as a boy in the Public Hall at Galway. It was quite right to say that he had been for fourteen years at Drury Lane, where he succeeded his friend, Mr. Johnny Crook, and it was to that gentleman's good-feeling and want of jealousy that he was allowed to conduct the band at Covent Garden, which was the means of his being introduced to Sir Augustus Harris. Proceeding, Mr. Glover said that he had not accepted the Mayoralty of Bexhill from personal vanity. It was his intention to do all he could for Bexhill, and he might mention that he was the first Mayor to be invested with the chain which Lord Brassey presented to the Borough. In conclusion, he wished to thank them heartily and sincerely for the honour which they had done him in entertaining him that evening, and he was emboldened to assert that the confidence and good feelings which had been reposed in him would not be misplaced.

MR. MARSHALL HALL, K.C., in proposing "The Chairman," remarked that he had known "Tay Pay" for a very long time—a fact which afforded him no small pleasure. Mr. O'Connor had occupied the chair exceedingly well, and had spoken his best that night in doing honour to Mr. Glover.

THE CHAIRMAN briefly acknowledged the toast.

MR. B. O'DONNELL, in proposing the health of Mr. Harry Wilson, paid a high compliment to that gentleman for the capital arrangements he had made as hon. secretary in attending to matters in connection with the dinner.

MR. HARRY WILSON, in replying, said that he had received some three hundred letters expressing appreciation of Mr. Glover, in addition to a bunch of telegrams. One from Bexhill said:—"Bexhill's congratulation to London for the honour to our dear old Mayor." Mr. Tree, Mr. Alexander, and other heads of the profession had wired, regretting their inability to be present. Mr. Wilson, after entertaining his hearers to some amusing reminiscences connected with his Bow-street practice, proposed a vote of thanks to the gentlemen and lady who had treated them to song and music. Mr. Wilson concluded by making an appeal on behalf of the Referee Children's Dinner Fund.

MR. FRANK ROWE, who represented the Referee at the dinner, took a plate round the tables and collected £7 for the fund referred to.

The proceedings were enlivened by stories, songs and recitations by Mr. J. Hickory Wood, Mr. Harry Fragson, Miss Margaret Cooper, Mr. Ben Nathan, Mr. Charles Angelo, and Mr. Denis O'Sullivan.

"THE DAUGHTER OF HERODIAS."

A Play, in One Act, Music by Granville Bantock, Words by Brinsley Trehane, Produced at the Comedy Theatre, on Monday Afternoon, Feb. 25.

Herod	MR. ROBERT HILTON
Astrologer	MR. HARVEY BRABAN
Slave	MR. ARTHUR BLAIR
Salome	MISS MABELLIA DANIELL

A semi-private performance of this picturesque, though slight, one-act play was presented at a matinée at the Comedy Theatre on Monday. Possibly the recent discussion on the subject of Salome may have suggested the utilisation of the well-known account in Josephus for the purpose of introducing a "dance turn"; but it is agreeable to find much literary merit in the lines of The Daughter of Herodias, as Mr. Brinsley Trehane's piece is termed. From a dramatic point of view, however, it seems incomplete; one expected, after the elaborate fascinations of Salome, to see, if not the execution of John the Baptist, at least the evidence of his slaughter in the shape of his head on a charger. When the action opens, Herod is discovered on his throne, gorgeously attired in purple and fine gold. To him enters his Astrologer, and discourses warningly of the King's fate if he yields to the influence of Salome. Herod stands a good deal of admonition, but eventually turns upon the Astrologer, and declares himself the impenitent adorer of the daughter of Herodias. This infatuation is explained when Salome enters in the attire of a dancer, and does a long and voluptuous pas seul, Herod meanwhile gloating on her beauty. At the conclusion she crawls up to the King, and whispers in his ear a request, which, after an obvious moral struggle, he grants, handing her an order, presumably for the execution of John the Baptist. The Astrologer now intervenes, and administers to the callous Salome, who reclines in cynical meditation on the floor, a melancholy prophesy of her punishment in the next world, and of her reputation in future ages. The curtain falls on the picture of Salome, dismayed at last by the Astrologer's declamation, looking out in terror from between two curtains at the back of the stage.

The Daughter of Herodias was thoroughly well played. Mr. Robert Hilton made a dignified and intense Herod, and spoke the lines allotted to the amorous monarch with excellent expression and emphasis. Mr. Harvey Braban's elocution as the Astrologer was excellent, and he put great earnestness into his delivery of the impressive admonitions and denunciations which the rôle contains. Miss Mabellia Daniell was a very handsome, active, and supple representative of Salome, doing her Eastern dance with an amount of graceful pose and eloquent pantomime that quite accounted for Herod's admiration. Mr. Arthur Blair did good work as the Slave; and the play had been ably stage-managed by Mr. Montague Wigan, Mr. Granville Bantock's music being well written and appropriate.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION REFORM.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—In your leading article last week you invite opinions on the above subject, and I am therefore tempted to think that a few words from a very old member of the Association may not be out of place. Probably, in common with all who have the welfare of the Association at heart, and consequently that of the whole profession, I cordially welcome the advent of a strong Reform Party to power, since it suggests an up-growing power of life within the Association; and I am in accord with the Reform Party in wishing to bring the Council within reasonable limits. At the same time, I cannot help thinking that the Reform Party are pursuing a most grievously mistaken policy in advocating the refusal of the agency to deal with any salaries below £2 per week.

Whilst the idea undoubtedly springs from a very laudable intention, it is likely to defeat its own ends. What is likely to be the result of this limitation? There are, sir, several hundreds of actors of considerable experience touring the provinces who do not earn more than 30s. or 35s. per week. The responsible actor or actress (which includes all but the leading man, heavy man, comedian, leading lady, heavy lady, and, perhaps, chambermaid) in what is generally known as "second-class dramas" I do not think ever receive more. There are also numerous actors in every kind of touring company—who claim sufficient experience to entitle them to membership of the Association—who do not receive more than 35s. Again, there are many joint engagements for quite important parts in good companies which do not carry more than £3 15s.

Now, sir, the Association admits those to membership who have played speaking parts for eighty weeks. If we examine the payment in any other line of life, not requiring a large educational outlay and competitive examinations, do we find that they are paid at the rate of £2 per week after eighty weeks' service? I do not think so. I take my own case. After serving two years in the Bank of Scotland my remuneration for the third year was at the rate of £30 per annum.

I come to the conclusion, then, that if this new rule be carried the Association will find itself in the peculiar position of holding out both hands and begging actors who have served eighty weeks, but who have not been fortunate enough to force themselves up to the £2 standard, to join our ranks and at the same time barring the door with the exclamation, "You must not seek any engagements through our agency—you are below the limit!"

What we want especially is that every actor should be a member of the Association; and, I ask most solemnly, who amongst those who have not reached the £2 standard is going to join the Association in these circumstances? Those who did would be in a preposterous position.

Surely those who manage the Agency are capable of fixing a limit according to the class of engagement offered without such a hard and fast rule as is suggested. I am strongly of opinion that there are many other reforms of much more crying need. I should be glad if you would allow me to enumerate them:—

(1). The proper heating of dressing-rooms in provincial theatres. I have myself brought this subject before the Council, but have been informed that they have no legal means of dealing with the matter. Yet it is of crying importance. There is very little complaint to be made nowadays with the sanitary condition of theatres, but there is a great deal of fault to be found with the heating arrangements. Does it really matter, sir, whether an actor dies of typhoid fever or rheumatic fever or pneumonia? Personally, I confess to a certain amount of indifference as to which I take my risk of. There are a great many theatres at the present time in which the dressing-rooms are not fit to put anyone in because of the want of proper heating arrangements; and I am of opinion that we are considerably worse off in this respect than we were fifteen or twenty years ago.

(2). The proper heating of stages. Since the introduction of the electric light the cold upon some stages is insufferable, and dangerous to ladies clad in evening dress or burlesque costume. That it is unnecessary is proved by the fact that many stages are properly heated with hot pipes.

(3). The old question of six performances per week instead of seven. This is always a sore point with the actor, and I do not think the seven performances' arrangement is very satisfactory to many managers.

(4). The laying down of carpets or mats in all dressing-rooms. At the present time one is sometimes expected to place one's bare feet on a concrete floor or on boards, which on Mondays are often wet.

(5). The methods applied for the preservation of life and health should be insisted upon for the most minor members of a company as well as for stars and principals. In many theatres the chief dressing-rooms are well looked after, whilst the smaller fry can catch colds or anything else without any trouble. Why, sir? From the abominably selfish reason that they can be more easily dispensed with.

(6). The admission of acting-managers and ad vance agents to membership. I cannot see that their exclusion is in any way justified. Their interests are identical with the actor, and if the acting-manager is bound to be a manager's man to a certain extent when he is representing the manager, he is not when out of employment, and he would profit equally with the actor in schemes for improvements. Mr. Granville Barker's statement on this subject cannot be taken seriously, since, probably, at least, half the acting-managers are already members of the Association, being qualified as actors.

In conclusion, sir, I should like to impress upon every member of the Association that what we want is to have as many members as possible. Let us avoid most carefully anything which savours of exclusion. Once the Association includes the great majority of the profession, it does not matter how many managers there are in it; they would be hopelessly outnumbered by the actors.

To those who are not members the moral pointed out is, Join, join, join! If you join in your hundreds instead of twos and threes you would be able to command the ship in a very short time.—Yours faithfully, ERNEST H. PATERSON.

Are You a Mason? Co.,
Theatre Royal, Blackburn, Feb. 27.

SIR,—I trust that you will allow me to say a few words in support of Mr. Henry Tweedie's proposal, contained in his letter printed in your last issue. I have played a "thinking part" at many meetings and discussions on the subject of the Association and "Reform," and scarcely have I ever heard it suggested that anyone should be asked to stand for the Council who had a veteran's experience of the provinces.

Let me say that I have been for about fourteen years a member of the A.A., and I have derived very great personal benefits from it, for which I am extremely grateful, and therefore I would be sorry to join leagues or unions set up in competition with the Association as it now stands. Nevertheless, in common, I fancy, with many, if not most, provincial actors, I am not enamoured of the names of those in high places on that body.

If reform is to come from within, it can only come from reconstitution. The governing body should consist, in part at least, of veteran provincial actors of repute—men who have grown old and wise in their calling, whose personalities are strong; who can apply an intimate knowledge, gained by long experience, to practical legislation.—Yours faithfully,

ROBERT CASTLETON.
Actors' Association, 10, King-street, W.C.
Feb. 26 1907.

ON Thursday afternoon, the 21st, a third meeting of actors, having for their object the promotion of trades union principles among provincials, was held at the Salisbury Hotel, Manchester, Mr. Fred Bentley presiding. All present united in agreeing upon the wording of the title, and in pledging themselves to support a Provincial Actors' Union upon the lines already set forth; and a number of names were duly subscribed and forwarded to the headquarters in Bedford-street, from which centre the profession had already been extensively circularised.

ACTORS' UNION.

Certain alterations have been made in the suggested rules drawn up by the Provisional Committee chosen to organise an Actors' Union; and they now read as follows:—

1. The provisional title of the body is the Actors' Union.

2. This body to be registered under the Companies Acts, 1862 to 1900.

3. That this Union is being formed for the object of working for the sole welfare and interest of actors and actresses in the dramatic and musical profession.

4. Qualification for membership of the Union shall be as follows:—That all entering the profession can be admittel as probationary members, but no one to be allowed to vote or sit on the council who has had less than five years' experience. Each candidate for election shall be proposed by one and seconded by two Fellows of the Union, who, from personal knowledge, can vouch for the candidate as professionally and socially fit for membership.

5. That the entrance fee be 2s. 6d., and the subscription 6d. per week, to be paid for forty weeks of the year. Members to be in full benefit must not allow their weekly subscriptions to fall into arrear.

6. A levy of 6d. per head to be made on all members on the occasion of the death of a member of the Union.

7, That a Provident Fund (from the then existing fund) will be considered as soon as the Union is on a sound financial footing.

8. That any member of the Union becoming a manager or acting-manager shall during the period of his management forfeit his right of vote, and cease to hold executive powers in the Union.

9. That the Union be governed by a council of twenty-four Fellows annually elected by members, the council to have powers to add to their number.

10. That branches of the Union, at the earliest date possible, shall be formed in other centres, such as are already forming in London and Manchester.

11. Members shall be known by numbers, and each shall have a card, to which special stamps issued by the Union shall be affixed denoting the weekly payments.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE SOUTH LONDON.

The decorations are out at the South London, and a huge sheet of bunting drawn across the London-road blazons forth to the world that "Peace with honour" has been secured. With the return of the popular favourites to their places at the footlights has come an access of attendance, and the vast hall over which Mr. William Payne exercises so genial a sway has twice nightly held audiences of huge dimensions. The chief source of attraction has been the sketch, Dick Dare, M.P., in which Mr. Fredk. Maxwell appears. Like most of Mr. Maxwell's productions, the sketch abounds in thrilling situations which possess current interest, and a high pitch of excitement is reached in the course of the playlet. Mr. Maxwell acts the indomitable M.P. with his customary fire and energy, and wins the cheers of the audience, which are heartily and frequently renewed. Mr. Maxwell is loyally supported by his company, and the episode is mounted with characteristic liberality. Of lighter texture is the sketch, Beauty and the Burglar, played by Miss Millie Engler and company in very diverting fashion. The work of the trifle lies equally in the hands of a young actress and her housemaid. The husband of the actress becomes jealous, and determines to impersonate a burglar and break into his own house. The actress is alarmed, and induces her servant to talk like a man in order to frighten the interloper away. The domestic is the possessor of a gruff voice, and the husband behind the door is made to overhear terms of endearment being addressed by his wife to an admirer, until he bursts forth in a rage to find himself confronted only by his wife and the maidservant. The sketch is admirably acted, the young wife being daintily played by a comely lady, who sings a song agreeably.

A sensation is caused by the feats of John Marx, who demonstrates his right to the title of the "strongest man in the world," and is willing to compete against any man breathing for £1000 aside. Marx does many weight-lifting feats with bar-bells and dumb-bells, breaks with his hand a horseshoe against which half a dozen men have tugged in vain, and later succeeds in lifting a platform upon which 25 men are standing. A competition for prizes of £1 and 10s., presented by the management, and open to all the inhabitants of South London, is now in progress, and the opportunity of trying their strength has been eagerly taken advantage of by the stalwarts of the district, many of whom have had the estimates of their own strength rudely shattered on attempting the task set them. Not the least popular feature of the current bill is Ruffell's Bioscope, which begins with a picture of the Conciliation Board, among the members of which Mr. Arthur Roberts is easily recognised. "The Cook's Dream" is a curious film, in which the head of the culinary department plays all sorts of fantastic tricks: while "A visit to Auntie" depicts the pranks of a schoolboy, who gives his elderly relatives a lively few minutes, the representation of which is made decidedly funny.

Happily recovered from recent indisposition, Miss Constance Moxon arouses enthusiastic plaudits by her monologue, A Toff for Ten Minutes, in which she impersonates a ragged urchin who is mistaken for one of the guests at a fancy dress ball, and gains admission to the drawing-room. The "boy" finds himself alone, and being possessed of a taste for music, goes to the piano and entertains himself with imitations of music hall stars, including Chirgwin, with his popular Blind Boy," and of Fragson, with "Whispers of Love." The interlude is very acceptable for the sake of its refinement and the cleverness of its interpreter, whose cultured vocalism, familiar to lovers of comic opera as well as those of variety, is most agreeably displayed. Mr. Ernest Ball gives his remarkable study of the miser whose song, "Gold," is rendered so impressively as to cause unlimited applause. The Sisters Tinsley sing "The bungalow in Borneo," and dance with the utmost neatness and precision; and the programme is completed by Rice, Rose, and Davis, Miss Beatrice May, and Mr. Fred Pollard.

CAMBERWELL EMPIRE.

There can be no denying the fact that Messrs. Jesse Sparrow and Harry Bawn's variety theatre on Denmark-hill has "caught on" in Camberwell, and now the Council's cars pass its doors it brings nightly many patrons from Dulwich and surrounding neighbourhood, who are sure of a genuine evening's amusement, for the programme is always full of infinite variety.

This week the premier turn is Miss Gertrude Glenn and her admirably-selected company, in a musical comedy scena, Larks in the Park. The scene is near the Achilles Statue, Hyde Park, where an excellent chorus of nursemaids, soldiers, and a motley crowd of park habitués are indulging in a mad frolic of fun and some tuneful music. In their midst come a newly-married couple of middle age, who are in London on their honeymoon. The man rails at his wife for deceiving him, for at the station she has introduced him to her two grown-up boys. The fun that ensues when the boys turn up and make things very lively for, not only their stepfather, but the policemen and a bevy of charming young ladies, can be better imagined than described. It is impossible to fully describe all the good things in this miniature musical comedy, for from the opening chorus of the maids and the soldier's "Good morning, Miss," to the closing mélange, "The fashion in the Army," the attention of a delighted audience is held in pleasurable anticipation all the time. A special word of praise is due to the sextet, who give splendid effect to their song, "The art of making love," while the elegant costumes, scenery, and general effects lend themselves to the general success.

Julia Kent and Alex Keith keep the house in a roar of merriment with their smart duologue, The New Barmaid, so full of original repartee that there is not a dull moment throughout; while their new edition of the old character-sketches, Gallery and Boxes, wins them a well-merited ovation. The Nelson and Thomas combination, in a merry little comedietta, A Fight for a Fiver, skilfully portrays how an ingenious wife gets even with her husband when he refuses to give her five pounds to purchase a new hat. The lady proves herself an adept in character studies, and delineates in a finished style the lively French girl, the Ugliest Woman on Earth, and the Irish mother-in-law; while the husband and a resourceful page-boy play their parts with just that soupçon of exaggeration allowed in farcical comedy. The Steinway Quartette, in a song-scena entitled Songs of the Sea, render with admirable expression such old favourites as "Tom Bowling," "Remember me," "Fatherland," and "The jolly British Tars."

Connie Williams has a good song, "Boys, take care," and her fairy-like dancing is full of tireless energy and tricky devices that make her a warm favourite. The Lambert and Hans Quartette give a series of harrowing pictures of "Visiting Day" in our prisons, workhouses, and the homes of the poor. Happy Joe Williams, coloured singer and dancer, in immaculate evening dress, fairly dances himself to merry rag-time music into favour. Arthur Goodman, the tramp trick juggler, is highly amusing, for while cleverly juggling with everything movable on the stage, he keeps up a running fire of witticisms that make their mark every time. Frank Cumminger, sand-dancer to perfect time and tune, demonstrates in the cleverest style all the steps in the dancer's répertoire, and works hard for the applause that rewards his efforts. In a pretty rural scena Charles Cornish and his eight youthful Cotton Coons, in a combination of songs and pretty graceful dances, is highly diverting, and proves up to the hilt the well-known phrase, "All that you want is a coon song—and the coons." Jeapc's Animated Graphic Pictures give clearly and distinctly such interesting pictures as last Saturday's demonstration against the L.C.C. Wastrels, the wreck of the Berlin, and its survivors and their gallant and fearless rescuers.

THE FORESTERS'.

The patrons of the Foresters' have nothing to complain of this week, either as to the quality or the quantity of the entertainment supplied. Mr. Arnold Bell, whose appearances on the legitimate stage in dramatic rôles will not be easily forgotten, is here with a company in the sketch, Lost in London. Mr. Bell himself is seen and admired in his striking representation of a sturdy miner, and others who are seen to advantage in their respective rôles are Mr. Cuthbert Imrie, Mr. Frank C. Robson, Mr. W. G. Gregory, Miss Violet Campbell, and Miss Frances Campbell. The piece is elaborately staged. Mr. Tom Dawson, the blind comedian, comes in for a goodly share of attention and applause for his admirable rendering of the song, "Sympathy." Miss Violet Harvey has a bright and attractive style and delivery which are employed to the best advantage in her ditty about "Sunday Night." Messrs. Raymond, of Bio-tableaux fame, are to be congratulated on the fine series of animated photographs depicting a tragedy which bears the title of "The Indian's Revenge." Messrs. Woodward and Walton distinguish themselves as vocalists and rag-time dancers; and Mr. Fred Wilkinson, assisted by Miss Emilie Alderton, presents a really marvellous exhibition of magic and illusions. Mr. Bert Brantford is deputising for Mr. Harry Freeman, who has been unable to appear this week at the Foresters'. Mr. Brantford has original ideas as to the way in which a song should be sung, and his acting and singing of his "Sweep" song entitle him to distinction as a character vocalist.

Mr. Montague Turner and company have an extremely laughable trifle in the sketch, A Dead Certainty, produced for the first time on Monday last. The story may be briefly outlined. A henpecking wife has for the last twenty years locked up her husband's cigars and wines. The poor man imagines that he sees an opportunity of a little revenge when his nephew arrives from America with an invention which is designated "liquid frost." By this wonderful concoction you can, by an injection into the ear of an animal, put it in a condition of sleepy freeziness; an injection of an antidote into the other ear, and the animal awakens to warm life and activity. The uncle suggests to the nephew the possibilities of such a treatment in the case of his recalcitrant wife, and they enter into a mild conspiracy. The lady, however, overhears their conversation, and, during their absence, empties a bottle of the liquid frost, filling it up with water. Of course, what happens afterwards may be imagined. Mr. Montague Turner as the nephew, Mr. E. W. Avery as the uncle, and Miss Harriett Taylor as the wife extract a good deal of fun out of the playlet. Mr. Charles Austin is hugely entertaining in a couple of songs, one concerning a widow and the other about the man who slept for twenty-nine years. Mr. Fred Moule and Mr. E. D. Nicholls's company make merry with a mock melodrama, That Dreadful Detective, the absurdities of which create uproarious laughter. Mr. Courtney Robinson, Miss Ada Lucelle, Miss Ada Frank, and Mr. Wilton Drury support Messrs. Moule and Nicholls in an able manner. The Brothers Blackwell submit an exceedingly smart skate-dancing act.

QUEEN'S, POPLAR.

A good programme is always to be found at Messrs. F. and M. Abrahams' well-appointed and comfortable establishment, which, under the energetic and skilful management of Mr. Jack Woolf has gained such popular favour that at every performance seats are at a premium. In the excellent entertainment provided this week Mr. Frank Couch is included, and his song, "How to make love," is very successful, while his parody on "The Charge of the Light Brigade," with topical and local verses, is exceptionally smart, and proves exactly to the taste of his hearers. Walton and Lester are amusing in their duet, "Down by the river," which they sing in raiment and properties of a startling nature from the top of their miniature house boat. Afterwards they give an exhibition of mock conjuring which is very laughable. Miss Dora Lyric, with a good voice and handsome presence, contributes in admirable style "Somebody cares for you" and "All that glitters is not gold," the house taking up the chorus of each song with keen relish. A refreshing pot-pourri of melodies and dances is given by Fernee's Juveniles, who receive great applause for their efforts. The Boston Twins present a turn which is distinctly funny; and the sketch, My Friend the Enemy, with electrical effects, is much appreciated.

A striking dramatic episode is that entitled Vengeance, which is presented with no lack of dramatic effect by the Deane-Jennings company. It is elaborately mounted, the explosion in the final scene being extremely realistic. Mr. Fred Jennings is powerful as the scheming Captain Barry Gridge; the genial part of the light-hearted Lieut. Roy McAlister is made the most of by Mr. Harry Barford; Mr. A. P. Kaye is to be complimented on his impersonation of Andy Twiddle: Mr. Harry Newton is a capable Simon Croke; and an interesting interpretation of Leonora Acoli is submitted by Miss Beatrice May; a sympathetic Millicent Marsden being found in Miss Cora Deane. The new Bioscope, with some beautifully-arranged pictures, is always sure of a hearty welcome, and much praise must be awarded to Mr. F. Venton for his conductorship of the model orchestra, which during the evening is heard to advantage in "La Iosada" march and "By the side of the Zuyder Zee" valse.

THE BEDFORD.

Mr. B. Pearce Lucas has so long run the Bedford "on its own" that one was surprised at the attack made upon it at the latter end of the recent strike by the tripartite Alliance. If there is one hall in London more barred than any other it is certainly the Camden Town establishment; and it seemed to those competent to judge that the calling out of artists, stage hands, and musicians was a wanton exercise of power against a place that owes none of its prosperity to trust methods, and that in its own modest way has done no little towards the introduction of new talent to London. The experience of Mr. Lucas has not been, perhaps, so unpleasant as that thrust upon other proprietors, and his chief regret is that some excellent members of his staff, whom he respected and highly esteemed, through the ukase of the strike leaders, have been compelled to terminate engagements which were marked by the greatest harmony between employer and employed.

This by the way. Like his compeers, Mr. Lucas has benefited by the return of the sheep to the fold, and large audiences during the week have been enthusiastic in their praise of an excellent entertainment. The chief attractions of this are found in three sketches—two of comic complexion and one deeply tragic. The Duchess of Tooting needs no introduction to our readers. She is a relation on the mother's side to Charley's Aunt. The real "duchess," who has her title conspicuously displayed on her luggage, is ousted from her hereditary dignity by a young man who takes her name in order to rescue his friend, Charles Cash, from an awkward predicament, and to secure for him and his newly found bride the nice snug little dot of £10,000. How this is done and the way it is accomplished may be learnt in most agreeable fashion by watching Mr. Sidney Bacon's company, each member of which plays with rollicking energy. The conduct of the pseudo duchess excites screams of laughter. No names are given in the programme, so that we are unable to praise individual members of the crowd, but it is quite an exhilarating performance.

Miss Alice Yorke, an excellent actress, is concerned in the presentation of an amusing trifle, entitled A Yacht for Sale, originally produced at the Oxford. The seller of the taut little "craft" dilates on her good qualities, which are attributed by the lady to a maid whose character she has come to enquire about. Of course, she has mistaken the address, and matters are easily explained after fifteen minutes of laughter at the game of cross purposes which is so cleverly played.

A Society Woman, presented by the Alan Holt company, is a dramatic episode with a life-and-death struggle between the villain and the heroine, whose husband has escaped from gaol, where he has been serving a sentence imposed upon him for the crime of the "wrong 'un." In the fight lamps are thrown and smashed, and the stage is strewn with broken glass. It is therefore, with some anxiety that one watches a lady in evening dress rolling recklessly about the floor, and one trembles for her safety.

Early in the evening Mr. W. L. Murray emulates the Roman gladiator, and his muscular frame is exhibited in all its athletic beauty in various poses. His feats of strength, too, are presented in an interesting way, and he is watched with much pleasure in his entertainment by all sections of the house. We should add that he is the winner of the Sandow gold belt for the world's championship. Melancholy seems to have marked Mr. Mark Leslie for his own, and he will more nearly answer to the description attached to his name—"the brown-faced beau"—when he smiles. The Howards puzzle and mystify by their second-sight business and thought transference; the Three Kentucky Girls sing and dance successfully; Mr. Ben Jackson shows some clever tricks with banjoes; and Mr. Charles Cardle, vocalist, who has a charming and well-rendered number in "Iona"; the Imperial Bioscope pictures, and Miss Amy Elvira, burlesque artist, are other attractions in a programme of much excellence.

RICHMOND THEATRE.

There is a varied bill here this week containing quite a host of good things. The Scarlet Mr. E's—to say nothing of their jester—are old favourites, and they afford a striking example of the attractions that really find favour with every section of the public; they sing admirably, and their jester is a wag of the first water. The Maynards give some examples of marvellous marksmanship. Their accuracy is surprising, and they readily win favour and applause. They deserve both. Not alone is Mr. Horace White a clever pianist, but he is equally at home as a drawing-room ventriloquist. Mimicry is a strong point with him, and whatever he does is done well. Bright and vivacious, merry Miss Blanchie Vincent scores a complete success with her clever vocalisation; while the Sisters Cardigan, as duettists and dancers, simply take the gallery boys—and everyone else—by storm; they are quite a deft-footed twain, who should do even better. Merriment took hold of the audience when Mr. and Mrs. G. Leonard began to elucidate the mysteries of Coming Home, and peals of merriment were heard from rise to fall of the curtain. As a humorous interlude it would, perhaps, be hard to find a more entertaining turn than Corelli, for not alone is he a clever juggler, he is a wit; in fact, more often than not he has "his tongue in his cheek," and his audacity is surprising: a clever personality is Corelli. An experienced artist and an old favourite. Mr. Wal Pink, proves a cheerful addition to the programme; he gives a monologue entitled The Cheap-Jack, and very admirable it is; so much so that one regrets when the popular comic makes his exit. Quaintly pretty is Dollioligi; the title gives the keynote to the production, which affords an opportunity for a dainty terpsichorean performance, and if we do not quote the names of the dancers it is because we failed to find them on the programme, but they deserved to be there all the same. The Bioscope maintains its high standard of excellence, and Mr. Guy's capable orchestra does much, with a selection from Veronique, to brighten a particularly entertaining evening.

THE STANDARD.

No one can complain of any lack either of quality or quantity in the current bill at the Standard, Pimlico, which establishment, by the way, was only indirectly affected by the recent music hall warfare. A capital comedy sketch is that entitled My Lady's Chamber, played by Mr. and Mrs. Royston-Dene and company. The plot reveals how a certain unscrupulous society dame, Lady Barrington, having obtained possession of a compromising letter, calculated to excite his wife's suspicions, has no compunction in levying blackmail upon Lord Newcombe. But his lordship turns the tables on her ladyship by gaining admission to her chamber and refusing to leave until she has given up the letter and also written a note couched in endearing terms to himself. Mrs. Royston-Dene gives a capital embodiment of Lady Helene Barrington, and Mr. Royston-Dene is excellent as Lord Newcombe; while her ladyship's maid Rosetta is smartly represented by Miss Sheelah Desmond. In an interesting and dramatic sketch, entitled Dan the Outlaw, Mr. Herbert Shelley sustains no fewer than five characters. The scene represents the interior of the Old Post Office, Rathmines, in the County of Dublin, and the date is 1787, when George the Third was King. Wolf Mooroo, the white-haired old postmaster, is the murderer of Lord Kinsale, but circumstantial evidence points to Dan Shannon, a young Irishman, as the guilty party. He flies the country; and at the opening of the "episode," as it is called, the real criminal is seen gloating over his ill-gotten wealth, which is kept locked up in a strong box, together with a written and signed confession of the murder, which, he mutters to himself, will be found after his death. But the document slips to the ground unknown to the old man, who believes he has replaced all the contents of the box. The next arrival is Dominic Corrigan, a watchman, who discovers the written confession on the floor; but he is unable to read, and places it in a jug on the table. Dan Shannon, the outlaw, returns to his native place, and is warmly welcomed by his sweetheart. He accidentally knocks over the jug, and so discovers the document which clears him of the false charge of murder. The postmaster, when he makes the discovery that the confession is missing, commits suicide, and Dan obtains the King's pardon. Mr. Herbert Shelley is very smart in making his quick changes, and he plays each of the five parts—which includes the Banshee—exceedingly well, winning the applause of the audience.

Mr. Fred W. Millis, the ventriloquist, is included in the list of entertainers, and meets with his usual success, his imitation of a fractious child being particularly good. Mr. J. G. Taylor has a capital song in "As long as the world goes round"; Agnes Tina is a clever little girl who delights the audience with her imitations of Marie Studholme, Marie Lloyd, Harry Lauder, and other well-known artists. Another smart juvenile is Master Cliff, comedian and dancer. Mr. George Antill scores with a couple of ditties; some admirable gymnastic work is done by the Three Romas. On the night of our visit Mr. Lawrence Barclay successfully deputised for Mr. Michael Nolan; the Crown Trio of vocalists are well received, and so, too, are Mr. A. E. Clifford, comedian; Miss Ada Parker, comedienne and dancer; and Miss Gracie Lawn, comedienne. A new series of animated pictures shown by the Edisonograph are also among the many attractions. Mr. T. S. Dickie, the proprietor and manager, has an excellent lieutenant in Mr. Maurice Volny; and Mr. Frederick Allwood is the able musical director.

HACKNEY EMPIRE.

A particularly varied programme is that submitted at this hall for the ensuing week, and very large audiences are the deserved result at each performance. Mr. Herbert Rule, a quaint comedian, has a good song in "I don't know," which serves admirably to display his humorous powers, and he is accorded a very hearty call. Miss Lilieth Leyton and Mr. John Spurling present an amusing little trifle, entitled The Order of the Bath, in which the many hilarious situations arising from a lady and gentleman erroneously believing that they are locked in a bath-room at eleven o'clock at night, are utilised for all that they are worth. Both Miss Leyton and Mr. Spurling act with brightness and point, and frequent laughter testifies to their success. Miss Ethel Ra Leslie, who appears in a very handsome gentleman's costume of the seventeenth century, proves herself to be the possessor of a very good voice, which is used with taste and effect in a ballad on the familiar topic of "Roses," her reception being very gratifying. Collins and Rice, a pair of comedy artists, who appear in a turn consisting of patter, singing, and dancing, gain the applause of the house. A particularly pleasing number is that of Roma and Romani, both the lady and gentleman being excellent musicians. The lady contributes items on the piano, mandoline, cornet, and bugle, and the gentleman solos on the piccolo, flute, and bugle. The selections by the gentleman on the first two instruments are exceptionally clever, and the repeated calls at the conclusion of the act were thoroughly well-earned. Miss Madge Grey, a dialect comedienne, impersonates such diverse characters as a Scotchman, a Lancashire lad, a coster, and a Jew, reciting "The Village Blacksmith," and the running accompaniment of laughter to her character studies is the best tribute possible to her success.

Billy Howard and Kathryn Harris appear in The Adventures of a Happy Hooligan. The slight plot of an amateur lady dramatist having advertised for a leading man, and a tramp turning up in his place serves to introduce the gentleman in a great deal of comical business, and both in some extraordinary agile dancing, the item being well received. The star turn of the bill this week is Chung Ling Soo, the conjurer, who presents an amazing clever performance. Some of his tricks, such as changing the fluid in two bottles, producing sand and sawdust out of empty boxes, and an inexhaustible collection of articles out of a home-made drum, are performed with tremendous rapidity, his illusion, too, in producing within a revolving glass cabinet suspended some two feet from the stage a member of his company is altogether bewildering in its smartness. Not the least satisfactory feature of the act is the consummate ease and finish with which every trick is accomplished.

An extra turn is appearing this week, the artist being Mr. Fred Keeton, a comedian. His first song, "For better or worse," dealing with matrimonial troubles, is given in good style, and he makes an unmistakable hit in his second, "I'm not supposed to know what I'm about," two very cordial calls being the result. He makes good use of facial expression, and evidently is an experienced performer. Bert Woodward submits a trick bicycle turn, and a capital film on the Bioscope, "A Voyage Across the Atlantic," completes an attractive evening's entertainment. A word is due to the orchestra under the direction of Mr. Walter Johnston, and Mr. John Christie, assisted by Mr. D. Earle Charles, discharges with every courtesy the onerous duties "in front."

THE DUCHESS, BALHAM.

The celebration of peace is carried out on an elaborate scale at Balham, where Mr. Bertram C. Ross, the energetic manager, has been at considerable pains to beautify the Duchess. The exterior of the house is prettily illuminated, but this brilliant effect is surpassed within, where every part of the handsome auditorium is tastefully adorned with flags and banners of every variety. Union Jacks, Royal Standards, ensigns, pennants, and every conceivable emblem of national rejoicing are lavishly displayed, while from every private box depends a chandelier fitted with red, white, and blue lamps, which have a very pretty effect. The current programme is of an excellence consistent with so auspicious a week, and boasts many artists whose names are known to fame. Miss Victoria Monks receives a gratifying reception when she takes the stage. Her first contribution, with the refrain "Say, hallo, old man," has the ring of homely sentiment that appeals to the popular ear, and Miss Monks succeeds thoroughly in making the words reach the hearts of all. The renown of "Leaving home" had preceded the popular comedienne, with the result that her singing of the chorus might have been dispensed with, so heartily did her admirers join in its rendering.

Infinite variety is given to the bill by the inclusion of items which have the complexion of novelty. Especially refreshing are the tricks of a canine comedian called Kiswaski, introduced by Mr. Stelling, who is able to keep up a conversation with his four-footed friend. The animal seems quite to enjoy standing on one forefoot on his master's upraised hand, and wags his tail with pleasure when he is commanded to pick up a glove while promenading on his forelegs. A supreme effort is accomplished when he climbs a high ladder, from which the rungs and one side are subsequently removed, and the animal is left standing on his hind legs on the top of his precarious perch. The show is a pretty one, and Mr. Stelling is rightly accorded an ovation. Tambo and Tambo put the instrument from which they take their name to many peculiar uses. Their dexterity is well displayed by the spinning of tambourines with each hand, later on tossing them to one another with admirable precision and skill. Handbasins are similarly treated, the feet being also brought into play. The most astonishing display comes at the end, when a quantity of tambourines to the number of something like two dozen are kept going on a framework while each one is adjusted.

An attractive feature of the bill is provided in Kronau's military spectacle, Our Boys in Blue, in which a feast of scenic splendour is embellished by music and singing. The set depicts a battle at sea, of which the defence of a fort and the blowing up of a warship provide thrilling incidents, which gain loud and continued cheers. Great interest is taken in the pictures of the Hook of Holland disaster, presented on Ruffell's Bioscope, clear and vivid views of the life-boat and its devoted crew being presented, and the ill-fated steamer being also plainly visible.

Comedy and music are deftly combined by the Motramos, one of whom gives a very comic impersonation of a gushing individual who joins his lady companion in a musical morceaux constantly interrupted by drolleries of a most laughable kind. A duet on concert flutes is tunefully rendered, and afterwards the lady acquits herself creditably on the trombone, while her partner suspends his comicalities, and plays the saxophone with no little skill, the performance of the clever couple resulting in many recalls. Martinette and Wallace, two coloured gentlemen, also vary their musical pot-pourri with droll patter. Their entertaining turn, too, has the merit of novelty, especially when the blooms in a number of flower-pots are turned to the purposes of melody. A bright and fascinating comedienne appears in the dainty person of Miss Edith Fink, who sings her songs with delightful animation; and other artists in the bill are Mr. Pat Raffety and Mr. George Antill, comedians.

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA.

Owing to pressure on our space, we have been compelled to hold over the weekly instalment of the above. The series will be continued next week.

MISS EVELYN TAYLOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of last Saturday you state in your report of the Euston that Evelyn Taylor was down to appear, but did not put in an appearance on the night of your representative's visit. She appeared at every performance last week, also at the Chelsea Palace and Metropolitan. During the strike, lasting five weeks, she appeared at 174 performances.—Yours faithfully,

LEO FRITZ,
Business Manager.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

COMMERCIAL.—Address a letter to J. B. Howard's Offices, 3, Bedford-street, Covent Garden, W.C.

J. J.—If the will has been proved, you can obtain a copy from Somerset House. The cost depends upon the length of the will.

HOODMAN.—When Hoodman Blind was produced at the Princess's, Aug. 18, 1885, the principals were Messrs. Wilson Barrett, E. S. Willard, Clifford Cooper, C. Fulton, George Barrett, George Walton, Charles Hudson, H. Bernage, W. A. Elliott, Mark Ambient, Murray Carson, and Cooper Cliffe; Misses Eastlake, Alice Cooke, A. Belmore, Maudie Clitherow, and Mrs. Huntley.

W. J. PRUST.—The first adaptation of Little Lord Fauntleroy, by Mr. E. V. Seebohm, was produced at the Prince of Wales's, Feb. 23, 1888, with Miss Annie Hughes in the name-part. After the action brought by the author of the story (Mrs. Hodgson Burnett) this version was prohibited. Mrs. Burnett's own adaptation, entitled The Real Little Lord Fauntleroy, was produced at Terry's, May 14, 1888, when the title-rôle was played by Miss Vera Beringer.

PATENTEE.—Apply at the Patent Office, Southampton Buildings, Chancery-lane, W.C.

S. G.—The London Pavilion was rebuilt in 1887. Thirteen years later several structural alterations were made, and the present building was opened on Nov. 12, 1900.

HARRY GALE.—The Old Guard, comic opera, adapted by H. B. Farnie from "Les Voltigeurs de la 32éme," music by Robt. Planquette, was produced at the Grand Theatre, Birmingham, on Oct. 10, 1887, and in London at the Avenue Theatre, on Oct. 26, the same year.

MRS. J. SARGENT.—Accidentally omitted.

ONE INTERESTED.—The answer to both your questions is in the affirmative. An article on the subject will shortly appear in The Era.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

THE working staff of the Prince's Theatre, Bristol, held their annual supper on Monday evening at the King David Hotel, and the event proved very successful. Mr. J. M. Chute, the proprietor and manager, presided, and he was supported by a number of the principal artists in the pantomime of Humpty Dumpty, including Mr. Horace Mills, the Brothers Griffiths, Mr. George Conquest, Mr. C. Wakeman, Mr. J. Donald, and Carlton. Mr. George Jackson (scenic artist), Mr. Frank S. Green (acting manager), Mr. Henry Turner (stage manager), Mr. David Fisher (assistant stage manager), and Mr. Fred Irwin were also among those present.

MR. H. WILSON proposed the health of the chairman, who, having acknowledged the compliment, gave "The working staff," speaking in high terms of the manner in which the duties of the respective departments of the theatre were performed. The responders were Mr. H. Wilson (machinery and mechanical effects), Mr. H. Momber (properties, &c.), and Mr. A. Bawn (electric lighting). "Resident officials" was then submitted by the chairman, who paid a warm tribute to the excellence of the work performed by these gentlemen, which had contributed a great deal to the success of the performances. He expressed regret that Mr. George Chapman, whose pantomime music was greatly appreciated, was unable to be present. In Mr. Chapman's absence the toast was acknowledged on behalf of the orchestra by Mr. C. Wakeman, and responses were also made by Mr. George Jackson, Mr. Henry Turner, and Mr. F. S. Green. Mr. H. Turner proposed the health of the members of the pantomime company, Mr. Horace Mills responding for the gentlemen and Carlton for the ladies.

MR. W. STYLO writes to correct an error in our last week's "Birthday List." The name Beatrice Bourne should have read Beatrice Bonnie.

"THE COAL KING" is being patronised by enthusiastic houses this week at the Elephant and Castle, the stock company giving an admirable interpretation of Messrs. Martin and Llewellyn's powerful play. Mr. Albert Ward imbues the hero with virility and earnestness; and Mr. Horace Hunter makes his mark as the villain, Walter Harford. Mr. Frank Harrison gives an excellent portrayal of Sir Reginald Harford; and Mr. W. H. Hatchman's sketch of the sub-manager, Dick Shirley, is clever. Roars of laughter are evoked by Mr. Teddy Coleman in the part of Jim Williams. The dramatic skill of Miss Kathleen Russell is effectively employed in the rôle of Grace Shirley. Mrs. F. Calhaem creates a marked impression by her rendering of the character of Mad Anne. The rôle is an exacting one, but the wide experience and finished methods of the popular actress enable her to present a study which well deserves the cheers with which it is greeted.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, MARCH 2, 1907.

PESSIMISM AND THE PROVINCES.

The recent sale of the properties and goodwill of "HOWARD and WYNDHAM, Limited," of the Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Newcastle Theatres, to Messrs. R. C. BUCHANAN, of the King's Theatre, Edinburgh, and Mr. ERNEST STEVENS, of the Marlborough Theatre, London, at an advanced price of £160,000, deserves consideration. It may be asked of the occurrence, as the student enquired concerning "Paradise Lost," "What does it prove?" It is difficult to say. "HOWARD and WYNDHAM, Limited," was registered in 1895. The company owned the Lyceum Theatre, Edinburgh, the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh, and the Theatre Royal and King's Theatres, Glasgow, and held leases of the Royalty Theatre, Glasgow, and the Tyne Theatre, Newcastle-on-Tyne. The authorised capital was £150,000, in shares of £5, £100,000 being ordinary, and £50,000 5 per cent. cumulative preference. £70,000 of the ordinary and £30,000 of the preference shares were issued and paid up. There were also £15,000 of debentures. For the first year of the company 8 per cent. was paid on the ordinary shares; for each of the six years to 1901-2, 10; for 1902-3, 15; for 1903-4, 20. A bonus of 100 per cent. was paid in May, 1904, absorbing the old reserve fund. For 1904-5, 7½ per cent. was paid on the increased capital as from May 2, 1904, and for 1905-6, 10. The new reserve fund was £12,500, and the insurance reserve fund was £2500.

The reasons given for the sale by Mr. MICHAEL SIMON, the chairman of the company, in his speech at the Edinburgh meeting were various. Mr. SIMON'S view or the future of the British drama was gloomy in the extreme. "Everyone who knew anything about theatrical business," he said, knew that the ebb had set in. The present balance-sheet of the company showed a very considerable diminution in the profits. Theatrical business, said Mr. Simon, was not what it had been, and Mr. WYNDHAM, feeling that very keenly, was desirous of relinquishing management. They had had to contend against the competition of the music halls. Then there were the "extravagant" demands of star artists at pantomime time. When they were met with a set of conditions like these, he thought they should, after having had ten years of prosperity, realise their properties to the fullest extent possible and avoid the period of danger. There were, he continued, cycles of prosperity and cycles of adversity in connection with theatrical ventures; and it was quite within the bounds of possibility that depreciation might set in in an inverse ratio to the amount of appreciation. It is stated, however, that the augmented price offered by Mr. BUCHANAN and Mr. STEVENS, who raised their bid from £146,000 to £160,000, was due to the fact that another syndicate had made advances to HOWARD and WYNDHAM for the purchase of the properties.

It is difficult to obtain reliable data concerning any business, but doubly so in the case of theatres. It is only when they become public companies, and their affairs are thus disclosed, that we get any information; and even then the bare figures are often misleading.

Let us take the record of some provincial theatrical companies. The Theatre and Opera House, Leeds, Limited, was registered in 1876 with an authorised capital of £50,000 in shares of £50, of which £24,600 has been subscribed and paid up. For some years to April, 1893, the dividends were 2 per cent.; for three years to 1895-6, nil; for 1896-7, 4 per cent.; for the seven years to 1903-4, 5 per cent.; for 1904-5, 4; and for 1905-6, 5.

The Theatre Royal, Manchester, was registered with an authorised capital of £40,000 in shares of £10, of which £33,690 has been issued and paid up. For each of the five years to 1896-7, 3 per cent. was paid; for 1897-8, 4; for 1898-9, 5 and a bonus of 3¾; for 1899-1900, 6; for 1900-1, 5; for 1901-2 and 1902-3, 4; for 1903-4 and 1904-5, 3; and for 1905-6, 5. The reserve fund is £2000.

The United Theatres Company, Limited, the offices of which are in Manchester, was registered in 1898 with an authorised capital of £100,000. The dividends for the period 1899 to 1903 varied between 5 and 10 per cent.; for 1903-4, only the preference dividend was paid; for 1904-5, the ordinary shareholders got 5 per cent.; and for 1905-6 only the preference dividend was paid.

We admit that in theatrical business, as in trade generally, there are, as Mr. SIMON said, "cycles" of prosperity and cycles of adversity; the mistake is to attribute these "cycles" to what is commonly called Fate, and not to natural causes. Good times and bad times, as any professor of economics will tell us, are simply periods of over-production, extravagance, and wild speculation, followed by periods of unemployment, thrift, and caution. It is not that there are not now as many theatrical fish in the sea of population as ever—there are more; but the bait offered them is not sufficiently attractive. When it is so they "bite" freely enough. As an instance, the takings for the week's recent visit of the MOODY-MANNERS Opera Company to Her Majesty's Theatre, Carlisle, reached very little short of £600, £400 never having been quite reached since the rebuilding of the house. Now what is the secret of Mr. MANNERS' success? Is it not chiefly his artistic enthusiasm? It seems to us that the reason of a great deal of the "bad business" in the provinces has been just the decay of this artistic enthusiasm and ardent individuality in the profession. To a great extent, the drama of late years has been "running on its momentum." We have been "playing down" to the public, and giving them what they want, instead, as Mr. TREE says, of giving them what we want them to have, and making them take it by sheer ability. There is too much machinery about our "attractions." Musical comedy is almost entirely a manufactured article; and the same may be said of much modern melodrama. Playwriting has become a base mechanical craft, instead of an intoxicating, fascinating struggle for fame. If we look at our list of companies on the road we find that, even now, ancient as they are, such fine plays as The Silver King, The Lights of London, Proof, The Manxman, and Saints and Sinners are holding their own. When an art, or even an artistic trade, is carried on on purely commercial principles, it decays, even on its financial side. The great monetary successes of the past were not written "to order," but in response to artistic impulses; the great melodrama managements were ambitious, not mercenary. The way to make money with theatres is to spare neither brains nor pains nor cash in order to give the public first-rate plays, performed by the best artists procurable, and thoroughly well mounted. When a brewer finds his sales falling off he does not—if he be wise—brew worse beer, but better. We must not attribute any falling off in the theatrical business to "cycles." We might as well be astrologers and attribute them to the influence of the planets. "'Tis in ourselves that we are thus or thus." There is, one hears, every prospect of general trade being good in this country for the next four or five years. Is the stage to share in the approaching prosperity?

DEATH OF MR. RICHARD MANSELL.

We regret to announce the death on Thursday last of Mr. Richard Mansell, who at an early age became a member of the theatrical profession. The deceased, besides begin an actor, was for many years one of the best-known theatrical managers in London. In the 'seventies he was lessee and manager of St. James's, where he produced Offenbach's Bridge of Sighs (Le Pont des Soupirs), and other operas; was afterwards joint lessee (with his brother) of the Lyceum, and was responsible for the famous production of Chilperic, with the composer, Hervé, in the cast. He was resident-manager (under E. G. Saunders) of the Coronet Theatre from its opening in 1898 to 1903, where he, under Mr. E. G. Saunders, supervised a revival of Chilperic, with Miss Winifred Hare in the title-rôle. He appeared at the Coliseum as Jacob in Joseph and His Brethren.

An amusing story is told of the deceased manager in connection with the time he was the lessee of the St. James's Theatre. He fell foul of the Lord Chamberlain on the subject of the length of the ladies' dresses at that theatre. The next night all the fair members of the chorus appeared in full-length nightdresses.

THE next play to be produced by the Stage Society will be Brieux's Les Hannetons, performances of which will take place on the 24th and 25th of this month.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

THE usual weekly meeting of the Council of the Actors' Association was held on Tuesday, when there were present Mr. C. Aubrey Smith (chairman), Mr. A. B. Drinkwater (deputy chairman), Mr. H. W. Mote (solicitor), Mesdames Carlotta Addison, Georgina Hamilton, and Kate Phillips, Messrs. Granville Barker, Cecil Barth, J. Cooke Beresford, Clarence Blakiston, Acton Bond, W. Grahame Browne, Lewis Casson, Burton Cooke, H. Athol Forde, Laurence Irving, Kenyon Musgrave, Herbert Shelley, Algernon Syms, Brandon Thomas, Frank Vernon, Fredk. Volpé, and Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary). Mr. C. Aubrey Smith was elected chairman of the Council for 1907-8, and Mr. A. E. Drinkwater deputy chairman for a like period.

ELECTIONS on the various committees resulted as follows:—Finance and General Purposes Committee: Messrs. Cecil Barth, J. Cooke Beresford, Acton Bond, Lewis Casson, A. E. Drinkwater, H. Athol Forde, Laurence Irving, Alfred Kendrick, and M. R. Morand. Special Committee: Messrs. Clarence Blakiston, C. Hayden Coffin, Arthur Holmes-Gore, M. R. Morand, Kenyon Musgrave, and Spencer Trevor. Subscription Committee: Messrs. Cecil Barth, J. Cooke Beresford, Acton Bond, and Thalberg Corbett. Commissioners Committee: Mesdames Georgina Hamilton, Rose Mathews, Phyllis Relph, Lucy Sibley, and Blanche Stanley; Messrs. F. J. Arlton, Cecil Barth, Leslie Carter, Clive Currie, Frank G. Dunn, S. Major Jones, Ralph Roberts, Edmond T. Sayers, and Brandon Thomas. It was agreed that every member of the Council was ex officio a member of this committee. Social and Library Committee: Mesdames Hylda Franklin, Georgina Hamilton, Rose Mathews, Margaret Parker, Kathleen Russell, and Lucy Sibley; Messrs. Cecil Barth, Robert Castleton, Clive Currie, A. E. Drinkwater, Frank G. Dunn, and Arthur Morris. Each committee has power to add to its number.

THE election of members of the Alteration of Articles Committee was postponed. Mavis Hope, Gertrude L. Robins, Frank Royde, Joseph Herbert, Kathleen M. Begbie, Harvey Braban, Austin Spencer, Robert Atkins, and Wm. Farren, jun. (for reinstatement) were nominated for election to the Actors' Association.

THE hon. solicitors reported they had issued a summons to recover salary due to a member, and they had also advised a member on a point submitted, and, further, that a member had decided to abandon his claim against a manager. The secretary reported that the eighth bi-monthly meeting of the members would be held on Thursday, the 14th inst., at 2.30, in the saloon at 10, King-street. Two cases of alleged insanitation in provincial theatres were dealt with. The meeting of the Council opened at 2.30, and closed at 5.55 p.m.

THE Finance and General Purposes Committee held a meeting on Tuesday last, opening at 6 p.m. and closing at 6.45. There were present: Messrs. J. Cooke Beresford, Acton Bond, Lewis Casson, A. E. Drinkwater, H. Athol Forde, C. Aubrey Smith, and Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary). Mr. Acton Bond was elected chairman for 1907-8. Questions of finance were considered, and instructions given.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

The concert of Wednesday evening was equally divided between vocal and instrumental pieces. In the latter Miss Daisy Walker was especially happy in her piano solo of Godard's "Chromatic Waltz," which she played with freedom. Miss Beryl Eager, although not quite so successful, displayed talent in Ries' "Adagio in B flat," from Suite in G for violin. Master Cecil Hay, for so young a performer, gave great promise in his piano solo, "Valse in A flat," by Chopin, being heartily applauded at the close. In Beethoven's "Romance in F," Miss Catherine Wyman played the violin with considerable ability; and another young student, pupil of Mr. Norman Cummings, played Liszt's piano solo, "Chant Polonais No. 1," in a manner that reflected great credit on his professor. Miss Gertrude Muir Irving, in her violin solo of Svendsen's "Romance," somewhat dragged the time, though neatly executing this difficult solo; in a less exacting piece Miss Irving would have been more successful. The vocal items were "Oh! hear the wild winds blow," by Mattei, in which Mr. Mace Ashton displayed an excellent voice, but was not entirely happy either in its production or intonation; while Miss Lilian Adams, in essaying Lane Wilson's "Carmena," rather spoilt the effect by singing with a certain amount of vibrato, no doubt caused by nervousness. Mr. A. C. Steed sang Blumenthal's "My Queen" so well that he had no need to force his voice; and Miss Bertha Brown may be praised for her singing of "Mine Enemy," by Olga Rudd. Miss Brown has a mezzo-soprano that will amply repay careful cultivation. The other songs given were "Come, my love, to me" and "Madrigal" (Chaminade), sung by Miss E. Boncey; and "Oh, waving trees," by Graham Peel, in which Mr. W. H. Cooper was heard to some advantage. The programme ended with a recitation, "My First and Last Appearance" (E. F. Turner), by Miss Irene Graham, pupil of Miss Kate Rorke. The accompanist was Miss Jenny Hyman.

The Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress on Tuesday were present at the formal opening at the Guildhall School of Music of the handsome new organ costing 1000 guineas, built by Messrs. Norman and Beard, of Norwich, which has been erected in the concert room of the above institution. This fine instrument completes the musical equipment of the School. The Lord Mayor, in the course of his short speech, made some humorous remarks about the new organ, which is of the most approved modern pattern, and also, in speaking of the Guildhall School, said they were anxious to be up to date.

A short programme was given, Dr. Warwick Jordan playing some organ solos, Miss Barwell-Holbrook and Miss Romea giving several songs, and Miss Doris Cloud a violin solo.

THE one hundredth performance of Sindbad at Drury Lane was reached on Wednesday without any sign of abatement in the pantomime's power to attract. Fragson celebrated the occasion by introducing still another new song, "The hat shop," the words of which are by Messrs. Wimperis and Davidson, and the music composed, as usual, by the clever Anglo-French comedian.

WE record with regret the death of Mr. Archibald Gunter, who attained considerable fame some years ago as the author of the engrossing novel, "Mr. Barnes of New York," and also made a name as a dramatic author. His plays, most of which were produced in America, included Prince Karl, Two Nights in Rome, Fresh, the American, After the Opera, The Deacon's Daughter, The Dime Novel, Little Puck, My Official Wife, One Against Many, The Soul of an Actress, and a dramatisation of "Mr. Barnes."

OPERA lovers of an older generation will have pleasing memories of Mme. Georgina Burns, a vocalist of great culture, who won considerable success in a former day, but has now been overtaken by misfortune. Mme. Burns was one of the principals of the Carl Rosa Company, and afterwards embarked on an operatic enterprise with her husband, the late Mr. Leslie Crotty, only to meet with failure. Mme. Burns for some twelve years has been partially paralysed, and is now penniless and living in constant dread of the workhouse. Mrs. Bagot, wife of Lieut.-Col. Bagot, of Levens Hall, Milnthorpe, has opened a fund to assist the unfortunate lady to establish herself in Liverpool, where she hopes to gain a livelihood as a teacher of singing.

DINNER TO MR. JOHN ABBOTT.

There was a sound of revelry on the night of the 22nd ult. at the Crown Restaurant, when the staff of Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter gave a farewell dinner to their companion, Mr. John Abbott, prior to his departure for America to take up a position of trust under Mr. Fred Day, the manager of the New York branch of the well-known firm. Besides the majority of the staff, a number of friends and well-wishers, representing other big music-publishing houses and the printing and allied trades were also present to do honour to the young man who had been specially selected for a coveted post. The proceedings were of the most enjoyable character, and the dinner was fully in keeping with the traditions of the famous restaurant, being personally supervised by Mr. H. L. Seddon, the proprietor. The menu card is appended, it being of a novel character, and one which Fred W. Leigh is accused of having drawn up:—

A Few Friends Have Pleasure in filling some of the vacancies in the interior of MR. JOHN ABBOTT,
prior to his departure (Feb. 27, 1907) for New York, U.S.A., where all are confident he will worthily uphold the fame and extend the interests of FRANCIS, DAY, AND HUNTER, who, by sending him thither, delicately express their appreciation of the loyalty and all-round competence displayed by him during the eight years of his connection with their staff.

What's the Matter with John Abbott? He's All Right!

Who's All Right?..... John Abbott!
"For feeding prepare,
With napkin unfurled;
John Smith's in the Chair—
All's right with the world."
Rudyard Khayyam.

PROGRAMME.

(From the noun, PROG—victuals; and the verb, RAM—to force in, to cram.)

Thick Mock Turtle. Julienne.
"It's time to begin—
Hold your whist for a minute!
The soup's coming in—
May we never be in it!"
Omar Kipling.

Fried Filleted Sole and To(e)mato(e).
(An attempt to evolve a joke from the conjunction of SOLE and TO(E) ended in de-FEET.)
"When Isaac Walton wielded the rod,
He was very familiar with carp and pike;
And though old Ike lies under the sod,
They still get a line now and then from Eyke."

Roast Ribs of Beef, or Roast Leg of Mutton and Jelly.
"When full of beef,
Or stuffed with mutton,
To find relief,
Undo a button."
From "Table Etiquette," by D'Arby Kelly.

Roast Surrey Fowl and Ham.
O Fowl of Surrey! ere you died,
And sage was rammed in your inside,
I wonder if you ever knew
That this proud fate awaited you.
Did dreams foretell that you would be
Immortalised in verse by ME?
And, Ham-attended, served up thus
To fill the inner parts of US?

Sauté and Boiled Potatoes and Cabbage.

At this point the writer of the foregoing will be the recipient of a unique gift. Mr. William Francis, Junr. (of London and New York), will hand him a lemon. After a scarcely noticeable interval the lemon-taker will reply in a few short words.

Gentlemen of the Press are requested not to report the speeches.

Diplomatic Pudding, or Apple Fritters.

Cheese Straws, or Cheese and Celery.

Several excruciatingly funny things had been selected from "JOKELETS" (published by Francis, Day, and Hunter, 142, Charing Cross-road, Oxford-street End, London, W.C., and 15, West 30th Street, New York) to enliven the concluding portion of the Programme; our Chairman, however, in order to give the company a chance of settling into a frame of mind suited to the serious character of what is to follow, decided not to use them.

Some People have threatened to sing—
MAY HEAVEN PROTECT US!

"God Save the King!" "Hail, Columbia!"

The reference to Isaac Walton in the foregoing is in honour of Mr. William Eyke, one of the firm's travellers, who is a respected member of the profession's very own angling society, the Stockwell, and an authority on roach fishing.

The speeches were brief and to the point, the Chairman, Mr. John "Sixpenny Pops" Smith, the manager of the firm, proposing the toast of the evening, "Success to John Abbott," in neatly-turned phrases to which the voyager responded. During the evening a telegram was handed to Mr. Abbott, which was read to the company, it running thus: "Rest assured of our fullest confidence and heartiest wishes.—William Francis and David Day." Another feature of the evening was the drinking of far-away Fred Day's health with musical honours. Uproarious merriment was caused by the ceremony of each member of the party forming in procession, headed by Mr. W. Francis, jun., and handing Mr. Abbott a lemon, which appears to be an American equivalent for the phrase in vogue here of "taking the cake." A eulogistic speech was also made by Mr. Berridge, sen.; and a letter was read purporting to emanate from pirate music-hawkers of London wishing a jolly good riddance to John Abbott, and regretting that he had not departed for America long ago, and taken young Briebach and "Willie" Preston with him. These gentlemen—like Mr. Abbott, mighty pirate hunters both—were present. Mr. Charles Wilmott made a capital vice-chairman.

A concert followed the dinner, contributed to by some well-known artists, the pianists being Messrs. H. E. Rether, Hermann E. Darewski, jun., Penyston Miles, Leonard Bellamy, and the brother of Wyley Price who, after Mr. Pether's overture, opened the ball with "My fiddle is my sweetheart," accompanying himself on the violin, on which instrument he afterwards played Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever," with verve and fire. Hermann E. Darewski, jun., exhibited an interesting experiment in animal magnetism, and H. E. Pether showed the same ease and facility with a pack of cards that he does at the keyboard. The following songs were also given:—"The dear old shore," John Smith; Miss Vesta Victoria's great success, "Poor John!" (with special verse in honour of John Abbott), W. Francis, jun.; "Don't you think he's mad?" Arthur Francis; "The Old Green Isle," William Eyke; "I'm a little bit deaf today," "Folkestone for the day," and "Logic," Edgar Curtis; "Wire in, my lads," Fred W. Leigh; "We parted on the shore" and "Hello! hello! hello!" John Abbott; "The song without a name," Charles Wilmott; "Birdseed," Edgar Bateman; "The Trumpeter," Leonard Bellamy; "Johnny used to drive the coffee-mill," "Willie" Preston (of Messrs. Chappell's staff); "Tooral-I-ay," James Hutchens; "The galloping Major" and "Nobody," Mr. Will Randall; and "Our Beano" and "Father!" Will Edwards. "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem brought the function to a close.

THE "QUEEN OF SPADES."

New Ballet, in Three Scenes, Action and Dances composed and arranged by Signor Alfredo Curti, Music by Signor Mario Costa.

Produced at the Alhambra on Monday, Feb. 25.

The Sculptor ..... MISS JULIA SEALE
His Fiancée ..... } MISS L. BRYANT
Spirit of Good ..... }
Director of Kursaal ..... SIGNOR G. ROSI
The Marquis ..... SIGNOR SANTINI
L'Etoile ..... } MLLE. ALEXIA
Queen of Spades ..... }
The Jester ..... SIGNORINA MORINO

There is no surcease of the charm and elegance that one expects in an Alhambra ballet in Mr Alfred Moul and Mr. George Scott's latest production, and we gaze on the sensuous beauty of the three scenes into which The Queen of Spades is divided with the conviction that the new era of choreographic production, if it lacks something of the classical tradition, has lost none of the qualities that recommend it to the general public. A decided innovation is the series of Urbanora pictures, which enable one to follow the action of the story, and form a connecting link between the scenes, which are rich in glowing colour and animated by some very delightful divertissements.

The Gardens of the Kursaal reveal to us the cosmopolitan gaiety and désœuvrement that may be encountered at some of the more fashionable of Continental health resorts. The crowd is bent apparently on honouring a young sculptor, whose chef d'œuvre has been just unveiled. The director, in a speech much interrupted by loud applause, voices the congratulations of the crowd; but dearer than all to the young sculptor are the felicitations of his fiancée. Unfortunately, however, for his peace of mind, he finds metal more attractive in the sinuous graces of L'Etoile, a famous Parisian dancer. He is fascinated by her, and, with the desire to secure her favours, he "plunges" at the tables, and loses his money as rapidly as unreflecting lovers usually do on the stage, the fatal card against him always being the queen of spades. He seeks oblivion in the wine-cup, and finally sinks into stupor. The cinématograph is brought into play to picture his dream. During his period of unconsciousness he sees L'Etoile's boudoir. Her lover enters. The sculptor, goaded to madness, draws a pistol, and shoots at his rival. The screen then lifts, and we are in a golden palace—a shrine of pleasure, where the various "liqueurs" disport themselves in a valse, and we have a grand march of playing-cards, the ballerine and figurantes making their entry down a broad flight of steps. The card ballet is as ingenious as it is beautiful, and among the variations are a strikingly effective "bridge" minuet and mazurka. Into this vortex of dissipation the young sculptor is introduced by Folly, and he is again mocked by L'Etoile, who disguises herself as the Queen of Spades.

In the grotto of "La Source"—a picture of translucent wavelets washing the floors of a cave roofed with stalactites of surpassing beauty, with a figurante of perfect proportions realising the celebrated picture quoted—nymphs in sea-green disport themselves behind ingeniously-arranged and cleverly-illuminated lengths of gauze, and the apotheosis of the ballet is reached when the Spirit of Good, having resuscitated the form of the sculptor, fortifies him against the evil influence of the Queen of Spades, and he is left in a state of rapture. This is shared by the audience, who gaze on a scene of shimmering brightness and singular beauty.

Mlle. Alexia, who, we believe, makes her first appearance at the Alhambra, has been, if we mistake not, seen at the Empire since the reopening of that house in a turn of acrobatic dancing. She is termed a danseuse de genre, and her whirlings and twirlings are immensely clever and sensational. She is assisted by M. Orfeo, whose pas bondissant round the stage brings down the house. A welcome return to the home of her former triumphs is made by Miss Julia Seale, who plays the difficult rôle of the young sculptor with considerable dramatic force and no little pathos. Miss Seale's art has mellowed during her absence in France and Italy, and the hearty welcome accorded her proves that she has not been forgotten. Signorina Morino is a piquant examplar of Folly, and her solo is one of the most artistic things in the production. Signor Giovanni Rosi puts humour into his interpretation of the part of the Director of the Kursaal; and Signor Amedeo Santini's miming as the Marquis sufficiently conveys the significance of the part. The tarantella by the corps de ballet in harlequin and harlequina dresses of shaded blue was one of the successes of the night. Another was the clever dance by Misses Ida Bailey, Florrie Rowe, Annie Mortimer, Nellie Coleman, Daisy Summers, and Belle Davis. Signor Mario Costa's music is melodious, vivacious, lightsome, and well scored; and the costumes, so admirably designed by Comelli, have been turned out to perfection by the one and only Alias. Much credit is due to Mr. A. G. Forde for the smoothness of the first performance. There were honours and bouquets for the principals on Monday, and everyone concerned was called amid scenes of considerable enthusiasm.

CROUCH END HIPPODROME.

The prosperity of this, one of London's latest variety theatres, seems to be established, as is evidenced by the large audiences that muster here night after night. The situation of the theatre is greatly in its favour, having a large surrounding district to draw upon; but that, without liberal and spirited catering, would count for little. Fortunately, Mr. H. de Groot directs the house, and in his experienced hands the business of the house is safe. The worthy efforts of Mr. J. Howard Hutchinson, the chef d'orchestre, and his companions lead off with an overture, Suppe's "Light Cavalry," excellently rendered, after which follows a variety programme of a very high standard of excellence. A distinct hit is made by Miss Marie Neilson, comedienne and dancer; as the latter she is seen to considerable advantage. An interesting item is the conjuring entertainment supplied by Lazeen; and Mr. B. H. Almon proves himself almost as expert on his hands as most are on their feet—he is a veritable "upside-down" marvel. Tom Bass has some funny songs and patter, and Miss Ethel Dunford charms her audience with capital renderings of "Mlle. New York" and "I can see the red roses blooming." Mr. Antonio Medcalf contributes a couple of good songs, and the programme is varied with an original sketch, entitled Woman's Wiles, in which Miss Margaret Cavania and company provide a clever and humorous act. Espinosa and Neilson's dancing is a very commendable item; and the vocal scena entitled Waiting, as presented by Ghita Corri, gains for her abundant applause. An important engagement is that of Henri Cazman in his world-famed entertainment of La Café Chantant. Although obviously suffering from a distressing cold, he afforded welcome diversion with his excellent entertainment, which he carried out with all the point and significance that characterise his efforts. Miss Yolande Noble, a very chic comedienne, is markedly successful with songs given in very chic style. The Maritana Operatic Company, a quartette of much excellence, appear in selections from Wallace's Maritana, and are much appreciated. The condensed opera is staged in a satisfactory manner, and is well received. The lengthy programme concludes with a series of pictures presented by Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope.

MISS JESSIE M. LYONS, who is considered one of the best delineators of coloured parts, commences the Stoll tour with her successful sketch, Nelly of the Veldt, on the 18th inst. at Walham Green.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

Miss Marie Lloyd has benefited greatly by her visit to Madeira, from which beautiful island she sailed on Tuesday. She is expected home at Granville Lodge, King Henry's-road, on Sunday, and a warm welcome awaits her at the Oxford and Canterbury on Monday.

The Brixton Theatre will re-open with a production of a version of Aladdin on Monday. Mr. R. W. Allum (who has been acting-manager of the Putney Hippodrome) will return to the house wherein he was so popular.

Although no official announcement appears to have been made in connection with the impending changes at the Putney Hippodrome, the hall will close down this Saturday evening. Some of the staff, we understand, are being transferred to either the Empress, Brixton, or the Duchess, Balham. After an interval of about a fortnight, the place, which has been sold by the mortgagees, Messrs. J. H. Kingerlee and Son, builders, Oxford, will be opened under the auspices of Mr. Walter Gibbons on the two-shows-a-night system.

All our English humorists are going to America. George Mozart's monologues have been "knocking 'em" in New York; and Mr. Will Evans, a descendant of famous clowns, sailed for the States on Wednesday.

Mr. Will Oliver, "the man on the spot," announces that by mutual consent the firm of Oliver and Holmes will dissolve partnership, and that after March 25 next he will work on his own, transacting business at Spot Lodge, Brixton-road, S.W. Will, who commenced his career as an entertainer at the age of fifteen, has spent over forty years of his life in the profession.

Richard Warner, Ltd., on Tuesday afternoon, had a party, and revealed the comfort and convenience of their new suite of agency offices at Lyric Chambers, 27, Shaftesbury-avenue, to a number of friends and clients. The new offices are divided into seven rooms, all of which are furnished with studious elegance, and with a view to facilitate the rapid transaction of business.

The Zancigs concluded their engagement at the Alhambra on Saturday night, when Mr. Alfred Moul presented Mrs. Zancig with a beautiful diamond star. The provincial tour has no connection with the Alhambra, other than the fact that arrangements have been made with Mr. Alfred Moul personally for its control and direction.

Mr. Hayden Coffin recollected that Wednesday was the centenary of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, and sang at the Palace Theatre "The Village Blacksmith," set to music by the famous basso of his day, W. H. Weiss. There is another version by Blockley, which has been forgotten.

So successful has been the engagement of Miss Vesta Tilley at the Palace that it has been extended for another two weeks. And if it is possible for this clever artist to so arrange, she will accept the offer of Mr. Alfred Butt to still further prolong her stay at the Shaftesbury-avenue variety theatre for six weeks more.

May and Flora Hengler, as juvenile singers and dancers, were immensely popular on this side, and America, which has claimed their services for a long time, reluctantly parts with them for a short special engagement at the Empire, where they open on Monday. Other additions to the programme at this variety theatre on the same evening are Miss Marquis, with her clever troupe of trained ponies, and Leon Roget, the musical mimic, who will pay a return visit.

Terriers Charles Stevens and H. Griff enjoyed a final reception at the meeting of the fraternity on Sunday at headquarters previous to their departure to-day for South Africa, from Waterloo at 11.15, per ss. "Kenilworth Castle," when a crowd of Terriers and friends will bid them bon voyage. Griff was presented with an enlarged picture of himself, handsomely framed, from the Association, the work being executed by Terrier Arthur Simmons, artist and photographer, of Westminster Bridge-road. Many compliments were flying around and the evening closed with the merry clinking of cannikins.

Mr. John Lawson opened at the Manchester Hippodrome on Monday with The King's Minister, scoring a distinct success with his portrayal of the Prime Minister. The local Press, in describing the scenery and effects, say such a set has not been seen at the Hippodrome since the opening. This veritable dramatic gem from the accomplished pen of Cecil Raleigh will be seen at the Bordesley Palace during the coming week. On May 6 Mr. Lawson returns to town to produce at the Holborn Empire a new sketch, entitled The Unwritten Law, the leading incident of which will be founded on the Thaw case. A lady well known in musical comedy circles has been engaged to sustain the leading part.

The directors of the Palace Theatre have decided to give a matinée on behalf of the widows and orphans of the crew of the ss. Berlin, and to hand the proceeds of such matinée to the fund started by the Mayor of Harwich, who has gladly accepted this offer. The matinée will take place on Thursday, March 7th, under most distinguished patronage. A specially augmented programme will be presented, and seats can now be booked.

The death is announced of Mr. Robert Walter Chandler, the father of Miss Eva Carrington, the Gibson Girl in The Catch of the Season, who married Baron de Clifford in February, 1906. The late Mr. Chandler was originally in the Horse Guards, and was a magnificent specimen of the cavalryman, being 6ft. 4in. in height. On leaving the service he became a uniformed attendant at the old Trocadero, in the time of the late Mr. Sam Adams.

Presiding at the meeting of the Empire Palace on Feb. 22, Mr. Frederick Hurdle remarked that he had been called upon to take the chair in the unavoidable absence of Mr. George Edwardes, who was laid up with an attack of influenza. The board was able to declare a dividend at the rate of 13 1-3 per cent., and proposed to carry forward the substantial sum of over £6000. The shareholders, he thought, would approve of the action of the board in effecting a leasehold redemption policy for the return of the capital of the company to the shareholders at the expiration of the lease in the year 1958. A brief discussion followed, in the course of which Mr. Ernest T. Polden, director of the Palace Theatre, remarked that he knew something of the difficulties of the variety entertainment business during recent years, and congratulated the directors on the success of the company's business during the past year. The report was adopted.

At the Empire a new ballet is in course of preparation, though it will not be required for some time yet. It is to be the work of Mr. Adrian Ross, who should provide something out of the common, while Dr. Osmond Carr will be responsible for the music.

In consequence of a programme error, the name of Miss Madge Hyde was given in our notice of Mr. Aubrey Fitzgerald's sketch at the Tivoli. Miss Hyde writes to point out that her Christian name is Aithea.

Mr. J. Bannister Howard, like Mr. Walter Gibbons at Ealing, Mr. G. A. Payne at Walthamstow, and Mr. George Dance at Richmond, is in the enviable position of holding two licences—dramatic and music hall—for the Royal Theatre, King's Lynn, and will re-open it as a Hippodrome on Monday. Mr. Howard is trying the experiment of running three nights only each week, two houses a night, and booking the other three nights in conjunction with Mr. Eade Montefiore, of Bury St. Edmunds.

Mr. Auguste Van Biene and Mr. Oswald Stoll have arranged a grand benefit matinée in aid of the widows and orphans of the crew of the ill-fated s.s. Berlin at Liverpool during the week of March 11, under most distinguished patronage. Mr. Van Biene will appear in his new one-act playlet, The Master Musician, supported by Miss Lena Burnleigh, and a very strong programme is being arranged.

Trusts or monopolies in any industry cease to exist where there is healthy competition, and there is plenty of rivalry among music hall proprietors throughout the country. As soon as one touring association is successful in various towns, opposition—very much to the benefit of the public seeking amusement—is bound to be forthcoming. Quite recently we were told an octopus organisation monopolised the Empires and Palaces from London to Edinburgh; but on every side rival establishments are being opened, and the public will shortly have a choice of variety theatres all over the country that are not ruled by any one combination.

Foremost among these newcomers is Mr. Walter de Frece, who, associated in some instances with Mr. F. Monillot and Mr. Thomas Barrasford, is rapidly adding to the places of amusement in the provinces. Within a couple of months three new pleasure resorts will be opened under his management. The first, on March 4, will be the Palace, Leeds, formerly known as the Queen's Theatre, which, as rebuilt, is one of the largest in the town, and will be run by Mr. de Frece on the two-houses-a-night system. Then on April 1 he will open as a music hall the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh; and the following week will see the inauguration of the New Hippodrome, Portsmouth, a magnificent building, which has cost £50,000, and which, though providing a refined vaudeville entertainment, will not rely on profits derived from the sale of intoxicating liquors.

In the list of applications made out for the consideration of the adjourned general annual licensing meeting in Birmingham on Thursday next is one by Mr. Walter de Frece for a music, singing, and dancing licence in reference to premises about to be erected in New-street on land adjoining the Theatre Royal

The plans have been prepared and temporarily lodged in the office of the Magistrates' Clerk, and it is said that they show a building with an imposing frontage to New-street, between the Theatre Royal and the Dairy Company's premises, and running back a considerable distance, the interior of the auditorium being arranged somewhat after the style of the Empire in Hurst-street. Messrs. Ansell and Ashford, who are acting on behalf of Mr. Walter de Frece, tell us that the application will not be pushed this year, there having been some informality in the giving of the statutory notice. It is conjectured, however, that the applicant may bring his scheme before the magistrates in order to obtain, if possible, some expression of opinion as to the likelihood of the necessary licence being granted before committing himself to a costly scheme of building.

A benefit concert, for the assistance of the widowed mother of Mr. Frank Rushbrook, late stage manager at the Palace Theatre, Grimsby, who was accidentally killed on the stage three weeks ago, was held in the Palace last Sunday evening. The concert was organised by the management and directors of the theatre, and was very generously supported, the house being literally packed in every part. The band of the Grimsby Artillery Volunteers performed a capital programme of music, and pleasnig vocal items were contributed by Miss Ethel Stephenson, a popular local contralto.

The second of the series of flying matinées initiated by Signor Rino Pepi at the Palace, Carlisle, proved an enormous success, the house being packed in every part at double prices. This is hardly a matter of surprise when we note that the special turns included the popular artists, George Lashwood, Lottie Collins, Neil Kenyon, Bella and Bijou, George Formby, and the Brothers O'Brien, a galaxy of talent rarely seen at one time in even the best class provincial halls.

Mr. Sinclair Neill has been appointed general-manager of the Alhambra Theatre, Belfast, in succession to Mr. Henry T. Downs, the latter having been appointed manager of the Belfast Royal Hippodrome. Mr. Neill, who was formerly in Mr. Forbes Robertson and Mr. F. R. Benson's companies, is very popular in Belfast, of which city he is a native, and his appointment has given the utmost satisfaction to his numerous friends in the Northern Capital.

One of the biggest benefits that has been given in Liverpool for years took place on Tuesday afternoon last, when Mr. Edwin W. Smith, for many years proprietor of the Parthenon Music Hall, was honoured by the presence of a crowded audience assembled in the Star Theatre. Mr. Harris Fineberg very kindly gave the use of his establishment, band, and staff, while variety artists flocked from all quarters in and around Liverpool to show their appreciation of Mr. Smith, who is immensely popular. In addition, the principal theatrical officials of the city offered their services, among those present being Messrs. W. W. Kelly (Theatre Royal, Birkenhead), D. J. Clarke (Argyle, Birkenhead) Arthur Lawrence (Royal Court), James Marks (Tivoli), Fred Willmott, M. and G. Montgomery, Albert Bulmer (Olympia), Fred Weisker, &c.

A most enjoyable feature of the vast programme was a new and novel revue by the following principals from the Royal Court pantomime:—Hetty King, Fanny Fields, Malcolm Scott, Harry Tate, Fanny Dango, Harriso.. Brockbank, Doris Dean, Poppy Wilkinson, M. R. Morand, and Regan and Ryan. Seated round in a semi-circle, with Mr. Scott, attired as the Gibson Girl, as interlocutor, each artist was called upon to render an item, but the fun was fast and furious when some of them gave imitations of their fellow artists present. In the course of an interval Mr. Smith, speaking with emotion, thanked all, particularly Mr. Fineberg, for the overwhelming kindness that had been shown him.

With the object of encouraging new talent, Mr. Stoll is putting on twelve trial turns at the Bordesley Palace next week, two of which will appear each night.

Miss Katie Marsh has just finished four weeks with Mr. T. Allan Edwardes, with great success. She opens next week on the Barrasford tour at the Hippodrome, Birmingham.

Mr. George Collins, the quaint comedian, will produce on Monday next at the New Palace, Leeds, a parody on "Good-night, Mr. Brown, I'm out." It is by his brother, Charles Collins, and is published by Messrs. Francis and Day.

The Variety Artists' Federation will hold its first annual general meeting at the Trocadero on Tuesday, April 9. Its first birthday, Feb. 18, synchronised with the announcement of peace in the music hall dispute.

Mr. Frank Hardie has bought from Brien McCullough The Summer Cloud. George English has on royalty The Two Runaway Girls, and Brien will shortly produce a farcical sketch, The Wrong Letter, which he thinks will turn out another "winner."

Mr. Coe, of the Hammersmith Palace of Varieties, who last week gave a matinée in aid of the Mayor of Hammersmith's appeal for the Lord Mayor's Cripple Fund, has this week repeated his kindness, only the object is the Chiswick Soup Kitchen, whose funds had fallen to a very low ebb. Mr. Coe is presenting them with the gross takings for the matinée which took place on Thursday.

With regard to statements that have appeared in the Press respecting the future of the Grand Theatre, Islington, Mr. Harry Bawn writes that a case is now pending between the Empire, Camberwell, Ltd, and the Grand Theatre, Islington (1905), Ltd., for specific performance of the contract entered into by those respective companies.

With the advent of the new ballet at the Alhambra, Mr. George Scott reopened the gallery to the public. The seating accommodation has been vastly improved, and the gods can absolutely lounge in comfort. The entrance fee has been raised, and is now a shilling; but no one will grudge the additional outlay in order to see a delightful entertainment amid what may be termed luxurious surroundings.

Mr. Bransby Williams, who has been having a series of triumphs at Glasgow, is due at the Empire, Leicester-square, on Monday, when he will open with an entirely new entertainment. In pantomime Mr. Williams gives our country cousins more than a taste of his quality as a comedian, and it is to be hoped that Londoners will see more of him as possessed by the nimble spirit of mirth.

Mr. Charles Willmott, the librettist of "Home again, my cherry blossom," has on the stocks another flower scena, of which the melody is again from the graceful pen of Herman E. Darewski.

A most interesting case will shortly come on in the law courts between Messrs. Cadle, music hall agents, and Harry Lauder, with regard to agreements and commission, which has reference to the introduction of the now celebrated Scotch comedian to London.

Coram, the ventriloquist, has at last arrived. It seems that he was very ill in New York, and it therefore accounts for his non-appearance, as advertised. "Jerry," the dummy, who makes fun at his master's expense, proved a great "hit," but it is surmised that it is the complete subordination of the "master" that causes the applause.

Mr. Bertie Wright (brother of Huntley and Fred), will join the ranks of variety artists. At a very early date he will be seen on the Moss and Stoll circuit. His songs and patter have been supplied by the well-known author, J. F. Lambe.

Mlle. Camilla D'Alberg, who, as we have already stated, is about to produce a new wordless farce, is busy rehearsing the same with the assistance of the well-known pantomimist, Espinosa, and will shortly submit it to a select audience at a West-end theatre, at a full-dress rehearsal, with stage effects. The music, which is by Algernon H. Lindo, is full of charming melody.

Mrs. John Lawson, in The Devil's Sunday, has been appearing during the past week at the Cardiff Empire, this being her tenth week on the Stoll tour. This clever lady's reading of the character of Fay Faber has met with more than ordinary success, and she opens at the Islington Empire next week.

On Wednesday morning a great send-off was given to Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott at Euston, quite a crowd assembling on Platform 13 to see the travellers depart by the 9.50 a.m. boat special. Both the London branches of Messrs. Francis and Day were very fully represented, headed by Mr. and Mrs. David Day, who were accompanied by their daughter and granddaughter and Mrs. William Francis. Mr. Abbott is taking up a position of trust in Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter's New York branch.

Among the many others present were Mr. John Smith, Mr. Chas. Wilmott, Mr. W. Francis, jun., Mr. Arthur Francis, Mr. and Miss Udloff, Mr. and Mrs. Bellamy, Mr. H. E. Darewski, jun., Mrs. Prosser, Mrs. Boniface, Mr. and Mrs. Eyke, Mr. Jas. Hutchens, Mr. and Mrs. Berridge, Mr. Berridge, sen., Mr. Tom Leo, Mr. Dan Alger, Mr. Bert Lucas, Mr. Charles Griffiths, Mr. W. Harris, Mr. F. Morley, Mr. Charles Rooker, Mr. F. Abbott, Messrs. Leigh and Pether, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bateman, Mr. Templar, Mr. Connor, and many more. The window of the voyagers' carriage was adorned with a frontispiece of Walter Emerson's celebrated song, "Here's another one off to America," and "The dear old shore" was sung, and rousing cheers given as the train departed. The Abbotts sailed later in the day from Liverpool on the s.s. "Baltic."

In consequence of the Hippodrome, Hounslow, and Palace, Tottenham, closing, Mr. Lennox Barry has terminated his engagement as general-manager for Mr. John Lawson, and is at present disengaged.

Previous to taking up music hall management, Mr. Barry had some very useful experience as stage-manager with Mr. Geo. Edwardes's and Mr. Geo. Dance's companies, and has also appeared with success on the halls as a baritone vocalist.

Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope was again to the front in reproducing the lifelike picture of the Hook of Holland disaster at fifteen London and six provincial halls on Monday night, the films being received with the utmost interest and applause. We understand that on Good Friday they are showing complete performances of animated pictures at thirty-seven London and provincial halls, each show being of two-and-a-half hours' duration.

The latest quotations of music hall shares are as follow:—Alhambra, 1⅞; Canterbury, ⅞; Empire (15s. paid), 1½; ditto (10s. paid), 1⅛; London Pavilion Ordinary, 4⅜; ditto, Preference, 5; London Coliseum, ⅛; Metropolitan, ⅝; Moss Empire, 4¾; ditto, 5 per cent. Preference, 3⅞; Oxford, 6⅜; Palace, 11s. 6d.; Tivoli, 6; Var. Cons. Theatres, 13s.

After a most successful tour of seven months in the provinces, the Glenroy troupe of dancers appear in town on Monday at the Metropolitan and Middlesex.

The 501st meeting of the Executive Committee of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association was held on Wednesday afternoon, when the following members were present:—Messrs. Fred Neiman, Charles Coborn (V.P.), Fred W. Millis (V.P.), Harry Bancroft, John Alexander, Charles McConnell, Jeff Vendome, Bob Hutt, Frank Gerald, and C. Douglas Stuart (secretary). Several questions as to funds and insurance claims were considered, and it was decided to call a special meeting of the members of the committee on Wednesday next to discuss a letter received.

Mr. Fred Karno's company produced on Friday last, the 22nd ult., at Barnard's Palace of Varieties, Chatham, for copyright purposes, a sketch entitled The Old Master.

Mr. Walter Stanton has been secured by Mr. Oswald Stoll to give his unique representation of the Giant Rooster twice daily at the London Hippodrome, from Monday next, for three weeks.

The Terriers will give their fifth social concert of the season on Sunday at the Dover Castle Hotel, when ladies are specially invited.

Artists from the music halls are in growing demand at social entertainments. On Wednesday, at Lord and Lady Farquhar's evening party, Mr. Harry Fragson sang a whole budget of his songs before the King and Queen.

The Three Florodora Girls will produce next week at the Palace, Camberwell, a new musical comedy scena of a most novel character entitled Two's Company, Three's None, written by Harrington and Tate.

Mr. Harry Lauder returns to London on Monday, and is due at the Paragon, where an excellent programme includes Mme. Glasen's Living Art Bronzes, the Piccad American Pantomime Company, Winifred Hare Grais' Baboon Prodigies, the Eight Stars of Holland, Little Cliff, Abbie Mitchell, Daisy James, Michael Nolan, and others.

Master Clermont Kennedy, who made such a success at the Oxford and other London halls last summer, has just returned from America after an absence of four months. So great has been his success that he returns next autumn at double his previous salary. He will shortly appear at the Palace. Master Clermont Kennedy, while in the States, secured four boys, who are responsible for singing, dancing, mock drama, ventriloquism, and magic. The act is just one of the kind that will be snapped up by managers, for it is an absolute novelty

A scandal has occurred at a Madrid circus. The audience took exception to the manner in which a dancer interpreted the "Mattchiche," and hissed her; whereupon the artist, facing the audience, made an insulting gesture with her hand. A terrible tumult at once broke out. The audience smashed everything they came across. The situation was complicated by the interference of the guards, and the circus was not cleared until two o'clock in the morning.

Miss Florry Cooper, who is meeting with gratifying success everywhere, has made some excellent records for the Edison Bell Phonograph Company, and was rather surprised recently on arriving at her apartments to hear her own voice. It came from the kitchen. The landlord had a phonograph and had bought her records.

His friends will regret to learn of the accident to Mr. Charles Rezene, of Rezene and Robini, who slipped on going down some stairs at his lodgings in Hanley and injured his ribs. He has been unable to appear this week at the Grand, Bolton.

One is glad to see Mr. Vincent (Mr. Coe's popular manager of the Hammersmith Palace of Varieties) about again. He has for some weeks been laid up with an attack of rheumatism, but, we are pleased to say, is now much better.

Mr. Alfred Butt, the managing director of the Palace Theatre, scored two distinct successes there on Saturday by means of his Bioscope organisation. Immediately the news of the tragedy at Holland was made known to London, he dispatched a strong section of operators, under Mr. Barker, to the scene, and the result of their efforts was shown on Saturday afternoon. Londoners may now have the awful completeness of the wreck brought home to them by the long series of pictures Mr. Butt presents. The lifeboat is seen leaving for the wreck, and apparently the picture is taken from the prow of a vessel in the lifeboat's wake. The waves are seen breaking all over the doomed Berlin, and the high seas running show that the operators did not spare trouble in securing a complete picture.

Harry Lauder reappears at the Tivoli, after his pantomime triumphs at Newcastle in the character of Roderick McSwankey, on Monday. He will sing songs from his répertoire, and it is expected that he will include "The reason why I wear a kilt," which created such a furore in the pantomime. Miss Winifred Hare also returns to the cosy Strand house on the same evening, having completed a most successful pantomime engagement.

Miss Maie Hoey has resigned her engagement at Hengler's Circus, Argyll-street, where she has been playing twice daily as fairy queen and columbine. She has had an offer from Mlle. Camilla D'Alberg, but has had to refuse that and several others as she is desirous of securing a London theatrical engagement. A mime, a dancer, and a musician, Miss Hoey should soon gain her wish.

Miss Florrie Bray, the charming comedienne, is appearing this week at the Metropolitan with great success, her song, "Mary on the Pier," being taken up by the audience in a hearty manner and calling forth loud applause.

Mr. Geo. Saphrini, lessee and manager of the Palace Theatre, Boston, has taken over the Borough Arms Hotel.

A number of pantomime artists at present engaged at Liverpool had a merry time of it at the close of last week. What was described as "Ye old English theatrical supper and carousal" was held at the Adelphi Hotel, the "founder" of the feast, for which "three crown pieces of silver" were charged, being Mr. Harrison Brockbank. Everyone was, of course, attired in ancient costume, and the appearance of the strange company, as, headed by the night watchman carrying his lamp, they wended their way along the streets from one of the theatres to the place of revelry, was the most grotesque ever seen abroad at dark in the Mersey city. Great fun resulted from the detection of some delinquent whose costume was not perfect, and several of these sinners were temporarily placed in the stocks at the end of the supper-room, while others were penalised by being ordered to forego one or more courses on the menu list. Commander McNab, a well-known nautical gentleman of Liverpool, attired as Little John, presided at the feast, and the proceedings were kept up until dawn.

Jake Friedman, who is bringing his Happy Holland sketch next week to the Hackney Empire, had a funny experience in South Africa shortly before the war broke out. When giving an entertainment in Johannesburg he introduced a number of gags in the Dutch "taal." In one a telegram was handed to him on the stage, and he read aloud, "For Heaven's sake, Friedman, come quick! the English are on the border.—Kruger." That always got a good laugh. But it was turned against him on the Saturday night when a big man came up to the stage door and said to him, "I have a warrant for your arrest for treason." He was taken aback, and felt very sheepish, but said, "Well, hurry up, or I'll miss my train." "Oh! I'll take you to the station," was the reply, suggesting that it was necessary to take him to Pretoria. When on the platform, the big man suddenly turned and said: "Well, hadn't we better have a drink before you go?" He was one of the boys!

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

Messrs. Clark and Hamilton have just disposed of the copyright, plates, and stock of their entire catalogue of musical publications to Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter, they having determined on giving up music publishing for good.

That favourite light comedian, Mr. George Lashwood, on the Stoll tour, both in Glasgow this week and Newcastle last, has scored a most signal success with Messrs. John P. Harrington and Jas. W. Tate's latest comedy "winner," "Don't forget tonight," and the local press speaks most highly of the song, which has nightly gained vociferous encores. The Monte Carlo Publishing Co. are indeed fortunate in securing so good a singer and song for their "Sixpenny Successes" first time of asking, and the publication of the song is being pushed forward post-haste, to cope with the ever-increasing trade demands.

Two new songs by Harry Castling and Fred Godfrey have been secured by Messrs. Francis and Day entitled respectively, "Julia" and "I'll tell her on the telephone."

That ubiquitous trio Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford have just disposed of three charming new ditties to Messrs. Francis and Day. The names are "Violets, white and blue," "Why don't you come round and see me?" and "Soon I'm leaving Dublin Town."

The same firm are issuing a dance which will be in great demand at the magnificent dancing halls of Blackpool and Manxland, by and by. It is the "Imperial Waltz, No. 2," by J. Powell, composed by Heinrich Hucke.

Charles Osborne has placed two good songs with Mr. David Day's firm, written in the well-known manner which has made his name "familiar in the mouth as household bread," as Mrs. Malaprop would say. One is entitled "Where's my two 'bob' gone?" sung by A. G. Spry, and "Potted poetry," which will be sung by Mr. Bernard Russell, Mr. Owen May, and other well-known entertainers.

Other songs shortly to be placed on the market by Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter are "Mabel, I'll send you a cable," by W. Dacre and Kenneth Lyle; "Lucette of Lucerne," by Gilbert Wells and George Everard; "It's a girl" (sung by Mr. Wolmer Young), by G. A. Stevens; and "I want a big balloon," by Valentine Watson.

One of the greatest successes ever known at the Holborn Empire has been achieved by charming Miss Lena Verdi in her rendering of Messrs. Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford's dainty German song, "I'm going back to the Fatherland," published by the Monte Carlo Publishing Co. Both song and singer, this week, proved instantaneous "hits," and the tuneful lilt of this "taking" ditty will soon be on the lips of the "man in the street" all over London. Miss Lilian Lea also produces this song, on Monday next, at the Pavilion, Glasgow, in conjunction with "Queen of Old Samara," prior to opening in London, with both songs, at the Payne Syndicate halls.

So great has been her success in pantomime with the Shapiro, Von Tilzer Company's "The Bluebell's Wedding" that Miss May Marton intends to feature this bright number in her music hall engagements.

Miss Marie Kendall has just put on a very attractive song written and composed by Mr. R. P. Weston, entitled "Put that in your pipe and smoke it." This number, which scored an instantaneous success, has been secured for publication by the Shapiro, Von Tilzer Music Company, Ltd.

The Monte Carlo Publishing Co. have just secured from Herr Julian Kandt his latest "Valse Lente," a most melodious number, which will be played all through the forthcoming season of his celebrated band, at Weston-super-Mare. Full orchestral parts are now in preparation, and in addition to its publication in ordinary waltz form, it will also be separately published as a song, with appropriate words, written by Mr. John P. Harrington.

Miss Clarice Mayne has made an unqualified hit at the Tivoli, Brixton Empress, and Hammersmith Palace this week, with Messrs. Dave Hall and Herbert Rule's catchy chorus song, "Joan, Joan, Joan, come home." Miss Edie King has been duplicating the other fair singer's success, with the same song, at the Metropolitan and Holborn Empire. The Monte Carlo Publishing Co. are adding "Joan" to their fast-growing catalogue of "Sixpenny Successes."

"My Tiny Firefly," by Ballard Macdonald and Donovan Meher, is immensely popular, and over half a hundred singers have discovered the fact. Miss Edie Veno is the latest important artist to sing this tuneful number, and in a letter from Belfast she reports that it is "going terrific" in the Irish city this week. The Monte Carlo Publishing Co. include this "winner" in their catalogue.

The favourite march, "Queen of the West," by Herr Julian Kandt, is published by the Monte Carlo Publishing Co. in their "Sixpenny Successes" series (with full orchestral parts to match), and has proved so successful that Messrs. Boosey and Co. (by arrangement with the younger firm) have now issued full military band-parts of this striking composition

Mr. Reuben More has been very busy with his pen lately, having published no fewer than seven numbers. He has placed "Nora, my Leonora" with the Monte Carlo Publishehs, "The mad poet" with Messrs. Reynolds and Co., and "The tramp of the soldiers," "Friends," "I do love you," "Only a rose-leaf," and "If I took a cosy little summer-house for you" with E. R. Smith and Co. All these should prove big summer hits.

Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter have this week accepted for publication a charming chorus-song, entitled "My beautiful Avon rose," written and composed by J. F. Lambe and T. W. Thurban.

The extent to which the late Mr. Alfonso Mallaird, who was better known as Mr. Jas. Dubois, "the man monkey," was beloved by his friends on the stage, and by the public in general, not only in Oldham, but throughout the country, was fully manifested by the large number who attended his funeral, which took place on Saturday afternoon. One of Mr. Dubois' particular friends, Mr. Ernest Dottridge, we regret to say, is very ill and confined to the house, and he was therefore unfortunately unable to be present, but he was represented by his sister, Miss Dottridge.

The interment took place at Chadderton Cemetery, the Rev. J. Embling, curate of St. Mary's, being the officiating clergyman. Mrs. Emily Dubois, the widow; the son; Mr. and Mrs. Howarth, brother-in-law and sister-in-law respectively; Mrs. Murgatroyd, sister-in-law; and Mr. Thomas, brother-in-law, followed as mourners. The coffin was of polished oak, and was elaborately mounted with heavy brass fittings. The inscription on a large brass plate, read: "Alfonso Mallaird (James Dubois), died 20th February, 1907, aged 37 years." There were twenty-six beautiful wreaths.

PEACE DAY—MONDAY, FEB. 25.

THE STARS RETURN.

To the question "Can the world do without music halls?" we may reply, "The world can do better with them," and our contention was substantiated on Monday when the stars returned to the proscribed halls, and ushered in the beneficent sway of "gentle peace." We will, without any apology whatever to Mr. Frank Gerald, give a new significance to the initials V.A.F. by federating them as Variety, Amity, Fraternity, and we do this on the authority of large audiences who welcomed with the greatest heartiness in all the halls their favourite entertainers. It was said that the London public would get out of the music-hall habit, and some managers and proprietors were apprehensive they would not get into it again; but a survey of the principal West End halls that have been on the boycotted list assured us of the fact that the "music-hall habit" is only likely to be lost with the advent of Macaulay's New Zealander among the ruins of London Bridge.

Bunting and benison marked the grand peace festival. Everywhere on Monday flags were fluttering in the breeze. The Vaudeville Club (the stronghold of the Water Rats) hung a banner on their outer walls, and across the street the announcement "All old favourites return to the halls to-night" proclaimed to the passers-by the revival of harmonious relations between pros. and proprietors. Mr. Blyth-Pratt boldly printed a bar or two of the ballad "In Old Madrid" with the magic words, "Come, my love, the stars are shining." Mr. Joe Elvin was evidently glad to get back, and the audience was just as pleased as he was when he made his entrée in the droll comicality Trespassers, Beware. A special feature of the entertainment was the exhibition on the screen of the portraits of the members of the Conciliation Board.

The Tivoli looked glorious, and its electrical façade shone with added brightness on the names of the returned stars, the chief of whom was Mr. Arthur Roberts, who appeared in a revised version of Where's the Count? and was quite taken aback at his reception. At the Holborn Empire, where the strike began, "Peace Night" was proclaimed in huge letters, and flags inside and out testified to the joyous feeling, which was shared by immense audiences, the second being only limited by the capacity of the house. Mr. Fred McAvoy made a brave show at the Euston, the façade being boldly decorated with bannerets and pennons. Red, white, and blue, the prevailing colours, were seen in the electroliers on the dress circle front, and in American and English flags.

The historic house over the water, the Canterbury, with "Peace Night" in gigantic letters on its front, held a large audience that rejoiced with the amiable Fred Miller, the resident-manager, and the stars behind the footlights at the "happy issue" of arbitration.

Mr. Henri Gros, a born fighter, came up smiling at the Metropolitan, where he received many felicitations at the peaceful turn affairs had taken. Among the favourites appearing were Mr. Paul Martinetti and his troupe of pantomimists, who were heartily welcomed. Walter Munroe came in for similar honours, and Georg Hackenschmidt's show was watched with great interest.

Walthamstow Palace was decked with banners and bunting, while on the front was to be seen in large letters "The Strike is Ended. Peace with Honour. All Stars Will Appear." Islington Empire drew two large audiences to assist in the "Great Commemoration, Feb. 25, End of Strike. Return of all Star Artists. Peace With Honour," and everywhere the old order of things in the way of variety entertainment evidently afforded immense satisfaction to all and sundry.

MUSIC HALL ARBITRATION.

THE CASE OF THE MUSICIANS.

Mr. G. R Askwith, the arbitrator appointed to settle the music hall dispute, issued on the 22nd a second interim report, dealing with the case of the musicians. He says:—"I award and declare that all musicians who, in consequence of the strike, are without employment, may forthwith apply for engagements, and upon such application shall be given the vacancies at present existing in the orchestras (agreed at 20 per cent. of those who are now unemployed), and those vacancies which will arise in the course of the re-arrangement now in progress, and to be completed by March 11 (agreed at 30 per cent. to those who are now unemployed). The same engagements shall be either at the same halls where they were previously engaged, or at other halls, but at no less rate of pay than the rate which they previously received. To the remainder of the whole body on strike who may not have been able to obtain engagements on or before March 11, either at music halls or elsewhere, preference shall be given at the music halls concerned in respect of vacancies arising before publication of my final award. I concur with the agreement of the parties that for the purpose of absorbing the said musicians quickly and without friction, the managers will supply a list of the managers and music halls concerned in the dispute, to whom application can be made, and lists of the places vacant, and the number and character of the instruments required, and that the musicians may themselves choose and select by whom from amongst their number application for such places may be made. Any balance of musicians not absorbed at the end of the proceedings and prior to the publication of an award upon wages and other questions in dispute shall be referred to me for consideration."

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE EMPIRE.

To the Empire since our last visit have come the Roundheads, who represent a romantic musical incident in the time of the Civil War between Charles, sometimes called "the Martyr," and the Parliament. On the stage the adherents of Cromwell have generally been pictured as dull dogs, with a puritanical horror of such unholy levity as the singing of a drinking song. The "varlets" of the great Protector at the Empire have been turned topsy-turvey as it were by Mr. Roland Carse, the librettist, and Miss Vinnie Lloyd. They have cakes and ale, and the gentleman has endowed them with sentiments that would have excited the pious contempt of an Ironside, while the lady has given them many tuneful bars in a bolero, and encouraged them to languish in love lilts that are worth the singing. And let it at once be said that the Roundheads sing uncommonly well. They include Messrs. J. T. MacCallum, Ralph Nairn, Robert Hyett, and John Doran. They intrude as a search party into a Royalist mansion with the intention of arresting Richard Caversham; but, gadzooks! he gets behind a sliding panel. The troop, without further troubling about the Amalekite, determine to remain and make a night of it. The numbers include a pretty love song concerning "Dorothy," a lyric in praise of Cromwell, and a military song with a fine swing. The incident is beautifully mounted, the Royalist Mansion being well realised, and the costumes and armour are quite correct. Of the slight opportunities afforded them in the characters of Richard and Sybil Caversham, Mr. Edmund Holick and Miss Yvonne Ingram make the most.

The living pictures are a great success, and much interest is felt in the reproduction of the stolen Reynolds, "The Hon. Mrs. Charles Yorke," and the stolen Gainsborough "Nancy Parsons," which are given by permission of Mr. Charles Wertheimer, the owner of both canvases. "Hope," after the picture by G. F. Watts, "The Huguenot," after Millais, "The Bath of Psyche," after Lord Leighton, and "Romeo and Juliet," after Frank Dicksee, evoke much applause, and the selection and composition of the music by Mr. Cuthbert Clark can again be praised.

Newcomers to the Empire are Foster and Foster, who are pianists and singers. The one does a remarkable performance on a piano, with the keys covered over, in that he plays prestissimo a number of octave passages when wearing about nine pairs of gloves, which are afterwards removed amid the laughter of the audience by his partner, who is clever and funny in a "poultry" song. The Ergotti and King Luis troupe have increased their combination, and show very advantageously in a fine exhibition of Risley tricks and shoulder somersaulting; and at the end of the programme fun is supplied by Olms and Carbeth.

Mlle. Celia Galley, a Parisienne to her fingertips, vastly amuses the house by her parodies. Of course, La Belle Otero does not escape the shafts of her satire, and the tricks of the Spanish artist are cleverly hit off by Celia while singing a few bars from the Habañera, from Carmen. Réjane as that volatile and vulgar laundress Mme. Sans Gêne—a delightful impersonation that has won unbounded admiration on both sides of La Manche—is another favourite comedienne that Mlle. Galley imitates; and the great Sarah is very amusingly travestied in a scene from La Dame aux Camélias.

ISLINGTON EMPIRE.

In common with many other music halls in the metropolitan district the main entrance to the Islington Empire has been gaily decorated in celebration of the termination of the artists' strike, and many coloured lights and flags are the outward and visible signs of the rejoicing at the amicable ending of a memorable quarrel. The names of star artists once more figure in the programme, and "Peace with honour" has happily taken the place of strife with disorder. Considerable interest has been shown in the appearance this week of Mr. George D'Albert and company in a dramatic sketch in three scenes, entitled 'Tis Never Too Late to Mend, which has been specially written for Mr. D'Albert by Mr. Paul Pelham, with music by Mr. Nelson Howlett, and scenery and effects by Mr. Francis H. Bull. The leading character is that of the Rev. Arthur Stirling, a prison chaplain, whose kindness of heart and many good deeds have gained for him the regard and respect of the convicts who are serving their time at Portland. He is summoned to attend the death-bed of Black Harry, a dying convict, who repents of the evil life he has led, and is consoled by the earnest words of the chaplain. He also succeeds in suppressing a mutiny in the jail. Left alone, the chaplain hears the sound of a gun, which is a signal that one of the prisoners has escaped. Climbing over some rocks, the convict makes his appearance, and the chaplain in him recognises his own brother, who is serving a long term of imprisonment for forgery. It is his duty to prevent the escape of the runaway, and the strong appeal made by his brother fails to deter him. Then follows a desperate struggle between the two men, and the warders appear. Obtaining possession of a gun, the convict fires and fatally wounds his own brother. The sketch closes with the death of the chaplain and the arrest of his assassin. Mr. George D'Albert, who is making a new departure in playing the part of the Rev. Arthur Stirling, gives a careful and well-studied sketch of the good prison chaplain, and the struggle between the brothers is rendered in very realistic fashion. Mr. D'Albert also introduces a song called "'Tis never too late to mend," the last verse of which is sung at the beside of the dying convict. Mr. Peter Kelly gives a capital portrait of the unruly prisoner, comedy and tragedy being cleverly combined; Mr. Geo. Victor plays forcibly as the escaping convict; and the two warders are well represented by Mr. Frank Irwin and Mr. Harry Lennox; Mr. A. Maine as Black Harry completing the cast.

Mr. Leonard Mortimer and his No. 1 company are also here in the stirring military sketch, entitled Dandy Dacre, a story of the late Zulu Rebellion. The scene is the Residency, Natal, and the date 1906, and the sketch abounds in exciting incidents. Mr. Leonard Mortimer gives an excellent embodiment of the title-rôle, and has the valuable support of Mr. Maurice Hoffman as Sir Michael Collyn, Mr. Andrew Money as Paul Hiensen, Mr. Edwin T. Collins as Richard Dacre, Miss Edith Lewis as Alma, and Miss Ida Clifford as Lady Eva. The sketch is exceedingly well staged. Barton and Franklin are described as instrumental, vocal, and dancing specialists. They are assisted by a lady, and all wear the garb of Old Gaul. Their varied programme is much appreciated, and the trio are several times recalled. Miss Ida Brophy gives a piquant rendering of "I wish that I were you," and scores with a neat little dance. Mr. Henry Carlton plays the title-part in his sketch, The Window Cleaner, and works exceedingly hard as the representative of the supposed Spanish nobleman. He receives able assistance from the members of his company. Mr. Harry Anderson, the popular comedian, is very successful with "Rolling merrily on" and "My new pal"; the Sisters Carina display genuine ability in their refined musical mélange; Mr. Arthur Aldridge, tenor vocalist, gives an admirable rendering of a tuneful ballad; and Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope presents interesting pictures of the wreck of the Berlin, and of those who took part in the rescue. Mr. George L. Wilson, the manager, is to be congratulated on being at last free from the worries caused by the strike, and he has the active co-operation of Mr. Harry Blight as acting-manager.

THE CANTERBURY.

Mr. Fred Miller had the Canterbury gaily decorated on Monday, and flags and bunting all over the front of the old-established hall proclaimed that it was "Peace Night." Early among the returning "stars" was Mr. Alec Hurley, who received a cordial welcome. His song, "Come along, Eliza," in which a coster stands beneath the window of his lass and beseeches her to elope, has already attained huge popularity, and the whistling refrain is quite melodiously taken up by the gallery. Mr. Hurley also sings of a mysterious individual who "Ain't nobody in particular, not anybody at all," but whatever his profession is, it seems to pay well, for the comedian is attired in a neat suit, with just a touch of gaudiness to set it off. The attention of the audience is kept alert throughout the song, the rendering of which displays the singer's artistic low comedy to the fullest extent.

A return after many months is made by Cinquevalli, the eminent juggler, whose reception proves that his popularity has not one whit abated. Through all his ingenious and hazardous feats his dexterity and nerve are apparent, and applause loud and long is lavished upon his startling performance. The niceties of balance are admirably displayed throughout, and his tricks as the human billiard-table, his juggling with cues, and his feats with the cannon-ball, are more expert and diversified than ever. Piquancy is added to the performance by the efforts of his droll assistant, who compels the constant laughter of all. The Boisset Troupe arouse shrieks of laughter with the riotous fun of The Bricklayers, the merry capers of the hod-carriers, the dancing to the organ, the comic lunch party, and the numberless diversions of the sketch being as irresistible as ever.

An operatic flavour is given to the entertainment by the inclusion in the programme of Miss Agnes Molteno, the well-known prima donna, who sings "Good-bye to summer" with great tenderness and feeling. Later the comely chanteuse decorates her pretty white frock with a plaid scarf, to give character to "Robin Adair," which is rendered with many graces of expression and is loudly cheered. The entertaining contribution of the Mayvilles is agreeably varied, and the quaint puppets with the human heads are made to present a series of impersonations in which comedy and vocalism are well allied. A "cookie and bobbie" give way to two lady singers and dancers, who in turn are replaced by a soldier and a lass of the Salvation Army, who sing and play the drum and tambourine in approved fashion. A Scotch couple are also presented, and the applause conferred on the indefatigable pair is very hearty. Mr. Burt Shepard, who now accompanies himself on a grand piano, sings quaintly of "The furniture man," and afterwards purveys what he describes as "potted poetry," by means of which "Casabianca" and "Christmas Day in the Workhouse" are cleverly condensed into one verse, "The Village Blacksmith" and "Excelsior" being separately treated in the same way. The effect is decidedly droll. The Eight Stars of Holland give an interesting series of native songs and dances, in which the spinning-rooms, orphans coming from church, and fair-time in Zeeland are presented in picturesque and melodious fashion. National songs are also given by Mr. C. Emlyn Jones, and a quartette of ladies who wear dresses typical of the four quarters of the British Isles, appropriate songs and choruses being sung with admirable effect. Mr. Harry Vaux sings the praises of a night policeman, and finishes up with a realistic struggle with a burglar; and the programme is also contributed to by the Five Whiteleys, in a marvellous wire act; Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, which gives scenes from the appalling wreck at the Hook of Holland; Ferris and Farnley; Miss Cissie Esdale; Mr. Morny Cash; and Mr. James Stewart, the tramp at the piano.

DUELS IN THE DARK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—In your issue of Feb. 23 there is a letter from the author of The Devil's Sunday relating to an incident of a duel (with revolvers) in the dark in both that and another sketch, A Woman's Honour. I should like to point out that the incident is not original in either of them, I myself having toured a play entitled A Gentleman of England, in 1905. The said play was first produced at the Elephant and Castle Theatre in 1904, for Mr. Norris's benefit, the exact date having escaped me. I have a poster-cut of this incident.—Yours faithfully, BERNARD LIELL, Managers' Club, Savoy-mansions, Strand.

"JUST IN TIME."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—I see by a notice in your last issue, there was a sketch produced at the Empress Theatre, Brixton, bearing the above title. I beg to state that I produced a sketch entitled Just in Time at the Prince's Theatre, Horwich, Lancs, Sept. 14, 1903, as you will see by the enclosed programme. I am writing this letter merely to prevent me from being accused of plagiarism.—Yours faithfully,
H. W. SCOTT.

HARRY REYNOLDS' MINSTREL QUINTETTE

AT PAVILION, NEWCASTLE.

There is life yet in a minstrel show when it is done as well as the Reynolds company do it. They gave extreme pleasure to the audience.—Newcastle Journal, Feb. 26, 1907.

Reynolds' Minstrels gave a delightful turn. This will become one of the most popular of such entertainments.—North Mail, Feb. 26, 1907.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

The fairs ahead for next week are Dudley, on the London and North-Western and Great Western Railways; Bury, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire; Belford, on the North-Eastern; Blandford, on the Midland and South-Western; Camborne, on the Great Western; Hingham, on the Great Eastern; Maiden Newton, on the Great Western; and Odiham, on the London and South-Western.

In Scotland there is Jedburgh, on the North British. In Wales, Menai Bridge, on the London and North-Western.

Our readers will remember that twelve months ago negotiations were opened up with the Wallasey District Council with reference to certain additional powers they sought to obtain in a private Bill introduced by them into Parliament. Not only did the Showmen's Guild enter into costly negotiations, sending its Parliamentary solicitor to interview the town clerk and other persons interested, but also Mr. Ravenscroft, a local showman, instructed a Liverpool barrister to act for him in the matter as an aggrieved ratepayer.

The end of the matter was, after the Showmen's Guild for the whole body of showmen, and Mr. Ravenscroft individually, had petitioned Parliament, the District Council withdrew the additional powers clause, and quite naturally everybody expected that that was the end of the matter. But it was not so, for now we are informed that the District Council is trying to obtain through the Chester County Council the very same bye-laws, penalising the show business, that they agreed not to seek in their private Bill. Upon this action of the local authorities at Wallasey we have to remark that it is extremely hard and unjust on the local showmen that the Council should, after having come to terms with them, seek to obtain in a decidedly underhand manner the same bye-laws from the county authority that they had failed to obtain under their own powers. We have also to add that this very equivocal action of the local authorities is another illustration of the need for constant vigilance on the part of the Showmen's Guild to prevent whenever it is possible the penalising of their business by public bodies.

The legal advisers of the Wallasey District Council must have been aware, when they promoted their private Bill of last Session, that the Cheshire County Council had power, according to statute, to propose bye-laws for the whole of the county, and that the bye-laws, if unopposed and sanctioned by the Home Office, would apply to Wallasey. Had the District Council approached the County Council, the probability is that, in the interests of the other parts of the county, the drastic regulations wanted by the Wallasey Board would have been modified, and in all likelihood successfully opposed at the Home Office by the Showmen's Guild. The Wallasey authorities, anticipating that their private Bills might get through Parliament without opposition, loaded it with the additional powers clause; that clause was thrown out after an expensive petition, and now the Wallasey Board has the temerity to go to the Chester County Council and ask the county to do what they failed to accomplish.

We want to strongly emphasise the injustice of these proceedings. Had the Wallasey District Council approached the County Council in the proper manner provided by statute, and not sought to obtain their prohibitory bye-laws by private legislation, the showmen petitioners would have been saved considerable expense, time, and labour, for the Local Government Acts provide that forty days' notice shall be given of the intention of the County Council to promulgate bye-laws. More than that, the Council cannot originate bye-laws without a two-thirds majority voting in their favour at a duly convened meeting for that purpose. Of course, all this publicity and all this careful consideration and lapse of time is to safeguard the rights of the people whose interests may be threatened by the proposed bye-laws. Now, in the face of this care on the part of the authorities to give possible objectors to proposed bye-laws full opportunity to make their grievances known, it will be readily seen that whenever a Corporation or a District Council is promoting a private Bill in Parliament, that they will ask for additional powers, on the off-chance that the Bill may get through without serious opposition. It was so with the Wallasey Bill of last Session, for, when its promoters found that the showmen opposition jeopardised their Bill, they threw over their showmen clauses, knowing that they could still approach the County Council, and possibly get what they wanted from that body.

Just before Christmas last the Cheshire County Council passed bye-laws drawn on the lines suggested by the Wallasey Board, and applicable to the whole of the county. These bye-laws were duly published, and a copy sent up to the Home Office for ultimate approval. The Showmen's Guild petitioned the Home Secretary against these bye-laws, and the result of that petition is being anxiously awaited by the executive council of the Guild.

Bostock and Wombwell's No. 1 great menagerie on Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 20 and 21, gave some great performances in the Cattle Market-place, which were well patronised both days. Our Oxford correspondent further states that the May pleasure fair will take place on Friday, May 3, in the centrally-situated Cattle Market-place.

Not only is Burslem seriously exercised in the defence of its fair, but the adjoining town of Hanley is also threatened with the removal of its wakes from the Market-square. The question was seriously debated at a meeting of the North Staffordshire Traders' Association, held in Hanley a few days ago, and a good deal of strong feeling was expressed by the assembled traders against the continuance of the fair at Hanley. But it was pointed out that in the face of a strong opposition that the people of Hanley would show towards any proposal to interfere with their wakes that it was hopeless to expect the Town Council to agree to the proposal of the Traders' Association to remove the fair.

Some time ago, when a similar proposal was before the people of Hanley, Mr. P. Collins so organised and led the popular feeling in defence of the wakes that the principal abolitionist lost his seat on the Borough Council, and it was made manifest beyond all dispute that the people of Hanley would not allow any interference with their time-honoured wakes and local holidays. We are very much afraid that this movement against the wakes of Hanley is but another phase of the same narrow-minded prejudice that has shown itself so signally at Burslem, and that unless the people of the Potteries bestir themselves, and the show-people vigorously maintain their struggle for the fairs, the Staffordshire district will lose its fairs and wakes.

Mr. Edwin Crouste, the well-known jockey-act rider, writes to us from Madras, under date Jan. 31, that FitzGerald's circus, with which he is touring India, Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand, is having a most successful season in Madras, and that the circus, after a short season at Bangalore, will open for a season at Bombay on March 3.

THE FAIRS AT BRENTFORD.

One of those insidious attacks upon the liberties of the people, and concerned with the preservation of their fairs, has been made and successfully defeated at the charming old town of Brentford. Brentford has two pleasure fairs, one in the month of May and the other in September. Both these fairs would be large, important, and attractive fixtures but for the extremely restricted area of the Market-ground upon which they are forced to be held. There has been a conspiracy of neglect upon the part of the authorities for some years past, with the obvious intention of using the insignificance of the fair as an argument for its ultimate abolition. When the enterprising showman has endeavoured to run a large fair-ground at the fair time, all manner of obstacles have been put in his way by the local governing authorities, and, although Brentford is the centre of a very large residential population, the fair upon its ancient ground is of a very small and uninteresting character.

This conspiracy of neglect and the prevention of individual enterprise has at last led up to what the authorities have been scheming for all along—a public movement to abolish the Brentford markets and fairs, and thus to do away with the pleasures of the people.

The Urban District Council for some time past have been treating with the Middlesex County Council, the owners of the markets and fair rights, for the purchase of the charter rights, in order that they might abolish both markets and fairs. Terms were agreed upon, and the only thing needed to finish the bargain was to get the consent of the ratepayers, and it was at this point that the people of Brentford were told for the first time that their markets and fairs were in danger. The statutory meeting was called a fortnight ago, and to the surprise and consternation of the district (although the meeting numbered but fifty persons, and seems to have been but little known to the general body of ratepayers), there were a sufficient number of objectors to the proposed abolition to defeat the proposal to buy the fair rights.

The matter then came before the District Council again, and the extreme course was taken of disregarding the properly convened meeting, and calling another meeting, in order to make a second appeal to what was hoped would be a more largely attended and more favourably inclined body of ratepayers. In pursuance of this resolution, the following notice was published in the local Press, and duly advertised upon the notice-board at the Vestry Hall:—

BRENTFORD URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL.

Notice is hereby given that, under the provisions contained in Schedule 3 of the Public Health Act, 1875, and in pursuance of a requisition duly signed, a meeting of owners and ratepayers of the said district will be held on Wednesday, the 27th day of February inst., at eight o'clock in the evening, at the Committee Room of the Vestry Hall, Old Brentford, for the purpose of considering and (if thought fit) passing the following resolution, viz.:—"That this meeting of owners and ratepayers of the Urban District of Brentford, in the County of Middlesex, do hereby in pursuance of the provisions contained in Schedule 3 of the Public Health Act, 1875, consent to the Urban District Council purchasing of the Middlesex County Council the right to hold markets upon the open spaces in front and rear of the Town Hall at Brentford, and the carriage-way on the east and west sides thereof, with Court of Pie Poudre, and all the dues, tolls, customs, piccage, stallage, and profits belonging to the said markets, as granted by the charter or letters patent of King Charles the Second, on the 6th day of March, in the eighteenth year of his reign, and to take stallage, rents, and tolls in respect of the use by any person of such markets."—Dated this 20th day of February, 1907.

J. T. Taylor,
Chairman of the said Council.

Mr. Wm. Bedford, a well-known metropolitan showman, sent a copy of the notice to this office, and the executive of the Showmen's Guild, in the interests of London showmen, determined to watch the local proceedings, and to take any action necessary to defend the fair.

On the day of the meeting an official of the Guild, in company with Mr. Bedford, did most useful work interviewing the principal market traders and shopkeepers in the vicinity of the market who were interested in the preservation of both markets and fairs. This useful work was done as a precautionary measure, because if the markets were attacked, and that attack was defeated, there would be no need for anxiety concerning the fair. To defend the markets was the first line of defence for the peoples' fairs. There was a crowded meeting. The large room of the Vestry Hall was filled by interested ratepayers. The platform was occupied by the members of the District Council. The chairman, Mr. J. T. Taylor, J.P., explained the failure of the Council to carry their resolution at the former meeting, and detailed the negotiations between the local Council and the county authorities to take over the markets and fairs with a view to their abolition. He explained that the Middlesex County Council had purchased the old Town Hall at Brentford, and also the fair rights, and that the markets and fairs had been carried on under the County Council. A recent Act of Parliament obtained by the county authorities gave them full power to abolish the markets, but the fairs would have to be abolished according to the statute provided for that purpose.

The District Council met the County Council, and an arrangement was come to whereby the County Council should sell all their rights in the fairs and the markets for a sum of £500. The interest was to be at the rate of 3½ per cent., payable by instalments of £29 16s. 11d. An agreement was formulated between the two Councils, but before the District Council could enter into that agreement the sanction of the owners and ratepayers had to be obtained. This was why the meeting had been called. He wished them to understand very clearly that this agreement covenanted to sell to the District Council the markets and fairs for the purpose of abolishing them. The fair would be got rid of by an order of the Secretary of State, and the markets would eventually be abolished.

He believed that the abolition of the fairs and markets would be for the benefit of Brentford, and he therefore moved the following resolution:—"That this meeting of owners and ratepayers of the Urban District of Brentford, in the County of Middlesex, do hereby, in pursuance of the provisions contained in Schedule 3 of the Public Health Act, 1875, consent to the Urban District Council purchasing of the Middlesex County Council the right to hold markets upon the open spaces in front and rear of the Town Hall at Brentford, and the carriage-way on the east and west sides thereof, with Court of Pie Poudre, and all the dues, tolls, customs, piccage, stallage, and profits belonging to the said markets, as granted by a charter or letters patent of King Charles the Second, on the 6th day of March, in the eighteenth year of his reign, and to take stallage, rents and tolls in respect of the use by any person of such markets."

This was seconded by Mr. Gome, vice-chairman of the Board, in what was intended to be a very convincing speech; but, alas! for the orator, when he got as far as the phrase, "this curse of a fair," the audience would hear no more, and although he tried his best to win the ear of the audience he was compelled to sit down, with the pathetic remark, "As you will not hear me, I second the resolution." Vigorous speeches were made by a number of ratepayers against the resolution, and one member of the Council who endeavoured to justify the proposal of abolition on sanitary grounds was met with a running fire of comment and opposition.

By this time the District Council grasped the obvious fact that they were playing a losing game, and the chairman then very wisely put the matter to the vote, with the result that it was lost by at least three to one. The meeting, though somewhat noisy, was good-tempered throughout, and concluded with a hearty vote of thanks to the chairman. We sincerely trust that now the people of Brentford have been roused to the danger that threatened their old-time people's markets and fairs, they will keep a watchful eye on their representatives on the District Council, and that the members of that important body will keep more in touch with their constituents, and not take it for granted that the persistent clamour of a few wordy fanatics represents the real feeling of the great mass of the people.

We have dwelt at length upon this matter at Brentford, because we feel that, with the rapid growth of Greater London, a number of fairs within the twenty-mile radius will, in the near future, be of the greatest importance to the show business, and that although as at Brentford the fair is of small importance at the present moment, in the years to come with the growth of the population, they may become of great business value. We also think that the attack on the local holidays of the people at present secured to them by the occurrence of their annual fairs is one to be vigorously met and defeated.

Mr. John Jones has had a great success with his deservedly popular variety and cinématograph show during this winter at Bristol. He has been ably assisted by his talented family and Miss Florrie Sutton, who is making a name for herself as a clever danseuse. Miss Fanny Jones, in her daring tight-rope act; Miss Agnes Jones, dancer; and Miss Sophie Jones, champion dancer of the West, have ably sustained their previous reputations, and added another to their series of triumphs.

The executive of the Showmen's Guild is still in correspondence with the local committee at Burslem, organised for the defence of the wakes, and is only waiting for an opportune time to usefully co-operate with the local committee.

P. Collins's grand motor track paid a visit to Crewe, opening on Thursday night last, Feb. 21. The people of Crewe turned out in good form after the wet and miserable week before, and fully enjoyed themselves riding over the hills and dales. There were also Collins's Yankee helter-skelter, that came in for a good share of patronage; also Collins's Royal twin yachts, direct from Olympia, London, and Collins's Wonderland, with a grand array of London artists, and the very latest, the Chronophone talking and singing pictures; Chaplin's juvenile roundabout and stalls, Wright's shooting saloons and cokernut shies, West's smallest horse in the world, Beaumont's Emmas and shies, Dillon's football, and a host of other stalls and minor attractions. The business was moderate. They remove to Oswestry, Salop, ready for the Great Oswestry March pleasure fair, which takes place March 7.

The Town Council of Pudsey are now prepared to book and allot spaces for the local Feasts this year. All applications are to be marked "Pudsey Feast," and to be made to Mr. George Campbell, addressed to the Town Clerk, Municipal Offices, Pudsey.

DEATH OF A FAMOUS SOUTH AFRICAN SHOWMAN.

The South African News, under date Jan. 31, records the death of Mr. Bonamici. His death was somewhat sudden, being apparently in his usual health but a short time before his decease.

Mr. Bonamici, who was in his 59th year, was an Italian, having been born in Florence. He was known throughout the length and breadth of South Africa, having in the old days been associated with Bell's Circus, in which both Mr. Fillis and he were engaged.

He joined Mr. Fillis in 1879, and had, with the exception of a few brief intervals, been with him ever since.

To his widow the suddenness of his death is naturally a terrible blow, and its severity is only slightly less to Mr. and Mme. Fillis, to whom he was not only the most conscientious, painstaking, and loyal of managers, but also a very intimate and beloved friend.

Arthur Bonamici was, as most South Africans know, for many years connected with Mr. Frank E. Fillis's various enterprises as a circus proprietor in this country; and although he figured prominently in theatrical affairs for a period, he once more found himself in association with his former comrade during the last five years of his life.

He landed in South Africa (from Brazil) twenty-seven years ago, and made his first bow to the public of this country as manager of Bell's Circus. On the death of Mr. Richard Bell in 1880, Bonamici became associated with Frank E. Fillis, and this was probably the starting point of his success in the country. When Mr. Fillis left South Africa for a tour in Australia and the East, Bonamici brought out the Standard Opera Company, with that well-known burlesque actress, Miss Agnes Delaporte, at its head. Mr. Grant Fallowes, at present Mr. Leonard Rayne's business representative, was the tenor in this company. At that time Mr. Bonamici held the lease of the Standard and Globe Theatres, also of the Amphitheatre in Johnanesburg; and the Theatre Royal, Durban, also came under his direction for a time.

Mr. Bonamici's first appearance as an operatic impresario in Cape Town was witnessed in 1893, when he became the lessee of the present Opera House, the opening of which he signalised with a grand production of the popular opera Dorothy, Miss Leonora Braham, Miss Sophie Harris, Miss Trixie Gilfillan, Mr. R. S. V. Gregg, and Mr. Fred Coyne figuring in prominent parts. It was during this season that Mascagni's world-famous Cavalleria Rusticana was played for the first time in Cape Town.

In 1894 Mr. Bonamici brought to South Africa one of the greatest stars in the operatic world, the Scottish prima donna, Miss Marguerite Macintyre, who appeared at the Opera House in Traviata, Faust, and Cavalleria Rusticana; and near the close of the year the celebrated Jennie Lee ("Jo") visited Cape Town under his management.

Then followed one of the most ambitious undertakings of his life, the bringing out of a complete and costly Italian Opera Company from Milan, a venture which, though attended with much artistic success, brought the manager but little, if any pecuniary reward.

Afer this, Mr. Bonamici devoted his attention almost exclusively to Johannesburg, where he established his headquarters; and there such distinguished singers and entertainers as Charles Santley, Signor Foli, Sims Reeves, Mme Albani, Charles Arnold, Mark Twain, Max O'Rell, Stuart Cumberland, and others appeared under his direction at one time and another.

He provided the last entertainment, with the Charles Arnold Company, in Johannesburg and Pretoria prior to the outbreak of the war in 1899, and left the Transvaal capital, in obedience to an intimation from the Boer Government, on October 5, 1899. In 1900 he went to Europe to organise the Imperial Circus for Frank Fillis, and with this combination he appeared in Cape Town in 1902.

Since that time little has been heard of Mr. Bonamici, but on Boxing Night last year his many local friends once more encountered his familiar features on entering Fillis's Circus in Caledon-square. A wonderful change had, however, been wrought in the appearance of the man; he had aged considerably, and looked worn, sad, and troubled. It was a wreck of the old Bonamici one saw; and, though still ready to talk about matters relating to his profession, the weary and dejected look on his face never changed. He took a gloomy view of everything, and sighed for the pre-war days in South Africa, when all showmen had a fair chance of success.

As a manager, Mr Bonamici was always courteous and affable, though never effusively so, and his death will be deplored by a wide circle of friends. In a sense he had passed out of the public eye, but he will always be remembered as one of the early pioneers in theatrical affairs in South Africa.

MR. TOM GREEN, the well-known comedian and stage-director, in conjunction with Mrs. Green (Miss Nellie Gordon) and Miss Jennie Green and their full dramatic company, have been specially re-engaged by G. C. Bromhead, Esq., of Goumondt and Co., London and Paris, for their new productions.

AN accident to the fireproof curtain at the Margate Hippodrome on Saturday evening caused momentary alarm, but very little damage was done and no one was injured. As the curtain was being lowered at the close of the first performance there was a terrific crash, and a quantity of bricks and masonry came tumbling down on to the stage. Some of the debris fell into the orchestra, knocking several keys off the piano, and causing the musicians near to beat a hasty and undignified retreat, but Mr. Mellor, the conductor, and other members kept playing on, and but few of those leaving the building knew that anything had happened. It appears that as the metal curtain was being lowered the iron pulley block at the end came down and brought with it a quantity of bricks and masonry. Manager Bawtrey was quickly on the stage. Mr. J. M. Paramor, contractor, happened to be in the house, and with the utmost promptitude—in less than ten minutes—the curtain was made safe and was raised in time for the second house.

PROFESSOR DAVENPORT, who made a brave attempt to swim the Channel last year, is giving daily exhibitions of high diving and ornamental swimming from the Pier at Eastbourne. Professor Davenport has given his sensational diving performances in many parts of the world, and last year brought back to England the championship of South America. He is a young, clever, and ambitious athlete, with any amount of pluck, and as a swimmer and high diver should make a name for himself.

WILL BATEMAN'S and Harry Storkey's annual concert took place at the Battersea Town Hall on Monday under the patronage of the Mayor of Battersea. The long list of artists included vocalists, instrumentalists, comedians, and miscellaneous, amongst the latter being Messrs. Geo. Ellis, in characters from Dickens; Geo. Richmond, farmyard mimic; Alf Montagu, ventriloquist; and W. E. High, the "mad skater."

WE understand that Mr. Robert Forsyth is the managing director of the new syndicate that will take over the Victoria Pier, Folkestone, on the termination of Messrs. Keith Prowse's tenancy. This popular Councillor will also open the New Guildford Gardens at Dover at Whitsuntide, and in addition will run the promenade concerts at Bognor.

"THE ERA" SHILLING FUND FOR THE MUSIC HALL HOME

Mr. Barrasford and Miss Victoria joint in a strenuous appeal for the generosity of the profession in support of The Era Shilling Fund. When, twelve months ago, we brought before our readers the claims of this deserving charity, a very considerable sum of money was collected in separate shillings. That last year's appeal, however, and most of the money obtained by it, are, as Miss Marie Lloyd would say, "a thing of the past, old dear."

Subscribed to date, 754½ shillings.

EALING HIPPODROME.

When Scheherazade, the beautiful and resourceful wife of Shahriyar, enthralled her lord with the fictions of "The Thousand and One Nights," she could have imagined nothing more enticingly romantic than the story of Aladdin; or, the Wonderful Lamp. This week, however, at Ealing the Aladdin presented is a "saucy young scamp," written, invented, and produced by Mr. Dan Thomas, with music by Carl Hamlin, Messrs. Lewis Linton and Walter Drury being responsible for the specially painted scenery. Scheherazade would rub her eyes with astonishment could she see this up-to-date edition of the young "scamp of the Lamp" as created by dainty and shapely Miss Daisy Yates. Her sauciness is bewitching, her songs are tuneful, and her dancing is excellent. The production is particularly bright and exhilarating, the exterior of the Baths being the scene of an immense amount of clever fooling by the two bath attendants; and with the arrival of Widow Twanky (Mr. Dan Thomas) the merriment becomes uproarious, her song, "I want a young man to kiss and cuddle me" instantly catching on. The susceptible "relict" is continually finding a new "mash," and as she assumes a new hat for each conquest her millinery bill at the Pekin "Louise" must be heavy. Mr. Thomas extracts every possible atom of fun from his part, and his turn is a chain of comicalities intersecting the story of the Wonderful Lamp from Market-place to Palace. A well-sung duet for Aladdin and the Princess (Miss Amy Bellwood), "I want no other girl but you," and a quintette, "Run, run, little one run," conclude the second scene, and we are taken, scene the third, to the Cave of the Lamp. Here Aladdin, when entrapped by Abanazar (Mr. Arthur Mordant), is succoured by the Genie of the Ring (Miss Marie Lewis). In scene four, Twanky's garden, the Vizier (Mr. Chas. Dore) amusingly reveals his love for the fair sex in "Girls, girls, girls," and the coy widow warbles sweetly of the "Old homestead." In scene five, the Twanky Laundry, fun and frolic brim over. Abanazar, in his search for the magic lamp, hides himself in the copper, but the fact of it being washing-day makes his choice of a place of concealment an unfortunate one. Pails of water persuade him to leap from his temporary refuge, and, seized with terror at the apparition, the widow asks herself if she has "got 'em again." Here Miss Amy Bellwood trills the pretty song "Snowflakes," and afterwards Aladdin and his frisky mother join in the duet, "Two of whiskey." Scene six is a corridor of the Palace. Here Messrs. Haverley and Homer have their opportunity, and their cross-talk is decidedly funny, their dancing being also full of surprises. Their song, "We are a couple of policemen," brings down the house. With a magic ring nothing is impossible, and so in scene seven we are transported to Brighton beach with troupes of charming nereids. An amusing travesty of the Zancigs is introduced with good effect by the Vizier and the Widow. In scene eight, Pekin Harbour (?), the Vizier, Twanky, and Slip and Slop have a witty quartette of condensed fun, "What! what! what!" Scene nine, and last, Aladdin's Garden Party, brings to a focus the entire company, and a final triumph is achieved in "Starlight," which is given with good effect. The whole production is excellently presented. The ladies of the chorus are handsome, the dresses are exceedingly tasteful, and the whole brims over with mirth. The special engagement of the Four Dandies is a welcome aid to the success achieved.

Early in the evening Mr. Alec Kennedy amuses with his song, "The knights of old they robbed the rich—while we—we rob the poor." Le Franc's Juveniles are clever little vocalists and dancers, and have a gratifying reception. Some thrilling incidents in the wreck of the Berlin are thrown on the screen by the Imperial Bioscope, the films revealing the embarkation of Prince Henry of the Netherlands being remarkably distinct. Mr. E. W. James and his genial lieutenant, Mr. L. Westcott Hicks, must feel proud of the strong programme presented.

THE "FRED LOCKE" MATINEE AT GLASGOW.

The readiness of the profession to lend a helping hand to any friend in need was never better exemplified than in the splendid programme which was arranged for the above matinée at the Royal Princess's, Glasgow, on Friday, the 22nd ult. Mr. Rich. Waldon's popular theatre, specially granted for the occasion, was crammed from floor to ceiling, and every item of a lengthy programme evoked the heartiest enthusiasm. The opening turn, after a spirited overture, was an acrobatic dance by Miss Dollie Bell's Six English Violets, followed by a most amusing knockabout sketch by the Elvio Comedy Trio, consisting of Miss Grace Elvio and Messrs. James Ross and Harry Taylor. This sketch went exceedingly well, and at the conclusion of it Miss Elvio was rewarded with a beautiful bouquet, which she immediately handed to the stage-manager, in order that it might be sold either intact or as buttonholes, and from the rapidity with which it was bought up in the latter shape it must have added a goodly sum to the day's drawings. In quick succession items were contributed by Miss Ethel Campbell (of the Princess's pantomime), who gave a first-rate suffragette song; Miss Ella Retford (principal girl here), in a coon song, and later on with Messrs. Foreman and Fannan, appearing in their smart circus burlesque. Messrs. Austin Lenton and Wal Croft gave a comedy scene from the Mother Goose pantomime; and another excellent turn was the "Menzies' Bus" scene from the same. This is one of the best items in Mr. Waldon's annual, and with the running track alongside the 'bus and the moving panorama behind the effect is most realistic. Lots of fun was introduced, and the passengers on the 'bus included quite a bevy of beauty from the local theatres, and most of the comedians, including Mr. Fred Kitchen, who was unfortunately prevented from taking a more active part in the day's proceedings owing to an injured arm. In the course of the afternoon Mr. Waldon made a telling and pathetic little speech, detailing the sad features of Mr. Fred Locke's illness, and this was followed by a very clever item, a poem written by Mr. Harry McLelland, the versatile Baron in the Princess's pantomime. The lines are an adaptation of Kipling's "Absent-minded Beggar," and the request to "pay, pay, pay" was so well responded to that over £5 was thrown on the stage in the course of a few minutes. Other enjoyable turns were given by Mr. Peter D. Bermingham, Miss Carrie Foy, and Miss Adela Crispin, from the Paisley pantomime; Miss Marie Kendal, who sang "Just like the ivy"; Sisters Hall, the popular duettists of the Princess's pantomime; Freddie Whittaker, the Cat of the Grand pantomime, who, in addition to his clever performance on the stage, used his persuasive powers among the audience to such good effect that he collected nearly £3 for the fund. From the Italian Circus came a clever clown and trained dog turn; the Harmony Four, from the Grand, gave their excellent musical comedy items; Mr. Martin Conway sang a lively ditty, and "walked round" as requested; Mr. W. F. Frame sang a catchy song, and spoke a few words in support of the charitable object of the matinée; and the lengthy programme wound up with a musical mélange, entitled The Blue Pigeons, in which nearly the "whole strength of the company" took part. It is hoped that considerably over £100 will be added to the Fred Locke Fund as a result of the generosity of all concerned. In addition to the many professional and other friends who bought tickets for the performance, the following donations from sympathisers at a distance are acknowledged by Mr. J. G. Crichton, 9, Bridge-street, Glasgow:—

AN ELECTRIFIED FILM.

"The Wonderful Electric Belt" is the title of L. Gaumont and Co.'s latest film. It is, as the proprietors say, "electrified right through, a continuous current of fun (not alternating)." Those very striking advertisements setting forth the marvellous revigorating capacities of electric belts in general and those which act directly on the nervous system through the medium of the vertebra in particular, are familiar to all. One of these ingenious advertisements is the pivot upon which the plot of the story turns. A listless, lackadaisical man gets one of these marvellous "Vigour" contrivances into position across his backbone, and the results are vigorous indeed; so much so that its subtle influence permeates his whole body, and the "power" gets beyond his control—well, the galvanic battery is not in it with the electric belt. A tramp then appropriates the belt, thinking he has got a cop; but the tables are quickly turned, for the belt cops him, for when the energetic motive force becomes greater in the magnetic field than the resistance the tramp gets coped by the "copper," and finally finds himself wound up in a coiled armature and carried off the scene.

Exhibitors on the look-out for something novel and new—and who is not?—cannot do better than get "The Wonderful Electric Belt," which has already proved a magnet in several houses of note.

"THE DEVIL'S SUNDAY."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—In your current number the authoress of The Devil's Sunday challenges my allusion to the duel scene in A Woman's Honour as novel, and refers to the production of her sketch last November wherein a fight with pistols in the dark occurs. It is true I had not the pleasure of seeing A Woman's Honour, but I read your account of it, and would know from that as well as from previous productions that such a situation was not new. I would point out, however, that in A Woman's Honour one of the combatants, to prevent him treacherously firing before the signal is given, is covered by the revolver of a third party, and it was to this circumstance that the episode seemed to me to owe its novelty.

Originality is so precious nowadays that every atom is worthy of recognition.—Yours faithfully,

Feb. 23. YOUR REPRESENTATIVE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Having had my attention drawn to a letter in last Saturday's Era, written by the author of The Devil's Sunday, in which he criticises your report of my sketch, A Woman's Honour, and also says that the duel arrangements in the latter sketch being similar to his can scarcely be a coincidence, I wish to state that at the time of his production at the Metropolitan I was en route for Australia, under contract to Harry Rickards, and did not return to England till last July, when, strange to say, my opening week was at the Metropolitan with my own turn. Perhaps that also was not a coincidence. I must plead guilty of never before hearing of the sketch The Devil's Sunday, but not of plagiarism.—Yours faithfully, BERT DANSON.

Dundee, Feb. 28, '07.

DEATH OF CHARLES BERTRAM.

The lamented Charles Bertram—who died at his residence at Streatham on Thursday—with his amusing gag, "Isn't it wonderful?" was one of the most popular conjurers that ever handled a card. He gave his first public entertainment at the small St. James's Hall just a little under a quarter of a century since, and speedily became a favourite entertainer both at Sandringham and Marlborough House. A very pretty story is related of a special entertainment at the latter royal residence. The King and Queen, then the Prince and Princess of Wales, had invited a few particular friends to dinner, and afterwards Mr. Bertram was ushered into the drawing-room to give a few card tricks. In the course of the "experiments," the Prince, with others, was asked to take a card, and Bertram said to his Royal Highness: "Your card, sir, is the queen of hearts, is it not?" "No," replied the Prince, "the king of spades," at the same time showing it. "Will you allow me to look, sir?" said the apparently puzzled conjurer, coming up to the Prince, who handed him the card. With a rapid pass Bertram produced a portrait of the Princess of Wales (the present Queen), with the remark, "I'm sure, sir, that this lady is the queen of hearts." Everyone was, of course, delighted.

Mr. Bertram was associated with the introduction into England of the disappearing lady trick, invented by M. Buatier de Kolta, and first exploited in Paris under the title of "L'Escamotage d'une personne vivante," and made a considerable reputation, the part of the lady being played by Mlle. Patrice. He had a fund of genial patter, and was a favourite at the halls, fulfilling many successful engagements therein at the West End.

Born at Woolwich in 1853, in his early manhood he "read" for the Nonconformist ministry, but had to relinquish his studies therefor on account of delicate health. His father, a meat contractor, bought for him a wine and spirit business near Long Acre, and here he practised his art before friends, and occasionally gave entertainments of a private nature. How he became a conjurer was often told by him. Travelling on the Continent with a dear old friend, they went one day into a café in Ghent at the invitation of a captain of the Garde Civique, "who insisted upon our taking a bottle of campagne with him. We seated ourselves at a small table, and the champagne was duly brought. The garçon cut the string, up went the cork into the air, and it fell upon the table, whereupon our Belgian friend, taking up the cork, and making pretence to swallow it (and, really, I thought that he had done so), promptly, with a wry face, blew it out from his nose again." Bertram asked for an explanation, practised the trick till he was perfect, added others—and became eminent.

Once Mr. Bertram performed before the Shah (just deceased), who did not care to trust the magician with his large diamond. It was jocularly remarked in a comic contemporary that his Majesty of Persia had conferred upon him the "order of the eel." He had travelled a great deal in the course of his career, making tours in America, India, and Japan, and everywhere winning friends. He was a popular member of the Savage Club, where he will be much missed. He had been only recently married.

The royal children much appreciated Mr. Bertram, and many were the gatherings to which he was commanded. The King always considered that there was a strong resemblance between himself and the deceased, and there were instances of the conjurer being mistaken for Edward VII. Mr. Bertram was fond of telling a story about a lost train and a special. He had to be at Sandringham for a birthday party, and to be there a certain train had to be caught at Liverpool-street. He somehow miscalculated the time, and, arriving at the station, found the train had gone, and the next one would arrive in Norfolk too late for him to give his entertainment at Sandringham. Mr. Bertram knew he must not disappoint, he therefore wired that he was coming on, ordered a special, and succeeded in reaching Sandringham just in time to give the entertainment. The story of the "special" reached the ears of the King, and the fee included the extra expenses Mr. Bertram had incurred. No "palming" of any other conjurer in recent years equalled that of Charles Bertram, and in addition to this marvellous dexterity, his "patter" was of the best. He appreciated India very much, and throughout that vast land his friends were many. The entertaining magician leaves a great gap in the ranks of conjurers to-day, for geniuses in the line are rather rare.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA

SIR,—In reference to your report in The Era of last Saturday of a sketch produced at the Tivoli, Liverpool, by Miss Stella Millar, entitled The Window Cleaner, I should like to make it known that this title is my sole property. I produced a farcical comedy under this title at Barnard's Theatre Royal, Woolwich, during the week of June 5, 1905, and a full report of the same appeared in The Era dated June 17, 1905, in your report for the Royal Albert, Canning Town. I have played it almost continually from the above date, and I am booked at almost every hall of note both in London and country with same. To save proprietors any unnecessary inconvenience, and anyone concerned any further trouble, I should esteem it a favour if you would kindly publish this letter in the columns of your valuable paper.

Thanking you in anticipation.—Yours faithfully,

HENRY CARLTON.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

BY A. A. STRONG, LL.B. (LOND.), SOLICITOR

Your book will, I am sure, be a valuable aid to all managers and actors.—SIR HENRY IRVING.

Mr. Strong states the whole case very clearly.—Illustrated London News.

Should be found very useful.—Pelican.

Should prove perfectly invaluable.—Weekly Sun.

Contains in a handy compass and in a clear style the law relating to theatres and music halls. The book is well up to date.—Law Times.

Furnishes useful information.—Daily News.

The work succeeds in making plain the thorny legal path that every manager and artist must tread, and by a timely consultation of its pages they may avoid much misapprehension and trouble.—Star.

Mr. A. A. Strong has compiled an exceedingly useful volume dealing carefully, intelligently, and fully with the law bearing upon things theatrical. As a book of reference this excellent digest will be found invaluable.—The Era.

MR. JACK WOOLF, manager of the Queen's Theatre, Poplar, asked the magistrate at the Thames Court on Monday for a licence to enable two little girls to perform at the theatre during the ensuing week. Mr. Mead, having questioned the girls' mother, said there ought to be a trustee in such cases with regard to the earnings of the children, for he did not approve of parents having the opportunity of exploiting their children and living on them. He granted the licence on the understanding that something permanent should be done for the children's pecuniary benefit. He was no enemy to such performances, but it was his duty to look after the welfare of the children, and see that the Education Act was not evaded.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not re-booked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follows :—

MANCHESTER, LIVERPOOL, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALAN W. YOUNG.
Empire Theatre, Liverpool.

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING.
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON.
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. W. LEA.
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. WILLIAM COLLINS.
The Empire, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

TRADE MARK TRADE MARK

WE LEAD, OTHERS FOLLOW.

A VISIT FROM A MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Code Word, CHIC.

The young husband determines that as he does not want his mother-in-law to stay with them, he will get rid of her quickly. Bribes the servants, and they each, without seeming to do so, cause her some trouble. Finally, he takes her out in his car and bumps her out. She, in disgust, returns home again, to the intense joy of the husband. A very amusing subject, and some very funny effects.

412ft. The Subject £6 17s. 4d.

The COSMOPOLITAN DANCERS.

Code Word, BURINEUR.

A series of rapid changes in costume and dancing made by two dancers, who exhibit the styles of Jack Tar, Spanish, French, Japanese, Italian, Russian, &c., &c. Beautiful colouring effect.

280ft. The Subject £4 13s. 4d.

Colouring extra, £3.

BOB SLEIGHING.

Code Word, CALOMEL.

This delightful winter sport shown in all its varieties amidst gorgeous scenery. Some terrific speeds are obtained on the sleighs.

346ft. The Subject £5 15s. 4d.

"SKI" COMPETITION.

Code Word, CITADELLE.

More winter sports of Norway. Driving horses on skis, jumping great heights, and obstacle races. Perfect panoramas, and most exciting.

510ft. The Subject £8 10s.

LADIES OF THE WHIP.

Code Word, CARNIVORE.

An excellent comic film, depicting the rivalry between the old-fashioned cabby and the up-to-date lady Jehu. The situations are exceedingly funny, and is a laughter-provoking film from beginning to end.

577ft. The Subject £9 12s. 3d.

A GOOD CIGAR.

Code Word, BYRRH.

A beggar follows a swell to try and get the stump of his cigar. The swell thinks he is a robber and calls the police. The beggar picks up the cigar thrown down through the confusion of the swell. Disgust of the police at not being able to make an arrest. Very amusing.

215ft. The Subject £3 11s. 8d.

TOMMY AT PLAY.

Code Word, CAHIER.

A little boy plays all kinds of practical jokes on unoffending people, and causes shouts of laughter from people in the pictures as well as the audience.

248ft. The Subject £4 2s. 8d.

INDIANS AND COWBOYS OF THE FAR WEST.

Code Word, CIREUR.

Cowboys v. Indians. The capture of horses. Exciting scenes when the Indians steal the horses. A wild chase. The cowboys are saved by the timely intelligence of one of their faithful animals. Charming pictures throughout. Specially recommended.

643ft. The Subject £10 14s. 4d.

CARNIVAL AT NICE, 1907.

Code Word, CALOMNIE.

The most perfect and realistic scenes of the gay fête which has just taken place at Nice. Really brilliant scenes.

595ft. The Subject £9 18s. 4d.

TWO LITTLE SCAMPS.

Code Word, CABOULOT.

A very amusing film, showing the adventures of a little baker's boy and sweep. They ring bells, jump on to motor cars and cabs, pull off the table cloths from a restaurant table, and generally annoy everybody—finally arrested by the police. Absolutely perfect quality.

280ft. The Subject £4 13s. 4d.

THE YAWNER.

Code Word, CABOSSER.

This is ridiculously funny. A poor man has a tendency to yawn on every occasion, and being very infectious, every one who meets him catches the complaint. Very droll.

280ft. The Subject £4 13s. 4d.

POLICEMEN'S RUN.

Code Word, CABANE.

This is quite a novelty in pictures. A powerful bull dog steals a leg of mutton. Pursued by one policeman, the number is increased to several in a very short time. Through streets, over roofs they go. Finally the tables are turned and the dog pursues the police to their station. Intensely funny.

379ft. The Subject £6 6s. 4d.

THE FILM TO ELECTRIFY AND GRIP AN AUDIENCE.
A SUBJECT OF HIGH VOLTAGE.

No. 1584.

At breakfast. Languid and depressed. No inclination for biz. The morning paper. A striking advertisement. "Yes! the very thing." "Warranted to cure all pains in the back." The Wonderful Electric Belt.

The private office of the "Sole Agents." Enquiries. "The Wonderful Electric Belt." How to use it. Initiated into its marvellous powers.

Back from biz. More languid than ever. A surprise. A startling change. The belt on. Quite a shock. Electrified. Pains gone. Remarkable result. Result of electricity. Opposite poles meet. A new man off to biz.

Strange behaviour on the road. Another shock, and still another.

In custody. Surprises for the bobbies. Explanations and release.

Home again. Discarding the treacherous belt. The old signs back again. Enters Willy Walter the tramp; appropriates the coat with The Wonderful Electric Belt. Its effects immediately evident.

The tramp alive. A country lane. Making love to the milliners. Loving an old pal. Stealing a kiss. The copper and the ambulance. A Volting struggle. An end to the mystery. "Old cloes, Old cloes." The end of the coat. The end of The Wonderful Electric Belt.

Length 660ft. Price £13 net.

THE DOLL'S REVENGE.

Two children are sitting down at a tabie playing with cards, which are strewn all round them. Both get very excited as their father brings in a large box and places it on the table. The boy is disappointed to find that it only contains a new doll for his sister. Placing the doll on the top of the box, they w'nd it up and it commences to dance, making the girl delighted and her brother more envious. When his sister has left the room, the boy snatches up the doll, and, sitting down in a corner, endeavours to get at the works. A few moments only elapse and the boy has completely destroyed the doll. As he places the pieces on the floor, he is horribly surprised to see the dolly join up once more and commence dancing. Growing gradually larger, the doll assumes a threatening attitude, and with dismay the mischievous youth sees another figure come upon the scene. The unhappy youth is now seized by the hair, and pulled about in his turn. The dolls, after dragging him up and down on the floor, pull him to pieces and make a sumptuous meal off him.

IF IT HAPPENED, THE WARWICK'S GOT IT.

THE HOOK OF HOLLAND DISASTER.

WRECK OF S.S. "BERLIN."

A superb bit of Photography. Not an inch of padding, and full of thrilling interest all the time. As The Times, of February 27th, truly says:—"Animated Photography is really a kind of Journalism, sometimes good and sometimes bad, and in this case it is very good, because the pictures convey an idea of the scene of the accident in a realistic way which columns of print could never produce." The picture opens with a view of the signal station with the cones hoisted. Then a general panoramic view of the whole scene, showing the mountainous waves rolling along. The beach is covered with snow, with crowds of people searching for wreckage. Next is seen the Dutch Prince Consort going aboard the lifeboat. The lifeboat moves off on her fifth attempt, which proved so successful. Trailing behind is the little boat, in which the marvellous rescue was accomplished. The wreck is next shown with the waves beating her to pieces. The picture concludes with a clear view of the four heroic Dutchmen in their small boat who effected the rescue.

THE GREAT BOXING CONTEST

FOR THE HEAVY-WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP OF ENGLAND, between

GUNNER MOIR (Heavy-weight Champion of England) and TIGER SMITH (Heavy-weight Champion of India)

At the NATIONAL SPORTING CLUB, LONDON, on Monday, Feb. 25th, 1907.

THIS UNIQUE FILM IS NOW READY. ORDERS FILLED IN ROTATION AS RECEIVED.

Every detail of the fierce contest is shown, and, though the match lasted only 2 min. 49 secs., the hitting was fast and furious from first to last.

Smith is seen to take the ropes and the ground no less than eight times, and more vigour and hard work are compressed into this 300 feet of film than is shown in any previous record of 1,000 feet.

The whole forms a nerve-thrilling and most exciting subject, without a slow moment in the display.

Owing to the heavy expenses entailed in the installation of the Powerful Special Electric Light System by which this Great Contest was photographed, with an effect equal to the best daylight exposure, and to the royalties paid for the privileges accorded to us, we are obliged slightly to increase our charges for this superb series only.

A BRILLIANT PICTURE, PERFECTLY PHOTOGRAPHED, EVERY MOVEMENT PLAINLY VISIBLE.

No. 1960. Code "GUNNER." Length 300ft. Price £10.

UNIVERSAL WINTER SPORTS.

A Grand Series, exciting and exhilarating, of Ice and Snow Pictures and Sports taken during the present season.

Our International Winter Sports of three years ago, and our Northern Ice Sports, two years ago, were enthusiastically received wherever shown, and are still popular.

For the convenience of our customers we have re-arranged these famous and favourite series by retaining from each only the most absolutely perfect and beautiful. These, added to the pictures obtained during the present season, now form the best illustrations of Universal Winter Sports ever produced.

The New Series now includes all the most thrilling contests of World Champions in Canada, U.S.A., Norway, Sweden, and Switzerland, and many amateur performances of equal merit and skill.

A SUBLIME, PICTURESQUE, AND ENTHRALLING SUBJECT OF SPLENDID PHOTOGRAPHIC QUALITY.
Descriptive Circulars on application.

No. 1958. Code "UNIVERSAL." Length 840 feet. Price £14.

Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham, S.W. 24th January, 1907

Dear Sir,—I enclose you cheque in payment of your account for cleaning dresses. I may say that I consider it perfectly marvellous that you should take away at 9 30 p.m. sixty-two elaborate Pantomime dresses from Clapham Junction and return them perfectly cleaned by 3 p.m. the following day. I am sending you about 150 dresses next week which will have to be done at lightning speed, feeling perfectly confident that they will be returned at the time promised. You are at liberty to make any use you like of this letter.
Yours very faithfully, ROBERT CROSSMAN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

SYDNEY, JAN. 22.—Revenge is Mr. Bland Holt's latest play at the Theatre Royal, and the lavish display of Austrian uniforms and costumes ranks the production amongst the best of this conscientious manager's stagings. The palace, the prison, the explosion, are all realistic, and heartily applauded. The company is unchanged, each and all fitting into conventional rôles, the comic rôles being entrusted to Mr. and Mrs. Bland Holt; the hero and heroine to Mr. Walter Baker and Miss Frances Ross; villainy is portrayed by Mr. Albert Norman and Miss Harrie Ireland; Miss Jennie Pollock, Messrs. Charles Brown, Arthur Styan, and Max Maxwell have each a strong character, and every member of the company does yeoman service for their popular "chief."

"PARSIFAL," contrary to all predictions as to the chances of a religious epic at Christmas-time, is drawing large houses at Her Majesty's, and when the pantomime, the afternoon attraction, is withdrawn, a series of Parsifal matinées will no doubt result in a rush of staid suburbanites.

"ALICE IN WONDERLAND" will finish its course on Saturday, and it will be remembered as a very fine performance by a large number of exceedingly clever children, every one of them entering into the spirit and essence of the story.

"THE NEW CLOWN" will run to the end of the season, the immense business obviating all necessity for a change of bill.

AT the Palace, the Harry Macdona company is playing Jane and Nan, the Good-for-Nothing, with great acceptance. Miss Ailsa Sherbrooke is clever and sprightly as Nan.

THE Tivoli has George Chanti as its newest attraction, and from his first appearance to the end of his turn the audience was most effusive in expressions of delight and satisfaction. Larry Lewis, Violet Stockelle, Selbo, Hilda Lane, Fred Curran, Cora Casselli, and many others do well, and Mr. Claude Seplastriere, an excellent artist, is applauded for his lightning portraits and sketches.

THE Amphitheatre is now undergoing alterations. "Wonderland City" is increasing in attraction and popularity. Mr. Anderson's latest additions are Mons. and Mme. Cheffalo, Prof. McCormick, and Baker and Kilpatrick's circus.

SPENCER'S Theatroscope company, managed by Mr. J. L. Goodman, is doing good business at the Lyceum Theatre.

QUEEN'S HALL.

A large audience filled Queen's Hall on Saturday afternoon, March 2, when the eighth symphony concert was given. Although on this occasion there was no novelty brough forward, the performance reached the high level Mr. Wood and his splendid orchestra have always maintained. The concert began with the beautiful Prelude from Lohengrin, played with the utmost delicacy and finish. The orchestra followed this by giving a masterly interpretation of Tschaikowsky's "No. 4 Symphony in F minor," a work which the composer dedicated to "My best friend," who was Mme. Nedeshda von Mick, a lady of ample means, who assisted the young artist through the most trying period of his career. In the "No. 4 Symphony" the Russian composer is certainly not at his best, some of the music being too mannered. Still, Mr. Wood is so renowned a conductor of Tschaikowsky's work that the utmost justice was done to the intricate score, the remarkable Scherzo being played with the most consummate skill and dexterity, and rewarded with enthusiastic applause. A special feature of the afternoon was Rubinstein's "Concerto No. 4 in D minor for Pianoforte and Orchestra," with Mme. Teresa Carreño as the pianist. Needless to say, this was a brilliant performance, and Mme. Carreño's playing a perfect triumph of technical art. The audience, after recalling the talented pianist four times, insisted on a solo for encore. The concluding item in the programme was Lalo's refined "Norwegian Rhapsody," most delicately played by the fine orchestra, which included among its instruments the auxetophone double bass, kindly lent by the inventor, the Hon. C. A. Parsons.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The College chamber concert of Friday evening, March 1, began with Schumann's "Quartet for Strings in A minor, op. 41, No. 1," which was neatly executed by Miss Esther Capel-Cure, Miss Marjorie Beer, Mr. Herbert Kinze, and Miss Beatrice Jones, the most skilfully played being the third and the lively fourth movement. A welcome feature of the concert was the duet from Verdi's Trovatore "Ai nostri monti," known in the English version as "Home to our mountains." It was capitally sung by Miss Dorothy Martin and that promising young vocalist, Mr. Merlin Davies. There are many other examples from the chief operas that might with advantage be sung at the concerts of our principal music schools, in view of the great interest taken in all matters operatic, and the noble hall of the Royal College affords a good opportunity for a young artist to test his powers. The concert platform is sadly overcrowded, but sooner or later there will be a demand for good English operatic vocalists. The harp as a solo instrument has of late been much neglected, therefore Miss Edith Scruby's really brilliant performance of Saint-Saëns's "Fantasia in A minor" formed a pleasing feature in the concert. The young lady was unfortunate in the breaking of a string shortly after beginning her solo, but nothing disconcerted, she finished her performance amidst great applause. Miss Minnie Arnold, the possessor of a fine and well-trained voice, sang C. Debussy's Recit. and Air, "Air de Lia," with good effect; and Theodora Hunter and Miss Winifred Gardiner secured a satisfactory performance of the "Sonata for Violin and Piano in A," by César Franck, the violinist in particular producing a pure, rich tone. In E. Elgar's "Queen Mary's Song" and "Shepherd's Song," Miss Jessie Hill was heard to advantage, and the programme concluded with a careful performance of Brahms's "Quartet for Piano and Strings in G minor," the players being Miss Ellen Edwards, Mr. Arthur Beckwith, Mr. Herbert Kinze, and Mr. Charles Warwick-Evans. Miss Alice Cotton and Miss Ellen Tuckfield were the accompanists.

THE season of the German Theatre in London, which begins on April 5 at the Great Queen-street Theatre, will last only for three weeks. A varied répertoire will, nevertheless, be given, starting with a four-act play by Rudolf Herzog, entitled Die Condottieri, represented by the members of the famous Royal Court Theatre of Munich, including Herrn Albert Heine and August Weigert, Fräulein von Hagen, and Fräulein Rabitow, &c. Director Hans Andresen has also engaged Karl William Büller and Frau Bardou-Müller in the Biberpelz and the merry farce Die von Hochsattel, and there will also be two performances of Grillparzer's Ahnfrau.

THE Charles Santley Jubilee Concert, which is being organised by Earl Kilmorey, is making excellent progress. The date fixed is May 1, at 3 p.m., which is the only convenient opportunity afforded by reason of the engagements already made by the management of the Albert Hall. At the suggestion of the Duke of Norfolk, chairman of the General Committee—who has headed the list with a generous contribution—a testimonial fund has been opened, to which donations are invited, payable to the hon. treasurer, Sir Douglas Straight, at the Royal Albert Hall.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN. — His Majesty's Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—Beauty and the Barge is enjoyed this week by large houses. The part of Captain Barley is played most delightfully by Mr. Blake Adams, and Miss Dido Drake makes a charming Ethel. Messrs. Edward Coventry, Walter Pemberton, and Charles N. White appear most successfully as the Lieutenant, the Major, and John Dibbs. The piece was splendidly staged. It is preceded by the comedietta, Jerry and a Sunbeam, in which the characters are cleverly represented by Mr. Pennington Lush and Miss Mary Pemberton.

Palace Theatre.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—Miss May Henderson, the "dusky comedy queen," heads the bill this week; her turn is delightfully piquant. The Tally Ho trio are as warmly welcomed as ever, and Johnson and De Vere give a sensational and original cycle track and light rope act; Mr. W. J. Ashcroft is enthusiastically received; and among the other successful artists are Mr. Bert Wanson, a quaintly humorous comedian; Mons. Slippere, a wonderfully clever blind novelty pianist and baritone singer; the Zednas Trio, comediennes and graceful dancers; Miss Blanche Marion, an excellent coon comedienne and buck dancer; Little Pete, a good patter comedian; and the Poole Pelhams, who are skilful acrobats and expert dancers.

ABERTILLERY.—Theatre Metropole.—Lessees, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Geo. W. Ventom.—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tomlinson's company are here this week with Secrets, and are attracting large audiences. Mr. Wilson Summers gives a manly and vigorous portrayal of Lieut. Herbert Markham; Nouredin Ali is well played by Mr. Wilton Richards; Mr. Reggie Brown as the Hon. Cecil Cholmondeley is diverting; Mr. John E. Tomlinson and Miss Lizzie Palmer as Ibrahim Al Murad and Ismalia are admirable, and Zuleika is well played by Miss Nellie Navarro. The dancing of the Tivoli Quartette is entrancing. The setting and dresses are excellent.

ACCRINGTON.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—On Monday Messrs. Hallet and Howard's company opened here in Her Love Against the World. Mr. Walter Howard plays the part of Eric, the Earl of Strathmere, with an earnestness and bearing that deserves great credit; Mr. Mayor Cook presented an admirable picture of the scheming villain, Elric, Prince of Ravensburg; the part of Prince Athmar, played by Mr. W. H. Hallet, was a distinct triumph; Mr. H. B. Lewis gives a very amusing impersonation of Heinrick Pimpernickle, and is ably seconded by Mr. R. Webb as Fritz. Mr. Sam Arthur must be complimented for his excellent performance as Prince Maurice; Sergent Kasper is a good character-sketch by Mr. Arthur J. Moss; Miss Ellen Snow as Princess Idalia showed her dramatic powers of sympathy and pathos; Miss Rossie St. John presented a carefully-studied part in Nello; Miss Blanch Stiel is very good as Shulah; Misses L. Lennon and Hettie Ferguson as Katinka and Gretchen were very good.

Hippodrome. — Proprietors, Messrs. Willmot, Potter, Dandy, and Weisker.—The Matweef Hugoston troupe is a particularly clever turn; Fields and Lewis must be complimented for their comedy vocal act, and Mlle. Pollo gives a clever and daring performance; the Sisters Melba are charming duettists; and other contributors to the programme are Lottie De Abbey, Harry Luck, T. E. Johnson, Emma Don, and the Bioscope.

ALDERSHOT.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. E. Williams.—Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's talented company, in The Midnight Wedding, is here this week. Mr. Alf. Paumier finds ample scope for his admirable elocutionary powers, and a commanding personality aids the impersonation; and Miss Annie Saker is responsible for a charming and talented portrayal of Astrea. The rôle of Captain Rudolph is ably played by Mr. Ernest Imeson; and he has a good help-mate in villainy in Mr. Edward Fletcher as Eugene. Mr. F. W. Freeman is a vigorous Prince Leopold; Mr. W. S. Hardy as Father Gerrard does well. The humorous side of the play is well sustained by Messrs. J. E. Page, Vernon Vane, and Algie Spalding, and they, with Miss Ada Champion (Kathie), cause much amusement.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—This week a return visit is being paid here by Mr. Wm. Greet's company with the popular musical comedy, The Earl and the Girl. As Jim Cheese, the cockney dog-trainer, Mr. Alfred Donohoe, while giving free rein to his comic powers, is careful not to vulgarise the part. Mr. Thos. Kennard as Dick Wargrave sings several ditties pleasantly; Elphin Haye is impersonated with vivacity by Miss Gertrude Simpson; there are a number of other characters which stand out prominently, notably the Hon. Crewe Boodle, admirably sustained by Mr. Leslie Owen, Bunker Bliss by Mr. Greville Hayes, Downham by Mr. Ernest A. Plumpton, Mr. Talk by Mr. Sam Lyson, Mr. Hazell by Mr. Tom Stephens, Mr. Dudley Cranbourne by Mr. Bernard Leslie, and others, who give telling impersonations of their respective characters. Liza Shoddam, the cockney sweetheart of Jim Cheese, is cleverly hit off by Miss Lina Hicks; Miss Ida Stratham is a fascinating Daisy Fallowfield, Miss Winnie Plumpton an amiable Virginia Bliss, and Miss Kathleen Gerrard a capable Mrs. Shimmering Black.

Empire Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—This week we have performances of an astounding character by the Tan-Kevais, real Chinese from Manchuria, who cause immense wonder with their magic business, juggling, and spinning feats, and clever acrobatic work; Yorkshire Tom is a good mimic; Bessie Travis, musical ventriloquist, is excellent; Toney Iveson is an interesting pianoplaying ragman. It is difficult to introduce anything in cycling of a novel character, but the Woodwards undoubtedly take a first place as expert wheelmen; Huline and Le May are comical musical clowns; Henry Hallam and Josephine Stanton give a capital musical comedy sketch; the Fimans introduce some good "business" into their comedy scene, The Fire Station; Clare Chadwick's Ladies' Quartette are singers who produce in combination some sweet harmony; the Four Jumels also score in a musical act. The pictures are still an attraction.

ATTERCLIFFE.—Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. T. Edward Owen.—The Seven Savonas are retained here for a second week as the premier attraction, and render in excellent taste the trying overture from Tannhäuser. By way of contrast, they introduce a lively musical scena, embellished with beautiful limelight and electrical effects, entitled Down South, in which negro melodies and plantation dances are quaintly rendered. Charlton provides an excellent conjuring turn, in which dexterity and novelty are well blended; Miss Lily Vane is much appreciated as a burlesque artist; Mr. George Gulliver is a most amusing and enjoyable ventriloquist; Mr. Arthur Boyne is a mirth-provoking comedian; hearty applause is accorded to the Two Wiltons, duettists and dancers; and the programme is completed by Mr. Clayton's Attergraph pictures.

BARNSTAPLE.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Bridge Trustees; Manager, Mr. Harry Ashton.—Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and George Robertson's company presented Charley's Aunt here on two evenings this week. Mr. Tom Macfarlane undertook the part of the "aunt" with delightful effect, keeping the audience in continual good humour. Messrs. Basil Lynn and J. E. Stephenson thoroughly exemplified the irresponsible and light-hearted undergraduates; Mr. Percy Tyler made much of the pompous old lawyer Stephen Spettigue; and Mr. McCausland Stewart sustained with dignity the part of the Colonel. Miss Grace Baring charmingly depicted the rich old aunt, and other parts were well represented by the Misses Sybil Grieg, Dorothy Barrington, and Norah Johns.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS. — Royalty Theatre and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson and Harris Fineberg's company in The Traitor is here. Prince Rudolph has an able exponent in Mr. Bentley Evans and Mr. Stephen E. Scanlon in the title-rôle plays with distinction; Miss Isabel Hunt is a clever Lieutenant Nicholas, and the difficult part of Lulu the Avenger is capitally taken by Miss Effie Bartlett, while Miss Gwynne Warren makes an irresistible Countess Zicka.

His Majesty's Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Miss Frances Delavel and company appeared here for three nights in Her Lost Self. Miss Delavel herself as Phillipine was most successful, and Mr. Cecil Gray as Wilfred Daventry displayed excellent abilities. Mr. G. Osmond Tearle as Paul Kimberley and Miss Clare Sullivan as Dorothy were both good, while much humour was contributed by Mr. Horace Buckley as Tom Flyaway and Miss Nell Ingram as Bridget Mahone. Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge, the esteemed and enterprising lessees, took their annual benefit on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Tivoli Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage Manager, Mr. Tom Whiting.—J. Collinson's company gives an exceedingly funny comedy sketch, The Topsy-Turvy School, and Harry Leybourne is an up-to-date comedian; Miss Frances Drew is an agreeable burlesque actress; Clara Magda, a graceful gymnast; and Geo. Reeves an amusing comedian; Ada and Edward, in a musical act, and Conan and Doyle, comedians, complete the cast.

BATH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—After an all too long interval Mr. and Mrs. Kendal commenced on Monday a special three-day engagement with The Elder Miss Blossom. Mrs. Kendal as Miss Dorothy Blossom has rarely given us anything in the way of character more exquisitely finished or more perfectly conceived. Mr. Kendal as Andrew Quick played admirably. Miss Jessica Thorne showed undoubted histrionic talents as Sophia Blossom, the clerical lover the Rev. Arthur Leacroft being well enacted by Mr. C. W. Standing. The two authors of the piece, Mr. Ernest Hendrie and Mr. Metcalfe Wood, were excellent in their respective impersonations of Christopher Blossom and Withers. Mr. Bassett Roe made much of his few chances as Major Twentyman. Mr. R. Burnett and Mr. W. M. Rutherford apeared as Tyrel Jones and Wells. Capital support was given by Mrs. A. B. Tapping and Miss Kate Bishop as Cooper and Mrs. Wells. On Tuesday The Ironmaster was staged.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—Nat Clifford, the nimble one, is once again exerting hnmself as an accentric dancer; the Lombart Brothers distinguish themselves as clever athletes; R. A. Speedwell, in his speciality, "Art in a Hurry," is wonderfully smart; Gicardo, boy juggler, can give points to many of his seniors; the Three Clarions, in their absurdity "The Would-be Tenor," are responsible for some good dancing and amusing banter; the Three Gregsons, in their knockabout act, "The Dummy," are on a return visit; Ethel Yorke, comedienne, sings a couple of songs aceptably; and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux are as entertaining as ever.

BATLEY.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Whitty; Manager, Mr. Alfred Taylor.—Mr. Charles March gives a sound, powerful, and telling reading of the character of Paul Baldot in The Gamester of Metz. He is ably supported by Messrs. Paul Teulon, Wilfrid Prothero, J. W. Millar, P. Wentworth, W. A. Brayne, and Misses Eva Lyndhurst, Zana St. George, and Una Lane. The play is well staged.

BEDFORD.—Royal County Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—Miss Florence Glossop-Harris, supported by Mr. Frank Cellier, jun., and company, are occupying the boards here this week. The opening piece was Romeo and Juliet, in which Mr. Cellier was eminently successful as Romeo. Miss Glossop-Harris won all hearts by her charming portrait of Juliet; Miss Kate Turner as the nurse was excellent; Miss Irene Woodford and Miss Muriel Curry as Lady Montague and Lady Capulet respectively helped considerably towards the success of the piece. Mr. Percy H. Vernon was a capital Mercutio; Mr. Edward Landor played with verve the part of Capulet, and Mr. A. Cotton-Holmes' Tybalt showed evidence of careful study; Friar Laurence found a capable exponent in Mr. David Santley, Mr. Stanley Roberts was good as Benvolio, and Mr. Herbert Halford caused some fun as Peter. During the week Much Ado About Nothing, Carmen, and Camille have drawn fairly good houses.

Corn Exchange.—On Wednesday the Zancigs gave two extraordinary performances of mind-telepathy at this hall. They had the assistance of several well-known London artists.

BELFAST.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—Mr. George Edwardes' company produced, on Monday, for the first time in Belfast, the merry musical comedy, The New Aladdin, which had a hearty reception. Chief honours are conferred on that charming actress, Miss Ida Kene, who is a most vivacious Princess, singing her songs with every possible success; another feature of the performance is the impersonation of Tippin, the page-boy, by Mr. George Gregory, whose rich humour was irresistible and his various songs warmly encored; as the romantic Sally, Miss Cressie Leonard is also entitled to high praise, her graceful impersonation winning all hearts; as the Genie of the Lamp, Mr. Fred Leslie, jun., could not be excelled; and Miss Jessie Lonnen is a most delightful Charm of Paris, her dancing being superb; Miss Irene Verona is unequalled as the Spirit of the Ring, her song "Back to the Strand," affording much pleasure; as the Lost Constable, Mr. John Brabourne adds much to the enjoyment of the audience by his droll portrayal; and we have nothing but praise for Miss Mary Fraser, whose impersonation of the Scotch Lassie was remarkably clever. Mr. Ernest Mahar appears as General Ratz, and his rendering of French songs is keenly appreciated; Miss Nellie Lonnen as the Dancing Girl, furnishes an admirable exhibition of the art. The chorus and augmented orchestra are under the direction of Mr. Ernest Vousden, and the piece is mounted and dressed in exquisite taste and lavish style.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—Madame Alice Esty heads the bill, and this famous prima donna delights large audiences with her cultured vocalism, her songs being encored; the feats of the Three Romas, the gladiator marvels, are astounding; Miss Rose Hamilton is a charming comedienne, with good songs; and a big hit has been made by Mr. Herbert Lloyd, whose novel comedy act creates roars of laughter; Miss Ethel Walker, society entertainer at the piano, commands the success she deserves; and the Westwoods are decidedly clever comedy and expert cyclists; Mr. Fred Harrison, comedian, and the Palace pictures complete.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—General Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John S. Walker.—Mr. Fred Karno's sketch Moses and Son is the leading attraction this week, and the phenomenal success achieved is largely due to the impersonation of Perkins by that clever comedian, Mr. Fred Kitchen; other rôles in the sketch have been capitally portrayed. Mr. Ed. E. Ford, a clever Australian, furnishes some remarkably realistic imitations, and made a big hit on Monday; Burns and Burns appear to great advantage in their amusing speciality, Fun in a Museum; Mr. Ryder Slone is an exceedingly clever actor-vocalist; and the Bros. Corcoran delight all with their novel musical act; Boy Glenn, the versatile story-teller, completes the programme.

New Alhambra Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Sinclair-Neill.—The Alhambra Dramatic company, under the direction of Mr. M. Montgomery, produced this week the sensational drama, The Price of Sin, by E. Hill-Mitchelson. Mr. Horace Denton achieved distinction by the excellence of his acting as Lieut. Cecil Roy; and the rôle of the heroine, Nancy Crawford, was admirably played by Miss Nina Blake-Adams; Mr. Cyril Grier upholds his reputation by his finished impersonation of Jack, the welsher; Miss Roma Tremayne acted with rare judgment as the adventuress, Kate Crelyn, her portrayal being worthy of much praise; the iniquities of Frank Foster were realistically portrayed by Mr. Em. Heanley. The humour of the piece was in the safe hands of Mr. Tom H. Solly, who was very funny as the Rev. James Small, being ably assisted by Miss Mattie Crawford, as Charlotte King; Mr. Elmore Frith is entitled to much commendation for his faithful interpretation of Major Crawford, and Mr. Balfour Deninstoun is an admirable Jake Foster; Mr. Ed. Smythe's impersonation of Jim Trotter completes the cast. Mr. Tom H. Solly is responsible for the admirable stage management. The Alhambra Bioscope, under the direction of Mr. W. E. Newlove, exhibits some interesting films.

BILSTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Battersby; Musical-Director, Mr. J. E. Machin.—Mr. J. A. Campbell is successfully presenting The Little Breadwinner here. In the company are Mr. Matthew Boulton and Miss Mary Fulton, as the hero and heroine, both excellent. Little Emmie Thomas as Meg of the title-rôle is very popular. Exceptional merit attaches to Mr. Eugene Santley in the part of Lord William Dorrington; Mr. Alfred Maurice as Joseph Prior undertakes the heavy lead well; and both Mr. Stanley Leedham (Charles Prior) and Miss Jenny Bostock (Bridget O'Flannaghan) are well placed.

BIRKENHEAD.—New Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Pell.—Mr. E. Lockwood, Mr. R. Crossman, and Mr. P. M. Foster's company are on a welcome return visit with the musical comedy Sergeant Brue. Mr. E. Russell's assumption of the title-rôle is in all respects excellent, all the points of the character receiving full justice, and he is admirably supported by Mr. Charles McLagan, who, as Crookie Scrubbs, is irresistibly funny. Mr. Arthur Stroud exhibits exceptional vocal ability as Gerald Treherne, and makes the most of his opportunities, and Aurora is daintily played by Miss Ella Daincourt. Miss Edith Housley gives a splendid rendering of Lady Bickenhall; Mr. Crank is well played by Mr. Harry Chichester. Mr. Tom Shelford is a good Michael Brue, and Miss Constance Berkeley scores as Daisy. Other parts are suitably represented, and the chorus is most efficient. Mr. Leonard Gautier is the musical director.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Mr. Bransby Williams in his widely known and appreciated representation of Dickensian and other characters is the premier turn here and achieves his usual distinction; Mr. Arthur Lennard, the popular actor-vocalist, is also a leading attraction; and prominent in a capital programme are Mr. Fred Earle, an excellent comedian; Mr. Tom E. Finglass, coon vocalist and dancer; Clive and Clark, black and white artists; Bennett and Martell, entertaining comedians; Miss Lizzie Fletcher, comedienne; Miss Maidie Scott, vocalist; Recco, burlesque acrobat; and Brown's Royal Bioscope. The able orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Ernest Denny.

BIRMINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The second edition of The Queen of Hearts is even more successful than the first, and that is saying much. The utmost delight attends the restoration of the harlequinade, in which Mr. George Robey disports as clown, and certainly one of the gems of the pantomime is Mr. Edward Lewis's John Peel, which he works with ludicrous effect, and to innumerable encores. Mr. Lewis's share in the success of the production has been immense. The other new features have already been enumerated, and it remains but to say that The Queen of Hearts ends its triumphant reign on Saturday next. Mr. Phlip Rodway takes his annual benefit on Monday. Mr. Robey's bespeak is fixed for Friday.

Prince of Wales's Theatre. — Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—The Freedom of Suzanne has derived much interest and patronage this visit from the presence in its company of Miss Mabel Love, whose assumption of the titular rôle reveals a capacity for pathos which, with her natural grace and animation, keeps the house delighted. Mr. Templer Powell supports with his finished and well-restrained portrayal of Suzanne's husband, and the other parts are ably sustained by Mr. Chas. Marsden as the uncle, and Messrs. J. H. Batson, Townsend Whitling, and Richard Neville as the three admirers, are all uniformly good. The ladies include clever and graceful studies by Miss Violet Ley as Lady Mabel, Miss Dorothy Lart as Mrs. Tustail, Miss Florence Harwood as Miss Minching, and Miss Annie Stalman as Lady Charlotte. Her Dearest Friend is played first, and introduces Miss Violet Ley as Molly, Miss Annie Stalman as Ursula, and Mr. P. J. Quill as Robert.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood.—Cinderella continues its triumphs without ceasing, the run of this popular pantomime being assured up till Easter. Last week the Rocket Club paid its annual visit, and besides joining vivaciously in the choruses, made handsome presents to Mr. Collingwood and to the artists and attendants. Mr. Collingwood's anniversary takes place on Tuesday.

Metropole Theatre. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—Driven from Home exercises all its old fascination, as played here this week by the Metropole Company. Miss Rose Ralph elicits tears and sympathy with her touching portrayal of Laura Raybrooke; Mr. Percy Dawsone scores as the husband, Walter Hatherleigh; Mr. Austen Milroy rouses the audience considerably with his clever powers of dissimilation as Geoffrey Waring; Mr. Andrew Emm (Melville) in the serious rôle of the outcast, Willie, proves that he can move an audience to tears as well as laughter; Mr. Fred A. Marston is well placed as the unnatural parent, Anthony Raybrooke; Mr. Albert E. Mann as John Anderson infuses acceptable comedy, and is well seconded by Miss Amy Corelli as Margaret; Miss Jessie Yatman is deserving of every praise as Walter Hatherleigh, the younger; and Messrs. Edward Finlay, Francis Everard, Horace Moseley, and the Misses Bella Power, Edith Leslie, Amy Williams, and others act meritoriously.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—£1000 Reward is drawing full and enthusiastic audiences here, with Messrs. Pitt and Halling's company. Mr. Fred Wilberforce elicits unmistakable signs of displeasure with the thoroughness of his acting as the villain, Gilbert Lisle; Mr. J. Newton Cowling acts the rôle of Fred Inglefood to the utmost advantage; Mr. F. J. Pitt deserves commendation as the son; Mr. Chas. Halling interests the audience vastly as Vincent Rainsworth; Mr. Geo. Scully affords an agreeable diversion as Dick Springthorpe; Mr. Arthur Merton gives a taking portrayal of Fighting Jepps; Mr. Frank Dallas is in high favour as Inspector Gilbert; Miss Lynn Darlington secures sympathy as Meg, the flower girl; Miss Crissie Frances supports humorously as Kitty Springthrope; Mrs. Sidney Halling is meritorious as Mrs. McCarthy; and Miss Daisy Halling acquits herself of the rôle of Madam Sanson in the most satisfactory manner.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—The Female Swindler is prospering here, Mr. Tom H. Taylor's company playing to a full house nightly. Miss Grace E. Leslie's portrayal of the central rôle again holds the audience in thrall, her clever resource and artifice being more than ever admired; Miss Florrie Thelsey is applauded for her graceful acting as May Andrews; Mr. Stanley Radcliffe is powerful and incisive as Geoffrey Warden; Mr. Guy P. Ellis gives manly expression to the rôle of Harold Travers; Mr. Joseph Millane as John Coulson is hailed with the utmost satisfaction; Mr. John Belton vouchsafes an absorbing representation of Abraham Mikestein; Mr. Henry Wright in a quadruple rôle displays an infinity of resource and humour; and Miss Mary Dawson assists in the fun as Mary Ann Mee.

Empire Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—Mark Sheridan heads the bill, and is accorded well-merited applause. Miss Florence St. John in her smart sketch Quits proves one of the hits of the programme; the Kellinos are wonderful risleyists, and their act, "Venetia," is very interesting; Clarence C. Corrie's company presents the pleasing musical episode Heartstrings, a feature of which is the talented violin-playing of Miss Gladys Hooley; Manning's Entertainers are comedy artists of the whirlwind type, who give a new edition of The Hotel Boots; and Gracie Moore is a soprano vocalist of much ability; Paulmetta and Piquo, comedy gymnasts; J. W. Mayers, comedian; Alfred Grady, comedian and dancer; and Da Silva, in choruses, complete the programme.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Pantomime occupies the boards at the Hippodrome this week, Mr. John Tiller's Christmas extravaganza Dick Whittington and his Cat being presented. There are seven scenes, the songs are numerous and tuneful, and the chorus is an exceptionally strong one. The artists include Miss Jessie Templeton as Dick, Miss Nellie Rodney as Alice, and Mr. Lytton as Idle Jack. Several other interesting items are provided. Earle and Melville give a clever dialogue and dancing turn; William Gourlay gives an entertaining act entitled The Return of Hamlet; and Katie Marsh proves herself a charming vocalist and dancer.

Bordesley Palace. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—Mr. John Lawson, of Humanity fame, fills the premier position this week with his company in The King's Minister. In the part of the Prime Minister of England Mr. Lawson acquits himself in a highly satisfactory manner, and the remainder of the company perform equally well; Peggy Pryde captivates with her latest and most pleasing songs; the Karno Four are very amusing in a comic pantomime; and Cole and Rags are expert comedy jugglers; Belrose and De Velin are excellent vocalists; and Bert Harrow is a funny comedian.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — Eden Theatre. — Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. Addison; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. J. Huntley.—Miss Maud Hildyard is paying a farewell visit prior to her Australian tour with The Great Awakening. Miss Maud Hildyard cleverly portrays the rôle of Lola Selby; and Guy Rogan, her accomplice, is well played by Mr. Stephen Langton; Mr. Frank Liston gives a manly rendering of Jack Merton, and Mr. A. C. Hardie does exceedingly well in his impersonation of the escaped convict; Captain Lambert is capably upheld by Mr. Gordon McLeod, and Mr. J. H. Booth is well placed as Richard Wilson. A winsome Molly Merton is seen in Miss Doris Digby. Comedy is supplied by Mr. Willie Scott as Billy Brass and Miss Lilla Nordon as Selina Worts.

BLACKBURN. — Theatre Royal.— Proprietor, Mr. Harry Yorke; Manager, Mr. Reginald C. Yorke.—The Fatal Wedding is always a strong attraction in Blackburn, and Mr. Bert Coote's company is appearing here this week before crowded houses. The cast is a good one, the children's parts being especially well filled, and Miss Marie Wilson is charming as Jessie, the little Mother; Miss Leah Marlborough acts forcefully as Cora Williams; while as Mabel Wilson Miss Katherine Clarke is all that can be desired; Mr. Ernest Outtrim plays Howard Wilson excellently, and Mr. Guy Hastings as Robert Curtis is good; Mr. Cyril Melton in the part of Peter Schwartz does some capital work, and the humorous parts of Toto and Bridget are filled by Mr. C. H. Hughes and Miss Julie Temple to perfection.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. E. A. Page.—Mr. Augustine Knight and company are presenting The Assassin here to good audiences. Mr. Knight appears with much effect as Prince Demetri and is well supported by Miss Ella Vane as the Countess Wanda; Miss Frances Waring acts well in the part of Nita, and Miss Ada Douglas is good in the part of Nardine Farina. Mr. Edward E. Ashley makes a dignified Ipanoff.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will Murray.—The Olympiers, who present representations in bronze of classical sculpture, are the "star" turn here, and other artists are Kitty Ferguson, vocalist; the Maitland Comedy Trio; Percy Hannan, baritone vocalist; the Bensons, musical comedy artists; Mlle. Sylvesto, contortionist; Lillian Warren, in illustrated songs; and the mysterious Lilith.

BLYTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—Messrs. Levy and Cardwell's juvenile pantomime company have presented their pretty pantomime, The Sleeping Beauty. In the title-rôle Miss Dolly Dodds gave a charming portrayal; and Prince Florizel found a capable exponent in Miss Kitty Trewhitt. The Sir Alfonso of Miss Mona Townshend was well received; the appearance of the Bros. Armstrong as the Queen and Asbestos was the signal for much fun. The singing and dances introduced were much enjoyed by the large audiences who have witnessed the production. Wee George Wood, the boy comedian, gave a praiseworthy performance.

BOLTON.—Theatre Royal, Ltd. — Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Melvin.—This week we have a visit from Carpenter and Cooper's company in the sensational play The Spider and the Fly. Mr. Benson North as Cyril Girdlestone and Miss Nina Vaughton as Edith McAllister, the hero and heroine, obtain the full sympathy of the audiences in their trials and troubles, and Mr. Arthur H. Hill is applauded for his rendering of the part of David Strong; Mr. H. C. Lanceley plays well the rôle of the village pastor; Miss Lucy Murray is a typical Irish girl, Molly Blake; Mr. Ellis J. Preston as Welby Girdlestone and Miss Amy Venimore as Stella Grey, "the Spider," meet with howls of execration from the audience at each appearance.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—Excellent turns are given by Miss Rosina Caselli, who meets with a great reception on presenting her clever performance with a midget troupe of Mexican dogs; Mr. Van Allen, "the tramp musician"; the Silver Tone Quartette of melodious vocalists and cake-walk dancers; Jack Pleasant, comedian (with a style of his own); Vanola, Mexican antipodiste; Cullen and Carthy, along with Little Cluley, eccentric comedians, in a screaming comedy act; the Vyponds (Fred and Maud) society entertainers; the Lovelaces, in illustrated song; the Zelovas, acrobatic equilibrists; Miss Edith Marion, contralto vocalist; Wallie Croker, mimic and siffleur, and the Imperial Bioscope.

BOSCOMBE. — Hippodrome.—Joint-Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Ball.—Capt. Max Gruber's elephant, horse, and pony are put through many tricks which do great credit to their trainer; Geoffreys and Benson are amusing in a well acted duologue, entitled Spoofed; Mlle. Rénee presents a refined instrumental act; Maud Desmond is pleasing with her pictorial songs; the Three Ettenas are clever in their globe speciality act; as a male impersonator Winifred Ward at once commands applause; and Frank Seely is humorous in his two songs. The Hippodrome pictures, as usual, conclude the bill.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Proprietors, Messrs. David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Rowland Stewart.—Mr. Eugene C. Stafford's talented company in The Private Secretary occupies the theatre this week, and despite many previous visits this farcical comedy attracts as well as ever. The name part is in the safe keeping of Mr. Donald Price-Evans, and Mr. W. Hargreaves as Mr. Cattermole is really excellent, while strong support comes from Mr. W. T. Elworthy, Mr. J. P. E. Hussey, Mr. V. Gilbert, Mrs. Alfred Davis, Miss Cecily Wade, Miss Beth Elliott, and Miss Dorothy Shawe.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—Mr. Barrie's delightful fairy play Peter Pan, which has entered on its second week here, has aroused great interest. Miss Zena Dare in the title-rôle, Miss Ella Q. May as Wendy, Mr. Lionel Mackinder as the Pirate, Mr. Anson and Mr. Stratton Mills as two of his band, Mr. George Lupino as Nana, and the other members of Mr. Charles Frohman's excellent company, are the recipients of hearty marks of appreciation for their admirable acting.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—The run of Mr. Laidler's highly-successful pantomime Cinderella draws to a close with the present week. On last Monday night Miss Alice Williams, the charming exponent of the title-rôle, had a crowded audience for her benefit. She was the recipient of many lovely floral tributes and many presentations; amongst the latter were a silver-framed mirror from Miss Florrie Forde, the principal boy; a hand-bag with silver fittings, presented by Mr. Harry Martell from a few admirers, together with a floral slipper, gold bracelet, and silver dressing table from members of the company and friends in front. To Miss Forde Miss Williams presented a balloon and cage of flowers, together with a gold locket; and Mr. Laidler publicly thanked Miss Williams for her individual efforts in adding so greatly to the success of the pantomime. Extra turns were contributed during the evening's performance by the Coloured Meisters from the Empire Theatre; Messrs. John Macaulay and Thornbury, from the Palace Theatre; and by Miss Forde. Miss Flo Florence, Miss Nicholson, Miss Cissie Williams, Mr. Jo Monkhouse, Mr. Leslie Barker, Mr. Douglas Campbell, Mr. L. F. Sumner, Mr. H. T. Butler, and the the fair bénéficiaire.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—The Boy Army, trained by Mr. Ginnett, in a military tournament and a series of musical rides, arouses considerable enthusiasm here this week, the youngsters displaying exceptional smartness and precision. The other members of this week's company who contribute to an admirable programme are Princess Pauline, comedienne; Jimmy Shields, one-legged eccentric dancer; Bijou Russell, a clever sand dancer; Cliff Ryland, an entertaining story-teller and comedian; the Coloured Meisters, a quartette of vocalists; Charles Fraser and company, in a capital sketch, Enchanted Iona; Master Clifford (son of Cliff Ryland), comedian and dancer; Ethel Donna, a graceful comedienne and dancer; and Chris Richards, comedian.

Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. H. Foster.—The Ten Ji Troupe of Japanese Magicians provide a distinct novelty here this week in a performance which is bewildering and extremely clever. John Macaulay renders character ballads with skill, and coon songs by Violet Nunn find much favour; Thornbury paints in sand, smoke, and crayon with his usual skill; Gladys Witton, juvenile contralto, possesses an excellent voice; the Waltons are an eccentric couple of gymnasts; there is some capital comedy in Barton and Ashley's act, Canal Boat Sal; and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux show some interesting pictures.

BRIGHTON.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harcourt M. Beryl.—The romantic play, The Angel of Unrest, written by Richard A. Greene, was produced here on Monday evening, and is fully noticed in another column. At Thursday's special London matinée the Vedrenne-Barker company, from the Royal Court Theatre, London, gave a performance of You Never Can Tell.

Alhambra.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General-Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—The Sousloffs, Continental dancers, submitted a clever turn, which is enthusiastically appreciated; the Sivronis, premier comedy duo, merit unstinted praise; Mark Melford and company are well received in the screaming comedy sketch, Nonsuited; Marie Blythe, contralto vocalist, sings in pleasing style; Freda Spry and B. S. Monti are highly successful in the scena The Dandy Guardsman; George Brown, Yorkshire comedian, is very entertaining; Les Tostias, pianists and mandolinists, are accomplished performers; the Brothers Brook, comedy artists, keep the house rippling with laughter; Lilian Travelli, American burlesque and light ballad vocalist, wins cordial applause; Sam Dalton is an eccentric comedian; the Sisters Brand are capital duettists and speciality dancers; and the Alhambrascope pictures are interesting and amusing.

West Pier.—Secretary and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—Mr. H. F.

BURY (LANCS.).—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—This week the proprietors have closed the Circus of Varieties, and the variety programme is being carried out at this house. The Dunlops, bicycle eccentriques; Lytton and Bland, comedy sketch artists; Lilian Sivado, trapeze artist; Harry Plowden, comedian; Leo Dryden, descriptive vocalist; Ada Colley, soprano; and Los Rupertos, equilibrists, are in the bill.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Sons.—Mr. Chas. Magilton and company of comedians are here in a laughable absurdity, entitled The Trippers; and the Ottawas submit a musical sketch, After the Hunt. The Newsboys Quintette of singers and dancers, and Mr. E. W. Eustace and Miss Dorothy Eyre, in a ventriloquial absurdity, called Tomkins, Jun., are also among the attractions.

CAMBRIDGE. — NEW THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—A splendid reception was given on Monday night to Mr. Geo. Dance's company in their initial visit here with The Beauty of Bath. In the title-rôle Miss Gladys Guy looked and acted the part to perfection, her singing and dancing being most delightful. Mr. Lester Holland put any amount of "go" into Lieut. Richard Alington; while Mr. Sheriff Clunes played his double, Mr. Beverley, with great success. Mr. Jack Crichton is always funny, and as Sir Timothy Bun he simply revelled in the part; Mr. Frederick C. Leister made a sufficiently stately Viscount Bellingham; Mr. Reggie Guy made a most idiotic Lord Quorn; Mr. Sydney Grata was great as Lemon Goodge; and Miss Ida Laurie was also very acceptable as Mrs. Goodge; Miss Edith Cruikshanks was especially good as Mrs. Alington.

GUILDHALL.—Mr. and Mrs. Zancig and an excellent company of variety artists gave two performances here on Tuesday. In the afternoon the hall was well filled, and showed great interest in the remarkable performance of the Zancigs, and in the entertainment given by Miss Katie Moss, Mr. David Brazell, Mr. Sydney Jarvis, Mr. E. Thornley-Dodge, Miss Clara Alexander, and Miss Ethel Grimes.

CARDIFF.—NEW THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—During the first part of the week the boards were occupied by the Cardiff Amateurs, and a welcome visit from Mr. and Mrs. Kendal followed. A Tight Corner, The Housekeeper, and The Ironmaster are the répertoire.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Robt. Redford.—The American-Indian actress, Go-won-go Mohawk and company, in Wep-ton-no-Mah, have had a successful engagement here. The clever Indian lady provides a romantic and admirably acted portrayal of the mail-carrier, and receives substantial support from Mr. C. W. Charles as Colonel Stockton and Mr. Edward Leroy as Spanish Joe. The entire company renders capable and praiseworthy work.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. W. Lea; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. S. Dring.—The marvellous blind pianist, Mendel, is on a return visit here, and is delighting Cardiff audiences with his wonderful musical talent. A capital sketch is presented by Mr. William H. Day and Miss Laura Dyson, entitled Crystal Gazing. A pleasing performance is that of the Gems, who in "Song, Play, and Mirth" give a sprightly entertainment. The Chaperon is an exceedingly funny sketch, in which Frank Bertram and company evoke much laughter. Carlos Caesaro is exceptionally clever in his naval balancing act; and Lily Burnand, comedienne, renders two catchy songs. Belloni's cockatoos are old favourites; the Schwarz Bros., burlesque artists, and the Bioscope complete a fine programme.

CARLISLE.—H. M. THEATRE.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—The Manxman is attracting good audiences here this week. Mr. Alfred B. Cross has staged the piece most effectively, and as Pete gives a successful performance. Miss Minnie Watersford gives a finished and sympathetic rendering of Kate; Miss Kitty Livesey is quite attractive as the servant; and Mr. Sydney C. Kearns as the Deemster, Mr. Frank Etheridge as Cæsar Cregeen, and Miss Mona Spedding contribute creditable performances.

THE PALACE — Proprietors, The Palace Theatre, Carlisle, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. E. Nicholls.—The top of the bill here is occupied by "Dedio," a novel and distinctly interesting turn, the scenic and lighting effects being most beautiful, with enthusiastic approval. Adams and Ward combine wonderful acrobatic feats with funny comedy; Picitt Zizette stage their act in quite a novel manner, their business being distinctly smart and their illusions most mystifying; Fancourt and Ruble give a comedy act in which humour, singing, and dancing are well assorted; Arthur Slater is a clever whistler, with quite a style of his own; Woodhouse and Wells are capital comedians; Stidder and Dunbar have a smart musical act; and the always-popular Pepiscope adds much to the success of the performance.

CARMARTHEN.—ASSEMBLY ROOMS. — Public Rooms Co.; Secretary, Mr. Edward Baldwin.—This week Mr. Hubert O'Grady's No. 1 Company paid a visit to the town, and presented, with much power, the sensational drama, A Fast Life. Mr. Harry Harrild as Sir Oliver Franklin was very good, as was also Mr. Fred Aldworth as John Dixon, the bank manager, and Mr. Donald Jones as James. Miss Violet Wood as Julianna was most commendable, and her songs delighted the audience; Miss Ada Hender as the Hon. Mrs. Cleveland deserves praise; Mr. Frank Fox as Tommy Burke was amusing, and proved himself a capable comedian. The Coastguardman's Daughter has also been successfully presented.

CASTLEFORD.—ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Hy. Masterman.—This week A Destroyer of Men is being presented by Mr. James Hare and company, and is meeting with a capital reception. Mr. James Hare plays with ability and resource and is seen to distinct advantage as Karl Mischala. The vindictive Olga Mischala is cleverly portrayed by Miss Irene Clifford. The part of Michael Mischala is exceptionally well taken by Mr. Charles Bickell. Miss Gladys Lloyd gives a pleasing and sympathetic reading of Vidal Ravel. The Count Starevitch of Mr. C. P. Wentworth is an able performance, and worthy of much praise. Mr. Ross Warren infuses plenty of humour into the part of Coco Tachoski. Miss Alice Buckland's portrayal of Nina Pattakake is clever and finished. Mr. Chas. Coventry admirably sustains the part of Fedor Strellitski. Colonel Linlevitch is in the safe hands of Mr. Arthur Swain, while Mr. Arthur Minns gives a creditable performance as Sergeant Keana.

QUEEN'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietors, Messrs. Charles Beanland and W. H. Emerson; General-Manager, Mr. Will H. Emerson.—The programme submitted to a well-filled house on Monday was one of all-round merit. A most enjoyable turn is given by Rita and Roma, vaudeville entertainers. The Stanley and Henderson Quartette are here another week, and are still popular favourites. George Hyam is a clever comedian; Leo and Jerry give a smart and amusing ventriloquial turn; Nellie Rose, with song and dance, is much appreciated; the Decars with their untamable donkey Tomato succeed in winning applause; Wheater and Day are an amusing couple; while W. Meer is an up-to-date comedian. The Loyal Dominion company's Animated Pictures are still in favour.

CHATHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr. Geo. G. Ridley.—This week marks a return visit of Three Little Maids, the company being toured by Mr. Charles Macdona, under the management of Mr. Julian Graham. Ada, Hilda, and Edna find capital representatives in the Misses Mabel Kerridge, Daisy Sylverton, and Eva Weigh respectively. Miss Kate Graham-Beck is very natural as Lady St. Mallory; Miss Laura Wright is quite a success as Gretchen; and the Misses Hilda Stericker, Bertha French, and Nellie Clapton do well as the Three Society Ladies. Mr. Frank Henderson scores throughout as Lord Cheyne, and Mr. Eric Barrington is sufficiently demonstrative as M. de L'Orme. Mr. Burgess Barratt appears as the Rev. Mr. Branscombe, and stage-manages, and Mr. Bert Barton deserves credit for his amusing portrayal of Cupid.

THE GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. F. J. Donne.—The bill of fare here includes Lily Black, comedienne; the Brothers Allen, a pair of nimble dancers; Miss Omega, who gives a display on the wire, and later on appears as a member of the Onatis Troupe of Jugglers; Maud Laverne, a burlesque artist of commanding appearance; and Horace Wheatley, a smart dancer and patterer. In The Doom of Delilah, by Cecil Raleigh, Miss Lilian Dundas gives a powerful impersonation of Mrs. Olive Durant.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—The leading attraction here is Fishing, a concoction which, as presented by Mr. Harry Tate's company, creates roars of laughter. Gregson and Goodfellow are scoring here again; the Raymond Trio of Instrumentalists give a pleasing act; Will Driscoll succeeds as a swell comedian and dancer, as does Nellie Chandos, with coon songs and dances. Mock melodrama is ably enacted by Conway and Garland, under the title of Left in Charge; the Davenports display dexterity in their conjuring act; and the Three Kentucky Girls and Pictures by Lacey's Erascope complete the programme.

CHESTER.—ROYALTY THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—Mr. Geo. Alexander's company, in His House in Order, is paying its first visit here. Mr. Stephen T. Ewart must be accorded chief honours for his skilful impersonation of Hilary Jesson. He is admirably supported by that talented young actress Miss Dorothy Grimston as Nina. Miss Carmen Woods acts naturally as Derek Jesson. Mr. J. Edward Pearce does all that is possible with the part of Filmer Jesson. A priggish and self-satisfied Pryce Ridgeley is found in the person of Mr. Ernest R. Holloway. Mr. Luke Forster submits an excellent character study of Dr. Dilnot, and causes much amusement during the short time he is on the stage. Mr. Herbert Lomas is all that could be desired as Sir Daniel Ridgeley, and Major Maureward had a suitable representative in Mr. Charles Tyrel. The rôle of Lady Ridgeley is done full justice to by Miss Augusta Haviland, and Misses Elaine Sleddall and Jean Cadell are well placed as Geraldine Ridgeley and Mlle. Thome respectively.

MUSIC HALL.—Agents, Messrs. Phillipson and Golder.—The New York Animated Picture company opened a six-nights visit here on Monday. Several fine films are shown, including a capital series entitled "Christ amongst Men." Mr. Will Hunter, a clever ventriloquist, adds variety to the entertainment. The company is also exploiting Gaumont's "Chronophone" with great success.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. C. Upton.—Mr. Macdona's chief company in Are You a Mason? opened a three-nights' engagement here on Monday. Mr. Ernest Cossart shone brightly as George Fisher; Mr. E. H. Patterson and Mr. H. L. Tracy were intensely funny as the pseudo Masons; Mr. Buchanan Wake as John Halton, and Mr. G. R. I. Austin as Hamilton Travers, added to the general hilarity; Miss Adelaide Grace as Mrs. Bloodgood was a good sample of the determined suffragette, and introduced three charming daughters in the Misses Margaret Fareleigh, Babs Stuart, and Madge Merrique; Miss Dora Gregory was extremely well placed as the candid and loquacious Lottie; and Miss Dora Harvey made a very handsome picture as Mrs. Halton. The one and only bona-fide Mason was worthily depicted by Mr. Victor Kerr.

HIPPODROME.—Joint-Proprietors, Mr. F. Mouillot and Mr. Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Jack de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—Tom Conover tops the bill with the skit, The Drink Cure, and goes very well; the reception accorded Jack Lane, the Yorkshire rustic, is quite uproarious; Flo Cecil, a smart comedienne, dances in very fine style; Mlle. Zelda, is a refined musical act, is greatly appreciated; the Claymores, in a speciality, give a most pleasing effect; Tod Lowen, comedian, is a huge success; Harry Bold scores decisively with smartly-told stories; and Mr. James Hargreaves, the popular musical conductor, is loudly applauded for a violin performance.

CORN EXCHANGE.—Two concerts, afternoon and evening, were very successfully carried out on Monday last in this commodious hall, by arrangement with Mr. Charles Macdona and under the direct management of Mr. Sydney Paxton. The dominant item was a very effective demonstration of thought-reading by the now famous Zancigs, their feats being vociferously applauded. Mr. E. Thornley-Dodge was conspicuous as a mimic and lightning sketch artist; Mr. Sydney Jarvis and Mr. David Brazell were highly successful with their baritone songs; and Mr. Harold E. Scott proved himself an accomplished solo pianist and a most able accompanist; Miss Ethel Grimes, a light soprano, was much applauded; Miss Clara Alexander was very entertaining with her impersonation of plantation people; and Miss Katie Moss contributed high-class songs to her own violin obbligato.

COLWYN BAY. — PUBLIC HALL. — Lessee, Mr. C. R. Chaplin.—Mr. Carr Loates' company appeared on the 1st and 2nd inst. in At the World's Mercy. In the rôle of Jabez Barber, a solicitor, Mr. Loates was interesting; W. H. Irving gave an excellent idea of a sea captain; Mr. George D. Knight was a typical Jew; and Mr. L. E. Eykin appeared as a ruffian. Mr. Jess Boxer caused roars of laughter as Chas. Smart, a musical artist, and in his line was particularly smart. The best performances were those of the two youthful artists, Cissie Milford and Gwennie Ashdown, as Skittles and Dot. Miss Kate Johnstone embodied Alice Lloyd, the heiress; and Miss Kathleen Loates made a charming serio, her clog dancing being exceptionally clever.

CONSETT.—NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Miss Emma Litchfield's company is here this week with the drama A Clever Impostor. Miss Litchfield, in the quadruple rôles of Sarah Ellen, Old Rebecca, Molly O'Flynn, and Nora Grosvenor, is eminently successful. Mr. Stuart Cleveland is most effective as Manual Teixeira, the "clever impostor" of the title; Mr. Herbert Evelyn does full justice to the part of Capt. Desmond; and as Maisie Grosvenor Miss Isabel Singleton is excellent. Miss Maud Steeple is a capable Margaret Grosvenor; Mr. John Worth gives a finished performance of the part of Stephen Grosvenor; and as Bob Darnforth Mr. Robert W. Lynn is clever. Mr. Edward Swinton as Jim Brightside and Miss Florence Gomer are responsible for the comedy element, in which they are thoroughly successful. The piece is well mounted and admirably staged.

CORK.—PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr. Henry Kemble.—The star turn here is that presented by the Three Demons, who give a sensational performance on bicycles on a revolving platform in mid-air. Harry Fife sings well, and gives a clever monologue; Du Calion submits a daring and clever turn on ladders; Newmann and Gross are an effective pair of comedians, and provide plenty of fun; Bert Coates' Ten Indian Maids go through pretty evolutions, and sing and dance well; the Orchids please with mirth, song, and harmony; and the Great Tokio Troupe of Japanese performers provide balancing and acrobatic feats. Miss Florence Smithers' comedy-sketch, Hard Lines, produced by Owen Dacroy and company, is very entertaining.

COVENTRY. — THE EMPIRE. — Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Dance; Manager, Mr. A. Rand.—This house continues to be exceptionally well-attended. A clever turn is given by the Leslie Brothers, musical comedians; the Garganis, a trio of smart acrobats, are given a hearty reception; G. W. Hunter, raconteur, is capitally received; Maggie Walsh, the Lancashire singing mill-girl, is enthusiastically welcomed; Gladys Huxley is a dainty comedienne and dancer. The Hartley Wonders appear in a smart jumping speciality act, and James Kurry is a clever eccentric comedian. The Bioscope Pictures are up to date.

CRADLEY HEATH.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jno. H. Morton.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbott is here on a return visit with a round of plays. In A Wife's Triumph Mr. E. R. Abbott gives us a finished piece of acting as Frank Wilson, and Mr. W. H. Garbois supplies a very careful study as Ellis Jordan. Mr. Douglas C. Phelps makes a hearty and jovial Robert Dewhurst, and Mr. Weedon Ross is first rate as Julius Hartman. Mr. Edwin Keene deserves praise for his Ben Bradford, and Mr. W. H. Davis Brown is a capital Stubbs. Mr. D. Pentland as Charles E. Rylan, and Mr. P. C. Douglas as William W. Williamson both do well. Mr. John Lester is quite at home as Willett, and Mr. F. Seen is also in his element as Higson. Mr. Fred C. Roper merits special mention for his Lopez, and Mr. Thomas Searle claims recognition for his able Griggs, whilst Mr. T. Wilson is a dignified Mr. Brackenbury. Miss Kathleen Stewart is well chosen for Alice Wilton, and Miss Marjorie Tennant could not be better placed than as Margery Crib. Miss Hetty Jones is a pleasing little Frank and Miss Ada Abbott a powerful Bessie Dewhurst.

CREWE.—LYCEUM THEATRE. Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Taylor, J.P.—Messrs. Polini and Melford's company in The Silver King is proving a great attraction here. Miss Daisy Scudamore has achieved a notable success as Nellie Denver, acting with much delicacy and feeling. Miss Viola Holland makes as much as possible of the part of Oliver Skinner; and Miss Flossie H. Daviss and Master Douglas Thomas are two clever and pretty children; Mr. Fred D. Daviss appears to have a part after his own heart; Mr. Edward J. George excellently plays the old servant, Jaikes; Mr. L. St. George Lowther powerfully sustains the rôle of Captain Skinner; and Mr. George Belmore is a capital Henry Corkel; Mr. Warriss Lindon renders able service as Gripps, and Mr. Arthur H. Rooke is good as Geoffrey Ware.

CROOK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Wallace Davidson, Limited; Manager, Mr. Wallace Davidson.—This week Mr. Dickie Clarke's company of comedians are appearing in the musical absurdity, Lucky Liza, in which Mr. Dickie Clarke causes merriment in a triple rôle. The title part is ably represented by Miss Madge Browie, and Miss Vesta Brownie as the romantic Virginia does exceedingly well.

CROYDON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Lambert.—The D'Oyly Carte Opera Company is paying a welcome return visit here, the répertoire being The Mikado, The Gondoliers, The Pirates of Penzance, Trial by Jury, Patience, Yeomen of the Guard, and Iolanthe. On Tuesday The Gondoliers won much favour. Mr. Tom Redmond was remarkably good as Don Alhambra del Bolero; Mr. Charles R. Walenn deserves warm praise for his rendering of the Duke of Plaza-Toro; Mr. Leicester Tunks made a big hit as Luiz; and Messrs Pacie Ripple and Albert Kavanagh were quite up to the mark as Marco Palmieri and Giuseppe Palmieri. Miss Theresa Rassam exactly fitted the rôle of the Duchess of Plaza-Toro; Miss Mabel Graham made a charming Casilda; Miss Hope Hastings enacted Gianetta in the best possible manner; and Miss Lulu Evans made a pleasing impression as Tessa. The chorus was exceptionally fine.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Herrick.—Mr. Frank E. Burdette's company, in The Indian Mutiny, is the attraction here this week. Mr. Edward M. Hamilton as Lieutenant Manley does well. Mr. Cyril Harrison as Captain Manley is very good; Mr. John Davidson is capable as Major Ingleby; Mr. Cecil Morland is a characteristic Terry O'Brien; Mr. Villiers Stanley as Nebu Singh acts with ability; Mr. J. S. Sheddon gives an admirable impersonation of Abul Khan; and Mr. Ernest Keand submits an excellent representation of Ra Goonga. Miss Agnes Kingston is very pleasing as Kate Ingleby; and Miss Melrose Millett fills the difficult rôle of Ghuz-nah in a powerful manner.

EMPIRE PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace Jay.—A palatable and varied bill of fare is presented at this popular house. Lew Lake and company cause no little excitement and amusement in the sketch, The Bloomsbury Burglars; Woodward and Walton are clever rag-time dancers; George Newburn gives a number of smart impersonations of popular comedians; Wyndham and Waters are comedy vocalists who are enjoyed; the Three Sisters Sprightly, vocalists and expert dancers, bring down the house; George Antill, a comedian, introduces legmania tricks which cause much laughter; J. P. Ling is a mimic of ability; Lillie Lassah, fresh from Crystal Palace pantomime triumphs, is given a cordial reception; Mlle. Yvette De Laabe appears in her reproductions of sculpture; and the Bioscope Pictures are good. Mr. Sidney Axford is an efficient musical director.

DARLINGTON. — THEATRE ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Bell.—Messrs. Warden and Sandford's drama, A Woman's Past is here this week. Miss Maisie Hanbury is delightfully pleasing and natural as the heroine; Mr. George Morton Williams is a typical villain in the part of Uriah Craven; Mr. W. H. Hargreaves is successful as David Heath; Mr. Charles V. Sandford well sustains the important character of Frank Dellannoy; Miss May Dallas is a charming Dorothy Heath; and Miss Eva Bertram clevely delineates the rôle of Clara Darrel. Other parts are well filled by Mr. Philip Nailor as Bloater, Mr. Frank Hayling as Scubby, Mr. Wilson Munroe as Spriggins, Mr. Cecil Dainton as Bob, and Miss Phyllis Monckton as Kate.

DARWEN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. A. M. Loader; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. J. Robinson.—Messrs. Armadale and Warren's company are this week presenting The Face at the Window. Mr. Scott Leighton essays the part of Lucio Delgado (the wolf) in a masterly manner; as Paul Gouffet Mr. T. W. Dunscombe scores heavily; Mr. Gilbert Hall gives a careful rendering of Lucian Cortier; and the comedy parts are in the capable hands of Miss Gladys Newcombe and Mr. C. Alan Hineson; Miss Marie Tenant makes a capital La Pinau; and Miss Marie Barrett a charming Marie de Brisson.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Langley Wyatt.—Mr. Charles Macdona is presenting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sugden and company here this week in A Night Out. In his original part of Paillard, Mr. Sugden repeats his familiar success; and Mrs. Sugden gives a charming delineation of Marcelle. Mr. Edward Thirlby's Pinglet is a really capital performance, and Miss Constance Groves is to be complimented upon her rendering of Mrs. Pinglet; an exceedingly amusing and well-played part is that of Mathieu by Mr. Mark Lester; and Maxime is capably accounted for by Mr. Geoffrey Saville. Miss Lilian Stafford is a dainty Victorine, and Misses Emmie Kemp, Elvira Stuart, Dorothy Dance, and Muriel Dance figure agreeably as Mathieu's daughters. Mr. Fred Penley and Mr. Thomas Barry are richly deserving of special mention; Mr. Dare Austin in a dual part is entirely successful, and Miss Lilian Elen should also not be allowed to pass unnoticed. The other characters are efficiently handled, and the piece goes with all the merry swing associated with it of yore.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Herbert Taylor.—The principal turn this week is supplied by the Vasilescu troupe of triple-bar gymnasts, and their acrobatic feats, in which the comedy element is strong, gain well-deserved applause; Edith Muir and Hubert Bartlett and company present a farcical comedy, The Collar Stud, which causes great amusement; Kioto, equilibrist, has some exceedingly clever tricks; Agnes McKellar, soprano, with her pretty songs, is a favourite; the Two Zampas, speciality artists, submit a pleasing turn; Chas. Gardner, comedian, is responsible for some hearty laughter; and Jack Rae, as a hat manipulator, is highly diverting. The Bioscope concludes.

DEVONPORT.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Geo. S. King.—On Monday the stage version of Ouida's Under Two Flags formed the attraction here, and was well played by Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company. Mr. Wellesley Draper proved himself an actor of no mean ability in the exacting part of Royellieu; Miss Cissy Maitland was a fascinating and delightfully sympathetic Cigarette; Mr. Arthur Elwyn as the cordially-detested Colonel Chanteroy gave a fine representation of the part; Mr. Harry Benson was very good as a gentleman of the "fast" type; Miss Mabel Ormonde treated the part of Princess Venetia Corona with delicacy and skill; and Mr. Robert Faulkner was an aristocratic Lord Rockingham.

DONCASTER.—NEW GRAND THEATRE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—Mr. A. E. Smith's Christmas pantomime, The Babes in the Wood, was presented here on Monday. The Immortals were represented by a bevy of interesting ladies, including Misses Marie Walker, Nellie Loft, Queenie and Grace Glenville, Cissie Flinton, May Colley, Florence Pierce, Madge Duncan, Ella Lamb, Doris Blackwell, Freda Leager, Emily Brownless, Ruth Carter, May Agnew, and Anna Beardmore. Among the Mortals Miss Frances Cotterell was popular as Mermaid; and Miss Kathleen Garnon added effect to Robin Hood; Miss Elsie Douglas treating Maid Marion with fine artistic appreciation. Sparkling humour came from Mr. J. H. Maxwell, who was an exceptionally capable Baron Balderdash; and Mr. Fred Kampdale gave vigorous support in enacting Dame Nuisby-Digga; the title-rôle claimed the efforts of Misses Rosie Morris and Ivy Rochfort, both of whom were well received; Miss Poppie Howard upheld Marjory Daw in a manner worthy of the best traditions of that celebrated character; and Mr. R. Gordon contributed largely to the general success by his inimitable representation of Friar Tuck. A number of specialities went to make up a splendid programme, these including Miss Marie Walker, trombone player; Wal. Bendene, human crocodile; Miss Elsy Douglas, expert dancer; Messrs Reed and Lerne, novel comedians; the Palace Troupe of lady dancers, and Mr. J. H. Maxwell, big boot dancer and hat spinner.

DOVER. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Ltd.; Chairman of Directors, Mr. B. Carter; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred C. Dew.—Messrs. Power and Kirby's company is this week presenting the melodrama, Man's Enemy. The part of Tom Drake is played in a most forcible and convincing manner by Mr. John Power; Mr. Norman A. Overton suggests with much skill the varied phases of the character of Harry Stanton, his powerful acting gaining him well-deserved applause. The dignity of General Sir Arthur Stanton is admirably realised by Mr. William Jeans; and Mr. T. Arthur Ellis is a manly Fred Lisle. Mr. Hartwell J. Kirby's excellent portrayal of Count Lanski wins him success; while a well-drawn and splendidly-played character-sketch is the rendering of Bill Saunders by Mr. Charles E. Johnson. Some good comedy is contributed by Mr. Fred Owen, who gives a capable impersonation of the kindly-hearted Jew, Isaac Barnett; and the Adolphe D'Embonpoint of Mr. Herbert Claremont is a really humorous and meritorious piece of work. Miss Constance Medwyn gives a fine, consistent portrait of Sarah Drake; Miss May Grayce wins the hearts of her audience for her sympathetic Grace Leslie; a most amusingly burlesqued rendering of a servant is given by Miss Fanny James as Polly Harris; little Mabel Spencer as Nellie Saunders is most natural and pleasing, and Miss Jennie Douglas Hicks is most pathetic as the ill-used Mrs. Saunders.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Lessees, The Vaudeville Syndicate; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Holt; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. Charles R. Standfield.—One of the most amusing turns this week is contributed by Vernon and Burdell in the form of a sketch, entitled What Price Me? Friscari's smart and pleasing performance as a hat manipulator and juggler was received with rapturous applause. Ker and Koe, a couple of good comedians, and Mark Tapley, with his amusing songs, score decided successes; Idalia May is a graceful transformation dancer; and Belle Harcourt is a clever burlesque comedian. There is a most humorous sketch, entitled Fun in a Pawnshop, in which Mr. Raleigh Abrahams and a talented company of comedians prove themselves adepts in the art of funmaking. Some fine pictures on Raymond's Biotableaux complete the programme.

DUBLIN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—The patrons of this popular place of amusement are being well catered for in the way of novelties and talent. This week we have Alice Pierce, the American impressionist, who gives some exceedingly clever and interesting impersonations of celebrated actresses. Alfred Trentanovi's exhibition of animal training is marvellous, and his mules, baboons, and dogs do some remarkable feats; Lloyd Morgan excels as a vocal comedian; and R. S. Meikle, the Scotch baritone, wins appreciation. The Four Rio Brothers, in a smart gymnastic performance, are very good; and the Musical Schafers, in their electrical spectacle, "The Garden of Melody," is both pleasing and entertaining. Luis Hardt, the boy Samson, displays some astounding feats; and Spessardy's performing bears are particularly good, and heartily appreciated. Derenda and Green do a fine club-juggling act; Johnny Fuller gives an imitation of a cat on the wire with great success; and the Royal Pictures complete the programme.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mrs. Michael Gunn; Manager and Secretary, Mr. Chas. Hyland.—Mr. Arthur Bourchier's company, under the direction of Mr. M. A. Leveaux, opened here on Monday with The Morals of Marcus. There was a very crowded house, and the play was heartily enjoyed. With a charming and pleasing manner Miss Hilda Antony cleverly enacted the rôle of Carlotta. Mr. H. Nye Chart acted with considerable dramatic skill as Sir Marcus Ordeyne; Mrs. H. Nye Chart gave an admirable portrayal of Judith Mainwaring; and Mr. David Domville did capitally as Sebastian Pasquale. Miss Mary Weigall gave a good portray of Mrs. Ordeyne, and her daughter Dora was well played by Miss Gladys Purnell. Mr. A. H. Leveaux as Hamdi Effendi, Mr. Cecil Brooking as Stenson, Miss Conyers Radcliffe as Mrs. McMurray, and Miss Eleanor Gilbart as Antoinette were all praiseworthy in their respective parts.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—The premier attraction here this week is Jan Rudenyi, the famous violinist, who delights everybody with his brilliant playing. He is ably assisted by Miss Dora De Winton and Mr. John D. Saunders in "The Power of Music." The marvellous hand-jumping feats performed by the Steineretto Troupe are adequately appreciated; Harry Thorpe and Zoe Coe have a decidedly amusing sketch in My Burglar; Sybil St. Elmo, a charming ballad vocalist, sings her songs in a pleasing and artistic manner; Lily Tiso is a chic comedienne and dancer; and Professor Vox gives a novel and amusing ventriloquial performance; Harry Clifford scores heavily with his comic effusions; and Blanche Vincent, burlesque artist, is deservedly applauded for her excellent songs. Carney and Armstrong do a clever act; and the Empire Pictures are as interesting as ever.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—A good programme here this week is headed by Katie Lawrence, an old Dublin favourite, who renders her songs in a manner that sets the audience cheering lustily. Hall and Wilson, in a novel and exciting bicycle race, are deservedly applauded; Joe Cookson's ventriloquial turn is eminently successful. An entertaining vocal and instrumental act by Henrietta and Selina proves vastly popular; Cronow, facial expert, is well received; the Garellys, in a double club speciality act, are warmly appreciated; and Nono, coon vocalist and dancer, scores. Kitty Phelps finds a ready acceptance for her vocal contributions; Onda and Leon, in a gymnastic display, are clever and amusing; and the bioscope pleases with new films.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. Chas. A. James.—The programme this week consists of Jack Danby, comedian; Howard Callon, actor vocalist; Miss Annie, serio and mandolinist; Little Prince, comedian and dancer; and the cinematograph.

DUMFRIES. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee, Mr. W. E. Potts; Manager, Mr. Payne-Seddon.—For three nights this week, commencing Monday, we had Mr. Wentworth Croke's company, with Miss Minnie Palmer, in My Sweetheart. Mr. Robert H. Howard was all that could be desired as Tony; Mr. Richard Elliott's impersonation of Dr. Oliver was excellent; Mr. Alfred Ibberson's Dudley Harcourt was well portrayed; Miss Minnie Palmer as usual was a great success as Tina; Miss Mildred Sylvestre played with ability as Mrs. Fleeker; and Mrs. H. E. Russell and Miss Elsie Forster as Mrs. Hatzell and Peek-a-Boo were both well placed.

DUNDEE.—PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Manager, Mr. E. J. Dexter.—Miss Ella's performing lions are a strong top turn. These monarchs of the forest go through a marvellous performance, and their fair trainer receives much hearty applause at the conclusion of her daring entertainment; Victor Travers is a first-class comedian; Les Bollingers, rag painters, contribute a very pretty turn; and the Levans score with their illustrated songs; Vasey and Ramsey in their well worked comedy act, are vastly amusing, their excellent dancing being a feature of their turn; May Tudor, a chic comedienne with a taking style, is accorded a hearty reception; as are also Alfred Ripon, ventriloquist, and Crossley and Walker, cross-talk comedians. Vernon's Bioscope complete a good all-round bill.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—Topping the bill are Le Cren Trio, eccentric dancers, who appear with great success in their military absurdity; Daisy De Roy, charmingly gowned, sings all her latest successes, and enhances her already high reputation here; Russ Dene, coon comedian and banjoist, makes a decided hit; as does also Sefton Brooks, an artist of outstanding ability; the Farrows, burlesque artists, are responsible for much mirth; and Sam Paul is exceptionally good as an actor-vocalist; Sabino in an enjoyable musical act, and Magda, in artistic poses, are popular items. The Cronophone and the cinematograph complete the attractions.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—After a successful fortnight of animated pictures, drama again holds the boards here, A Marriage of Convenience being presented by Mr. Stanley Carlton's company. Miss Rubie Maude gave a powerful and careful rendering of the leading part of Stella, a Parisian adventuress; while Miss Georgina Thomas as Elsie Dean, the persecuted heroine, played most sympathetically; Mr. Arthur Dudley as Paul Earnscliffe, the hero, acted admirably throughout.

EASTBOURNE.—PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Messrs. Matthew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company is this week enacting Frank Lindo's drama, Home Sweet Home. Miss Leila Zillwood is a strikingly handsome heroine. Joan, and her consistently excellent work is very appealing; Miss Jenny Clare is a bright and lively Sybil Fay with a good song and dance; Little Dolly Turner gives her lines in a natural, pleasing manner as Dora, and Miss Constance Cluer is a very good Sal. Mr. Arthur Hinton works hard and well as Stephen Armitage, and his work grips the audience; in a character-sketch, Mr. Frank Hudspeth is a really admirable David Armitage; Mr. Travis Green as Lucas Lyle is a strong, realistic villain; Mr. W. Graham Arthurs uses his opportunities to great advantage as Dick Redmayne; Mr. Arthur Lowry and Mr. Tom G. Warren both deserve praise as the Duke of Ancaster and Percy Ashfield; and Mr. Lester Norton ably assists as Solomon Keary.

DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Devonshire Park and Baths Company; Managers, Messrs. Murray, King, and Clark.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's capable company is appearing throughout the week in a dramatised version of Oliver Twist. A notably strong performance is given by Mr. Stanley Drewitt as Fagin, and able work deserving special praise is done by Mr. Cecil A. Collins as Bill Sykes, and the fine work of these two gentlemen contribute largely to the general success; Mr. Charlie Clark is a highly amusing Artful Dodger; Mr. W. H. Rotheram is a very good Mr. Grimwig; Mr. Edward Comerback is an excellent Mr. Brownlow; and as Harry Maylie, Mr.

Empire Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Parham Wells.—Mr. George Lashwood heads a well-balanced programme, and does much to attract and gratify large audiences. With his pleasing voice and spirited style he gives a rollicking rendering of his songs, and gains unstinted applause. Tschernoff's exhibition of trained dogs and ponies is of exceptional merit, and includes not a few novel features; Denton and Rowlands's company of juveniles, with Little Marjorie Lawrence, contribute a delightful entertainment of singing and dancing; another capital turn is provided by the Robertys, juvenile whirlwind dancers; and the Tupps give a clever display of eccentric acrobatic exercises. Mr. Charles Robinson's fine baritone voice is heard to advantage in several illustrated songs; the excellent imitations by Mr. Albert Whelan, Australian entertainer, are favourably received; Bernard and Weston are genuinely funny comedians; Vetter Brothers appear with unqualified success in their vocal equilibrist speciality, The Page's Recreation; the Wyffs create considerable amusement with an exhilarating absurdity, and up-to-date films are shown by the Bioscope.

Exeter. — Theatre Royal. — Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Pantomime again holds sway here, Mr. John A. Thompson's company appearing for a fortnight in Little Red Riding Hood. Miss Ella Willmer does well in the title-rôle, her dancing being one of the best things of the evening; while the Prince Allfair of Miss Beatrice Varley is commendable. Miss Fay Desmond as the Fairy Queen is a decided success, her singing being very tuneful. Mr. Fred Latimer as the Dame and Mr. George Newnham as the Baron are very amusing; Mr. Fred Anderson as Tommy Green and Mr. Lovell Rowland as Simple Simon are two capital comedians, and contribute greatly to the success of the production. The specialities include Mlle. Bartenetti, the clever gymnast; and the Boultons, smart burlesque comedians.

Falkirk.—Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—The first three nights of the week the drama, entitled The Blind Foundling, was presented by the company of Mr. C. H. Phelps and Mr. Harry Tilbury. Mr. Phelps as Gerald Dalton filled the part admirably; as Parson Ray Mr. Frank Harvey acted well; the adventurer, Mark Redman, was excellently portrayed by Mr. Alfred George Fry; and Miss Belle Tilbury as Isabel made him a fitting companion in crime. Miss Arline T. George played very charmingly the part of Viola Waterford; and Miss Mabel Hall appeared to much advantage in the title-rôle. Mr. Tilbury as Dick Dobbins afforded considerable amusement, and Miss Trixie Toole as Mrs. Dobbins added to the merriment.

Folkestone.—Pleasure Gardens Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Alice Sit by the Fire is this week being presented here by Mrs. Russ Whytal and company. Mrs. Russ Whytal impersonates the name part in an impressive and nuanced manner; Mr. J. J. Bartlett scores a great success as Colonel Grey; Amy Grey finds a clever representative in Miss Beatrice Bramah; Mr. Thomas Pauncefort is praiseworthy as Cosmo Grey; Mr. Aubrey Mallalieu capably sustains the rôle of Stephen Rollo; Miss Lucie Verrier makes the most of her opportunities as Leonora Dunbar; Miss Ada Marius and Miss Beresford are good in their respective parts of Nurse and Fanny; and Miss Ninon Dudley cleverly fills the rôle of Richardson.

Gateshead. — King's Theatre. — Lessees, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; General-Manager, Mr. Harold Arnold.—Rare old J. H. Milburn, with his humorous songs, fulfils all the duties of a "star" here this week; Keen and Waller, a couple of eccentrics, make a very successful appearance; J. C. Scotter, a local comedian, is applauded for his songs and patter; De Vere and Kenwick provide a novelty by singing standard ballads to the most ludicrous pictures; Harris and Worth, described as "sporting" comedians, treat us to some new jokes; refined and accomplished musical entertainers are discovered in the Ellimans; the three Sisters Thurban also submit a musical act which earns unstinted praise; the Two Kays give a delightful song-scena entitled The Nightingale, which is rewarded with well-merited applause; Reed and Stevens, in a farcical duologue, Married or Photographed, please immensely, and a humorous picture shown by Vernon's Bioscope causes great merriment.

Metropole Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Coun. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France. — Leah Kleschna has drawn huge audiences here this week and the excellent patronage has been well deserved, for this excellent work is far in advance of anything seen here in recent years. Messrs. Armitage and Leigh have sent a strong company, chief in which is Miss Bessie Rignold, who depicts Leah Kleschna in a manner which leaves nothing to be desired; Kleschna affords Mr. Paul Belmore an opportunity of revealing his great ability; a better and more effective Paul Sylvaine than that submitted by Mr. William F. Grant could not be wished for; Raoul Berton is faithfully portrayed by Mr. Hamilton Deane; Mr. Campbell Goldsmid's Schram is a powerful piece of acting; Mr. Roland Daniel is successful in the part of General Berton; and Misses Helen Belgrave and Ethel Russell as Mme. Berton and Claire Berton respectively do well in small parts. The staging is excellent.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Coun. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's new drama, A Soldier's Honour, forms the fare at this house. Mr. John B. Shinton is seen to distinct advantage as Capt. Deane, and Mr. J. O. Stevenson acts well in the rôle of Gerard Temple; Mr. Clavering Craig makes the most of Henry Thornton; Miss Lottie Addison (Mrs. Kimberley) acquits herself admirably in the all-important rôle of Cora Lee; Miss Ada Ryder is charming as Doreen Illingsworth; and a sweet little actress in Miss May Craig impersonates Queenie Deane effectively. The comedy receives the best of treatment at the hands of Mr. Frank Howard, as Percy Brattle, and Miss Edie Macklin as Jemima.

Glasgow.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphrys.—Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Benson opened here on Monday for a two-weeks' stay, producing their fine setting of A Midsummer Night's Dream as their principal item, with matinées of five other plays during the run. Shakespeare's fairy play is given with the beautiful music by Mendelssohn and the aid of a fine chorus and augmented orchestra. Mr. Murray Carrington and Miss Estelle Stead make a striking couple as Duke Theseus and his bride Hippolyta. The two sets of lovers are picturesquely played by Messrs. F. R. Benson and Clarence Derwent as Lysander and Demetrius; and Misses Tita Brand and Helen Haye as their respective ladies. Mrs. F. R. Benson is again Titania, Queen of the Fairies, and acts the part with animation. Mr. George Buchanan is a handsome Oberon; Bottom, the weaver, is humorously portrayed by Mr. Geo. R. Weir (who was accorded the reception due to an old friend), and his fellow craftsmen are amusingly played by Messrs. E. A. Warburton, P. D. Owen, Stanley Howlett, G. Hannam Clark, and H. O. Nicholson as Quince, Snug, Flute, Snout, and Starveling respectively. Mr. Reginald Davis acted well as the indignant parent, Egeus. Miss Leah Hannam made a most engaging Puck; and the music allotted to the singing fairies was excellently rendered by Misses Cissie Saumarez and Agnes de Liana.

King's, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—This week the Compton comedy Company is paying one of its periodical visits, commencing on Monday with a very complete and enjoyable performance of The School for Scandal. Mr. Compton was repeatedly recalled for his spirited acting of the rôle of Charles Surface, and in offering a few words of thanks, the popular comedian referred to the time thirty years ago when, as a very young stock actor, he first played the part in Glasgow. Mr. Henry Crocker was an admirable Sir Peter; and as Sir Oliver Surface Mr. Philip Gordon was capitally suited; the Joseph Surface of Mr. Dennis Cleugh was a well-finished performance; the parts of Crabtree and Moses were cleverly doubled by Mr. G. Wallace Johnston; and other well-filled rôles were Sir Benjamin Backbite (Mr. Vernon O. Crabtree), Rowley (Mr. Charles Rogers), and Careless (Mr. Montague Lane). The Lady Teazle of Miss Mackenzie was an ideal representation of the part; the characters of Lady Sneerwell and Mrs. Candour had talented exponents in Miss Phyllis Relph and Miss Marie Hassell respectively; and a pleasing Maria was seen in Miss Marion Le Strange. The programme for the rest of the week consists of two performances of Davy Garrick, and one each of The Rivals, Edmund Kean, Tragedian, The Gentleman in Grey (the new play by Mr. Compton's son, Mr. Montague Compton), and She Stoops to Conquer.

Royalty, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—Peter Pan continues to be a great draw here, and an additional matinée was given on Thursday this week, in addition to the ordinary Wednesday and Saturday matinées, to accommodate the demand for seats.

Grand, Ltd. — Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. D. Macfarlane.—The Carl Rosa Opera Company is now in its second week here, and crowded houses continue to enjoy its artistic performances. Don Giovanni was the attraction on Monday, with Mr. Charles Victor as the amorous Don, Mr. Edward Daviss as Don Ottavio, and Mr. Arthur Wenckworth as Leporello; they each gave effective renderings of their parts. Donna Anna was finely interpreted by Miss Grace Nicoll; and the parts of Donna Elvira and Terlina were ably embodied by Miss Elizabeth Burgess and Miss Ina Hill. Lohengrin was presented on Tuesday, with Mr. Julius Walther in the title-part; Faust on Wednesday, with Mr. Edward Davies and Miss Grace Nicoll in the principal parts; Carmen on Thursday, in which a Glasgow lady—Miss Retta McAllister—took the part of Micaela; and Fidelio on Friday. The season of opera at the Grand has been highly successful, and the visits of the Carl Rosa recall, and easily stand comparsion with, the palmiest days of this excellent organisation.

Royal Princess's.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—Mother Goose has now entered upon its last two weeks here, and the second edition of this highly-successful pantomime has been improved by new songs, dances, &c. On Monday Miss Ella Retford was given a benefit, and a crowded house showed its appreciation of this popular lady's share in the success of the pantomime. On Friday Miss Ethel Campbell, the principal boy, took her benefit, and for both occasions many professional friends lent their assistance.

Metropole, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—The stirring drama, The Midnight Mail, holds the boards here this week, and is presented by Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company with realistic effect. Harry Steyne had an effective rendering in the hands of Mr. George Harvard, and Miss Ada Oakley was sympathetic and telling as Mary Steyne; Mr. Fred G. Evison played with much ability the character of Bill Brewer; Mr. Austin Mortimer ably portrayed Leonard Royle; while as Hassen Padisha Mr. Harry Emmefson was a capable villain. Miss Mildred Carr was responsible for a capital impersonation of Nancy Brewer. Miss Phyllis Dailley undertook in a very pleasing and finished fashion the part of Lady Phyllis Eustance.

Lyceum.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Richard Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—Mr. Frank M. Thorne's company presented on Monday evening a new historic drama, entitled Napoleon the Great. The performance of Mr. Hugh Montgomery as Napoleon was a highly meritorious one; and he ably brought out all the well-known characteristics of the Emperor in manner and gesture. The sorely-tried Colonel Lavarennes was excellently interpreted by Mr. Oliver Birrell. Mr. Phil Harper as Colonel Meuron made an ideal villain, acting in a most convincing manner. Miss Maude Russell gave a charming study of the heroine, Leonie Marboeuf, and Miss Leslie Warner as Marie Walewsku was equally successful.

Empire.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Mussett.—A capital programme here is headed by that favourite coster comedian Gus Elen. His many songs are vociferously cheered, and his "Work" song is quite a feature of the evening. Than the Kremo Family it is safe to say not a better troupe of Risleyists have visited Glasgow. Their work is smart and clever, and it is hardly possible to conceive a movement unknown to the members of the troupe. Baby Betty Green, who has been recently appearing in the Theatre Royal pantomime, Edinburgh, with much success, meets with a capital reception. Her dancing is exceptionally clever, and her every action is pleasing. Billy McClain and company (including Mlle. Cordelia) form an interesting turn in the Southern scena, "The Hottest Coon from Dixie." Miss Jeanie Mackay is indeed a pleasing vocalist. Other turns of amusement are Cecilia Maud, vocalist; Chas. Vincent, comedian; James Dunn, tenor; while the comedy turn of Arthur Bedini is well received. The American Bioscope terminates a capital programme.

Zoo-Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—This ever-popular house has as its chief attraction this week Theo Hardeen. Mr. Hardeen is frank enough in admitting all comers on to the stage with their various handcuffs, leg-irons, &c., from all of which he speedily releases himself. His box trick, although old, is very clever. Oswald Williams and company present an exceedingly interesting turn, consisting of many and various illusions, and their "show" is highly appreciated. Mr. Williams's mystifications are exceedingly clever. A well-known turn in Glasgow is that of Terry and Lambert, in their character-sketch, The Cobbler. Ben Harris and his nippers in their comedy-sketch, A Promising Pupil, is another turn which is well received. Hinton and Wooton, in their football match on cycles, as representing local teams, is indeed a novel turn, and both artists deserve credit for the skill they have attained. Other turns include Jas. Brady, comedian; Fielding and Hull, comedy artists; Lidden and Hayward, musical speciality artists; and Dougal St. Clair, entertainer. "The Policeman's Little Run" is shown by the Hippodrome Bioscope.

Pavilion, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Whit Cunliffe tops the bill here, and the popular light comedian comes supplied with several catchy new songs, which go well. Lillian Lea is a dainty singer, and her elaborate scenic rendering of "The Bungalow in Borneo" is highly successful. Ronald Bayne and Evelyn Hope give with fine effect the Drunken scene from David Garrick. Madoline Rees, from the Royal pantomime, sings well; and Ada Martine, from the Metropole pantomime, is a very neat dancer. Lena Brunton's imitations are extremely good; the Donatos, one-legged acrobats, contribute a particularly clever acrobatic turn; James A. Reilly and May Templeton appear as a Dutchman and his girl with success; and Bert Dansie gives a clever descriptive song.

Coliseum. — Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Burdette.—A very attractive programme is submitted here this week. Fred Karno's Football Match production is amusing large audiences; Jordan and Harvey, Hebrew comedians, are fresh arrivals. Other notable turns include the Three Consol Girls, acrobatic dancers; the Ongars, vocalists and dancers; Sylvesta, magician; King Kingston, descriptive tenor; Vay's Juveniles, in a clever comedy sketch; the Bioscope, with an up-to-date series of pictures; and Fred Kitthen and Frank Lister's company, in the powerful dramatic sketch, No. 99, in which Frank Lister acts with much effect as the convict.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—Rose Elliott, the sweet singer of sensible songs, is the star here, and her tuneful ballads catch on immensely. Ernest Rees, the droll comedian, is another strong favourite, and shines alike in song and patter. Rosa Loader gives a most enjoyable musical turn as "a slavey at the piano." The Falcons are extremely clever acrobatic equilibrists, with a host of new feats and smart comedy items. George Helm and Emmie Cozens do well in a comedy sketch, The Doctor and the Patient; Bros. Durrant are clever acrobats and contortionists, with an airship novelty; Hastings and Fields contribute a neat song and dance turn; Will Letters is clever in his eccentric ditties; Reynold's Minstrels give a typical negro entertainment; and the Bioscope Pictures conclude an attractive programme.

Gaiety.—Manager, Mr. Harry Bowerman.—Williams and Warden, the popular Irish comedians, top the bill here, and have had a cordial reception; Mark Anthony, comedian, has also proved a favourite, his several songs being rendered in pleasing fashion. The other artists include Vincent, expert acrobat; Clark and Gold, American banjo artists; the Jays, patter comedians; the Percys, duettists and dancers; Lillie Laurie, soprano; Andy Conlin, contortionist; and the Bioscope, with a novel series of pictures.

Glossop. — Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—Mr. Lingford Carson's répertoire company (under the direction of Mr. Charles Draycott) is here this week. On Monday and Tuesday large houses witnessed good representations of the drama A Modern Adventuress. Mr. Draycott gave a masterly exposition of the character of Pietro Donelli; Mr. Morley Carroll was well placed as William Delby; and Mr. Sydney C. Cranston gave a clever portrayal of the hero, Harry Delby. Mr. J. Dobson Clyde was prominent as Walter Beale, a detective; whilst Mr. H. Scatchard as Steve Meredith left nothing to be desired. Mr. Ernest J. Fare was praiseworthy as Wallace Danton; Mr. Will White (John Crompton) and Miss Nellie V. Warden (Sally Hodges) provided plenty of fun, and also contributed good songs; Miss Muriel Thompson in the dual parts of Violet Meredith and Maud Delby displayed much skill; Miss Marie Robson was sympathetic as Vinette Delby. The week's programme included The Heart of a Hero, The Octoroon, and The Ticket-of-Leave Man.

Gloucester. — Palace. — Owners, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—Fred Cary heads the bill this week with an excellent turn; George and Edwards, comedians, give some smart patter and dancing; The Cecilias, lady instrumentalists, do well; Edie Endon is a clever sand dancer; a graceful act on the trapeze is contributed by Queenie Lolo; Vera Mayne is in favour as a singer; Little May is kindly received in her Irish dance; Emmie Holder, with a really fine voice, receives full recognition; Hector and Sultan are good in a comedy turn; and the Jackley Trio keep the fun going in their comedy speciality. The Palace Bioscope, as usual, shows some good films.

Great Yarmouth.—Royal Aquarium—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mr. Fredk. Melville's company is here this week with The Beast and the Beauty. Mr. Herbert Ford gives an effective representation of Jack Barrymore (the Beast) and Miss Lydia Audre is excellent as Violet (the Beauty). Other characters capitally portrayed are the Earl of Loman by Mr. William E. Passmore, Henry Denver by Mr. Bernard Mervyn, Tom Chicken by Mr. Will Corrie, Dick Soanes by Mr. Harry Wimpenny, Ned Samson by Mr. Eric Campbell, Mr. Sharp by Mr. Alfred Wood, James by Mr. Harry Seton, Clarice by Miss Gertrude Camp, Mimi by Miss Mamie Rendle, and Deliah Vane by Miss Daisy Gwynne.

Greenock.—Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietors, the Greenock Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—The musical play Florodora, presented by Mr. J. Bannister Howard's No. 1 company, is the attraction here this week. Mr. Alf E. Passmore as Anthony Tweedlepunch plays in mirth-provoking style; Mr. Stanley White is an excellent Cyrus Gilfain; Mr. H. V. Cropton is distinctly good as Frank Abercoed; and the same may be said of Mr. Harold Perry as Captain Donegal. Miss Kate Leicester acts with appropriate dignity as Lady Holyrood; Miss Daisy Lake is a winsome Dolores, and sings throughout with great charm; Miss Lily Gullick acts well as Angela Gilfain, and sings and dances delightfully. The chorus and augmented orchestra, under the able direction of Mr. W. Brightwell, add much to the attractiveness of the popular play.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—Curtis and Vanity, American comedy artists, who head the bill here, give a smart performance, and are loudly applauded. The Brothers Hayes do some clever business in The Porter and the Professional; an amusing sketch is that presented by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shelley, entitled Miss Summerson's Baby; Gertie Douglas is a clever artist, who sings well; Bert Lytton, comedian, is successful, and the Empire pictures are up to date.

Pavilion, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. A. White.—The bill here includes the Harvey Boys, who amuse with their boxing speciality act, entitled That was Me; the Sisters Poole sing and dance in a pleasing manner; the Ringling Trio are clever stilt-walkers; Jock McNab and company appear in a farcical comedy entitled The Egyptian Mummy, creating great amusement; Kit Keen, coloured comedian, obtains applause; and the pictures shown by the Paviscope make up a good show.

Grimsby.—Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Chairman of Directors, Mr. H. J. Curry; Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry.—Mr. Ian Maclaren is presenting a series of Shakespearean plays and old English comedies. The week was opened with the ever-popular David Garrick, and Mr. Maclaren's impersonation of the actor was an excellent piece of work. Miss Edith Coleman supported him admirably as Mabel Brockson. Other plays staged during the week were Othello, The Merchant of Venice, Hamlet, and Macbeth.

Curry's Tivoli.—Chairman of Directors, Mr. H. J. Curry; Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—The Aquamaroff Troupe of Russian dancers and singers give a most interesting performance; a capital sketch is given by Howard and Collinson; and others appearing are Angeline, a clever lady juggler; Harry Bickley, comedian; Mdlle. Roza and her dogs; Eadie and Ramsden, in a sketch; Cedar and Elgar, comedians; and Auto, an instrumentalist.

The Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. V. Allton.—"Uncle Willie" Churchill is enhancing his reputation here as a humorist, and his witticisms cause roars of laughter; Les Rollis present a novelty as the artist and the monkey; and others contributing to the programme are Li Chang Hi, Chinese magician; Lola Patey, burlesque actress; Storey and Trigg, eccentrics; Miss Hulo Hodgson and Mr. Harry Lowther, in a sketch; the Cymros, comedy duettists; and Carson Hicks, coon singer.

Halifax.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—The visit of Mr. Norman V. Norman in a répertoire of costume plays has aroused considerable interest here. Robin Hood was given a great welcome on Monday. The striking personality of Mr. Norman made him a warm favourite in the title-rôle; Miss Beatrice Wilson's Maid Marion was a delightful and artistic achievement; Mr. Aubrey Mather aroused enthusiasm as Little John; a plausible Lord Guy of Gisborne was found in Mr. Norman Leslie; Mr. Brember Wills soon earned the execrations of the audience as Simon; and Mr. Kenneth Bruce was admired as King Richard; Mr. Francis Hope proved a good-humoured Friar Tuck.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—An attractive company is headed this week by Mdlle. Irma Lorraine, whose posing is much admired; the New York Comedy Four are also warmly greeted; Frank Cumminger and Miss Colona, champion buckwing and speciality dancers, are exceptionally smart; and Herbert Lenton, expert equilibrist; J. W. Mace and Rose Harvey, together with the Ergotti and King Luis Troupe, Risley performers, create favourable impressions.

Palace and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Ed. Harrison.—The Harmony Four supply one of the brightest turns that has ever visited here; Edwards and Dacre are successful in a duologue, "What a Life"; a clever turn is provided by Simosa San, a juggler, who introduces some wonderfully trained pigeons; Max Duffek, Hary Taylor, Bros. Krags, and Mdlle. Rolland, and some interesting pictures are also among the attractions.

Hanley. — Royal, Ltd. — Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Douglas Elphinstone.—Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company is paying a welcome return visit in Lucky Durham. Mr. Edmund Kennedy is once more seen in his faithful portrayal of John Durham, which is truly clever and artistic; Miss Helen Belmore contributes a charming interpretation of Helen Vallerton, and as the mother of John Durham, Miss Louisa Gourlay is delightful; Mr. Robert Forsyth is well placed as Lord Mountfallon; as the Hon. Reginald Steighton Mr. Arthur Leigh once more presents a fine character sketch; Mr. A. E. Walker is a capital Mr. Vallerton; Miss Frances Wolviston as Lady Mountfallon is distinctly successful; and Miss Florence Dulhunty as her daughter is exceedingly good.

Grand.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes.—A capital programme is submitted this week. The Melody Makers, under the direction of Mr. Cecil Clarke, are seen in a vocal and instrumental sketch, The Burglar's Dream; Mr. Darrel Llewellyn's fine baritone voice is heard to advantage, and the dancing of Mr. Hugh Ray is appreciated; Dinah Morris and her company of Southern Belles are seen in a musical sketch, The Lost Coon; Selina Braatz, in her juggling performance, brings down the house; Tom Maxwell and Virginia Francis return in their comedy act, which is most diverting; Beatie Renee is a smart comedienne and mimic; Frank Harwood has a good presence and sings in taking style; George Brooks, comedian, scores; and Forster's Comedy Company is seen in a capital sketch, Ferdie's Ma-in-Law. The pictures include the wreck of the "Berlin."

Hastings.—Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—A strong attraction is found here this week in Mr. Lewis Waller's company in Brigadier Gerard. Mr. Langhorne Burton makes a great success as Captain Gerard, giving a delightful representation of the redoubtable young Gascon. No less successful is Miss Muriel Godfrey Turner, who appears as La Comtesse de Roquelaure, a part that is suited to her personality and her great dramatic talents; Mr. Arthur Somers makes an admirable Napoleon, looking and acting the part effectively; a favourable impression is made by Mr. George Mallett in his able portrayal of the great Talleyrand; Mr. J. Henry Twyford plays the boastful Major Bron vigorously; and Miss Margery Chard imbues the part of Agnes with brightness and charm. Admirable service is also rendered by Messrs. Cecil Wynne, Sidney Young, James Crowe, Reginald Mason, Harry Turner, and the remainder of the numerous cast. The play is very nicely staged, and meets with a deservedly favourable reception.

Huddersfield.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Andrews. — Mr. Frederick Melville's drama, The Ugliest Woman on Earth is here, with Miss Beatrice Homer in the chief part. The supreme ugliness is, except for one brief flash, discreetly veiled, but Miss Homer does good work under even such a disadvantage; exceptional ability as a comedian is shown by Mr. T. Edlin as Herrick; Miss Nellie Jackson as Aggie is a distinct help; the hero is played in a straightforward, effective manner by Mr. Philip Darien; and Mr. Leyton Cancellor as Gold and Miss Nell Oliver as Rose Courtney do good work.

Hippodrome, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—At the head of a thoroughly interesting programme are the Three Rainats in a smartly executed and daring performance on the flying trapeze. There are also here the Five Vernons, brilliant xylophone players; Henderson, a blind musician, who charms with his contributions as a concertina-player of high-class music; Walter Curtis, whose funniosities create roars of laughter; Miss Florence Deighton, ballad vocalist; Miss Addie Dorina, who gives a clever protean turn in her sketch, Dr. Spot's Patients; Frank Boyce, descriptive vocalist; Mlle. Onra, in her performance on the slack wire; and some new and interesting pictures on the Biograph.

Hull. — Theatre Royal. — Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Hull has been hearty in its acclamations of The Little Stranger, and Mr. Michael Morton's play has fully caught on. No wonder when talented Master Ed. Garrett is the Little Stranger. He has a manner of making the audience roar that few could beat. Mr. Wynn Miller's pretty little play—itself a perfect model of dramatic construction—forms a most attractive second piece, and a curtain-raiser miles above the average.

Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Local Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller. — The Karnos and His Majesty's Guests are interchangeable terms—both are productive of much fun. The extravaganza brings with it this time a fresh Sergt. Lightning; though we do not see the name of Fred Kitchen, we have a very clever substitute in Mr. Geo. Hestor. The Shoplifter is capitally portrayed by Miss Leonora Castelle.

Alexandra Theatre. — Mortons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—The name of Melville is one with which to conjure up images of melodrama. This week his Soldier's Wedding is proving the drawing power of his work. It tells an old tale with considerable force, and is breezy and bright. As the soldier hero, Mr. Wingold Lawrence finds full scope for his powers; Miss Jessie Winter has a rôle in which she secures the audience's sympathy. Good business has been the result of this visit.

Palace. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Jno. S. Barnett. — George Leyton, the celebrated actor-vocalist, creates a good impression with his new scena, The Wreck of the Birkenhead. The next principal turn is Henry J. Corner, who leads in The Dandies. Another excellent engagement is that of Andrew Roy, from Covent Garden; his songs are well rendered and aptly illustrated. Simms and Simms are clever comedy instrumentalists; the Neilson Sisters are dainty comediennes and dancers; and Ailsa Douglas is a capable vocalist. The Two Bostons complete an excellent company.

Empire.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Selwyn; Manager, Mr. Harry Slingsby.—The Leopold family of acrobats are good tumblers; illustrated songs by Agnes Lynch are well rendered; and Miss Henriquette Maude describes in an original, clever, and racy style pictures of her travels. The other turns are quite up to the average.

The New Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham; Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn.—The Burnells, musical comedy artists, top the bill in their sketch On the Links; Tom Lloyd and Walter Stanley have some excellent songs; Winifred Stewart, soubrette, makes a big hit; and the Five Casino Girls are clever musicians. Milner Verron and the Mahatmas complete the bill.

The Circus.—Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Emerson.—The Globe Animated Pictures are amusing big crowds nightly. Mr. J. C. Oliver also gives an interesting turn.

Hyde.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. R. Feather.—Good houses are again the rule here this week. The Kurios, a funny trio, create roars of laughter; the Three Derbys, clever acrobats, in skilful feats are loudly applauded; the Sisters Varley are charming duettists; Bee Sinclair sings with artistic expression; Flo Melville throws plenty of spirit into her songs; Arthur Bearle is a talented mimic; Varden creates merriment by his ventriloquial sketch; Shavo is an expert juggler; and the Bioscope pictures are greatly enjoyed.

Ohmy's Circus.—The Phillipi Brothers, in their marvellous acrobatic staircase act and other feats, are proving a great draw here. They share the honours with the Performing Bulls; the Watsons, smart acrobats; Kyasyas (Jack and Cassa), who are loudly applauded; Miss Lily and Claude Ohmy in clever riding; August and September, in droll sketches; and Living Pictures. Claude Ohmy took his benefit on Wednesday.

Ilkeston.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—Mr. Harry Graham's pantomime, Little Red Riding Hood, is the attraction this week, the title-rôle being entrusted to Miss Mabel Howe. Miss Grace Stafford appears with effect as Mary Muffit, and Miss Mabel Kessler achieves success as Boy Blue, her cornet and post horn solos giving much pleasure to the audience; the Misses Dickie Faie and Cissie Langdale are suitably placed as Prince Charming and Margery Daw; Miss Tessa D'Alberti is good as Fairy Glowworm; Mr. Harry Howe makes a capital Dame, his songs being given in good style; and Messrs. Grant and Kelly add greatly to the fun as Johnny Stout and Johnny Green, their knockabout and cross patter act being highly appreciated; Mr. Will Raglan works well as the Wolf; and Mr. Jas. Green is seen as Baron Badlot; the Escaladers, double ladder performers, are exceedingly clever, and the Gaye Trio are exceptionally smart little dancers.

Queen's Palace of Varieties.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. T. Knightall.—Mlle. Rosini presents a miniature menagerie, which pleases; U. C. Ugo is an illusionist of merit; J. C. Heffron, character comedian, does well; Flo Wade, vocalist; Gipsy Ann, with a dog telling fortunes; Sisters Ford, duettists; Eric King, comedian; and Cissie Ross, serio, also appear.

Ipswich.—Lyceum Theatre.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Leonard Grey.—The four-act romantic drama A Warning to Women has been played here during the week by a company under the direction of Mr. C. Watson Mill. Mr. Mill gains the approval of the audience by his impersonation of Shaun, the wandering minstrel; and Mr. Norman G. Cannon, in the part of Dr. Marcus Dread, is an orthodox villain; Miss Rosalind Tate as the Squire's daughter displayed both pathos and tragic power in her rôle of Moira Kennion; and Miss Grace Barton did justice to the part of Shelia. Other characters were well sustained by Messrs. W. Benge, Henry Rutland, George Harvey, and Miss Edith Rulland.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The star turn in an attractive programme this week is Syd May, whose clever impersonations of various well-known artists are very clever and amusing; George Prince, who calls himself the Crazy Coon, is very droll; and Fredy and Carmen contribute an attractive musical act. Other turns include May Markow, a pleasing comedienne; Rose and Calvert, in a comedy act; Woolmer Young, vocalist; Primavesi, juggler; and the Cumberland Troupe of cyclists, who are warmly applauded for their unique feats on the wheel.

Jarrow.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jerold E. Reed.—Mr. Charles H. Lester and company are appearing here this week, in The Bank of England and The Sorrows of Satan. In the former drama, Mr. Lester furnishes a clever study of Sherlock Holmes; Mr. G. Clifton Boyne plays with force as Stephen Hartley; Mr. C. Herman Pullen does full justice to the part of Hon. Bertie Burlington; Mr. F. Ernstone is an excellent Godfrey Dane; Mr. Harry T. Wood a manly Eric Dane; and Mr. Edmond O'Grady an amusing Gordon Isaacs. Miss Lallah Davis gives an interesting rendering of Aminta; Miss Dorothy Riddell is simply charming as Sylvia Barraclough; and Miss Marjorie Davenport does full justice to the part of Margaret Dane. Mr. W. R. Stanley and Miss Annie Thomas look well after the parts of Tommy Sprouts and Lucy Lockett.

Kilmarnock.—King's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Major Wand.—Commencing on Monday, for three nights only, Mr. George Henry's company presented the domestic comedy-drama The Sledge-Hammer, by Wilson Barrett. Mr. Cliffe Appleby made an excellent Forgemaster; Messrs. Wm. Carriden and Stephen Crossley as Jacob and Simon, his sons, thrilled the audience in their terrific fight with sledge-hammers; Mr. Morris Maud as Everard, the educated son, was very effective. The humorous side of the drama was well sustained by Mr. Frank Litchfield as Tom Walker and Mr. Victor Rolfe as Sammy Shaw; Miss Jessie Hope made a charming Rose Maywell; Miss Marion Ashly a good-natured Catherine Herris, and Miss Lottie Davis a dignified Mrs. Derrick. Mr. Fred Benton's company presented The French Spy on Thursday.

Kirkcaldy. — King's Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Burton.—Mr. F. R. Benson's company opened here on Monday night, when Hamlet was performed. Mr. Henry Herbert in the title-part was a tower of strength, and completely eclipsed his previous successes here; the Ophelia of Miss Dorothy Green was a wonderful study, and she is to be congratulated on her brilliant acting; Mr. E. Spencer Geach was capitally suited as the King, and as the Queen Miss Mary Webb was in every way praiseworthy. Mr. Ross Shore was conspicuous as Polonius, and spoke his lines well; Mr. Gerald Ames merited a good word as the Ghost; and Mr. Charles Francis as Horatio and Mr. Reginald Owen as Laertes were both excellent.

Lancaster.—Athenæum.—Lessee and Manager, ton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Bertram G. Iles.—The premier position is taken here by Dean Tribune's pantometta, Bo-Peep, which is accorded a very good reception. The music is pretty, and there is also plenty of fun, the principal parts being in the safe hands of Ethel Lonsdale as Bo-Peep, Dean Tribune as Simple Simon, Estella Tribune as Boy Blue, Medley Barrett as Baron Bustup, Harry Tribune as Shadows, and David Denard as Dame Dishwater; the Selbinis give a wonderfully clever show as trick-cyclists, besides being expert baton swingers and acrobats, and their reception is most enthusiastic; Carrie Laurie's Kindergarten introduces a number of exceptionally well-trained children, whose entertainment, A Model School, proves extremely popular and amusing; the twin Sisters Anderson are vivacious speciality artists, whose smart skipping-rope dance meets with a very hearty reception; Frank Couch, fresh from pantomime, here makes a first appearance, and is successful with his original patter; Lennie and Hast, in a poetic phantasy, The Sea Nymph, are very good, their singing and acting calling forth great praise; the Strads are both clever and amusing in their musical sketch, The Night Before the Concert; Alice May and company present a humorous protean sketch entitled Tranquillity; Sadie Simpson, a smart comedienne and dancer, scores a success.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—Interest is aroused here by the first visit of Henri Cot, the French giant, and Prince Colibri, the midget; roars of merriment are called forth by Tom Kelso and company, in the comic absurdity, The Silly Servant; the Brothers Adderley are entertaining duettists and musical mimics, their local hits also being smart; Ashby and Moore are capital Dutch delineators, and very clever dancers; Lillian Victoria's male impersonations are good; and J. B. Selph, in song scena, "The Veteran's Dream," is successful; Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope continues its popularity.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Cragg; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Rousby.—Mr. Lingford Carson's company is appearing here this week in The Power of the Cross. The piece is admirably staged. Mr. George A. De Gray proves his fitness for so arduous a task as that of Baron Wolfe Curzola; Mr. Chas. Linney as Gerald Fairfax contributes some fine acting, as does also Mr. Frank Stephens as Benjamin Hawke. Mr. A. J. Haviland's depiction of Dr. Leslie Fairfax leaves nothing to be desired: Miss Stanley Burt gives an excellent rendering of Margaret Seaton; the part of Rita Lascelles, the adventuress, is well portrayed by Miss Cicely Desmond; and Blanche Kingsley is cleverly sustained by Miss Phyllis Vaughan. The comedy element is smartly furnished by Mr. Richard E. Nugent as Timothy O'Dowd, who is ably seconded by Miss Etta Turner as Dolly Gray.

LEITH.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—The interesting American comedy-drama, Human Hearts, is well-played by Mr. Robert Macdonald's company, under the direction of Mr. W. J. Henderson. The part of Tom Logan is admirably acted by Mr. W. D. Fazan; and Jeannette Logan receives a realistic impersonation at the hands of Miss Maud Lindon; Mr. Ernest Gray gives a telling portrait of the villainous Frederick Armsdale; Jem Mason and Mose Jones find good representatives in Mr. E. H. Dobell and Mr. George Hewitson; Jimmy Logan and Limpy Morgan are cleverly interpreted by Messrs. Fred Lester and Mr. Harry Turner; while Mr. Henry Walton puts genuine humour into the part of Deputy Warder Weston; Mrs. Edwin Palmer plays carefully as Samantha Logan; Little Gracie is nicely acted by Miss Reana Roberts; the Ruth Larkins of Miss Dora Watson is a highly commendable performance; and Miss Althea Hyde appears with success as Helen Shaw.

LICHFIELD.—ST. JAMES'S HALL.—On Wednesday night Messrs. Henry Chattell and G. W. Bowes, by arrangement with Mr. William Green, presented The Sign of the Cross to a large and most appreciative audience. The Marcus of Mr. Wallace G. Court was a very satisfactory presentation; Mr. Burton W. Yaldwyn, Mr. Cyprian H. Matthews, and Mr. Lionel Yaldwyn were each excellent representatives of Nero, Dijellinus, and Licinius respectively; the Glabrio of Mr. Donald McAdam, an excellent piece of acting, was on the traditional lines of the part; the Mercia was Miss Nancy York, who gave an intense reading of the role; Berenice was excellently played by Miss Lena Gordon; and Dacia found a lively representative in Miss Dorothy Lambert; the Favius of Mr. W. Burton and the Stephanus of Miss Winifred Williamson were notable instances in a very adequate cast. The scenery and dresses were admirable.

LINCOLN.—PALACE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. Sydney Arthur.—A superb series of art pictures is presented by the Three Graces, three ladies whose representations of statuary are marvellously effective. Harry Freeman had to contribute four songs to each house on Monday, such a furore did he create; and an encore was insisted on for Gillin, a smart ventriloquist. Marion Fletcher, Pyck, Tholl and Taylor, the Alaskarno Trio, Walter Keating, and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux add to the enjoyment of the evening.

LIVERPOOL.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—The new Chinese comic opera, See See, opened the dramatic season here on Monday, and was received with demonstrations of delight. The fun created by Mr. Frank Danby as Hang-Kee and Mr. W. H. Rawlins in the ponderous character of Cheoo, was fast and furious; Mr. Leonard Mackay as Yen acted and sang with taste, his song, "The Man of the Moment," earning several encores; Miss Lily Elsie was a sweet See See, and rendered pieces in exquisite style; Miss Topsy Sinden made a hit with her special dances; Miss Amy Augarde played well as Mai-Yai, the fortune-teller; and the other principal rôles were filled most efficiently.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—In Liverpool the Melville dramas always prove a strong attraction, and The Girl who took the Wrong Turning, presented here this week, has proved no exception to the rule. Miss Frances Ruttledge, in the title-rôle, acted with taste and discretion; Miss Hilda Baynton was a sweet Lucy Coventry; Mr. Roy Redgrave was a manly Willie Mason; Mr. Sidney Sarl gave a capital rendering of Bill Slater; and other able artists were Miss Nannie Meade (Vesta), Mr. Walter Thornton (James Harcourt), and Mr. Frank Robertson (Jack Fenton).

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE, LTD.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—The regular season commenced here on Monday with The Beauty of Bath. In the title-rôle Miss Ellaline Terriss renewed her acquaintance with her numerous Liverpool friends, who accorded her a most hearty welcome; Mr. Seymour Hicks also come in for a flattering reception, his work as Lieut. Alington being followed by continuous laughter; Mr. Stanley Brett as Mr. Beverley assisted greatly with the comedy; Master Valchera was a funny programme boy; Mr. Sydney Fairbrother presented a humorous Mrs. Goodge; and worthy support came from Mr. William Lugg (Viscount Bellingham), Mr. Laurence Caird (Lord Quorn), and Miss Florence Lloyd (Mrs. Alington).

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs. T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—Flush with success from the Royal Court Theatre pantomime Hetty King topped the bill here on Monday, and added greatly to her popularity. A very attractive turn is that of Countess Romanow, whose splendid figure is seen to advantage in artistic poses; Doris Deane, also from the Royal Court pantomime, is loudly applauded for her very attractive items; Marie Jones delights with her quick changes; and Ross and Grayson are well received; Harry Claff and the Primrose Quartette also entertain.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Her One Great Sin has done good business here this week. Miss Lydia Donovan, who brought an excellent company, played Grace Warhurst in a most efficient manner; Mr. C. Quinton Fulford was a powerful Arnold Thornhill; the part of Reuben Warhurst was ably undertaken by Mr. Claude H. Seaton; the well-known Lambert family, so long connected with this drama, were well to the fore, Mr. Charles E. Lambert being a striking and humorous Dan Hundle; Miss Louie Walton repeating with success her picture of the scheming hag, Bet Hundle; Miss Nellie Lambert making an attractive Nancy Wimpenny; and Miss Maudie Lambert playing the child's part of Grace with every intelligence.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Top of the bill here this week is Harry Ford, who has been well received for his funny songs and patter; some surprising illusions have come from Roland; the Columbia Comedy Trio created great amusement with their humorous operatic pieces; Ada Fawn pleased her audience with several popular songs; the singing and dancing of Starr and Jerome were much appreciated; dancing on the wire by Miss Yetta was a particularly clever act; Austin and Cowan were loudly applauded for their vocal efforts; and others in the bill were Ida Ross, comedienne and Tyrolean vocalist; Billie Burfurd, comedienne; Gus Hindell, comedian; and Charlie Williams, negro comedian.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The Royal stock company here is affording great satisfaction with the drama, When the Lights are Low. Mr. Percy Boucher causes much amusement with his Willie, and other well held parts are those by Messrs. Cecil Ravenswood, Sydney Grant, Harry Tresham, E. D. Allen, R. Wilton, Leo Montgomery, Miss Florence Palmer, Miss Beryl Ravenswood, and Miss Florence Cameron. The Royal Bioscope shows some excellent pictures.

PADDINGTON PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. M. Montgomery.—The Royal stock dramatic company here is this week giving a clever rendering of The Terror of Paris, the principal parts of which are impersonated by Messrs. Wallace Campbell, Frank S. Stickland, Francis E. Wybert, H. Hesslegrave, H. G. Brandon, Charles Herberte, Miss Gladys Hastings-Walton, Miss Lina Nazeby, and Miss Florence Barnes.

PARK PALACE.—Proprietors, Lancashire Vaudeville Syndicate, Ltd.; General Director, Mr. Walter De Frece.—The stock dramatic company here is this week presenting A Man in a Thousand, the principal characters of which are undertaken by Mr. Albert Sember (Owen Penrose), Mr. Walter Foster (Jim Barkis), Mr. Hugh Carmichael (Gregor Gibson), and Miss Lilian Burns (Hester Penrose).

WESTMINSTER. — Lessee, Mr. Fred E. Weisker; Acting-Manager Mr. G. Montgomery. — Ford and Barris are top of the programme here this week, delighting everyone with their dancing and singing; Carrina Leonard has some taking songs; the roller skating of J. H. McCann is ably executed; Percy Farrimond, the singing collier, earns a cordial reception; some particularly clever painting is quickly done by Leo Cromo; Harry Levaine shows himself to be a quaint comedian; and the list also contains the names of Nora Martyn, vocalist, and the Three Behans, duettists and speciality artists.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.—Marie Kendall is here this week, affording pleasure with her popular songs; Frank and Jen Latona have an excellent musical comedy turn; Tom Terris and company, including Miss Mildred Devere, present an interesting scena. A Night in Montmartre; Dan Conroy causes much laughter with his songs and patter; the Five Bogannys as the Lunatic Bakers, are extremely lively and funny; some delightful songs come from Marguerite Broadfoote, a refined comedienne; Fred Elton, at the piano, has a capital speciality turn; and others who appear are the Three Tauberts, xylophonists, and Steve McCarthy, the Irish coon.

LOUGHBOROUGH.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Payne-Seddon and George Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lindsey Edwards. Somebody's Sweetheart is being played here this week by Mr. Edward Marris's company. Miss Effie Vincent very prettily characterises Lulu, and meets with great success: Martin Blabbs is in the hands of Mr. George Bentwood, whose acting proves a source of unbounded merriment; Mr. Charles Bertram in the rôle of Santon Ashleigh gives an excellent interpretation; and Miss Millie Gordon supplies a natural delineation of Freddie Ashleigh. Stephen Leventon is in the capable hands of Mr. W. B. Nugent; and other parts are well sustained by Reginald Hamber as Old Joe, Miss Maisie Jerrard as Zora, and Miss Dolly Payne and Miss Rosie Chandler as Norah and Molly.

MACCLESFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Gatley.—Mr. T. H. Taylor's company in The Worst Woman in London is here this week. Miss Olga Andre is seen to advantage in her original character of Frances Vere; Miss Polly Marsh brightly depicts the part of Matilda Parker; Mr. Geo. Gaisford scores an immense success as Jack Felton, and James Milford is played with discretion by Mr. F. Vernon Travers.

MAIDSTONE.—HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. S. Baskerville.—The Ten Loonies are drawing crowded houses to this popular place of entertainment this week with their clever musical sketch, Dotty. Ford and Hanson are smart instrumentalists. Kyoto, with his clever burlesque conjuring and acrobatic act, is well received; A. P. Boswell is a comedian with original methods; Miss Esme Gordon is a clever dancer, and Miss May Geraldine, together with the Bioscope, complete the programme.

MANCHESTER.—PRINCE'S THEATRE, LTD.—Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—An elaborate production of The Geisha is the attraction here this week. It is in the hands of Mr. Mouillot's chief company, whose rendering is reminiscent of the best days of the popular musical piece. Miss Louise Collier's singing as O Mimosa San is a great treat, and her acting generally is full of daintiness and charm. Miss Florrie Saunders adds a pretty delineation of Molly Seymour, her dancing and singing being much enjoyed; while Miss Violet Kenyon's depiction of the French interpreter, O Juliette Diamante, is lively and individual. Mr. Edward Carlton has great chances as Wun Hi, and certainly avails himself of them to the utmost; Mr. Cyril Thompson is manly, agreeable, and excellently equipped in point of vocal gifts as Reginald Fairfax; and Mr. Lionel Braham makes a capital Imari, chief of police. The remaining parts are suitably filled, and the total effect is excellent.

GAIETY THEATRE, LTD.—Acting-Manager, Mr. H. M. Thorburn.—An interested audience witnessed the performance here on Monday of Lights Out. Mr. H. B. Irving's successfully played version of the German military play interdicted by the Kaiser. Mr. J. Maundy-Gregory's company gave a very creditable rendering, and the general staging was realistic and formally satisfying to the eye. Miss Frances Davie gave a very intelligent rendering of Klara Volkhardt, and a strong and convincing depiction of her embittered father, the sergeant, was provided by Mr. Lionel D'Arragon. As the rivals, Von Lauffen and Helbig, Mr. Charles Esdale and Mr. Richard Fielding played with sincerity; and Mr. Kenneth Brampton was applauded for a quietly forcible delineation of Von Howen. Mr. Lambert Plummer as Captain Lebdenburg displayed some excellent light comedy in the court-martial scene; and others who contributed to an interesting interpretation of the play were Mr. Francis J. Bithell, Mr. Frederick Clifton, and Mr. F. Wigton. A fantastic play in one act, A Hundred Years Hence, preceded.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's successful sporting drama Bound to Win is the fare here this week. The play was seen quite recently by local audiences, and is still proving a strong attraction. Mr. George Steel as Harry Lyndon, Mr. Edward Fryer as Philip Ayre, Miss Kate Froude as Gladys Orme, and Miss Violet Langley as Marion Forbes, are the principal members of the cast, and besides these successful interpretations good work is done by Mr. Arnold H. Arnold as Buffit, Miss Annie Lee as Flo Searching, Mr. J. Franklin as Ned Oakley, and Mr. Edward Bikker as Squire Forbes. The play has a strong sporting flavour, and is staged in excellent style.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's principal company is here this week in Walter Howard's well-known drama, Two Little Drummer Boys, condensed to suit the requirements of two shows a night. A brisk performance is given, in which Miss Kathleen Magee particularly distinguishes herself as Margaret Rivers, and Mr. Fred Emery is seen to advantage as Captain Carsdale. Mr. Archie Helsby makes a good villain; and the two boys of the title are neatly impersonated by Miss Maggie English and Miss Maudie Douglas. Plenty of amusement is caused by the humorous efforts of Mr. J. Magraph, Mr. H. Lynden, and Miss Lizzie Chambers.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. R. Flanagan; Manager, Mr. P. Ryan Smith.—A Woman Worth Winning, a drama of "Russian life and strife," is staged here this week by Mr. Percy Norman's No. 1 company. Mr. A. B. Mackay as Fergus Lovinski has a good part, which he renders with distinction, and Mr. Percy Norman provides a strong character study as General Borinski. As Roma Pauloff Miss Maud Buchanan presents a careful and sympathetic impersonation; and credit is due also to Mr. Charles R. Hann as Bardoff, Mr. Hall Eldon as Scribbles, and Miss Ida Mackay as Katerina Kloss. The play is bright and dramatic, and lacks nothing in the way of stage effects.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr. Fred C. Somerfield are here this week in their recently produced Venetian drama, The Tyrant. Miss Dagmar and Mr. Somefield are still in the principal rôles, and many (if not all) of the original cast remain, of whom Mr. Roy Fortesque, as the tyrant Angelo, Mr. Lionel Atwell, as Rudolph, Miss Millie Ford, as Katherine, and Miss Lallah Shelton, as Eulie, are the most prominent. The play is apparently embarked upon a career of success.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—Sensationally crowded houses—with hundreds turned away from the doors—signalise the appearance here this week of La Milo, in her series of beautiful classical poses. The Mystery of the Cliff, an episode by Will Evans and Tom Craven, is played acceptably by a capable cast; and other good turns are provided by Harry Marte, comedian and dancer; Professor Dunning, ventriloquist; Harold Hughman, the Mexican mimic of familiar sounds; Les Voces, operatic vocalists; Verno and Voyce, in their vocal scena The Amateur Newsboy; Barrett and Knowles, patter comedians; Kahn and Kahn, in a necromantic act; and Harry Lawson, comedian. The pictures show the cowboys of the West.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—Arthur Rigby and company are presenting here this week, with much success, an original Eastern episode entitled The Isle of Ooma, introducing good songs and dances and effective scenery and costumes. Auto-Atlas astounds the audience by lifting with his teeth a genuine motor car whilst balancing on two upright poles. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finden are seen to great advantage in a capital sketch, Two to One; and Minnie Hunt and Rhys Thomas are equally successful in their trifle, My Birthday. The Students, under the direction of Wallis Arthur, present a delightful musical comedy interlude; Stelling introduces his very clever dog Kiswaski; Hettie Chattel does well as a male impersonator; and Carlos Menard is an exceedingly clever trick violinist. Two vocal items by the choir and an amusing film shown on the Bioscope are also included in the programme.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter de Frece; Secretary, Mr. P. Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—Marie Loftus provides the top star turn here this week, her impersonations of past and present music-hall stars being capital, and her reception flattering. Hill and Whitaker make a great hit in their unique novelty in music and song, and the efforts of the artists are greatly appreciated. Mr. and Mrs. Lucas successfully present scenes from the work of Charles Dickens; Shawlene, undoubtedly the world's greatest whistler, is well received; the Robertys Family are clever and amusing in their equilibristic and juggling pantomime; and good turns are also contributed by Constance Mori, a charming speciality dancer; the Macdonald Trio of eccentric musicians; and the Lorrisons, comedy duo. The Palace Pictures, as usual, are good.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. J. B. Taylor.—Jack McKenzie and company are to the fore here this week in the smart musical comedy The Belle of Barcelona, the dancing, singing, and general effects being very effective. The Days are exceedingly clever second-sight seers; Edwin Garth is a funny comedian; the Four Maisanos are clever; Little Deene sings well; and other satisfactory turns are provided by Bean and Belle in a pretty scena; Pots and Florence, in a highly-finished acrobatic performance; and Edwards, the Australian baritone. "The Jewel Robbers" are depicted on the Bioscope.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—A Coster's Honeymoon is presented here this week in a highly satisfactory manner by Amy Anderson and a capable company. Harry Carlton, the popular comedian, scores as Billy Shine in a successful sketch, The Window Cleaner; and Lady Julia is an intelligent ape that does some exceedingly smart things; Phern and Phern are pleasing and expert instrumentalists; Clifton and Gibson; eccentric comedians, have some amusing patter; and Harry Taft, the whistling comedian, is popular. Wright, Ismay, and Wright, in a speciality dance, and Charles Somers, a comedian of the stand still order, also contribute to the programme. "A Loafer's Lucky Day" is shown on the Bioscope. On the occasion of our visit Fraser and Haley, duettists, did not appear.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—The Marvellous Howes, in their clever mental telepathy act, and La Rochelle, in a new series of poses, remain here another week. Tom Wootwell, the "loose-legged" comedian, is particularly funny, and is well received. Adah Grey sings sweetly; Amy De Liska, a good singer, makes a hit with a chic French song; and Craig, Roze, and Craig are clever novelty gymnasts and dental athletes. Other smart and enjoyable turns are those of Tennis and Laune, comedians; Welda and Wynne, sand dancers; Ray and Miles, comedy jugglers; Florence Watson, character vocalist; and Emily Lyndale, vocalist. Raymond's Vivagraph complete.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Kay.—A Japanese Love Story, a smart and pretty musical sketch, tops the bill here this week, with a strong cast. The Czar's Royal Russian Troupe of Dancers provide an exceptionally clever turn, and the Three Royal Temples, operatic vocalists, including Madame Louie Gilbert, are good singers. Other good turns are those of Zanfretta and Napio, musical eccentrics; Charles Windermore and Clare Manifield, in comedy duologue; Doris Myddleton, mimic; Godfrey James, singing collier; George Duval, stump orator; and Belle and Broadway, in a novelty scena.

MANSFIELD.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Mansfield, Sutton, and District Theatres, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. C. Clayton.—King Pantomime ruled here this week, when Miss Lena Stanton and Mr. Harry Joseph's capable company presented Sinbad the Sailor. Miss Stanton, who made herself a name in Mansfield last season, played the title-rôle very cleverly, her singing, dancing, and acting receiving great appreciation. Little Keeno played the part of Tinbad the tailor, and caused great merriment with his eccentricities; he gave some admirable impersonations during the course of the play. Mr. Bruce Green as Mrs. Sinbad was exceedingly funny; and as King Krusty Mr. Harry Joseph was successful; the Princess was capably played by Miss Marie Santley. The choruses were well sung and the dancing was excellent. Among the specialities, the Alhambra Girls, vocalists and dancers, gave a good turn; as also did P. J. Durney, globe expert; Farrell and Gorman, musical eccentrics; and Wyman, acrobat.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Herbert Darnley; Resident-Director, Mr. Tom Jennings; Acting-Manager, Mr. Mark Lorne.—The musical drama, His Sister's Honour, presented by Messrs. E. A'Dell and Chabot's company is here this week. Miss Ethel Ashleigh plays the part of Ivy Merton with great success; as Dora Stanley, Miss Kathleen Eckhardt plays with great pathos; Mr. H. C. Robinson enacts the part of Sir Richard Redvers very creditably; the exacting rôle of Frank Stanley is in the very capable hands of Mr. E. A'Dell. The comedy parts are in the excellent keeping of Mr. Sydney Dean as Timothy and Miss Bessie Dean as Maria, and they succeed in causing a great amount of merriment. The staging is good, and the scenery excellent.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Edward Michael; Stage and Business-Manager, Mr. A. Austin Leigh.—Caste has been revived here this week with success. Mr. Robert Gray, who sustains the rôle of the Hon. George D'Alroy, is to be congratulated upon a finished performance in the part. As Capt. Hawtree Mr. A. Austin-Leigh is well placed. His sangfroid is in excellent contrast to the go-ahead policy of the Hon. George, and in this the energetic assistant-manager is in his element. Mr. Wallis Clark gives a realistic representation of the despicable old drunkard Eccles, and Mr. Richard Trieve gives a carefully studied presentation of Sam Gerridge. Miss Gertrude Harrison as Esther is delightful, presenting a charming appearance, combined with delicacy and grace, whilst Miss Mabel Archdall as the volatile Polly admirably portrays the character of that versatile young lady. Miss Emmie O'Reilly makes a stately Marquise de St. Maur.

HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—Miss Anita Gay, ballad vocalist, sings well, and Mlle. Rosetti shows evidence of skill as an instrumentalist, her 'cello and violin solos being loudly applauded. Vivacity characterises the singing and dancing of Lew Loman, comedian, her efforts receiving due recognition. An amusing turn is provided by Bromley and Fontein, the comic operetta duo, in their scena, A Musical Birthday. Rosalie Jacobi sings delightfully some tuneful coon songs, and gets her fair share of applause; Chas. Sloman, eccentric comedian, is amusing, and Lauri Wylie and his mimicking manakins, impersonating some of the leading music hall stars, is good, and what makes a good finish is another series of the interesting Bioscope pictures which help largely to popularise the Hippodrome performances.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, The South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lewis Gilbert.—Harriett Vernon tops the bill here, and has met with a flattering reception, her songs and scenas being greatly enjoyed; C. Wordley Hulse and company supply a good turn in the dramatic sketch, A Fight in a Forge; Sid Brandon is a clever comedian; and other clever turns are contributed by the Three Delaries, Leslie Race, vocalist, Leah Arden, balladist, Frank Gee, comedian, and the Bioscope with an excellent series of pictures.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES' THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Messrs. Glenville and Osmond's company is this week presenting The Still Alarm. Mr. Matthew H. Glenville gives a powerful interpretation of Jack Manley; Mr. Geo. Arthur plays with ability the rôle of John Bird; a highly capable rendering of Willie Manley is submitted by Mr. Tom Beasley; the Franklin Fordham of Mr. Lewis Gordon is most satisfactory; Mr. Fred Osmond makes the most of the part of Doc Wilber; Miss Maud Warburton submits an intelligent and artistic portrayal of Elinor Fordham; Miss Maud Veriton is a capable Mrs. Manley; and Miss Gertie Reed is a sprightly Carrie Wilber. The Lyric Comedy Four join in delightful harmony.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Charles Imeson.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company occupy the boards here this week with the musical comedy, Mr. Popple of Ippleton, which makes its first appearance on Teeside. Miss Myllie Hylton as La Bolera is a brilliant success, both her acting and singing being of the highest order. Mr. Arthur Longley is exceedingly humorous as Mr. Popple, while Mr. Tom May as Platt sustains the part to perfection. Mrs. Hennay finds a pretty and graceful exponent in Miss Stella St. Audrie, and Miss Alice Rene is delightful as Mrs. Doring. Mr. L. Bullock-Webster is exceedingly good as Norman Popple, and Miss Cora Lingard as Violet Brinton is very graceful and attractive. Mr. Sydney Courtenay as George Hennay and Mr. James Stevenson as Henry Doring are all that can be desired. Miss Nellie Hodson is excellent as Louise, and for the part of Jacques Kenyon a clever representative is found in Mr. Robt. McLachlan. Mr. Douglas Greet does full justice to the part of Lord Downe, and as much may be said of Mr. B. Pyne as Pat Fenton, Mr. J. J. Dauncey as Hon. Buretta, and Miss Daisy Dennis as Gladys.

OPERA HOUSE.—Acting-Manager and Licensee, Mr. W. Kerr Chatto.—Mr. Wm. Mollison, the famous actor, is this week appearing here in a series of Shakespearean plays. There was a good house on Monday night, when Mr. Mollison, supported by an excellent company, gave a fine interpretation of The Merchant of Venice. In the rôle of Shylock Mr. Mollison was seen at his best, his interpretation of the character being very impressive, particularly in the trial scene. Miss Evelyn McNay, whose great talents as an actress have won for her a foremost place in the affections of English playgoers, gave a flawless portrayal of the part of Portia, the rich heiress. Mr. B. A. Pittar as Antonio was very convincing, and Miss Elsie Vrow was charming as Nerissa. Mr. Henry Worrall acted with great distinction the part of Bassanio, and Miss Blair-Staples was delightful in the character of Jessica. Mr. Kendal Chambers acquitted himself admirably in the rôle of Balthazar, while Mr. W. A. Mackersy was decidedly effective as the Duke of Venice. Mr. Ray Cushing as Lorengo was exceedingly good, and Mr. Fred Ellis did full justice to the part of Tubal. Mr. Henry Deas as Gratiano and Mr. Alex Thompson as Launcelot Gobbo were very amusing. Miss Hermione Black and Miss Jeannie Fitzgerald were pleasing as Portia's pages, and Mr. Whitford was excellent as the Prince. Mr. Stuart Black, Mr. Walton Palmer, and Mr. Harold Neville also do full justice to interesting rôles. During the week Macbeth, Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush, and As You Like It have been staged.

NELSON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs T. Greenwood Croft; Business-Manager, Mr. Geo. E. Mudd.—Messrs. T. J. Little and F. D'Arcy's company in The Shadow of a Crime has had a successful week at this theatre. Miss Nelly Howitt as the beautiful Loyale Norman adds to the reputation she has already created in the town as a charming actress; whilst Miss Nita Langford displays no little vivacity in presenting the difficult character of Mrs. Thomas Brown. Ralph Esmond, the murderous villain, is powerfully played by Mr. Hugh Newburn; and as Jim Murdock, the avenger, Mr. Wm. Matthews is specially good. There is abundance of really good humour provided by Mr. S. T. Purcell as Tom Brown, the henpecked husband. Miss Nellie Moore pleasingly portrays Dora Bullington; and Miss Bertha St. Ruth makes a sprightly Sarah, the servant. Mr. J. B. Murray gives a genial representation of the character of Sir Edward Bullington; and as his son Harry, Mr. W. Ruddle Brown shows capable acting. The dresses and scenery are specially attractive.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL. Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—The Perfect Lover is being played this week for the first time in Newcastle by Mr. Harold V. Neilson and company. Mr. Harold Neilson figures to great advantage in the part of Joseph Tremblett, being forcible and convincing in his acting; the cynical money-grabbing husband is excellently depicted by Mr. W. Lemmon Warde; and the performance of Mr. Frank Beresford as the Perfect Lover is on the whole a pleasing one. Miss Amy Sangster is captivating as the most unfortunate lady in the play; and Miss Gertrude Sterroll acts with distinction the part of a strong-willed maiden lady.

TYNE THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe.—The popular musical comedy The White Chrysanthemum is paying a second visit to Newcastle this week, and it is an excellent company that is sent by Mr. Charles Macdona. Especially successful is Miss Muriel George as Sybil Cunningham (the White Chrysanthemum), her sweet voice being heard to great advantage. A regular "sea-dog" is Mr. Shirley Lea as the bluff and hearty Admiral; and Mr. H. Langdon Bruce as Lieut. Armitage and Mr. H. E. Gardner as Lieut. Belmont look well, play well, and sing well. Indeed, these two part could not be better filled. Mr. James Dallas as Private Perks and Mr. Richard Telford as the Chinaman both contribute very acceptably to the many humorous incidents of the piece. Miss Dorothy Rephton is bright and vivacious as Betty Kenyon; and Miss Wilmot Karkeek is a distinct success as the American heiress.

GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—Sunday is presented this week by a well-balanced company selected by Mr. Louis Calvert. Miss Emelie Polini in the title-part quickly won favour by her charming and natural acting; Mr. Max Montesole gives a capable and accurate reading of the part of the tempter; and the four guardians are well portrayed by Messrs. Wm. Lockhart, Sidney Rennef, Cecil Tapp, and Arthur Vezin. Others prominent in the company are Messrs. Leonard Pagden, Ernest A. Douglas, and Ernest Harrison, and Miss Rosalind Ross and Miss Muriel Pope.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—Now a firmly-established favourite on "coaly Tyne" Miss Florence Smithson, fresh from her triumphs in the ten weeks' run of pantomime at the Royal Theatre, appeared as the star artist at the Pavilion this week. On Monday evening Miss Jose Collins, from the Tyne pantomime, also proved a great success. A comic boxing act was given by the Brothers Ashley; and a novel pantomimic sketch by the Vandykes proved quite to the taste of the house. The Society Quartette of vocalists give an agreeable turn; and in a varied act Meier and Mora proved popular. A good programme also included clever dancers in the Britons; the Two Dixons, banjo, song, and dance artists, and Letine, who gave an amusing and surprising speciality act. The Barrascope pictures depict the great boxing match between Gunner Moir and "Tiger" Smith.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton.—Mr. Auguste Van Biene is appearing here this week in the successful playlet entitled The Master Musician. Mr. Victor Newman contributes two clever studies of Mr. H. Beerbohm Tree as Svengali in Trilby and the late Sir Henry Irving as Mathias in The Bells. Some excellent impersonations are also given by an artist figuring under the name of Florence. Seeley and West, musical comedians, prove as successful as ever; Miss Kitty Traill and the Four Royal Welshmen contribute good music; and a novel equilibristic act is given by the Rhoda Brothers. Messrs. W. Cooke and company score in their melodramatic sketch With Royston's Horse, and the De Breans, jugglers and sciographists, are another good turn.

NORTHAMPTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Seddon. — Mrs. Henry de la Pasture's pretty comedy, Peter's Mother, presented by Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company, is paying a first visit this week with gratifying results. Miss Ruth Mackay gives a charming and convincing impersonation of Lady Mary Crewys; Mr. Charles Harley makes an impressive Sir Timothy Crewys, Bart.; Mr. Percy Hutchison cleverly brings out the salient points in the character of Peter Crewys; Mr. Eille Norwood plays with quiet and consistent ease as John Crewys, Q.C.; Miss Mary Griffiths as Lady Belstone and Mrs. Mallalieu as Miss G. Crewys are excellent; Mr. W. Mallalieu is good as Canon Birch; Mr. Drew Mackintosh is a capital Dr. Blundell; Miss Ethel Royale is an efficient Mrs. Hewel; and Miss Hilda Honiss makes a sweet and engaging Sarah. The comedietta Chalk and Cheese supplies an amusing curtain-raiser.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thos. A. Evans.—Mme. Irma's Six Juggling Girls give an effective display with rackets, clubs, &c.; and the Bros. Henres in their clever speciality follow somewhat in the same groove. Smith and Johnson, the society coloured duo, are well received; Maude Vera renders some pleasing ballads; and Howard and Townsends, lady duettists; Master Maston, mimic; Bert Byrne, comedian; Irene Ray, serio-comic; and the Mackweys, in their clever and surprising knockabout acrobatic comedy act, are are highly successful. The Palace Pictures, by C. Vincent, are both scena "Rosie is Waiting," receives a highly gratifying reception; and Orpheus, the master of melody, delights everyone by his excellent playing of various instruments. "The Wonderful Electric Belt," an amusing series of pictures on the Bioscope, completes an excellent programme.

NUNEATON.—Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—Mr. Herbert Baer's company is drawing good houses with the pantomime Aladdin. The piece is full of humour, the music bright, the scenery artistic, and the dresses exceptionally pretty. Miss Maude Vincent, in the title-rôle, at once wins favour; Miss Lora Lyndon makes a charming Princess; Mr. David Phillips as Widow Twankey possesses a fund of humour, and is ably assisted by Messrs. Duncan and Morton (Chinese Police), and Mr. Will Sherlock as Abanazar. Mr. Carl Fredericks is a good Emperor. The Sisters Hawke are smart acrobatic dancers, Miss Peggy Lyndon gives a pretty musical act; and interesting turns are given by Ya Pyn Keto's Jap musicians, Duncan and Moreton, Mme. Cordelia, the Ohio Male Quartette, the Empire Troupe, and Mlle. Tankerville (dancer).

OLDHAM.—Empire Theatre.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—Miss Mary Austin and Mr. B. Vivian Edmonds' company in Woman and Wine opened here on Monday. Miss Cissie St. Elmo as Marcel gave a capital rendering; Miss Joan Periera was highly successful as La Colombe; Miss Violet Sims made a sympathetic Mary Andrews; Miss Ethel Vinroy was a smart Janet Marlow; and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds an artistic Dick Seymour. The bully Alphonso was capitally enacted by Mr. F. W. Goddard; Professor Sauter was capital in the hands of Mr. G. Child; and Mr. John S. Haydon was good as Hugh Seymour.

Colosseum.—Manager, Mr. W. Eastwood.—Mrs. F. Wybert Clive's company occupies the boards here this week in The Conscript. Mr. H. Creagh Hunt in the title-rôle, Karl, is capable; Mr. Douglas Watson plays Ivan Manloff in a capital manner; Mr. Walter Steele is a good Count Paul; Mr. Wybert Clive a satisfactory Maxim Fredka; Mr. Wm. Head does well as Doggervitch; and Miss Florence M. Daly as Nadia Truevitch shows careful study; Miss Maud Elliott and Olga Datre appear with credit as Dame Katinka and Catherine respectively; Miss Nelly Douglas and Mr. P. Strongbow as Wanda and Tretch Trotoff present comedy that is much enjoyed.

Royal Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Howgate.—At the top of the bill here is the Aurora Troupe of Cyclists. Gustave Fasola, Indian Fakir, has some good illusions; Ghita Corri, prima donna, uses her splendid voice with good effect; Elton and Edwin are capital banjo duettists; and Claude Feldman's Beau Ideal Troupe of Juveniles are well received. Ted and May Hopkins cause much merriment; Gus Garrick is funny in his impersonations; Arthur Woodville, comedian and dancer, is very good; and the Royal Dottoscope shows some good films.

Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Nuttall.—Dick's Comedy Five give a very amusing turn; Carl Lynn as an animal mimic has a good reception; Harwood's Juveniles appear in a good sketch; Renson and Waite are an excellent comedy duo; and Kendrick and Laura are excellent vocalists and dancers. Ruby Emmerson is a dainty comedienne, and D. W. Watson as a vocalist and cornet soloist is applauded. The Dottoscope is again showing some interesting pictures.

OXFORD.—New Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. C. Dorrill.—On Monday Mr. Milton Bode's company commenced a successful visit here with The Belle of Mayfair. Miss May Yates won all hearts by her delightfully piquant and clever performance of Julia Chaldicott; Pincott was played in dainty fashion by Miss Mabel Dent, who is also strong in the dancing line; Miss Emily Stevens was excellent as Lady Chaldicott; Miss Agnes Tandy sang delightfully as the Princess Carl, and Miss Aurelie de Loriere sang the Gibson girl song with success. Mr. Harry Barber was the life and soul of the play as Sir John Chaldicott, his droll style appealing irresistibly to the audience; Mr. Haddon Cave was sufficiently aristocratic and haughty as the Earl of Mount-Highgate; and Raymond found a most natural and effective exponent in Mr. E. Hugonnet; Mr. G. Alwyne scored heavily as Hugh Meredith; and the parts of the Comte de Berrier and the Bishop of Brighton found able exponents in Messrs. L. Lisle and G. McCloskie.

East Oxford Theatre.—Lessees, Winifred Stuart and Mr. Watson Mill; Manager, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Mr. Henry Swinherd's company is fulfilling a week's engagement here with Dare-Devil Dorothy; Mr. Walter Ashley who possesses a fine voice, makes a robust and manly Captain George Fielding, and Mr. Henry C. Ward sustains Captain Edward Dudley with praiseworthy restraint, and is well supported by Mr. Arthur Hartley as Hawkins; Mr. Bert Edwards succeeds in keeping his audience highly amused as Silas Crump, and Miss Nellie Harcourt shares his success as Judith, besides giving a very clever skipping-rope dance; Mr. Deane Cliffe is humorous as Featherstone Haugh; Miss Blake as Polly and Miss Lillie Blake as Rosy Ann contribute same fascinating dances; Miss Marie Vere makes a delightful Ruth Montrose, and Miss Dorothy Esmonde is charming and dignified as Dorothy Montrose, singing in excellent taste. Several good specialities are given in the course of the play.

PAISLEY.—Paisley Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Bentz.—On Monday night Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer opened a week's stay with the following répertoire: Sapho, From Washerwoman to Duchess, Hamlet, Jane Shore, and Mary Queen of Scots. In the former play Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer acted with conspicuous ability and discrimination the difficult character of Sapho, and Mr. Sydney Bland submitted an excellent and skilful impersonation of Jean Gaussin. Mr. Fenton was well suited as Dechelette; in the rôle of Cæsar Gaussin Mr. Leonard Cheetham was very effective; Mr. Robert Pittard ably sustained the part of Cadoual; and as Lacœur and De Potter Mr. Claud Sykes and Mr. Ashmore J. Vincent respectively accomplished good work. Miss Katherine Herbert was an excellent Divonne Gaussin; Mme. Hettema was capably embodied by Miss Adelaide Cecil; and as Eugenie and Rose Sanchez Miss Ida A. Chapman and Miss More Dunphie respectively performed excellently.

Empire.—Lessee, Mr. J. H. Savile; Manager, Mr. Tom Toy.—Miss Carrie Foy, who heads the bill here this week sings songs that captivate the house. Others of an excellent company include Jack Weir, comedian and dancer; Jessie Star, Scotch vocalist and comedienne; Sterling and Cashen (Frank and Minnie), military comedy duettists and dancers; the Two Robsons, versatile comedians; Lily Benson, comedienne and top-boot dancer; and Fred Lyndo, eccentric comedian and dancer.

PERTH. — Theatre Royal. — Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—Mr. T. Morton Powell's company, under the general management of Mr. Frank Eden, is responsible this week for a pleasing production of the domestic drama, Honour Thy Father. Mr. Walter M. Cameron's realistic portrayal of Gabriel Garth wins special favour; Mr. Bertram H. Ross is responsible for a highly-successful impersonation of Jack Halyard; Mr. W. R. Winning enacts the heavy rôle of Sir Duncan Bly with the requisite force and tact; Mr. W. H. Melrose's Ned Pennycomquick is quite taking; Mr. Fred Rolls's humorous Mike Copplestone creates a pleasing diversion at times from the dramatic element; Mr. Claude Merton is well adapted to the double rôle of Job Merry and George Bloggs; Mr. Frank Eden is an admirable Dr. Sleek; and Mr. Philip Armstrong is rightly placed as Sam Seizam the bailiff. Miss Kate Newton finely depicts the trying rôle of Gertrude Garth; Miss Mabel Coleman exhibits exceptional talent in her portrayal of Lilian Garth; Miss Ada Salmon scores a success as Poppy Cornleigh; Miss Maud Grey scores in the part of Violet Wilfred; Miss Muriel Dean's charming conception of Mercy Merry is a feature of the performance.

PLYMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. C. F. Williams; Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—The highly-exciting drama entitled The Golden Ladder has been received here with unstinted applause. Mr. William Clayton impersonates the rôle of the hero, Frank Thornhill, and gives a fine representation of a manly young cleric; the heroine, Lillian Grant, receives clever treatment from Miss Elsie Marriott Watson; Mr. Milne Taylor as Michael Severn is a typical stage villain; and Mr. Douglas Howard as Peranza is another capable actor. Mr. Fred May as Samuel Peckaby causes much laughter; Miss Nellie Graham as Peckaby's "better half" is also amusing; and Miss Beattie Wilson is an irrepressibly voluble Prisoner No. 2. Other members of a capable company are Messrs. Fred Archer, Fred Mace, Gilbert Elvin, and Miss Teresa Hayes.

Grand Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. C. F. Williams; Manager, Mr. Percy Williams; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Grant.—The well-known drama The Sins of the Fathers is this week at the Grand Theatre. Mr. Cecil A. Melton undertakes his customary part of the hero, and as George Armitage gives a representation that will compare favourably with his best efforts; Mr. Edward Beecher is the villain, Sir Reginald Moreland, and receives the applause generally bestowed on a capable exponent; Miss Elaine Vanbrugh is an attractive Camilla; and Miss Irma Farington is a fascinating Ethel Harmsworth.

Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—Mr. Harry Cadle's company in Mick Whittingtun is "starred" here this week. The Leolard Bros. are on a return visit; Boyd and Gilfain are also back again after an interval; the Brothers Huxter are remarkably agile long-distance somersault performers; Keith and Merson are a smart pair of patterers and contortionists; Lorna Doone is a graceful little dancer; Ethel Dotford is an acceptable and pleasing vocalist; and Mlle. Lumière's serpentine dancing, accompanied by electric light effects, is a pleasing spectacular display. Vernon's pictures complete the bill.

PONTYPRIDD.—Royal Clarence Theatre.—Owners and Proprietors, Mrs. Trenchard and Miss L. Jones; Manager, Mr. Charles Trenchard.—The attraction this week is Mr. Harry Foxwell's company in An Abandoned Woman. Mr. Walter Spinner capably portrays Captain Seaton; Sir Marmaduke Seaton is in the able hands of Mr. George Gormley; Mr. P. Marton Wright scores as Robert Saunders; Philippe Malvoisin is admirably sustained by Mr. B. J. Leill; and Mr. Hugh Brady as Paddy Boyle is a host in himself; Miss Georgette Thierry is to be highly complimented for her able rendering of Ninon Malvoisin; Miss Elsie Dean shows ability as Sally Sloper; La Celeste is capably portrayed by Miss Lily Addison; and Eleanor Dean is faithfully represented by Miss Edith Harris.

PORTH. — The Palace (late Opera House).—General-Manager, Mr. C. W. Poole; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Bynorth.—The Joseph Poole's Myriorama and Variety Amusement Amalgamation are here for the week. The pictures are quite up to date, and the specialities include the Wonderful Paulasto Troupe of Sensational Eccentrics in Frolics in a Garden; the Veronas, lady dancers and duettists; the Four Herberts, in "Farm Funniosities"; Felix Somers, facialist; Miss May Finch, characteristic vocalist; the Silly Selbys, drolls; and Juanita M. Di Olivera, with her collection of performing cockatoos.

PORTSMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Mr. Lionel Rignold and Miss Ada Blanche with company in that most diverting piece, What the Butler Saw, are drawing large and appreciative audiences here this week.—The ever-smiling and ubiquitous Butler Pink is taken by Mr. Rignold in his best manner, his legitimate comedy keeping the house in one ripple of laughter. Miss Ada Blanche as Mrs. Barrington is charming, playing the part with archness and delightful vivacity; Jack Bannister is exceedingly well sustained by Mr. Charles Fawcett; Mr. Louis Lingard is well placed as Sir Charles Foden, and Messrs. George Ascott, H. H. Rignold, and Roy Byford give clever portrayals as General Dunlop, Abraham Weinstein, and Professor Shale respectively. Miss Marie Daltra is very good indeed as Miss Foden; Nora is neatly presented by Miss Jenny Wigney; Miss Elsie Gaunt as Mrs. Fleming Smyth and Miss Julie St. George as Mrs. Hake act effectively.

Prince's Theatre.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—The military play, Revenge, is being presented here this week by Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson and company. The exacting part of Prince Orloff is powerfully and successfully acted by Mr. Hill-Mitchelson; Mr. George Daiper as Captain Loris Vanessa gives a natural and manly portrayal; Captain David Carr, R.N., is most capably played by Mr. Lancelot Usher; Mr. Russell Bogue as Jim Jennings, A.B., and Mr. Francis Serle ably sustain their respective rôles. Miss Violet Carlyle as the Queen is quite regal in her embodiment, and plays naturally; Miss Amy Ellam as Draga Vanessa acts with distinction; and Miss Maud Stuart as Tusha, Miss Ada Douglas as Olga, and Miss Alice Barber as Cora Brook all do good work. For Friday evening Rogues and Vagabonds was billed.

Empire Palace.—Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—T. E. Dunville, the famous eccentric comedian, is here, and gives some four or five of his inimitable numbers to highly delighted audiences. R. H. Douglass is a very talented monologue artist, who works hard and is a distinct success; the Leonards are a capable pair of comedians, vocalists, and dancers; Reil and Butt, vaudeville entertainers, are very humorous and droll; Vandinoff is a clever lightning painter in oils; the Sisters Pine are a smart pair of duettists and dancers; the Bohemians, comedy instrumentalists, meet with approval; Minnie Wren, soubrette, with a capital voice, gives some very taking numbers; Dick Graham, vocal comedian, and Payne's Bio-photoscope complete an excellent entertainment.

PRESTON.—Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Linsdell.—At the head of the bill this week are the Smart Set, whose vocal contributions and dances gain loud applause. Fred S. Peake and company appear in a thrilling sketch entitled The Gambler; a capital musical act is given by the Saxonias; Bert and Dora score a success with their songs and dialogue; and good turns are also supplied by Little Tim, quaint comedian; Jack Hylton, eccentric comedian; Wheeler and Wilson, funny acrobats; and Bruce and Ross, novel comedy duo. Bioscope pictures conclude the entertainment.

RAWTENSTALL. — Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—This week we have the new melodrama, The Master Criminal, which was presented on Monday evening by Miss Winifred Chalmers's company with great effect. As Telford Lestage, Mr. Henry L. Osmond gave a most efficacious impersonation; whilst as Cecile Miss Winifred Chalmers was equally successful; Mr. Harold C. Macartney as Philip Manners gave a clever portrayal; and Miss Kate Somerville as Mabel Manners was charming, and acted cleverly; Mr. Harry Cooke as Tommy Dale and Miss Mabel Tremere as Peggie Perks were exceedingly good as comedians; little Lizzie Power as Winifred Manners displayed considerable talent; Mr. John C. Carlyle makes an excellent Ben Beaudy, and Mr. Ernest Noble an effective Gentleman Jim.

READING.—Royal County Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles A. Wenman.—Mr. J. B. Mulholland's company is here this week in the farcical play, The Electric Man. Mr. Bernard Copping plays excellently as Walter Everest, inventor and electrician, and also acts very cleverly as the animated automaton; Mr. Sydney Lynn plays in good style as Jack Strange; Mr. Legal Robinson as the private enquiry agent and Mr. Chris Grose as General Pomeroy are both good. Miss Dorothy Hullah is effective as Mrs. Everest; Miss Amy Fanchette is amusing as the portly landlady; Miss Gertrude Tate as Stella and Miss Isa Bellington as Mary are both capable impersonations. The play is preceded by the comedietta, Obliging a Friend.

Large Town Hall.—The St. Louis Animated Pictures are again being exhibited at this hall. The pictures include both the "talking" and "singing" variety, and a number of interesting and amusing films. Symonds' World's Fair has opened for a season here.

REDDITCH.—Public Hall.—Manager, Mr. W. Treadgold.—The Sign of the Cross Co., under the management of Messrs. H. Chatiell and G. W. Bowes, gave two performances here on Saturday and Monday, and met with success. Marcus and Mercia in the hands of Mr. Wallace G. Court and Miss Nancy York are specially worthy of mention.

ROCHDALE.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hague.—Claudian is presented to the patrons here this week by a very capable company. Mr. Wm. Maclaren submits a masterly portrayal of Claudian; Mr. F. Owen Chambers cleverly impersonates the tyrannical Thariogolus; Mr. Douglas Earle is heard to advantage as the blacksmith Agazil; Mr. C. T. Chaloner as Belos, together with Miss Maud Garth as Edessa, create much amusement as a love-sick twain; and Miss Lily C. Bandmann acts with telling effect the part of Almida.

Circus and Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Smith and Co.—Pringle's North American Animated Picture Company conclude a third successive week's engagement here with an entire change of pictures both amusing and instructive. Variety turns are submitted by Margutti, flexible Venus, and Phedona, in a novel musical act with floral electric stage effects.

Empire.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—Rastus and Banks, coloured American entertainers, in the Major and the Maid, are amusing with their patter and vocalism, and some clever acrobatic dancing is also given; Phillips and Terry submit a screamingly funny absurdity without title; Harrison Bros. are a diverting pair of comedians in Quaint Conceit; Rowland Hill, "the curious comedian"; Daisy Morell, versatile vocalist; Marie Dale, comedienne; George Hill, whistling comedian, and the Empire Bioscope also contribute.

RUGBY. — Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geoffrey Fulton.—This week a variety company is giving a very good entertainment. Morritt, the hypnotist and wonder-worker, submits an excellent exhibition; Millie Legrand, serio, is good; Sylvester Stuart, Brenda Leslie, the Boy Samson, Harry Weldon, Charles Bradford, La Sylph, and the Wonderful Blind Man all give turns which are much appreciated. The pictures displayed by the Rayograph are also good.

SALFORD.—Prince of Wales' Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Golden.—An Unwedded Wife was presented here on Monday. Miss Ethel Van Praagh as Marian skilfully sustains the title-rôle; Philip Blackstone, the villain, is played with care by Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes; there is a good deal of humour in Perkinson Pimple, as played by Mr. Harry Townley; and Mr. Will Casey as Napoleon B. Boomer, Miss Jessie Gillette as Caraway Crumpet, and Mr. J. Edward Whitty as Police-constable O'Runyin keep the audience in roars. Miss Rosalie Heath is a charming Elsie Langham; Little Doris very cleverly portrays Reggie; Mr. Valentine Henry presents the hero, Frank Armstrong, with ability; Mr. Logan Darra works well as John Hawthorne; David Drummond is successfully played by Mr. J. A. Grove; and Mr. Wilton Bedford is clever and amusing as Christopher Lennox.

Regent Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—The mysterious Japanese art of self-defence, Ju-Jitsu, is demonstrated by Rakir and his assistants, including a not very strong-looking little lady who throws a man with ease; Four Juggling Geraldos, with their clubs and hoops, are very smart and amusing; Barney Armstrong, comedian, gets much applause; The Grass Widower is comical as presented by Roy (Harry) and Fenton (May); Evelyn Taylor scores with her songs; and the programme also includes good work by Mabel La Blanche, ballad vocalist; Gilbert's Circus, with dogs and cats; Amy Elvira, comedienne; and some comic pictures on the Bioscope.

Royal Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—Charles Baldwin's company in the absurdity, Blank Clerks, this week heads a good all-round programme, which also includes a smart athletic act by the Edgertons; a stump speech by Billy Richardson; some good dancing by La Petite Voltaire; Pueblo and Cropp, versatile speciality artists; Bendons, in song scena; Harry Morris, comedian; Cribb and Cribb, in comedy scena; Fred Casburn, comedian; and some interesting pictures of Western goldfield scenes on the Bioscope.
